THE SOLDIER'S CHANCES. Great as the danger and large as the losses in the aggregate, the individual soldier has plenty of chance of coming out of the war unscathed, or at least not badly injured. Based on the mortality statistics of the allied armies, a soldier's chances are as follows. Twenty-nine chances of coming home to one chance of being killed.

Forty-nine chances of recovering from wounds to one chance of dying from them.

One chance in 500 of losing a limb. Will live five years longer because of physical training, is freer from disease in the Army than in civil life, and has better medical care at the front than at home.

In other wars from 10 to 15 men died from disease to 1 from bullets; in this war 1 man dies from disease to every 10 from bullets.

For those of our fighting men who do not escape scratchless, the Government under the soldier and sailor insurance law gives protection to the wounded and their dependents and to the families and dependents of those who make the supreme sacrifice for their country.

Where Cyclones Originate.

The most violent cyclones originate I will have to pay a visit to my old in tropical latitudes, in the Atlantic ocean to the north and east of West Indian islands, and in the Pacific, in the China sea and in the neighborhood of the Philippine islands.

The reason they are so destructive is because they are carried such great distances by extraneous influences. The West Indian cyclones are attracted toward the Gulf stream by the great volume of heated air which always hangs over it and follows its course: so the cyclones of the Pacific follow the course of Kuro Siwo, the great oceanic current which passes around the East Indian archipelago, the shores of China and the Japanese islands.

Cyclones may be anywhere from 50 to 500 miles in diameter and may travel over a path 5,000 miles in ex-
