COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Iosco County Sunday schools held their annual convention at the M. E. church, East Tawas, on Thursday, May 11, 1922.

E. K. Mohr, state Sunday school worker, of Lansing, had charge of the convention. In the morning he conducted a circle of prayer at which a band of earnest Christians invoked God's blessing on the meetings of the convention and the Sunday school work in general.

In the afternoon J. H. Nisbet of Indian Lake gave a splendid address on the Sunday school work in the rural districts. Following this, Rev. Hughes of Hale gave a helpful talk on adult classes and teacher training.

In the evening a business session was held and the county association reorganized. The following officers were elected.

President, J. H. Nisbet, Indian Lake Vice-Pres., W. H. Price, East Tawas Secretary, Annabel McLean, Hale Treasurer, G. N. Shattuck, Hale Rev. A. Mitchell and son of East Tawas furnished music for the evening, which was greatly enjoyed by all.

The address of the evening was upon "Service" and was given by E. K. Mohr in his usual pleasing manner. Mr. Mohr is a small man with a heart large enough to hold every Sunday school and every Sunday school worker in Michigan. His address was an inspiration. Among other remarks he said if we could fill our Sunday schools we would empty our jails. We wonder if this would not be worth trying.

The largest number of delegates at the convention were from Hale, there being fourteen present to represent that small town. After the evening meeting the East Tawas ladies served coffee and doughnuts to those from a distance, and by the way the good things disappeared we feel sure they were well appreciated.

Our motto for the coming year is "Bigger and Better Sunday Schools Throughout Iosco County." ***

CITIZENS' MILITARY TRAINING CAMP

Thirty days military training under regular army supervision will be offered by the government this summer to a limited number of Iosco county young men at the Citizens' Military Training Camp which opens at Camp Custer, Mich., August 2.

Free transportation, clothing, food, equipment and medical attention is given the men who are accepted for the camp. Travers Ousterhout of Tawas City is chairman of the Iosco county committee. Application blanks and detailed information may be obtained from him.

Purposes of the camps are to furnish young Americans with a chance to secure military training under favorable conditions and to so develop them physically and morally as to increase their ability to render service to their country in time of need.

Age limits are 17 to 25 years for the "Red" course; 18 to 26 for the "White" course; and 19 to 27 for the "Blue" course. No man who completed the Red course last year will be barred from the White course this year on account of age, however. World War veterans and other ex-service men may be accepted for any one of the three courses if not over 35 years old.

HERBERT K. OAKES FORGING AHEAD

In the marine news of the Cleveland Plain Dealer we read that Herbert K. Oakes has recently placed an order with the American Shipbuilding Co. for a new 600 foot steamer to come out in 1923, and to cost about $800,000. This makes the third boat of that class that has been booked by the American builders since the opening of navigation.

The new freighter will be 604 feet over all, 584 feet keel, 64 feet beam and 33 feet deep. She will have a triple expansion engine and Scotch boilers. The steamer will probably be built at Lorain yards and will be completed and ready for business by the opening of next season. She will cost about $800,000. The new boat will be operated by the Franklin Steamship Company and will replace the steamer B. F. Berry, which that company sold to Canadian parties last month.

H. K. Oakes, better known as Bert Oakes to East Tawas friends, was formerly of this city and now spends his summers here with Mrs. H. K. Oakes. They have a cottage at Tawas Point.

Loosely, the term "Jews" means the Semitic nation that was earlier called Hebrews, Israelites, or the children of Israel; strictly, the term is applied to the people descended from the tribes of Judah and Benjamin. The Jews still remain a distinct people and retain their nationality.

THE BROWN THRASHER

The brown thrasher or "merry brown thrush" as he is often called, does not belong to the thrush family. Thrashers are square built, compact birds. Thrashers have long, slender bodies and long tails which they twitch nervously as they sing.

Sixty-four per cent of the thrasher's food consists of insects. The rest of its food is composed of fruit and seed but as it is a sly, retiring bird, it does not get much cultivated fruit.

T. Gilbert Pearson says: "One pair of brown thrashers will destroy 60,000 insects in one season."

The thrasher likes a dry upland thicket. Most of its food is taken from the ground. It gets its name "thrasher" from its habit of vigorously scratching and scattering the leaves when it is searching for food.

Many who do not know the thrasher by sight know its bold, varied rich song that makes one feel that the "world's running over with joy."

