Mr. and Mrs. Burr R. Hall of Whittemore were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Woieszchke a couple of days this week.

The Cleveland tractor which was installed on the big Prescott ranch at Prescott some time ago, has proven a great success. The tractor will plow about eight acres a day, and has taken the place of nine horses and two men.

If any one doubts that sheep raising in this section is a paying business, read the following: On the ranch of Mrs. L. M. Gates near South Branch were recently sheared 627 head of sheep. The wool weighed 4,041 pounds and was hauled to South Branch on one wagon. The load brought $2,626.65 This was an average of $4.03 per sheep for the wool alone. And at the present market prices the sheep are worth three or four times that amount. The farmer with a nice bunch of sheep and who gives them the proper care has certainly a paying proposition.

ANOTHER FAMILY LEAVES TAWAS CITY.

H. W. Buckle, who has been engaged in the hardware business in Tawas City for the past eight years, has shipped his stock and household goods to North Branch, where he has purchased a hardware business and will combine his stock with that of the man he has bought out. The family will leave within a day or two for their new home, making the trip by auto.

During their residence here the Buckles have been active in church and social affairs, being active workers in the Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Buckle was an elder and superintendent of the Sunday school. During the past year Mrs. Buckle has been secretary of the Twentieth Century club and will be missed in the activities of that organization.

On Monday evening the members of the Christian Endeavor society gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Buckle for a farewell party. The evening was very pleasantly spent and the guests on leaving presented them with a nice souvenir to take with them to their new home.

On Wednesday evening the members of the Presbyterian church and other friends gave a farewell reception to the family at the church. A pleasant social time was enjoyed by those present and light refreshments were served.

It is with sincere regret that we lose this estimable family from our midst, but we wish them all success in their new field and trust that they will make there just as true and sincere friends as they leave behind them in Tawas City.

A FARMER'S LAMENT

The following letter received by the Herald from one of our country subscribers this week would almost cause one to think that the present high prices and the regulations of the food administration strike the farmer harder than any other class of people:

Editor Tawas Herald,
Tawas City, Mich.

My Dear Sir.—I notice in a recent issue of your paper where you will raise subscription price by reason of the cost of material.

Do you ever think of the extra cost of farming implements, such as binders, plows, harrows, wagons, buggies, binding twine, threshhills, etc? The grocer, druggist, hardware man, blacksmith, not forgetting the elevator, all must get a good profit, but the farmer gets only a small profit after he meets his obligations.

I also notice where you advise that "Every person who uses in excess above 6 lbs. of wheat stuff per month is taking the bread from the starving women and babies in France." I have figured it to be a trifle over one ounce to each meal, but I tried it and I must say I am so blamed hungry and weak I can hardly work to save as high as your subscription price, so for now please strike my name off the list.

Yes, dear ex-subscriber, we realize that the increased costs have extended to farming machinery as well as other lines of business, but that does not make our printing costs any less, nor is it a reason why we should sell you the Herald at less than it costs us to print it. When the merchant is compelled to pay more for his stock in trade he passes the increased cost on to his customers. If he didn't he would soon go out of business. And it is just the same with a newspaper.

The farmer pays more for what he buys in these times, but when you consider the increased prices on his products he is the gainer by a long margin. A farmer today can buy a piece of farm machinery with half the number of bushels of wheat that he could a few years ago, and the same with corn, beans, rye and nearly every product of the farm. A few years ago when eggs were selling at 18 cents a dozen and sugar at 6 cents a pound, one dozen eggs would buy only three pounds of sugar. At the present time when eggs are bringing 38 cents a dozen and sugar is 9 1/2 cents a pound the farmer can buy four pounds of sugar with his dozen eggs. And the same proportion holds good with butter, grain, beans, and nearly all farm products.

But the editor's $1.50 won't buy much more than half as much paper as it did four years ago, and will buy less than half as many eggs or butter or the rest of the farmer's products. So while the buying power of the farmer's products has increased more in proportion than the increased prices he has to pay, the reverse is true of the editor's product, the newspaper. So it is up to the editor either to increase his price, or decrease the size and quality of his paper, and we choose the former method.

As regards the regulations concerning the use of wheat, that advice comes from the Federal Food Administrator, and was published by the Herald, in common with other newspapers, as part of its service in helping to win the war. There is nothing, dear ex-subscriber, to prevent you from eating all the potatoes, cornmeal, oatmeal, rice, or a number of other foods just as good as wheat, to keep up your strength. But if we are to win out in this war for the freedom of the world we must use these foods which cannot be easily shipped across the ocean, and conserve the wheat to feed our brave soldiers on the battle line, our Allies and the thousands of starving civilians in the war-stricken countries. People could live, if necessary without eating any wheat, and it is little to ask of us to cut down our consumption of this article in order to aid our starving brothers who have suffered such terrible hardships to help preserve our liberties.

