OSCODA WINS FROM TAWAS CITY

Tawas City lost its second game of the season by a score of 4 to 3 in favor of Oscoda last Sunday, at Oscoda. Although Tawas City was in a crippled condition on account of its crack short, Milham being out of town, the game was close not a man crossing home plate till the 7th inning. The game was clean from start to finish. Oscoda has a fine bunch of fellows and the fans need not fear of being disappointed by raw decisions or scrapping when a return game is played in Tawas City.

OLD SUGAR FACTORY CHIMNEY WRECKED

Monday afternoon at about 2:30 James Daley wrecked the old sugar beet factory chimney. It required twelve sticks of dynamite to do the work and the monument of a Buried Hope crashed to the ground with a cloud of dust. The event was witnessed by about 100 interested spectators. The old chimney will be placed to a more useful purpose than perpetuating the memory of dead hope by becoming a part of several store buildings in this city, replacing some that burned two weeks ago. The work of removing the brick to the site of their new purpose has been started.

The foundations for the sugar factory, of which this chimney was a part, were laid during the spring of 1903 and the plant was ready for business the following November. It was at that time one of the largest and most completely equipped sugar factories in the country and the people looked forward to a successful future for it, but after a two season run it was dismantled and removed to Wisconsin where it has been a success.

A few days ago Stephen Ferguson purchased the old chimney and it will be used to build his new store building. As there are approximately 350,000 bricks, other business men contemplating to rebuild, have purchased the surplus.

ANNUAL FAIR PREMIUM LIST ISSUED

The premium list of the 45th Annual Fair of the Iosco County Agricultural Society, is being distributed throughout the county. Every person interested in making exhibits should study the list thoroughly and plan now on them. A special appeal for exhibits has been made by the County Agent, C. P. Milham.

The object of any agricultural fair is to promote the agricultural and stock growing industries in its territory and this can be accomplished best by seeing what the other fellow has done.

Many special attractions have been procured to help make the fair enjoyable and insure its success.

AN APPRECIATION

We wish to thank all who helped us during the fire in preventing the hotel from burning and removing goods from the building.

$100 AND $1,000 "BABY BONDS" OUT

More complete details concerning the new $100 and $1,000 Treasury Savings certificates just issued have been received at the headquarters of the Seventh Federal Reserve District in Chicago. The new certificates, which the War-Savings officials believe will be a big factor in financing the Government in the future, will be issued at the following prices:

Month	Denomination	of $100	of $1,000
July	$83.60	$836.00
August	$83.60	$836.00
September	$84.00	$840.00
October	$84.20	$842.00
November	$84.40	$844.00
December	$84.60	$846.00

There is an increase of twenty cents a month in the price of the $100 certificate and two dollars a month in the price of the $1,000 certificate. In form they are more like a bond but have no coupons. For dollar War Savings Certificates are convertible into the $100 and $1,000 securities, which bear the same rate of interest as War Savings Stamps, four per cent compounded quarterly.

The new certificates are in registered form only and mature January 1, 1924. They are redeemable before maturity after ten days written demand and surrender of the certificates to the office of the Secretary of the Treasury, Division of Loans and Currency, Washington. The Treasury certificates are not transferable and are payable only to the owner named thereon except in the case of the death or disability of the holder. They are exempt both as to principal and interest from all Federal, state and local taxes, surtaxes and excess profits and war profits taxes.

The certificates may be purchased from any post office and incorporated banks and trust companies that are duly qualified agents for the sale of U. S. S. certificates. War Savings certificates filled with twenty War Savings Stamps may be exchanged for certificates of $100 denomination and ten War Savings Stamps may be exchanged for Treasury Savings certificates of the $1,000 denomination. However, no War Savings Stamps except of the 1919 issue may be exchanged for Treasury Savings certificates and only completely filled War Savings certificates can be used for such exchange.

MICHIGAN INCREASES MILK CONSUMPTION

To increase the use of dairy products—especially whole milk, skim milk, and buttermilk—is a project that is being conducted in Michigan under the direction of the Extension Division of the Michigan Agricultural College and the United States Department of Agriculture. In previous years large quantities of surplus skim milk had been poured into the sewers during the "flush" season in the spring and summer because there was no market for it. Every effort is now being made to utilize all of this valuable food.

