This is a Wonderful Age

APRIL 25 DESIGNATED AS CITY "CLEAN-UP DAY"

Tuesday, April 25 has been fixed as Clean-Up Day in Tawas City. On this day the city will have teams engaged to haul away all rubbish, tin cans and other refuse, and the citizens are requested to join in this movement and help in every way possible to clean up the city.

Please gather up all refuse into boxes, barrels or other receptacles that can be easily handled and place along the street line on that day, in order that the teams may accomplish as much as possible.

Citizens are also requested to rake up all leaves and trash on or about their premises and burn same.

Let's all work together to clean up, paint up and make Tawas City one of the cleanest and best towns in the state. A little work on the part of each one will accomplish a great deal and the result will be pleasing to the visitor to our city and a source of satisfaction to every person who lives here.

Jas. E. Ballard, Mayor.

HAVE YOU ROOMS FOR RENT?

Even at this early date inquiries are coming to the secretary of the Tawas City Board of Trade regarding rooms, board, etc., from people who are desirous of spending some time here during the coming summer.

If you have rooms to rent, with or without board, notify W. C. Davidson, secretary of the Board of Trade, giving size and number of rooms, price asked for same, etc. Thus the secretary will have available information by which he can immediately notify those wishing accommodations what we can offer.

D. & M. BASEBALL SEASON WILL OPEN MAY 14

May 14th will see the D. & M. league in action. On this day Tawas City goes to Oscoda, Alabaster to Omer, and Harrisville plays East Tawas. The directors of the league held a meeting at East Tawas last week and received a list of the different players who will represent their cities on the baseball field. Each club named an umpire and the directors voted to place them on a salary basis. A home umpire will not be allowed to umpire games in which his team participates, but will be sent outside under direction of the president.

Every team will be supplied with score books and a strict record of all games will be kept, as also a duplicate score sheet which will be filed with the secretary not later than 48 hours after a game. The season's schedule will be printed soon and anyone wishing same should apply to the secretary, A. J. Noel, East Tawas.

You know baseball is considered our national pastime and sport. Therefore we want to get out and thoroughly enjoy ourselves this summer. If your team fails to win every game don't get discouraged—but boost. A kind word and hearty applause goes a long way toward helping the boys to victory.

FAD TRACED TO DUTCHMAN

Diplomat of Holland Said to Have First Worn Monocle at the Congress of Vienna.

Several explanations have been given as to why the monocle was. Sir Horace Rumbold wrote that the fashion of wearing it was introduced at the congress of Vienna—a congress which remade the map of Europe back in the last century. He told that it was a Dutch "exquisite"—which is the diplomatic language for "dude"—one Jonkheer Breede, who was the first man to wear a monocle, and he showed this brand new fad to the diplomats and their followers assembled at Vienna. After that introduction the fad spread to all parts of Europe, but took its strongest grip on England.

Toward the end of the first quarter of the Nineteenth century the fad of wearing a monocle had become so popular that a writer of a book on the care of the eyes and the preservation of the vision inveighed against it. The name of the writer was Dr. Kitchiner, and in 1823 he published this book, the title of which was "Economy of the Eyes." Referring to monocle he wrote: "A single glass, set in a smart ring, is often used by trinket fanciers for fashion's sake. These folks have not the least defect in their sight and are not aware of the mischievous consequences of such irritation."

The grand prix de Rome is a prize awarded for the best work in sculpture, painting, music and architecture. The competition is confined to French subjects over 15 and under 30 years of age, and consists of four years of art study, three of which are spent at the Villa Medici at Rome, and the fourth in traveling through Italy and Greece, all expenses paid by the government. Candidates are selected by competitive examinations conducted by the Ecole des Beaux Arts, under the direction of the minister of fine arts.

Those who pass the entrance examinations are placed "en loge" for a period of several weeks, explains the Detroit News. This means that the student is locked up in a private studio, during which time he is not permitted to see any one or even talk to the servant. The only recreation given is a half-hour walk daily in the grounds. During this time he is expected to prepare something finally to be passed upon by the authorities.

Wild Turkey Stupid Bird.

A pen built on logs and inclosed on every side and roofed, the only entrance being an opening beneath the bottom log on one side, is all that is necessary to entrap the otherwise wary and watchful wild turkey. The birds, eagerly following a luring train of corn, are led along to the pen and up through the opening under the log and into the pen. The instant a turkey finds itself in the pen it knows it has got itself into a scrape and seeks to escape, but it pays no attention to the opening in the log by which it entered, and persistently dashes around the pen, its head in the air, looking upward for a place to get out.

