BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS IS MENACE TO CHILDREN

Children are the chief victims of tuberculosis infected milk, according to Dr. Mazzyk P. Ravenel, former president of the American Public Health Association, in the May number of "Michigan Out-of-Doors," just issued. In fact, this type of tuberculosis is rarely found in persons over sixteen years old, says this authority whom Dr. V. C. Vaughan calls the leader in this type of tuberculosis work. Dr. Ravenel discovered by actual experiment of 930 given cases, that 34.2% were in children under five, 26.8% in children between five and ten, 12.6% in children between 10 and 16, and 5.9% in children over sixteen.

Dr. Ravenel's conclusion is that too much care cannot be exercised as to the kind of milk the children drink. "Certified" milk affords a high degree of protection, but Dr. Ravenel advises pasteurization even of that kind of milk. "But pasteurization must not be a substitute for cleanliness," he adds. "Children have a right to demand clean milk, drawn from clean healthy cows by clean healthy milkers, and handled throughout by clean healthy operatives."

FIELD MEET A SUCCESS IN SPITE OF STORMY DAY

A success in spite of the annual "wet blanket." Friday morning dawned gray. The bawl of the foghorn mingled with the shout of children released from the routine of the school room to the sports of the athletic field. It was field day, and it brightened as it advanced. About half a thousand people gathered at the fair grounds to witness the sports or to take part in them.

The restricted events or John Brown contests and the boys' ball game occupied the forenoon. The baseball game was between East Tawas and Alabaster for the championship of the county. Alabaster showed up well, one little out-fielder starred by his superb playing, also the pitcher by his drops and curves won a place in the all-county team. They were pitted against a very strong team and played a good game. The final score stood 9 to 4 in favor of East Tawas.

The eighth grade graduating exercises were scheduled for one o'clock, but it was fully one hour late in beginning. Colonel Gansser of Bay City gave the address to the graduates. It was a speech characteristic of the Colonel—energetic, patriotic, inspiring; a strong appeal to the eighth graders to continue in the high school the schooling which they had so well begun. A terrific storm of wind, rain and hail cut short the address, as the class and the audience occupied seats in the grand stand, which afforded only partial shelter from such a storm. County Commissioner Bradley was however master of the situation and was able to distribute the diplomas, a hundred or more in number.

Between showers during the rest of the afternoon most of the events of the day were played off. Alpena appeared on the scene with ten picked men who put up a stiff race with East Tawas for the honors of the meet.

The Big Fight

(Of special interest to the Sophs) Last Friday a gallant battle was fought by the Sophs against our enemy the rain. We had been having the most glorious of time selling hot dogs, lemonade, spud salad, and, well, you know the big conglomeration of eats we had.

But every grand day must have a perfect ending and that day of all days did not disappoint us. With only a half fair warning it began to rain something disgraceful. We sophs huddled up in the back of our stand and between our giggles we sent a few encouraging words to the cowering bystanders whose squeals were pitiful. But far more pitiful than that was the fate of our "hot dogs." Frightened beyond description they leaped out of the kettle onto the ground and we couldn't possibly avoid stepping on some of them. I particularly remember sliding on one poor little fellow. There was a squeak and then he met his death nobly.

Beatrice Bright, standing under a great big hole in the roof, hollered, with the rain splashing off her head, "Why kids, I'm getting wet." The band in the grand stand piped up "How Dry I Am" in mockery of our dampish plight.

"Blow high, Blow low, Net even the rain could quench Our class spirit's flaming glow." Nevertheless out of the pouring rain we sophs emerged triumphant with a tidy little sum to our credit. You ask "How did you ever do it?" And for an answer we point with pride to our line up of sophs—Gracie, our president

Who with her basket fair Found shelter almost anywhere. Dug, a lively stepper And through all an able helper. Toney, the deep voiced yeller, Who became the "hot dog" seller; Beatrice, the all-over kid Who into the dishwasher slid. Meta, big and strong of hand Scooped ice cream out to the band. Marion in her apron cute Made the gum shute-the-shute. Maggie and Irene aected by jiggles Encouragell all with wholesome giggles

Walt and Glen were right there well say And boosted for our gala day. Eddie and Archie their efforts bent So across the counter more eats we sent.