At Flint, Mich., through the effort of the home demonstration agent, the schools have been used as the center for the distribution of whole milk.

The children are examined by the school teacher and nurse, and to the parents of those found undernourished a note is sent by the home demonstration agent requesting that they be allowed to bring 3 cents each day for a glass of milk and a slice of bread, which is served every morning at 10 o'clock. The response from the parents has been encouraging. Only five of the many children who needed the luncheon were fed at public expense and a marked improvement in their condition has already been demonstrated.

At Saginaw, through the efforts of the home demonstration agent and the anti-tuberculosis nurse, distribution of milk has been established in the factories and schools. The milkmen of Saginaw recently raised a $500 fund to supplement $1,500 raised by the Federation of Women's Clubs to provide proper lunches for the undernourished children in the public schools. In addition, the home demonstration agent, by a series of demonstrations, is giving instruction in the value of milk. Other cities and small towns in the State have awakened to the need of providing growing children with plenty of whole milk. A marked improvement is shown by the children who now have milk as a part of their daily ration and thus new converts are being made among the parents relative to the importance of using more milk in the diet.

BUILDING OPERATIONS RESUMED

Ordinance No. 67 passed last Friday evening caused a misunderstanding between our business men who have started to build and the city council and the work on the buildings was halted for a few days. The situation has cleared up and operations were resumed Wednesday morning.

The following is the text of the ordinance:

Ordinance No. 67

An ordinance restricting building operations within and fixing the limits in the city of Tawas City. The City of Tawas City ordains: No. 1 That from and after the date of the passage of this ordinance, the following territory in the city of Tawas City shall be deemed to constitute restricted limits with reference to the erection of fire proof buildings, to wit: A strip of land fronting upon Mathew street two hundred feet wide southwesterly therefrom and extending from Tawas River to Bay street and the shore of Tawas Bay, and extending thence from said Mathew street northeasterly the strip of land lying between Tawas River and Tawas Bay, along Lake Street to Wheeler Street, one block northeast of the railroad depot.

No. 2 From and after said date it shall not be lawful for any person, firm or corporation to erect or construct any store, warehouse, business building, or dwelling within the limits of said territory, or upon said land fronting upon Lake street unless the same shall be built with cement, stone or brick foundations and walls, or built any barn, shed, ice house or warehouse there unless built of like material or have metal, tile or fire proof composition outside walls and roof, and of such plans and specifications as shall meet with the approval of the City Council.

No. 3 Before any person, firm or corporation shall begin the erection or construction of any building within the boundary of such territory, it shall be necessary to apply to the City Council at some regular or adjourned meeting thereof, for permission to erect such building, and at the same time submit for the approval of the council such plans and specifications as shall be sufficient to enable the council, or the Board of Public Works and city engineer, to determine whether the same, when erected, will be sufficiently fire proof to meet the requirements of this ordinance.

No. 4 Upon such presentation, the council shall consider the same, and if deemed satisfactory by a majority of the City Council elect, shall thereupon by resolution to that effect grant the prayer of such petition and have such resolution entered upon the records of the council as a part of its regular order of business, and a copy of the same certified by the City Clerk shall constitute a permit and license to erect such building, and the same shall be erected in accordance therewith.

No. 5 All ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent with the provisions of this ordinance, are hereby repealed.

No. 6 This ordinance shall take effect on and after the 28th day of July, A. D. 1919.

Approved this 18th day of July 1919. JNO. A. MYLES, Mayor. H. ALLEN, City Clerk.

QUESTION OF ADEQUATE FIRE PROTECTION

"When the horse is stolen, we lock the door," a saying often true. In the case of Tawas City, however, we have not displayed at least this wisdom, for many fires have occurred in its past and no adequate fire protection has been made. After each fire there has been much talk with little accomplishment, and in this way the disaster of two weeks ago was made possible.

Every person in the city realizes now more than ever before, that we should have ample fire protection for when a fire will occur again is only a problematical question and now is the time to do something. Whatever we do will be now for time causes us to forget and we shall recall it again only when too late and a similar disaster occurs.

