MORE FUNDS NEEDED

C. A. Pinkerton, county chairman for the Near East Relief and the Hoover Relief fund, advises the Herald that the amounts received to date to apply on the county's quota of $700 have been very small. Nearly all the counties of the state have reached or exceeded their quotas and Iosco county should not be remiss in a matter of this kind.

There are millions of children in Armenia and in Europe who, but for the generosity of the American people, would die this winter from cold and starvation. Shall we let them die, or shall we give a fraction of our plenty that they may be fed and clothed? This is a question that each must decide for himself, but when making a decision just think what you would do were it your own or your neighbor's children who were hungry and cold.

Do not delay but send your contributions at once to C. A. Pinkerton, East Tawas, and thus help to carry on the worthy work that is being done.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The apostle Peter, in a fit of discouragement, denied his friendship with the "Nazarene." Not long after, when the realities of Christian experience were woven into his life, he became a faithful and eloquent defender of Gospel truth.

He was often called before a relentless court to defend his preaching and acts of Christian service. One day, however, he defended his actions so convincingly that he was allowed to return to his friends unmolested. Read his remarkable defense in the fourth chapter of Acts. It closes with a pointed statement that should not be overlooked: "There is no second name under Heaven that has been given among men through which we are to be saved."

There is strength in a good name. Solomon said: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." It gives one prestige and is an asset in transacting the business of life.

There is strength in the name of a worthy lodge. A fraternal brother is never a stranger. Though in a distant city, he has the immediate confidence and aid of every lodge-member he meets. A splendid example for all men everywhere to follow.

There is strength in a mother's name. Many boys in khaki were kept from the destructive influence of a soldier's life by the thought of the purity of their mother's name.

Well might it be said that the above are an aid to life's well-being. But life's great essential is not to be found in any of them. Life's great essential is found in the strength of Christ's name. Every other name is secondary. There is no other Power for healing sin. Leprosy is incurable—Jesus cured it. He alone can heal sin. There is no other Foundation for building character. There are a thousand human theories, but they all fail before Christ. There is no other Way of Salvation. Your good name, your lodge and even your mother's name will be useless at the bar of God. One name alone passes there—the name of Jesus.

Acknowledge the supremacy of His Name. There is your only hope for real happiness here and salvation in the life to come.

Prayer service 9:50 a. m. Morning service, 10:00. Subject, "God's Plan for His People." Sunday school, 11:15. Evening service, 7:30. Subject, "The Silversmith of Ephesus." Prayer service Wednesday 7:30. Homer W. Grimes, Pastor.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

Twenty-six members of the Twentieth Century club met at the home of Mrs. A. W. Colby on Saturday, Jan. 22. Among the important measures of the business meeting were two proposed amendments to be voted on at the annual meeting. Also two resolutions, as follows:

1st Resolved, That we heartily endorse the work of the recent survey of the Iosco county schools conducted by Dr. J. W. Plant of the Michigan Public Health department, and believing it to be productive of untold good to the children if followed up, we would respectfully urge the board of supervisors of this county to make as early as possible, a permanent appointment of a county Red Cross nurse to work in conjunction with the School Commissioner, who would report any cases among the students needing medical attention coming under notice, and also unsanitary conditions at the various schools, and that a fund be set aside by the board of supervisors to assist any needy cases reported and investigated and thus help remove many of the serious handicaps among our children, and make them 100% American citizens.

2nd Resolved, That we, the members of the Twentieth Century club of Tawas City, heartily endorse the recent establishment of the Bureau of Child Hygiene and Public Health Nursing in the Michigan Department of Public Health, and pledge our active support in carrying out its program by petitioning our representative from this district and also our senator from this district, Duncan McCrae, to give their earnest support to further its aims by urging upon the legislature the necessity of appropriating sufficient funds to carry on its important work, being now seriously handicapped for lack of funds.

The business meeting showed to us that the general trend of the Club is along civic lines more than ever before.