The old-time pen-trapping turkey hunter never had any anxiety about his game escaping from the trap, and he had only to wait a sufficient time to find it filled with the foolish birds, all with their necks stretched full length, looking for a place in the roof through which to take wing, and ignoring the big opening under the log that let them in.

Mayor Elected in a Belfry.

Brightlingsea, a pretty little town on the coast of Sussex, England, not to be confused with Brightlingstone, now known as Brighton, is a law unto itself in the election of a mayor. Other cities and towns may choose their chief magistrate on November 3; Brightlingsea prefers December 5, and carries out the old-time ceremony in the belfry of the parish church.

The mayor of Brightlingsea is no ordinary mayor, he is a deputy of the Cinque Ports (just as the lord mayor of London is admiral of the port of London) and he has six assistants, each of whom cheerfully pays a "fine" of 4s. for the privilege of "aiding the liberty of Brightlingsea," and possibly in collecting the 10s, which Brightlingsea has paid to Sandwich every year these last five centuries. Some day a very courageous mayor of Brightlingsea, elected in the belfry, will announce by bob major that he intends to get rid of the debt by payment of a lump sum.

Valuable Eucalyptus.

The extraordinary usefulness of the eucalyptus has probably done more than its beauty to bring about its rapidly increasing cultivation. Used as fuel, the wood burns very rapidly but with a bright, clear flame, throwing out much heat because of the large amount of oil it contains. The hundred or more species of the tree provide a wide variety of timbers, some of which are already extensively used for furniture making, house construction and even shipbuilding. The great strength and durability of the wood is more remarkable when one considers its lightness and its rapidity of growth. Even in tanning and paper-making it has been found useful. We may expect, then, that the small plantations now to be seen everywhere in Southern California will rapidly increase in size and number.

Who Started Life Insurance?
Life insurance is an outgrowth of custom of insuring ships and cargoes, practiced by the owners from olden times. They would insure against the loss of the ship through the death of her skipper. These policies were issued by individuals before companies came into existence. The first record of life policy was issued in London, 1583, on the life of William Gybbons, for 12 months. It was underwritten by 13 individuals, the premium being $50 per $500.

EMERY JUNCTION

Several from here attended church at Whittemore Sunday.
Chas. Schuster of Whittemore was in town one day last week.
Mrs. Milton Hess of Lansing is visiting her mother, Mrs. M. S. Schuster.
Maude Sloan spent Easter at her home here, returning to East Tawas on Monday.
Marie Mark spent a few days with her parents here, returning to Flint Thursday morning.
John McInerney is relieving Mr. Field at the station. Mr. Field was called away by the death of his mother.
Helen Sase and Marie Mark were at East Tawas Tuesday, where they visited friends and attended the Easter dance.
The Consumers Power Co. crew have left for northern counties after spending a few days here repairing the tower lines.
Word has been received that Mrs. Sampson is recovering from the operation which she underwent at Bay City a week ago. Her friends hope for her speedy recovery.

History of Road Building.
It is said that the Carthaginians were the first people to use a system of road paving, but the Romans were the most famous road-makers. The name of John Macadam will always be associated with the roads because he invented a form of road now known as "tar-macadam." Wood-paving was first used in Russia and introduced to Britain in 1836.

MONEY IS WELL EXPENDED

Substantial Truth in Statement That Courtesy Is Worth All the Expenditure Involved.

Just as we have absorbed the information from one writer that courtesy should play a prominent part in every business transaction because it costs nothing, we ran across a bulletin of the Standard Oil company of California which states that $1,000,000 was invested in telegraph tolls last year to transmit a single word—"Please."
So courtesy does cost something, the Philadelphia Record observes. If we had several months to spend in research we might find the basis for an estimate that courtesy in newspaper advertising alone costs several million dollars. But whatever the cost, it is worth it.

