Never before has there been greater need of field selection of seed than right now. Beans which are late are being disastrously attacked by blight and anthracnose. In order to secure seed for another year which will not be bothered, it is necessary to go into the field picking out plants which ripened earlier than the rest, and which have characteristics of plants which we like to see. For instance well filled, clean pods, carried well up from the ground, and plants which ripen the pods at the same time. By planting these in a seed plot another year, enough seed can be secured to plant the whole acreage the following year. The same holds true of potatoes. Selection of thrifty plants which yield a large number of clean uniform potatoes and planting them in a seed plot will increase the yield and decrease the tendency of disease to a profitable extent. As for corn. In this part of the state where corn matures only one year in four it will pay to develop a very early type. This can be done by proper field selection of the ears which show dry husks. Pick them and dry them slowly where they will not freeze. Every ear of corn which matures or gets ripe enough to grow should be saved for seed. There will be a demand for it. Everyone knows it pays to raise their own seed, and by spending a few hours a year in proper selection and storage of seed will yield many dollars in increased yield, cleaner healthier grain, and satisfaction to the grower.

LYCEUM COURSE FOR TAWAS CITY.

Miss L. Pennington, representing the Redpath Chautauqua and Lyceum Bureau, was in the city last week and succeeded in signing up a number of the local citizens to a contract for a lyceum course to be given in Tawas City the coming winter.

The course is to consist of four numbers and will include the following:

Princess Watahwaso, an Indian princess, and her company of musicians, giving a varied program of musical numbers including Indian music. One member of this company has written for the Etude, the leading musical publication, and the company are all first class artists.

The Paramount Entertainers, giving a program of music and readings.

Charles R. Taggart, musical humorist, in character monologs and musical impersonations.

Dr. Lewis Thurber Guild, journalist, traveler and lecturer.

It has been some time since Tawas City had such a course and the committee are confident that enough interest will be shown to make this course a financial success. Season tickets for the entire course will be sold at $1.25 each, while single admission to any one number will be 50 cents. Children's season tickets will be $1.00 each and single admission 30 cents. These prices include the war tax.

CONGRESSMAN CURRIE THANKS PEOPLE

Permit me to express my earnest appreciation for the splendid vote on Primary day. My absence from the District, and from personal participation in the campaign, adds to my gratitude.

Winning the war speedily, and with the least possible sacrifice, is paramount in the minds of American people. Our boys are on the firing line, and have already turned the tide of battle. These are anxious hours for the people back home. If letters fail to come from your soldier boy, or you are in doubt about his welfare, or allotments of pay for his dependents are not forthcoming, and on similar matters, just write me. My duty is to assist you.

CHILD MISSING AT COOKE DAM

On Tuesday morning Sheriff Hill received a telephone call from Cooke dam stating that a child was missing there and asking aid to find her. The sheriff immediately spread the news and requested that parties be organized to assist in finding the child.

Several auto loads from this city went to the dam, but under the circumstances were unable to render much assistance, and up to the time that the Herald goes to press the child has not been found.

The missing child is Rebecca Cummings, the seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cummings. Mr. Cummings is one of the operators at the dam, and the child has been in the habit of playing and fishing in the neighborhood of the dam, and it is thought that she has fallen into one of the deep places around the dam and been drowned. She was missed about four o'clock Monday afternoon and search was made all Monday night, the river below the dam being thoroughly explored by the aid of search lights, but no trace of the child was found. On Tuesday a party of men in a boat went down the river as far as the Foote dam, but with no better success.

The deep water below the dam was also dragged, and a diver went to the deepest holes, and it was finally decided that the child had fallen in above the dam where the water is about 30 feet deep and could not be searched without a diver with a regular apparatus.

There is a possibility that the child might have wandered off into the woods and become lost, but this is not thought probable, as the little girl seldom went far from the dam.

SPECIAL BADGES FOR VOLUNTARY SUBSCRIBERS.

A feature of the Fourth Liberty Loan Campaign in Iosco county will be the gift of a special ribbon badge to all voluntary subscribers for bonds—that is all who call at their bank or on members of the Liberty Loan Committee or Township War Boards and buy bonds without waiting to be solicited, on any one of the voluntary days.

Saturday, Sunday and Monday, September 28th, 29th and 30th, have been designated by the Liberty Loan Committee as Voluntary Days for all those who do not wish to be solicited. The feeling is becoming general that it is not fair that the local committees entrusted with the raising of the country's quota should have to do so much hard work, but that everybody should "come across" without undue urging.

To encourage this sentiment and at the suggestion of the representative of the Federal Reserve Bank to whose territory Iosco county is attached, these badges are being prepared and will be presented to all who voluntarily subscribe for their just share of bonds on any of the above named dates. Prove that you are 100% American by wearing one of these badges and assisting in putting Iosco county "over the top" in record time.

SEARS-ROEBUCK GUILTY UNFAIR COMPETITION

Interstate Grocer says, Sears Roebuck & Co. the big mail order house of Chicago has pleaded guilty according to an announcement by the Federal Trade Commission to five counts of the petition filed against retail merchants of this country and an order has been issued by the Commission to the Company that it shall cease the following practices:

1. "Circulating catalogs containing advertisements of sugar for sale wherein it is falsely represented that because of large purchasing power and quick moving stock the company is able to sell sugar at a lower price than its competitors.