Our hostess proved herself efficient in more than satisfying the "inner man."

Come to the annual meeting Feb. 5 at the home of Mrs. W. J. Robinson.

WEST BRANCH BEATS TAWAS CITY

West Branch defeated the Tawas City Independents in a fast but one-sided game last Friday by a score of 42 to 15.

The game resembled a wrestling match with five matches on at the same time. The hall was small, allowing no team work at all. McKenna, center for West Branch, starred with 11 field goals. Loose playing was Tawas City's weak point.

West Branch meets Tawas on the home floor Thursday. A better showing is expected to be made by the Tawas City team.

M. E. CHURCH Have Faith

Last week we spoke of the gift of fellowship. Faith is the sacred link that unites God with man. The consistent exhortation of the Bible from Genesis to Revelation is "Have Faith."

Such is its importance that it has been well described as the "sixth sense." How mysterious are the five senses we use from day to day without trying to prove their reality to the satisfaction of the logician. Think of the wonder of sight which enables us to enjoy the manifold blessings of life; the marvel of hearing that brings us into contact with the benefits of society; the sense of smell that gives us pleasing odors and guards our health against rank poisons; the touch that guides us in sensitive ways; the taste that helps us to know the bitter from the sweet. So also faith is the sense of the soul which brings us into fellowship with God and qualifies us to make right adjustments in life. Faith gives vision to see possibilities in what appears so little. So William Booth produced fortunes out of the waste material of human life.

He who is truly able to say, "I believe in God," is in the line of faith. The great mission of Jesus Christ was to lead and inspire faith, first in Himself and thereby link the human family to the great Father, His Father, our Father, God. The true mission of the church of Christ is to direct the minds into the channels leading to faith and fellowship by faith. Faith in God is not flattery but fidelity, not servility but sympathy, not slavery but sonship. Faith is the antidote to fear.

"Faith sends its analyzing light, The clouds disperse, the shadows fly; The invisible appears in sight, And God is seen by mortal eye." Brother, sister, have faith in God, have faith always.

DOCTRINE AND CONDUCT.

In these days when there is so much dispute about doctrine, creed, opinion, faith, etc., it is strange that people don't go to the Bible (St. John, 7:17) and read: "If any man do his will he shall know of the doctrine." That is the only way to discover the doctrine. You cannot come to it; you cannot argue it into a man, you cannot furnish him with it by word. It is the life that tells. We don't care how smart a man is or how eloquent, the only way he can teach a doctrine is by his conduct. That speaks louder than words. How much time is wasted trying to convince men you are right and they are wrong. It cannot be done that way. But if you argue with fine deeds and a generous life you can make them look your way. Harsh words, petulant attacks, violent language harden men rather than win them, says Ohio State Journal. A man should be turned out of church who runs down a man by calling him names. It is positively wicked. It shows the weakness of a cause when there is a resort to personal detraction.

A French author once coined the phrase, "The land of the mind." It is a realm that many of us have forgotten. There the imaginary is real; there death is unknown, and the only riches are men's thoughts. With every age it grows with splendor. Dickens, Milton, Shakespeare, Hugo—these and countless others have left their all for those who travel there. The demands of existence have blinded some of us to the joys that lie in such travels. As children we roamed the fields of imagination, but now we believe only in the material. Yet we call ourselves wise. The dreary nights of winter are ahead, says London Express. Why not cheat them of their dreariness, and on the wings of literature journey to the Land of the Mind?

A good many towns and hamlets in the French war area have been "adopted" by different communities among the allies. Now comes the news that South Africa has bought French terrain outright. General Smuts' government actually holds the title deeds to Dilville Wood, which has a touch of sacredness to the South Africans. If things go on like this, who knows but what, in a century or two, another Jean of Arc may arise to put the foreigners out of France and win back the precious soil of France for the French!

Figures on farm profits covering seven years in two areas and five years in a third were recently given out by the United States Department of Agriculture. These figures show: That very few farmers in the groups studied have made large profits in recent years. Most of the farmers were making less than $500 cash per year over and above the things the farm furnishes. Five hundred dollars will not go very far at this time.

