Mrs. Holloway secured her education in the Tawas schools and most of her old school mates are either dead or have moved away. Her father engaged in fishing during the first years of their residence here, and the first playmates she remembers were the little Indian children, the red men being plentiful in this locality in those days. She states that often the family would awake in the morning to find several Indians asleep on the floor of their home, but this they did not mind as the Indians were very friendly and peaceably disposed. If any resident of Iosco county can claim a longer residence here the Herald would be glad to hear from them and to print any reminiscences about the early days that they may care to write.

The community was shocked last Sunday by the news that Mrs. David Low, a resident of the Townline, had taken her own life by first taking poison and then cutting her throat with a razor. Everything that medical skill could do to save her life was done, but all was in vain and she died Sunday night. Mrs. Low had been in delicate health for some time and on April 29th gave birth to a baby boy. It is thought that she was temporarily deranged. She leaves a husband and four small children. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved family.

Trunk line highways in Michigan are to be marked throughout the state within a short time, Frank F. Rogers, state highway commissioner has advised W. S. Gilbreath, manager of the Detroit Automobile Club.

A law authorizing the state highway department to undertake this work was passed by the legislature. Least fall the highway department planned to start the work, but it was later decided to put off the task until spring. A standard design for markers was selected last year and this will be used on all the routes. The trunk line number will be painted on each pole where the design is placed. This will enable a motorist to travel any section of the state by carrying a small map bearing the route numbers.

Removal of all advertising signs from the roads is another project to be undertaken. Under the terms of a recently enacted law the highway department is authorized to do this.

"We are about to mark the trunk lines with our standard markers," Commissioner Rogers said, "at which time we are authorized to remove all advertising signs within the limits of the highway. I further wish to advise that we intend to enforce this law."

THE "TOM THUMB WEDDING"

The "Tom Thumb Wedding" put on at the Tawas City Theatre Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club, drew a packed house, and those who attended were unanimous in their verdict that the entertainment was worth more than the price of admission.

About fifty little tots and children from three to nine years of age participated in the entertainment and carried out their parts in a natural and unconscious manner which would have done credit to actors of maturer years, and which reflected great credit upon the training they had received. Several songs by the little folks enlivened the program and elicited much applause from the appreciative audience.

The net proceeds realized by the club amounted to about $21, which amount will be deposited to the credit of the fund for a Memorial building.

N. E. MICHIGAN AND THE STATE PARK PLAN

Northeastern Michigan is going to be well taken care of by the recently organized Michigan Park commission. Secretary Marston of the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau has been given places on two of the most important committees—finance and park sites—and he has also been very active in securing propositions to donate sites for parks in the district.

At the meeting of the park commission last week it was decided to appoint two engineers to lay out parks which are taken over by the commission, one to work in the eastern half and one in the western half of the state, and the first work to be done in the eastern half will be on the park which the city of East Tawas has donated, on the lake front and adjacent to the Detroit & Mackinac railway and the Dixie highway.

Mr. Marston during the past two or three weeks, has inspected a proposed park site donation on Houghton lake, which is described as a beautiful piece of ground and which is so close to two main state highways, the Meridian and the "Over the Top" routes, that it can be reached easily from either one. In fact State Highway Commissioner Rogers has promised to connect these two highways with a cross road which will give easy access to the proposed park, and to detour this road so that it will provide a beautiful drive, skirting a long section of the shore of the lake.

Another site which is under consideration is at the foot of Burt lake, containing about 2000 acres, with a two-mile frontage on the Sturgeon river. A part of this land is already owned by the state.

When Gray wrote about "pleasure at the helm" he must have had in mind the steering wheel of an automobile. Pleasure and the automobile are responsible for a gas and oil famine that is as certain to come as "death and taxes." But pleasure is running on "high" in the golden car of prosperity, singing like a "birdie" out of place in the mechanism: "If business interferes with your pleasure, then cut out the business."

