I. C. M. B. A memorial building is not to be obtained by a magician's skill under cover of a handkerchief, over which he has waved his magic wand. Neither can it be expected as a gift from God, like air and water and fertile soil. Its reality will have come from patient labor and willing sacrifice.

The coming season of entertainments will offer opportunities for financial gain. Harry E. Cisle, as Cecil the Wizard, has volunteered his services for expenses only. He was 15 months overseas and the Stars and Stripes, Paris France, in its issue of April 15, 1919, stated: "Cecil, the soldier magician, continues to score a hit wherever he appears and his tricks are marvelous." Rev. Homer W. Grimes has also volunteered his talents which attract attention and dispel desire to slumber.

The writer has hopes to be equipped in a few weeks with an outfit of considerable value to be used for entertaining purposes for the cause of the I. C. M. B. of Iosco county. Plenty of room for more volunteers.

L. H. Emerson, President.

TAWAS WINS AGAIN

In a hard fought game last Sunday Tawas City won from Hemlock by a score of 5 to 4. A bad wind made fielding difficult, but where a miss might mean a run someone was on the ball all the time. On the whole it was as pretty a game as one would want to see, as those who were loyal enough to stand back of the home team will tell.

Ernie Moeller's fielding, taking four without a miss, one after a long run and with his bare hand; his triple with two men on were the features of the game. Holloway padded his batting average, getting four hits in four times at the plate. Nelem behind the bat and Walt Moeller on the hill showed up in good style.

Following is the box score:

Tawas City		Hemlock

BAPTIST CHURCH

The world is a storehouse of good literature. All that a man would know can be found in the realm of books. Superior among these—the Bible. All of the best literature can be found within its pages. It is the fountain-head of all truth and progress. Should the contents of every great book be mastered and set down into one great volume for our reading, we would have nothing more than a composite of the great thoughts first written into the Bible.

The Bible is a superior book because of its Divine origin. It is the Word of God! As such it is the instrument of inspiration to all who read it. It is the source of comfort to the sorrowing, the mainstay of the weak and the companion of the friendless. It moves men to change their life and look to the Author in praise and dependence. Its peculiar power can be felt by all who read it.

This wonderful, life-giving book should be your companion in life. Read its truths and shape your character by its principles. Make it yours today. Read it—not as a book of science or history, but as God's special message to you.

Come out to the services of the church that you might hear the Word explained. The church reveres the Bible, stands by it and preaches it. Once you are inspired by the church's tribute to this Book of Books, it will become your valued treasure and its message will be your strength and source of Eternal Hope.

MARINES 94% NATIVE BORN

The yearly figures on recruiting just issued by the Marine Corps contain some interesting data on nationality. Of the 10,307 men accepted by the sea soldiers in the last twelve months the American born totaled ninety-four per cent. Six foreign nationalities are represented by a lone Marine, namely Armenia, Australia, Colombia, Cuba, Mexico and Venezuela. Each of these, as with all the foreign born in this branch of the service, has either become naturalized or has taken out his first papers.

It cost the Marine Corps $61.16 for each man who joined the colors, and the total percentage of desertions was but 1.86. Forty per cent of the men accepted re-enlisted from the army, navy and Marines, the sea soldiers leading with 20 per cent.

ROBBERS HOLD UP

IOSCO COUNTY BANK Intimidate Cashier and Patron and Get Away With Cash.

Last Saturday afternoon at 1:20 p. m. the Iosco County Bank at Whittemore was held up by three bandits, who got away with about $675.00 in cash. The three men drove up to the bank in a Hudson car and two of them got out and went into the bank. One of the men had a road map covering his hand and innocently asked the road to Bay City. Cashier Ridgley, always obliging, came to the wicket and told the men that the state highway, No. 10, would take them to their destination. Quick as a flash the man pulled the map from his hand and covering Mr. Ridgley with the gun which he had concealed, ordered him to put up his hands. The other bandit also produced a gun and covered W. H. Price, who was also in the bank.

The men then proceeded to take what cash was in sight, amounting to about $675. Fortunately for the bank it was the custom to leave the time lock on the vault and the robbers were thus unable to get at the funds in this receptacle, else the loss would have been much greater. The loss was fully covered by burglary insurance.

Miss Leila Barnum, assistant cashier, was in the rear office of the bank and the men apparently were in ignorance of her presence, but as the telephone was in the main office she was unable to give the alarm.

As soon as the men had gone the alarm was given and a posse organized to give chase. The men started south and officers at Turner, Omer, Standish and other points were warned to be on the watch for them. On Monday afternoon one of the men, giving his name as Jesse M. Frazier and his residence as Flint, was captured near Pinconning, but the other two are still at large. According to Frazier his two companions were James Mandell and Harry Lockwood, both of Flint. The men deserted their auto near Omer and took to the woods. The other two are thought to be in hiding near Pinconning. It has not been learned whether the car they were driving was a stolen one or not.