2. Selling or offering to sell sugar below cost, through catalogs circulated throughout the country.

3. Circulating catalogs containing advertisements representing that its competitors do not deal fairly, honestly and justly with their customers.

4. "Circulating catalogs containing advertisements offering its tea for sale in which advertisement it is falsely stated that the company sends a special representative to Japan who personally goes into the tea gardens of that country and personally supervises the picking of the tea.

5. "Circulating catalogs containing advertisements offering coffee for sale in which it is falsely stated that the company purchases all its coffee direct from the best plantations in the world."

The company according to the commission admitted losing $196,000 on sales of sugar in the latter part of 1915 which totaled $780,000. The company offered sugar for sale at 3 to 4 cents a pound, the commission says, alleging it was able to sell at lower prices than others because of its ability to make large purchases and move its stock quickly.

"Such advertisements were false and misleading," the commission states, "as the company sold sugar at less than cost in all cases and offer to sell was limited to a definite quantity of sugar and was always made upon the condition that certain other groceries be purchased at the same time and that a sufficient price was received to give a profit on the combined sale."

All practices forbidden by the order were admitted by the company, the commission says.—Mercantile Co-Operator.

ASK MICHIGAN FARMERS TO RAISE MORE RYE

East Lansing, Mich., Aug. 20—Not more wheat, but more rye is what the government is asking of the farmers of Michigan for next season, according to the department of farm crops of M. A. C. The farm crops office of the college is in receipt of a communication from the United States department of agriculture suggesting that Michigan grain growers increase their rye acreage about 20 per cent this fall and plant only the same amount of winter wheat as was put in a year ago. Other states can produce the wheat, it is explained, but Michigan is outstandingly superior as a producer of rye.

"Plans for an increased acreage of rye are of necessity influenced by plans for the wheat crop," the statement from Washington declares, "for the two crops come into immediate competition in their labor demand. Larger winter acreages are accordingly not suggested for Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and South Dakota because of the heavy increases in rye asked for from these states.

"Inasmuch as rye is being largely used as a substitute for wheat as a bread grain, the sowing of rye will materially increase the total food production."

Farmers putting in rye this fall are urged by M. A. C. to secure seed of the variety known as Rosen. This is a superior strain which in many sections of the state has almost doubled common rye in its yields.

REPORT SUGAR HOARDERS

Sugar hoarding is a thing that cannot be too severely condemned, especially at a time when assurance is given that it is not necessary. It is a patriotic duty on the part of any citizen who knows when hoarding is being practised to report it immediately to the nearest local food administrator. Since sugar can be so easily hidden away, good citizens are all the more duty bound to stamp out this pernicious practice. Local administrators should secure from merchants their heartiest co-operation in attaining an equitable distribution of sugar, both for the protection of the merchant and the general public.

FROM OUR SOLDIER BOYS

FROM VIRIL V. HILL

Camp Hancock, Georgia, Aug. 27, 1918
Dear Parents and all:—

Well I am down here in Georgia and it is some hot place. We left Buffalo Saturday night and Sunday we rode through Pennsylvania and then into Maryland, went through Washington D. C. and Virginia, then North Carolina and South Carolina and then Georgia. It is cool nights here and we sleep well, but in the day time it is sure fierce. We leave here some time between now and the fifteenth of September.

The country through Pennsylvania is rough. We went through the coal belt and through the Alleghany Mountains along the Susquehanna river. It is a fine country in Maryland, a little leveler and a better farming country. In Virginia the country is great especially in the Blue Ridge Mountains. We had a pretty good time at Washington D. C., saw the capitol and some other nice places.

The southern part of Virginia is a poor place. North Carolina and South Carolina and Georgia is all sand and swamps. Our camp is on high ground, and in a pretty good place.

It is a fine sight to see miles after miles of cotton and corn. The towns in the south are all small, more niggers than anything else.

There is a regiment of machine gunners here and they sure make them talk up some. They sound like a bunch of wood peckers, only a lot louder.

They are assigning us to different companies today and they line us up every little while and call out a few more men for examination.

I have got to wash some clothes tonight if it gets cool enough, if not they will have to go dirty. There is no story book soldiers down here. They did not send anything south but good men. We have got to learn how to handle a machine gun and put it together blindfolded.

They give you gas mask drill here but none of the fellows mind it any. They make you take off your mask and get a little tear gas. I have not got a shot since I came here. I think I have had enough for a while. I don't regret coming south, because I have seen some country at U. S. expense. We had sleepers coming down, but not much eats, but am filled up now.

I can't understand what the southern people say about half of the time. They don't think much of the northern men anyway. There are more mules here than anything else, hardly any horses.

Well I guess I will have to close as I have got to leave lots of room for my address.

Tell everybody hello and tell them I am having a hot old time down among the niggers and sweet potatoes.