Catbirds and wrens belong to the thrasher family. Ninety-eight per cent of the food of the wren is insects.

Dr. Judd estimates that a dozen pair of wrens and the young reared by them in one season will eat 123 pounds of insects.

FOX SPOILS THE FUN

WHEN Toby Dog and Ikey Drake were tired of living in the barnyard they did not know that Mr. Fox was going to spoil all their fun, or they would not have set up housekeeping in a hut by the river close to the woods.

Ikey Drake said he was tired of having all his relatives quacking after him every time he went anywhere, and Mr. Dog said he was tired of sleeping with both eyes open at night to watch for the farmer, when in the daytime he was always chained up. So one night off they tramped and went to live in a hut by the river, and all went well until Mr. Dog growled over having so many worms for food instead of "a nice ham bone or something."

Ikey Drake began to quack loudly that bones were too hard to digest and that Mr. Dog would find his health much better if he made a diet of things such as he ate.

It was just then that Mr. Fox, strolling in the woods, heard the noise and came that way to see what was going on. When he saw fat Ikey

Drake he forgot all about Toby, only that he was a young dog and might be fooled if necessary. He wanted Ikey very much for a dinner some night, so he set his wits at work to find a way.

The next day Ikey went swimming on the pond and Mr. Fox, who was watching in the woods, strolled along to the hut and said:

"Ah, I see I have a neighbor. Mr. Dog! I do not live far from here, and you and I ought to have some fun hunting. Do you like chasing rabbits?"

"Rabbits?" repeated Toby, his ears sticking straight up. "I love nothing better. Show me one and see."

Mr. Fox knew just where to take Toby Dog, and it was not long before he was running through the woods after poor Mr. Rabbit, and Mr. Fox, knowing that Toby would be busy for some time, ran back to the hut to wait for Ikey Drake.

Now it happened that Ikey had met all his family on the pond, and because they were afraid he would leave them again followed him back to the hut, in spite of all poor Ikey could do to get rid of them.

Mr. Fox, who was hiding inside, could hardly keep still, he was so anxious to pounce upon them. His eyes sparkled as Ikey and his family came nearer, but to his surprise, he heard Ikey telling them, "You better go home; old Mr. Fox might be around."

"He will get you, too, Ikey," said one plump duck. "Why don't you run?"

"I am not afraid of Mr. Fox," pretended Ikey, strutting toward the hut, "but if you will all start for home I'll come along soon. There, what did I tell you?" he said, pointing to the tip of Mr. Fox's nose sticking through where the boards were broken.

Of course, Ikey Drake thought it was Toby Dog's nose, and he laughed as his family turned to run; but he soon changed it to a loud "Quack!" and ran, for Mr. Fox, thinking all the plump ducks would get away, came running out after them. But, luckily, he got only a few tail feathers and the ducks swam safely home.

When Toby Dog missed Mr. Fox he began to think of poor Ikey, and away he ran for the hut by the river, to find only the tail feathers of poor Ikey strewn by the water side. Sadly he went back to the farm, and he made up his mind on the way to watch over Ikey's family from now on, to make up for leaving poor Ikey to his sad fate, for, of course, he was sure Mr. Fox had caught him and carried him off to his den. But the first ones he saw when he reached the barnyard were Ikey Drake and his family.

"Did you chase Mr. Fox?" they all asked, for Toby Dog looked very warm from running.

"He won't bother you any more," said Toby. But he never told Ikey how Mr. Fox had got him to go hunting, and then had run back to catch Ikey Drake. However, he kept his word, for Mr. Fox did not bother them any more.

Toby Dog slept none that night, and when Mr. Fox came skulking around he was after him with a bound, and by the way he acted Mr. Fox knew that if he wanted to live he had better keep away from that farm.

The Friendly Path

HAVING FRIENDS

Be bright and jovial among your guests. Shakespeare.

AT THIS season, visiting around is a popular diversion. And it is well. Most of the pleasure in life comes through associations of one kind or another. Without real friends to greet or to welcome one, no person could find much enjoyment in life. But it is essential that our guests be the proper kind and that those whom we visit welcome us because they like us and not because an ulterior motive is back of the hand they proffer us.

Unless those we would welcome to our hospitality are those we can welcome to our respect and esteem, if not our friendship, it is far better that the latchstring be not left out for them. We cannot be false in our greeting without feeling a keen resentment against ourselves.

And the same rule applies when we go visiting. For our own happiness and self-respect it is far better never to visit with people at all than to realize the welcome given us is hypocritical.