On Sunday morning two boys who were fishing in Johnson Creek south of Whittemore had placed an iron rail across the bridge to prevent autos going across the bridge so fast and driving away the fish. A posse of men in search of the bandits came to the bridge and the boys, becoming frightened, started to run away. The men ordered them to halt and when they did not do so fired on them, shooting Herbert Ward, one of the boys, through the head and back. The other boy ran into the woods and has not been found and it is not known whether he was injured or not. Young Ward was hurried to a hospital in Bay City and is said to be in a critical condition.

ANSCHUETZ-CLARK A quiet wedding was solemnized on Sunday evening, Sept. 12, at the Emmanuel Lutheran parsonage, when Miss Louise Anschuetz, daughter of Geo. C. Anschuetz of Tawas township, was united in marriage to Mr. Leroy Clark of Alabaster. The ceremony was performed by Rev. August Keaburg, pastor of the church, the ring service being used.

The bride wore a gown of blue satin and carried a spray of white asters. She was attended by her sister, Miss Eleanor Anschuetz of Bay City, who wore a dress of dark green satin and also carried white asters. Paul Anschuetz, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark are well known young people in this vicinity and their many friends wish them a long and happy married life.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Brown will make their home in Alabaster.

ELEVENTH HOUR ANNOUNCEMENT The writer, being out of the county last week, he failed to get his expression of gratitude in last week's issue, so I wish now to thank my friends in Iosco county for the able support I received at the primary election. Hoping that I may continue to live in such a way as to merit the esteem and respect of the citizens of Iosco county, again I thank you.

Yours very truly, Geo. A. Pringle.

AN EFFICIENT MOVE

After more than a dozen years fight the United States government has just put into operation a law recently passed retiring its aged employes on part pay. During August the first deduction of two and one-half per cent of each pay check for the retirement fund was made.

At the same time, no substantial changes in the salaries of government clerks have yet been made, and in some cases the rate of pay today was in effect as far back as the period when the old frigate America first cleaned up the British fleet and brought the pewter cup to these shores to tempt future Liptons to build their successive Shamrocks.

It is quite true that the higher salaried officials of the government have received very great increase in their salaries. For instance, we used to hire a president for $50,000 a year, but Lincoln worked for much less and George Washington was not paid anything for fathering the American Republic. Now every Ohio editor expects $100,000 a year to do the job. There are more prerequisites to garnish the position than the whole undertaking cost in the days of our fathers.

But with ordinary government clerkships in Washington it is different. These places are looked upon in the capital as "great jobs for girls and widows." When viewed as a "career" for men they hold very little perspective. What the government has recently done for its superannuated employes and in supplying a retirement fund for the future is very similar to the plans put into effect by the International Harvester Company and some of the other corporations several years ago. The fact that the government has become a party to the scheme for retiring its employes after long and faithful service is regarded as showing the tendency of the age toward the recognition of individual efforts in every walk of life, no matter how insignificant a part the individual may have performed in humanity's workshop.

THAT TOWN OF BOSTON A man named Ponzi lives in Boston. He surely never got that name wished on him anywhere near the Boston harbor. Ponzi was long-headed enough to plant large sums of money in different European countries, and after he had established his banking connections abroad he began to deal in foreign exchange. American dollars are of full value. These he converted into depreciated foreign currency. Then by switching his credits from one country to another he finally worked out the problem so that the money that he had dealt in abroad for himself and customers finally got back to the United States through a clever process of manipulating worth par. Ponzi agreed to pay fifty per cent profit to his investors for the use of their money for three months. The surprising part of the performance, developed by an investigation, was the apparent proof that Ponzi was making good. At the same time he cleared up several million dollars for himself in a few months.

About a dozen years ago the government wished to float a big bond issue. Everyone was invited to bid and a Boston man was the lowest bidder. The astonished bankers of the country found that the Bostonian had no other capital invested in the bond enterprise beyond the two cent stamp which he had used to mail his bid to Washington. Nevertheless, the lowest bidder got the job, and almost before the government could notify him to that effect the big banking houses got behind the Boston "postage stamp" bid. The result was that the far-sighted Bostonian made a lot of money.

But why shouldn't Boston lead? Didn't it have the first big American tea party? Wasn't it the original Hub of the Universe? And hasn't it the only state house that is decorated with a lion and a unicorn to signify the ancient heritage of England? Boston has its Bunker Hill, its old North Church; and Lexington and Concord hard by. Why, even Henry Cabot Lodge and Calvin Coolidge live in "Boston's home state of Massachusetts." Tom Lawson also registers from Boton.

NOTICE All those owing me accounts are requested to call and settle same at once.

HOW ABOUT HOME CUSTOMERS? During the frothy period of prosperity of the past two or three years everyone has at some time or other been made to feel the bitter scorn of manufacturers and some merchants who had so much business that they did not hesitate to let you know that they had no time to quibble with you in order to secure your patronage.

But now that we have lost $500,000,000 of European trade and nearly $400,000,000 of South American trade during the past year, it seems entirely probable that customers at business establishments in this country will soon be getting the same old hand shake and welcoming smile that evidenced the appreciation of their trade in the days before profiteering and the business boom so thoroughly revolutionized production and merchandising methods in the nation.