With love,

FROM HARRY TRAINOR AND HARRY BURKE

Camp McArthur, Texas, Aug. 30, 1918
Mr. James E. Ballard
Editor The Tawas Herald
Tawas City, Michigan

Friend James:—
Just a few lines from Harry P. Trainor and Harry L. Burke of Oscoda, to let you know we enjoy reading the Herald. We are able to get all kinds of reading matter including newspapers from all parts of the country, but the Herald is the only paper that really hits the spot.

We are two of the five boys that made up Isoco county's quota for May 9. We were sent to Columbus Barracks, and then down here to Camp McArthur, Waco Texas. We drilled very hard up until a few days before our regiment left here for overseas service. Every man had to undergo an overseas examination. We two had the misfortune to be sent to the hospital, on account of slight physical defects. We are both well again, and expect to see overseas service soon.

It is very hot down here, but the nights are cool. The ground down here is covered with dust about three inches deep. In wet weather it turns to mud, and sicks to our shoes like cement. In dry weather the least wind stirs it up and it looks like smoke coming across the prairie.

We both confess that we never felt so blue in our life as we did the day our regiment marched away and left us behind. We were sitting on the porch at the hospital when they marched by on their way to the train. The band was playing, "Over There, Over There." Platoon after platoon, company after company, every man in step their heads up and eyes straight to the front, carrying their guns properly. It certainly was a grand sight.

We desire to take this opportunity, to deny any rumor that may reach the folks at home, to the effect that there is a lot of food wasted in the army. There is not a morsel of edible food wasted in the army. The men are not allowed to leave any edible food on their plates or on the table, and the garbage cans are inspected regularly to see that the cooks waste nothing. Any rumor, contrary to this statement is groundless. We get plenty of good wholesome food. But there is absolutely nothing wasted.

A BOX FROM HOME

Drawn by Gaar Williams, Division of Pictorial Publicity.

Food savings of millions of Americans during our first year of war enabled this government to send enormous food shipments abroad for our fighting forces and the Allied nations. Our savings in cereals—out of a short crop—amounted to 154,900,000 bushels; all of which was shipped to Europe. We increased our meat and fat shipments 844,600,000 pounds. This was America's "box from home" to our army abroad and the civilians and military forces of the Allied nations.

The Red Cross certainly deserves the confidence, credit and assistance of everybody. Also the Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. The little sewing kit given to us boys of Isoco county, by the lady Red Cross workers of Tawas City, has come in handy many times since we have been in the army.

Our advice to the boys who will eventually be called into the service, is to keep their mouths shut, and their eyes open, and to come into the army with intention of becoming a real soldier, and not merely to camouflage someone with a uniform. The first month in the army is the hardest for the recruit. The change from civil to military life is a big one and it will take him about that long to adopt himself to army life. It is laughable to see a rookie going several blocks out of his way to avoid passing an officer, because he fears that he will not be able to salute him properly, and the officer will stop him and correct him.

We would like to hear from our Isoco county friends. We will answer every letter we receive. We will also send interesting pictures of army life to those that write us. We would also like to hear from Isoco county boys who are in the army. We know your wants, drop us a line. You're in the army now, Master that bayonet drill with a grin.

Get ready for a row, You'll be plad some right in ro man's land, That your in the army now, We will close for this time, hoping to hear from some of our Isoco county friends, and with best wishes to all, we remain Very respectfully,
Private Harry P. Trainor and Bugler Harry L. Burke

FROM GEORGE KILLIAN
Wexford, Ireland, July 30, 1918.
Dear Auntie Buchholz:—
Just a very short letter auntie to let you know tha I am well and feeling fine. Also that I haven't forgotten you. I never felt better in my life and I hope everybody is the same there.

I suppose you will be surprised to hear from me from so far away. I like this navy life fine. We have to work a little, but we get good meals and plenty of time to sleep, so that's about all a man can ask for.

I am just as safe here as you are there. I suppose John is still in camp in the U. S. Well don't worry about him auntie because it isn't half as bad as they make it to be. I enjoy it. Well I must make my letter very short. I would like to hear from you some time. I haven't heard from home for forty-two days.

Well hoping everybody is well and with best regards to everybody that I know there. I will close.

THE SUGAR WASTE IN COFFEE AND TEA

The following bulletin was among the most forceful and effective bits of conservation propaganda at the New York Food Show last month. It was put out by the National Sugar Refining Co. of New Jersey.

"Save the waste!
"One hundred million cups coffee used daily in United States.

"One hundred and seventy million cups tea and coffee.
"Seventy million cups tea used daily in United States.

"If even an average of half a teaspoonful of sugar per cup is left undissolved at the bottom of cups of tea and coffee, the waste would be 1,700,000 pounds of sugar daily.

Stir your sugar until it dissolves! It is estimated that one-third to one half of all sugar used in homes is used in tea and coffee. Think it over—how is it in your home? Isn't there a chance for saving?

