When a "Road Closed" sign is posted practically everybody observes it. But there's always a few wise guys who think it cunning to disregard the signs. In fact, they have even been known to tear down the barricade that has been erected and drive over unfinished roads, much to the damage of the road and the annoyance of the builders. Among the new laws which went into effect last week is one that provides a fine of $50 or a county jail term for doing this very thing. An arrest or two in connection with this matter will have a tendency to show these people that they do not own the road.

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, His Excellency, the Governor of Michigan, has directed the attention of the people of Michigan to the nation-wide movement to provide suitable memorials to the late Theodore Roosevelt, and

Whereas the citizens of Tawas City will wish to cooperate with all other communities in our commonwealth in furthering the aims and purposes of this highly commendable undertaking, by the contribution of their efforts and their gifts:

I, therefore, Mayor of the City of Tawas City take pleasure in urging the cordial cooperation of every man, woman and child in the city, without regard to their party affiliations, in order that there may be a full expression of our esteem for the Great American and our desire to assist in perpetuating his memory, in order that the principle of Americanism of which he was the outstanding exponent, may be preserved to future generations.

I suggest that the people of Tawas City observe by means of special exercises in the schools and a general public assemblage in the evening of the twenty-seventh day of October, the anniversary of Roosevelt's birth.

JNO. A. MYLES,
Mayor of Tawas City.

TRI-COUNTY Y. NOTES

The county secretary was in Alcona county all last week speaking at a series of Sunday school conventions the last of which was held at Mikado Oct. 12th. The Alcona County Sunday school Association went on record in favor of Saturday afternoon athletics as a substitute for the much abused and discussed Sunday baseball.

Another step forward was the adoption of a resolution recommending an Alcona county Summer Camp as a means for training of boys for leadership. The work of the rural Y. M. C. A., received a formal endorsement and the association pledged to work for a stronger community spirit.

The Boy Scouts of Harrisville are reorganizing for another year and Harrisville high school with other schools of the county are planning athletics for the coming season.

There will be three troops of scouts in the Tawas. East Tawas has already enrolled enough for one troop, Tawas City has enough paid memberships for another, and St. Joseph's school will hold a meeting shortly for the final organization of a third.

Several schools will meet at Whittemore on Friday for a demonstration of mass games and athletics.

TAWAS CITY'S TURN MAY COME SOON

State constabulary men are rounding up auto violators in the different localities and last week the quiet town of Flushing furnished 21 arrests in one evening. The justice had had no occasion to act in the capacity of his office and for a time next day his place had the appearance of a big reunion for as fast as one bunch was disposed of another was waiting. Parking without lights, driving without tail lights, driving without driver's license and several other of the very things that occur in Chesaning. They will probably be here unexpectedly some day or evening so it's up to autoists to have a care just how they are obeying the laws.—Chesaning Monitor.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Last Sunday was a great day. Crowded house both morning and evening. Twenty-one new recruits of the local and Hemlock road Baptist churches were baptised by the pastor. Next Sunday morning the ordination of baptism will again be administered.

In the afternoon the best group of pictures illustration of the entire collection will be shown. Services each night excepting Saturday.

The special meetings will close with the Sunday evening service. Everybody is invited.

C. A. Ehrhardt, pastor.

COUNTY AGENT COLUMN

THE FARMER AND PRICE AGITATION

The result of the high cost of living agitation has been to decrease food prices temporarily at the expense of future production. The recent drop of $5.00 a hundred in hogs, $3.00 in cattle and 50¢ a bushel in corn has taken the profits away from the farmers in this year's crop of livestock and grain, and in many cases more. Nothing the farmer buys has decreased.

The drop in cattle and hog prices has hardly been noticed in the consumer's meat bill. But it has cut the farmers return so much that he is cutting down the number of sows to be bred for next year's pig crop. Cattle feeders are afraid to buy feeds in view of the uncertainty of a profitable market for the finished cattle.

The agitation against food prices is doing the consumer little good. It is rather doing him harm in that in six months or a year from now there will be a serious shortage of food. Farmers can not be expected to sell products at less than cost of production to sell his products for less than he can sell his products for less than cost of production. That is one of the reasons why there are so many real estate transfers at the present time.