You can never realize how many men there are out of work until you start to do some outdoor job that is a little difficult of performance.

PUBLIC MASS MEETING HELD

A mass meeting was held Monday evening and the proposition of a community building discussed. A committee was appointed to go to Lansing and confer with the state park commission. The committee consisting of H. N. Butler, C. W. Luce and Mr. McRae from Harrisville, left Tuesday evening for Lansing.

CUTTING DOWN THE PAY-ROLL A representative of the National Federation of Federal Employes has issued a statement to the effect that 124,000 employes have been dropped from the swollen war lists of the government. At the same time purely partisan claims are being made that great numbers of unnecessary clerks are employed in the government offices.

One can hear most anything nowadays, but the facts are that during July, which was supposed to be a big month in laying off the "war workers" the separations in the government service totaled 4,908, and an addition was made of 2,905 employes. The war department showed the largest net reduction which reached 1,729. The total reduction made in the employes of the navy department was 151. The post-office department showed an increase, as did also the department of the interior and the department of commerce.

The proved facts in the case are that the government machinery is growing very rapidly, and while there are a good many reductions in the force, still these are offset by actual requirements for additional help, which, supplemented by the usual number of jobs doled out as the result of "political pull" keeps the number of Federal employes unnecessarily high, resulting in the increase of the burden which the taxpayer must bear.

Were the government employes required to deliver the same amount of work that they would if in private employ, the number of "soft snaps" could be greatly reduced without materially affecting the amount of work done. But every employe of the government seems to think that it is up to him or her to do as little work as possible and still hold the job, thereby probably doubling the number of necessary workers. Some day the people are going to demand in no uncertain tones that efficiency be installed in government work and that the employe who cannot "deliver the goods" be given his walking papers instanter.

WAR IS NOT OVER FOR THESE While a lot of people are forgetting all about the war there are still approximately 17,625 War Risk patients in the government hospitals. The government has decided to convert two of the national homes for volunteer soldiers into sanatoriums for the exclusive treatment of tuberculosis and another one of the homes into a sanatorium for the exclusive treatment of mental cases.

These institutions are made necessary because of the condition of ex-soldiers, most of whom have suffered from shell shock and poisonous gases. These patients who have become disabled because of their military or naval service are provided for under the War Risk act.

THE LURE OF THE WHITE LIGHTS The United States census shows that one-fourth of the folks in the United States now lives in cities of over 100,000 inhabitants. There are now 66 cities of that character in this country. In the ten years since the 1910 census more than 6,500,000 people who before then lived in small communities have gone to cities of 100,000 or more. On the other hand the large cities have not lost so largely of their population, and every time the director of the census puts out a new bunch of figures they show that the lure of the white lights constantly adds to the number of recruits gathered from the small towns and farming districts.

HARDING—THE EDITOR

Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican nominee for President, is thoroughly familiar with the imposing stone and can "make-up" rapidly and skillfully. Here he is shown "making-up" forms in the composing room of his newspaper, the Marion (O.) Star.

A DAY WITH SENATOR HARDING

Calm, Steady, Determined, the American Who Is Leading the Republican Party to Victory Goes About the Business of the Campaign in His Modest Office in Marion.

By WILLIAM HOSTER.
The American people will decide, of course. If they can visualize the vital principle which is at stake—the spirit which is at once the keynote and the mainspring of the campaign upon which the nation has entered, there can be no doubt of the result.

It isn't a thing that can be carried about the country, and exhibited from the rear end of a Pullman car. It is wholly apart from the red fire, blaring bands and stump oratory of old-fashioned campaigns. The issue, in short, goes deep down to that principle which has been the mainspring of the national life since the days of Lexington and Concord; and the patriotic citizen, Republican and Democrat alike, by taking counsel with himself, will find it imbedded in his own heart.

Here in Marion, O., you get a concrete exposition of that vital principle. It is good to come to Marion and get the true perspective. You are brought anew, here, to the realization that the country is in process of electing a chief executive to guide the destinies of 120,000,000 people for the four years ensuing from March 4 next; that the very serious business of bringing about what a European observer described as "a revolution by due process of law," is going forward with a proper regard for the dignity and importance of the task.

Scene Entirely Appropriate.
Your first impression is of the fitness of Marion as the scene for the enactment of such a chapter in American history. It is a quiet little country town, for all its boasted industrial activity; and when you approach the Harding residence, one among many in its simplicity and attractiveness, you feel it is quite in keeping with events that from this typical American home there should come a modest, dignified and capable, up-standing American upon whom the choice of his fellow citizens should fall to uphold the honor and traditions of the nation. This conviction grows when you meet the man. He is typical of the successful business man—of the hundreds of thousands of successful Americans who have accumulated a competence through the ordinary channels which are open to all hard working, straightforward American boys.

