CHAUTAQUA ENTERTAINMENT FEATURES.

The local Chautauqua leaders are anxious that folks hereabouts should not get the idea that because the Chautauqua this year is of more serious importance than ever before, the lighter side of the program has been slighted.

For that is not the case. Better entertainment features have been provided than ever and they are universal in their appeal.

On the First day the entire afternoon and a part of the evening is given over to the program of the remarkable young ladies who comprise The Merrillees Entertainers. There is an unusual charm to their work; in a series of beautiful musical numbers in costume, transporting one to dainty Japan, quaint Holland and the graceful Colonial days. A feature of their work that never fails to enchant is their charming rendition of the stately minuet.

The second day brings Dean R. G. McCutchan, ably assisted by Miss Freda Hiatt, in their demonstration of that new musical art "Community Singing". Recognizing the nation-unifying results of mass-singing, and its effects in building up and keeping up citizen morale, the Community Chautauqua sought out Dean McCutchan and induced him to present this new art to the Chautauqua audiences on its Western circuit. They will make the second day one long to be remembered.

On the afternoon of the third day, the Imperial Russian Quartette will render the full program and they will also provide a musical prelude for the evening. This clever group of Slavic musicians will bring to life the weird and mystic music of the great white realm. In their brilliant Russian costumes, with bright red jackets, they present a picture of picturesqueness—and their performance on the Russian Balalaikas is one feature of their program that is of universal interest wherever they go.

The fourth day brings the famous Fischer's Exposition Orchestra with a complete double concert at night and a marvelous musical prelude in the afternoon. This is the surprise orchestra of America—there never was another like it—and the treat it brings to music lovers cannot be estimated in advance.

In addition, Miss Marvel Miller will present a program of dramatic and patriotic reading in the afternoon that will give Chautauqua goers a new idea of dramatic art.

And the last, or fourth day, crowns the entertainment of the week with the marvelous work of the Hugh Anderson Operatic Quintette. In the afternoon they provide the musical prelude, rich and reverberant with music from the opera, and at night they present charming costumed selections from "Il Trovatore" and the "Bohemian Girl".

Altogether, the great lecture program of the Chautauqua is amply and ably enlivened by entertainment features which alone would be worth the price of admission.

A SPLENDID PATRIOTIC ADDRESS

In accordance with previous announcement, Hon. Gilbert A. Currie, congressman from the 10th congressional district, was in the city Tuesday and delivered a patriotic address at the court house in the evening.

Mr. Currie's address was pronounced by those who heard it one of the best of its kind ever heard in this city. The speaker has recently returned from an official visit to the battle front in France, and his descriptions of his experiences while there and the conditions under which the people of that country are living were vivid and stirring.

Mr. Currie's speech was in no measure a political one, but on the contrary he adjured the people to forget personal politics in the present campaign, and to put their shoulder to the wheel and do not only "their bit" but "their best" to assist the government in this time of stress.

He spoke of the wonderful accomplishments of the government in assembling and putting into fighting condition an immense army and navy, in mustering the industries of the country to produce the necessary munitions and supplies, and the rest of the wonderful work that has been accomplished all in the space of a little more than a year. He stated that we should not criticize the apparent delay in some branches of the work, for that mistakes were bound to occur in undertaking such a stupendous task, and that the government had accomplished what was deemed the impossible in doing what has been done since war was declared.

The audience comprised some hundreds of people, many of whom came from distant parts of the county, and all expressed themselves as being well repaid for their attendance.

After the address in this city Mr. Currie was taken to East Tawas, where he repeated his address in an abridged form before another large audience at the Family theatre, after the close of the show.

Mr. Currie is candidate for renomination at the primaries to be held August 27th, and we believe that the people of this district cannot do better than to make him their choice for the nomination, which is equivalent to the election.

NEWBERRY SENATORIAL CLUB FORMED At the invitation of Paul H. King of Detroit, chairman of the executive committee of the Newberry Senatorial committee of the state, a number of local men favorable to Mr. Newberry's candidacy, assembled at the Holland hotel, East Tawas, last Friday noon for luncheon.

In Mr. King's party were Homer Buck of Bay City, Probate Judge Burt of Harrisville and R. E. Prescott and W. G. Anderson of Lincoln. These with the local men present made a total of sixteen who sat down to the luncheon.

After lunch Jas. E. Dillon, acting as toastmaster, called for short expressions from each one present on the candidacy of Mr. Newberry. Mr. King, the first speaker, gave a report of the sentiment throughout the state as he had found it on his tour, and expressed confidence that Mr. Newberry would be nominated by a large majority. The other speakers all pledged allegiance to Mr. Newberry and the local men then proceeded to the formation of a Newberry club for Isosco county. Jas. E. Dillon was elected president and J. E. Ballard secretary.

A public mass meeting to further Mr. Newberry's candidacy will be held at the court house, Tawas City, next Monday evening, August 5. An outside speaker will be present at this meeting and a large attendance from all parts of the county is looked for. The formation of the club will be further perfected at this meeting.

The Isosco county representatives at the luncheon were: Jas. E. Dillon, J. G. Dimmick, E. B. Follett, Jas. E. Ballard, David Davison, F. E. Dease, Chas. Pinkerton, C. R. Jackson, A. G. Jackson, J. A. Campbell, L. G. McKay.

