AN INCREASE IN ADVERTISING RATES.

Beginning January 1, 1920, a new schedule of rates for advertising in the Tawas Herald will be put into effect. The rates for display advertising will be increased, as will also the rate for liners.

We are forced to this step by the ever increasing cost of paper and all other items entering into the cost of publishing a newspaper, besides the increased cost of living, which hits the editor just as hard as other people.

Under the new schedule the rate for liners of all kinds, cards of thanks, and all advertising notices will be ten cents per line. Cash must be sent with copy by all with whom we do not have a regular account, as the cost of booking and sending out statements for such small accounts sometimes exceeds the amount of the advertising involved. Count six words to the line in estimating cost.

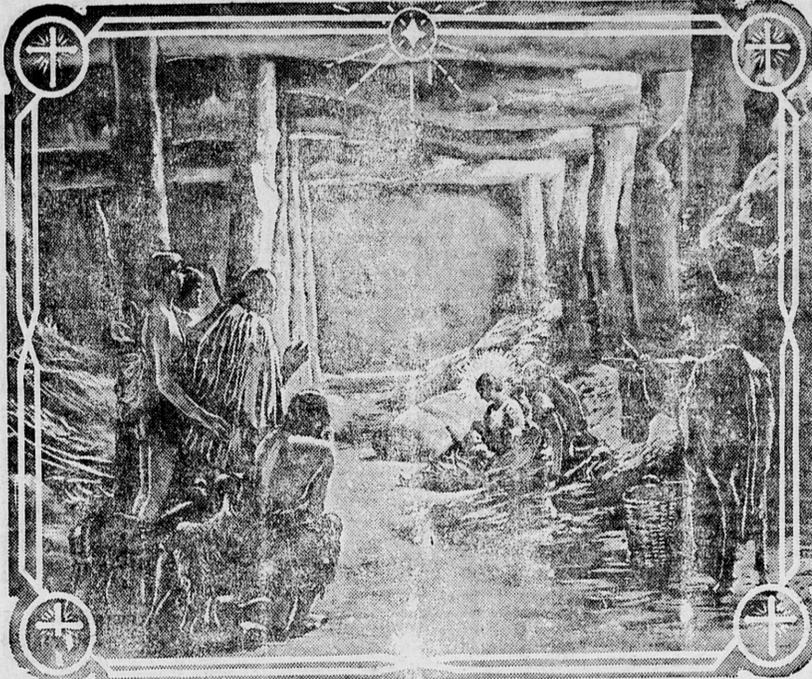

Rates for display advertising will be made known upon request.

NOTICE TO THE TAXPAYERS OF TAWAS CITY

The tax rolls of the several wards of the city of Tawas City are now in my hands for collection. I will receive taxes at my residence any day of the week except Sundays and Mondays.

BARBARA KING, City Treasurer.

Little Babe of Bethlehem

When sang the stars together
In the morning long ago,
The little Babe of Bethlehem
Slept in a manger low.
Wings of myriad angels swept
The trembling mists of morn,
When He who was Prince of them
In Bethlehem was born.

A king, and yet no diadem
Upon His brow to rest;
He had no pillow for His head
But His own mother's breast;
His palace was a stable,
Bare of knight or paladin,
When Christ the Lord of Heaven
Came to free the world of sin.

His eyes were soft as summer skies,
His brow as white as snow,
And round His head a halo shone
Like sunlight's golden glow.
But, He lay an outcast, hidden
From Herod's cruel harm—
The Lamb of God that nestled
Upon His mother's arm.

O little Babe of Bethlehem,
I see Thee sleeping there,
Thine eyes as deep as summer skies;
Thy brow so white and fair;
Again I see in wonder kneel
The shepherds of the fold,
The Angels with their gifts of myrrh
And frankincense and gold.

I see Thy mother Mary,
As in awe her hands caressed
Thy hallowed head of glory
Where it laid upon her breast;
I hear the crooning lullaby
That she so softly sings,
While Thy dear arm is round her neck,
Where tenderly it clings.

Far were Thy feet to wander
To seek the cruel tree,
And harsh the hands that waited
With their crown of thorns for Thee,
But Thou hadst that one happy hour
Of peace and joy and rest,
When Thy head was laid in Bethlehem
Upon Thy mother's breast.