Meet him, now. He has established an office in the home of George Christian, Jr., his secretary, which adjoins the Harding house—and this is typical; chief and secretary live side by side, each owning his own modest home. And by the way, these executive officers are illuminating as to the kind of a man it is whom the Republican party has made its standard bearer in this epoch-making campaign. Every room in the house is given over to the business in hand—the senator's conference room is the Christian dining room, his private office, where the important conferences are held, is the kitchen. In the living room sits Christian. Elsewhere, from cellar to garret, the staff are at work. No confusion, no disorder, no hectic shouting at the top of one's voice, no running around in circles, pounding of the table, no Harrying, Jimmying or Billying, with strident denunciations of the other side, and loud boastings of the way the opposition candidate is to be beaten into a pulp. Just a thorough, careful, business-like transaction of the business in hand—precisely the way in which we like to think the work of 120,000,000 people will be conducted at the White House after March 4.

Step into the dining room and meet the senator. Just at the minute he is reading proof on editorials which are to be printed in his newspaper, the Marion "Star," in the afternoon. The senator stands for everything that is printed in the "Star," and is careful to read what goes into its columns before the paper goes to press. Disposing of the proof sheet, he shakes hands cordially with you, and you are at liberty to size him up.

Mark Him Dependable.
He is somewhat above the average, of course, because he has already been singled out by the people of Ohio to represent them in the senate. But aside from this: You are at once struck by his balance and his poise. There is that in his face, on his brow, which gives assurance that he is got the sort of a man who will speak without thinking, or act without deliberating. There is reserve force in his bearing, determination in his jaws, character in his mouth, kindly sympathy in his eyes.

As you listen to him talk here in the Christian dining room, or later, in a speech to a visiting delegation from the front porch of his home, this conviction is strengthened. He doesn't say anything in his office that he wouldn't say out on the porch, nor anything on the porch that he wouldn't adhere to in all sincerity in his office.

The thing that strikes you at all times—it is the very atmosphere of Marion—is his moderation, his restraint—the absence of all bombast and exaggeration in his statements, the careful presentation of the issues, the avoidance of all attempt to array one class against the other, the conveyance of the desire, if called to the presidency, to be president of all the people; and, without making any high-sounding promises, to give all of the people the best that is in him.

Avoids Personal Controversy.
Particularly noticeable is his avoidance of personal controversy. Not once since his nomination has Harding referred in a public speech to his opponent. He adheres to the issues. Not once has he permitted himself to indulge in personal denunciation of his rival.

He is sane. He has fixed convictions as to the moderation and balance which should characterize candidates for the high office of the presidency; departure from which he believes, without doing any good to the candidate who offends, does serve to bring American institutions into contempt.

During the war there was a Harding-kind of man in service as bo'sun on an American merchantman. The time came when the ship was torpedoed; and the bo'sun was put in charge of the tiller on the whaleboat in which a goodly portion of the crew took refuge. A storm arose, and there was imminent danger that the boat would be swamped. In the stern sheets sat the bo'sun, rigid and erect, his hand locked to the tiller. He said little—"Steady!" now and then to the rowers; or "hold fast; take her head on!" as the boat rose on the crest of a giant wave, and then plunged straight down into the trough of the sea. But for twenty-three hours straight-away, he held fast to the tiller, and he didn't relinquish it until he had guided the boat hard and fast on a friendly beach.

Then he got up and stretched and asked for a pipe of tobacco.

Calm, steady, determined and knowing his business, one conceives of the other Harding thus guiding the ship through any storm that may arise, to a safe harbor.

MAKING WAR ON DISEASE MENACE

American Red Cross Announces Budget of $48,200,000 For Current Year.

NEW DISASTER RELIEF PLAN

Continuance of Heavy Work Abroad Deemed Necessary to Protect United States—$21,000,000 Less Than Last Year.

A program of relief and service toward which appropriations of $48,200,000 have been made has been outlined for the American Red Cross for the fiscal year, July 1, 1920, to July 1, 1921, according to official announcement by national headquarters of the organization at Washington. The figures for 1920-21 are $21,000,000 below those of 1919-20, in which $69,400,000 was spent.

Important among the items of the budget for the present year is the appropriation of $31,500,000 for relief in foreign lands, which includes $11,000,000 in purchased supplies on hand and not distributed.

Must Protect United States.

This will enable the American Red Cross to continue its humanitarian effort to aid stricken peoples to re-establish themselves, to fight the disease epidemics which threaten many countries and to efface largely the remaining traces of the blight left by the World War. It is regarded as social as well as physical sanitation on a large scale that will have a direct bearing on future conditions in America.

Central Europe, the chief sufferer from the conflict, today is facing another winter of famine, pestilence and ruin. Typhus decreased much during the summer months where last winter it had its greatest stronghold, but physicians who investigated the situation at the behest of the League of Red Cross Societies have given their unqualified opinion that this coming winter will see a recurrence on an unprecedented scale. The Red Cross feels it must continue preventive measures abroad to keep this and other deadly maladies from the United States.

Millions for Work at Home.

When the disease was sweeping Central Europe last winter the American Red Cross, with the aid of the governments of afflicted nations, undertook the fight against it. Hospitals were established wherever possible and food and clothing were distributed to the undernourished populations, who by reason of their undernourishment were easy prey to the epidemics. Where disorganization contributed last year to the great inroads made by the disease, by virtue of its knowledge of the disease and the presence of well established hospital centers, the American Red Cross this year will undertake the work with a new confidence.

