Count Tolstoi has described his conversion in the simplest terms in the introduction to "My Religion."

"Five years ago faith came to me; I believed in the doctrine of Jesus, and my whole life underwent a sudden transformation. What I had once wished for I wished for no longer, and I began to desire what I had never desired before. What had once appeared to me right now became wrong, and the wrong of the past I beheld as right. My condition was like that of a man who goes forth upon some errand and having traversed a portion of the road, decides that the matter is of no importance, and turns back. What was at first on his right hand is now on his left, and what was on his left is now on his right; instead of going away from his abode, he desires to get back to it as soon as possible. My life and my desires were completely changed; good and evil interchanged meanings. Why so? Because I understood the doctrine of Jesus in a different way from that in which I had understood it before. I understood the words of Jesus and life and death ceased to be evil; instead of despair, I tasted joy and happiness."

"Helping the Horse"

A certain lady was returning from a distant market with two heavy laden baskets. On the way she was overtaken by a farmer with horse and cart, who asked the lady to put her baskets in the cart and ride with him. On being seated she took the heaviest basket and placed it on her knees. The farmer asked her why she did not leave the basket in the cart, and not burden herself with it. She replied, "Well, you see I thought I would help the horse."

How frequently after the Lord tells us to "cast our burden upon Him" do we take the business from Him to carry it ourselves.

Tawas City, Mich., Oct. 28, 1920. To All Automobile Drivers: I respectfully request you not to drive nor park your cars on Lake Street between Taylor's corner and Fridgman's corner on Saturday evening, Oct. 30, 1920, between the hours of 7 and 8 p. m. on account of the parade the children will have at that hour. SOIL SURVEY SHOWS MICHIGAN LANDS FERTILE

That certain soils of the Saginaw Valley and Thumb districts of Michigan may be compared favorably with the famous corn belt sections of Illinois and other fertile regions, is the opinion of Dr. M. M. McCool, head of the soils department at the Michigan Agricultural college.

The estimate of the fertility of these state lands is based upon the findings of a soil survey of the lake bed area in the Saginaw Valley and Thumb districts, which has just been completed by Dr. McCool and Prof. G. M. Grantham of M. A. C. The soils of the whole district have been classified, mapped, and their plant-food content determined by means of chemical analysis.

"With the exception of the sand ridges and deep sandy deposits, the soils of these areas are well supplied with lime," says Dr. McCool. "In fact the subsoils, ranging from 14 to 24 inches from the surface carry a high per cent of this valuable constituent, and the surface soils are 'sweet' in reaction. Where drainage is adequate all legumes thrive without the use of lime."

"For the staple crops grown on the older farms, acid phosphate is needed and brings adequate returns on the investment. The nitrogen content of the heavier soils is high. Potash, with the possible exception of sugar beets and cabbage, is not needed.

"The sand ridges and sandy areas are deficient in lime, nitrogen and phosphorus, and unless stable manure is used complete fertilizers of a high grade are usually very profitable."

"The well drained loams, silt loams and clay loam soils of these areas compare very favorably in fertility and productivity with the famous corn belt soils."

HALLOWEEN

Plans for the Community Halloween Frolic next Saturday night are progressing nicely. The committee on arrangements is much encouraged by the hearty response they have been receiving on all sides, and the evening promises to be an interesting and jolly one. Posters and lists of the prizes for the masked parade have been distributed, but in order that those who may not have had an opportunity to see the lists may become familiar with them, the Herald has kindly consented to print one in this week's issue, a copy of which is appended.

Please note that all participants in the parade will meet at 7 o'clock at Taylor's corner, where they will receive numbers and be assigned their places in the parade. Only those in masquerade costume with faces disguised can take part. This is desirable in order that the judges may not be unduly influenced and that the prizes may be awarded with fairness to all.

After the parade everybody will adjourn to the beach, a huge bonfire lighting the way, where gang songs in charge of A. R. Gold will help enliven the evening, and red-hots from the caldron of the three witches of Macbeth will provide for the inner man. Once again, for the sake of fairness to all, it has been thought best to charge a small fee for the red-hots.

Some time during the merrymaking on the beach, the judges will announce their decisions and tell the lucky masquerader where he or she may go to receive his or her much coveted prize. The Twentieth Century club wishes to take this opportunity to thank all those who so generously contributed of their time, interest and money toward the success of the evening. Besides those donating actual prizes, several interested friends and citizens gave money toward the cash prizes, leaving the apportioning of the same to the decision of the committee. Mr. Herb Downer and Mr. William Fitzhugh helped furnish some of the noise-making instruments for the parade and the editor of the Herald donated advertising space which was no small item, for is it not through the medium of the press that we are able to foster the community spirit to a great extent?