We don't regret the loss of your $1.50, dear friend, if you will put the amount into Thrift Stamps, give it to the Red Cross or Y. M. C. A., and if you will do your share in conserving the wheat that is so badly needed by those on and behind the fighting line in France.

CHARLES LAWSON DEAD

Charles Lawson, an aged negro, who for many years has made his home in a cottage at Indian Lake, died last Monday evening at about 6:30, after a lingering illness.

Mr. Lawson, or "Charley" as he was familiarly known, was one of the old residents of Iosco county. He came here in the lumbering days and worked as a cook in various camps at that time. Later he took up his residence at Indian Lake and has since made that his home, farming on a small scale and furnishing the campers and resorters with eggs, milk and other products, in this manner earning enough to supply his simple needs.

Charley's black skin covered a white heart and many were the friends he made, not alone among local people but also those who came here for short outings. His familiar face will be missed by those who have been and are frequenters of the beautiful lakes on the plains.

Funeral services were held at the Episcopal church, East Tawas, on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Goodrich officiating, and the remains were laid to rest in the East Tawas cemetery.

CURRIE BACK FROM FRANCE.

The editor is in receipt of a letter from Hon. G. A. Currie, a portion of which may be of interest to his friends and constituents in Iosco county:

Mr. Jas. E. Ballard,
Tawas City, Michigan.

My dear Mr. Ballard:

Back from my trip to France, and it was far greater than my expectations. The story is too long for me to even try and touch the high spots. Made the trip on a transport with the soldiers, and with all the thrills from several air raids; almost continuous bombardments of Paris by the German giant cannon; getting almost too close to the front at Chateau Thierry; and witnessed an attack at the American Front and a scrap with a submarine a few hundred miles off the Atlantic Coast.

With kindest personal regards, I remain
Sincerely yours
G. A. CURRIE

All this in "The Cross Bearer" goes to make this attraction a perfect photoplay. See it, 7 reels at "The Family Theatre," East Tawas, one night, Wednesday, July 3rd.

Mrs. W. G. Richards, Mrs. L. G. Sanderson and little son, Billy, went to Bay City Tuesday to be near Mr. Richards, who was taken to the hospital two weeks ago for a serious operation. Mr. Richards is recovering nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Lynd and three months old baby, arrived in the city Tuesday. Mr. Lynd returned Wednesday evening to his home at St. Johns, but Mrs. Lynd will remain for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Dillon.

Duncan Boomer, who is employed in Flint, was called to Pine River to attend the funeral of his uncle, James Chambers on Friday. Mr. Boomer came on to East Tawas to spend the week end with his family here. He returned to Flint Sunday evening.

There is one little four-year-old in our town who believes people ought to get what they go after. Meeting one of our boys in uniform, home on furlough, he asked excitedly, "Did you get the kaiser?" The soldier replied—"No chum not yet," when he met with the retort "Well, what made you come home then?"

Private Bert Smalley, the first East Tawas boy to be sent home wounded, is here on a short furlough. While he is not allowed to tell much of his experience at the front, he undoubtedly could tell many interesting things. He was wounded in the leg by shrapnel and only nine hours afterward was on his way across the channel to the base hospital in Derbyshire, England. After a six weeks stay in the hospital he was invalided home, but expects to be called again about August 10. His leg is still in a plaster cast and he may never be able again to go over the top, but will be put at other duties for a time at least. Unlike a great many of our boys, he did not see any one from Tawas while there, and said it would not have been so bad if he could have seen a friend occasionally. He did not know his brother, Floyd, had enlisted in the service and was in France, until he (Bert) was boarding the ship for home.

LET THE FOURTH BE FITTINGLY OBSERVED

The nation approaches another birthday. The Fourth of July in 1918 will be the most glorious day of celebration the United States of America has ever known. It will mark the end of a year of great decisions, of a great patriotic awakening, of country-wide response to the call of liberty, a year in which American ideals have been spread throughout the civilized world. The whole country marches with the flag.