Including the total of $11,000,000 in supplies left from the last fiscal year, the $31,500,000 is $21,000,000 less than the expenditures for 1919-20.

Appropriations for domestic activities total $18,700,000. The largest item of this "home" budget is $7,800,000 for civilian relief work. This includes service and assistance for families of soldiers, sailors and marines, and work incidental to disaster. Of the total appropriation for civilian relief, $5,000,000 is held in reserve for the carrying out of actual disaster relief.

Reduced Overhead Expense.

The Red Cross invariably is the first thought of a community visited by calamity. With this in mind, it was determined by the Executive Committee in preparing the budget of 1919-20 to have a fixed reserve fund from which to draw in these instances.

For assistance to soldiers, sailors and marines in hospitals and in camps this year $1,800,000 has been set aside. Four million two hundred thousand dollars has been appropriated for improvement of health and prevention of disease throughout the United States during the current twelve months. The Red Cross is co-operating fully with the United States Health Service in this work and through its Junior Red Cross is doing much to spread among children the principles of sanitation. An appropriation of $1,000,000 has been made for developing the peace time program of the Red Cross by service to its chapters in all regions.

The appropriation of $48,200,000 is exclusive of the local expenditures of the 8,000 or more chapters. Administration expenses this year will be $1,800,000. Last year they were $2,800,000.

Lime Water Bread.

Lime is lacking in the tropics, generally speaking, and for that reason a medical authority urges the eating of bread made of lime water as a means of supplying the necessary element to the system.

SCHOOL DAYS

ENTITLED TO HIS PENSION

Intelligent Dog Well Earned the Gratitude of His Master—Action Saved Child's Life.

Teddy, age twenty-two, is his owner declares, the oldest dog in Ohio. He is now resting on his laurels, for he recently saved the life of one of the children of his master, Onias O. Swander, a farmer, near Toledo, Ohio.

It has been Teddy's duty and joy to accompany the Swander children to school, a mile distant, and bring them home again, daily. He has never been late on the job. On the way home from school recently, one of the little Swanders became ill suddenly and fell by the roadside. Teddy immediately started at his fastest pace for home and made such a fuss that members of the family accompanied him back along the road.

They found the child, unconscious, and extremely cold. He was hurried home and restored to health. The Swanders believe that Teddy's prompt action saved the child's life.

Mr. Swander immediately bought a dog license for his faithful dog. "I'll have no dog catcher chasing him. If anything should happen to that dog, my family would grieve as much as if he were one of them," declared Mr. Swander.

Teddy is half coyote and half Indian dog. He was bought from a band of Comanche Indians in Oklahoma 16 years ago.—Charles A. Henderson, in Our Dumb Animals.

Patching Wall Paper.

To patch gouges made in the wall by sharp-cornered furniture, fill the hole with plaster of paris to which has been added dissolved glue to delay the hardening process. Use a half cup of dry glue to a half pound of plaster of paris. Let a scrap of the original paper fade in the sun to match the wall paper, and tear out a patch, making it irregular in shape. Carefully peel off layers from the back, thus making the patch as thin as possible and apply to the wall.

Every person mentally and physically able to do so should take the American Red Cross instruction in First Aid Treatment. It's a life-saver and a pain-saver on the farm, in the factory, on the street, at the office, in the home, wherever accidents may occur. Here's a young wife who ineptly wielded a can-opener and received an ugly gash across her wrist from the jagged can lid. Mother was there, however, with the First Aid kit and Red Cross instruction, and probably prevented a case of blood poisoning by giving prompt and proper treatment before the doctor arrived.

OBEDIENCE TO NATURAL LAW

Fear Implanted in Mankind for the Purpose of Promoting Caution—Differs in the Sexes.

"In normal, well-balanced persons there is a certain relation between the element of fear and the element of courage. Fear is an emotion existing for the purpose of promoting caution, and in primitive days and in animals tends to self-preservation. Anger, curiosity and courage are factors which oppose fear and flight. When knowledge, experience, repetition, finally limit or delimit the action of these two opposing instincts and emotions, conscious action is carried out with understanding according to the inherent reactions.

"Woman was made with the element of fear and caution more pronounced than in man, because woman, the mother, was not supposed to be the fighter. Man, primitive man, the fighter, was more endowed with courage."

These quotations from a report by Dr. Samuel Wyllys Bandler of New York to the Journal of the American Medical association preface a discussion of the differences in the ductless, or endocrine, glands in man and woman. In normal persons these balance each other, but the balance is different in the two sexes and, according to Doctor Bandler, it is this difference in balance that causes the differences in the instincts and emotions.

SHREWDNESS BORN IN HIM

Successful Man's Ability as Trader Was Shown at an Extremely Early Age.

From day to day proof is forthcoming that genius is spontaneous and not a slow growth—that it is of the type of Minerva who sprang full-armed from the head of Zeus. This is evidently as true of the genius of the quart as it is properly supposed to be of the more esthetic forms of genius.

