This subject of a Memorial building for the boys in Iosco county starts on its second year of publication in the Herald. If our authorities are correct, which we hope they are not, this subject has not received public mention from the pulpit, in the press other than the Herald, nor in the schools.

The public will, on April 5, have an opportunity at the polls to decide the question whether Iosco as a county favors erecting a Memorial building. The constitution demands free speech or free silence for its citizens. Those who speak and those who remain silent, when doing so in sincerity, are acting within their privileges.

The evangelist produces no topic so productive of results as that of the giving up one's life for the other. It is the act upon which Christianity today bases its foundation, and without this foundation religion would be a structure built upon the sand. Giving up their lives for others, or being at the front to do it, is what Our Boys did. To a person possessed of enough of this world's riches to get on the tax roll for a thousand dollar assessment and who refuses to give the value of two boxes of wagon grease for a service like that, is likely the party of whom it is written: "It were better for him that a mill-stone be tied around his neck and his body cast into the sea."

The boys did their part to make the World safe for democracy and new a permanent structure should be erected, lest the memory of their services dwindle like that of the men of '61. A correct definition of Memorial day is "A day to go fishing in the morning, a ball game in the afternoon and a dance at night."

WILLIAM T. BOND

William T. Bond, an aged resident of St. Clair, died at the home of his son, Henry Bond, of Tawas on March 24, at the age of 65 years and 22 days.

The deceased was born in Canada March 2, 1855. His parents moved to White Rock, where he was later married to Miss Jane Laramee of that city. Later they moved to St. Clair, where they spent most of their life.

Those left to mourn his death are his wife, Jane Bond, and five sons, Herbert and John of Detroit, Calden of Marine City, Frank of St. Clair, and Henry Bond of this city.

Funeral services were held at the home Thursday and the remains were taken to St. Clair Friday for burial. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family.

RISKS LIFE FOR ARMENIAN RELIEF

What kind of a job it is to care for an orphanage in Syria is illustrated by a report brought to New York headquarters of Near East Relief by one of the returned workers. The latter reported that Miss Adelaide Crane of Quincy, Ill., is getting on nicely in a village on the slopes of Mt. Lebanon where she has charge of an orphanage. She goes into the town market place whenever necessary and bargains for food for her orphans, despite threats against her life made by Moslems and Druses (devil worshippers). The only effect the threats had upon her was to induce her to wear an automatic revolver in her belt. The natives know that she was a Red Cross nurse in the Great War and they took her word for it when she quietly let it be known that she shoots straight and sure when she needs to use firearms.

Since then she has had no trouble except for the occasional loss of truck loads of supplies when bandits hold up native drivers of motor trucks. The bandits do not hold up American drivers.

DEATH OF MRS. C. A. WAKEMAN

Tawas City friends of Mrs. C. A. Wakeman of Pinconning were shocked last Monday to learn of her death, which occurred Sunday at her home in that city.

The Herald is indebted to Mrs. Alvin Wright of Pinconning for a detailed account of Mrs. Wakeman's death, the main points of which are as follows:

Mrs. Wakeman was found lying on the floor on Sunday afternoon about four o'clock by the boy who went daily to carry her coal and water. He immediately called a physician, who pronounced death due to dilation of the heart, the same disease which caused the death of Dr. Wakeman a short time ago. After an examination the physician stated that she had probably been dead for 14 or 15 hours when found.

She had apparently felt the approach of the end, as she had come down stairs from her room, unlocked the door and tried to write a message on a pad lying on the table. The effort had apparently been too much, as she had fallen to the floor before reaching the bed.

Since the death of her husband Mrs. Wakeman had failed steadily and the physician had warned her friends that they might expect her death at any time. They had therefore made it a point for someone to be with her most of the time, as far as their home duties would permit. On Saturday evening Mrs. Wright and Miss Harting had called on her and remained until eleven o'clock, leaving her in good spirits and apparently feeling better than she had for some time. It happened, however, that on Sunday no one called to see her, Mrs. Wright stating that she believes this the first day since the doctor's death that someone had not been to her home.

Her son, George Wakeman was immediately called from Bay City and made arrangements for the funeral. A short service was held at the home on Thursday afternoon and then the remains, were taken to Owosso for burial. The body of her husband had been placed in the vault and both will be interred at the same time.