COACH WOMENFOLKS ON MAKING WAR BREADS

East Lansing, Mich., Aug 20—Ever try oatmeal bread? Is bean bread included in your bill of fare? Have you met with potato bread? These are a few of the "war breads" about which a pamphlet has been written by members of the home economics staff of Michigan Agricultural college. The bulletin, which is entitled "Breads for War Time", contains a considerable number of recipes indicating how all manner of "war bread" can be made. Some of the subjects treated in it are liquid yeast, standard bread recipe, standard substitute bread with mashed potatoes, potato bread, bean bread, oatmeal bread, bread using a small amount of wheat flour, and rye bread. The pamphlet can be obtained without charges by dropping a card to the department of home economics, M. A. C., East Lansing, and asking for "Extension Course Notes No. 17."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

Saving Sugar Saves Shipping

AMERICAN families would have less sugar than the people of war torn France, if we depended entirely on our home-grown sugar stocks.

Approximately 75 per cent. of our sugar is shipped to our shores. We produce about 1,000,000 tons of sugar a year. Our imports from abroad amount to over 3,000,000 tons a year in normal times.

The United States Food Administration asks each family to limit its use of sugar to two pounds per month per person for household use. The military situation demands that every available ship be placed at the disposal of the Army or Navy. When we save sugar, we save shipping.

SHARE OUR SUGAR WITH THE ALLIES

British Get Two Pounds a Month.
French Pound and Half,
Italians One Pound.

GERMAN SUPPLY PLENTIFUL.

All Nations Permit Use of Sweetening for Home Preserving Purposes.

America's new sugar ration of two pounds a month per person is equitable when compared with the sugar ration enforced by rigid governmental order in England, France and Italy, nations with which we are sharing sugar.

Each Allied nation—in the matter of sugar consumption—is sharing on nearest possible equal terms the hardships imposed by greatly altered conditions in the world sugar situation.

Formerly classed as a luxury, sugar is now a war time essential. The fair and just division of this essential is in the hands of the various Allied food controllers.

The United States Food Administration has asked this nation to observe a voluntary sugar ration of two pounds per person a month.

In the other countries at war with Germany sugar is one of the scarce articles on every menu—whether in the households of both rich and poor, or in the hotels.

England today has a sugar ration of two pounds per month per person. In France the ration is a pound and a half and in Italy it is one pound a month. And the prices in allied countries are from two to three times as high as in America.

If you go to a hotel in England or France these days and order tea or coffee they serve absolutely no sugar with it. If you want sugar you must bring it with you.

In England it is allowable to use one-seventh of an ounce of sugar in the preparation of each luncheon. In France many persons carry little sacharine tablets about with them for use in hotels and in England rich and poor must take their sugar with them if they wish to have sweetened tea while visiting friends.

Before the war started France had 625,000 acres devoted to sugar production. By 1917 the French sugar acreage had decreased to 180,000 acres. Today the French man or woman with a sugar card has no assurance whatever that he or she will be able to actually buy sugar. To buy it, one must first find it.

Italy Has "State Sugar."

Especially drastic regulations govern the use of sugar in Italy. Its manufacture, distribution and sale are closely controlled, and in part actually taken over by the state.

Sacharine is permitted to be sold and used as a substitute for sugar and the government manufactures a mixture of sacharine and sugar called "State Sugar," which is largely used.

German Sugar Ration Adequate. Germany, before the war, produced a great surplus of sugar and exported large quantities. Today the Germans have virtually gone out of the export business, but have plenty of cheap sugar for home use.

Wholesale prices prevalent in the Allied nations, according to information received by the United States Food Administration are as follows: England, 10 cents a pound; France, 12 cents; Italy, 26 cents.

While these high prices are being paid abroad the American wholesale price is being held at 7½ cents.

mocks to roll up. There is just one way you are allowed to roll your hammocks and its got to be just right, also have to tie your ropes in regulation.

We have had a number of lessons on rope tying. Such knots one never would dream about. I can tie them all. We had to have them perfect before we could leave the class room. We also have had the boat explained to us, such as the crow's nest, that's the highest part of the sty, where the lookout is stationed. The lookout has to report everything in sight; the dead head, that means the front of the sty or some times it is called the bow, but its dead head here; the back end is the stern, the right side of the boat is the star board, the left side is the port side. The compass we also have learned correctly. The lead line has also been taught us. That's a line with a weight on. We have to learn how to throw and read it. It's used to find the depths of water. The faster the boat is going the faster you have to throw it.

Well I have tried to tell you lots of things in this letter. Now Cora don't worry about me for I'm all right, well and happy. And you know I never would be contented if I had stayed at home, while this fight is on.

I want to help get the Huns. Don't look at war through the blackest cloud, lots of things are worse. Remember there is a silver lining to the blackest clouds. I know you will all be glad to have me home again with dear mother, and you told me you would be proud to see me in my uniform.

Well I'll say good bye, lots of love to you all. Remember me to Mr. Hatton, Mr. Campbell, Matt Pfeiffer and all my friends.

CANADA HAS PARK

Permanent Playground Established in Rocky Mountains.

Highest Peak, Glaciers, Forest Tract, Streams and Valleys Form Attractive Features of the Resort.