PROMINENT MEN EXPRESS FAVOR FOR COUNTY HOME RULE

In order to show how the proposed amendment to the State Constitution to permit Home Rule reorganization of county government has aroused enthusiastic support throughout the entire state the following comments from newspaper editors and public officials are set forth herein for the information of those interested:

"With the rapidly increasing burden of taxes some plan must be devised for reducing expenses. Most any method of county administration is better than the present cumbersome and expensive board of supervisors method. Political control always has been and always will be expensive. The multiplicity of boards and commissions of one kind and another has created a vast army of non-producers whose work is practically valueless to the community and state. Fewer and more conscientious and efficient officers would mean a lessening of the tax burden. This has been abundantly proved in the numerous cities throughout the country which are being operated under the managerial form of government. Having proved such a success in the cities, it is time now to try the system out in the next larger political unit, which is the county."

F. L. BALDWIN,
Editor Escanaba Journal.

"You have taken up a real vital subject in your effort to establish a different form of county government. Much has been said about reforms in City government, but County affairs have been conducted very much the same since Michigan became a State. In my official position, I am daily impressed with the lack of co-ordination and co-operation in the conduct of the county business."

CORNELIUS HOFFIUS,
Prosecuting Attorney, Kent Co.

"There is a duplication of work. The commissions that have been established, such as an agricultural school board, county road commission, the poor commission, fall into a rut of their own with very little supervision. * * * The county road commissioners spend as much money as all the other departments together and yet all this money is subject to the control and direction of three men not one of whom gives his exclusive time to the work. In practice, the superintendent, very rarely, is a man fitted for the responsibilities of the board."

MICHAEL J. DOYLE
Mayor of Menominee.

CITIZENS WORK FOR COUNTY HOME RULE IN MICHIGAN

PLAN IS TO ASK LEGISLATURE TO PASS CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT AT THIS SESSION.

WOULD ENABLE COUNTIES TO CHOOSE FORM OF GOVERNMENT

If Amendment is Passed Each County, By Popular Vote, Could Do Away With Wasteful Systems Now in Force.

Following a meeting at Lansing to confer with state officials, including members of the legislature, the governor, and the attorney general, on the question of county home rule for Michigan, a statement was given out by Secretary C. Roy Hatten of the state committee of citizens regarding the object and plan of the project.

"Since this idea was first launched about a year ago," says the statement, "it has been discussed in many parts of the state. It is unfortunate that we have had no plan of fixed nature to advocate, but have waited till all possible views and opinions might be expressed before framing the measure for the legislature. We followed this method so that everybody might have a chance to express an opinion, but as a result some false notions of the proposal have gotten out and have been given circulation.

"This is a plan for securing county home rule in government by constitutional amendment and subsequent action of the legislature. It absolutely is not an effort to give control of any county to the largest city in that county. It is not limited to the commission plan of government for counties. It is not a personal attack on any county officials as such, and in stead of being a new and novel idea, it has already been tried in California and some other states, with much satisfaction.

"It happens that the glaring defects of the ancient county system, or lack of system, show up strongly where a modern city government stands in contrast with that of the county. Hence in Wayne, Genesee, Bay, Kent, and similar counties, the idea of county reform has started with vim. But in none of those cities, so far as we know, is there any desire to deal unfairly with the rural sections of the county. Rather they are to receive every consideration, and be fully consulted as to the whole plan. It is to be hoped that all concerned, county officials, farmers, and taxpayers, will study the problem and say what they think, not before they get the facts and learn our viewpoint, but after.

"Every time any so-called reform is suggested, there is much shaking of the knees among certain people who hold public office. They don't want conditions changed, lest they be left out in the cold. Now it is quite possible that after county government shall have been re-organized, there will be just as much work to be done as before, and hence need for just as many workers in any given county. What we propose is to change the system and methods so that better results can be reached with less cost to the taxpayer and more satisfaction to the county officials and employees. This is not an attack of any set of so-called 'politicians,' but an effort to change the system by which they work, to furnish a better piece of machinery, if a county wishes it.

