Mr. and Mrs. Buch are both popular young people of this city and have a host of friends here who extend best wishes for a long and happy married life.

MEMORIAL BUILDING

The erection of a memorial building in Tawas City is considered by many as one of the things that can't be done. Such remarks only make the effort more worth while, for to accomplish what can't be done has a merit exceeding greater than the one that everybody considers easy to do. A mass meeting is intended to be called soon and at that time some form of organization is to be formed. Come and bring your opinion with you, and prepared to make it known.

Think this one over in the meantime: The first step must necessarily be a location. The second the material. Third, preparation of the material. Fourth, the erection. Each step alone does not present such an outlay as to bewilder the mind like the total requirements of a complete structure. For instance, suppose a plan be made carrying the requirement of say $8000 to erect. There would be many pairs of shoes worn out, many despairing heartaches and little to show for the labor in presenting to the people this large sum of money all at one time. The first step has been secured, a fine location. Part of the second step has been taken in procuring the cement for the blocks, and $150.00 toward the making of them. This much has been secured with no jar on anyone's nerves as it has been given without solicitation. The time has come when an organization is essential, and the best that can be secured. Come and help in its formation.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The average man believes in the church. Let him be consistent and go to church.

Not to go to church is to let what one likes to do master what one ought to do, and is like the office boy bossing the manager.

A man by attending church draws with him his family and his friends, gives new courage to those doing church work; and has the satisfaction which comes to a man when he has done his duty.

Come next Sunday and enjoy the services with us. There will be a crowd of good friends there to greet you.

Morning service 10:00. Subject: "Success Without God." Sunday school 11:15.

Evening service 7:30. Subject: "A Brighter Light." Prayer meeting Thursday 7:30.

Homer W. Grimes, Pastor.

JOHN M. WATERBURY

Another of the old settlers of Iosco county was summoned to his reward last Friday, April 30, in the person of John M. Waterbury, who had been a resident of Tawas City since 1881. Mr. Waterbury had been in poor health for about a year, having suffered a stroke of paralysis last June, and having been confined to his home most of the time since.

In the death of Mr. Waterbury Tawas City and Iosco county have lost a sterling citizen and one who in the years of his residence here was prominently identified with the growth and advancement of the city and county. He held various positions of trust and responsibility, being a member of the board of county road commissioners for some years and official surveyor for the city of Tawas City.

Mr. Waterbury was a life-long member of the Baptist church, his father having been a minister of that denomination, and his daily life was a memorial of his belief in the God he served.

John Mason Waterbury was born March 21, 1846, at Nassau, Rensselaer county, N. Y. and was aged 74 years, one month and nine days at the time of his death. In early life he learned the printing business and worked at that trade until coming to Tawas City. In 1869, while employed on the Orange Journal, he was united in marriage on May 22 to Miss Alice V. Shepard at Saratoga, N. Y. Later in the same year they moved to Brooklyn, where they made their home while Mr. Waterbury was employed on the New York Era. In 1870 they returned to Ballston Spa, N. Y., where he engaged with his brother in the publication of a newspaper. Later he went to Phelps, Ontario county, N. Y., where he published the Citizen for some years.

In 1876 Mr. Waterbury and family came to Bay City, Mich., where he was employed for about four years on the Bay City Tribune. In 1881 he came to Tawas City as superintendent of the logging railroad for C. H. Prescott, which position he held when the road was sold and became the D. B. C. & A. He was actively engaged in the extension of the road and acted as conductor on the first passenger coach when the road was finally extended to Alger. He superintended the construction of the first railroad bridge over the Rifle river and surveyed out a large part of the road, having studied civil engineering while engaged in the newspaper business.