Canada is following the example of the United States in setting aside tracts of her Rocky mountain region as permanent playgrounds for the people. The latest of these is Jasper park, far up in the wild Northwest, where the play is still too rough to attract any great hordes of urban dwellers, but which is one of the most beautiful bits of mountain scenery in the world. The building of the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad had a good deal to do with the setting aside of Jasper park.

In Jasper park they have fenced in the highest mountain in Canada, an immense tract of virgin forest and hill country, a miscellaneous assortment of nameless glaciers of various sizes, half a dozen big trout streams and numberless little green valleys that look as though they were laid out by a landscape gardener. That the park is still difficult of access and calls for pioneering methods in its exploration is only another recommendation in the eyes of the lover of the out-of-doors. Here also certain important rivers take a humble start in life—such prominent streams as the Saskatchewan and the Columbia.

The land looks as untouched and as primitive as Virginia must have appeared to John Smith, but as a matter of fact it has a long and romantic history whose record is still to be written. And may the man who writes it wield a skillful pen and may he possess a real imagination, for his subject deserves it. This region lay for centuries on the boundary of the preserves of two great fur countries—the Hudson's Bay and the Great Western. Here they fought battles without number for the trapping rights—skirmishes between man and man instead of between millions and millions, but all the more full of daring, of strategy, and of adventure for that. And there, too, was a favorite hunting ground of those free lances of the wilderness, the free traders, who committed the ultimate sin of bearing allegiance to no company, and many of whom paid for it with their lives. These cold, green glaciers have seen a thousand thrilling dramas played out years before the "explorers" came, for the trappers were too busy to publish accounts of what they found. They were after fur. Nevertheless, in Canada as in the "states," they were the men who really opened the West.

In a Sarcastic Vein.

There was a drumming bombardment at Verdun when an American general officer visited the battlefield. Fifteen minutes after he reached the dugout of the colonel, who was to be his host for the day, the telephone wires were cut. They were never re-established. However, they were not needed. The French advanced systematically. The colonel kept in touch with the rear through his liaison runners.

"By and by," said the American, "he released a carrier pigeon. It flew away through the gunfire. The ground was obscured by the clouds of dust and torn earth. Airplanes were swooping overhead pelting us with machine gun fire. The air was filled with vivid flashes from the massed guns. It trembled with the continuous snarl."

"Why did you release the pigeon?" I asked. "Have your other means of communication suddenly failed?" "Oh, no," said the colonel, smiling benevolently. "It is only that I am very fond of birds and I thought it would please the pigeon."

Doing Their Bit.

War tanks carry pigeons for sending out messages in case of need. This is yet another use to which pigeons have been put in this war.

The ingenuity of the French in this respect, however, is hard to beat, observes a correspondent. In one of our allies' war museums is an apparatus which shows how the French have attempted to get news from their invaded territories. It consists of a balloon, which carries 40 carrier pigeons. In floating over the land now occupied by the enemy it drops from time to time a little parachute, to which is attached a basket containing a carrier pigeon, an aluminum message holder, several sheets of thin paper, pencil and detailed instructions for use.

The finder of the basket, after writing a message, has only to slip it into the holder in the bird's leg and set it free. The homing instinct then allows the pigeon to find its way back to the French lines.

Burglarproof Cage.

A burglarproof cashier's cage, located in a car house in an isolated district, has been installed by the Washington Water Power company, says the Electric Railway Journal. It is described as follows: "The cage is sheathed with iron on the outer walls and the door, and the windows are provided with steel curtains, counter-weighted, which can be lowered for complete protection. In the bottom of each steel curtain is a trap or hinged box which can be swung inside or outside without at any time affording a direct opening into the room. Cash is placed in the trap on the outside, which is swung to give the cashier access to it. A small peck-hole with sliding cover is provided just above the trapdoor."

SEARS-ROEBUCK GUILTY UNFAIR COMPETITION

Interstate Grocer says, Sears Roebuck & Co. the big mail order house of Chicago has pleaded guilty according to an announcement by the Federal Trade Commission to five counts of the petition filed against retail merchants of this country and an order has been issued by the Commission to the Company that it shall cease the following practices:

1. "Circulating catalogs containing advertisements of sugar for sale wherein it is falsely represented that because of large purchasing power and quick moving stock the company is able to sell sugar at a lower price than its competitors.

2. Selling or offering to sell sugar below cost, through catalogs circulated throughout the country.

3. Circulating catalogs containing advertisements representing that its competitors do not deal fairly, honestly and justly with their customers.

4. "Circulating catalogs containing advertisements offering its tea for sale in which advertisement it is falsely stated that the company sends a special representative to Japan who personally goes into the tea gardens of that country and personally supervises the picking of the tea.

5. "Circulating catalogs containing advertisements offering coffee for sale in which it is falsely stated that the company purchases all its coffee direct from the best plantations in the world."

The company according to the commission admitted losing $196,000 on sales of sugar in the latter part of 1915 which totaled $780,000. The company offered sugar for sale at 3 to 4 cents a pound, the commission says, alleging it was able to sell at lower prices than others because of its ability to make large purchases and move its stock quickly.

