October, 1921, WEATHER REPORT (From U. S. Forest Service)

Throughout the entire month of October the weather was remarkable in that numerous warm days were experienced and only one killing frost resulted. Severe winds occurred throughout the month, which caused considerable concern to Forest officials from a fire hazard standpoint. The month ended, however, with only one small forest fire occurring on the AuSable district.

The weather has proved most delightful for reforesting work that has been experienced here in this month for some time 1000 acres of norway and white pine have been planted by Ranger Johnson on the Tawas district and Mr. Johnson states that weather conditions were never more favorable for planting young trees.

IOSCO COUNTY SCHOOLS

ALABASTER SCHOOL NOTES

If the parents would, before finding fault, go and visit the school and become better acquainted with the teacher during working hours a great deal of misunderstanding might be avoided. Cooperation is necessary to the success of any institution but more especially is it necessary that parents, children and teachers cooperate if a good class of work is to be done.

There are many empty seats in the primary, intermediate and grammar rooms this week on account of chicken pox.

The following county normal students visited school last Friday: Grace Anderson, Laura Bischoff, Anna and Frances Klegow. Come again.

A dance will be given by the students of Alabaster high school on Friday evening of this week Pfeiffer's orchestra will furnish the music.

The local high school team journeyed to Hale last Friday and defeated the school team of Hale 3 to 8 in an exciting five inning game. The Hale boys put up a fine game from the first but they were unable to solve Baker's oriental curves.

The high school girls are bubbling over with poetry this week. Quotations from Longfellow and Lowell are the latest sensation.

The eighth grade averaged the highest this month.

The grammar room has purchased some new history and geography maps.

The eighth grade is using historical outline maps.

This is report card week.

After the announcement of prizes had been made, each child present was presented with a big sack of popcorn and a doughnut, and a number of games were instituted for the children on the pavement in front of the Auditorium. For the older people an orchestra had been provided and dancing was enjoyed in the Auditorium until a late hour.

A number of people from West Branch accompanied the band here and several people from Prescott, Whittemore and all parts of Iosco county were present to enjoy the fun.

Much of the success of the celebration was due to the hearty co-operation of the business men of the city in contributing funds with which to employ the band and pay the liberal prizes offered for the best costumes in the various classes.

The sponsors of the frolic and all those who contributed to its success may congratulate themselves upon fostering one of the largest and most successful community gatherings ever held in Tawas City. The successes of the past two years have shown that the people enjoy this annual frolic and plans are already in the making for improving and making the event more popular next year.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AN UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS

The second annual Hallowe'en frolic and dancing party conducted in this city under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club and the business men of the city, was held on Monday evening of this week, and to state that it was a success is putting it mildly. The people have enthusiastically endorsed this institution and everyone present appeared to be enjoying themselves to the utmost.

The number of people, little and big, who appeared in costume, was at least double that of last year and the make-ups were varied and artistic. From the little tots of five or less to the children of a larger growth, aged up to forty or thereabouts, all kinds of comic and representative characters were exemplified. It was estimated that of the two thousand or more people present at least two hundred were in costume.

The parade started promptly at 7:30 from the F. F. Taylor store corner, headed by the West Branch band which had been engaged for the occasion, and marched to the Auditorium, where the judging took place. The judging was done by classes, the judges for the occasion being C. T. Prescott, T. E. Ousterhout and Merton Barnes. The following prizes were awarded in the various classes:

IS A DEADLY DRUG

Powerful Opiate Popular With South African Natives.

Produces Exquisite Feeling of Supreme Content and Happiness, but Leaves Victim a Wreck.

It is not only among war-weary people in big cities that drug taking is prevalent.

The natives of South Africa cultivate—surreptitiously, because there is a huge fine if the authorities find them out—a herb called dagga.

Dagga in Africa is what opium is to China. It is smoked—but smoked in a strange way—and the native smokes it only in the very early dawn or very late at night, when he can do it secretly.