In 1884 he resigned his position with the railroad and re-entered the employ of C. H. Prescott as surveyor, land looker, and general assistant. This position he had held since with Mr. Prescott and the succeeding firm of C. H. Prescott & Sons, with the exception of about a year and a half when he engaged in the publication of the Tawas Bay Advocate in 1891, in the building now occupied by the Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Waterbury were the parents of five children, three of whom, all sons, died in childhood. Those remaining to mourn his demise are the widow, two children, Will E. and Mary C. B. Waterbury, and one brother, W. S. Waterbury of Ballston Spa, N. Y. There is also a large circle of friends who join with the bereaved family in mourning the loss of an estimable citizen.

The funeral services were held at the home on Monday afternoon, Rev. H. W. Grimes officiating, and the remains were laid to rest in the Tawas City cemetery.

The public is welcome, always. H. J. Reithmeier, Pastor.

MOTHERS' DAY PROCLAMATION

By the Governor

Although its observance dates back but a few years, Mothers' Day has already become a national institution and is fittingly and tenderly celebrated by all classes and conditions of people throughout the land.

It is well that we should pause amid the hurry and bustle of life and let our thoughts go back to the days of long ago, as we cherish the memory of the mothers who have left us. While they were with us their chief concern was our welfare and comfort and happiness, and the mothers of today are animated by the same spirit of devotion and sacrifice. Indeed, nowhere else in human life is the spirit of unselfish service so well exemplified as in the devotion of mothers to their homes and families.

Therefore, that we may pay a special tribute of affection to the mothers who still live and honor the memory of those who have gone from us, I, Albert E. Sleeper, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby designate and set aside and I call upon our people, both young and old, to gather in their several places of worship and take part in services appropriate to the day, and by the wearing of a red flower for the living mother and a white for the departed, to symbolize their love and reverence for the mothers of the nation.

Let us suggest too that absent sons and daughters take this occasion to visit, if possible, the mother in the old home, or where such a visit is impossible, that they send a message of cheer and greeting. By this may mothers know that in the rush of affairs they are not forgotten.

In accordance with a resolution of the Congress of the United States, I further request the people of Michigan on the day aforesaid to display the United States flag in their homes and in other suitable places, as a fitting expression of their desire to pay homage to American motherhood.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State this Thirtieth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty, and of the Commonwealth the eighty-fourth.

(SEAL) ALBERT E. SLEEPER, Governor
Coleman C. Vaughan, Secretary of State.

MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION MEETING

The annual meeting of the Tawas City Memorial Association will be held in the city hall Monday evening, May 10, at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of electing officers for this year and making arrangements for Memorial day.

Every citizen is urged to attend. FRANK F. TAYLOR, President.

RESOLUTION

The executive committee of the American Legion for the state of Michigan, feeling obligated to the Salvation Army for its unstinted service to those who fought in the World War, and desiring to place its membership on record as heartily supporting its great work for the suffering and needy in times of peace, has caused the adoption of the following:

Whereas, The Salvation Army, by its self-sacrificing devotion to the needy and afflicted in time of peace, as well as by its heroic service to our soldiers and sailors during the war, has earned the respect and admiration of all sincere people, and

Whereas, Its service to humanity has become widely recognized as the direct means of propagating the true spirit of Americanism, through its practical help; therefore be it

Resolved, That the American Legion through its executive committee for the state of Michigan, endorse the Salvation Army and urges its members everywhere to encourage the carrying on of humanitarian work in our state through the Salvation Army, and to lend their personal aid and influence to any organized movement that will enable this splendid organization to continue.

BE AN OPTIMIST

Look around you and you can see people who are heroes and heroines facing odds. Wherever you turn it is to pity. You do not have to read sad plays and pessimistic novels to amass trouble. If you have any fun in you, go ahead with it, for it is needed.

Try to create blue skies for blue people. They will hail you as the biggest philanthropist, for a man is the one precious medicine if he carries the power to move honest laughter, if he passes his life in simpleness and honor and clean mirth. There is no spectacle so deplorable as that of able-bodied indolence parading its fretfulness up and down and waiting to be pitied for some small things not worth noticing. The complaint would fade away like snow on the desert's face if some controlling passion that was fine and worth pursuing came along and pushed away these foolish megrims.