Many inexperienced city people who have saved up a little money are buying farms. These people will not produce as much on the same land as an experienced farmer. Reports show shortages in nearly every crop grown in the country this year. Before new crops come in another year there will be serious food shortage, and both the farmer and consumer will suffer, because storage houses are buying in produce at as low a figure as possible from the farmer, and will hold for a high price to the consumer.

In the face of high costs of labor and farm supplies, with an agitation against food prices which is forcing these prices below cost of production there is only one thing for the farmer to do—cut expenses and operate on a decreased scale of production. This will mean a shortage, with correspondingly high prices to the consumer next year. Then the masses of the people will blame the farmer for the high cost of living when the blame belongs to the men who are responsible for the agitation which has brought the price of farm products below the cost of production.

NORTHEAST MICHIGAN LIVESTOCK

There were shipped last week from Mills Station by the Anderson Ranch, 3,300 head of lambs which filled fourteen double deck cars. The lambs filled the road for a distance of a quarter of a mile. It is said they are about the best looking flock of lambs ever shipped from this county.

THE FARM BUREAU

It is a sad condition which caused the poor showing of the Farm Bureau in Iosco County. The Farm Bureau is now being organized in the various counties in the state, and the most progressive farmers are seeing the light. The influence of the Farm Bureau in all legislative matters has been greater in the Legislature and in Congress than any other farm organization. Many farm organizations can see why a non secret, non sectarian organization of farmers with a real purpose will get results. Only those interested in promoting the welfare of the community are asked to belong, and who is not interested in the community? Unless a farmer puts something into an organization, he can expect to get nothing out. That is why the farm bureau is supported. You get your moneys worth.

DEATH OF WILLIAM GEORGE DAVEY

William George Davey, for forty-six years a resident of East Tawas, passed to the Great Beyond last Saturday evening, Oct. 4, at 6:30, after an illness of years, the cause of death being dropsy and heart trouble.

Mr. Davey was born in Saltash, Cornwall, England, May 4, 1857 and came to Hamilton, Ont. with his parents twelve years later. The family afterward removed to Chicago and were sufferers from the big fires of 1871 and 1873. Immediately after the big fire of 1873 the family came to East Tawas, where the deceased made his continuous residence until his death with the exception of one year which he spent in Alabaster.

October 23, 1884, he was united in marriage with Miss Matilda Turvey, in this city, and eight children were born to them. Two little daughters died in infancy and another daughter, Miss Hazel, died two years ago last April. The surviving children are Edith, Cora, George, Ida and Agnes. There are also four grandchildren.

Mr. Davey was for over fifteen years district deputy for the Maccabees and was well known among the Maccabees of this district as a tireless worker in their interests. Later he became district deputy for the Modern Brotherhood of America and the Woodmen of the World. He retained his membership in the Maccabee lodge up to the time of his death.

Mr. Davey was a member of the Episcopal church and the funeral services were held from that church Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Edward Edinger officiating. The remains were laid to their last long rest in the family lot in Greenwood cemetery.

Those from out of the city at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. George Davey and children of Bay City, and Mrs. Kane Miller of Harrisville.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved widow and children in this hour of sorrow.

Hadn't thought of that. A man, who chooses a wife from three girls, is to be admitted, sent duplicate letters of proposal to all, intending to marry the one who assented first. The trouble that he did not foresee was that the two too-late ones would sue for breach of promise.

Their highly trained Specialists go to each community and will advise a proper course of treatment for the sufferers and instruct them how to take care of themselves at home. TRADITIONS UPSET

There is a theory almost old enough to be tradition, that labor and capital are enemies. The ogre of Wall Street has been pictured by the same lurid artists of tongue and pen who have held up labor's representatives as universal enemies of civilization. The great American public, which has been carried away with this idea, might revise its opinions had it been privileged to behold the scenes in the great industrial conference at Washington, where there were evidences of respect, and even admiration exchanged between men like Judge Elbert H. Gary and Samuel Gompers, whose basic ideas are far, far apart. Of the scene might have been one where in the rich John D. Rockefeller, jr. and a horny-handed labor leader, visited in a manner so friendly that one could easily suspect them as having a real fondness for each other. And there was John Spargo, the Socialist, eloquent in tributes to Dr. Charles W. Elliot, while Thomas L. Chadbourne and W. D. Mahon, balanced on different ends of the industrial teeterboard, vied with one another in their attempts to show how free they were from bias and partisanship towards the different groups—assuming that their efforts should be jointly directed towards obtaining betterment for the whole people.

