THE U. OF M. FOOTBALL TEAM

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 23—That the lure of Yost is as great as in former years is shown by the flock of gridiron candidates who have returned to Ann Arbor for preliminary football work under the famous Michigan coach.

Men are here from nine different states and the District of Columbia, many of them drawn by the consistent string of victories won by Yost. The Michigan coach won 124 games in the 18 years he has been at Michigan. In that period his teams have lost but 20 games, while eight have been tied.

A record such as this is bound to prove attractive to successful school athletes, and as a result each fall sees youthful football men flocking toward Ann Arbor in large numbers.

Angus Goetz, captain of the 1919 team, and star tackle for the past two seasons, hails from DeTour, Mich., just outside Sault Ste. Marie. A B. Weston, quarterback, and Harold Rye, halfback, are two other veterans of former seasons who made their high school reputation at the Soo.

Clifford Sparks, star quarter and half in 1916 and 1917, comes from Jackson, Grand Rapids sent down Hugh Wilson, Elmer Cress and Alvin Loucks, while Saginaw is the home of Arthur Woodcock, Ward Culver, William Henderson, Ted Boville and William Cruse are from Detroit.

Henry Viek is a Toledo man, while Willard Peach comes from Fremont. O. R. J. Dumme is from Chicago, the third of a group of brothers all of whom played on Michigan teams.

Kenneth Knode lives in Martinsburg, W. Va. Vinton Hammels came all the way from Glendale, Ariz. to play under Yost. Francis Cysz, a varsity tackle, hails from Dunkirk, N. Y., and William Fortune is from Springfield, Ill. man. Fortune played a guard last year. Gerald Froemke lives in Sheldon, N. D., while Charles Eades is a Conneaut, O. product.

Practically all of these men have been in service, and in many cases they have not been heard from since leaving Ann Arbor. One by one they have drifted back, however, until now Coach Yost has the most imposing set of football candidates seen on Ferry field in recent years.

They come from as far east as the Atlantic coast and as far west as Arizona to answer the call of Yost, and the Michigan coach admits that it looks like a big Michigan year.

THE FAIR AT HALE

A very enthusiastic fair and get together day was held at Hale September 18th, when the Grangers and farmers of that vicinity met for a good profitable day. A fine display of quality produce of surrounding farms was made; the exhibits of corn, potatoes, pumpkin and squash, and good displays of fruit and fancy work attracted considerable attention.

The ribbons Iosco county won at the state fair also was the subject of much comment.

Grant Slocum, founder of the Gleaner organization was the principal speaker. Splendid competition among the people in the races and stunts and something doing every minute made everyone hope that a fair be held next year also.

CLOVER SEED NOTES

All signs indicate that clover seed will cost considerable money next spring. At sowing time the cost will be almost prohibitive. Many predictions of clover seed costing from $40 to $50 a bushel have been made. If clover seed is going to cost anywhere near this price a person can not afford to take chances on not getting a good stand. It will be safety first to use a liberal supply of limestone to assure proper soil conditions for the successful growth of the small plant.

When clover seed is high, it is a good policy to sow less seed, and spend the money saved to purchase lime to make better conditions for the less amount of seed sown. Sowing limestone on the wheat or rye ground, or on fall plowed land, this fall will insure a better stand of clover another year, and will also help the crop it is sown with. Limestone is not expensive, and a community can handle it very economically.

M. A. C. SHORT COURSE BULLETINS AT COUNTY AGENT'S OFFICE

Nearly every department of agriculture may be studied in an efficient and economical way by attending one of the short courses offered at M. A. C. this winter. Courses in general agriculture, cow testing, and barn management, creamery management, horticulture, poultry, gardening, beekeeping, farm engineering, and truck and tractor work are offered. A limited number of bulletins are in the county agent's office, and any young man of 16 years of age who is interested will do well to talk the matter of attending one of these "condensed" courses over with the county agent.

SEED CORN SELECTIONS

There is no need for a farmer not having plenty of good corn next spring. There are many fields of excellent corn in the county this year. Of course the best method of getting the seed corn is going into the field with a sack, and picking the ears from the stalk, selecting only those which are growing in full sized hills where competition is equal, and ignoring the large ears growing where there is a single stalk in a hill. Large ears make a nice show, but when planted in competition the next year, will not yield as well as seed picked from good sized hills.