Someone has said: "First day, a guest; the second, a burden; the third, a pest." Do those you invite to enjoy the hospitality of your own roof come under this category; or do you fit into it when you accept the invitation of so-called friends? It is well carefully to consider this question before trying to be one of the jovial throng in your home or elsewhere. There must be sincerity or false greetings are certain to find one out.

Just as one's sins will find him out, will false friends deceive him and will his own hypocrisy lead him to a sorry route.

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL
Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

ROBERTA

ROBERTA, the charming boyish name signifying "bright fame," is one of the many examples of feminine names coined directly from the masculine cognomen, Robert. Though Robert can be clearly traced, there is no record of the evolution of the feminine and it can only be deduced that some parent, disappointed at the birth of a daughter, bestowed the family name upon the girl-child and added the final "a" as a concession to the sex.

Roberta has a charmingly poetical heritage. Her counterpart appears in the most famous passages of England's early history. The origin of the name was in "roeb," which accounts for the translation of "bright."

One of the wild dukes of Normandy brought it back to England and numerous earls and nobles seized upon it, establishing its vogue permanently.

The dearly beloved Robin Hood, whose deeds are recorded in English ballads, did much toward making it popular. Robin was the epithet by which Queen Elizabeth addressed the two earls, stepson and stepfather, who sunned themselves in her favor. Robert of Bruce was the national hero of Scotland and Robin Lawless was a favorite Irish character.

Roberta is essentially American, though the contraction, Bertie, which is the endearment for several other names as well as Roberta, has the real Yankee sound.

Roberta's talismanic stone is the sapphire, which is said to guard her from danger and disease. Tuesday is her lucky day and 7 her lucky number.

Totemism.
Totemism was, and still is, a system of tribal division among many primitive races of men, its origin dating back to the people of pre-historic times. Natural objects, usually an animal, bird, fish, or reptile, were taken as a totem, both for clans and individuals. The representation of individual totems in many regions of the earth was often painted upon the body, or painted or otherwise worked upon such possessions as blankets, skins of animals, utensils, and shields.

Whaleskin / Valuable.

Whaleskin is so thick that it can be split into several layers, each as stout as ox hide, and it is excellent for making boots, bags, harness or belting. The usefulness of the whale in this respect is not confined to his outer skin. The stomach furnishes a leather as soft and as strong as the best kid. Another important thing about the whale is that the whole of his skin is good. The skins of cows, horses and other land animals furnish a comparatively small quantity of leather, for only certain portions of the hide are of the right quality.

"HELLO" BARRED IN BOSTON

According to Superintendent of Schools Burke the Word Is Both Undignified and Slovenly.

Do not say "Hello" when you pick up the telephone. Avoid "Nope" and "Yep" in your conversation when you mean "No" or "Yes."

If Boston is going to sustain its reputation as the Athens of America, it must quit the use of these barbarisms, according to Jeremiah E. Burke, new superintendent of Boston schools.

It is more in accordance with Boston culture to say something like "This is Mr. Smith talking; with whom am I conversing?"

"There are many words," Superintendent Burke says, "which may be used in place of that moth-eaten, undignified and impolite word 'Hello.' Its use is condemned in Boston schools, particularly in classes in salesmanship where knowledge of dignified and grammatical English is essential.

"There is no excuse for the use of 'Nope' and 'Yep' in conversation. I believe that if Boston school children will check themselves in their use, parents at home will gradually dispense with their use.

"My advice to the children in Boston schools is:

"Don't be slovenly in the use of English. Slovenliness is the result of habit, and once tolerated, it is likely to cling to all of us until mature life."—Boston American.

ETIQUETTE THAT SEEMS ODD

Table manners at the time of Chaucer were described in a lecture by Kenneth Hare, author and poet, on "A Holiday in London in the Days of Chaucer." Etiquette in those days (the latter half of the Fourteenth century) demanded that meat should be held between two fingers and a thumb of the left hand, and no more, if one was to be received in polite society. After soup, pike roasted in claret and flavored with strange and varied spices was eaten. Then followed partridge roasted with saffron, cloves and ginger, and jam tarts and jelly.

It was the custom to change the cloth with the courses, and one read of one feast in which each new cloth was scented with a perfume appropriate to the dish. In Chaucer's day the bath in construction was not unlike a miniature pulpit, and a bouquet of sweet scented herbs was hung over it for the stream to draw out their refreshing qualities.