INFLUENZA

The following bulletin regarding the recent epidemic of influenza was issued by the state department of health. For your information the following is submitted in regard to the epidemic of influenza through which the state has just passed. This began during the week ending January 24th, and active control measures were instituted January 22nd. The Department began receiving telegraphic reports daily from thirty-six cities of the state on January 23rd. The cities were selected from all parts of the state and including nine cities of the Upper Peninsula.

The epidemic began simultaneously in Detroit and Berrien county, spread rapidly through the two southern tiers of counties, involving the industrial cities in that part of the state, then moved steadily northward and in a remarkably short time cases had been reported from every county of the state.

Due to the mild onset and course of the disease, many localities found themselves in the midst of an epidemic before they realized it and the resulting secondary infection, mostly streptococcus, caused a high fatality rate.

Some physicians failed in their duty to their profession and to the public by calling the disease "grippe" or some other name and failed to report their cases in order to protect some "favorite family" from quarantine, and thus exposed the entire community.

An epidemic which cost the lives of almost one hundred Michigan citizens each day was certainly grave enough to command the best possible attention and skill of the medical profession and their earnest cooperation with the public health authorities.

On February 28th there were reported only 266 cases; so we may regard the epidemic as having receded, although there will be, no doubt, local epidemics for the next sixty days.

The number of cases reported to the department for the period of the epidemic, January 23 to February 28, were rural and 25,013 (46%) were urban.

There were reported deaths from influenza and pneumonia 3,621, of which 856 (24%) were rural and 2,765 (76%) were urban.

The department in conjunction with the U. S. public health service and the American Red Cross has done its best to control the epidemic and relieve distress, and we take this opportunity of expressing our keen appreciation of the support which has been received from health officers and physicians.

R. M. Olin, M. D., Commissioner.

A VALUABLE GIFT

Regent William L. Clements' collection of original colonial manuscripts, valued by authorities at more than $400,000, was accepted for the University of Michigan by the board of regents at a recent meeting.

"The donation of this valuable collection gives Michigan the best library in the west," said Librarian W. W. Bishop, who also stated that it was impossible for him to make any estimate concerning the number of books in Regent Clements' library.

Funds of $200,000 with which to erect a building to house this collection were also donated by Mr. Clements. It is probable that the building will be placed close to the University library.

Originals of many volumes, dealing with the discovery and colonization of America are contained in this collection, which is the most complete of any library of the early colonial period in the United States.

Librarian Bishop, who is personally acquainted with the collection, states that Michigan will now be the first authority west of the Alleghenies on American history. Regent Clements, whose residence in Bay City houses the books at present, has spent 30 years in securing the manuscripts.

This gift of $600,000, which is considered to be a conservative estimate of the library's value, surpasses any previous single donation to the University.

CHARACTER READING

Prof. Henry F. Adams of the psychology department of the University of Michigan has recently conceived the idea that the true manner of judging character is by selecting a few well-defined traits in an individual and from them drawing complete character interpretations. He believes that it can be proved with scientific accuracy that certain characteristics are always accompanied by certain other traits. In order to establish this fact he is now preparing mathematical correlations comparing human characteristics.

Questionnaires have been circulated by him for the past two years, and approximately 1,000 of them have been turned in. By the aid of corrective tables, based upon the theory of probability, he will classify results and attempt to ascertain the relationship of one trait of character to another. This will reveal the peculiarities of male and female, showing why women are intuitive, talkative, interested in personality, while the man, working with things—brick, tools, chemicals—blunderingly chooses his associates for their affinity.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the kind friends and neighbors for their assistance and kindness during the illness and death of our loved husband and father.

IF NOT THE CHURCH—WHAT

How long would you like to live in Tawas City if the mayor and council were to advertise that hereafter all churches would be closed and every influence of a religious nature withdrawn? Do you want your children reared without the Sunday school? Shall we close the eyes of our dead and bury them without any word from the man of God? If the churches are non-essential, why not close all of them and give our energies and means to other things? Why is it that real estate men tell us that should this be done property would depreciate fifty per cent in value in six months time? Why reap the benefits of the church and still not be a part of the church? Why realize the benefits of Christ and still not accept him? Life in its finality is not measured by that which a man has this side of the grave, but the other side of the grave. The great question after all with all men is—what have you to go to in Heaven? Such questions as these, with many others, are the burden of the messages which Evangelist Zoller is bringing at the Methodist church. Have you heard him? If not, why not?