DISPLAY CATCHES EYES OF THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE

The display of fava products and of Northeastern Michigan literature maintained in the Michigan Central station at Detroit for several years but which was discontinued to make room for a Red Cross canteen during the war has been replaced.

Secretary Marston spent all of last week at Detroit arranging the display, which will be better than ever before. During the time that this display was formerly maintained it brought hundreds of inquiries to the development bureau from prospective settlers and others and the bureau has been able to trace to that feature the bringing of many new families into the district.

Because of its prominent location in the station and the fact that thousands of people pass the display every week, the greater portion of them travelers from outside of Michigan, the display in the Detroit station has been one of the best advertising features which the bureau has maintained. It has been assisted greatly in keeping up the display by the Michigan Central railroad, which always shows an active interest in Northeastern Michigan and has always been a supporter of the development bureau.

The funeral was held at the Wilber M. E. church on Dec. 21. Rev. E. E. McMichael officiating, and the remains were laid to rest in the Wilber cemetery.

THE PROFITEERS IN COAL.

A rule of commerce is that the tend of prices is upwards whenever the demand exceeds the supply. Usually there is not much controversy over prices when the purchasers are chiefly interested in getting the goods. Therefore not many people are questioning the price of sugar in the market today. They are willing to take it at any price. If, as Federal Judge Anderson has intimated, there has been collusion on the part of coal operators and miners, then it is reasonable to suppose that in the processes of natural laws of trade, coal would be selling this winter at hitherto unheard of prices, except for the intervention of the government, which has been able to lay down a hard rule to protect the consumers of the country, by forbidding an increase in the selling price of coal. The coal operators objected to this measure very strenuously when the controversy was first taken to Washington for decision. However, when exposure of enormous profits threatened them, the operators decided that discretion was the better part of valor and hastened to declare that they would do anything the government decided upon. Despite denials, the probabilities are that Secretary of the Treasury Glass and former Secretary McAdoo were in a position to back up their allegations that the profits to coal operators have been anywhere from 15 per cent to 2,000 per cent. These profiteers were, however, found to be less stubborn than the profiteers who mined the coal and who continued to remain on strike when a scientific adjustment was announced, raising their wages fourteen per cent. With cities running their business houses on half time, and the great industries of the country closing down or operating on a six hour a day schedule; with train service reduced to the minimum; and with general disaster and freezing threatening the whole country, the so-called "radical group" of miners continued to fight against yielding to the government. Every intelligent analysis leads to the conclusion that about 400,000 coal miners have had the country by the throat, and their manner of defying the government was not a bit less rebellious than that which occurred in slavery days when a group of states started out running things on their own hook. The only difference was that in one case the men backed up their case with arms and ammunition, whereas the coal miners stayed at home, and there is no evidence that their idleness brought any hardship to them or their families, since they seemed to be well supplied with money.

A commission is to be devised to adjust questions of employment in the coal industry. It is reasonable to predict that such a commission will establish a just standard between the operators and employes. Of course this is in keeping with progressive policies in industry, but when the commission has finished, the same unruly hordes in the coal mining business (including operators and miners) who have imposed their selfish affairs upon the public will doubtless still be found kicking over whatever awards and conclusions may be arrived at.

A great many people are prone to believe that the better policy on the part of the public would be to see the game of profiteering among coal operators and miners through to the finish by letting soldiers and citizens who have a high regard for the rights of the public, operate the coal mines, letting the selfish interests that are in charge of the industry get as much the worst of things as it would be possible to hand out to them.

NURSERY STOCK MAY BRING IN CORN BORER

That there is danger that the European corn borer, a dangerous insect which has gained quite a foothold in the east, may be introduced to Michigan in shipments of nursery stock is the opinion of Mr. L. R. Taft, state inspector of orchards and nurseries. The corn borer has become quite widely distributed throughout Eastern Massachusetts and in certain sections of New York, and it is feared that

Michigan may become infested with the pest.

Practically all forms of farm crops are attacked by the borer, and the fact that it also attacks all of the larger weeds, concealing itself in the pith makes it well nigh impossible to exterminate the pest when once it gets a foothold in a section. It is known to attack more than 100 of our common plants, but as the name would imply, is most often found in the ears and stalks of corn.