Lily and Liz, and Ethel too Were faithful, sticking by like glue. Last but not least we tender with praise Our appreciation for Mrs. Bright's handy ways.

One more line we beg leave to write: Here's to our general with thanks for your work, You stood in the mud and no job did you shirk.

You're faithful and daring and dauntless and true, Yea, Mr. Wood, we all shout for you.

FUNERAL OF JAMES BROWN AT ALABASTER

James Brown, formerly residing at in Alabaster for many years, passed away in California more than a week ago and was brought to Alabaster for burial last Friday afternoon. Funeral services were held at Alabaster last Monday afternoon, Rev. Mitchell of East Tawas M. E. church officiating. Interment was made in the German cemetery at Tawas City.

Four years ago James Brown and family moved to California where they had a pleasant home in one of the resorts of that state. The family had sold their possessions and were packed up ready to return to Alabaster where they intended again to reside, when Mr. Brown was stricken with paralysis and passed away while sitting in his chair at home. The widow, two sons, Wallace and Harlan, and two daughters, Alice and Mabel, accompanied the body to Alabaster. The family will make Alabaster their home.

URGE WIDER USE OF CABBAGE

Experts of Cornell College of Agriculture Extol Humble Vegetable's Value as Food.

Lovers of cabbage will welcome the pronouncement of the experts at Cornell's College of Agriculture, acclaiming the merits of this succulent vegetable. Cabbage is a subject the discussion of which is not considered good social usage. For some inscrutable reason to acknowledge a fondness for it does not raise one in the estimation of professing epicures, writes H. Young in the Providence Journal.

Cabbage is rich in iron and other mineral salts, it contains a moderate amount of growth-promoting substance and the American people should eat more of it than is their habit, according to the Cornell propagandists. Have we not heard, too, that it contains these precious, if as yet unidentified elements called vitamins? This cabbage report suggests that Americans do not cook it properly, as a rule, and that may explain why appreciation of it is not more general. It should be "plunged into boiling salted water and left there for 20 minutes, no longer, uncovered"—instead of being confined to a tightly-covered receptacle for an indefinite period.

The practice of covering the dish has grown up because of a conventional disinclination to having the house filled with the perfume of boiling cabbage. But to a hungry cabbage lover this fragrance is one of the vegetable's charms. It exercises, as one may say, an agreeable psychological influence. There are, of course, divers ways of serving cabbage, all of them good. And since our tastes are often ruled by the judgment of authority, it may be believed that a widening circle of confessing cabbage eaters will be the consequence of Cornell's approving verdict.

SHORTAGE IN PANTS SUPPLY

Evidently Pioneers' Wardrobes Were, at Least to a Certain Extent, Unpleasantly Limited.

In the early days of central Illinois, a period when the settlers drove their hogs to market at Chicago, breaking a path in winter by means of a yoke of oxen and a heavy log, a certain young man was in the habit of walking eight miles to see his best girl. On the occasion of one visit a heavy snowstorm swept the prairie, and the young man found it necessary to remain until morning. He slept in an "outside" room, the space between the logs being unfilled. The old-fashioned feather bed with wool blankets protected him from the zero weather.

It so happened that the young man wore the style at that date, buckskin pants. Thoughtlessly on retiring he laid his pants on top of the bedclothes. A coyote or wolf crawled through the cracks between the logs in the night and carried his pants away. The theft was revealed when the young man was called for breakfast, and to cap the climax, not an extra pair of pants was to be had. The young man was forced to stay in bed and send a boy eight miles to his home for pants. There was only one pair in his family, those worn by his father. Thus the father had to go to bed and send the boy these pants in order that the latter could get back home.—Indianapolis News.