Shrunken Body Is Two Feet Tall. Preserved better than many an Egyptian mummy, a shrunken body of an Indian chief who died more than 400 years ago has been brought to the United States by Juan Kratiel, a Peruvian engineer. The mummy is only 25 inches high, for the body was shrunk and preserved by a secret "pickling" process known only to the South American Indians.

Tradition records that this is the mummy of Karruba, a Peruvian chief who led his tribe against the Spaniards in 1535. The beads worn by Senor Kratiel were found with the shrunken warrior.—Popular Science Monthly.

Rare, Flawless Emerald.

"Emeralds are very seldom found without some small defect," said a jeweler in the West End of London. "Pearls, diamonds and rubies can all be obtained perfect in thousands of cases, but an emerald such as the one in Princess Mary's ring is an altogether exceptional stone." It is known among jewelers as a "specimen gem," an exceedingly rare one, and is set in platinum.

Happiness.

Happiness is the art of not letting the thought of joys you don't possess spoil the pleasure of the ones at hand.

SHIPS THAT FATTEN SAILORS

Modern "Tankers" Are Now Blamed for Added Weight Taken On by the Seamen.

Shipping experts continue to argue regarding the advantages of oil fuel over coal. At present the question is occupying the attention of medical men.

The adverse effect of oil fuel upon such surfaces as steel, canvas, rope and other shipping accessories are widely known; ships' doctors are now divided on the question as to whether it is harmful or beneficial in its effect upon sailors, a writer in London "Tit-Bits" states.

Sailors on oil-fed vessels are fatter and plumper than those who work on coal-fed ships. Some naval surgeons declare that the fattening effect is produced by the slight fumes exuded by the dormant oil fuel; others ridicule the suggestion, and maintain that the former are fat simply because they have less work to do.

"Coaling ship" is one of the finest exercises in the world for reducing superfluous flesh. It is hard work that has to be maintained at high speed all day. Ships vie with each other in getting their coal aboard in record time, and even after the operation is finished the sailors still have a few more ounces of avoirdupois to work off in cleaning up the mess below decks. Usually three days are occupied in cleaning a vessel after a bout of "coal ship." On the other hand, oil-fuel ships perform the task in about three hours.

Doctors are asking themselves: "Is the fat a healthy fat, or an injurious parasitic growth?" If a hammock is splashed with oil fuel, all the scrubbing and boiling in the world will not prevent a hole from appearing in it; and if it eats through double-canvas, what will oil fuel accomplish in the case of human beings?

"Tanker" hands are noticing that after two or three voyages they begin to put on flesh.

FAMED FOR ITS MARASCHINO

Dalmatian Town of Sebenico Really Has Little Right to Other Claims to Honors.

Sebenico vainly boasts of being the Roman colony Siscum, where Claudius quartered his veterans, and so styles itself in public inscriptions and Latin documents. But Siscum stood farther south, near Salona, at a spot still marked by Roman remains.

It is to be feared that Sebenico had a sadly ignoble origin, says the Manchester Guardian. The name is said to be derived from a word that means the fort from whence bandits watched the sea for ships which they attacked and plundered. The little Dalmatian pirates' lair remained quite unknown until selected in the early Middle Ages by Croatian kings for their favorite residence. Apart from possession of a picturesque land-locked harbor, the only cathedral in the world built entirely of stone and metal, and the ancestral house of the Orsini, Sebenico has few claims to distinction. However, by some people Sebenico will always be held in high honor for being the place where they make maraschino, an insidious liquor distilled from small black cherries.

The Wrong Saint.

Childhood's propensity for getting names mixed was well illustrated a Sunday morning, or two ago when little Richard, on the way to Sunday school with his mother and sister, met another little boy afflicted with St. Vitus' dance.

Richard was deeply impressed by the incident and asked his mother what was the matter with the little boy.

"Poor child," the sympathetic mother replied. "He has St. Vitus' dance." Back at home, Richard rushed in to tell his father of the incidents of the morning and closed with the remark:

"And—and—and we saw a poor little boy who jerked all over. He had the Ritcomb Riley."

Only Fat Girls in His Office.

"I have found one employer whose 'bug' in hiring folks for his office is worse than the idea against bobbed heads and short skirts," lamented a young woman who was weary with hunting work.

