Ninety-Nine Miles From Anywhere

PLEASED AUDIENCES GREET CHAUTAUQUA

The ninth Iosco County Chautauqua opened Monday with a most excellent program. A pre-Chautauqua session was given Sunday evening in which the churches of the Tawasess cooperated. Mr. Brush, a very clever magician, gave an inspiring lecture on practical community activities, supplemented by several bewildering tricks which amused all who braved the threatening weather.
 The musical part of the opening day was admirably rendered by the Allpress Allstar trio. Mr. Allpress is a finished violinist and Miss Coyle was complete master of her cello and violin at all times. They were ably accompanied by Mrs. Allpress, who gave several charming readings. Her personality won her audience early in the program. Mr. A. C. Everingham was the lecturer for the opening day. He presented many aspects of our economic and industrial problems in a masterful and convincing manner.
 On Tuesday The Rainbow Saxophone Band captivated the Chautauqua patrons. Seven talented musicians directed by Mrs. Hewling gave us a real musical feast. Their evening program was further enhanced by striking lighting effects. A more beautiful and harmonious program is rarely, if ever, seen upon the Chautauqua platform. Mrs. Hewling is an artist on all wind instruments and the drums. She is also a noted whistler and her every offering was enthusiastically received. Her company is made up of girls each a master of at least two instruments, and under her able direction rendered two programs which will be long remembered.
 On Wednesday Ambrose Wyrick, tenor, returned and gave us more of his charming music. He was very ably assisted by Miss Murray, cellist, and Rev. H. W. Grimes, pianist. Mr. Judie being ill Rev. Grimes substituted. They were all highly pleasing, but were handicapped by following the Rainbow company. Mr. Dilnot, an English journalist of note, gave a very scholarly address concerning "Lloyd George and America." He speaks with a thorough knowledge of the British premier and made clearer to us the great personality which has enabled Lloyd George to be a dominating factor in the world affairs for the past five years.
 Thursday the LeClere Concert Party furnished the music. They gave a full concert in the afternoon and a prelude in the evening. This company is versatile and the audience was well pleased. A rare treat was in store for those who heard Alexander Cairns lecture on "The Goose That Lays the Golden Egg." Another high point is reached today when the Davies Opera Company appears. The members of this company will give a vocal recital this afternoon which will be followed by the pageant for children. They have worked industriously and will be ready to give us a finished pageant. In the evening the opera company will present the ever popular opera "The Mikado." The towns where this com-

MICHIGAN PAYS THE PIPER

Michigan's wood using industries are now paying the economic piper for the state's quarter century timber debauch, according to a statement just issued by the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture, whose experts are engaged in a study to determine the effects of forest devastation on population, agriculture, industry and economic life in the state.
 The forests of Michigan, the statement continues, as a result of devastating fires and reckless cutting are now so greatly depleted that they produce chiefly fuel wood and other minor forest products instead of high grade lumber on which the state's main industries depend. The building trades and the automobile and furniture industries of Michigan must largely import their supply of high grade lumber from other states instead of growing it at home.
 For the most costly classes of woods such as those used for automobiles, furniture and building, Michigan goes as far south as the Gulf and as far west as the Pacific; it imports all told a little more than a billion board feet of lumber and timber annually, of which 400,000,000 come from the Gulf Coast region and nearly 180,000,000 feet from the Pacific northwest. For these amounts the state pays not only an enormous freight bill but also the high prices incident to constantly dwindling forests.
 The reforestation of Michigan's denuded lands would after a few decades, say forest experts, not merely stop these costly importations but go far toward reestablishing the state's lost leadership in her once greatest industry, lumbering, and put it upon a permanent basis.
DEATH OF GEORGE BESSEY
 George Bessey an old resident of Iosco county, died July 20 at Traverse City, aged 76 years, one month and 17 days.
 George Bessey was born in Canada on August 3, 1846, and was united in marriage Jan. 28, 1874, to Elizabeth Frank. He came to Michigan 38 years ago and has been a resident of Iosco county every since.
 He leaves to mourn, besides his wife, one daughter, Mrs. T. H. Winchell of Tawas, and five sons, Eugene of Tawas, Andrew of Alabaster, Samuel and Namen of Sherman and George of Minnesota. He had 28 grand children and five great grandchildren.
 The funeral was held at the Saints' church at 2 p. m. Wednesday, July 26, Elder M. A. Sommerfield officiating.
REGIONAL GRANGE MEETING
 The regional Grange meeting will be held Friday, August 4, in the woods three-fourths mile west of Whittemore on the John McLean farm. Oliver Wilson of Illinois, past master of the National Grange, will be the speaker.

