The End of a Perfect Day

WARNS AGAINST PNEUMONIA

Pneumonia is the disease to be watched out for most carefully at the present time, warns the state department of health.
 During the first 24 days of February 684 cases of pneumonia were reported throughout the state, compared to 519 during the corresponding period last year and an average of 493 for the past ten years. In January 759 cases were reported, an increase of 165 cases over January 1921, and nearly twice the average number for the month.
 "To avoid pneumonia," advises Dr. R. M. Olin, commissioner of health, "avoid colds and exposure to sickness. The organism causing acute lobar pneumonia is always ready at this time of the year, waiting until we are at low ebb physically for a chance to invade and lay waste the body's fortifications. Other forms of the disease the broncho-pneumonia or secondary infections, are the mopping up squads of neglected colds and common sicknesses."
 "If a person contracts a cold, it should never be regarded contemptuously. The individual who is feeling 'not quite well' will conserve time and health by complete relaxation and rest. In fact, a thorough rest indulged in early enough may prevent pneumonia. Even if pneumonia does develop, the rest will have helped to conserve the body's resistance, every ounce of which will be needed before the patient recovers."
 "Finally: Dress to suit the thermometer and not the calendar; eat heartily and wisely; sleep with the windows open, and ventilate the house several times daily."

TAWAS CITY SCHOOLS

Both our boys' and girls' basketball teams will play Friday night with the Grayling teams. These two games ought to be a real attraction to all basketball fans.
 The local declamation and oratorical contest of the high school was held on Wednesday evening. The list of winners will be published next week.
 The "Boston Bloomers" won over our girls' basketball team by a score of 38 to 35. The game was a fast one and provided much amusement for the spectators.
 The janitor has almost finished his task of trimming the trees about the school house. The trees already present a more respectable appearance than they have had for a week or more since the storm.
A High School Course
 (Theme of ninth grader)
 A high school course is pleasant as well as profitable. Many high school students take part in athletics, which certainly afford many pleasant times. The athlete goes to different towns to play baseball or basketball, and he thereby meets many new people. He is rewarded by the pleasure of winning the games or maybe the championship. Athletics, clubs and socials afford many pleasant times as many students find.
 Most of the students work their own way through high school, and they find it costs much sacrifice and effort. If a student wishes to take part in athletics, he must study and work very hard. But in the end he finds it is worth the effort.
 The student who pays his own way works all the harder, because he appreciates his school work and he works all the harder for success. But when he is through high school he will go to college or else start his work in life; but he will always say a high school education is a good investment.
A High School Education
 (Theme of ninth grader)
 What is an education worth to you? What is the time you spend on it worth? If you take a high school course and work hard, do your work thoroughly, do your best to get all you can out of the time spent, every day you work is worth ten dollars in cash in after life.
 For the fellow who quits school in the eighth grade there is a place with the very small per cent who make good. Making good means more than filling the job that anybody can hold. Making good means to get a job where you have to use your brain more than your hands—a job that is just a little better than the other fellow's. When you tell a person this, he will invariably answer that there has to be a lower class of labor. This is not entirely true. Modern science and invention have brought things to such a place that anybody who wants to work, put a little sacrifice into life, can command a job that is worth having.

There is a lot of fellows who have seen their mistake after it was too late to get a high school education, but who have taken a correspondence course. What's the use of doing this when you can go through high school, do a thorough job of your work, and have a fine time in athletics, make a lot of permanent friends, and in the end be able to say that you think it was a pretty good investment?
1921 ROAD PROJECTS ENOUGH TO GIRLDE EARTH
 Eleven thousand nine hundred and thirty miles of Federal-aid roads were constructed under the joint supervision of the Federal government and the states during 1921, according to reports of the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. Federal money amounting to $94,057,089 was allotted to these roads the total cost of which was $231,963,682. In this mileage there is included 8,595 miles in projects wholly completed and the equivalent of 3,335 miles of work done on projects which are not wholly completed. Every state shared in the benefits of this work.
 The projects under way during the year amounted to 31,228 miles, which was about one-half of all the road work carried on in the United States during the year. A fair idea of the magnitude of the road work done under the supervision of the department of agriculture last year may be gained when it is understood that the total mileage is considerably more than enough to encircle the earth, that it is equal to more than 10 per cent of all the improved roads previously existing in the United States, and that it is equal to nearly 8 per cent of the entire road system of France. At this rate we would be able to build the equivalent of France's entire road system in 12 years.