The same holds true with potatoes. Iosco County potato fields are at least 40 per cent diseased, and most of this disease could be eliminated in one year by going into the field and selecting the seed from hills which have healthy leaves which are held out flat, and are not rolled up, or wilted. Time is valuable, but time spent in field selection of corn and potatoes is worth at least $40 an hour. Sounds fishy, but it is true.

WARNING

We wish to say to the public that anyone who is seen going through the property owned by A. M. Jameison will be dealt with according to law. There is no need of traveling the trail running through our property for there is a public road alongside of the farm. We also wish to say that a $50 reward will be given to the person giving information on any damages done.

DEATH OF MRS. HENRY HELDBERG

Mrs. Henry Heldberg died at her home here last Saturday morning about eight o'clock, after an illness of over two years.

Elizabeth Badenhop was born in Germany, in 1886 and came to this country with her parents at the age of five years. The family made their home in Ohio and there, Nov. 6, 1905, she married Henry Heldberg. Shortly after their marriage they came to Michigan and made their home in Barton City until 1913 when they came to East Tawas. Five children were born to them, all of whom with the bereaved husband, are left to mourn the loss of a wife and mother's tender care and wise guidance. The children are: Esther, Gustave, Luetta, Helen and Hannah. The aged parents and other relatives also survive. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at 10:30 from the German church in Tawas City, of which the deceased had been a life long and faithful member.

Interment was in the cemetery belonging to that church. The pall bearers were: Herman Hempel, William Boldt, Emil Kasisehke, Chris. Hoshbach, Otto Zollweg and Herman Gaul.

Those from out of town in attendance at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Badenhop, parents of the deceased and Mr. Herman Badenhop, a brother, all of Barton City, also two uncles of Mr. Heldberg from Ohio.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the husband and to the little children who are so early in life deprived of their mother's care.

SUDDARDS—NORSTROM

Edward L. Norstrom of Detroit, eldest son of Mrs. Nell Norstrom and formerly an East Tawas boy was united in marriage Saturday evening, September 5, to Miss Ivy Suddards of Detroit. The marriage took place at Edison Beach, a beautiful summer resort, where a number of the relatives of the bride have been spending the summer. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill of Detroit, the latter a sister to the groom.

The bride came from England on the last passenger boat before war was declared so this is the result of another romance brought about by the World War.

The groom was born in East Tawas and grew to young manhood here, where he was popular with the young people as well as the older ones and many friends extend to them best wishes for a bright and happy married life.

WHAT NEXT?

Under the caption of "Easy Existence of the Average Country Paper," the Elmore (Minn.) Eye in a recent edition editorially portrayed the editor's viewpoint on the existing conditions and the need of reconstruction: "An invoice of our condition, following the recent and yet present strenuous times of war and reconstruction, discloses the fact that the newspapers are yet a great power for good despite the fact that we have been held up, held down, sandbagged, walked on, sat on, flattened out and squeezed—first by the United States government for publicity for war tax, Liberty loan bonds, excess profits and income tax; for state, county and city highway tax; for auto tax and every other tax and syntax; and by every society and organization that inventive mind of man can invent to extract from the newspapers their stock in trade free for nothing; by the Society of John the Baptist, the G. A. R., the Woman's Relief, the Men's Relief, Relief for Stomach Ache; the Navy league, the Red Cross, the Iron Cross, the Double Cross, and every other cross of all colors, until a newspaper looks like a Maltese Cross; by the Y. M. C. A., the Old Folks' home, the Children's home, the Aid society and every hospital in the country.

"The government has so governed our business that we do not know who owns it. We have been inspected, suspected, examined and re-examined, informed, required and commanded until we don't know who, where or why we are.

"All we know it that we are supposed to be possessed of an inexhaustible supply of "white space" for every known need, desire or hope of the human race, and because we will not give it all away and go out and beg, borrow or steal money to live on we are cursed, discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, robbed and nearly ruined, and the only reason we keep grinding on and getting out the old sheet is to see what in heck they'll ask for next."

NEW TREASURY CERTIFICATES ARE LIKE BABY BONDS.

The new Treasury certificates of $100 and $1,000 denominations are like "Baby Bonds." Here are the chief facts about them:

They are tax free, except inheritance, surtaxes, war profits and excess profits taxes.

They bear 4 per cent interest, compounded quarterly.

They mature January 1, 1924.

They may be cashed at the option of the holder for purchase price plus accrued interest any time before maturity date.

They never depreciate in value, but increase monthly, guaranteed by U. S. Government.