BIG PROGRESS ON WILDMAN RUBBER FACTORY

Work is progressing very rapidly on the immense tire factory of the Wildman Rubber Company at Bay City.
 From April 17th to July 1st the following materials were actually used in the building—3100 barrels of cement, 9880 tons of gravel and 1780 tons of reinforcing steel.
 It is expected that the entire building will be under roof sometime in October.
 The Wildman Rubber Company will have the most modern tire factory in the United States and one of the largest. The capacity of the average tire company is 200 to 500 tires per day while the Wildman Rubber Company will produce 2500 tires and 5000 tubes daily.
 Readers of this paper are cordially invited to visit Bay City, meet the officials of the Wildman Rubber Company and see the progress that has been made at their plant.

SUMMER IN MICHIGAN

The greatest resort state in the Union, almost surrounded by inland seas, bespattered with some 5000 lakes—such is Michigan, the state that is fast winning the right to the title given by resort associations and development bureaus, "the playground of the nation." Scores of thousands come from all over America each year to spend their summers here, and by encouraging these people to be out of doors much of the time Michigan's cool breezes are helping to contribute materially to the health of America.
 The people of Michigan should be more conscious of their natural wealth in health resources. There is no reason why the playground of the nation should not do more for the natives of the state than it is doing. Many people travel a thousand miles each spring to come to Michigan to enjoy the out-of-doors; all the natives of the state need to do is to get out of doors and they can enjoy the same thing without money and without price.—Michigan Out-of-Doors.

L. D. S. CHURCH

 E. N. Sandeen, who is acting pastor at the Swedish Lutheran church, left for White Hall last Wednesday to attend a meeting of the pastors for the Grand Rapids district.
 A. C. Schreck, forest supervisor, recently presented to the Holland hotel and the Community building each three enlarged pictures representing scenes in the Michigan National forest and one large map of the forest itself showing the roads and principal points of interest. The public may view these pictures at either place mentioned.

U. S. FOREST SERVICE NOTES

Geo. A. Lake, who has had charge of the Beal nursery for the forest service for the past six years, resigned July 3. Mr. Lake plans on engaging in other business and has already established an M-10 lunch room at the four corners just outside of East Tawas.
 The new steel lookout towers have arrived and will be erected at once, one at the AuSable river and one at Silver creek. The old wood tower at Silver creek which has been a landmark for years will be dismantled to give way to a more modern structure. Manager Johnson will have charge of the construction work.
 The plans are, before the season is completed, to place a new steel tower and ranger station at Diamond hill, and a new modern five room ranger station at Long Lake, near Mio.
 Miss Edith Lutzke resigned from the service July 15, and has left for Bay City, where she plans on being with her mother who is not in the best of health.
 Tourist are more numerous on the forest than ever. On July 2, 137 people passed Silver Creek; on July 3, 63 people; on July 4, 101; on July 5, 37; on July 6, 47, and on July 9, 220. Several times during June and July camping privileges at the High Rollways, High Banks and Silver creek were at a premium. Tents of every description and traveling houses were crowded together and the people having a most enjoyable time. The forest at this time, due to frequent showers, is fresh and green and the roads are in good condition.
 With the heavy tourist travel and the large number of berry pickers now on the forest, the greatest care must be used by everyone in preventing forest fires. If the forest is to be made attractive for the thousands of tourists visiting us each year, we must have green trees, pure streams, and abundance of fish and wild life. None of which can be had unless everyone gets into the game and preaches "The Prevention of Forest Fires."