The following was clipped from an editorial in an issue of the Herald shortly after a fire which occurred in July 1903:

"The matter of water works for this city has been assuming more definite shape steadily during the past ten days, and the indications now are that at the meeting of the city council next Tuesday evening, action will be taken to submit the question of bonding for that purpose to the people at an election to be held in the near future. "Had the city been supplied with water works the loss at the fire which destroyed the Lutheran parsonage would not have been many hundred dollars as it was thousands. While we have been fortunate in the past as to large fires, nobody knows when we may have a big one. That our present fire apparatus is inadequate to cope with a large fire there is no doubt, and it is a matter of good policy for our people to secure a good system of water works at once."

THE AMERICAN LEGION AND POLITICS

The world has not been made safe for democracy; Democracy is not safe in America. Democracy perhaps will never be in that happy condition where a struggle to maintain it will not be necessary. The world history proves that where upbuilding is attempted or going on, some force is always seeking to tear down. The constructive work of stabilizing human liberties has never met with experiences that teach differently.

The American Legion, with a potential strength of 4,000,000 men who bore arms across the seas or at home, is committed to the policy of strengthening and developing the liberties, opportunities and rights of the individual acquired under our form of government. There are distinctive benefits of democracy as we have come to use the term—the safeguard that the people, collectively, pledge to each other through our governmental organization.

Of necessity, such an objective precludes partisan politics. There is now and has been for months much talk, and what the Legion leaders characterize as "mawkish bunk," about the "soldier vote." Undoubtedly, partisan politicians will make the usual appeal to the "soldier vote." But, insofar as the most serious utterances of the leaders of the American Legion are concerned—reiterated everywhere by the members—there is only one class of men that need fear the "soldier vote"—those who are not American in spirit and deed; the men who fail to realize that living in the United States means living in the land where human liberty has reached its degree and they owe to that land—the flag that symbolizes it—the duty of safeguarding and extending the principles and ideals that gave birth to these liberties.

Whether the forces that the American Legion will combat are alien or home birth; whether they seek to destroy by violent means or insidious gospel or whether they are motivated by greed and the desire for power to pervert American ideals and governmental control to their own benefits—the Legion will not differentiate, its leaders assure. The Legion intends to carry on in America the struggle it bore in France and Germany and for precisely the same objective.

It is seeking to crystallize in concrete terms at home the ideals that underlay America's entry into the war. And a review of the trend and conditions in the United States will not deny that the Legion has a great mission—a duty even, for which it is peculiarly fitted by experiences and lessons of the last two years.

Answer: Letters Promptly.

Punctuality is as important in social and business correspondence as it is in personal conduct. Men and women in business learn the importance of replying to letters as soon as received. For formal social notes such as invitations, wedding announcements or death notices should be acknowledged as soon as received and even friendly letters demand a reply within a week after their receipt, if true courtesy is observed.—Biddy Bye.

SHE PRESENTS ALL THE CHARACTERS OF "JUST PLAIN JUDY" AT THE CHAUTAUQUA

HETTIE JANE DUNAWAY

A whole drama wrapped up in a single person—and that person one of the most charming dramatic readers in America.

—That, in brief, is one feature of the program of Hettie Jane Dunaway on the third day of the coming Chautauqua.

Miss Dunaway is herself all ten of the characters of her "All Star" production of "Just Plain Judy," an adaptation from "Daddy Long Legs," in which are introduced other stories, spoken songs and cartoons.

This talented actress presents in a single program ten characters with complete changes of costume, carrying along a touching little story through tempest and sunshine, laughter and tears, unassisted save by the delightful musical accompaniments of the Misses Ringgold and Major, whose playing on piano and violin is one of the features of the number.

The Upper Class.

"So you wish to marry my daughter?" said the proud parent.
"Yes, sir," replied the young man.
"How much money are you making?" asked the governor.
"Forty dollars a week," was the reply.
"Forty dollars a week! Why my daughter can make that in a munitions plant and not work overtime."

Men Who Dare to Do.