"The most likely means of the corn borer's introduction into Michigan is with nursery stock," says Mr. Taft. "The danger is not so much from its being in the stock itself, although it might be found in herbaceous perennials such as the iris and peonies, but from the straw, rushes, flags and other coarse grasses and weeds with which the stock might be packed. For this reason it is advisable to burn all packing material which comes around nursery stock, especially if straw or other coarse material has been used.

"Although there is as yet no general quarantine against shipments from the infested sections, we would strongly advise against bringing in nursery stock from New England, or from eastern or southwestern New York. There is not likely to be any danger at this time with shipments from Rochester, Geneva, Newark, Dansville and other nursery centers in central New York, however.

"The larvae of the borer are smooth, grayish in color, and about one inch in length. The pupae are brown, cigar-shaped and one-half inch long. If anything suspicious is found you should mail samples to the State Inspector of Nurseries and Orchards, East Lansing, Michigan, enclosing the samples in a tin box, as the larvae can eat through paper.

Commonwealths and States.
 Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky are officially styled commonwealths, although there seems to be no particular reason except custom, as it has practically the same meaning as state. A commonwealth is a democratic form of government, such as that of each state of the Union, the four using the name commonwealth not differing from the others. As far back as 1636 the Massachusetts colony was spoken of as the commonwealth.

 Miss Myrtle Robinson, who has charge of the Corrigan school here, entertained with a Christmas tree and a very interesting program as follows: Song, "Merry Christmas"; School Recitation, "A Christmas Telephone Dialogue"; "Squire Hanley's Christmas"; "A Stitch in Time"; Recitation, "A Christmas Quiz"; Recitation, "The Turkey's Lament"; Recitation, "All He Wants"; Recitation, "The Crippled Doll"; Dialogue, "Christmas Plot"; Recitation, "Sing a Song of Christmas" by the two comedians, Chester Huff and Freddie Webster; Dialogue, "Mrs. O'Halligan's New Christmas Hat"; Song, "Good Santa Claus"; School Recitation, "The Turkey's Lament"; and a song well rendered and roundly applauded.

Rainbow's Formation.
 While it is true that the beautiful colors displayed by the rainbow are due to the passage of light through raindrops, the popular conception that the drops are directly in line between the sun and the bow is incorrect, according to scientists. The light enters the raindrop and is refracted and reflected back to form the bow. In this passage through the drop the different colors are produced which, blended make our ordinary white light.

PRINCE ALBERT

Right Definition of a Classic.
 A classic is properly a book which maintains itself by virtue of that happy coalescence of matter and style that innate and exquisite sympathy between the thought that gives life and the form that consents to every mood and of grace and dignity, which can be simple without being vulgar, elevated without being distant, and which is something neither ancient nor modern, always new and incapable of growing old.—Lowell.

DeLaval and Iowa Separators

When buying a cream separator, the points you consider are:

- Does it get all of the butter fat from the milk?
- Has it a long life?
- Is the cost of its up-keep small?
- Is it trouble proof?
- Does it run easily?

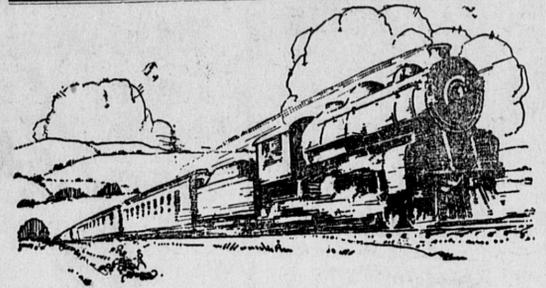

The DeLaval and Iowa Separators have answered these questions satisfactorily to many thousands of owners.

To Get Rid of Paint Stains.
Paint spilled on a doc step is most unsightly, and is often rather difficult to remove. In that case, make a strong solution of potash and wash the step, leaving the solution to soak in. In a short time the paint will become soft and can be washed off with soap and water. Then use cold water. Paint which has been left on for some time will yield to this treatment.