A single thought controls the nation's activities—"Fight to Victory!" The President has called the nation to service—to apply its force without stint or limit. He has given noble expression to its aims; the American people are a unit behind him. The American army, rapidly growing in number and power, has met the foe upon foreign soil, and fighting side by side with the gallant armies of the free peoples of the world, has sealed the doom of the power of darkness. The American navy scouts the seas and drives to cover or destroys the pirate boats of the enemy. The American Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and Knights of Columbus perform with characteristic sacrifice their deeds of mercy in many lands. The Stars and Stripes are the symbol of hope to hundreds of millions throughout the world.

On the Fourth of July America will celebrate its glorious participation in the war for democracy. The President, spokesman for all who love liberty, has asked that the day be celebrated in fitting form. Let the flags wave, the bands play, the fireworks light the sky!

CHARLES CLONINGER

ADDRESS BY BISHOP WILLIAMS ON THE WORK OF THE RED CROSS IN FRANCE

Following a confirmation service at the Episcopal church, Bishop Williams of the Eastern Michigan diocese last Sunday night gave a very interesting and instructive lecture on the work of the American Red Cross in France. The bishop's visit to France was at the request of President Wilson, for the purpose of investigating the work of the Red Cross there.

At the outset he said he felt he ought to clear away certain questions before approaching the subject proper. They would inquire regarding the uniforms that he wore. That was the uniform worn by the Red Cross workers in France, and a nobler one no man could wear, and if the Master were on earth he would be glad and proud to wear it. He said he soon found after he got to France that many without a uniform was a suspicious character, but over here so far a man with one was a conspicuous character. A man over here should be considered a suspicious character when he could not show some badge of service, whether a button of the Red Cross or the Liberty Bond, or whether it be that, noblest of all, the uniform of the army or the navy.

Another question asked was "How long will this war last?" He could not state any definite number of years, but said "I can tell you positively, definitely and accurately, it will last until that Potsdam gang over there is crushed; I am convinced of that after what I have seen over there." Peace at this time, he said, would not secure the desired results; nothing less than complete victory over Germany as she now stands. Anything less than that would simply mean an armistice for a few months or a year, and the whole thing would have to be fought over again. Any talk of a permanent peace to be arranged at this time would be treason to civilization, and if anyone wanted to know what kind of peace could be made with Germany before she is whipped, he referred them to the Ukraine. The Literary Digest recently in a cartoon very strikingly characterized the peace compact between Russia and Germany. The cartoon showed a German soldier chasing a Russian around a tree, the latter saying "I thought it was Peace?" "Sure!" said the German. "If it was war, I would be chasing you around the other way!" The Bishop proceeded to say: "Until Germany's wild, mad dream is dissipated we may as well make up our mind to see the thing thru now, and not have it come back later, and I believe in the President's demand for an unlimited army."

Having seen the devastation in France with his own eyes, he assured the congregation that the stories of German atrocities could not be exaggerated, and such acts were being deliberately and wantonly committed by the foe every day. He had met over there the greatest living war correspondent, the writer of "The Last Shot", who assured him that in every war there had been atrocities, cruelties and pillages committed by the soldiers but that this was the only war in history in which a standard of atrocity and pillage had been deliberately set up by the leaders and the soldiers forced to conform thereto. He referred to Germany. The Rt. Rev. gentleman did not believe that the German people were different from other people; they were well known; there were no kinder, more generous or more merciful people than the Germans found in this country. He then explained the reason why such cruelties were committed, stating that for the last 40 years there had been carried on in Germany a deliberate psychological preparation for this war: that there had been in the mind of every man, of every boy and girl, the idea that Germany is a specially chosen people of Almighty God that whatever the state ordered shall be done must be done; that the state was super-moral, and could do no wrong; that the disobedience of orders from the state would be sacrilege.

The Bishop compared the France of today with the France of four years ago. At that time the people were thought to be frivolous, without any backbone, but it was different today, saying: "France today says less and does more than any other nation. I give all credit to the women of France, because it is the women of France that constitute the soul of that nation; no nation can be better than her women."

"Wherever I went I found America in France," he continued. "I landed in Bordeaux, saw American engineers building docks, building railroads, and when I went to Paris I met more young men that I knew than I would meet on the streets of Detroit or any other American city. They are over there by the thousands and tens of thousands, the flower of the nation. Then you would meet the American woman everywhere; God bless her; Angel of Mercy. Yes, America was everywhere in France. France's attitude toward America is changing radically since the last 15 months. Perhaps I can illustrate that change by two or three stories." He then related stories showing the change in France's attitude toward this country since the latter's entry into the war.