Conventional men consider clothing reputation and returns. The age calls for men who forget all in the challenge of the opportunity. While the crowd speculates and wonders, the man of the hour sees the opportunity and goes on to success. His fearlessness is a mark of his fitness. He dares while others cringe. It is this quality that gives the lion-tamer control of the beast. It is the quality that has thrilled every man that has risen above the average. It's a case of dare to do, or remain with the crowd.—Grit.

Woman Proved Herself Heroine in Emergency.

With Husband Disabled by Broken Leg She Employed Unique Signal to Bring Help That Might Save Him.

The following would be almost unbelievable if the facts were not the talk of the community and if it were not substantiated by the various participants. In Penobscot bay, three miles from Islesboro, is a little island known as Mark Island, owned by Preston Player, a State street broker of Boston, and he there maintains a big summer place. The keeper is Ralph Collamore of Lincolnville, who in the winter, with his wife and two children, makes his home on the island in a little cottage.

On Wednesday, January 23, he took the boat and started for Islesboro. Three hours were taken in making the trip of three miles by water. He came back and upon landing and pulling the boat up onto the shore on Mark Island he pulled the boat over onto him, pinning him down and breaking his leg. His wife kept looking for her husband's return and finally, attracted by his groans, found him pinned under the boat. She is a frail woman but with him hanging onto his injured limb, she managed to drag him up to the cottage. There with the aid of a leather wallet and sticks she set the leg the best she could. There they were practically isolated and help was needed badly.

Mrs. Collamore, full of pluck and determination to get help, went to the Player summer home. There she managed to set agoing the electric dynamo by which the place is lighted. She turned on every light in that big house and put on also a red light. The lights were run all day Thursday and not until 5:45 Thursday afternoon was the light noticed at Dark Harbor. Telephone calls were sent to the naval station and the tug Zizania started to Dark Harbor to see what was the trouble. Dark Harbor was reached about 9:30 Thursday night. There no one knew what was the trouble at Mark Island. The Zizania cut her way through the ice, in some places 8 and 10 inches thick, for three miles to the island. Captain Sherman and nine men went ashore. They made their way to the lighted house and there found no one. Groping along in the darkness they were frightened by the sudden uprising of a flock of turkeys from a tree. Then they came upon the cottage in total darkness with the door open but no signs of life about. Going in they found the courageous little woman asleep, the injured man half asleep and both children slumbering. The tug went back to Dark Harbor and there found a doctor who was brought back to Mark Island. The Zizania remained at Mark Island until four o'clock Friday morning when the injured man was attended to.—Bangor Commercial.

Britain's Indians.

The Indians in the British army on the western front, notably the Sikhs, that highly disciplined military force from British India, have little in common with the American red men. They come from the other side of the earth; they are sons of a deeply religious sect, and for 50 years or more have been an important factor in the British dominion of the far East.

They are tall, well-built, handsome men, most of them with beards, and in perfection of drill and military bearing they are not excelled by any troops on the western front. But while their methods of fighting are quite dissimilar, the Sikh fighting force being a well-trained military machine while the American Indian is a flexible unit, there is one thing in which they are very much alike. As a humorous English writer—Punch and its punsters still live—puts it:

"I have had an opportunity to study both the Indians of the East and the Indians of the West, and while they are very dissimilar in most things, when it comes to courage, I may be excused for saying that it is Sikhs of one and a half dozen of the other!"

German Title of Honor.
"Von" before a name in German denotes a privilege title, either inherited or bestowed by a monarch upon his subject for meritorious services. While formerly this prefix was found in military or feudal families only, many commoners, captains of industry, scientists, financiers and artists were so honored by their monarchs. The title is either hereditary or ceases with the death of the distinguished person.

Oiling the Wheels.
No one can afford to let another person exceed in politeness, and there is nothing in the world that will oil the wheels of life like the lubricant of courtesy. Try it in your daily life and see. No one will chide you for not being in good form, even if you should slip in a few obsolete terms. For in this busy age each one is an arbiter of fashion himself. It would be a refreshing thing to introduce a few of the old-fashioned variety of social amenities—at least it would be refreshing to the elders of the same of the boys and girls of the period.