Tawas City, Mich., March 10, 1922

Just think of the matches that were used by the men, women and children of this country who smoked 56,000,000,000 cigarettes last year.

The world is becoming safer in some respects; you never hear now of a lady catching her heel in the ruffle of her dress and falling downstairs.

The Germans say the American cows distributed in Bavaria give much more milk than the German breeds. Haven't the Bavarian farmers plenty of good water?

Money has its appeal. Folks who wouldn't dare to touch a strange soiled handkerchief that cost $50 would fondle the filthiest dollar bill in the country.

Another difficulty the country is experiencing at this time is, there are so many business men who cannot see four inches beyond their cash registers.

Men's coats will have no waist line next year, says a fashion authority. Do the tailors figure that food is going to be more easily procurable?

CHILDREN STARVING IN THE MIDST OF PLENTY

"We are all beggars sitting on bags of gold" is the maxim on which a certain recent popular novel is based, and in the same way, according to Michigan health workers, there are in this state many children who are starving, though their homes are supplied with all the food they could want.

In Detroit recently out of 1,441 children examined, 859 were found to be suffering from mal-nutrition. Most of these children were from well-to-do families and they could get plenty of food, but they did not get the right kind of food. Clinics show that the same thing is true in practically every city in the state.

The trouble lies with the selection of food. What is usually needed is more milk, more vegetables, and more fruit of the citrus variety. Among fresh vegetables the leafy kind, such as greens, lettuce, cabbage, etc. are advised. Oranges, grapefruit and lemons should be more commonly used and all children should drink at least a quart of milk a day. Malnutrition among children is one of the most important causes of tuberculosis, and hence the Michigan Tuberculosis association is taking a deep interest in the subject.

Fly Has Natural Trap.

A peculiar traplike appendage, called a mask, enables the young dragon fly to capture the mosquito wriggler on which it feeds. The mask consists of a jointed, articulated arm that is attached to the under side of the head. At the extremity of this arm is the mask proper, which consists of two folding parts like hands, each of which is provided with a row of small sharp teeth on its outer edge.

When a tiny insect passes within reach of the young dragon fly it suddenly thrusts out the mask, grasps the insect within it and backs it into the mouth. When this organ is not in use it folds back over the head, covering it like a mask.

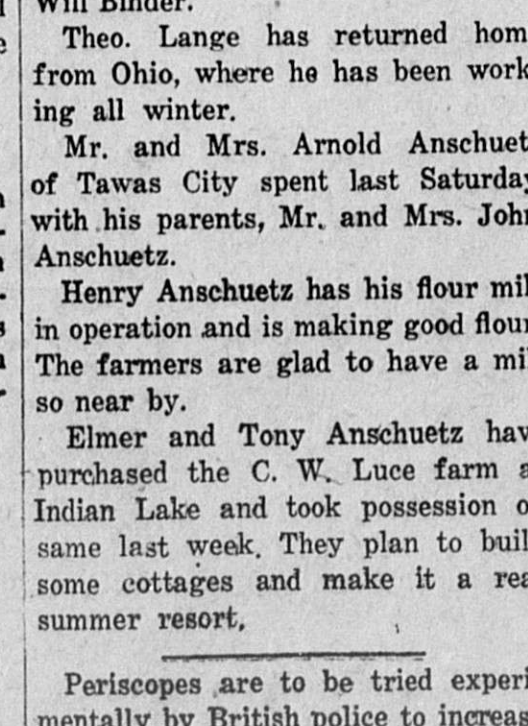

The young dragon fly lives in ponds and streams; and as it is very slow-moving, this trap is its salvation.