The interest in the meetings is growing daily and the final results will not be measured by either the men who are conducting them or the church membership of Tawas City, but by the attitude which every individual chooses to take toward the Christ. We are here that your town may be the better for our coming. Are you doing your part to help? This is the time for the professed Christians of the town to show their colors. Are you true blue or is there a streak of unfaithfulness somewhere in your life that is proving a stumbling block to the man outside. Is it not time that lines should be drawn between the church and the world and an inventory taken of our present stock on hand?

Next Sunday will be a banner day in the meetings. At three o'clock in the afternoon Mr. Zoller will speak to men only. His subject is "The Price of a Man." If you want to hear the straight goods and find out some things that are wrong about Tawas City, be sure and hear this message. It is red hot right off the bat. A large delegation of men will be over from East Tawas and you will want to hear their testimonies at 3:15 Mr. Sutherland will speak to the ladies, boys and girls at the Baptist church. If the women of Tawas City want to know how to make a better Tawas, then don't fail to be there. Some mighty plain things will be said about local conditions.

Services will continue all of next week, with the exception of Saturday night. At the best, this time will soon go, and we must not wait and dare not fail. Next Monday night another musical program will be given, and there is hope now that Mr. Sutherland will have sufficiently recovered to sing for us again.

SOIL SURVEY TO BE MADE IN MICHIGAN

Work on a state-wide soil survey will be carried on in Michigan on a large scale during the coming summer, according to an announcement made recently by Dr. M. M. McCool of the soils department at the Michigan Agricultural College. The survey will be of great value to the agricultural interests of the state, cataloging the soils and giving a definite check upon the farming possibilities of every section of Michigan.

Cooperation between the soils section of the experiment station at the agricultural college and the bureau of soils at Washington has made possible the work this summer. R. S. Shaw, director of the experiment station, will furnish two men for the survey, while C. F. Marbut, chief of soil survey bureau of soils, will send one or more men to Michigan to work with the college specialists.

The survey plans for the coming summer will be a continuation of the work started by Dr. McCool, who has already covered practically all of the southeastern part of the state.

"The value of the survey to Michigan can scarcely be estimated," says Dr. McCool. "The farming possibilities of hundreds of thousands of acres of idle land will be ascertained, and a check will be gotten upon the soils of the whole state."

Pinkerton, to whom a great deal of credit is due for the arrangement of the program, in introducing the toastmaster of the evening spoke of the value of such gatherings and mentioned the fact that it was the third annual event of this kind held in East Tawas, and though not so largely attended, through a number of boys being away winning a basket ball game, yet it was representative of the spirit and enterprise of the city.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE NEW YORK STATE BARGE CANAL

TO open the western country and provide safe and cheap transportation for market-bound products, the improvement of the waterways was an absolute necessity. Governor De Witt Clinton dreamed of a state-owned canal. The route was inspected and approved by President George Washington, engineer and surveyor. The Erie canal, opened in 1825, four feet deep, 42 feet wide and floating boats carrying 30 tons, was the result. Many laughed at it, calling it "Clinton's Big Ditch." In conjunction with the Niagara river, it connected Lake Erie and the Hudson river.

Prior to its opening, Philadelphia was America's greatest seaport. After its completion, the shipping naturally went to New York and the splendid chain of prosperous cities which won for New York the title of Empire state, sprang up along the route. The canal did such an enormous business that in 1903, the people of the state decided to make it a barge canal, hence the name.

The present main canal is 12 feet deep, 75 to 200 feet wide, 330 miles long and has three branches aggregating 100 miles in length. It is one of the world's greatest engineering feats and is ten times as long as the Panama canal. It contains 57 locks, each 328 feet long and 45 feet wide. Five at Waterford have a combined lift of 169 feet and are the greatest series of high-lift locks in the world. Three hundred or more bridges, carrying railroads and public highways, cross this canal. The total cost approximated $150,000,000, and is being paid by the people of the Empire state.