Strive to Keep Sweet.
Some folks are the very picture of misery. Their mouths are so constantly in a sour pout that they get ugly before they get gray. The kiddies take to their heels when they see the nagger coming down the street. Objectors are always wanting a new boss. Dismal old age stares the unfortunate victim in the face and he's bound to get soured on the world for the world has little to offer him. It can't take such risks.—Exchange.

Nero's Golden Palace.

The golden house was the palace of Nero in ancient Rome, which occupied the valley between the Palatine and Esquiline, and connected the palaces of the Caesars with the gardens of Maecenas. It was built after the great fire of 64 A. D., and was so large that it contained porticoes 2,800 feet long and inclosed a lake where the colosseum now stands. The forecourt contained a colossus of Nero 120 feet high.

"Nemesis."

Nemesis was a goddess of justice and divine retribution. The word comes from a Greek verb meaning to deal out, distribute, dispense. In Greek mythology Nemesis was a goddess personifying allotment, or the divine distribution to every man of his precise share of fortune, good and bad. It was her special function to see that the proper proportion of individual prosperity was preserved, and that anyone who became too prosperous or was too much uplifted by his prosperity should be reduced or punished.

Amendment Hard to Repeal.

A law of congress can be quickly repealed or altered if it fails to work well, but a Constitutional amendment is practically beyond repeal. Though 36 states are required to put an amendment into the Constitution, it takes only 13 to keep it there, even against the will of all the others.

HER REWARD

By MARGUERITE HAGGERTY

Situated on a lofty height, nestling amid a grove of nature's luxuriant pines and elms, stood an old-fashioned country mansion. On the shady veranda of this ideal beauty spot was seated a sweet-faced girl of seventeen. Her thoughts were not all sunny ones, for every once in a while there would flash across her fair countenance a mournful smile, which, however, would soon become enveloped by a more serene expression. Julia Caverly was loved both home and abroad.

Julia had one pet grievance. Every year she eagerly looked forward to spending her summer at River-view, but the only obstacle to mar her blissful reveries was the forbidding remembrance that her father could spend but one week each summer with them, as his business was such that he could not remain away for any longer period of time.

Suddenly Julia ran in from the porch, as she spied the postman. "Mamma, you know daddy promised to try and spend two weeks with us this summer. I feel sure that I will receive some welcome news from dear old dad today." She leaped in front of the good-natured letter carrier who, however, was not in the least surprised, for he had become accustomed to the young girl's impulsive manners. With a roguish smile she snatched the letter from his hand, and headed toward her mother with all possible speed. She hastily tore open the envelope and devoured the contents. All her joy had fled, as she threw the letter to the floor. "Oh, mamma, I cannot read it aloud. I think the very words would choke me. I don't see how business could be so pressing that daddy could not spare us at least one measly little week."

"Try to forget your troubles for the present, dear," replied her mother, "and run along and prepare for luncheon."

After lunch a bevy of her dearest girl friends arrived, and announced that their yacht was ready to start for a long trip down the river. "The party will start tomorrow," said one of the girls, "so Julia, I thought we would run over to remind you to be ready on time, so we can launch forth early in the morning." "How long do you intend to be away?" asked Julia. "It will be fully two weeks, my bonny lass," was the answer of the spokesman of the group, "so pack up a well-stocked wardrobe."

When the girls had departed Julia informed her mother that she intended to visit Mrs. Jackson, a dear old lady who had been an invalid for a number of years.

The pitiful eyes of the sick woman dilated with joy when she beheld in the doorway the face of her generous little benefactor. A soothing word and a gentle caress from Julia lightened the heart of many a lonely soul, but no love was ever more reciprocal than that which sprang up between Mrs. Jackson and Julia Caverly. A basket of tastily prepared dainties was laid on the table, and after a confidential chat of an hour or so, Mrs. Jackson reluctantly bade good-by to her little friend.