They are registered in Washington, which prevents loss by fire or theft. Each bears inscribed thereon the name of purchaser.

Certificates are issued in book form, each book containing ten certificates.

The $100 certificate costs the same as twenty War Savings Stamps. The $1,000 certificate costs the same as 200 War Savings Stamps.

$100 certificates can be obtained at any post office.

Both $100 and $1,000 certificates may be obtained at banks.

$100 certificates increase 20 cents and the $1,000 two dollars a month in price.

The cost by months is as follows:

Month	$100 Certificate	$1,000 Certificate
September	$84.00	$840.00
October	84.20	842.00
November	84.40	844.00
December	84.60	846.00

Bird Rebuked.

Marguerite was accustomed to being told by her mother to keep still when any grown-up person present was speaking. One day her mother was telling something interesting when a canary in the room commenced singing at its loudest. Marguerite climbed upon a chair to the cage and shaking her finger at the bird said in a commanding tone, "You keep still! Don't you hear my mamma talking?"

World's Largest Crater.

Dr. B. F. Griggs, who has been exploring the volcano of Mt. Katmai, in Alaska, for the National Geographical society, announces that this is the greatest crater in the world, being no less than nine miles in circumference and 3,960 feet in depth.

TRI-COUNTY Y. M. C. A. NEWS

Fall in! Right dress! Front! All right. You're a fine looking bunch, but a little slow. Who said he wanted to be a scout? What, all of you? Get busy and register then. Shake a leg and make it snappy. Not enough for a live troop yet. Enrollments will close Oct. 1. See Mr. Braddock, Rev. McAndrews or A. R. Gold.

Boys from each group will take subscriptions for the Red Cross Magazine at the county fair. Commissions will be used for troops equipment.

Poultry Club members are advised by Carl Schmidt to feed their chickens well and keep them growing and an exhibition will be arranged some time in October or November.

Boys in the rural schools who are interested in athletics will have a chance to show their talent. A plan is being worked out under the direction of the county school commissioner whereby all boys may take part in a township track meeting and the champions take part in a county meet. The plans will be supplied in detail to each teacher.

If you hear a good yarn please tell the "Y" scribe. We want to have folks read this column. There may be some who won't believe the following, but I solemnly swear that it is partly true.

MOTOR CAR HELPS CREATE MARKET

In the olden days it was only the corn doctor, the bric-a-brac salesman and a few others of their ilk who toured from town to town demonstrating and selling their wares. Now almost everybody is doing it. The most substantial business houses have gone extensively into the personal demonstration business appreciating the value of getting in direct contact with the market. But instead of the old tumbledown spring wagon and weary horse, they use fine, speedy and reliable motor cars. It is the motor car, in fact, that is largely responsible for the new method of advertising. It affords them the wide range and the fleetness which in the former days made such sales methods costly and cumbersome.

Many of the largest concerns in the country have bought cars solely for demonstration purposes. Among them are the Fisher Flouring Mills of Seattle. "Blend," the company's dusky chef, is making a tour of Washington, Oregon and Idaho, making mouths water everywhere with his appetizing Scotch "scones" and biscuits. The baking is done in an electric oven with which his business car is equipped. Great crowds collect about the car whenever it stops and "Blend" dishes out the delicacies as fast as he can make them. The car is artfully decorated with the company's name and trademark and is proving to be an extremely valuable advertisement.

The result with the first car have been so satisfactory that the Fisher Company has ordered another, similarly equipped.

As soon as the present tour is completed the car will be sent back over the same route with a window dressing equipment.

Division of Samoan Islands.
 By the agreement of December 2, 1899, among the United States, Great Britain and Germany, the Samoan Islands were divided between the United States and Germany. Great Britain retiring and accepting compensation for her retirement in the form of colonial concessions elsewhere in the world. This agreement ended a long series of outbreaks and disorders in the islands amounting to a state of civil war, due, it was charged, to the intrigues and aggressions of the Germans.

Good Rules for Life's Conduct.
 Those that are perfect men do not easily give credit to everything one tells them; for they know that human frailty is prone to evil, and very subject to fall inwardly. It is great wisdom not to be rash in their proceedings, not to stand stiffly in their own conceits; as also not to believe everything which they hear, nor presently to relate again to others what they have heard or do not believe.

ROOKIE ATONED FOR FAULT
 Call it "Fisherman's Luck," if You Will, He Came Out of Scrape With Coveted Decoration.