Nobody ever gets the unobstructed right-of-way in any walk of life. It's all a battle. Fix any schedule you like and accidents will happen to knock it higgledy-piggledy. You got tired of hit-or-miss living and you promised yourself a certain fixity. You meant well and you started well. Then things began to happen. Circumstances beyond your control seemed to take charge of your life. You owed it to others to amend the plan. Or others stepped in and arbitrarily confused the signals and switches. You ran off the track.

But are you going to sit there in that rack and ruin, waiting for some miraculous invention that shall lift you to your feet, just as in the Iliad some goddess would stoop from a cloud snatch up a bruised and beaten warrior, dust him off and set him fighting again? That may have been the way then but things are different now. You must find your own footing, play your own game and not be "stumped" by set-backs.

IN THE PATIENT'S INTEREST

Among numerous suggestions that have reached Washington in the interests of the public health is a proposal to compel physicians and druggists to use the English language on prescriptions and on bottle labels.

The number of "dope fiends" that have contracted the drug habit through taking medicines that would have been refused had the patient known what was being fed to him, is pointed out as one of the very good reasons why Latin on the doctor's dope sheet should be treated to the same kind of excommunication that has been furnished German in most of the public schools.

It seems that this issue has assumed importance in some of the legislatures in the Western states, where it is contended that the patient has as much right to know about the contents of the medicine cabinet as though it were catalogued with the balance of the supplies kept in the family cupboard.

THE KINKAID DISTRICT

A few years ago there was a region in southwest Nebraska that people said was "no good." Then Moses P. Kinkaid went to Congress and offered the solution for the problem in his district. "Dry farming is a success," he declared, "but it takes a lot of land for each family to succeed." He proposed enlarged homesteads, and the judge got double the amount of acres for his farmers. Time has proven that the Nebraska congressman was right. His poor farmers have developed their enlarged homesteads and are enjoying the average degree of prosperity. Now Judge Kinkaid's plan for a million trees for his Nebraskans has been adopted by the government, and they will be distributed to over five thousand people by the Forest Service.

Thus a congressman reclaimed the desert and now he is having it sprinkled over with trees. Men like Judge Kinkaid do the impossible, and we may almost expect that he will find a way to plant pools of water on every farm, around the borders of which his trees will furnish shade for fishermen who will some day gather in the finny tribe that Uncle Sam will be induced to provide for these imaginary lakelets.

These last expectancies are, of course, exaggerations. But they seem little less possible than did the schemes of that quiet Nebraska congressman when he broached them to the lawmakers years ago. Would that there were more Kinkaid-men who would invent practical ways and means through which government action might be directed in making other sections of the country happy and prosperous by simply pointing out and insisting on the logical, commonsense way of doing things.

DEATH OF MARY A. OATES

Mrs. Mary A. Oates, one of the oldest residents of Iosco county, both in point of years and residence here, died at her home in East Tawas last Saturday afternoon, May 1, after a lingering illness of about three years.

Mary Amanda Davis was born in Kingston, Ont., April 27, 1839, and was at the time of her death 81 years and 4 days of age. She came to this county 62 years ago, and lived at Alabaster until 24 years ago when the family moved to East Tawas, where they have since resided.

On August 29, 1869, she was united in marriage to John Oates of Alabaster. To this union one daughter was born, Miss Ellen Oates, who survives her. Her husband preceded her in death some 16 years ago. Other surviving relatives are two sisters, Mrs. Ellen Shields of Clearville, Ont., and Mrs. Hannah Howe of North Burton, Ont., and one brother, Hiram Davis of Merlin, Ont.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at 9:00 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, Rev. T. W. Albin officiating, and interment was made in the Catholic cemetery.