The next morning, Julia, in high spirits, sat waiting with her baggage to join the merry band of sixteen that were due to arrive in a few minutes. Hearing the sound of running steps, she turned around quickly just as a little fellow bobbed up in front of her. "Miss Caverly, do please come in a hurry; Mrs. Jackson is very sick." Julia did not stop to think of her own enjoyment for an instant. The message was unfolded to her mother, and she expressed her intention of leaving immediately to see the sick old lady. Mrs. Caverly protested with her daughter in vain, arguing that she, herself, would tend to the invalid's wants, and not to sacrifice her trip for the sake of being obstinate. Finally Julia overruled all her mother's objections.

That evening as Julia was returning home, after spending the day nursing her loved patient, her heart felt rather heavy, but as soon as she felt any pang of regret she would begin to hum a popular air and hasten her steps homeward. Mrs. Caverly felt exceedingly proud of her generous-hearted daughter that evening as she listened to her relating how Mrs. Jackson was resting very comfortably now, and that she would never forgive herself if she had neglected to respond to her pitiable appeal. Feeling quite fatigued, Julia sank into a lounging chair and soon fell fast asleep.

Creeping cautiously behind her chair, her father placed his hands gently over her eyes, while her mother, nearby, laughingly said: "Wake up, Julia, dear, and guess who your blindfolded is." "None other than my own dear daddy," exclaimed the excited girl. "Are you glad to see me, Julia, dear?" coaxingly asked her father. To reassure him of her sincere affection, Julia gave him a hug and a kiss. Her father chuckled with delight as he continued: "That was certainly a huge joke to send you that letter yesterday, but I wanted to completely surprise you by paying a full week's visit." "Daddy, you surely are a fine rogue. You can thank Mrs. Jackson, however, for seeing me here today. Why, I would be sailing far out on the water by this time, only her temporary sick spell detained me. But oh! Daddy, you old dear, I would gladly exchange any pleasure trip just to be with you."

Wouldn't Scare Doggie.

Margaret was desperately afraid of dogs. As she saw one approaching, the other day, she ran to her father, trying to hide beside him, saying: "Papa, let me hide by you till doggie passes; he's afraid of me."

It's Drawing Near To Chautauqua Time!

Hon. Frank B. Willis who Lectures on "Perils and Problems"

If you are wise you'll plan right now to put away all thoughts of work and worry during Chautauqua time.

For from every standpoint this year's program presents the most compelling attractions ever offered this community.

There is, for instance, the masterly and matchless oratory of Ex-Governor Willis of Ohio, that champion of the truer Nationalism who will lecture on "Perils and Problems" of the present day.

And Governor Willis is but one of a series of tremendously powerful lecturers featured during Chautauqua week.

James S. Knox will lecture on "Community Efficiency," George P. Bible will tell of "New Fads and Fancies" and Mother Lake will plead with her hearers to give greater consideration to "The Divine Rights of the Child."

From the standpoint of entertainment, there will be no dull moments. Musical treats from Scotland and Hawaii, dainty costumed concerts by the Mozart Orchestral Ladies, the presentation of "Just Plain Judy" and other stories, spoken songs and cartoons with Hettie Jane Dunaway taking all the parts—and a smashing series of concerts by Victor's Columbian Band—these are among the mental relaxations of the week.

FOUND ONE SENTRY ALERT

Captain Satisfied No Enemy Would Get by the Colored Soldier Who Challenged His Commander.

"I was recently breaking in a squad of raw country negroes," remarked Captain C—, stationed at a Virginia camp not far from Washington, "and, despite their and my good intentions, it was not proving the easiest task in the world, since most of them knew much better how to follow a band than military rules. This particular group gave me a lot of hard work and I kept pretty close watch on them. One night I decided to give my sentries a surprise visit, but had not got far on my rounds when I was stopped with a peremptory:

"Halt! Who goes dar?"

"I gave the word, but was again brought up with a sharp: 'Halt again! I want to know who you is!'"

"Your commanding officer," was my answer, which did not suffice, as my sentry came back quickly with:

"Dat's all right, sub, but is you got de right to go traipsin' roun' camp at dis ungodly time o' night?"

"Don't you know whether or not I have such a right? I answered him sternly. 'It's your business to know.'"

"Excuse me, Cap'n, but I was'n quite sho'," he said—and in a perfectly respectful tone—"an' I axed you fer information when I wanted to know ef you did have de right to go prowl-in' roun' dis here camp like er hant (ghost)?"