He scoops a hole out of the hard ground three to four inches deep by three inches wide. A foot or so away from this he scoops another hole, and he then bores a small channel underground from one to the other. There is thus a free air passage connecting the two little excavations.

He places some dried dagga leaves in the first hole, lights them and covers them over with moist clay. He pierces this clay with a sharpened piece of wood to allow a draught to go through. Into the other hole he inserts a small hollow reed—this is the pipe stem—squeezes moist clay round it, and on his knees begins his smoke.

A cup of water is at his side, and after each "draw" he cleverly lets a mouthful of water in without letting any smoke escape. Then in some marvelous manner he ejects the water in a long thin stream and the smoke slowly follows.

Bending low over the reed and sitting back on his heels, this is repeated time and time again.

His eyes stream with tears and soon get very bloodshot and swollen. He becomes excited; he feels elated, buoyed up in some wonderful way. All his cares and troubles are forgotten, and in their place has come an exquisite feeling of supreme content and happiness.

He begins to talk, and the occupants of his kraal hear great tales, tales of daring deeds of his youth—told with much demonstration and wild enthusiasm. Tales of his early fights—tales of battles and of victories—always of victories. Tales of great horsemanship—and wonderful journeys—of old forests and young love.

But the influence of the dagga dies out. The native's eyes are screwed up small, his head aches, his limbs and face become inert, and in a short while he is just a huddled mass of heavy sleep.

His joy in life has lasted just about an hour, and in the dim dawn he awakens feeling a fearful "wreck."

But he believes in "a hair of the dog that bit him," and so—another pipe before work.

Strange Moon Rays.
Pusille, the distinguished selenographer of the Paris observatory, some time ago reached the conclusion that the curious rays or bands extending in straight lines away from many lunar craters, such as the celebrated Tycho, are produced by the deposition of volcanic ashes carried to great distances by the winds that happened to prevail when the eruption occurred.

He accounts for the relative narrowness of these bands, which are never more than thirty miles broad, although their length are sometimes many hundred miles, by supposing that only the central axis of the deposit has remained, the less dense borders having been destroyed by the denuding forces of the air when the moon had a considerable atmosphere.

Ruined by the Movies.
His pockets were empty, but it was evident he had seen better days.
"Yes," he was saying to a sympathizer, "I was once the cynosure of all eyes; I was the tattooed man in a circus."
"And how did you lose your job?" he was asked.
"Public's gone crazy over moving pictures," he mournfully replied, "and mine won't budge."

Diplomacy.
"What did your boy Josh do when you told him he would have to go out in the world and make his own living?"
"He went to the next farm as a hired hand, and in a week had me offerin' him his board an' keep an' more wages."

Careful Shopper.
The Wife—"I'm becoming a regular business woman, my dear. I bought forty pairs of silk stockings reduced from 40 to 30 francs and with the 400 francs I saved I got myself that duck little hat I envied so much."—Paris Le Rire.

Absorbing Occupation.
"Can't you get me a government job?" asked the willing worker.
"I'd like to," answered Senator Sorghum. "But a man in government employ has to work so hard nowadays that you wouldn't have time to be any help in my political campaigns."

Hidden Treasure.
Mrs. Ecks—"That's a shockingly clumsy maid who served us. And Mrs. Wise said she had such a treasure."
Mrs. Wye—"This maid is one she hired for the occasion. She has the treasure locked up in her room for fear one of the guests might steal her."

DR. FRANK B. BRODERICK

None of the "hard-boiled" discipline which marks some hospitals for former soldiers will be tolerated at the Roosevelt Hospital of the American Legion, designed particularly for tubercular veterans of the World War. Dr. Frank B. Broderick, state welfare officer of the American Legion, has outlined a plan which the Legion is certain will maintain order without imposing on the men.

YOUNG MEN OF ALL AGES!

Here is a new departure in magazines. Nothing like it is published in America. A sweeping statement, but true nevertheless. Whether a man's just beginning to shave or whether he wears gray whiskers, whether he's 17 or 70, if he has the spirit of youth he'll enjoy The Open Road, a magazine for all men who value the spirit of youth.