Bishop Williams then described the headquarters of the Red Cross in Paris which occupy what was once the home of a French nobleman, across the Seine from the Parliament buildings. From this building now flowed streams of blessing over all the land, and in addition to Algeria, Palestine, Mesopotamia and the Balkan peninsula. He said there were in that building 15 great departmental offices, each department covering activities of the allies in France and the above named countries.

Hospitals and portable kitchens were handed over to Uncle Sam by the Red Cross, he said, and most were never deserted there.

There was no place more dangerous than the hospital, and the German slogan was that a surgeon, a nurse or a stretcher bearer was each worth so many soldiers killed. There were also portable refrigerators, canteens, and hospitals up in the mountain resorts and on the seashore, and more than that they had surgical warehouses stuffed with everything the army needed. Major Perkins, who is at the head over there, had said: "I know we shall be criticized; we shall be criticized for extravagance for preparation. Should the war end at present we would be caught with great overstocks in our warehouses; but we must be prepared for the ultimate emergency. I would rather face any charge of overstocking now, than that later one American boy should lose his life through unpreparedness for the ultimate emergency."

German prisoners are well fed and contented, according to the Bishop, and they have no wish to return across the fighting line. He said he looked for the guard of the camp of prisoners, but could not see them. They had no desire to run and get back into hell again. He referred to the condition of prisoners in Germany, and knew that had not food been sent into Germany for their subsistence many of them would starve. Britain sent food through government channels, France through private agencies, and the Americans through the Red Cross.

The Red Cross, the Bishop said, is not only over there to back up the American soldiers, but to hold up the spirit and morale of France and the French army, and upon that depended the result of the war.

He spoke of the good work of the American women, who could be referred to as the "Poodle Dog", "Sassiness" women. "Now they are doing a different sort of thing over there," he said. "They have started small canteens. I went into one immense room where 1000 soldiers get a good hot meal. Behind the counter were half a dozen American women, who served hot dog and coffee, at 7c per. The rooms overhead were for games, and above them the beds. And there were punch and judy shows, so as to give the fellows a good time. The French are very fond of punch and judy show. The aim is to give the fellows a good time. It is here after coming from the trenches they have clean clothing and the grasp of friendly hand. Don't you suppose that has made all the difference in the world in the morale of France?"

The Rt. Rev. gentleman then related another burden on the people bearing on the morale of France; that feeble, weak civil population that were continually returning from France through Switzerland. These wrecks came across the border at the rate of 1000 a day, and included the old people, the feeble, the scrofulous, the tubercular, and insane women. From a third to one-half of the "refugees" as these are termed by the Germans, are young children. All these refugees were taken care of by the Red Cross.

The Bishop then related the condition found in Poland as told him by a man who had accompanied a German official in a German automobile through that country. Famine and starvation reigned throughout the land; bodies were strewn everywhere. The visitor tried to count the wicker baskets in which were the bodies of children, but could not do so. The Poles were compelled by the Germans to pick up the large dried bones for the purpose of making phosphates. The German authorities issued a proclamation making it an offense severely punishable by law for one Pole to give assistance of any sort to another Pole. Often children were sold, for $100 or $150. All that were able were sold or taken into Germany or starved out. Upon the American making inquiry as to what they were going to do with the rest that were left behind, the old people, from whom their support had been robbed, the reply came: "We planned that before the war; we are going to ship all that stuff through the lines into France, and it will break her down."

In concluding, Bishop Williams said: "Our boys, your boys and mine are taking up in their hands the greatest offering a man can make, their lives, and are laying that offering on the altar of a high cause. Are not you and I going to lay on the altar, beside their lives, not only a bit, but our utmost? Every time you subscribe for a liberty bond or stamps, you keep up the body of the army, everytime you give to the Red Cross, you are of the army, or to the Y. M. C. A. you are still of the army, and it is going to keep us pulling through with body, heart and soul to win this war, and by God's help we shall be victorious, and because we will, God wills it through us."

He Couldn't Shoot His Friend

By OSCAR COX

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

There was charge and counter-charge in France, the American troops being engaged with the Germans. All day this see-saw went on and toward evening the field was covered with dead and wounded Americans and Germans. At intervals in the fighting the American ambulance corps undertook to bring in some of the wounded, and attempts had even been made to bury the dead.

Just before dark Colonel B—, who was traversing the field, espied one of those receptacles in which the American troops bury their dead. What kind of a receptacle it used depends upon circumstances. Sometimes when there is time for an impressive funeral it is a coffin; sometimes when the armies are active it is a rough box, and there are occasions when the dead are shoveled into trenches without any covering whatever.