White Spots on Wood.

The white spots left on the wood-work after it is washed are caused by the use of soap which is too strong. In cleaning woodwork, use luke-warm water and milk, soap suds or cleaning powder. These leave no spots and are good dirt removers.

NOTICE

Warning signs indicating railroad crossings have been placed approximately 500 feet on each side of the railroad on every highway crossing within the county, not including roads within the corporate limits of cities and villages.
This is in compliance with state law, Act 270 of 1921, which provides a penalty for defacing or destroying the signs. This work has been performed at considerable expense and notice is hereby given that anyone destroying or defacing these signs will be prosecuted as provided for by the Act. Should warning signs be destroyed, the fact should be reported promptly to this Commission so that prompt action may be taken to replace them.

Mrs. Harry Webster visited her mother, Mrs. Stockdale, in Logan last Sunday.

Mrs. Floyd Bronson and children

urday afternoon.

to her new home.

Scrap Book for Child.
Mothers can make beautiful scrapbooks for "the little ones" with pictures of all the things that children are interested in—trains and animals and bright colored flowers. Don't classify these pictures in pasting them in the book. Young children's minds don't work in an orderly way, and they will enjoy pointing to the many different kinds of things on one page.

The Elephant's Foot.
The elephant is a good traveler. On level ground a fast horse can outrun him, but on rough ground he would leave the horse behind. His foot is

You Don't Know
Wallboard Unless You Know Upson Board

by John L. Lewis, Contractor and Builder, Binghamton, N. Y.

What this prominent contractor and builder says—

FOR years I did not recommend wall board. I would not let my customers use it except for attics where quality did not matter.

"I believe that all wall board was alike but I did not know Upson Board, I had not tried it because I said 'What's the use?' Upson Board is no different from all the rest!"

How my eyes were opened

"And then one day a salesman asked me to try some Upson Board. I placed a trial order but even at that I was almost afraid to try it on a real good job.

"My first surprise came when I unloaded the big panels. I expected breakage. There was none. Surprise
No. 2 came when we commenced to cut the board. Instead of breaking like a graham cracker and fraying at the edges, we found that it cut and sawed like lumber.

"We finished a whole room without breaking a single piece. You know what that means if you have had experience with ordinary wall board.

A wonderful painting surface

"The biggest surprise of all was the finishing. I have seen all kinds of wall board painted. Some boards drink paint like a sponge, others have a waxy coating which is the ruination of a good job of painting.

"But with Upson Board the first coat covered perfectly and two is all that is ever needed. I understand that big paint companies use Upson Board for making up their samples of paint.

"I have used it in my own home as well as in the finest homes and buildings.

"If you are in doubt as I was, I suggest that you get some samples of Upson Board and learn the truth for yourself."

Death of Christian Denstedt

Christian Denstedt passed away at his home near Hale last Thursday, June 8th. He had been ill with a complication of diseases from which he could not rally due to his advanced years. He has lived in Plainfield township for the past 19 years and was respected by all who knew him for many sterling traits of character. A hard working, industrious farmer, he had built up a comfortable home 3 1/2 miles west of Hale. His widow, five sons, Samuel, John, George and William of Hale and one daughter, Mrs. Jas. LeClair, of Flint are left to mourn his loss.

Christian Denstedt was born in Germany in 1846. He came with his parents to Stratford, Ont., Can., in 1847. There he resided with his parents until Jan. 22, 1874, when he was married to Wilhelmine Vogt. There was born to them seven children, all of whom survive their father but one who passed away in infancy.

He moved with his family to Sanilac county, Mich., in 1894, where they resided until 1903, when they moved to Plainfield township. Here his wife passed away in 1904. He was again united in marriage in 1914 to Jennie Kimble.