"Such advertisements were false and misleading," the commission states, "as the company sold sugar at less than cost in all cases and offer to sell was limited to a definite quantity of sugar and was always made upon the condition that certain other groceries be purchased at the same time and that a definite price was received to give a profit on the combined sale."

All practices forbidden by the order were admitted by the company, the commission says.—Mercantile Co-Operator.

ASK MICHIGAN FARMERS TO RAISE MORE RYE

East Lansing, Mich., Aug. 20—Not more wheat, but more rye is what the government is asking of the farmers of Michigan for next season, according to the department of farm crops of M. A. C. The farm crops office of the college is in receipt of a communication from the United States department of agriculture suggesting that Michigan grain growers increase their rye acreage about 20 per cent this fall and plant only the same amount of winter wheat as was put in a year ago. Other states can produce the wheat, it is explained, but Michigan is outstandingly superior as a producer of rye.

"Plans for an increased acreage of rye are of necessity influenced by plans for the wheat crop," the statement from Washington declares, "for the two crops come into immediate competition in their labor demand. Larger winter acreages are accordingly not suggested for Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and South Dakota because of the heavy increases in rye asked for from these states.

"Inasmuch as rye is being largely used as a substitute for wheat as a bread grain, the sowing of rye will materially increase the total food production."

Farmers putting in rye this fall are urged by M. A. C. to secure seed of the variety known as Rosen. This is a superior strain which in many sections of the state has almost doubled common rye in its yields.

REPORT SUGAR HOARDERS

Sugar hoarding is a thing that cannot be too severely condemned, especially at a time when assurance is given that it is not necessary. It is a patriotic duty on the part of any citizen who knows when hoarding is being practised to report it immediately to the nearest local food administrator. Since sugar can be so easily hidden away, good citizens are all the more duty bound to stamp out this pernicious practice. Local administrators should secure from merchants their heartiest co-operation in attaining an equitable distribution of sugar, both for the protection of the merchant and the general public.

FROM OUR SOLDIER BOYS

FROM VIRIL V. HILL

Camp Hancock, Georgia, Aug. 27, 1918
Dear Parents and all:—

Well I am down here in Georgia and it is some hot place. We left Buffalo Saturday night and Sunday we rode through Pennsylvania and then into Maryland, went through Washington D. C. and Virginia, then North Carolina and South Carolina and then Georgia. It is cool nights here and we sleep well, but in the day time it is sure fierce. We leave here some time between now and the fifteenth of September.

The country through Pennsylvania is rough. We went through the coal belt and through the Alleghany Mountains along the Susquehanna river. It is a fine country in Maryland, a little leveler and a better farming country. In Virginia the country is great especially in the Blue Ridge Mountains. We had a pretty good time at Washington D. C., saw the capitol and some other nice places.

The southern part of Virginia is a poor place. North Carolina and South Carolina and Georgia is all sand and swamps. Our camp is on high ground, and in a pretty good place.

It is a fine sight to see miles after miles of cotton and corn. The towns in the south are all small, more niggers than anything else.

There is a regiment of machine gunners here and they sure make them talk up some. They sound like a bunch of wood peckers, only a lot louder.

They are assigning us to different companies today and they line us up every little while and call out a few more men for examination.

I have got to wash some clothes tonight if it gets cool enough, if not they will have to go dirty. There is no story book soldiers down here. They did not send anything south but good men. We have got to learn how to handle a machine gun and put it together blindfolded.

They give you gas mask drill here but none of the fellows mind it any. They make you take off your mask and get a little tear gas. I have not got a shot since I came here. I think I have had enough for a while. I don't regret coming south, because I have seen some country at U. S. expense. We had sleepers coming down, but not much eats, but am filled up now.

I can't understand what the southern people say about half of the time. They don't think much of the northern men anyway. There are more mules here than anything else, hardly any horses.

Well I guess I will have to close as I have got to leave lots of room for my address.

Tell everybody hello and tell them I am having a hot old time down among the niggers and sweet potatoes.

With love,

FROM HARRY TRAINOR AND HARRY BURKE

Camp McArthur, Texas, Aug. 30, 1918
Mr. James E. Ballard
Editor The Tawas Herald
Tawas City, Michigan

Friend James:—
Just a few lines from Harry P. Trainor and Harry L. Burke of Oscoda, to let you know we enjoy reading the Herald. We are able to get all kinds of reading matter including newspapers from all parts of the country, but the Herald is the only paper that really hits the spot.

We are two of the five boys that made up Iosco county's quota for May 9. We were sent to Columbus Barracks, and then down here to Camp McArthur, Waco Texas. We drilled very hard up until a few days before our regiment left here for overseas service. Every man had to undergo an overseas examination. We two had the misfortune to be sent to the hospital, on account of slight physical defects. We are both well again, and expect to see overseas service soon.

It is very hot down here, but the nights are cool. The ground down here is covered with dust about three inches deep. In wet weather it turns to mud, and sicks to our shoes like cement. In dry weather the least wind stirs it up and it looks like smoke coming across the prairie.

We both confess that we never felt so blue in our life as we did the day our regiment marched away and left us behind. We were sitting on the porch at the hospital when they marched by on their way to the train. The band was playing, "Over There, Over There." Platoon after platoon, company after company, every man in step their heads up and eyes straight to the front, carrying their guns properly. It certainly was a grand sight.