"And what's that?" "He won't hire any one—male or female—unless he has a fat, healthy, well-fed, well-cared-for look. I was talking to the girl who lets applicants in to see the boss. She was real sweet and kind and she told me I might as well not go in. I asked her why, and she confided to me that I was too pale, too delicate looking. This girl thinks it is just because he is known as an old tightwad and is selfish, and he doesn't want it said of him that even his office people look pinched and pale and ill-treated."—New York Sun.

A Day Dream.

"That was a smooth stock salesman in here just now." "He was, indeed," said Mr. Dubwaite. "He hadn't been talking five minutes before I saw myself stepping briskly into a bank to deposit a few hundred thousand dollars, then strolling around to my tailor to order a winter outfit of a dozen suits and making an engagement with a friend of mine in the motor business to look at the fall styles in limousines." "What happened next?" "Oh, I woke up, glancing hastily about to see if I was still sitting in the little old office and wished him 'good morning.'"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Success.

Since a man gets about what he deserves in this life, success is merely deserving much.

The Joy of Hardships.

After a man has once succeeded he always gets a lot of pleasure recalling the struggles and failures he has been through.

Perfect Little Gentleman.

A little English lad of five at his prayers one night solemnly said: "If I die tonight, please, God, excuse me coming to Heaven in my pajamas."—Boston Transcript.

You Don't Know Wallboard Unless You Know Upson Board

by John L. Lewis, Contractor and Builder, Binghamton, N. Y.

What this prominent contractor and builder says—

FOR years I did not recommend wall board. I would not let my customers use it except for attics where quality did not matter.

breaking a single piece. You know what that means if you have had experience with ordinary wall board.

A wonderful painting surface

"The biggest surprise of all was the finishing. I have seen all kinds of wall board painted. Some boards drink paint like a sponge, others have a waxy coating which is the ruination of a good job of painting.

"But with Upson Board the first coat covered perfectly and two is all that is ever needed. I understand that big paint companies use Upson Board for making up their samples of paint.

"I have used it in my own home as well as in the finest homes and buildings.

"If you are in doubt as I was, I suggest that you get some samples of Upson Board and learn the truth for yourself."

How my eyes were opened

"And then one day a salesman asked me to try some Upson Board. I placed a trial order but even at that I was almost afraid to try it on a real good job.

"My first surprise came when I unloaded the big panels. I expected breakage. There was none. Surprise No. 2 came when we commenced to cut the board. Instead of breaking like a graham cracker and fraying at the edges, we found that it cut and sawed like lumber.

"We finished a whole room without

Last Friday furnished lots of sport in the way of baseball. Rose City high came down in full force and was taken into camp to the tune of 3 to 0. McCrory, a left hander, proved too much for the Rose City lads, striking out 16. They managed to get only two hits off his delivery in the nine innings. Our boys hit hard but by fine fielding on the part of the visiting team, passes to the home plate came seldom. They pushed one over in the 3rd, 5th and 7th innings each. A number of the players and fans stayed over to the dance in the evening and proved themselves a bunch of young gentlemen throughout all the sessions.

M. A. C. COMPLETES 65th YEAR

The Michigan Agricultural college celebrated its 65th birthday on Saturday, May 13, when alumni, students and faculty gathered on the campus grounds in recognition of M. A. C. Founders' Day.

Sectional alumni clubs of the college held simultaneous meetings all over the country in honor of the anniversary. President David Friday, new executive of the state school, delivered his first official message to M. A. C. alumni during the Founders' Day program. This talk was broadcasted by radio from the college station, in order that all the alumni clubs could hear the speech at first hand.

Policies which will govern the management of the college during coming years were outlined by President Friday, who told of new buildings to be erected on the campus, of courses of study which are to be revised and pushed, and of investigational work to be carried on.

"We are to start construction soon on new home economics and library buildings," said Friday. "The next legislature will be asked for funds for building including gold storage and commercial greenhouse facilities.

"The engineering department, beginning next fall, will offer a new course in engineering administration. Work in horticulture and economics will be reorganized and expanded, in order to make M. A. C. a leader in these fields. Plans are under way for the establishment of graduate work in agriculture and science, to utilize the excellent facilities of the college for this work.

"In short, we hope, with the support of the alumni and friends of the college, to maintain the institution in the foremost ranks of American education."

NEW DANCE HAS MADE HIT

Gothamites Take to Impartation From London, Though It Seems Rather a Childish Pastime. There's a new dance stunt in town. It's the balloon dance and it's from dear old London, don't you know. It's a bit of all right, too.