EAST TAWAS DROPS ANOTHER GAME

Another game was lost Sunday at the D. & M. park when Beede of Harrisville held the East Tawas team to 4 hits and won the game 10 to 4.
 Rain delayed the game for awhile but it was started after the threatening ceased. East Tawas was held hitless after the fourth inning. The score truthfully indicates some heavy slugging. "Jap" Stevens of Harrisville poled the ball to the left field fence for a 3 base hit and Bell cracked out a 2 bagger.
 The Harrisville team got most of their runs after the 5th inning. East Tawas used two pitchers, Halligan and Johnson. The Harrisville sluggers got 13 safeties from their deliveries.
 There is no game scheduled for next Sunday, July 30.

CHURCH FOR YOUNG PERSONS

Indianapolis Minister Successful in Operation of Branch for the Boys and Girls.

A junior church, the membership of which is limited to persons between six and sixteen years old, with the preacher the only adult present, is being successfully operated in Indianapolis. The plan was inaugurated by Rev.
N. S. Sichterman of Grace Presbyterian church, that city.

According to Doctor Sichterman, there are 60 children ranging in age from six to sixteen years who are members of the junior organization.
They have their own room for services, which are of 30 minutes' duration, and have their own officers. The plan was put into operation in January and Doctor Sichterman is so pleased with the results that he expects soon to double the membership.

Doctor Sichterman said the idea of forming a junior church developed from his experience in church while a boy.

"My people came from Holland and settled in a neighborhood of Hollanders in a small Michigan town," he said.
"The church I attended as a boy also used the Dutch language and the sermons sometimes lasted two hours or more. I well remember how tired and restless I would get as the time dragged on, for the sermon, while appealing to adults, was not such as would appeal to the child.
"It was this experience which gave birth to the junior church idea, and last January I started the organization."

CAN GROW NEW TUSK IN YEAR

Discovery Is Made That the Walrus May Prolong World's Vanishing Supply of Ivory.

A remarkable discovery at the seal rookeries on Pribilof islands may prolong the world's vanishing ivory supply.

Last summer an obnoxious bull walrus was mauled by government seal keepers, and in the fight one of his long tusks was broken off. This spring the same recalcitrant mammal returned, and to the surprise of both natives and attendants the tusk had grown out five inches, the end still showing the ragged edge of the break.

It is now believed that an annual crop of this excellent ivory can be harvested by cutting off one-half of one tusk each year from the bull walrus. The one left intact is used by the mammal in digging clams and sea food. In a year the stub would have grown out enough to serve as a pickaxe, so the other tusk could be sacrificed for the fancies of man.

Walrus ivory is in great demand in China and Japan, where it is utilized for small carvings.

Division of Labor.

In the upper Amazon there is an interesting tribe, which, in its division of work, is reminiscent of the guilds of the Middle Ages. One portion makes clothing and nothing else; another one is purely agricultural; another devotes its time and labor to the construction of weapons, and so on. Their pottery, however, is the most notable of their productions. Some of these sars are extremely large but very thin, although strong and durable. Some of the smaller vessels are almost as thin as paper.

Removing Splinters.

Sometimes a splinter gets under the nail so solidly that it is difficult to draw out. If a cold water bandage is put around the top of the finger and kept wet and cold it will in time loosen the splinter and minimize the danger of festering.

GARVAN DEMANDS HARDING CLEAR HIM

Writes to President That He Has Been Grossly Mis- led by Daugherty.

New York.—Flatly refusing to return to the United States government a single chemical patent right owned by the Chemical Foundation, Inc., of which he is president, Francis P. Garvan, in a spirited and energetic letter to President Harding, asserted that the President, "grossly misled by the attorney-general," is, for the first time in American history, attempting to abrogate a solemn Executive order of a predecessor, and is acting, moreover, on information "furnished by German agents and interpreted by lawyers whose sole knowledge of the war and its lessons is derived from association with German clients."

Absolute legality in the sale of 4,700 and odd former German patents to the Foundation, and complete publicity in the organization and operation of this quasi-public institution, together with the highest of ethical motives, are earnestly maintained by Mr. Garvan in his communication, and he asserts with emphasis that no person connected with the Foundation has ever made a dollar out of it, or ever could do so under its charter and by-laws, himself least of all; he fortifies that statement with figures which show that the capital of the institution consisted of $428,- 900, all of which has been spent in the purchase of the patents and in educating the people through schools and colleges and in the encouragement of chemical societies, and says that the Foundation income from licenses barely meets the modest running expenses.