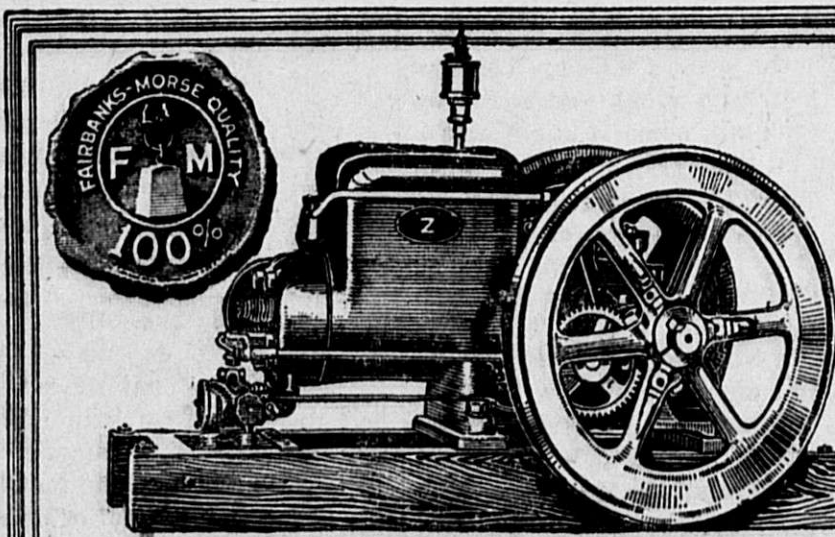

Must Have Been Moving Rapidly.
One day I sent Ralph to a store several blocks away. In the meantime it rained, and immediately at the close of the shower he returned and I asked him anxiously: "Why, Ralph, where were you when it rained?" He replied: "I wasn't anywhere—I was running."—Chicago American.

Biblical Lilies.

The "lilies of the field," so often mentioned in the Bible, are thought to be the red and purple, particularly the red anemones with black centers. These anemones grow among the thorn hedges in the East, which accounts for the saying, "lilies among thorns."

Australian Pearls.

The pearls that come from the coast of Australia are of many shapes and colors, and in the trade have names to distinguish them. Pearls under ten grains are sold by the ounce, above that by the grain. Color has a deal to do with the value. The white pearls go mostly to Europe and the yellow ones to India.

Throttling Governor Gives Steady Speed

Every "Z" Engine is equipped with a sensitive throttling governor. Regulates the amount of fuel and air admitted to cylinder—maintains uniform speed—summer or winter, regardless of work being done.
Throttling governor enables the "Z" to use kerosene as well as gasoline—saves you money.
Governor is a complete, high grade assembly unit—not a makeshift device. Its case-hardened contact-parts resist wear.
Has mighty important duties: Helps maintain uniform cylinder temperature—insures better lubrication—gives smooth, steady flow of power that saves wear and tear on driven machinery.
Other "Z" features are: Built-in Bosch high tension oscillating magneto; more than rated power; every part interchangeable; clean-cut, efficient design; long-lived endurance.

MICHIGAN SWINGS TO CHURCHES' HELP

OUT TO BEAT ITS WAR RECORDS IN FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN OF INTERCHURCH WORLD MOVEMENT.

DENOMINATIONS JOIN IN FORWARD MOVEMENTS

Out to beat its wonderful war-activity records, Michigan is swinging to the support of the financial campaign of the Interchurch World Movement. Lacked by 30 of the strongest Protestant denominations, this organization plans the greatest Forward Movement ingathering which the churches involved have ever known.

It is expected that in the week of the campaign, which will be from April 25 to May 2, Michigan will raise about $8,000,000 for the 30 churches. Nationally, a third of a billion dollars will be asked.

None of this money goes to the Interchurch World Movement itself. It is to be raised first of all by the churches which are co-operating in the campaign, and each of the denominations will retain all that it obtains from its own members. The money which is subscribed by non-members of any church is to be divided pro rata among them. The Interchurch World, in the financial campaign, is simply an organization which aids all the participating denominations in their Forward Movements.

In a spiritual sense this budget represents the first attempt of the churches to get together in a really great effort to solve the problems which have been pressing upon them for past generations, and it is only a beginning.

This combined budget, however, does not spell church or denominational union. It simply indicates the purpose of the denominations involved to follow the very obvious and practical method of combining their several campaigns and of raising their money at the same time. Such a "united-simultaneous" campaign is bound to affect great economies in the matter of meetings, publicity and the many other details related to the task of gathering funds.

The total amount to be paid this year is approximately one-half of the total campaign budget of $336,777,572.

The thirty denominations which are co-operating in the campaign represent approximately 60 per cent of the Protestant Church membership of the United States.