"He got his answer, and I am sure of one of my sentries at least."

Modern Military Balloons.

Great improvements have been made in the construction of kite balloons in the past two years, according to Henry Woodhouse, the leading American aircraft authority. In Everybody's he says: "The old design based on the original German drachen balloon was sausage-shaped and could stand little wind above 30 miles per hour. The present design used by the allies, and to some extent by the Germans, is based on the design of Captain Caquou of the French army. It is pear-shaped on one side and has three huge fins, one on each side and one underneath the aft end of the gas-bag. On the ground these fins give it the appearance of a huge elephant.

"This type of military balloon is much steeper and safer than the old type and can stand a wind of up to 60 miles an hour. They are from 70 to 80 feet in diameter, and have a hydrogen capacity of from 20,000 to 25,000 cubic feet."

More Women Dentists?

Dentistry as a profession may have few attractions generally, especially for women. Nevertheless, it does afford steady and, in many cases, highly remunerative work, candidates for which cannot but be reduced in number by the exigencies of the war. A certain branch of dental work known as dental mechanics offers a field which seems peculiarly suited to women, or, at any rate, to those who have the natural dexterity and fineness of touch usually possessed by them. Dental mechanics do not, of course, extend their training to the surgical side of their undertaking, though those qualifying as dental surgeons have to be adequately expert mechanics—the greater includes the less, here as elsewhere—but the work is fairly lucrative and distinctly regular, so that it seems certain that more and more of it will fall into the hands of competent women in the future.

The British Officer.

A young American soldier, writing home to his mother, and referring to the British officer, remarked that he always thought of him as a monocoed dandy, too effeminate for hard usage; but never again. He found him cool, resourceful, and unaffected in danger, taking his daily hazardous duties as a matter of course, and setting an example to his men, and a solicitude for their welfare, that inspired the utmost confidence in them. It is no new picture, but fittingly portrays his character, for generations past.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Long Undersea Tunnel Planned.

Plans for a railway tunnel, costing approximately $7,000,000, and extending more than seventeen thousand feet under the sea for about one-fourth of its length, have been made in Japan. The bore will pass beneath the Mōri straits, connecting Shimonoseki and Dairi, making possible a junction with the railway trunk line of Kiushu. It is estimated that five years will be required to complete the project.

China May Restore Canals.

China, in its pressing need for transportation facilities, is considering the restoration of its old-time system of canals, of which there were at one time 60,000 miles within the empire. Centuries before the Christian era the great rivers of the celestial empire were diverted from their natural courses to form these ancient waterways.

No Proof.

Bacon—I see a statement in the paper that the Chinese cultivate odorless onions.

Egbert—But how can they tell they are onions, then?

Delicate Mechanism

Despite its scope Swift & Company is a business of infinite details, requiring infinite attention.

Experienced men must know livestock buying with a knowledge of weight, price, the amount and quality of meat the live animals will yield.

Each manufacturing operation must be done with expert skill and scientific precision. A highly perishable product must be handled with speed and care to avoid loss.

Chemists, engineers, accountants, and other specialists are required to take care of our intricate problems.

Alert wisdom and judgment must be used in getting stocks of goods into the open channels of demand through our four hundred branch houses. Branch house organizations must show activity and energy to sell at the market in the face of acute competition from other large packers, and hundreds of small ones.

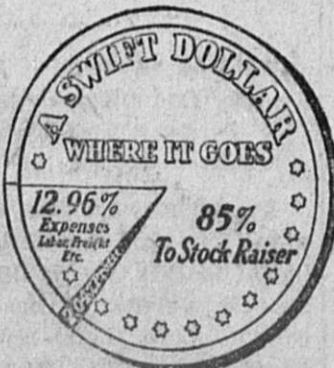

All these requirements of intelligence, loyalty, devotion to the task, are met in the personnel of Swift & Company. Yet the profit is only a fraction of a cent per pound with costs at minimum.

How can the workings of this delicate human mechanism be improved upon?

Do you believe that Government direction would add to our efficiency or improve the service rendered the producer and consumer?