All of these financial details have long been available. Mr. Garvan reminds President Harding, and demands that the President ascertain the truth and tell the people whether the Foundation and its head have deserved the abuse they have received.

"Gave All and Got Abuse"
"It has given its all," Mr. Garvan writes. "You can take away nothing but the opportunity of service. It was all we got from the government. It is all we have."

"Mr. President, you have had the temerity to impugn the honor of the gentlemen who bear a part in the great work of building up or preserving the possibility of progress in organic chemistry for America. You have again been misled as to the nature of the trust we bore. That trust was not for the German Kartel, the owner of practically all the important patents, who had received them under the unthinking graciousness of laws they had induced. That trust was for the American people, their industrial independence and for the safety and health of their children and their children's children."

At the outset of his letter Mr. Garvan states that he has forwarded to the Allen Property Custodian the Chemical Foundation's formal answer to his demand, an answer "as an American corporation ready at all times to defend its rights in the courts," but that the public in whose interests the Foundation was organized, is entitled to be fully informed as to the circumstances under which the demand was made and the reason why it is unqualifiedly refused. The demand itself, Mr. Garvan asserts, together with the letter written by the President and the statement made by Attorney-General Daugherty, "demonstrate that you, Mr. President, have been grossly misled by the attorney-general, both as to the law and the facts of the case."

Eliminating "Enemy Interest"

Thereupon Mr. Garvan contends (1) that the attorney-general has listened exclusively to German agents, which is no investigation; (2), that the United States government has no interest in the suit brought by the Foundation to determine the ownership of funds held by the treasury; (3), that when President Wilson authorized the sale of the German patents, neither the President, secretary of state, nor alien property custodian was, under the law, in the remotest sense a trustee for the German enemies; (4), that specific power to sell the patents was granted by Congress after full committee hearings on November 4, 1918, and on December 3, 1918, President Wilson, vested with power to supervise all sales, authorized Acting Secretary of State Frank L.
Polk to approve the sale of the German chemical and other patents; (5), that sale in the public interest, noting that a public sale was not in the best interests of the public because it would offer opportunity for the patents to get into the hands of speculators and monopolists, and that the Chemical Foundation obligated to grant non-exclusive licenses, was the best means for "eliminating alien interests hostile to American industries and the advancement of chemical and allied industries in the United States;" (6), that President Wilson, returning from abroad, confirmed Polk's order on February 13, 1920, with this comment:
"My reasons for the foregoing determination and order are stated in the said orders of Frank L. Polk . . . and in addition thereto, the public interest will be best served by the elimination of any enemy interest adverse to American citizens arising by reason of said choses in action, or rights, interests and benefits under said agreements . . ."

"This sale," Mr. Garvan continues, "was made in the full light of all branches of the government and in the full light of publicity. The idea of its formation was the result of the intimate knowledge of the past use of these patents in a manner hostile to the United States' interests, and in full consultation with all of the executives of the government, the experts of our army and navy, and leaders of our chemical business organizations and the heads of all our scientific and research organizations. I do not ask you to accept my present statement of the matter, but insert here an extract from the report of A. Mitchell Palmer, filed with the President February 22, 1919, and by him forwarded to the Congress, and by that Congress made a public document and most widely commented on by the press of the country."

Palmer's Version of It

Mr. Palmer stated in the course of the report referred to by Mr. Garvan:
"These patents, as had already been indicated, formed a colossal obstacle to the development of the American dye-stuff industry. Evidently they had not been taken out with any intention of manufacturing in this country or from any fear of American manufacture ... upon consideration it seemed that these patents offered a possible solution for the problem, hitherto unsolvable, of protecting the new American dye industry against German competition after the war . . . The idea was accordingly conceived that if the German chemical patents could be placed in the hands of any American institution strong enough to protect them, a real obstacle might be opposed to German importation after the war, and at the same time the American industry might be freed from the prohibition enforced by the patents against the manufacture of the most valuable dyestuffs. Accordingly these considerations were laid before various associations of chemical manufacturers, notably the Dye Institute and the American Manufacturing Chemists' Association. The suggestion was met with an instan-taneous and enthusiastic approval, and as a result a corporation was incorporated to be known as the Chemical Foundation (Inc.), in which practically every important manufacturer will be a stockholder, the purpose of which is to acquire by purchase these German patents and to hold them as a trustee for American industry. . . . The first president of the Chemical Foundation will be Francis P. Garvan of the New York bar, to whose clear vision and indefatigable industry I am chiefly indebted for the working out of this plan."