It is hoped if this year's Halloween proves a success, that another year it may be repeated on a much more elaborate scale.

THE SCHOOL AMENDMENT

Following is a communication which the Herald editor received from a subscriber last week, but which, owing to a press of other work, could not be answered before:

The Tawas Herald: "Please explain in your next paper about the school amendment to be voted on Nov. 2nd, as there is a lot of misrepresenting and misunderstanding among the voters."

The school amendment, as the Herald editor understands it, is meant to go away with all private and parochial schools and compel all children between the ages of five and sixteen years to attend the public schools until they have graduated from the eighth grade, or in case the school in their district does not reach the eighth grade, then they must complete the number of grades taught in their district. Provision would, of course be made for the continuance of the state schools for the blind, deaf and dumb, as these schools are necessary to take care of the afflicted ones for whom they have been established.

One of the main reasons advanced by its sponsors for the passage of the amendment is that in many of the private or parochial schools the instruction is given in a foreign language and the principles of true Americanism is not inculcated into the minds of the pupils as thoroughly as in the public schools. In support of this contention they point to the large percentage of soldiers in the late war who when taken into the service could not speak a word of English.

Those opposing the amendment contend that it will interfere with their religious liberty and that the parochial schools are necessary in order to perpetuate their religious teachings in the minds of their children.

Many other arguments are presented by both sides, but time and space do not allow of their presentation here. As is usual in such controversies there has been misrepresentation of the facts in the case, but most of the arguments aside from those mentioned above can be eliminated and the question decided upon these two points. Most people have decided opinions on the subject, which all the arguments would not change, so the matter must be left to a decision at the polls next Tuesday.

THE CONSUMER'S VIEWPOINT

October 18, 1920

To the Tawas Herald:

"The Retailer and Prices" is the heading of a piece in the Tawas Herald Oct. 15th.

We surely sympathize with our merchants and realize their ticklish position, but regret that they never mentioned what was on their shelves when prices went up. So maybe the loss will not be so serious after all, being that the average of them that attend to their business have improved and are apparently independent in their financial standing, some maybe rich. So we hope they will be alright when the crisis is over.

At any time that our local stores and merchants sell goods and qualities at the same price as they can be bought for elsewhere there will be no one chasing off to other cities or rail order houses for anything. But everybody is for themselves. Dealers are, why would we not be? Let one hand wash the other.

Notice the ads in Friday's Bay City paper, the difference in the price of meats. Why do we have to pay so much more up here where the meats are raised and delivered to the butcher if he will deal with the farmers? And the price paid for the same. Just investigate who pays the most for his meat, Iosco county dealers or Bay City stores, and compare that with the retail price. Investigate along the line of products the farmer offers for sale to the dealers and the prices offered and you will soon see where the land lies. Sometimes it will be nearly half of our market, but not so when sold. But just the same the farmers get the blame for the high price of products. A Consumer.

FAVORS STANDARD CONTAINERS

To eliminate the confusion and dissatisfaction now existing over the use of a multitude of containers of different shapes and sizes in the marketing of fruits and vegetables, marketing specialists of the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture, say that the establishment of a universal unit of measurement is necessary.

The unit of bushel measurement recommended is the stricken, or Winchester bushel of 2,150.42 cubic inches. With this container there is no difficulty in determining whether the measure is short, as it is required to be level full. It is a unit of sufficient size to permit the buyer readily to distinguish the multiples that are practicable for use in the sale and shipment of fruits and vegetables, and in the opinion of the bureau's specialists the establishment of this unit of measurement for containers for fruits and vegetables sold by volume would constitute an important step toward formulating a consistent policy of standardization that could be applied to practically all types of packages.

The bureau's specialists also believe that all weight per bushel laws relating to fruits and vegetables should be repealed for the reason that there is no definite relation between dry measure and weight. For example, a basket that contains 50 pounds of small apples may not hold more than 45 pounds of large ones. Containers are used interchangeably, and a box constructed to hold 50 pounds of apples becomes a 25 pound box when filled with snap beans.

Muskrat Stops Train.

The marshes around the Boston & Maine railroad yards in Boston are full of muskrats. Charley Brown, a yard brakeman, has been reeling over $100 a season since the war by shooting rats on his spare time and selling the fur, which now commands a high price.

Brown has been known to shoot a muskrat from the top of a moving freight car with a rifle.

A short time ago a muskrat tied up the interlocking switch system at signal tower C. The big rat crawled into the switchpoints to eat out the grease used to lubricate the switches just as the lever man in the tower tried to close the switch for a fast express passenger train.