"What is that doing here?" asked the colonel. Nobody knew. The colonel was about to make an examination when shells began to burst about him and he and others who were present sought cover.

About ten o'clock that night Colonel B— bethought himself of the burial box that he had seen and began to wonder how it could have come to be on the battlefield. It occurred to him that there had been some stupidity on the part of one under his command and if the general should run across it, there would be some unpleasant criticisms. The colonel, calling his orderly, a strapping son of Erin, told him about the burial box and ordered him to go out and bring it in.

"Mike," he said in conclusion, "if you find a corpse in it you needn't bring the corpse with you; dump it out and bring the box." "Aye, aye, sir," replied Mike, saluting, and departed on his errand. He had not far to go nor had he anything to fear, for the German lines were several hundred yards distant and there were the remains of scrub trees between them and the Americans. There was a moon but most of the time it was covered by clouds. Mike was not long in making out an oblong which being made of newly plained wood was very light in color.

He paused and looked at it. There was no braver soldier in the American army than Mike O'Donohue when a real, live, flesh and blood enemy was encountered, but Mike had no stomach for a corpse that might face him with wild ghostly eyes, and through whom a bullet might be sent without effect. Before approaching further he determined to discover whether or not there was a corpse in the box.

"Come out o' that, ye Spalpeen," he said. "I know ye're there. Come out, I say, before I put a bullet into ye with my revolver."

To Mike's horror the lid of the box was raised and by the moon he saw a pale face peer out and a voice said: "Don't shoot, my friend, I surrender."

Mike stood trembling like a leaf. He was tempted to turn and run but he shrank from facing his colonel if he did. He stood his ground but was unable to articulate a word. The man in the box threw off the lid and sat up.

"I go mit you to der rear," said the corpse.

The corpse got out of the box and advanced toward Mike.

"The imagination is capable of working wonders. Mike saw plumb through the figure.

"I am not armed," said the ghost.

The statement put courage into Mike. He pulled himself together and was about to return to the colonel with his prisoner when he remembered that his orders were to bring back the box and leave its contents. "Go back," he said, "and get your coffin. 'Ye're no good yerself; the coffin'll serve for another corpse."

The prisoner shouldered the box and the two returned to the colonel. "Colonel," said Mike, saluting, "I've brought ye the box; I didn't think ye'd want me to leave the corpse, because it's alive."

The colonel much astonished, called on the prisoner to explain. "You see, colonel, ven der var broke out I vas in New York," said the prisoner, "and I comt to Sherman to fight for de Vaterland. Vell, ven you comt out to attack us today, ant I saw de Stars and Stripes I could not believe mine eyes, I vas so astonished. I didn't know vedder I vas a Sherman or an American. 'Meln Gott,' I said, 'dare is mine friend, Herman Houck, who lived next door to me in America. How can I shoot Herman? But if I don't shoot my friends my captain vill shoot me.' Shust den a bullet grazed my sleeve. I fell on de ground and pretended to be dead. After a vile a wagon comt by loaded vith coffins, ant dropped one of them goen over a shell hole. Ven de fire'n' commenced again I got into de coffin for protection. Now you haf de story, ant I am your prisioner."

"Orderly," said the colonel, "call the corporal of the guard."

The corporal was called and when he arrived the colonel ordered him to take the prisoner to where the other prisoners were held, and to direct that he be treated well. He was also ordered to make it known that thou, the prisoner loved the Fatherland, could not fire on his friends from America.

DRINK LOTS OF MILK

Be liberal in the use of milk. It is good food—the best food in the world, in fact—and for all the milk that is used a corresponding quantity of transportable food is saved for overseas.

Give the children plenty of whole milk, and drink a fair quantity yourself. It is one of the best bone and body builders.

Do not throw away the skim milk. It contains the protein, sugar and lime of whole milk.

Get acquainted—unless you already are—with the charms of buttermilk. It is a refreshing cold drink—quite as refreshing as any you could buy at a fountain. And it is a fine food. Men can do hard manual labor on buttermilk alone. That has been demonstrated.

Save, certainly. But SAVE the milk. Do not try to save ON milk.