A few nights ago it was introduced at the Rendezvous—one of Broadway's most exclusive supper clubs. And it made a tremendous hit, says the New York World. A toy balloon is tied to the ankle of each dancer of the fair sex and the idea is to get through a close-fitting fox-trot or a toddle with the balloon still intact. That is the girl's idea.

The idea of the men dancers is to break as many balloons as possible without stepping out of the dance. On a crowded floor the balloons have about as much chance as a snowball in well—a warmer place than New York. However, a prize is offered to the woman who can emerge from the maze of the dance with her balloon still flying.

One young lady at the Rendezvous actually won the prize. But the popping of the colored spheres reminded one of the popping of champagne corks. Anyway, it's a great boon for the balloon manufacturers. For the dance floors of the average toddle sanctuary are so small that the only way to keep off one's partner's balloon is to step on her feet—and that is not very popular with the fair sex.

RETURNING TO SWORD PLAY

New York Children in Their Games, Seem to Have Abandoned "Modern Warfare." Playwrights and theatrical producers predict the return of the costume play and the swashbucklin' melodrama. But the youngsters of New York seem to have realized this prophecy in their games.

Wooden swords, umbrella rib daggers and crossbows have supplanted dummy rifles and barrel stave artillery pieces that were popularized by the World war. Sword play, with hickory rapiers and fragile crate-cover cutlasses seem to have asserted a romantic appeal over infantry charges and vocal "bing! bangs!" The vacant lot is no longer no man's land, but a rock-strewn heath or a tin can infested moor, where Frankie and Johnny would "do each other in mortal combat as Spaniard and Dutchman in the lowlands."

There is more realism in the sword than in the pistol, with which one must say "Bang! Bang!" Rock piles have become castles after the fashion of the Arthurian legends and lance-armed knights guard drawbridges of planks or old doors over imitation moats.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

One of Great City's Tragedies.

An old-time tragedy of the Central Markets, Paris, has been recalled by the death at an advanced age of a once rich woman, who for many years made a poor living there overturning garbage cans and selling anything of value she might be able to find therein. Her name was unknown, and for nearly half a century she was merely called "Princess." Fifty years ago it was fashionable for persons of high society in Paris to pass a riotous night in the cafes and stalls of the market. On one occasion a fashionable woman, one of a gay party, was robbed of money and jewels, presumably by her escort. Left penniless, she refused, for reasons easily surmisable, to communicate with her husband or her family in central France. Instead she sought employment and gradually fell into extreme poverty. She got her nickname owing to her invariable habit, when asked about her former life, of replying: "Ask no questions; I am a princess from a far country."

Smiling Porches.

More houses are being built with inclosed porches than ever before; you may walk down long streets of dear little homes whose porches smile at you through tiny panes of glass. You pass medium-sized places with grounds, comfortable houses set back from the road, and large mansions—in every one somewhere you catch the glimpse of an enclosed porch-room. Old-fashioned houses follow suit, and back of the rounded Colonial pillars are fitted small-paned glass partitions that inclose the porch as efficaciously as though it had been built that way in the beginning. In the summer these are lifted out, leaving the porch as before.—The Designer.

Canada Pushing Honey Industry.

It is expected that Ontario's honey crop next season will be marketed largely on the co-operative system, as a result of the activities of the committee appointed recently by the Ontario Bee Keepers' association, and with the assistance of the Ontario government. The honey will be graded and have a registered brand for the protection of consumers. Each package will have a distinguishing number, by which it can be traced back to the producer.

Snails in London Restaurants.

English officers who served in France during the war acquired in many cases a taste for frogs' legs and snails, hitherto unknown to London menus. When they returned home they demanded the same tidbits in London and now both frogs' legs and snails are conveyed daily from France to London by airplane. Some of the London restaurants are doing an enormous business in serving these two articles of food.

TAWAS CITY SCHOOLS

In our English II class we have just completed the study of Hamlet. A number of excellent character sketches have been written. This one of Ophelia will surely be appreciated by anyone who is conversant at all with Shakespeare's Hamlet. Ophelia The beautiful Ophelia in the play Hamlet is one of the characters upon which we can lay no censure, but who stands out like a bright light in her innocence and purity. She, unconscious of the tragedy being enacted in real life about her, is drawn into the whirlpool of oncoming events and her position is twice as pathetic as those of the other characters. Obedient to her father's wishes she discontinued her discourse with her lover and when he became mad, to her appearances, she believed it to be her fault. Depriving Denmark of a noble prince, a loving mother of her son, and herself of a lover seemed so awful a consequence to Ophelia that her gentle spirit broke down under its heavy burden.