Courtesy, cordiality and sincerity are three big factors in the success of an advertisement. People like to do business with dealers whose messages radiate good will, a friendly spirit, a desire to please. During the recent holiday rush some stores suggested that the purchasers should carry small packages home with them instead of having them delivered. The proposal was put forward in the same way in which one asks a favor of a friend, and it proved very effective. Suppose the stores had said, instead: "Positively, no small packages delivered"—can you imagine the result?
The money that the business men of the country spend on "please" in their advertising and elsewhere, is an investment that yields handsome cash dividends. One might as well try to run a gasoline motor without oil as to dispense with this courtesy lubricant that does away with friction in the contacts of human relationship.

NOW THE CRANBERRY "FARM"

New and Successful Industry Has Been Developed of Late Years in the Pacific Northwest.

Shortage in the cranberry crop in other parts of the United States last year has focused attention upon this new industry of the Pacific Northwest, which promises to furnish strong competition for the product of the eastern part of the American continent, as described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. After years of experimentation and selection and the development of artificial growing areas the states of Washington and Oregon have come to the front as producers of cranberries in large commercial quantities.

Lewis and Clark, in the log of their trip across the continent in the early part of the Nineteenth century, mention the fine flavor of the wild cranberries purchased from the Indians along Columbia river. Cultivation of the wild cranberry bog was not attempted until about thirty-five years ago, and continued in a desultory manner until recently, when a successful means of preparing growing ground was developed. Preparation of cranberry ground in the Pacific Northwest is an expensive undertaking, the cost being around $1,000 an acre. A wild marsh is selected, drained by ditches, cleared of trees and brush, then the turf is removed by what is called the "scalping" process, laying bare the peat of the bog. Over the peat is spread a four-inch layer of clean white sand. Planting is the next proceeding. Vine cuttings are used for this purpose and are pressed through the sand into the peat with a dibble or planting tool. The vines are planted ten inches apart, which makes about 60,000 to the acre.

WILL DEVELOP JET INDUSTRY

Company Formed to Work Large Deposits Recently Found in Wayne County, Utah.

What is believed to be the first jet deposit to be developed in the United States is now being successfully mined in Wayne county, Utah, where recently mineralogists discovered the largest commercial body of the mineral known to exist in the world. Singularly, discovery of the jet was accidentally made by a party of miners engaged in assessment work for a copper company. The work of mining the jet began late in the summer of last year and, with financial backing assured, is expected to develop into great proportions.

At the present time the work of mining the mineral is more or less crudely done, but it is the intention of the owners of the decidedly valuable deposits soon to install modern machinery and develop the industry into the largest of its kind in the world.—Baltimore American.

Smoking at Washington.

The Japanese were the most incessant smokers of all the visitors to the conference on limitation of armaments, said a newspaper man who attended the meetings. Baron Kato seldom is seen without a cigarette, and quite frequently lights one with another. Prince Tokugawa does likewise, while the diminutive Mr. Dubuchel is never seen without a cigarette. Mr. Hanthara is more temperate in his use of the weed. There was never any prohibition about smoking in the Japanese conference rooms. Mr. Hughes prohibits smoking when the correspondents gather. They park their partly smoked weeds on the outside. The Chinese never offered any objection to the cloud-filled conference rooms. For the French, M. Briand was the principal user of tobacco, and when he was not in a plenary session, where no one is permitted to smoke, he never was seen without his Turkish cigarette.

Niagara's Future City.

An idea which has occurred to many minds since the last "harrassing" of Niagara falls was clearly put by a speaker before the Engineers' society of New York. It is that most of the electric power obtained from the falls will be used within a few miles of its place of origin instead of being transmitted to distant cities. In other words, it is believed that at and near the falls will be situated the future industrial center of America. It would be theoretically possible, it is stated, to transmit power from Niagara as far as San Francisco, but the cost would be prohibitive. It is much cheaper to locate factories near the falls.

Dire Threat.

Bartholomew had been very naughty, and at last in despair his mother shut him up in a large cupboard, wherein were stored all sorts of articles. He immediately began to bellow and stamp and make a terrific noise generally. Finally silence ensued, and his mother who was just showing his auntie out remarked as they passed the cupboard "I think Bartie has broken the record this time!"

"Yes" came the unexpected rejoinder from within. "I have, an' if you don't let me out I'll smash the machine as well!"—Detroit Free Press.

Impressing the Visitors.

You never can tell what will impress the stranger within the gates. The foreign correspondents "doing" the conference were curious spectators of congressional proceedings when the President delivered his message, but the thing that most attracted their attention was the sight of William Allen White of Kansas sharpening a pencil as he sat in the press gallery and letting the shavings fall on the dignitaries below.—Manchester Guardian.