Not many years ago there existed a land to be had for the taking, such immense quantities of oil in the natural gas fields of the country that it seemed it would never cease to flow. And as President Roosevelt once observed: "In the early days the man who removed the most trees was considered the greatest public benefactor." Likewise the farmer who "mined" his soil and then left an "abandoned" farm to open up a piece of "new, cheap land," showed how much more versatile he was than the man who remained on the same place and kept the land producing by taking care of it.

Rich, swaggering America has never taken the time to think too seriously about saving its natural resources, and now that the irreplaceable oil fields are unequal to the demands made upon them, you hear jokes about "Rockefeller's gifts" as the automobile owner settles with the garage man at the rate of thirty cents a gallon or more.

Victim of Popular Song.
Lawrence Kellie tells of an amusing experience he had over the song, "Douglas Gordon." He was introduced one evening to a gentleman whose name he did not catch. "I have no desire to meet you, Mr. Kellie," said the stranger. Kellie naturally looked a little astonished, but said nothing. "In fact," the other went on, "I hate the very sound of your name. For months past my mother has been worried by the receipt of telegrams and letters of condolence on my behalf, and the thing is beginning to get monotonous." "I'm sorry," said Kellie, "but what's that got to do with me?" "Well, I'll tell you," said the other. "My name's Douglas Gordon, and everybody imagines that your confounded song refers to me." And with that he turned on his heel and went.

THE CATHEDRAL OF ST. JOHN, THE DIVINE.

THE corner stone of this great Episcopal house of worship, which crowns Morningside Heights in New York city, was laid on December 27, 1892. This church was designed to be the largest and most costly church edifice in America and the fourth largest in the world, St. Peter's at Rome and the cathedrals at Seville, Spain and Milan, Italy, only being larger. It will be over 600 feet long and its greatest width 300 feet. The total cost will exceed $10,000,000, and although it has been under construction for more than twenty-six years, no one can now say when it will be completed.

The architecture is of the French gothic style. The plans for the great organ call for 7,000 pipes and a chime. The crypt will seat 500 and the altar is to contain 150,000 pieces of mosaic glass. It will contain seven chapels of tongues: St. Martin of Tours or Huguonot chapel, representing the French rite; St. James or Spanish chapel, representing the Mozarabic rite; St. Ambrose, representing the Italian rite; St. Saviour, representing the Oriental rite; St. Columba or Scots chapel, representing the British rite; St. Boniface or Holland chapel, representing the German rite, and St. Augustus or Swedish chapel, representing the Scandinavian rite. There is to be also an open-air part with a 40-foot-high spire and ornamental gothic structures.

Donations, large and small, have come from every conceivable source and direction, to assist in the erection of that which is to be America's greatest cathedral—a cathedral for the people in America's greatest city.

"Age Cannot Wither."
A tradesman was brought before the magistrate charged with having sold unwholesome articles for consumption as food. The charge was fully proved. "I wish to point out to the court," said counsel for the defense in a dignified tone, "that the house of business that I have the honor to defend was founded in 1802." "Has it renewed its stock since that date?" asked the magistrate.

IN "CHURCH" WITHOUT ROOF SALVATIONISTS
PREACH TO MORE THAN 18,000,000 YEARLY

A few of the 18,000,000 persons who attend Salvation Army outdoor meetings each year. (Insert) A penitent at the "Mercy Seat."

More than eighteen million men and women make up the congregations that attend in a single year the street meetings of the Salvation Army in this country. Six millions of these, according to conservative estimate, would never hear the gospel preached but for the practice of the Salvationists of taking the church to the people.

That practice was not an easy one to start. Between the rough-house methods of rowdies who tried to break up even their indoor services in the early days and the unwillingness of the police at first to permit the holding of street meetings the Salvationists had a strenuous time of it.

But they persisted, and the Army with the bass drum and the tambourine has kept marching on. When its officers were not preaching they were establishing hospitals, nurseries, rescue homes and institutions of all kinds for the aid of the poor and were giving themselves in unselfish service.