"Instead of being new, the idea is as old as the system of home rule in California counties. We are told that the better system there is so satisfactory, that no county would think of returning to the old one. They call it home rule for the county.

"It is not aimed to force the commission plan of government on any county, or the commission-manager system, though it is surprising to read how eagerly, in some rural counties, the people want 'a new deal.' It happens that in some newspaper articles there has been talk particularly of the commission plan of government based on a county charter. That question is to be left to the county itself to decide, after the legislature has laid down the rules of procedure according to the will of the people of the state.

"No county in Michigan that prefers its present system need make any change at all. Not until a majority of the people vote at the polls for a change can any move be made.

"Since the people of Michigan are paying high taxes, and want to save money in government, it would appear that county reform, in the interests of economy and efficiency, ought to make a broad appeal throughout the state, so that the legislature would soon hear from the people and the demand for permissive county home rule would be met on a fair basis."

"I should favor any method to bring the question before the people of an amendment to the constitution, and if adopted for the legislature to adopt a modern form for all the counties."

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors.

Your special committee appointed to consider the communication from the Calhoun county board of supervisors, relative to the accounting and book keeping system, pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 71, P. A. of 1919, beg leave to report: That this board of supervisors accept the communication and place the same on file, and further that the board of supervisors of Isoco county go on record as being opposed to Act No. 71, P. A. 1919, and respectfully ask our senator and representative to use all fair and reasonable effort to have this act repealed, even to the extent of a special appeal from Isoco county. Our reasons for this action are as follows: First, that we must employ under the new system of book keeping extra assistance for the county officers at the probable expense of around three thousand dollars per year; second, that we believe that the past book keeping system has been very satisfactory; third, and we further realize that the tax rate in Isoco county is becoming burdensome to the majority. We further ask that the clerk submit a copy of our report to the senator and representative from this district.

Moved by Klump, supported by Searle, that the report of special committee be accepted and adopted. Motion prevailed.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Isoco County:

Most Crowded City

The most densely populated city in the world is not New York or London, Canton or Peking, but Bombay. In proportion to its population Bombay covers very little ground. Within each square kilometer of its area live no fewer than 190,000 human beings.

WON BY APPEAL TO VANITY

How Wily Diplomat Saved Lord Beaconsfield From Bad "Break" He Had Contemplated.

Curiosity, says a London correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, is frequently expressed as to how the prime minister gets along in his conferences with foreign ministers. It is understood that, though he can make out the purport of a printed passage in the French language, he never had the opportunity of acquiring facility in the spoken tongue. In this respect he finds a precedent in the case of Lord Beaconsfield. When he went to the Berlin congress in 1878 he made known to his faithful secretary his intention of addressing the conference in French. Monty Cory, having suffered scraps of his chief's colloquial French, was aghast. In despair he applied to the British minister at Berlin for assistance. Olo Russell lived up to the occasion. In casual conversation with Lord Beaconsfield he mentioned that he had heard a rumor that he intended to address the plenipotentiaries on the following day in French. "That would," the wily minister said, "be a grave disappointment. They know that they have here in you the greatest living master of English oratory, and are looking forward to your speech as the intellectual treat of their lives." "Dizzy" immediately saw the reasonableness of this objection and all his speeches during the sittings of the congress were in English.

COULDN'T LEAVE EMILY OUT

Peculiar Reason Why Elderly Spinster Just Had to Attend the Funeral.

What has come to the mid-Victorian lady that an old friend of her mother's had died suddenly in her home in Maine. It was her duty to break the sad news to two elderly spinsters, cousins of the dear departed "auntie."