We desire to take this opportunity, to deny any rumor that may reach the folks at home, to the effect that there is a lot of food wasted in the army. There is not a morsel of edible food wasted in the army. The men are not allowed to leave any edible food on their plates or on the table, and the garbage cans are inspected regularly to see that the cooks waste nothing. Any rumor, contrary to this statement is groundless. We get plenty of good wholesome food. But there is absolutely nothing wasted.

A BOX FROM HOME

Drawn by Gaar Williams, Division of Pictorial Publicity.

Food savings of millions of Americans during our first year of war enabled this government to send enormous food shipments abroad for our fighting forces and the Allied nations. Our savings in cereals—out of a short crop—amounted to 154,900,000 bushels; all of which was shipped to Europe. We increased our meat and fat shipments 844,600,000 pounds. This was America's "box from home" to our army abroad and the civilians and military forces of the Allied nations.

The Red Cross certainly deserves the confidence, credit and assistance of everybody. Also the Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. The little sewing kit given to us boys of Iosco county, by the lady Red Cross workers of Tawas City, has come in handy many times since we have been in the army.

Our advice to the boys who will eventually be called into the service, is to keep their mouths shut, and their eyes open, and to come into the army with intention of becoming a real soldier, and not merely to camouflage someone with a uniform. The first month in the army is the hardest for the recruit. The change from civil to military life is a big one and it will take him about that long to adopt himself to army life. It is laughable to see a rookie going several blocks out of his way to avoid passing an officer, because he fears that he will not be able to salute him properly, and the officer will stop him and correct him.

We would like to hear from our Iosco county friends. We will answer every letter we receive. We will also send interesting pictures of army life to those that write us. We would also like to hear from Iosco county boys who are in the army. We know your wants, drop us a line.

You're in the army now,
Master that bayonet drill with a grin.
Get ready for a row,
You'll be glad some night in no man's land,
That your in the army now.

We will close for this time, hoping to hear from some of our Iosco county friends, and with best wishes to all, we remain
Very respectfully,
Private Harry P. Trainor and Bugler Harry L. Burke

FROM GEORGE KILLIAN

Wexford, Ireland, July 30, 1918.

Dear Auntie Buchholz:—
Just a very short letter auntie to let you know that I am well and feeling fine. Also that I haven't forgotten you. I never felt better in my life and I hope everybody is the same there.

I suppose you will be surprised to hear from me from so far away.

I like this navy life fine. We have to work a little, but we get good meals and plenty of time to sleep, so that's about all a man can ask for.

I am just as safe here as you are there.

I suppose John is still in camp in the U. S. Well don't worry about him auntie because it isn't half as bad as they make it to be. I enjoy it.

Well I must make my letter very short. I would like to hear from you some time. I haven't heard from home for forty-two days.

Well hoping everybody is well and with best regards to everybody that I know there. I will close.

THE SUGAR WASTE IN COFFEE AND TEA

The following bulletin was among the most forceful and effective bits of conservation propaganda at the New York Food Show last month. It was put out by the National Sugar Refining Co. of New Jersey.

"Save the waste!
"One hundred million cups coffee used daily in United States.

"One hundred and seventy million cups tea and coffee.

"Seventy million cups tea used daily in United States.

"If even an average of half a teaspoonful of sugar per cup is left undissolved at the bottom of cups of tea and coffee, the waste would be 1,700,000 pounds of sugar daily.

"Stir your sugar until it dissolves! It is estimated that one-third to one half of all sugar used in homes is used in tea and coffee. Think it over—how is it in your home? Isn't there a chance for saving?"

COACH WOMENFOLKS ON MAKING WAR BREADS

East Lansing, Mich., Aug. 20—Ever try oatmeal bread? Is bean bread included in your bill of fare? Have you met with potato bread? These are a few of the "war breads" about which a pamphlet has been written by members of the home economics staff of Michigan Agricultural college. The bulletin, which is entitled "Breads for War Time", contains a considerable number of recipes indicating how all manner of "war bread" can be made. Some of the subjects treated in it are liquid yeast, standard bread recipe, standard substitute bread with mashed potatoes, potato bread, bean bread, oatmeal bread, bread using a small amount of wheat flour, and rye bread. The pamphlet can be obtained without charges by dropping a card to the department of home economics, M. A. C., East Lansing, and asking for "Extension Course Notes No. 17."

Catarrrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, etc. Circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

BEGINNING OF MAN

Origin Is Retreating More and More Into the Past.

Topic Still Absorbs Interest of Anthropologists and Other Scientists, Each Discovering Renewed Discussion.