The funeral services were held in the M. E. church on Sunday afternoon. Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

Methodist Church Notes

Mr. Nisbet of Indian Lake recently addressed the Sunday school in the interests of the county Sunday school association. The Sunday schools of the county plan to hold a convention in August.

Two years ago we went into debt for the full price of our parsonage. Last week the Ladies' Aid paid $75 on that debt. Various women present at the meeting subscribed the remaining $25 of the old debt, so that today we are glad to report our parsonage free from all indebtedness.

Be present at Sunday school next Sunday and help your class win one of the popular banners.

The League choir has prepared special numbers for next Sunday evening. Meet with us at 6:30 and enjoy our Big Sing.

Mrs. E. O. Putnam entertains the Ladies' Aid June 21st for an all day meeting.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Shattuck and Miss Annabel McLean attended a committee meeting of county Sunday school officers at Indian Lake. Many plans were made to increase the efficiency of our Sunday school work.

Then all repaired to the dining room which was suitably decorated for the occasion, where a sumptuous repast was served. The brides cut and served a wedding cake as a part of the program. All present had a delightful time.

A pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hicks on Tuesday, June 6, when their two daughters, Miss Dorothy and Martha were married, Miss Dorothy to Mr. Albert Kuhn and Miss Martha to Mr. Frank Schloss, both of Detroit. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. L. Hughes of Hale under an arch of ferns and flowers.

Miss Vina Morrison of Hale acted as bridesmaid and Harold Hicks, a brother of the brides, as best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Florence Hicks, a sister of the brides. Miss Dorothy looked charming in pink messaline and Miss Martha was lovely in blue taffeta with paisley trimming.

Owing to a recent death in the family only the immediate relatives were present. In the evening a reception was held for the many friends of the brides, who were held in high esteem by all and whose removal will be felt in the community. SWEET CLOVER VALUED AS HAY CROP

When properly handled, sweet clover hay contains practically as much digestible protein as other legume hays. As a soil builder, sweet clover ranks high. It will produce considerable growth on soils that are deficient in available plant food and organic matter, where alfalfa and red clover usually fail. It does not do well on acid soils, however.

In securing a stand of sweet clover the use of lime, inoculation, and a firm, well compacted seed bed should not be overlooked.

Ample seed of northern grown sweet clover is available for Michigan farmers at a considerably cheaper price than now prevails for clover and alfalfa.

Proving its value as a pasture and ray crop, and as a soil builder, sweet clover is rapidly gaining recognition among Michigan farmers, according to C. R. Megee, of the Michigan Agricultural college crops department.

Once classed as a weed, this crop is now esteemed highly. During the past season, when June grass was cut short by the drought, sweet clover produced abundant pasture on a number of Michigan farms where observations were made by the college authorities. Tests at the college experiment station also brought out the value of the crop for feeding, it being shown that stock can soon learn to like it as a pasture.

Disintegrating, As It Were.

One day while on the street I met one of the most prominent and dignified business men of our town. As he passed me he raised his hat and in doing so he knocked his cigar from his mouth. Trying to catch the cigar, he knocked his hat off. Also trying to keep that from falling, his nose-glasses slipped from his nose, fell to the walk and broke. Gathering up his scattered belongings, he remarked that it looked as if he were coming to pieces.—Exchange.

Stars in Daylight.

Photographs of stars down to the sixth magnitude can be taken in broad daylight. If the photographs are taken through a deep red screen, the stars appear with distinctness. Important results are expected from experiments.

Old Styles of Hairdressing.

Roughly speaking, through the Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries the hair parted in the middle hung in flowing tresses, like a veil over the shoulders and back. Some flogger had to be worn to keep it in place. Both men and women wore crowns or "chapels." Crowns in those days didn't belong only to kings and princes. Anyone could wear them. In Venice, in 1500, the hair was merely combed out, braided and gathered in a net. But what a net! It was worth a king's ransom—or nearly. Petrarch's Laura had "golden hair twisted into a blond braid."

Didn't Know His Good Fortune.