Sweet Odors.

Sweet and aromatic odors have always been in request among mankind. Eastern nations especially have ever been noted for their intense love of perfumes. Some years ago Professor Tyndall showed that sweet and aromatic odors were cooling to rooms—in other words, their presence bars out heat-rays of the sun, allowing those of light chiefly to enter. An ether-spray of perfume, kept up for a few minutes in a summer room too hotly heated by the sun, has almost a magical effect in cooling its atmosphere, for the reason assigned by Doctor Tyndall. It has just been discovered that odors and perfumes are also an antiseptic—that is to say, protective against epidemic diseases in a very high degree.

ARE SWEETS FOR CHILDREN HARMFUL?

The old, old question of whether or not candies and other sweets are harmful for children is a very important one and one that sometimes receives too little attention from parents. A flat answer, "No," seems sometimes cruel in answer to the child's plea for sweets, and as a matter of fact, the answer can be made with reservations.

Sweets the child should have, but not candy, unless it be a small amount of plain, home-made pure sugar candy, preferably at the end of a meal. Sugar is a desirable part of the diet and the only objection which can be raised to its use in reasonable amounts in a mixed diet is that it is sometimes allowed to take the place of foods, and so spoils the child's appetite for other important things.

Until the child is five years old he needs no candy, as such. The correct proportion for the child over five may be judged by averaging the whole amount of sugar he obtains in all his foods as:

5 to 7 years, 1 tablespoonful daily.
7 to 12 years, 2 tablespoonfuls daily.

The child's craving for candy very often results from improper food habits, irregular feeding, and lack of water or milk. Merely because candy is ready at hand and often that means "store candy" which is likely to be germ-laden and unwholesome in content—the child is given it in order to calm the storm which his natural hunger for wholesome bread and butter and milk has created.

Cut down the candy ration and watch his complexion, his appetite and his disposition improve.

So Daniel Boone was now on his way westward to Missouri, to a new land of fabled herds and wide spaces. . . . Waving his last farewells, he floated past the little groups—till their shouts of good will were long silenced, and his feet swung out upon the Ohio.

As Boone sailed down the beautiful river which forms the northern boundary of Kentucky, old friends and newcomers who had only heard his fame rode from far and near to greet and godspeed him on his way. Sometimes he paused for a day with them. Once at least—this was in Cincinnati where he was taking on supplies—some one asked him why he was leaving the settled country to dare the frontier once more.

"Too crowded," he answered; "I want more elbow-room!"—Constance Lindsay Skinner.

The Prihoda Test at Aeolian Hall

Vasa Prihoda, the youthful genius of the violin, appeared in recital at Aeolian Hall, New York City, on October 16, 1921. The comparison test (picture above) was made after the recital.

READ, ponder and digest this tribute by John C. Freund to Mr. Edison and his new phonograph. Remember that it is written by a man whose heart is wrapped up in the musical advancement of America.

Then come in and hear this remarkable instrument. Experience the wonder of listening to music RE-CREATED so perfectly, that human ear can not distinguish it from the original music.

We have an exact duplicate of the Official Laboratory Model Mr. Freund heard. We guarantee that it also will sustain the test of direct comparison. No other phonograph or talking-machine will sustain this test. That is why the New Edison brings the greatest vocal and instrumental performances.

This fact alone sets the Official Laboratory Model apart as the most interesting and most remarkable phonograph in town. Come in. Get to know it. Do not feel obligated to buy. If, however, you do want to put Mr. Edison's greatest triumph into your home, it will cost you only $..... (fill in your own first payment). In other words, make your initial payment only what you can spare. Budget the balance according to your convenience. Let us explain the plan to you.

Make This Comparison

Listen to Prihoda on the New Edison. Then listen to the best violinist the other phonographs or talking-machines present. You'll find Prihoda sounds immeasurably superior.