Thriving Fable Leg.
Among the furnishings of a South Carolina home, says Popular Mechanics magazine, is a small wicker table that is the talk of the neighborhood. Although it has been kept indoors and far from any moisture ever since it was built and properly painted, several months ago, one leg is now the proud parent of four leafy sprouts, which thrive in their strange surroundings.

The railways of the United States are more than one-third, nearly one-half, of all the railways of the world. They carry a yearly traffic so much greater than that of any other country that there is really no basis for comparison. Indeed, the traffic of any two nations may be combined, and still it does not approach the commerce of America borne upon American railways.
—United States Senator Cummins.

Ask Any Doughboy Who Was "Over There"

and he will tell you that American railroads are the best in the world. He saw the foreign roads—in England and France, the best in Europe—and in other Continental countries—and he knows. The part railroads have played in the development of the United States is beyond measure. American railroads have achieved high standards of public service by far-sighted and courageous investment of capital, and by the constant striving of managers and men for rewards for work well done. We have the best railroads in the world—we must continue to have the best. But they must grow. To the $20,000,000,000 now invested in our railroads, there will have to be added in the next few years, to keep pace with the nation's business, billions more for additional tracks, stations and terminals, cars and engines, electric power houses and trains, automatic signals, safety devices, the elimination of grade crossings—and for reconstruction and engineering economies that will reduce the cost of transportation. To attract to the railroads in the future the investment funds of many thrifty citizens, the directing genius of the most capable builders and managers, and the skill and loyalty of the best workmen—in competition with other industries bidding for capital, managers and men—the railroad industry must hold out fair rewards to capital, to managers and to the men. American railroads will continue to set world standards and adequately serve the Nation's needs if they continue to be built and operated on the American principle of rewards for work well done.

MY CHRISTMAS TREE.

O n Christmas morn- ing when I wake and sleep-dust from my eyes I shake, I see a sight that makes me start and causes thumpings in my heart: A Christmas tree— oh, pretty sight—with candles, bells and balls alight. With horns and dolls and sugar plums, and skates and trains and beating drums. And, oh, it is a wonder tree, with heaps of things for me to see. Rare gifts hang upon the side, which tinsel fairies cannot hide. A soldier doll, a doll house, too, and strings of gold come to my view, and as I look I seem to hear sweet Christmas music, soft and clear. A merry Christmas, it seems to say, A merry, happy, holy day!

Living in the past but dims the glories of the future and renders futile the conquests of today. Come to life!

A
Merry Christmas
To All

Though this greeting's of the briefest,
It is hearty and sincere,
May a Merry, Happy Christmas
Usher in a bright New Year.

Great Circle Puzzle Contest

FIRST PRIZE	$50.00	Fifth Prize	$10.00
Second Prize	$35.00	Sixth Prize	$ 5.00
Third Prize	$25.00	Seventh Prize	$ 3.00
Fourth Prize	$15.00	Eighth to Tenth Prizes, each	$2.00