"LEAF STRIPE" HITS STATE BARLEY CROP East Lansing, Mich., July 22—A disease known as the barley "leaf stripe" is reported by plant pathologists of M. A. C. to be causing appreciable loss to farmers in several districts of the state. Where found, it has in most instances been discovered to be traceable to seed imported from Wisconsin.

The effect of the disease upon the barley is to produce stunted, blasted heads "and not a blasted grain," while the leaves are striped so that they look like ribbon grass. The most effective method for checking the trouble, according to the pathologists, is to secure seed that is clean and to avoid immediately replanting barley on the field from which the diseased crop has been removed. Farmers are advised that more detailed information upon the subject of control can be secured by writing to the department of botany, at M. A. C.

COMMUNITY SINGING BIG CHAUTAUQUA FEATURE

DEAN R. G. MCCUTCHAN

Music is the great inspirer—and the great relaxer.

To it alone—in the opinion of the leaders of national thought—can America look for real relief when the dire hour of the war's blackest tragedy hangs heavy over us.

To it, too, must we look for a true expression of our elation in the hour of triumph—when the victory shall have been won.

That is the creed of the Community Singers.

State and National Councils of Defense are pledged to it.

Realizing the need for this kind of music, the Community Chautauqua have secured the services of Dean R. G. McCutchan, of the School of Music of DePauw University, America's foremost exponent of Community Singing to develop the new art in every town on their western circuit.

Dean McCutchan will bring Community Singing to life at the Chautauqua, leading the audience, in his magnetic manner, in mass singing of the country's best-known songs.

Miss Freda Hiatt, pianist, and an artist herself, in the newer development of mass music, will assist.

PIDGIN ENGLISH IS POPULAR

In China the Linggo is Used by Both Servants and Employers in Speaking to Each Other.

In China servants speak pidgin, or business, English to their employers; and servants from different parts of China will use this weird language in speaking to each other. The formation of the sentence is the same as in Chinese; the language itself is an extraordinary mixture of English, Portuguese, French and Chinese. Some of the phrases, says Mrs. De Burgh Daly in An Irishwoman in China, are very quaint and amusing.

A bishop is called "No. 1, top side joss pidgin man." "Top side" means heaven, "joss," god, "pidgin," business.

There is a story of two men who came to call upon the king of Siam when he was staying in Shanghai. They entered the hotel and asked the proprietor, a courteous American, if his majesty were at home.

"Boy," called the proprietor, "one piece king have got?"

"Have got, sir," replied the boy cheerfully.

"His majesty is at home, gentlemen," translated the proprietor.

One day, says Mrs. Daly, a large party assembled on a steamer to bid farewell to homeward-bound friends. Wish- ing to make certain that the steamer should not carry us off, we informed the steward in excellent Mandarin that he was to come and warn us of her departure. He stared blankly. Some one tried Ningpo dialect—no use; Shanghai—still a blank stare. At last my husband called out:

"Boy!"

"Yessir."

"Wanthee walkee can come talkee! Savvee?"

"All right, sir; my savvee." Servants quickly find out our likes and dislikes in food, and act accordingly. A friend of mine was fond of snipe, and often ordered them for dinner. One evening, when an unexpected guest arrived, she told Boy that since there were not enough snipe she would not eat one. Presently Boy nudged her and remarked in a loud whisper: "Missce can have snipe; one piece man no chow!"

BESSEMER IRON AND STEEL

Original Process Involved Decarbonization, or Burning Off of Excess Carbon, by Blowing Air.

Henry Bessemer, who invented the method named for him in the manufacture of iron and steel, which revolutionized the industry, was granted a patent by the British government on October 17, 1855. This was the first patent given him, notes an exchange. Additional patents were taken out in the following December and February, covering improvements. Bessemer's original process involved decarbonization, or the burning out of the excess carbon, by blowing air through pig iron. This revolutionary invention was due indirectly to the Crimean war.

Bessemer undertook to invent an improved cannon, but found all available metals too weak for the gun he sought to make. He then began experiments in steel making, with the ultimate result of the production of "Bessemer steel." His invention won for him fame and fortune and the honor of knight-hood. Sir Henry Bessemer was born in England, but was of French Huguenot descent. Since his pioneer invention, the process of converting iron into steel has been vastly improved.

John Harvard's History Traced.

Until modern times, says the London Graphic, John Harvard was "the Melchizedek of New England." He was "without father, without mother, without descent." So profound was the ignorance concerning the founder of America's first and greatest university, that an offer of a princely reward for "five lines of definite information" about him went unclaimed. Gradually, however, the labors of various industrious investigators bore fruit, until today John Harvard is a real figure of American history, whose footprints on English soil are clearly legible.

About Dyes.

In 1863, an Englishman by the name of Lightfoot produced aniline black; and in 1873, the first sulphur dye was discovered by Croissant and Brittonpiere of France. In connection with the development of dyestuffs it should be recorded that to a French chemist is due the modern method of the preparation of the excellent bright yellow dye for animal fibers. Another quality which this dye possesses, is that it may be used for the detection of hemp, flax and cotton in woolen goods, inasmuch as it does not color vegetable fibers.