For forty years they financed their humanitarian efforts with the pennies, nickels and dimes collected by blue-bonneted lassies in their tambourines. Then the lassies laid the tambourines aside to serve doughnuts and home cheer to Uncle Sam's boys over in France, and they suddenly awakened a public interest that made it unnecessary for the Army to depend any longer for its existence on tambourine collections.

Under the new dispensation the Salvationists present annually to the country a budget of their financial needs. To maintain their homes, their activities for children, for down-and-nearly-out men and women, for the sick and poverty stricken, they will require $10,000,000 in 1920. Their appeal for this amount will be made between May 10 and 20.

TAMBOURINES AT SALVATION ARMY HEADQUARTERS, NEW YORK CITY

THE America of the old fashioned Americans is gone; it's all ended. Some still cling to primitive hopes, but with the recent announcement that the Salvation Army lassies have given up their tambourines for street collecting—psst! What's the use?

It started with the buffaloes. Some New York traveling men, dressed in the latest spring styles, ventured out West. The buffaloes took one squint, lay down on their spinal cords, closed their eyes, groaned and died.

And then there came about the passing of another beloved American institution—the front yard. Home life hasn't been the same since. With the advent of skyscraper tenements and flats front yards vanished. Now the heads of households when they come home at night work out with arguing golf at the office all day have to sit on the front doorsteps or go to the movies.

Suspenders have gone too. And gone are 50 cent Sunday table d'hôte dinners, and family surreys, and all-day suckers.

And now the time honored role of the Salvation Army lassie's tintinnabulating tambourine is doomed. You will find these once popular musical collection boxes piled up by the hundreds at Salvation Army headquarters.

The lassies, heartened by the country's approval of their overseas war service, have found it unnecessary to waste effort in tambourine solicitation, and they devote the time thus saved to actual slum work and general service to all distressed humanity. So they've called off the year-round tambourine collecting and appeal to the nation annually for financial approval. The 1920 Appeal is scheduled for May 10 to 20.

The lassies will still beat the tambourines in the Salvation Army praise services, however. They quote a number of Psalms as authority. Here is Psalm 149, 3:

"Let them sing praises unto Him with the timbrel and harp."

The "timbrel" is the ancient's name for the modern Salvation Army tambourine. Well, goodbye, old tambourine. We'll miss your cheering tinkle and the acknowledging smile of your mistress, but you did your bit.

How Firestone Is Able to Produce the Finest Laminated Inner Tube and Still Hold to a Moderate Price

Firestone Man Power: Firestone has gathered together a remarkable body of workers, 17,000 strong—many of them stockholders in the Company. Men financially interested in the success of their product do better work.

Firestone Buying Power: Firestone has established purchasing headquarters at Singapore in the Straits Settlement where 85% of the world's rubber is produced. Thus Firestone gets first choice of the raw product at quantity prices. And this saving is turned back to car owners.

Firestone Selling Power: Firestone's immense production requires a widespread distribution system. Sixty-five branches and 46,000 dealers throughout the United States selling Firestone Tubes assure a fast-moving product, which means fresh stock at all times—most miles per dollar in tubes as well as tires.

THE HOMECOMING

By GEORGETTE V. JOYAL.

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"I do wish we would hear from Carl, daddy!" Mrs. Barke said one morning at the breakfast table.

Ever since the children had been small, Mrs. Barke had always addressed her husband by the name of "daddy." The family had not heard from Carl, the oldest one, for over four weeks, and the mystery as to his whereabouts was still unsolved.

"Cheer up, Betty!" came the cheerful response from Mr. Barke. "Maybe he'll surprise us by coming home himself."

"How true!" Mildred exclaimed. "And won't it be just too good a treat to see him in his uniform!" At this she jumped from her chair and started to fox trot around the room.

"I simply cannot eat another bite! I am going upstairs to study before I dress for church."