The rat had wedged in so close the switch wouldn't close and the plant was tied up. The mechanic found the rat wedged into the points and crushed into a mass of fur and flesh.

American Opportunity.

Although the populated area of Siberia is only a belt along the Trans-Siberian railway, that belt is 6,000 miles long and contains nearly 20,000,000 people. Before the war Siberian foreign trade was largely in the hands of German houses, which undoubtedly will make desperate efforts to regain it when the return of normal conditions has brought back the demand for general merchandise, rolling stock and agricultural machinery. But in spite of the geographical proximity of Germany eastern Siberia, when its railway service has been reorganized, will be most easily reached by way of Vladivostok. The commercial opportunity is one that America cannot afford to neglect.—Youth's Companion.

The Confused Hun.

Dr. Thomas C. Ely of Philadelphia tells a story of his son, Lieut. William C. Ely, heard at Fort McPherson, Atlanta, which illustrates the heroism of the negro troops.

A German officer, taken captive complained that nothing could stop the Americans. They were not afraid of the shells, they defied the flame projectors, they advanced through fusillades of the machine guns of 280 to 300 bullets a minute.

"How about the gas?" some one said to the German.

"Gas?" replied the captive Hun. "It was no use to turn on the gas. It merely blackened their faces and frizzled their hair, and they came on just the same!"

A Nursery King Who Lived.

"Old King Cole," beloved of the nursery, was a British king who lived about A. D. 300. His accession was hailed with joy. To this day a large earthenware at Colchester is called "King Cole's Kitchen."

SURVIVORS OF FEUDAL TIMES

Prussian Junkers Rooted in Their Belief of Their Complete Superiority to Ordinary Man.

A Junker is a member of a noble Prussian family, who belongs to the landed aristocracy, and, as a rule, adopts the profession of arms and enters the caste circle of the officer corps. Thanks to the survival of feudalism in the organization of German society, the term has acquired a broader significance. Hence as commonly used today it indicates a narrow-minded, arrogant, and often, bellicose member of the aristocracy.

Since 1862, when, under the leadership of Bismarck, the aristocratic party came into political power, the term has been applied to those who hold reactionary views, because they desire to preserve intact the exclusive social, military and political privileges belonging traditionally to the "well born."

Junkerism and Junkerdom indicate the policies and the customary round of ideas, judgments, and prejudices characteristic of the Junker class.

They have been and still are of great influence, for they have affected Prussian domestic policies by their organized efforts to preserve and protect large landed estates; they have molded German social life by their assumption of complete superiority to the ordinary man, especially to the man who engages in trade or manufactures, while the Prussian officer corps has taken its distinctive tone from their haughty aloofness from the civilian population.

RELIGIOUS CULT MAY SPREAD

Bahism Freed From Persecution Through the Downfall of the Turkish Power in Palestine.

With the breaking of the Turkish power in Palestine another religious cult has been liberated from persecution, that of Bahalism, or Bahism. The leader of this spiritual movement is Abdul Baha, or Abbas Effendi, as he is generally known. This religion was first founded by Baha'ollah, the father of the present leader, and he chose his son to preach its doctrines before the world. Due to the antagonism of the movement to the Islam religion, Abdul Baha was imprisoned by the sultan of Turkey, who feared his teachings, and was kept a prisoner in the fortress of Akka, near Haifa, for 40 years. Upon his release in 1908, when a mild constitutional form of government was established in Turkey, Baha traveled through France and England preaching his doctrines, also coming to the United States, in 1912.

Abdul Baha strove to be called the "servant of humanity." While in the Orient he won many friends by caring for the sick and oppressed, and among the many titles given him by his neighbors was one especially applied to him, namely "Father of the Poor." While in this country he established colonies of supporters of his teachings in Chicago and Kenosha, Wis. His teachings have a close relation with those of Christianity and Judaism.

The "Porcelain Tower."

That was an octagonal structure king, China. It had nine stories, faced with variegated porcelain from which bells and lamps were hung. This was destroyed by the Taipings in 1853, but lives in history as one of the seven wonders of the middle ages.

BREAD PUDDING

BREAD pudding is a conscientious effort on the part of a thoughtless but well-meaning housewife to economize at the expense of the human stomach.

For at least one hundred years in rapid succession woman has been making bread pudding and man has been eating it. It has been observed that women who manufacture bread pudding very seldom eat enough of it to founder anybody. Love and devotion can reach no greater heights than when a bright, new husband, unused to life's ways, partakes of this dish and retains enough courage to kiss his wife good-by at the door. Some of the greatest hypocrites the world has ever produced are conciliatory husbands who eat several slabs of bread pudding and then begin to praise its tout ensemble.