At Aix a strange story was told of an American soldier who will probably abandon fishing for the rest of his life. It seems that the rookie had heard it said that one could readily catch fish with a hand grenade, the method being to proceed to the lair of the fish and hurl the hand grenade into the water. The grenade, exploding, would kill all the fish in the neighborhood, and one could gather in a plentiful harvest. So our hero set forth one evening and, reaching a not far distant canal, he threw in his hand grenade. No doubt it killed a fish or so, but, unfortunately, so intent was he on his job that he had not noticed a barge hard by. The grenade nearly blew the barge and the barge and his family out of France, and did such mighty damage to boat and boatmen that, although for the moment flight enabled the culprit to escape arrest, it was quite clear that, when discovered, as he would inevitably be, he would suffer very severe punishment. It cannot be permitted to blow French barges up with impunity. A court-martial and death were the least that the wretch expected. That night there was an attack on the American sector. Our man went over the top a desperate rookie. He had determined to die a glorious death rather than submit to a shameful end. The result was that, single-handed, he killed seven Germans, and, seizing a machine gun, turned it on the enemy, thereby saving a ticklish situation. Picking up the machine gun, after it had done sufficient damage, he carried it back toward his own line, but, en route, he fell into a German trench and on top of a German postman. This postman was laden with mail for the regiment or company ousted from the trench; cigars and other delicacies were among his burdens. As the officer who told the story said, the rookie murdered the postman and, seizing several bags of mail, bore them, in addition to his machine gun, back to his own people. His record for the day's work was not only deemed sufficient to condone for his fishing escapade, but to his astonishment he received a medal for distinguished conduct in the field. He was decorated! Fisherman's luck with a vengeance!—Scribner's Magazine.

THE STORY OF "8 ACRES AND LIBERTY" BY ONE WHO TRIED IT OUT

Thirty years ago Joe Pero ran the leading barber shop in West Bay City. Then the Chicago World's fair came along, the lure of the big city caught Joe and he went to Chicago, where he bought a shop and where he was making fairly good money. He paid $45 a month for a flat in which he lived and both he and Mrs. Pero thought they were contented until one night Joe complimented his wife on the appearance of the flat and she replied that "if I never have a better home than this, I will always be happy." Joe's story of what followed is best told in his own words.
 "I thought a minute and then I said, 'Flo, this isn't a home. Don't you know that if something should happen we didn't have the $45 for that landlord when he came around here the first of the month our home would be out there on the curb?'
 The wife looked at me in surprise for a minute and then said, 'That's a fact, Joe. I never thought of that before.' And from that moment Flo was discontented with our Chicago home, which was really in a good location, for we could look out over Lincoln Park from our front window and we had every comfort that could be had in a flat. But from that time on my wife's main ambition was to have a home that we could really call our own, and she didn't want it in Chicago. She wanted it in some place where we could have elbow room and real neighbors. That was just after the World's Fair.
 "We took little trips every summer during my vacation and a year or so later started for Bay City, intending to go up the Detroit & Mackinac and down the Michigan Central, stopping at some of the towns and looking around to see if there was something that suited us. Somehow or other we got into Omer one afternoon and couldn't get out until the next morning and were induced to take a drive over to Standish. Something about Standish appealed to Mrs. Pero and instead of returning to Omer and completing our trip we spent the next day here and the upshot was that I bought eight acres of land, with a house on it, about a mile outside of the town and we didn't finish our trip to Mackinaw. After a few days we returned to Chicago but the next spring Mrs. Pero couldn't stand the big city any longer. She wanted to be starting our real home and she came to Standish and lived on the little farm, which she had christened "8 Acres of Liberty," and I remained in Chicago running the shop for about two years, but getting away for a week or so at the "ranch" three or four times a year, for two years, and then I sold out in Chicago and came here, too. Mrs. Pero had started to raise chickens and I put quite a lot of money into that and lost it. I don't know why, but anyway, the chicken business wasn't a success as we ran it. I had started a barber shop in town and was doing well there, so the loss didn't really cripple us. Then several years ago a friend urged me to try bees and finally I started out with four hives, took all the bee magazines I could get hold of, bought a lot of books on bee culture and we went at it to learn how to do it right. Our swarms increased naturally and we bought some new ones occasionally, until now we have over 100 and last year, with 60 swarms at the beginning of the year and in spite of its being a poor season, our bees netted us nearly $1,000 clear profit.
 "Of course my shop keeps me busy nearly all the time during the week, and I want my wife to have credit for being the real manager of the bee business, for she looks after it and does most of the work. If anything happens that I am needed a telephone call gets me out to the ranch in my car in about two minutes, and on Sundays I am a real busy boy with these bees, but I want to impress on you one thing—we have lived in the medium sized city and in the big city but the years we have spent on "8 Acres of Liberty" have brought us more happiness and contentment than we ever had before and we wouldn't go back to the old life for worlds."
 A visit to the "8 Acres of Liberty" was made later and Mrs. Pero was found and confirmed all that Joe had said about their outlook upon life. "I wouldn't live in Chicago again," she said, "if they would give me the finest flat building there is in the city."
 There was a lot more talk about bees, about the vast fields of clover which grow everywhere in Northeastern Michigan, the wild flowers which come before the clover and the buckwheat and goldenrod, which come after the clover is done blossoming and the fact that, for "pasturing the bees," one has to make no investment in either land or fences.
 "There are hundreds of men and women living in the small towns, either in business or employment by others, who could easily add hundreds of dollars a year to their incomes by doing what we have done, and there are thousands more in the cities, discontented and really homeless, in the sense of a real home, who could find contentment and happiness as we have found it," said Mrs. Pero, in ending the interview. "Possibly bees wouldn't appeal to all of them, but they are making good for us and the capacity of Northeastern Michigan, the great home of the clover and the wild flowers, for providing honey for the tables of the country is unlimited."