How to Participate

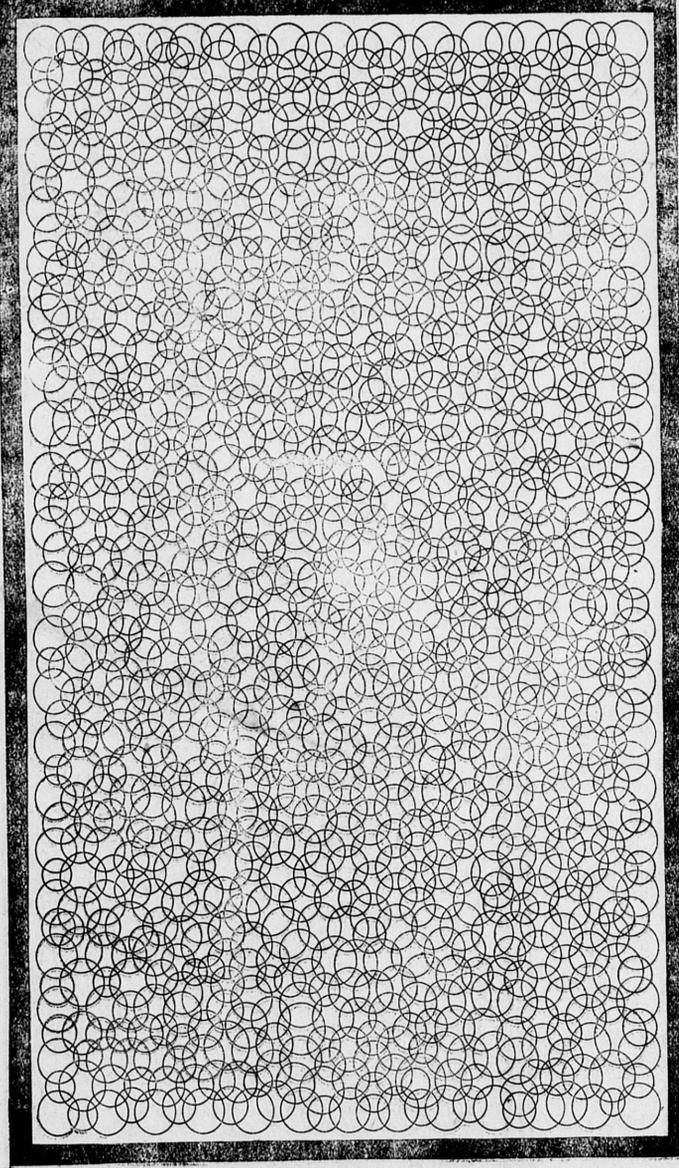

This contest may be participated in by any present resident of Isco county or the State of Michigan, or any present subscriber outside the state upon the stated conditions. To enter the contest present subscribers are required to pay all arrearages and one year in advance. New subscribers may enter by paying one year's subscription, which is $2.00. This payment will entitle you to submit a solution of the Circle Puzzle. If after you have submitted one solution or answer you should want to send in a different one you may do so upon making an additional payment of $1.00, with each additional answer. These additional amounts will be applied to your subscription extending it that much further. Therefore, it costs nothing to participate in this contest beyond paying whatever amount you wish upon a continuous subscription for The Herald. Should you wish to send two or more solutions at the same time, use a separate blank for each one. These blanks will be furnished free upon application to The Herald in person or by mail.

General Rules and Information

There is no objection to several members of one family or several friends working together to obtain a solution, provided only one of them turns the solution in. If the paper is already being sent to you or some member of your family send in the renewal in the name of the person who is already subscribing. If some other member of the family wants the solution credited to him, or to her, merely attach a note to the blank giving the name of the one who wants to have credit for the solution. The purpose of this is to avoid sending two papers when only one is needed. Information will be furnished and rulings made on any points contestants may want information about. The Herald reserves the right to decide any and all questions which arise, and those entering the contest as a part of the contract must and do agree to abide by such rulings. The date a solution is filed has nothing to do with its winning a prize. It is always safe however, to send in a solution as early as convenient. Then you will have ample time to go over your figures and if you find you can get a better solution, you will still have an opportunity to profit by your later effort. As many prizes will be reserved as there are people tied before any prizes are awarded for less correct solutions. That is, if three people should tie on the best solution the first three prizes would be reserved for them, and they would be awarded these prizes in the order of the standing of their solutions of the next puzzle. That is, the best solution would be awarded the first prize, the next best the second and the third best the third prize. All solutions must be sent in on the blank herewith. No solution unaccompanied by a cash subscription will be accepted. No solution may be changed after it is once registered. No one directly or indirectly associated with the Herald will be allowed to participate in this contest.

Deciding Ties

Ties on solutions of the Circle Puzzle for any prize or prizes will be disposed of by requiring those tied to solve a second puzzle of the same type but larger than the small illustration below. The puzzle will consist of drawing a chain of circles across the face of the puzzle chart, so that the figures within the circles will total the highest amount. It will not be necessary to get the highest total that can be gotten. Those whose totals are higher than any others submitted will receive the prizes. Should any ties ensue on this puzzle the conditions will be slightly changed and those tied will be required to solve the puzzle again. If necessary to dispose of still further ties this process will be repeated for as many as three more times after which should any ties ensue those tied will receive the full value of any prize tied for.

The problem is to count the circles. Every circle is complete, and intersects or touches one or more other circles. There are no parts of circles, shams or deceptions of any kind in the puzzle. In the event that no one counts the exact number, the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. Accuracy and patience are the main requisites for arriving at the correct or nearest correct count.