Bread pudding is usually served at the close of a full meal, just when everybody is filled with a feeling of entire content. It is then led onto the table and planted in front of each guest in a threatening manner, and it is worth a man's life to gaze over it at the vinegar cruet and begin to toy with the salt cellar. One of the most tense moments in married life is when a well-muscled bride of a week places a sector of bread pudding before the man she swore to cherish and protect, and watches him edge away from the table with a crestfallen look.

This culinary misdemeanor is made chiefly of bread which has died of old age and general exhaustion. After a loaf of baker's bread has been put in the cake bin by mistake and allowed to remain there until two strong men couldn't slice it with a cross-cut saw, it can always be saved by hammering it into the form of a pudding. After surrounding it with a dollar's worth of sugar and two pounds of butter it becomes able to stand alone and throw out its chest. True, the law does not compel married men to eat it, but it is cheaper to do so and avoid court costs.

In some homes bread pudding is served twice a week, on stated days, and it will be noticed that on those days the restaurants and cafeterias are crowded with apprehensive husbands. Once in a while some husband will break into open rebellion, but this does not last long, owing to man's forgiving nature. There is something about a bread-pudding diet, however, that stamps the victim more indelibly than being tattooed on the left wrist, causing him to glance about furtively at the close of every meal.

A SQUARE DEAL

Much has been said about this subject through the public press, posters, etc., also about the duties of County officers. The following extracts are from a recently published article in a well known Michigan paper, in speaking of the State Constabulary:

"If it functions at all it must perform work which is essentially within the realm of the civil police. This fact quite naturally encourages laxness and incompetency on the part of the civil authorities. Why should a sheriff or a constable or a city policeman enforce the law and gain the ill will of political friends who might be concerned in its violation, when all they have to do is to call upon the State Constabulary to enforce it for them? In scores of cases the State Constabulary has sent its troopers into little communities to clean out a nest of moonshiners who should have been attended to by the sheriff and his deputies.

The only answer that is given to this argument is that local officers holding their positions through political influence will not take the initiative in discovering and apprehending the violators of the law. That is a fine tribute indeed to the character of men in whose hands we as voters have placed the sacred duties of protecting our lives and property. If the charge is true every law enforcement official in Michigan suspected of such indifference should be removed from office instantly. We elect sheriffs to enforce the law, we make provision for the almost unlimited appointment of deputies to assist them. If it is not their business to enforce the law

What is their business?
Refer you cast your ballot ask yourself these questions about the candidate you are about to vote for:
Is he square with his Country?
Neighbor?
Party?
County?

Is he square with himself?
Thanking you for your loyal support at the primaries and soliciting your further support at the polls Nov. 2, I am
Yours truly,
Willard J. Robinson.

Asbestos.

The earliest use of asbestos was for spinning and weaving, to make incombustible thread and yarn, rope and cloth, and this has continued to be the most important use of asbestos ever since the days of the Greeks and Romans. Only the best grades can be used for this purpose, according to J. S. Diller of the United States geological survey, department of the Interior. Thread can now be spun so fine that it will run about 32,000 feet to the pound.

TO THE VOTERS OF IOSCO COUNTY

Tawas City, Mich., Sept. 30, 1920
Whereas stories have been circulated to the effect that I was negligent in the discharge of my duties in connection with the enforcement of the prohibition laws of the state in the detection of persons violating the law, I desire to say that it is impossible for me or any officer of the county to do anything in regard to the arrest and conviction of a violator of the law, unless complaint is made to him in a regular and legal way. That an officer has no right to go into the houses and premises of persons who may be suspected of violating the law, unless he has some legal paper or complaint upon which to base his search and entry upon another man's premises.

If any citizen of the county will come to me and make complaint, or go before a Justice, it will be promptly and energetically attended to at once and everything done which can possibly be done to bring the guilty parties to trial. It is the duty of the state constabulary, or officers of the Pure Food Department to make searches and arrests upon information or complaints made to them; and they have a right to call upon the county officers to assist in making arrests or perform any other duty which may be necessary to bring guilty parties to trial or arrest; but such duty does not attach to county officers and they have no right to do these things unless proper legal steps are taken to give them the right.