MIGRATORY BIRD TREATY CONSTITUTIONAL

A decision of widespread interest to sportsmen and others affecting the protection of migratory birds was rendered by the United States supreme court on April 19, when it sustained the constitutionality of the migratory bird treaty between the United States and Great Britain for the protection of migratory birds and the act of Congress giving it effect. This law is administered by the Biological Survey of the United States department of agriculture.

In March, 1919, the state of Missouri filed suit in the United States district court for the western district of Missouri against Ray P. Holland, a United States game warden, for the purpose of securing a restraining order prohibiting Federal wardens from enforcing the migratory bird treaty act in that state. The validity of the treaty and the act was upheld in an opinion rendered by Judge Arba S. Van Valkenburgh of the western district of Missouri, on July 2, 1919. The case was appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, which has affirmed the opinion of the lower court.

IT'S "MILK COW," NOT "MILCH COW"

Hereafter it will be "milk cow" and not "milch cow"—at least so far as the United States Department of Agriculture is concerned.

This decision marks the termination of a controversy in which etymologists in the department have had not a little interest. Those defending "milch" have pointed to scriptural use and certain of the classics as establishing precedents, while the opposition has contended that dairymen, ranchmen and farmers in general use "milk" instead of "milch" almost universally. The advocates of "milk" also favored that word because, they contended, it was more strictly an English word, while "milch" was akin to German. Since Americanization of language as well as ideals is an article in every patriot's creed, it is thought that this last tally of the "milk" defenders helped as much as anything to decide the question in their favor.

TEACHERS' PAY

Commissioners of education in many of the states have been joining in the demand being made upon Washington and the state capitol of the country for an increase in existing salary schedules "to a point that will meet the present cost of living and serve to attract to the teaching profession as a life work capable men and women who are entering more remunerative positions." The salaries paid to women war workers struck a hard blow to the schools of the country, and emphasized the fact that the teachers were being underpaid in their profession, since these same women were able to go into lines of work for which they have no special qualifications and received greater pay than had been given them in their profession.

The Wonders of America
By T. T. MAXEY

THE LIBERTY BELL.

THIS bell, the most treasured relic in the nation, was cast by a London bell founder, brought to America in 1752 and hung in the dome of the old state house in Philadelphia. It weighs about 2,000 pounds.

It was cracked by a stroke of its clapper while being tested and was re-cast in Philadelphia in 1753. Again it proved defective and again it was re-cast. The words "Proclaim Liberty Throughout All the Land Unto All the Inhabitants Thereof" are inscribed upon it.

Before the British occupied Philadelphia it was taken down and hid in the Delaware river, being removed later and returned to its former position.

It fulfilled the prophecy of its inscription when, in 1776 it rang out the glad tidings that the 13 states had ratified the Declaration of Independence.

For fifty years or more it rang in the celebration of every national anniversary. On July 8, 1835, while tolling for the funeral of Chief Justice Marshall, it cracked again and has been mute ever since.

So that all Americans might see this venerable and hallowed relic, it has been taken on many journeys. In 1884 it went to New Orleans, in 1893 to Chicago, in 1895 to Atlanta, in 1902 to Charleston, in 1903 to Boston, in 1904 to St. Louis, in 1915 to San Francisco, and more recently took part in a Liberty loan parade in its home town of Philadelphia.

It occupies a conspicuous position in Independence hall, Philadelphia, where visitors are welcomed.

Fretty Polly.

"Polly, want a cracker?"
"Why, yes," answered Polly as she plumed her plumage and neatly brushed out her cage with her pert side wing. "Now that the war is won and the necessity for food conservation has been reduced to a certain degree, I feel that I may indulge in my favorite dish without serious damage to my conscience."

And the wealthy munitions worker who overheard the remark bought her on the spot for $1,000 cash, saying that she should be surrounded with luxuries for the rest of her days, yea though she lived to be as old as the mother-in-law joke.

Note—Gentle readers who look for a moral to this particular piece of patriotic persiflage will please try to bear up under the disappointment. There ain't none.—Indianapolis Star.

Matter of Patches.