This magazine is establishing a remarkable reputation because of its high-grade gripping stories, the kind that overflow with the vigor and cleanliness of the great outdoors, and its absorbing articles on a wide variety of subjects, including amateur sports, travel and exploration, science, "keeping fit," and business. It is beautifully printed and accompanied by an abundance of fine illustrations. The Open Road is a monthly magazine toward which readers of all ages are turning today.

Such men as Herbert Hoover, Calvin Coolidge, General Wood and Dr. Charles W. Eliot recommend The Open Road in the highest terms.

If you fail to get acquainted with it, you are missing something you owe to yourself to enjoy.

How long is a day? Twenty-four hours, you say. Yes, but not quite. One real day contains 23 hours, 56 minutes and 4.090 seconds of time, as reckoned by the movement of the sun. Speaking of propaganda in history, has there ever been a history that was not affected by intentional or unintentional bias, national, or personal to the historian?

THE WONDER OF THE AGE

THE HOT BLAST AIR-TIGHT FLORENCE

No Smoke! No Soot! No Dirt!
No Clinkers! Everything is Consumed

The jointless leg bottom and base makes the stove air-tight below the grate, which is the only true fire keeping principle. It will be as good a fire keeper twenty years hence as it is today. If the FLORENCE is operated according to directions—

The No. 21 will heat one small room all winter with two tons of slack or lump coal

The No. 49 will heat two or three small rooms all winter with two and three-fourths tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 73 will heat from two to four ordinary rooms all winter with three tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 75 will heat from three to five ordinary rooms all winter with four tons of slack or lump coal.

The Hot Blast Air-Tight Florence burns soft coal or slack and all the smoke and gases. No filling up of the stove, pipe or flue with soot. No dirt inside or outside the house. It will burn hard coal and all the gases which escape from a hard coal base burner. It will burn wood and sawdust wet or dry.

BONUS HELPS TRADE AS DOUGHBOYS BUY

What do Michigan ex-soldiers do with their bonus?
Blow it in? Quit their jobs until it is spent? "Shoot their roll" in gambling?
All these dire possibilities were forecast by the foes of the state bonus, and are being repeated by the enemies of the national bonus. But Dr. Frank B. Broderick, state welfare officer of the American Legion, who comes in contact with more ex-service men than any other individual in the state, says:
"They pay up old bills. They put it in saving banks—30 per cent of them—for insurance against unemployment. They buy needed clothing, which stimulates trade. Some get married and set up house-keeping. Not one man in a hundred 'shoots his wad'—and no one who really knew the sensible, sober dough-boy ever thought they would."

Porridge Was Thin.
Little Frances, age three, was eating breakfast at the home of her grandfather. The oatmeal porridge was a little thinner than usual that morning. The little miss looked intently at her grandfather for some time, as he was eating his porridge, and then broke the somewhat protracted silence with the remark: "Grandfather, you sound like soup."

Necessary.
"Tom, I told you to keep that dachshund out of the dining room." "Part of him has to project into the dining room, my dear when I feed him in the kitchenette."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

KEEP AN ACCOUNT

Writer Points Out Value of "Putting It Down."

Inevitably Leads to Efficiency and System in the Management of One's Personal Affairs.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the value of keeping an accurate record of all personal expenditures. To the average busy person it may seem a needless waste of time to keep an account of every penny spent. Yet some of the most successful men and women of our day find it worth while to keep a record of each item of personal expense.

Every business concern keeps an accounting of all pennies received and spent. To do otherwise would be to invite failure, for it would mean the introduction of careless, slipshod methods.

If such rigid care is necessary to the success of a business organization, there is even more need of efficiency and system in the administration of one's personal affairs, for with the individual, thrift means not only the saving of money, but it means the development of character, clean morals, wholesome living, education, progress and the fulfillment of human destiny. The foundation of thrift is system. Hence it should not be practiced intermittently.