BISHOP LAUDS WORK OF MINISTERS IN FRANCE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—Just back from five months of service with the American Forces in France, where he preached to more than 200,000 soldiers, Bishop Charles Boyard Mitchell of St. Paul, Minn., is warmly enthusiastic over the work accomplished there by American clergymen.
 "The ministers of all denominations sent to France were of the highest grade," he said. "Their team work was splendid. It will result in much closer co-operation among the churches at home."
 He believes the A. E. F. will prove a fruitful field for the recruiting of men for the ministry.
 "Men found themselves over there," he declared. "They no longer will be content to do humdrum things. They have learned something of leadership, one of the great needs of the church."
 "It was the greatest experience of my own ministry. I prized most the privilege of personal interviews with thousands of students in our university centers at Toulouse, Beaune, Besancon, Dijon, Lyons, Meno Polier and Lengre. Here our troops were continuing the studies they had interrupted at home. These students were the pick of the army. Countless numbers to whom they intended to devote their lives to service on their return to America."
 Speaking as a Methodist, he declared France was ripe now for evangelistic work. He declares the church ought to go in and give to millions the spiritual aid they now lack.

The Braganza diamond is a mystery. Very few people have been allowed the privilege of looking at it, and of these few some are of the opinion it is not a diamond at all but merely a wonderful specimen of white topaz. At any rate, it is generally conceded to be a diamond. It is considered the jewel supreme among the crown jewels of the late reigning house of Portugal, the ancestral family of the duke of Braganza.

POTATOES

Farmers, aren't potatoes well sold at the DOLLAR? And isn't it a fact that there is more money in growing potatoes at One Dollar per bushel, than in any other crop that can be grown? Records of the past ten years show that with the exception of one year potatoes brought a higher price on the start of the buying season, than they did at any other time of the fall season. And with the exception of two times did they bring as much or more on the spring market.

From October 15th to November 15th, the rush of the late potato crop is on from Maine, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado and Michigan and as a result the large city markets are flooded with potatoes and embargoes are placed against any more potato cars coming in, and the result is freezing time comes on and the potato market takes a heavy drop in price.

Therefore, judging the future by the past, would it not be good business to RUSH your potatoes on the market and get the DOLLAR.

Sincerely Yours,
W. M. McCaskey, the POTATO man. Phone 61. adv-45

SHORT COURSES PLANNED FOR MICHIGAN FARM BOYS

East Lansing, Sept. 22—Special short courses in agriculture, planned especially for Michigan farm boys and girls, will be given by the Michigan Agriculture College during the coming winter. The first of these courses, that in general agriculture, open on October 27, while others will start as late as March 1, at which time the second truck and tractor school will begin.

More interest is being taken in the winter courses than ever before, according to Ashley M. Berridge, Director. Many young men who are unable to take the four year course at the college will take advantage of the special work in preparing for scientific agricultural pursuits. Increased interest in all farming is partly responsible for the large numbers of inquiries that are coming into the director's office.