"What a dear little girl Mildred is, daddy. If I should lose her I'd be at a loss what to do now, since Clayton has gone."

Mr. Barke remained silent. He was thinking. "Clayton is so unlike Carl," Mrs. Barke went on. "He likes society and roaming around. Carl is reserved. I hope he comes to see us before he goes 'across'—if he isn't there now."

"Oh, I don't think so! I wouldn't worry if I were you, Bess! I think Carl will come home before night. I really do!" moved Mr. Barke.

"You dear! You're so encouraging, dear! What! Half-past nine! I never realized it was as late as that! Hurry up, dad; we'll be late for church!"

It was Sunday. The sun shone brightly and a strong wind was blowing fiercely.

Mildred came tripping downstairs. "Aren't you folks ready yet?" seeing no one about. "Mamma," she cried, "I'm going along with Viola and Diana. They're just coming out of the academy. All right, mamma?" A soft "Yes, dear," came from upstairs and Mildred left the house.

Three hours later Mr. Barke left to call on the president of the bank of which he himself was cashier. Mildred was entertaining one of her few boy friends whom she had known all her young life. Soft strains of music (Mildred loved the piano and played it well) came from the parlor. In the living room Mrs. Barke sat thinking.

Two years ago at Christmas time her son Carl had come home from college for the Christmas recess. How she had enjoyed him in that short vacation! He graduated that year and immediately entered an officers' training school. Carl frequently wrote home. His letters were very encouraging. He loved his work and studies. He was "honorable," as he put it, to make good.

During the last month Mrs. Barke had received no mail whatever from her soldier boy. "Even if I knew where I was going, mother," he wrote, "I would not be allowed to tell you." Since then not a word.

Five o'clock was striking by the big "grandfather" clock in the reception hall. Mildred had just dismissed her caller and happened to look out of the window just after closing the door. "Mamma! Oh, mamma! Here comes Carl!" she cried. "No!" replied the mother, disturbed in her reverie. "Yes! yes! Truly mamma! Here's Carl!" Mrs. Barke hurried to the parlor window and, true enough, there was her big Carl coming up the walk.

Without even pausing to throw a wrap over the thin georgette crepe waist which she wore, Mrs. Barke ran out of the house. While the wind played havoc with her carefully arranged hair, she threw her arms about her boy's shoulders and kissed him time and again.

Realizing the cold his mother endangered out in the wind, he gently led her into the house. All this time Mildred had been so moved by the beautiful picture her mother and brother made she couldn't leave the window. When they entered the hall Mildred clung to her brother fully a minute before she could utter a word.

In the meantime Mrs. Barke telephoned her husband. "Daddy," she said, "Carl's home! Yes!—Yes!—Yes! About two minutes ago! Paddle quick!"

As the mother returned, Carl, with his arms about his young sister, was saying, very modestly, "I received my commission as lieutenant a week ago. I have been in Kansas all these weeks and so I couldn't write to you. I spent two days in Washington on my way home. I tried to get a train out when I arrived in Boston this morning, but it has been canceled."

"Wasn't there a train in? If you had but telegraphed, Dad would have met you at the station!" cried his mother, flushed with the excitement. "Mother, dear, I wouldn't keep you in suspense one minute if I could help it. Never mind, I'm here for five days, anyway," he gently replied, kissing her.

"This is the very best treat I have had in many years and I'm going to make the best of it, too! You won't leave my side much while you are here, Carl, will you, dear?" "Not at all mother; not at all!"

Short, quick footsteps sounded on the cement walk. In less than two seconds Mr. Barke was in the room. Grasping his soldier son's hand with both his own in a firm, hard grasp, he held it, as he admiringly said, "My boy! My great—big—brave boy!"

Wormer; 2nd vice president, Annabel McLean; 3rd vice president, Mrs. Gladys Webb; 4th vice president, Edna Shattuck; secretary, Mrs. Anna Bills; treasurer, Mrs. W. E. Glendon; organist, Genevieve Gardner; chorister, Chas. Gardner. Refreshments were served.