If you are endeavoring to save a little money and you have not adopted the rule of keeping an accurate daily record of your expenses, you will find that by the adoption of a budget system your success will be made doubly easy and you will be amazed at the difference it will make in the amount of money you can save. A few pennies or a few dollars wasted here and there do not seem to amount to much at the time they are spent. But when the record of these unwarranted extravagances goes down in cold figures so that you can thus look back over a period of time and trace the black trail of your thriftlessness, the matter is presented in a much more graphic and impressive manner.

No man in the history of our country has done more big things than Benjamin Franklin. In the realms of statesmanship, finance, science and literature, he has occupied a position of the most profound importance. His influence is felt by each of us in our daily lives today. Yet Benjamin Franklin, by his own testimony, owed much of his success in life to the fact that he worked systematically and kept an accurate account of all his personal transactions, no matter how trivial.—By W. S. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Iron From Rust.
It is oxide of iron that gives to your blood its brilliant red color. If blood contained no iron, all men and women would look like walking corpses.

Nowhere in nature is iron found in a "native" or pure state. It occurs only in the form of oxides—that is to say, as iron rust. Man's greatest triumph was achieved when he discovered how to "undo" iron rust and get the iron out of it. But for that, our civilization today would be no further advanced than that of ancient Egypt or Assyria.

Edwin E. Slosson, in his remarkable new book, "Creative Chemistry," says that every year the blast furnaces of the world release 72,000,000 tons of iron from its oxides; and every year one-fourth of that quantity reverts to rust. Should man cease his efforts in this direction for a generation, there would be little left to show that he had ever learned to extract iron from its ores.

Reconstructing War Areas.
Alfred H. Wagg, developer and former president of the New York State association of Real Estate Boards, who recently returned from Europe after a long stay, says that the efforts being made by the French and Belgians to reconstruct the war areas are wonderful in view of the seemingly insurmountable difficulties that are being overcome.

Cities are being built under scientific town planning, and the evident purpose of the people is to build finer and more substantial towns and cities, superior in plan and construction to those that were destroyed.

The housing of the European working class is poor and woefully inadequate, Mr. Wagg says. The American standard of housing for its workers is very superior to that of Europe.

The Mighty Peanut.
More than two-million acres in this country were planted with peanuts last year. The demand for them is increasing by leaps and bounds. They are one of the most nutritious foods known to man, one pound of them (shelled) containing nearly half a pound of fat and a quarter of a pound of protein, both high grade and readily digestible. For running the body machine they are three times as efficient as an equal weight of beef and five times as efficient as an equal weight of eggs.—The Argonaut.

Chicago's Waste Paper.
So enormous is Chicago's waste-paper supply, that a double-unit, $2,000,000 paper mill which will use it for making newsprint, has been planned. The estimated capacity of the plant will be from 10,000 to 15,000 tons annually. Contracts have been made between large wastepaper collecting agencies and the new concern for the supply.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Investor Gambler Piker

The investor is a person who considers a contemplated investment from all angles, and after satisfying himself with the merit of the thing he makes the purchase.

The gambler places his money against chances for big gain.

The piker places money which he cannot afford and if he loses, goes home and tells his wife a pathetic tale about being held up by bandits.

We want to interest the investor who can analyze a good thing—has vision—can figure out what rich returns will come to him and his community by becoming a partner in an industry making a commodity as staple as coal, steel or sugar.

On the capital invested no industry in the world has shown profits the equal of the rubber industry. Today it is the one big money-maker.

The people of Michigan now have the opportunity of participating in the profits of a well known organized rubber company with men at the head who have been very successful. They have invested their means on the same basis as the public and they cannot profit themselves unless they make money for the stockholders.

The Wildman Rubber Company, the president of which is Mr. W. W. Wildman, one of the most experienced tire manufacturers in the United States, is building in Bay City the most modern tire plant in the country. This is bound to become one of the largest industries in Michigan and wise investors should not hesitate in securing some of its stock which is being offered for a limited time at $250 per unit (two shares of preferred and one share of common.) As the price will soon be increased to $300 per unit, a clear profit of 20 per cent can be made by subscribing now.

Come to Bay City and investigate this wonderful proposition.