She found Miss Susan at home, tending to her pet canary. Miss Susan is 78, but spry and alert, ready for any emergency. Miss Emily, five years older, was out motoring with a kindly benefactress. The slow tears of old age trickled down Miss Susan's cheeks at the word that another of her generation had passed away. And then, with a quick transition, she began excited plans for attending the funeral, which involved a trip by boat to Portland and a long and arduous ride in a day coach. But the thought of all this, coupled with midsummer heat, did not daunt the little lady. She would go.

"But, at least, Miss Susan," urged the messenger, "you'll not take Miss Emily with you."

"And, my dear," said the lady to the woman, when she told her story over a cold lunch, "what do you suppose Miss Susan said? Seriously, in her slow drawl, she replied: 'Oh, I couldn't leave Emily behind. You see she has so little fun in her life.'"

Scraping the Ballot.

The woman who had charge of the voting machine placed in one of the downtown stores for use in the instruction of women first voters, met a number of unusual and amusing situations. A few days ago, a well-dressed woman who had all the appearances of being well informed on matters political, entered the section where instructions were being given, and after making the usual preliminary apologies, asked the young woman in charge to demonstrate the operation of the machine. She was shown what she should do in case she wished to vote a straight ticket, but this failed to satisfy her craving for instructions, and the climax was reached when she innocently requested: "And now would you mind showing me how I should work the machine if I wish to 'scrape' my ballot?"

Furs All Her Fortune.

"Alaska produces a large variety of beautiful and valuable furs upon land," says Andrew J. Stone in the Century. "It has 13 varieties of bears, six species of fox—black, blue, cross, red, silver and white—and all common land furs. The skins of its furs are of the highest quality and are larger than those produced in any other country. The Alaska moose is the largest land animal found on the western hemisphere. The meat is as choice as the best of beef and the skin makes excellent footwear and is much worn during the winter months.

The caribou, like the reindeer, lives almost exclusively upon mosses, and inhabits nearly all parts of the country except the southern coast country. They are found in large herds and supply man with millions of pounds of meat.

Helium From Natural Gas.

Up to a little more than a year ago helium was a laboratory product made at a cost of from $1,500 to $2,000 per cubic foot, but toward the close of the war its production had been simplified to the point that 8,000 cubic feet per day was produced in Texas alone.

The commercial production of helium has been stimulated by the need of a substitute for hydrogen, which is so highly inflammable that its value for military purposes in dirigibles and kite balloons is gravely impaired. Although the substitution of helium for this purpose entails a loss of 7 per cent in lifting power, this is more than compensated for by the elimination of all risk of fire and explosion. Helium suffers less loss by diffusion than hydrogen and cannot be made to burn or explode under any conditions.

Women Live Underground.

Mrs. J. R. Forbes, the well-known woman traveler, who lately returned to England after wandering for several months from Moscow to Syria, tells a story of her discovery of a tribe of women who live underground. They are to be found in the caves of the Tripoli mountains and come up, says Mrs. Forbes, only once in the course of their lives. That is when they marry and change their abode for that of their husband. Being continually in their underground caves a remarkable change takes place in their appearance. They become very white in the face, and their eyes become dark and brilliant. As they grow older they are seized with a passion for dyeing their hair with henna. In the daylight these women are almost blind; in fact they stagger about as though under the influence of drink. Their houses are spacious enough for them to keep all their live stock underground, including their camels.

Advancement in India.

A training school for Y. W. C. A. secretaries, the first of its kind in the country, was opened in India, November 1, directed by a secretary from the United States. Eight young Indian women, the same number as started in the first class of the training school in the United States in 1904, are in the first class, studying administration of association activities, club work with girls and organization of girl students. There are 47 Y. W. C. A. workers in India at present and 161 centers of work.

His Father Probably a Waiter.

"Do you remember the parable of the man who wrapped his money in a napkin?" asked the Sunday school teacher.

"Yes, ma'am," replied the tow-headed boy.

"What was the meaning of that?"

"Why, I guess the man intended the money as a tip for the waiter, ma'am."