Remington Portable

THE Remington Portable is a capable, companionable, individual typewriter, built for the use of the man in his business or profession, the woman in her home, the child attending school—in fact for every man, woman and child who writes.

It is the most compact of all writing machines. Fits in a case only four inches high. Like every Remington, it is strong, speedy, durable and turns out beautiful work.
—and mark this: It has the Standard Writing Keyboard with which you are familiar—no shifting for figures. Small as it is, the operation of a Remington Portable is exactly like writing on a Standard machine. Just as easy, just as swift, just as simple.

Iceland in History.

A visitor to Iceland has described the view from the plateau overlooking the plain of Thingvellir, where the parliament of the commonwealth was held. He speaks of magnificent gorges, rivers, waterfalls, of a lake of sapphire set within a circle of emerald hills and snow-capped mountains, altogether a picture of enchanting beauty. The magnificence of its historical and literary traditions have enriched the ages, and some of their Icelandic translations are now being adopted by other nations. The spoken language of today differs so little from that of the Twelfth century that the Sagas of that time continue to be, in the original text, the daily reading of all classes. The remarkable revival of art and literature and general prosperity has come from the reawakening of the national spirit early in the Nineteenth century.

Queer Earthquake Prank.

An earthquake that shook India not so long ago was remarkable for the curiously distorting effects it produced on standing objects. Similar effects have been noticed from other earthquakes, but seldom to so striking an extent. In an official report in the matter it is described how this earthquake twisted a lofty monument at Chatak. The monument was an obelisk of brick, coated with plaster, more than sixty feet tall and twelve feet square at the base. About six feet of the top was broken off and thrown to the east. Then a piece twenty feet in height was separated twenty-three feet above the ground and twisted in a direction opposite to the motion of the sands of a watch, but without falling.

QUOTATIONS HOARY WITH AGE

Many of the Most Familiar Sayings Have Been in Use for Five Hundred Years.

"All's well that ends well," you say, and you are quoting from a book of tales a little matter of 500 years old; i. e., the "Gesta Romanorum," first printed about 1473.

To Geoffrey Chaucer, "well of English undefyled," who was born in 1328, we owe a multitude of our most frequently used proverbs, including "Many a small maketh a great," "Of two evils choose the lesser," "All is not gold that glitters," "Out of sight, out of mind," "Man proposes and God disposes."

Between Chaucer's time and the day of Shakespeare some of our most familiar sayings were born. "Look ere ye leap," "Strike while the iron is hot," "Never look a gift horse in the mouth," "Beggars should be no choosers," "You can bring a horse to water," etc.; "A new broom sweeps clean," "Small pitchers have wide ears," "One swallow maketh not a summer," "It's an ill wind blows no one good," "Enough is as good as a feast," "What's bred in the bone," etc.; "Comparisons are odious." These are a few that came to light later than Chaucer, but before Shakespeare was born in 1564.

If you haven't read faithfully from the Bard of Avon you may not be aware that the following proverbs are found in his works: "Familiarity breeds contempt," "What's mine is yours," etc.; "Every why hath a wherefor," "It is a wise father knoweth his own child," "Good wine needs no bush," "Married in haste, repent at leisure," "Give the devil his due," "All the world's a stage," "Some are born great, some achieve greatness," etc.

CHINA REAL LAND OF CASTLE

Conditions There Declared by Travelers to Outclass Even Those Existing in India.

Chinamen have more caste even than the East Indians. They say you never find one Chinaman in a low condition of life but you will find him employing another Chinaman in a still lower condition. The small Chinese farmer employs a servant to whom he is lord and master. This menial is compelled to serve him in any capacity that may be required. For instance, when the small Chinese farmer takes a pig to market he does not do it as the Irishman does, by driving the pig along the road. No, he first kills the pig, or makes his "hired man" do it. When the pig is carefully packed on one side of a single wheeled vehicle something like a wheelbarrow. The weight of the proprietor may just balance that of the pig, but if it is greater, then a few boulders are added to even things up. The whole apparatus is then wheeled along the road by the hired man, the Chinese proprietor meanwhile placidly smoking his pipe.

He Paid the Note.