An instance in substantiation of this opinion was recently related by a veteran business man as a side light on the why of the success of a well-known industrial leader.

"I remember him," it was related, "when he was a lad of six years. He wanted to trade a lantern for one owned by a playmate, which he admired. Coming to his father, he asked counsel about the matter and was informed that he should use his own judgment.

"Well, dad," said the boy, "I believe I'll trade; but wouldn't you take the oil out first?"—Wall Street Journal.

Made Through Job of It. The domestic happiness of an innkeeper in a village in the Jura has been shattered by the action of a jealous wife. Ten years ago the innkeeper, who is French, brought home from America a buxom woman of Austrian birth named Sophie. Sophie is now fat and forty, and the affections of her husband have decreased. Sophie resolved to revenge herself, and when her husband was absent, she smashed all the furniture and then turned on all the taps of the wine barrels. Finally she soaked the wreckage with petroleum and set it alight. When the husband appeared his wife threw on the fire a number of bank notes which represented their savings. While the neighbors were busy trying to extinguish the flames Sophie hanged herself from the branch of a tree.—From the Continental Edition of the New York Herald.

To Be Remembered. Learning, undigested by thought, is labor lost.

Dangerous to Woo a Spider.
Mrs. Spider will always eat Mr. Spider, if she can catch him, quite soon after they are mated. The female spider, too, will frequently devour her rejected suitors. Her swains dance a fiery sort of jazz before her, this being the method usually resorted to for ensnaring the lady's affections. The female, if she thinks one of them would make a toothsome morsel, eats him before he can protest. If she decides to choose a mate she will dance with him.

The Nursery
Bright colors, plenty of light, clean windows, an abundance of good colored prints and toys without number are the proper furnishings for a nursery. Nursery! Why, the very name tells you what it ought to be—the home of child hood—the most important room in the house—a room that will greatly tend to stamp the character of your child for the remainder of his life.

No Call to Interfere.
My neighbor's little four-year-old girl is very old-fashioned. I was cutting off some dead limbs from my tree across the street from her and she was watching me. She called to me and said: "What are you doing?" I answered, "Oh, only cutting some dead branches off. It's all right. Isn't it?" She thought a minute and replied, "I guess so; it's your tree."—Exchange.

Days of Gluttony.
Seventy-five years ago it was not unusual for a formal English breakfast to last two hours, while a dinner might start at 8:30 o'clock and be protracted till midnight. And the courses were as many and substantial as the meals were lengthy.

THE SANDMAN STORY

FOX'S HOME IN TREE

MR. DOG did not dream that Mr. Fox lived in a little house high up in a tree and which Mr. Dog decided he would investigate. Mr. Fox was not at home when Mr. Dog visited the house for Mr. Fox was out roaming over the hill looking about for a stray turkey or hen and he did not come home until it was nearly dark.

He ran up the ladder and, without striking a light, he went toward the stove to see how his soup which he had left cooking was getting on, and stumbled over Mr. Dog. Up jumped Mr. Dog with a gruff bark, and Mr. Fox, not stopping for the ladder, jumped out of the window and almost broke his neck, while Mr. Dog looked after him, barking and yelping in a terrible manner.

Mr. Fox did not stop. He kept on running, and Mr. Dog, thinking of the bones he did not finish, before he became sleepy, turned away from the window and began to eat. While he was eating, the guests for a housewarming, which Mr. Fox had planned, began to arrive. Mr. Coon did not need the ladder to help him, or Mr. Possum, either, nor did Mr. Squirrel, but, as it was there, they felt it would not be polite to enter any other way.

Mr. Possum started up first and behind him Mr. Coon. Then came Mr. Badger and Mr. Rabbit behind him, while Mr. Squirrel ran up the side of the ladder.

When they were about half way up Mr. Dog, hearing a noise outside, went to the door, and of all the surprised creatures you ever saw, the guests were the most surprised, unless it was Mr. Dog. He forgot to bark for a second, he was so taken back.

Then he recovered, and out of the door he went; but he was not used to going down a ladder, and on the first round he slipped and down he went.

The guests started to jump just as Mr. Dog barked, but they were not out of the way when Mr. Dog fell, and down they all tumbled. Mr. Dog, Mr. Possum, Mr. Coon and Mr. Badger.

Mr. Squirrel jumped, too, but he jumped for a limb of the tree and was not in the mixup. He said it was the funniest sight he ever saw and he had a fine view from where he sat.

But Mr. Rabbit said he was sure his view of the affair was the best, for, being nearest the bottom of the ladder when the tumble began, he was up and out of the way when they all came down on the ground.

"You could not tell who was who or which from the other," said Mr. Rabbit, later talking it over with Mr. Squirrel.

It was a long time before Mr. Fox could make the guests believe he had not planned to have Mr. Dog at his housewarming, but when Mr. Squirrel told them that he had seen the bones on the floor and the kettle in the sink they finally forgave Mr. Fox.

He decided the ground floor was the safest for him after all, and when he was once again settled he gave a feast, and this time Mr. Dog was not there. (Copyright.)