The combination was not objectionable to public policy, since it was so organized that any genuine American, whether a stockholder of the company or not, could secure the benefits of the patents on fair and equal terms."

A Quasi-Public Idea

Mr. Garvan goes on to state that at that time he was a dollar a year man, with no expectation whatever of becoming alien property custodian; that it was only when Attorney-General Gregory resigned and Palmer was appointed attorney-general that Palmer asked him to take the custodian's place. Three months later, he writes, he testified before the Ways and Means Committee of the House. "The foundation of the Chemical Foundation was an effort to form an organization to represent as nearly as possible at that time the public interests. Judge Ingram of New York and Judge Gray of Delaware had charge of drawing our charter and our trust agreement and our articles of incorporation. We have endeavored to make it as nearly a public institution as our laws allow, and at the same time to have it an official organization. We wanted to sell these patents to the government, and if there had been any method by which we could make them a working force and still have them owned and controlled by the government, it would have relieved us of a great deal of responsibility, and if there is at this time any suggestion for modification or amendment of our plan which will insure in the minds of the committee a more definite and certain fulfillment of the intention and purposes of our organization I am certain that the Chemical Foundation and all its stockholders and all who are interested in it would be glad to conform to the wishes of the committee, because, in so far as we have public recognition and public support and government recognition and government support, we become more efficient and become more able to carry out the intentions which are in our hearts and minds."

Mr. Garvan states that the total or gross income of the Foundation has averaged $143,216.65 per year. The running expenses, here overhead, have averaged $12,071.35, a net excess of $21,245.30 or 0.49 per cent on the $428,- 900 invested, allowing nothing for depreciation. The average life of the patents is eight years, so that 12 1/2 per cent of the $271,850 cash paid for the patents, or $33,981 per year, should be subtracted from the apparent net receipts per year, which leaves an actual annual operation deficit of $12,735.70. In educational work, Mr.
Garvan informs the President, the Foundation has spent $204,017.83, the entire balance of its capital.

Quotes English Prediction

Finally, maintaining that the Foundation is the keystone of the wall raised to protect the American people from German chemical domination, Mr. Garvan maintains such protection is indispensable to the future happiness, health and safety of the American people, and quotes from a recent open letter to parliament written by James Morton, largest carpet manufacturer of England, "Organic chemistry is the key to the world of new values," and that American in five years' time will have dye works and general chemical works equal to Germany.

As regards the development of organic chemistry for national defense, Mr. Garvan calls to his aid testimony by Marshal Foch and the late Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson to the general conclusion that a nation thoroughly equipped chemically may almost guarantee the peace of the future. And as regards its importance in the development of medicine he quotes Prof.
Julius Slight of the University of Chicago, world famous chemist:
"The pitiful calls of our hospitals for local anaesthetics to alleviate suffering on the operating table, the frantic appeals for the hypnotic that soothes the epileptic and staves off his seizure, the almost furious demands for remedy after remedy that came in the early years of the war, are still ringing in the hearts of many of us. No wonder that our small army of chemists is grimly determined not to give up the independence in chemistry which the war achieved for us! Only a widely enlightened public, however, can insure the permanence of what far seeing men have started to accomplish in developing the power of chemistry through research in every domain which chemistry touches."

"These," Mr. Garvan concludes,
"were the thoughts which were in the minds of the men who knew the war and its lessons when they formed the Chemical Foundation."

Bill's Redemption

By HUBERT RAY
Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

"He'll be making for Pike's Crossing, boys," said the sheriff, drawing rein. "If he can jump the Limited where she slows up at the cutoff, I guess that's the last we'll hear of Bill Bateman for quite some spell."