Seven-year-old James and his mother were visiting the latter's spinster aunts. As was their custom these maiden ladies showed their visitors their vast supply of home-pieced quilts. "This is the first four-patch Jane ever made," announced one proudly, displaying a quilt whose blocks were made up of four square pieces.

"And this is Mary's nine-patch," explained Jane. "She made it when she was only seven years old."

The third quilt was an embroidered silk one, made of myriads of tiny irregular pieces—the gifts of friends and the remnants from ancient wedding and reception clothes. James stared at it a few minutes and then he turned to his mother. "Is this one an all-patch?" he asked.

Round Trip.

Aunt Mary Wells is one of the few "befo' de wah" darkies left in a little Kentucky town. Recently she was discussing with her employer the merry-go-round that was running up on the corner.

"Nawsuh, Mr. Malcolm," she said, "nawsuh, I don't ride on none o' dem things. Why, Mr. Malcolm, I've seen some o' these here fool niggers git on that thing and ride as much as a dollar's worth, and git off at the very same place they gits on at; an' I sez to 'em, 'Now you spent yo' money, nigger, who's yo' been?'—Saturday Evening Post.

Ice Cream for Choice.

Arthur attended a children's party at which the refreshments served were lemonade and cookies. The hostess saw that Arthur was not drinking his lemonade, so asked him if he didn't care for it. "O, yes," he answered. "Lemonade is all right, but ice cream is my favorite."

MASKED VICTORY

By MONA DORR.

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Fred Osborne laughed as he lit a cigar. "But my dear Stewart, I don't want to marry simple little Della. She is a nice girl, but hardly my choice."
"Give that girl the advantages of those city dolls, and she would outshine them all," answered Stewart. "If I were younger I'd not be encouraging you."

A young girl passing through the corridor stifled the cry which rose to her lips as she heard the remarks of the two men.

She hurriedly entered her room, and throwing herself on the bed, broke into sobs.

Miss Boynton (her hostess) had invited her, and other guests, to spend the week end at her beautiful country residence.

As she lay there, a plan suddenly formed in her mind; and hastily rising and bathing her eyes, she crossed the hall and knocked at the door.

"Come in," called a melodious voice. "Do sit down, I want to chat with you." Then as she noticed the girl's red lips. "Why, Della, what's the trouble?"

As Della confided her plan, the girl smiled and nodded from time to time. "Just you wait!" cried Beatrice Lang. "We'll make them take notice," and she gave Della a big hug. Then they settled down to discuss the great secret.

The girls were very busy the next few days, planning for the masquerade ball, which the hostess was giving to close her entertainment.

At seven o'clock that evening Della entered Beatrice's room, and seated herself in a chair (placed for her) in front of the dressing table.

Beatrice first pulled the lace cap from her friend's head, revealing a mass of beautiful golden curls. This she piled up on the girl's head; then catching up a lovely pink gown, she passed it to her and told her to hurry into it.

Della took from a box a pair of pink satin slippers, and silk stockings, and putting them on, stood up for her friend's inspection.

"My dear!" exclaimed Beatrice. "No one would ever know you," and she turned the girl to the mirror.

"I'll do," she laughed, as a rosy flush spread over her face.

"Do!" Beatrice snapped. "If everyone doesn't pronounce you the belle of the ball I'll miss my guess."

She then picked up a mask and placing it over the girl's face, gave her a push saying: "Now, run along."

Meanwhile Della had reached the ballroom and was immediately claimed for the first dance, which was then about to commence.

As she whirled about, her eyes fell on a familiar figure.

"Who is that stunning-looking girl with Jack Morrill?" asked Fred Osborne of a youth standing near.

"Don't know," was the answer. "She is a beauty. But one can't recognize any of the girls in these confounded things they're wearing."

"Aren't you masking?" Beatrice was asked as she appeared.

"No," she answered. "I must be away in a short while."

Della was in her second dance, when a young man entered the room. He was rather effeminate, perhaps, but decidedly good-looking. Wandering about he at length came up to Fred Osborne.