FRECKLES

WITHIN the last few weeks several dozen requests have come to me from different parts of the country, to explain the reason for freckles, and to give some advice upon their prevention and treatment. Many people think that it is the heat of the sun's rays that cause freckles. Scientists have found out, however, that it is not the heat but the light from its electric rays—called its actinic rays—which develops these small blotches. In hot countries, these are stronger than in cold climates.

Now, neither blue nor white veils are protection against these, as the electric rays pass directly through these colors. On the other hand, red rejects them, so red veils would be an absolute protection. But red would be too hard on the eyes to make such an accessory practical. Reddish brown is a good choice.

Massage will tend to prevent freckles, for massage will keep the skin clear of blemishes. A skin well powdered and rubbed with cream will come off unfreckled from exposure. Orange flower, elder flower or cucumber water will bleach freckles. Buttermilk will bleach them on some skins. A French doctor says that if the skin be rubbed nightly with the white of an egg beaten to a froth and mixed with an equal proportion of sweet almond oil, that the texture will stay white and wrinkles will be ward off for many years. This mixture will bleach freckles if after the morning bath this solution is also rubbed into the skin.

To a hundred grammes of rose water add five grammes of borax—the latter just kitchen borax, if you can get the proper measurement. Ten grammes of spirits of camphor are added next—every medicine chest likely contains this—and five grammes of tincture of benzoin. This last is added to close the pores of the skin.

These are all simple ingredients, usually found in every medicine cabinet, and they will keep the skin smooth and soft and free of blemishes.

To Avoid Noise
If doors in evening are left open the wall with a rug on it will absorb the sound and overcome by its own weight the wall, where the door strikes the small nail so as not to damage the wall.

Promises of Spring.
It is not the variegated colors, the electric sounds and the warm breezes which entice us so much in spring; it is the quiet prophetic spirit of endless hope, a presentiment of many happy days. Margaret Optiz.

Almond Blanc Mange.

Make a paste of four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, wet with a little cold milk. Stir it into a quart of milk with four tablespoonfuls of sugar, and boil until thick. Flavor with a few drops of almond extract and stir in half a cupful of blanched shredded almonds. Mold, chill and serve with cream.

Bread Pudding.

Take one quart of milk and one pint of bread crumbs, two well-beaten eggs, a pinch of salt and one tablespoonful of butter. Bake about twenty minutes. Nuts or raisins or both are an addition to this pudding. After it is baked, jam or jelly may be spread over the top and a meringue to cover. Bake until a delicate brown.

Baked Pears.

Use the hard, large pears used for cooking. Core but do not peel. Fill the cores with brown sugar and bake in a pan containing little water. Baste occasionally and cook until tender. Serve hot or cold with cream or a in boiled custard.

Bordeaux Pudding.

Cut a sponge cake into three layers, spread with jam, put together again, cover with whipped cream sweetened and flavored and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Serve on a platter. Another dessert similar to this which is most attractive is prepared as follows: Bake a light sponge cake in a round tin; split and put together with a thick filling of sweetened whipped cream, flavored to taste. Serve cut in wedge-shaped pieces with a spoonful or two of any fresh berries as a garnish.

Chocolate Pudding.

Take one cupful of stale bread-crumbs and enough milk to make a smooth paste when boiled with the crumbs. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of cocoa, sugar and vanilla to taste. Take from the fire and add three egg yolks well beaten, then the whites beaten stiff and folded in. Put into a buttered baking dish and bake carefully. Serve with whipped cream or plain cream with sugar.

Jam Pudding.

Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter; add two well-beaten eggs and stir in a cupful of any preferred jam. Butter a pudding mold and put in it a layer of crumbs, then a layer of the jam mixture; repeat until the dish is full, having the crumbs on top. Bake or steam and serve hot or cold.

Last Night's Dreams —What They Mean

ACORNS.

THAT simple little fruit of the oak tree, the acorn, has divided the mystic world of those who profess, or have professed, to read the riddle of dreams into two violently antagonistic camps. According to one set of penetrators of the veil the acorn shed by the tree of night through the visions of our slumbers is as much to be desired as rubies and fine gold; to the other set it is a thing to be abhorred. Those who sit in the camp of the pessimists and the predictors of evil declare that to see an acorn in one's dreams means dire poverty ahead if you don't watch out. Another one waits that it means that you are about to commit an irreparable fault. "Not so," comes the cheerful and confident cry from the other camp; the acorn seen in dreams is one of the happiest auguries; the acorn is one of dream-land's most desirable products. Those who say otherwise are night birds of ill-omen, croaking in the leafless dream-trees where acorns never grow. To dream of acorns, say this school of optimistic mystics, is a sure sign of good things ahead; much happiness in store for you. It means, among other good things, that you will derive much gain from your present business, which will increase under your fostering care. If you dream that you are picking acorns from the tree it means that, after trials, you will have a sure success. If you are now a laborer, or a worker of any sort, and you dream that you are eating acorns it is a sure sign that, from your present condition of toil, you will rise to a condition of peace and ease and plenty. When doctors disagree who shall decide? Give us the optimists, every time!