TO THE PEOPLE OF IOSCO COUNTY

Whereas a number of circulars were spread about the county at the primary election held last month attacking me upon certain religious grounds and the same were absolutely false and untrue in fact, and I was injured thereby unjustly; I now wish to be set right before the voters of this county and hereby state openly and candidly that my father and mother were Swedish Lutherans, and what religious instruction I have had was in that church, and I have never in any manner altered or changed therefrom. I have never felt that I had any right to interfere with any other person in that regard, and that it is wrong and a great injustice if I should be accused and blamed for something with which I had nothing to do, and feel that such attack upon me was very unfair and unjust.

A number of lies and untrue stories were also circulated about my joining certain lodges and societies. The fact is that I never belonged to any lodge or society except the Maccabees at one time, now out of date, and the Knights of Pythias, and am now, and that is all.

adv-45 Collie Johnson.

A SQUARE DEAL

To the Voters of Iosco County:
After due consideration, and at the request of people from all over the county, I have consented to become a candidate for the office of Sheriff at the election Nov. 2nd, next.

It has come to my knowledge that certain scandalous, false and libelous circulars were distributed throughout Iosco County for the avowed purpose of defeating me at the primary, and all kinds of falsehoods were used for that purpose.

You who have known me know that I do not resort to such methods in politics; and feeling that many voted against me on account of said falsehoods and circulars being so used against me, I now ask for a square deal at your hands.

You will find my slips in the booths at all the polling places, and if you are in favor of clean, honest and upright politics, and believe in a square deal I would respectfully ask you to use one of my slips on election day.

Yours very truly,
adv-45 Collie Johnson.

Nation-wide Demonstration Sale of Pathe Phonographs and Pathe Records

BEGINNING Saturday morning, a sale of phonographs and phonograph records will be opened in this store, the character and magnitude of which is more far-reaching than has ever before been attempted in the history of music.

This is a sale which will be ultimately carried out in approximately five hundred cities and towns of the United States.

It is a move on the part of the Pathe Freres Phonograph Company of New York City, manufacturers, and the retail dealers in Pathe Phonographs and Records to bring the excellence of these instruments and records, directly, forcefully, and immediately to the close and intimate attention of music loving persons, under a plan which offers exceptional advantages to the purchaser.

The following gives the essential facts concerning this intensely interesting plan:

$25 worth of Genuine PATHE RECORDS FREE

This most unusual sale is a campaign to more directly demonstrate and thoroughly introduce Pathe Phonographs and Pathe Records to the people of this vicinity.

There have been 15 genuine Pathe Phonographs, and their complement of Pathe Records, allotted to us for this purpose. This entire allotment is right now in our store and will be sold upon the special terms and conditions mentioned elsewhere in this advertisement and there will be no delay in delivery to you.

While this announcement is most unusual, in itself, yet this alone does not give the full significance of what this sale really means.

This special sale of 15 Pathe Phonographs in this vicinity is less than one five-hundredth part of a gigantic co-operative campaign which has been planned to take the Pathe direct to the homes of the people in more than five hundred cities and towns of the United States.

It is the purpose of the manufacturers, through this attractive sale and plan to get twenty thousand more American homes right at this time to know and use and praise and boost Pathe Phonographs and Pathe Records.

Every one of the vast number of instruments required, running well into millions of dollars; every statement made, and every condition of sale accorded the purchaser will be identical. The 15 persons in this town who are so fortunate as to obtain the phonographs we have been allotted, will be given the same price to a penny, and the same conditions and guarantees as the persons in New York City, San Francisco and every other large city where this campaign may be carried on.

This sale is to create a closer acquaintance with and to further popularize the Pathe Phonograph and Pathe Records. And nothing will be permitted, in presenting their claims for your approval, that will in the slightest degree reflect upon their standing or tend to break down the great and enviable name they bear.

Origin of the Pathe and What Is Back of It

The Pathe Freres (Pathe Brothers) Phonograph Co. is one of the great, successful and enterprising houses manufacturing phonographs and phonograph records, of the world.

It is an American Company, with its principal factory located at New York City, and is a part of the world-famous European firm of Pathe Freres, which is this year celebrating its twenty-fifth year in the phonograph industry.

Pathe Freres (Pathe Brothers) are French scientists and inventors and are, today, probably the most distinguished authorities on matters pertaining to tone reproduction. They are the inventors of innumerable devices in the fields of radio wireless telegraphy, the motion picture industry and the phonograph.

The Pathe Rooster shown herewith, which is the Pathe trade mark, is one of the most widely known trade marks known to man. In the United States alone, it is estimated that ten million persons see it weekly on screens of international events shown in the Pathe News at motion picture houses.

And it is this same Rooster, this same great symbol of business honor and enterprise, that we wish, through the medium of this unusual demonstration sale, to more thoroughly introduce to the people of this community.