Nearly every phase of agriculture is covered in one or other of the short courses, which include work in general agriculture, cow testing and barn management, creamery management, horticulture, poultry, gardening, beekeeping, farm engineering, and truck and tractor work. The courses are open to all Michigan boys and girls over 16 years of age.

Catalogs and full information regarding the work may be had by writing to the Director of Winter Courses, M. A. C., East Lansing.

DEFY FATHER TIME

Passing Years Need Not Bring Uselessness.

California Writer Arises in Wrath to Deny That Seventy-Two Should Be Considered "Ripe Old Age."

A newspaper item, a few days ago, stated that a certain man named So-and-so died "at the ripe old age of seventy-two."

Commenting on this the Los Angeles Times says that seventy-two is not a ripe old age and adds:

A ripe old age is an age when the person who has attained it is ready for old Father Time to come along and pluck him from the tree of life. If you will take a bird's-eye view of the activities of the world at the present hour, or even if you will look about you in your own community, you will see that men and women of seventy-two are among the foremost hustlers everywhere.

Active heads of great nations, big business men in the biggest businesses, leaders and go-getters of all descriptions in every direction you look have passed the seventy-two mark and are still going strong.

Why, a man should be about at his best at the age of seventy-two. And it is at that age that women should really begin to enjoy life in high-heeled shoes, short skirts and a hat with roses all over it.

Cato did not begin the study of Greek until he was eighty years of age, and it was at the same age that Plutarch began the study of Latin. Hobbes, the English philosopher, published his best book when he was eighty-seven, and Chevreul, forever immortal in scientific research, was busy as a bee at his work in his one hundred and second year.

One of the most active lawyers of the Los Angeles county bar is past his ninetieth year, and we know of another Los Angeles man who has just been appointed cashier of a new bank at the age of seventy-four.

In short, the cold fact is that seventy-two is very far indeed from being "a ripe old age."

On the other hand, of course, a man can let himself be old at any age. There are lots of men who are old at thirty, but it is a state of mind with them and not a physical condition, even though they may not be in good health.

As to women, we very well know that it was the fashion for them to be old and fear ruffled caps at forty. But that isn't the case now, by any means. Think of Lillian Russell, Sara Bernhardt and Schumann-Heink, merely to mention some of the more prominent women of our time.

We would go so far as to say that age is a question of what way we look at it. That "a man is as old as he feels and a woman as old as she looks," is, indeed, a very good saying. A man is a fool not to feel all right, and a woman may be trusted never to "look" old if she is the woman she ought to be.

It is a great idea for a man when he is anywhere between fifty and seventy to mentally start all over again as though he had set out, like a boy, upon the great adventure of life.

Instead of spending his time then in vain regrets, let him resolve to attain all that he has missed. Let him, above all things else, renew his enthusiasm. Let him go to the circus again and buy peanuts for the elephant; let him go, stark, into an old swimming hole; whenever he hears a hand let him follow it till he has lost the way home.

It shall be just as we think about it. We are to remember that we shall live only once on this earth, and that we will be a long time dead.

His Achievements.

"I have been in business here at the old stand for thirty-four years," admitted the proprietor of the Right Place Store in Putnam. "During that time 27,050, in round numbers, fresh rum drummers have tried to talk me into buying rare bargains that I didn't want, and 13,525 well-meaning lunkheads have left the door open when I ought to have been shut. I have listened with a crocodile smile to something like 48,743 old stories and no more than two dozen new ones. I have 'urnished settin' places for all the prominent and influential loafers of the community, and have had two tons of prunes, cheese and ginger-snaps et up by 'em. I am thirty-four years old or there or I was when I began, and very little wiser or richer. I have trusted almost everybody who has asked me so, and some of them cheated me and others didn't. So, speaking biological, I s'pose I don't think any worse of my feller citizens than they do of me."

—Kansas City Star.

Mount Ararat Now a Republic.

The announcement of the formation of "the Independent Republic of Ararat" will brush away the fallacy which regards Ararat as just a mountain instead of a country, albeit the very mountain on which the ark rested when the waters of the Deluge began to abate. Genesis is explicit enough to have prevented the mistake. It might be thought; it says quite distinctly: "The ark rested upon the mountains of Ararat." In its day, Ararat was a great power, holding sway far to the east and to the west. But to western Europe Ararat has long been known as the place where the dove first plucked the olive branch and returned with her message of hope to the Ark.