There were four in the posse. The youngest turned as white as death.
"Pike's Cross? H—ll!" he said.
"My wife's there with the kid. I reckon we'd better hustle, sheriff, if we're to make it before the Limited."

Bill Bateman had the brain of a man within the body of a gorilla. During the three years that he had served of a life sentence for manslaughter of the most brutal character, his man's brain had been working incessantly, planning to make his getaway. He knew that, once clear of the peniten-entiary walls, once in his primitive conception of a world, anything would be possible.

Anything to one of his enormous strength and cunning. Bill was un-hampered by anything except the most rudimentary elements of a conscience.
He had had only one love in life, since the day when he was flung out of home by a drunken father, after his mother's death. Somewhere back in the past he had had a wife and child. He had beaten his wife, and she had run away—with the kid. That had made him mad. After that he became the terror of the township.
It was for an unprovoked and brutal killing that, through the mistaken leniency of a jury, he had received a life sentence.

His chance had come at last. There was an honor system in the peniten-entiary. Especially the young college-trained warden wanted to redeem Bill Bateman. Now Bill's conception of honor was the provincial selection of a fool to run the pen. And his craft had served him well. He had feigned conversion and repentance. Three months after the young warden's arrival Bill had been a trustee. He was free of everything—except the pen gates. As a lifer, he could not be allowed to pass them, as the more favored prisoners could.

One night, when he was called to his cell after the other inmates had been shut up, Bill turned upon the guard, stunned him with a blow of his huge fist, and took his keys away. He rushed the men on duty, knocked them senseless, received and laughed at a pistol bullet through the hand, and opened the gates. Five minutes later, in the dark, he laughed as he heard the ringing of the alarm bells.
No one could hit it trail across the desert till morning, and long before noon he could jump the Limited, which thundered past the pen daily.

The gorilla figure slouched onto the permanent way. The Limited was almost due, and there were no signs of pursuit. He drew in a long breath.
Life was his again.

Then he started as he saw the tiny figure of a child sitting in the middle of the way. A little, white-clad figure, perhaps three or four years of age, waving its arms and crying. Bill grimaced; but of a sudden something turned his heart to stone.

"The kid!" he mumbled.
Then reason reasserted itself. Of course this was not the kid. The kid had been bigger than that at the time he received his sentence. Somebody else's kid! And, where there was a kid there must be a cabin. That should mean a meal, money, a chance of clothes—perhaps there was an unprotected woman within.

The gorilla grin distended Bill Bate-man's face as he crept forward.
As the Limited thundered down the gorge the sheriff's party clapped spurs to their horses and galloped madly down the trail. It was touch and go whether they could reach the crossing in time to signal her.

They were too late. Beaten by three minutes! As they rounded the bend they saw the Limited swing into the cut and begin to slow down to take the curve. There had been stringent orders for this, on account of a wreck some years before. She slowed.

"I guess we've beat," cried the sheriff, drawing rein.
But the Limited had stopped. And, with renewed hope the posse dashed forward and, shouting frantically, drew rein at the edge of the permanent way.

The youngest member leaped from his horse with an oath, rushed forward and snatched at a little figure between the metals, which screamed with pain.

"Daddy, my foot, my foot!"
The little foot had got caught in the point of a switch. He worked frantically to release it.

Fifty yards distant the sheriff and the rest stood round Bill Bateman's mangled body. The huge hand still clutched the fragment of a peniten-entiary shirt with which it had flagged the Limited—too late and not too late.

The sheriff looked up at the driver.
"Don't that beat hell!" he said, and swore under his breath.

Unspoken Wisdom.

"What is your object in refusing to be interviewed on this momentous subject?"

"Because I've been thinking things over," replied Senator Sorghum.
"But you used to be very generous in giving your conclusions to the public."

"It has recently occurred to me that what a man doesn't say is not nearly so liable to get him into trouble as what he says."

Habits of Land Crabs.

The land crabs are found all over the world. Those in the West Indies are fond of sugar cane. A remarkable pilgrimage is made, on the less frequented of these islands, by these purple crabs. They live for the greater part of the year upon the high lands several miles from the sea; but once a year, in May or June, they leave their holes and move at night in vast columns, often three miles long and 200 feet wide, to the sea. No obstacle stands in the way of this remarkable army on its march to the sea.