The Grip of Grit.

Grit is one of the greatest assets in the world. Grit is something that is in the blood. It has a way of putting fire into the eye and stiffness into the backbone. In the most needy hours it rises like a full clad knight to win both place and honor. You can't buy it. Attempts to bribe it cause resentment. Organized opposition merely helps it get into fighting trim. It's that part of the nature that knows no defeat and isn't afraid of anything. When you read of the greatness of men you can put it down to grit.

Straight talk on Cream Separators by C. H. Prescott & Sons

Tawas City, Mich.

COST—is what you put into a cream separator.

VALUE—is what you take out of your cream separator.

Value in a cream separator depends upon the amount and the quality of service to be got out of it.

Because it lasts fifteen to twenty years, the De Laval is the most economical cream separator to buy. Considering its cleaner skimming, easier running, greater capacity and less cost for repairs, the price of the "cheapest" machine on the market is exorbitant in comparison.

With present high butter-fat prices and the scarcity of labor this is truer today than ever before.

We would like an opportunity to talk this over—next time you are in town

LONG LACE-MAKING CENTER

Since 1665 Ypres Has Been Celebrated for the Excellence of Its Manufactures.

It was in 1665 that the manufacture of lace, now known as Valenciennes, was begun at Ypres, and with other cities and towns and hamlets in Flanders the clack of the bobbins and the chatter of the lacemakers may once more be heard. Many a little village is re-establishing its industry and is finding as ready a market as it did before the war. Flemish laces have always been favorites in England from the time when Henry VIII in 1546 made a present of "kerchiefs fringed with Flemish work" to "his verrie deare wife," Catherine Parr. Lace making was part of the education of women in the Low Countries in the latter part of the fifteenth century, and Charles V ordered it to be taught in the schools, but in 1660 it was not only a flourishing industry in Belgium but, with the approval of Louis XIV, a Manufacture Royal de Dentelles was founded, and lacemakers from Flanders were brought to France, as Flemish lace was even more sought after than Italian lace. It was at this time that some of the most famous "points" first appeared and were developed. The "point de Bruxelles," which is made with the needle, and "Binche" lace, the queen of all pillow lace, as well as "point d'Angleterre" in which pillow and needlework are mingled, all enhanced the reputation of the Flemish designers.

RABBIT PELTS IN DEMAND

Country Boys Have Opportunity to Make Some Money During the Coming Winter Months.

In recent years several kinds of fur, formerly of so little value as to offer no inducement to the trapper, have increased in price, and consequently collecting them has been made profitable.

Rabbit pelts, which are extensively used by hat makers, are among these products. Formerly rabbit skins were of virtually no value; country boys who eagerly sought the lair of the skunk and the raccoon and who were even able to sell squirrel skins, thought so little of the rabbit and made so little effort to dispose of the skins that they were seldom used except to form a pad on which they "knuckled down" in the marble game.

Now, however, rabbit skins are worth something, and the country boy who will devote this winter to saving and marketing the skins of the rabbits he kills should make a comfortable sum of money.

One big eastern firm has announced that it will need 10,000,000 rabbit skins. The skins are usually sold by the pound, which will contain seven or eight skins.

Bret Harte Slapped Him.

The man who knew Bret Harte was discovered in the lobby the other morning.

"I was a devil in the shop where the Overland Monthly was printed," he began, after being identified as James H. Barry, editor of the Star, San Francisco's only Democratic paper. "Bret Harte was employed in the mint. He sent over the manuscript of 'The Luck of Roaring Camp,' and they finally decided to print it despite the objection of a sensitive lady proofreader. Somehow the proofs had to be pulled in a hurry, and the only ink available at the moment was blue. I carried the blue proofs over to Harte. He said: 'What the hell is this blue ink for? I can't read it. Haven't they got any black?'"

"I was too scared to make any explanation and I got the usual reprimand administered to printers' devils in those days. Harte reached over and slapped my face. I always hated him after that."—Sun and New York Herald.

Find a 12-Pound Nugget.

A nugget of almost pure gold, weighing 12 pounds, was recently discovered near the Charters Tower mine in Queensland, Australia. For years the Towers of Queensland, which up to the seventies was a desolate tract, too poor and seedy for sheep, has boasted a premier position among Australian gold fields. Levels are worked at a depth of nearly half a mile. This particular find is worth $4,000. A 12-pound nugget is no record; but in most nuggets all is not gold that glitters; a 12-pounder of "almost pure gold" is rare. The world's record nugget came from Ballarat in 1858—2,217 ounces, worth $5,000.

Rail-Creep on Railroad Bridges.

The chief engineer of the Madras railway has something to say regarding rail-creep on railway bridges in India, in a recent issue of Indian Engineering. In the case of the Godavari bridge, where the creep amounted to as much as three to four feet a year, a special cast-iron sleeper was designed to suit the 75-pound flat-footed rail, with a jaw large enough to receive a lock-fast steel key. This reduced the creep to insignificance, and generally the author is confirmed in the conclusion reached by him in 1887 that "creep" can only be remedied by effective anchorage.—Scientific American.