"By Jove! What a beautiful girl!" he ejaculated. "Can you tell me who she is?"

"I couldn't," said Fred.

In some way the stranger so maneuvered that Fred obtained only the last two dances.

By this time his anger had reached the boiling point; but to all questions regarding the young man, Della answered by a light laugh.

At 11 o'clock came the call to unmask; as Della drew hers from her face, Fred looked at her in astonishment.

"Yes! It's little Della," he cried. "Why, little Della," she returned. "But do look who is claiming your attention."

Fred turned and confronted the stranger, who had so puzzled him. Then, as his eyes rested on the face for a moment a hearty laugh broke from his lips.

"Well, Miss Lang," he cried, "that was one great joke on me."

Someone then spoke to Beatrice, and Fred drew Della out to the beautiful gardens.

There, in the lovely moonlight, he asked her to be his wife.

"But," the girl followed his question by another, "do you forget a certain conversation you held a short while ago?"

Fred thought for a moment, then said: "You can't mean the day Stewart and I were talking?"

"That is just what I mean," said Della.

"My dear," cried he, "will you forgive that thoughtless remark? For I tell you truly, I did not intend Stewart to have the impression you have formed."

"Darling," he continued, "won't you say 'yes,' and let me win forgiveness for the speech?"

He drew her gently to him, and as he looked into her eyes found his answer, even before her lips formed "yes."

If friends of Della Osborne speak truly—according to Fred's idea—there never was a more beautiful girl than his beloved wife.

FINDING MISSING PERSONS IS NEVER-ENDING TASK

The Salvation Army, because of its branches in every country in the world, conducts what is probably one of the most efficient of detective bureaus. It is the Bureau of Missing Persons, which sends out daily alarms to all sections in its efforts to find those who have disappeared.

In the United States over 1,800 inquiries for missing persons come into the Salvation Army each year, and in spite of the meagerness of the available information, in spite of the fact that a large proportion of those who are missing do not want to be found, in spite of all the obstacles and hindrances, over 1,000 are located by the Salvation Army each year.

The Salvation Army has been on the job this past year. Here's a part of the record:

5,000 mothers and tenement kids taken for a vacation in the country.
200,000 Christmas dinners given away to the worthy poor in the United States last December 25th.
70,000 poor youngsters remembered with Christmas toys at the same time.

FIRST LASSIE AND SECOND CONVERT STILL IN SALVATION ARMY SERVICE

Commandant Emma Westbrook, member of the first Salvation Army contingent to land in America. (Insert) Louis Petain, the Army's second American convert.

Veterans both, Commandant Emma Westbrook of Indianapolis, 70, member of the first contingent of Salvation Army lassies to invade this country, and Sergeant-Major Louis Petain, 67, of Brooklyn, second convert made by the struggling little band in America, will be active workers in presenting the Army's 1920 appeal for support of its Home Service Fund to be made throughout the country May 10 to 20.

These two workers have seen the organization grow from the veriest tyro in the field of service and relief in 1880 to the powerful influence that it is today. They have never left its service and entertain no thought of doing so. They want to help raise the $10,000,000 necessary to carry the work through another year. Their enthusiasm is boundless, as it well may be in people who have seen such an inauspicious beginning in the face of jeering and antagonistic crowds result in the universal respect and love held for the Salvation Army today.

The difference in the figure of the coming appeal and the mite collected in their tambourines in the old days demonstrates concretely the difference that 40 years have brought.

Louis Petain is particularly jubilant over the transformation that he has seen and remarks epigrammatically: "You can't buy confidence, sonny. You've got to earn it."

Commandant Westbrook is a traveling inspector of corps in Indiana, while Sergeant-Major Petain is still an active worker with the Brooklyn Post No. 1.