The climax in her life comes with her father's death and the chords of reason severed their connection and left Ophelia helplessly surrounded by a wall of insanity. But even in her insanity Ophelia is surrounded by an atmosphere of ethereal purity which keeps her from any contamination. She bears malice toward no one, in fact, her gentle nature can admit nothing evil or destructive. Her death is consistent with her manner after losing her mind. Unaware of her own danger in the face of death as in life, she drowns, still without hate and with sweet gentle hymns upon her lips.

"YE GENUS BOY"

(With apologies to K. C. B.) DOWN at LaPorte, Indiana RIGHT on Silver Lake THERE is a wonderful, level plain WALLED in by wooded hills AND here is Camp Roosevelt NAMED after that great American WHO loved boys and men AND I think every red-blooded AMERICAN boy and his dad SHOULD know about this camp FOR I was there last year AND I saw boys FROM everywhere in the U. S. A. GROW tanned and rugged and alert UNDER regular army officers AND picked high school teachers FOR there is a summer school AS you should know AND crack athletic coaches FOR the boys swam and hiked AND sang and boxed and drilled AND studied French and Algebra AND ate, Gosh, how they ate AND their proud parents came AND watched and praised MAJOR F. L. Beals WHO is a big man AND knows the boys' game AND is a human being AND this year 1922 THE camp will be bigger AND it only costs a little bit BECAUSE Chicago's Board of Education IS back of it all AND the camp's not run TO make money BUT to make true Americans SO I really think EVERY boy that you reach SHOULD know DON'T you? YOU tell 'em!

ERRORS DO IT AGAIN

Tawas City lost last Sunday's game to East Tawas by a score of 10 to 3. The fore part of the game was full of pep and good plays, but the number of errors soon decided the game. Though they took Johnson's offerings for nine hits, they failed to be bunched where they would do any good. Sherman and Moeller both pitched well, but received no support.

Following is the score by innings: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R H E East Tawas 0 0 2 0 3 0 2 1 10 12 Tawas City 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 0 1 3 9

Have Wrong Viewpoint.

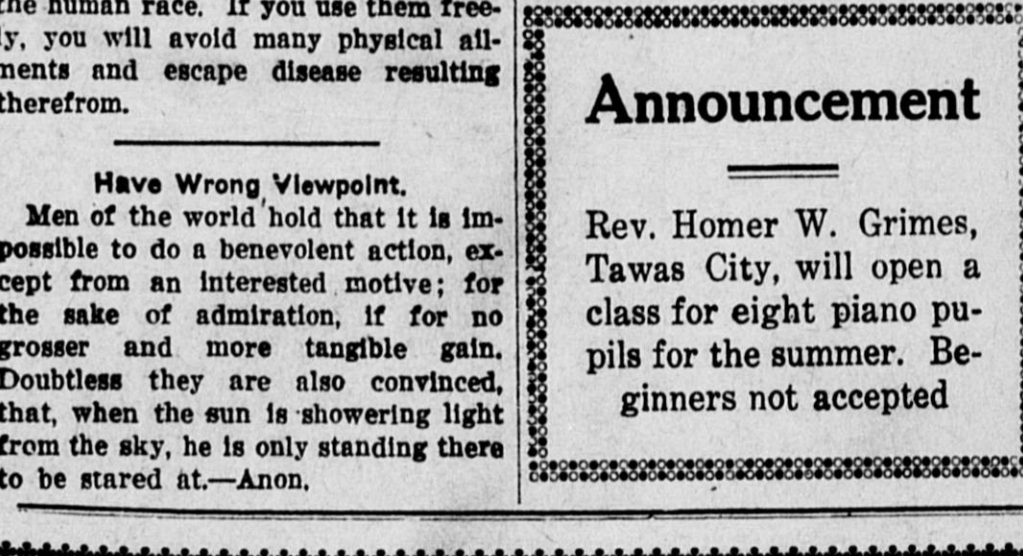

Men of the world hold that it is impossible to do a benevolent action, except from an interested motive; for the sake of admiration, if for no grosser and more tangible gain. Doubtless they are also convinced, that, when the sun is showing light from the sky, he is only standing there to be stared at.—Anon.