Ten Reasons Why Michigan Should Send TRUMAN H. NEWBERRY to the United States Senate

- First—Because of his marked ability. As a business man, as a member of Roosevelt's Cabinet and as a Commander in the Navy he has shown himself capable and efficient.
- Second—Because of his broad experience in national affairs. As Secretary of the Navy he came into close touch with Congress and legislative action, knows how laws are made and is thoroughly familiar with legislative processes.
- Third—Because he is a worker, "a man who does things."
- Fourth—Because of his splendid record—Able seaman on the "Yantic" in the Naval Reserves—Lieutenant on the "Yosemite" in the Spanish-American war—Secretary of the Navy and now a Commander, he has always "made good."
- Fifth—Because he is a Michigan man. Michigan born and bred and a part of its business and industrial life, he is in close touch with the affairs of our great state. He knows Michigan conditions and needs.
- Sixth—Because of his integrity and high character. Truman H. Newberry stands always for a "square deal."
- Seventh—Because he is genial, approachable and sympathetic. Much of his time is taken up with doing things to help, personally, the boys in the Navy and he delights to be of service to them.
- Eighth—Because of his good judgment and balance. He is dependable and reliable.
- Ninth—Because of his 100% Americanism. Not only in the service himself, but his two sons as well, he is doing all he can at his post of duty to help to win the war. He is the "Win-the-War" candidate.
- Tenth—Because of his knowledge of the war, he is the best man we have in Michigan to help solve the problems arising and to arise out of this, the greatest conflict in history.

Ability—Experience—Industry—A Splendid Record—Integrity—Home Ties—Helpfulness—Good Judgment—Knowledge of War Conditions and Problems—all these are found in Truman H. Newberry.

HE IS THE BEST QUALIFIED MAN IN MICHIGAN FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR.

Board called to order at 3 p. m. To The Hon. Board of Supervisors

Your committee on claims and accounts No. 3 respectfully submit the following as their report and recommend the several amounts scheduled herein be allowed and orders drawn for same:

County Agent Column	C. P. Milham.
Office Court House all day Friday.
Week days from 8 to 9, Phone 28-221.

Notice the regular office day has been changed from Saturday to Friday.

The hot dry weather has injured oats and corn over the northern part of the United States. Corn especially has been greatly retarded, which makes it look as though a poor corn year would result. Campaigns are being put on throughout the corn belt urging farmers not to be caught off guard as far as feed is concerned. Advising the erecting of silos to handle the corn crop in the most efficient way. It is very necessary to take good care of all fodder, as the hay crop will be below normal, and prices are sure to be high.

The food administration has announced a campaign to eliminate waste at threshing time. This waste causes a loss of about 25,000,000 bushels annually. A committee in Iosco County has been organized consisting of the County Food Administrator, County Agent, and a Retired Thresherman. A meeting of this committee with the threshermen will be held Friday at the court house to go over the plans for the summer.

The County Agent has been appointed labor commissioner in the county. Anyone desiring help should put in application at least a week in advance. Persons wishing work should also apply in advance. Office employees can do nothing that will benefit themselves and the country more than to help some farmer when vacation time comes around. When we win the war then there may be an excuse to take a rest, but at the present time the nation must come first, because our future depends on our Nations future. There are enough retired farmers in the United States to do all the necessary work. All that is necessary is that "every man to the oars." In case they do not, the work will be turned over to the women as it has been done in Europe where 90% of the work is done by women, and they have maintained or increased acreage and production, "to make the world safe for democracy."

Can you refuse to loan your savings when other men give their lives? Buy War Savings Stamps.

Folks who failed to pay for some of the "sinews of war" during the recent Liberty Loan drive, can now buy some excellent 25c "sinews" every day by purchasing thrift stamps systematically.

NEW COLLEGE YELL.

Every stamp that you get. They are cheap and make it wet. Stick it on a little card. It will let the kaiser hard.

War Savings Stamps. War Savings Stamps. They help Uncle Sam put the kaiser in slumps.

A certain dignified patriotic lady, selling war savings stamps in Bay City, was shocked by a weary looking, unshaven man who approached her and said that he wanted a "thrift stamp." He probably needed one, for it is a long time since last April.

AN EXCELLENT SUGGESTION

Take the interest from your Liberty Bonds and buy Thrift Stamps with the money. In this way you get interest at 4 per cent, compounded semi-annually, on the interest from your original investment. If you combine patriotism with good financing, you can't beat this.

Sing a song of Thrift Stamps Lending all our money. This will make the kaiser's threats sound very, very funny.

The thrift stamp movement touches everybody, for there is no one so poor or so hard pressed but who can lend a quarter to the government in its time of need.

Edgar A. Guest, of the Detroit Free Press, says that the War Savings Stamp movement is the old "16 to 1" game revived; and explains further by noting the fact that 16 thrift stamps mean one war savings stamp.