"Ash Barrel Jimmy," the Army's first American convert, died a few years ago. He was sentenced to serve six months with the Army by an exasperated judge who had given up hope of reforming the drunken "remittance man." Jimmy decided voluntarily to make it a life sentence and stayed with the organization until his death. He attained the rank of captain and served others as the Salvationists before had served him.

TORNADO AGAIN BRINGS SALVATION ARMY DOUGHNUTS INTO ASCENDANCY

A forge pressed into service in the wake of the southern tornado. (Below) Salvation Army workers amid the ruins of La Grange, Ga.

The achievement of the Salvation Army in being the first relief organization on the job in many of the Georgia and Alabama towns struck by the tornado March 28 was far from setting a precedent. In previous disasters it has often succeeded in reaching the smitten territory immediately and has assumed the leadership in rescue and relief work.

The Army had charge of the food supply in the tidal disaster at Corpus Christi, Tex., in 1919, and took the lead in all the work following the explosion at Halifax, Nova Scotia, during the war, while in the Dayton flood of 1913 Army workers in Columbus and other Ohio towns were among the first to get food to the marooned. Relief expeditions were sent to Galveston and San Francisco, while the workers stationed in both these places did yeoman service. One hundred and forty Salvationists lost their lives when the Empress of Ireland sank in the Gulf of St. Lawrence in 1914. Testimony of other passengers shows that this high mortality was caused by the officers voluntarily giving their life belts to others.

The work done after the March tornado in the South has received high praise from the authorities in the cities helped because of its promptness and effectiveness. The Salvationists' supplies of food, clothing and bedding filled a crying want. Forges were used for stoves, and the doughnut came into its own again amid such scenes of destruction as saw its ascendancy in France.

Work such as this is supported from the Home Service fund which makes possible all the Army's activities in America and for which the organization will make an appeal for $10,000,000 from May 10 to 20.

"Z" Engine endurance is proverbial—it's a lifetime engine. That's because every part liable to wear is case hardened. Push rod rollers—valve stems and cams—contact parts throughout—are made immensely hard by heat treating. They will not wear—nor will they break.

The "Z" has an extra large crankshaft. Not one has ever broken. All "Z" bearings are die cast and removable. Every "Z" part so carefully made that it is absolutely interchangeable. Ample lubrication—positive—well-balanced, correct mechanical design—help make the "Z" the "lifetime" farm engine. On the job—dependable—powerful—always.

Other "Z" features are: Runs on kerosene; coal oil, tops, as well as gasoline; built-in Bosch high tension oscillating magneto; more than rated power; every part interchangeable; clean-cut, efficient design.

Try This Way.
If some one has been unkind to us be kind to others. The great law will bring him a harvest of what he has sown. If we undertake to pay him back, evil for evil, we overstep our authority, and we also make ourselves liable to judgment for the part we take in the affair. We could just as well do something that would bring us a reward.

Study in Strength.
The muscles have their periods of development and decline. The lifting power of a youth of seventeen is 250 pounds; in his twentieth year this increases to 320 pounds, and in the thirtieth year it reaches 395 pounds. By the fortieth year it has decreased eight pounds; at fifty the figure is 330 pounds.

Saving's Silly; See This.
"Rotten policy to save! Fatal to save! Find out when it's too late, don't want what you've been saving for—outgrown your impulses. Buried with your bank book and every glad you're dead. No—no. Spend while you're young. Get a hold on all the friendship and all the love within reach—and then, why then, when you're old, at least memories will be yours as comforters."—"Our Wonderful Selves," by Roland Pertwee.

When Glass is Scratched.
To remove slight scratches from plate glass, first clean the surface by gently rubbing with a pad of cotton-wool; then cover the pad with cotton velvet, rubbed with fine rouge. This will not only remove the scratches, but will also impart great brilliancy to the glass.

To Polish Glass.
A good polishing powder is made of rock alum, burned and finely powdered, five parts; levigated chalk, one part; mix and apply with a dry brush. There is nothing better to polish glass than chamolis leather, or velvetreen. They should be kept entirely free from dust, or grit.