The antiquity of man is still an absorbing topic among anthropologists and other scientists, and fresh discussions arise with each new discovery of ancient human remains. In this connection, it is interesting to note, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger, that Dr. Arthur Keith of Edinburgh, an authority on the subject, believes that the living Australian aborigine is of an older type than any of the fossil remains of modern man found in Europe. The New York Medical Journal says: "The date of the origin of the human species, by each new discovery of missing chapters in its history, is shifted to a more and more remote time. The Neanderthal skull, which, by its prominent supraorbital ridges, its length and flattening from above downward, seemed to link man closely, if loosely, to the higher apes, still had a brain capacity quite equal to that of the average modern man, and on this account pointed to a still more remote beginning of the human being. The brain of the Neanderthal man was not only large but elaborate, and, as shown by the remains of his culture, he possessed fire and made flint implements. Though ancient, he was anything but an ape."

"The Heidelberg skull, which resembled the Neanderthal remains but was still more markedly simian in general features, had also a capacious brain case and is believed to have belonged to a creature with comparatively high mental development. The Neanderthal man is placed some 300,000 years back, while the Heidelberg skull is presumed to date to a doubly remote time."

"The prehistoric remains found by Doctor Dubois in Java, the bones of Pithecanthropus, as he has been called, were of decidedly earlier geological date, as indicated both by their surroundings and by their own features; the brain case was small and the cranial traits were otherwise more ape-like than those of any other known remains. "All the structural characters of Pithecanthropus, so far as we know them, are exactly of the kind we expect to find in the early ancestral types of man." The unearthing of the Java man pushed the date for the origin of the human type backward another period of a few hundred thousand years, or into the Miocene epoch of geological time."

"The chain linking modern man directly with an early type similar to the gorilla or chimpanzee seemed to be growing strong until, in 1912, the bones of an ancient man of another type were discovered in England in the Piltdown cave. This, according to Dr. Arthur Keith, who is as great an authority as can be found, is the 'oldest specimen of true humanity yet discovered.' The brain of this being was, in size, at least, up to the modern standard, but otherwise the bones are 'the most simian recorded.'"

Silver Thimbles in War. Many English women gave their jewels and much money to the war fund, says the Ladies' Home Journal, but there were thousands of others who wished to give and were unable to do so. That is, they were until a wise woman suggested that little trinkets, such as silver thimbles, be collected and melted down for the silver they contained. Here is what the silver thimbles purchased in one year: Seven motor ambulances. Five motor hospital boats. One thousand one hundred and ten dollars for hospital supplies. Ten thousand dollars for disabled sailors' agency. Eleven thousand two hundred and fifty dollars for star and garter fund. Fifty thousand dollars for soldiers and sailors. American women who think they cannot afford to give anything to the various war funds might find these facts interesting.

Serious Casualty List. In the domestic relations court of New York Mrs. Annette Busby was a witness against her husband, James, who was present to respond to the toast: "Work—done or avoided." Mr. Busby allowed that he is a carpenter, hampered by an education of the most classical type. "The fact of the matter is," he explained, "that I have sought work rather constantly until lately. I have been disheartened by the fact that I could not get work such as I deserve. I do not like carpentry, and I can speak five languages. I want a good situation or none." "Five languages," sneered Mrs. Busby. "What good are they? Four of them are dead and the other wounded."

Dynamite Saves Potatoes. A resourceful farmer found a new way to use dynamite and saved a nearly matured crop of potatoes in a badly flooded field, says the Scientific American. Usually heavy rains filled all the neighborhood drains and ditches; in his emergency the owner put down a number of holes eight to twelve feet deep with a post auger and exploded a charge of dynamite in the bottom of each. This opened up passages into the sandy sub-soil, through which the surplus water drained rapidly, and the crop was saved, although many nearby crops were ruined by the excess of water standing in the fields.

DEATH OF MRS. ARMSTRONG.

Margaret Riley was born at Port Huron, November 22, 1857 and died at St. Mary's hospital Saginaw Aug. 27, 1918.
At the age of 25 years she was united in marriage to John Drummond of Bay City and about one year later she came to Whittemore, Mich., where with her husband she was engaged in the hotel business until his death. Later she was united in marriage to Mr. George Armstrong of Whittemore. In 1910 she moved to Emery Junction and was engaged in the hotel business until her death.
For many months she was a great, but patient sufferer from that dreaded disease, cancer. All that human hands could do to relieve suffering was done for her. Physicians did all in their power to save her life, but all failed and the messenger of death took her to rest from all her suffering. She was loved and respected by all who knew her and her deeds of kindness and cheerful countenance will be greatly missed, not only in her own home circle but by the large number with whom she daily came in contact.
She leaves four brothers and one sister and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss.
Gone but not forgotten.
The one we loved so dear;
Free from all pain and sorrow,
Which life oft brings us here.
Farewell dear one, forever,
On earth we'll meet no more.
But in the land of fadeless light,
We'll dwell with thee forever more.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to our friends who so kindly assisted us during our hour of bereavement, also for the beautiful floral offerings.

Many Kinds of Courage.
The essential meaning of courage lies in the word itself. It comes into English by way of the French courage, which comes in turn, from the Latin cor, meaning "heart." Courage is heritage, keeping the heart steady even in the presence of disturbing conditions. Sometimes it appears in the ability to keep the heart from fluttering when a sudden danger threatens; sometimes in the ability to keep going when life settles down into a grind and the heart would sink to despair but for persistent courage.