Last Friday the Tawas City high school base ball team came over, vowing vengeance on the wee boys of our school, who trembled at their appearance. By the end of the first inning our boys had taken their measure by a four run lead and were never headed thereafter, the final score being 32 to 9. Little John LeClair took the mound for four innings and the Tawas boys garnered only one hit off his slants, the score then standing 16 to 3. Believing it best not to be too rough with the visitors, Floyd Early was then put in with instructions to go easy. Three hits, two walks and three errors netted the visitors six runs. It must be said that while the boys were being slaughtered they took it in good humor and gained a warm spot in the hearts of all the fans that turned out to see the game. Not a word of slang was used and they proved themselves to be perfect gentlemen, and Supt. Swem has a right to feel justly proud of his high school boys. A return game will be played at Tawas City in the near future.

SAID ICE CREAM "BURNED"

Think of it, French Kiddies Had to Be Coaxed to Partake of Strange Delicacy!

Striking proof of the well-known fact that extreme heat and extreme cold have the same physical properties was recently furnished by "Jugger" Crane, the scientist-philosopher of Company B, —th engineers, when he fed some American ice cream to a group of French children, says the Spiker.

The inhabitants of the French farm-houses near the camp had never seen any ice cream until "Jugger" took them over a mess kit full of the great American delicacy.

The children gathered around expectantly. The first one took a spoonful and at once began to weep and declare that the strange food was hot.

The others who had watched rather horror stricken the fate of the first became convinced that it was some sort of white fire and would have nothing to do with the cream.

The mother had to eat virtually all the cream in order to induce them to believe it was cold rather than hot and that when not taken too fast, was good to eat. Eventually, the children ate the last of the dish.

But they partook of it gingerly, evidently greatly mystified that anything which first seemed hot, then cold, could be good to eat.

Learns of the War.

A woman was discovered in this city yesterday who has lived all through the great war and did not know that it was going on. She is an aged woman of German birth. Her age kept her son from telling her about the horrors of the invasion of Belgium and of the sinking of the Lusitania. He didn't wish her to worry and fret. But the day of the peace demonstration made it impossible to keep silent. The old lady heard the whistles blowing and the crowds cheering and she demanded to know what it was all about. When they told her she raised her hands in a gesture of imprecation and said: "Oh, if only I could get these two hands on the kaiser!" The interesting part of her story is that her husband was a German soldier. The gray uniform was so detested by him that he made his wife, before his death, promise that she would come to America so that none of their sons ever would be compelled to wear the livery of the kaiser.—New York Sun.

"Silence Lanes" in Fogs.

One of the freaks that mariners have to contend with is silence lanes in fogs. These lanes not only retard the sound of foghorns, but stop it entirely. A lookout man on a ship may not be able to hear the foghorn of a close-by vessel if his ship is in one of those silence lanes in time to give warning of its proximity.

It sometimes happens that there is a zone through which the sound carries exceptionally well, and the lookout men of vessels in such a zone are unable to judge the distance away of another vessel, whose foghorn they hear so distinctly.

Horses Generously Fed.

Horses in the veterinary hospitals on the British front in France were fed four times a day. The more debilitated ones were fed five or six times. When they were particularly run down the patients got nothing but cooked foods. They received tonics, too, and it was remarkable to see the improvement in their condition that a few weeks effected.

Nineveh's Pathetic Ruins.

Past Mosul the river Tigris rolls its ancient, almost legendary waters and opposite on the left bank the dream of antiquity continues undisturbed. There in the blazing sun or in the shimmering Persian moonlight, lie the ruins of Nineveh, the last and greatest capital of the Assyrian empire. The wall of the disappeared city still stands to a height of 50 feet and is 12 miles in circumference. Close by the bank of the river are the still imposing remains of two citadels.