Varnishing Airplanes.
It is contended that one feature of the airplane industry is more dangerous to workers than the actual work of flying the finished machines. The indoor varnishing of the linen wings in order to make them waterproof and airproof involves the use of poisons which are often fatal to life under certain conditions. The only safe place in which to do the varnishing appears to be out of doors.

Dull Arabian Towns.
In Libya, smoking, drinking and dancing are forbidden by the Senussi law. The great difference between the Senussi towns and any other desert city is, therefore, the entire absence in the former of the cafes which usually form the center of life and amusement. The whole life of an Arab town goes on within the high, impenetrable walls.

Uncommon
Sense By JOHN BLAKE

INSPIRATION

A RECENT Sunday newspaper printed a picture of the head of one of New York's biggest banks. He was in a baseball uniform, and but for a mustache—an ornament now discarded by ball players—looked like a professional.
The picture was taken at an outing of the Bond club. The banker served as pitcher for the New York team. The type below recited the fact that he got his first job in an Albany bank because he was a crack ball player, applied himself to banking as eagerly as he had applied himself to baseball, and in a few years was well on his way to his present position.
It is needless to say that this particular baseball player didn't put all he had into the game. He was unusually gifted as a pitcher, and might easily have got into one of the big leagues, too.
But he had the good sense to know that baseball was not a steady business, and that banking was. And instead of seizing an opportunity to make fairly big money early in youth, he was content to try the banking business on a small salary.
Of course there are a good many men who started in the banking business when he did, and who are still about where they were when they started. But at least they still have steady jobs. If they had taken to baseball they would not be doing as well.
Our object in referring to this particular case is to call attention to the fact that if you want inspiration in your work you can get it in the newspapers—plenty of it.
Brief bits of biography such as the one we have cited appear almost every day.
Seldom is a prominent man's name mentioned in connection with an important affair that you do not learn something about how he started and why he succeeded.
If you want to read about the failures—and the horrible examples, you can read about them, too.
While this man was rising from a bank clerk to a bank president, another man who started as an important official of a bank—chiefly because his father owned most of it—was preparing to travel in the other direction. He made the journey, and has just arrived at the point he started for.
All human history is epitomized in the daily news.
Read the papers. Think about what you read. After that if you don't succeed, it will not be because nobody told you how.

Systematic Accumulation.
"How did prices get to be so high in the first place?" inquired the plain citizen.
"Well," replied Mr. Dustin Stax, "the more profit you made the more surtax you had to pay and the more surtax you had to pay the more profit you had to make."
Not Particular.
A good naval yarn is told by "Windlass" in his cheerful book, "With the R. N. R." The officers of a patrol yacht were entertaining sweethearts and wives. Billy's introduction to Mrs. Marshall by her husband was as charming as it was memorable. Holding out his hand, "Delighted," cried the young sublieutenant enthusiastically, "delighted to meet any wife of yours."—York (England) Post.

HEMLOCK

Charles Brown and family spent Sunday in Reno.
Supervisor Van Patten was at Tawas city on business last week.
Henry Biggs came up from Saginaw and spent the week-end here.
Mrs. Pete Latham has been on the sick list, but is some better at this writing.
Mrs. Florence Watts of Saginaw spent Sunday here with her son, Walter.
Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hayes spent Tuesday evening with her mother, Mrs. Bamberger.
Miss Anna Williams and Arthur Williams of Bay City spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Watts.
Bert Farrand and friend of Saginaw autoed up Saturday and visited relatives and friends. They returned Sunday.
Claude Irish and friend and Walter O'Brien and friend of Harrisville spent the week-end at the home of Will Somerville.
Mrs. Dan Lowe entertained a few friends on her 74th birthday. She had two beautiful birthday cakes presented to her with 74 candles.
Sam and Charles Bamberger came home Saturday from Bay City and left Sunday evening for St. Johns where they have employment.
Mr. and Mrs. Herb Herriman spent Sunday with R. VanSickle at Prescott. Anna VanSickle accompanied them home and will spend a few days here.
Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lowe gave a birthday dinner for their grand children, little Myrtle Lowe who was five years old July 21 and little Donald Lowe of Spokane, Was., who was three years old. The little folks were delighted with their beautiful cake trimmed with candles. Other guests were David Lowe, Mrs. Thos. Lowe, Mrs. Bradford, Florence Scarlett and Mrs. Parks who helped the little folks spend a happy birthday.
Mrs. M. B. Coats died on Wednesday, July 19, at the age of 81 years, six months and 10 days. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and one son and four grand children. The funeral was held from the home on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. Elder Pringle of Tawas City officiated. The remains were taken Friday morning to Lowell for burial at the side of a son who preceded her some 22 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Coats moved here about five years ago. Just before coming here Mrs. Coats received a bad fall which left her unable to walk and has been in very poor health ever since. In the short time they have been here they have made many friends who with the husband and son mourn her loss.