There were three distinct groups in the conference, representing capital on the one side, labor on the other, and "the public." This latter group was supposedly the balance of power, and in its selection President Wilson evidently had in mind a choice of men and women—for there were two distinguished women in the group—who would stand between "radical capital" and "radical labor," which might swerve in their zeal and partisanship to an extent that might prevent capital or organized labor from the purpose of attempting to solve one of the greatest human problems of the times. President Wilson, in making his call for the conference, referred to this, when he said: "The wastages of war have seriously interfered with the natural course of our industrial and economic development; the nervous tension of our people has not yet relaxed to normal." There was, therefore, brought together what was supposedly the strongest group of people the country could produce, who were identified with the industrial situation. They were asked to devise methods which would result in the speedy recovery of the people from the conditions described by the President, and to obviate the wastefulness caused from the continued interruption of our industrial enterprise through strikes and lockouts. As a collective body it may be said that the task was undertaken in a spirit of patriotism that matched the heroics of war-time days. Much so-called "new thought" and "new ideals" was brought out in the conference. Early in the proceedings the preponderance of strength held by organized labor seemed to run away with the entire situation. But the pendulum always swung backward and forward, and let us hope it ticked off minutes and hours that spelled victory and achievement for all humanity.

It was not contemplated that the conference would perform miracles toward increased production; neither was it anticipated that profiteering evils would be solved through the deliberations of the conferences. The aim was to restore "the nervous tension of our people which has not yet relaxed to normal," as the President expressed the thought. And the chances are that considerable progress was made toward that goal.

MICHIGAN AND ROOSEVELT

"No state in the union has been more loyal to Theodore Roosevelt, living and dead, than Michigan, and for that reason we look forward to an especially gratifying result in the local campaign, Oct. 20 to 27," said Charles B. Warren, chairman of the executive committee of the Roosevelt memorial.

"Michigan's warm regard for the great man was returned in kind. Roosevelt loved to come to Michigan, and always the welcome he received here was such as to impress upon him the admiration and friendliness all the people held for him.

"Before he was ever president, Mr. Roosevelt attracted great crowds in Michigan. Never did he make a trip here that people did not turn out in large numbers to do him honor. And his trips were frequent. He was always glad to depart from the direct east-and-west route, on his travels about the country, to accept Detroit and Michigan invitations. Occasionally, too he made special journeys to Detroit, as when he came in response to an invitation, signed by leading members of both parties, to talk for preparedness.

"Michigan, and by this I mean all her citizens, regardless of political affiliations, mourn sincerely the loss of a beloved countryman and leader and the state will most assuredly do more than her share in perpetuating his memory."

The "Florentine" No. 1813

Made of Simmons Seamless Rustproof Tubing throughout. Artistic center effects. Accorions in relief. Easy running casters. Simmon's Patented Pressed Steel Noiseless Corner Locks. Your choice of Double Width and Twin Pairs. Enamelled in Ivory, the Decorative Colors, and Mahogany, Oak and Circassian Walnut effects.

Your Choice of a Dozen Charming Designs in Metal Beds

LOOKING at these beautiful new designs in her accustomed store—a woman might wonder why no one has ever thought before to follow the accepted design principals in metal beds.

The trouble in the past has been due to the limitations imposed by the oldstyle tubing. It cannot be worked into the shapes. It is apt to be rough—does not take the enamel smoothly.

For years Simmons Company has been working on this problem of bettering metal bed designs.

To accomplish what it was after—such charming models as the "Florentine" design illustrated above in Twin pair—it had to invent a tubing that is truly seamless. The result is a bed that is square and trim—free from joint, seam and roughness. Beautifully smooth, so that the enamel lies tight and evenly all over—does not scratch, check or chip, just such a bed as you have long wanted to possess.

Come in and see these fine, new Simmons designs in Beds Built for Sleep. Quiet beds, with the Simmons Pressed Steel Corner Locks—free from squeak or rattle.

Your choice of many different patterns—and of Twin Pairs and Double Width in each pattern. Enamelled in the accepted Decorative Colors, and in Mahogany, Oak and Circassian Walnut.

Prices of Simmons Beds are little if any higher than those of ordinary Beds. You'll be glad to select from this assortment.

Catarrahal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy.

Catarrahal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists.