A certain shiftless character had borrowed some money at the bank after having been secured by a hard-working man. Notice was sent; no response. A second notice was sent, but no response. And a third with similar results. Whereupon the guarantor was told to come in and take up the note. Seeing the maker of the note on the street, he asked:

"Didn't you know that note was due?"

Getting an affirmative reply, he further asked:

"Why didn't you take it up?"

"This time the shiftless one made reply:

"Didn't you expect to pay it?"

"No!"

"Well, what did you sign it for if you didn't expect to pay it?"

There was no recourse from this question, that's the way it usually stacks up, so the guarantor took up the note and credited the sum to experience.—Farm Life.

How Fruit Worm Gets Into Apple.

Did you ever find a worm away in the core of an apple when there wasn't any sign of a hole on the outside to show where it got in? Well, in the spring, says the Ave Maria, when the trees are all in blossom and look their loveliest, a little moth slipped out of its chrysalis and flew among the blossoms. Then, when the petals of the flowers had fallen, the moth laid an egg in the upturned cup made by the five points of the calyx. In a short time the tiny egg hatched into a small worm, and the little worm bored its way into the apple that was just forming! and there it grew with the apple, meanwhile feeding on it. When the apple falls to the ground, the worm gets out and finds its way into the tree, where it spins a cocoon, from which another moth is hatched the next spring, and so on. The birds search for these fruit worms in the bark of the trees.

A Genial Heckler.

"I was driving along a rough country road the other day," said Lloyd George during an electioneering tour, "and at the foot of a steep hill I saw the signboard, 'Please Slacken the Reins Going Up the Hill.' While reading this it occurred to me that it might be well for people generally to be as kind and considerate in their treatment of their minister as they are of their horses, especially when the load is heavy and the road is steep."

There was a burst of applause from the audience, which appreciated the point of the premier's illustration, but the inevitable wag was present, and he piped up, "Why not try a flivver, George?"

HAD HIGH RANK AS HUMORIST

William Everts "One of the Wittiest Men I Ever Met," Asserted Chauncey M. Depew.

"William M. Everts was the wittiest man I ever met," writes Chauncey M. Depew in Scribner's magazine. "It is difficult to rehabilitate in the sayings of a wit the complete flavor of the utterance. It is easier with a man of humor."

"Everts was very proud of his efforts as a farmer on his large estate in Vermont. Among his prizes was a drove of pigs. He sent to Chief Justice Morrison R. Waite a copy of his eulogy on Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase, Waite's predecessor, and at the same time a ham, saying in his letter: 'My dear chief justice, I send you today one of my prize hams and also my eulogy on Chief Justice Chase, both the products of my pen.'"

"The good things Mr. Everts said would be talked of long after a dinner. I remember on one occasion his famous partner, Mr. Choate, who was a Harvard man, while Everts was a graduate from Yale, introduced Mr. Everts by saying that he was surprised that a Yale man, with all the prejudices of that institution against the superior advantages of Harvard, should have risked the coats of his stomach at a Harvard dinner. Mr. Everts replied: 'When I go to a Harvard dinner I always leave the coats of my stomach at home.'"

Superstitious Belief Almost Cost Woman in German Village Her Life, It is Reported.

To cast the devil out of a woman living in a village of the Lauenburger district of Pomerania, Germany, three hags tortured her. She appears to have been of a sour and somewhat hysterical disposition and three of the village gossips came to the conclusion that her feelings were due to diabolical possession and resolved to effect a cure by means of ancient enchantments known by them, it is reported. They first of all gathered the herbs needed for the purpose in the forests at the proper conjunction of the stars. Then a tripod was formed of three chairs and to these the patient was bound. Beneath her was placed a ball of red-hot coal on which the herbs were scattered. As the fumes of the burning weeds yelled the victim the three hags crooned the prescribed enchantment. The louder the woman shrieked the louder they sang, and after the process had been continued long enough to prove effective they ran away, believing the devil would run out of the woman after them. She, however, continued to shriek. Her cries were heard by a man who came to the rescue and unbound her.

Pithy Paragraphs.

There are some who say that ideals are but elusive phantoms—mere will-o-the-wisps of fancy. They scoff at them, but their scoffing is only a mask.—Crawford C. McCullough.

Diplomats cannot make international peace. All they can do is to embody in definite form such spirit of peace as already exists or can be created in their several communities.—Lyman Abbott.

The struggle for business success has often been so unrelenting that men have forgotten the dream children of their boyhood days, have dispensed a priceless legacy, and, at last, having arrived at the goal of material success, find themselves penniless in all that matters—penniless in companionship, friendship and love.—Crawford C. McCullough.

The cherry tree story finds no place in standard biographies, while had Washington never told a lie the British would have got him early in the war.—James H. Collins.

Only One Drawback.

A woman writer declares that a good husband may love two women at the same time. We quite agree with her. By all the laws of the Medes and Persians it is not only possible, but altogether the thing to do in this day and age when, more than ever, variety has become the spice of life. We can even go a step further than the woman writer, and declare it not only possible to love two women, but a dozen at the same time. The only trouble experienced so far is that the wife will have none of this new doctrine.—Grit.

PRE-PINK SPRAY SAID IMPORTANT ON APPLES

Pre-pink spray of apples to control apple scab, as well as the standard pink spray is advocated this year by plant pathologists of the Michigan Agricultural college.

"The scab fungus is developing early this year," they declare. "There is every promise of spore discharge as soon as the buds push out a little more. Nearly mature spores have been found in material from Grand Rapids and Augusta, Michigan orchards. Lansing material is as yet considerably behind in its development as compared to the western localities."

Efficient control of apple scab, the pathologists explain, depends upon timeliness of application of protective sprays to prevent early infections. This is especially true with such varieties as Dutchess and McIntosh.

The apple scab fungus winters on the fallen leaves and in the spring develops a spore stage which infects the unfolding leaves and developing blossoms. Leaves carrying the fungus have been obtained from various fruit-growing centers, and on examination it is found that the apple scab fungus has responded to the high temperatures of this spring and is developing extremely rapidly.

"The scab fungus gives every indication of producing infections very early this spring," says Prof. C. W. Bennett. "Ordinarily fruit growers depend upon a spray when the buds are in the 'pink' stage, but this year, judging from the advanced development of the apple scab fungus, a pre-pink spray will also be necessary to secure best scab control."

If the early infections are not prevented very serious spotting of the calyx of the fruit results. These early infections also give rise to severe later infections. The advice to give the pre-pink spray as well as the pink spray seems well warranted by the findings of this spring.

WEEKLY EDITORS FORM STATE ASSOCIATION

About seventy-five editors and publishers of Michigan weekly newspapers organized the Michigan Press Association at a conference held at the Michigan Agricultural college on April 14 and 15. The new organization, composed of rural newspaper men, is to function in the interests of the weekly or "community" press of the state.

While the Press Association is to be an individual organization in itself, members are understood to be retaining their affiliation with the Michigan Typographic Federation, the parent organization for publishers and printers of the state.

Officers of the newly organized group include: Fred D. Keister of the Ionia County News, president; G. W. Feighner of the Nashville News, vice-president; and Sim R. Wilson of the Saline Observer, secretary-treasurer. Members of executive and special committees are to be appointed by the president.

Meetings will be held in February and August each year, the former at East Lansing and the latter at a place to be selected each year by the executive committee and to serve as an outing or pleasure trip for the members.

G. L. Caswell, field secretary of the Iowa press association and one of the country's greatest authorities on the organization and business methods of the weekly press, was present on Friday and presented talks on the work in his state. David Friday, the new president of the M. A. C. also addressed the meeting Saturday morning.

COLLEGE EXECUTIVE ASSUMED DUTIES APRIL 1

David Friday, new president of the Michigan Agricultural College, took office on April 1. H. H. Halladay, formerly commissioner of the state department of agriculture, going in as secretary on the same day.

Absence of formal ceremony or inaugural marked the beginning of the new administration. Taking office in the middle of the school year, as the new men did, it was deemed inadvisable to attempt special functions.

It is considered probable that the inaugural will be held in June at commencement time, or on M. A. C. Founders day, in May.

No definite announcement of policy or administration plans was made by President Friday as he took office, it being understood that he is preparing statements for publication in the near future. A definite program for Michigan agriculture and the college is expected at that time.

To Clean Varnished Paint.

Never clean varnished paint or enamel with soap, or with soda and water. This makes the varnish dull, and it may even cause it to peel away from the wood. A better plan is to use a solution prepared with tea leaves. Collect the leaves and put them in a basin. Pour hot water over them and allow them to soak for ten minutes. Use the liquid cold for washing over the varnished surface. Finally dry and polish with a soft cloth.