Baptist Church Notes

Chester Smith and his class of boys, the Never Slips, had a stand at Sand Lake the Fourth. They worked hard selling ice cream, lemonade and many good things and cleared $30.00 which they gave on church expenses.
The afternoon service Sunday, July 17, was well attended. We had good singing by the home choir also records of Trinity church choir and a fine sermon. We have room to seat a few more and will be glad to welcome you.
The B. Y. P. U. meetings are well attended. We have many fine workers who in turn have charge of the evening meetings.
Mrs. John McCordle entertained the Ladies' aid last Wednesday. A good attendance and some fine work was accomplished.

Horseshoe Pitchers Title Will Be Decided at Fair; County Contests Started

"There warn't no horseshoe pitchers in Michigan that could hold a candle to the barnyard champions of Macomb county."
This innocent little boast, falling unthinkingly from the lips of "Spud" Murphy of Macomb county recently, started a fine argument and the finals of the Michigan State championship horseshoe pitching tournament, now being organized under the auspices of The Michigan Business Farmer, will be put on at the State Fair this year.
George W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the Michigan State Fair, has sanctioned the plan to stage the title rounds of the tournament during the exposition in Detroit, September 1 to 10. Several prizes will be awarded by the State Fair in addition to the beautiful loving cup, the grand prize, presented by the courtesy of the Union Malleable Iron company of Moline, Ill.
The plan of the preliminaries, according to Forrest Lord, editor of the Michigan Business Farmer, is to hold them in conjunction with farmers' picnics in every county. The winners of these county tournaments will play in district contests and these victors will meet in the grand state tournament at the Michigan State Fair.
Everyone is eligible to participate. Entries for the preliminaries should be made to county agents. No time in entering should be lost. All county contests must be played off before the opening of the Michigan State Fair, September 1.

Named to Supervise

W. J. DOWLING

Of interest to racing followers throughout Michigan is the announcement by G. W. Dickinson secretary-manager of the Michigan State Fair, that W. J. "Bill" Dowling, of Owosso, will have charge of the six-day running race meet scheduled for this year's exposition, Detroit, September 1 to 10.
Mr. Dowling has had wide experience in the running horse world and has supervised the races at Bay City, Jackson, Adrian and Grand Rapids fairs in recent years. He is making elaborate preparations for the State Fair meet which will open September 4 and run through the ninth.
The important event of the meeting will be the State Fair Derby, slated for Labor Day. A purse of $1,000 will go to the winner. Purses for the entire meeting will exceed $15,000.

Colloidal Chemistry.
Colloidal chemistry is the chemistry of systems consisting of extremely finely divided material, such as bubbles, drops, grains, filaments and films in a state of suspension in other material. The chemist calls this system a "heterogeneous system consisting of a dispersed phase in a dispersion medium." Colloidal chemistry therefore is a study of extremely finely divided suspensions.

Hall, four years old, had been going to Sunday school for some time, when his teacher one Sunday asked the class: "Who wants to go to heaven?" and all hands went up b' Hall's. The teacher asked: "Do you not want to go to heaven?" and Hall answered: "No, thank you." Teacher asked why, and Hall replied: "It has not been long since I came from there."

M. E. Church Notes
Mrs. Frank J. Fuller will entertain the Ladies' aid at her home next Wednesday afternoon.
The willing Workers class carried off both banners last week, which means they lead the Sunday school in both attendance and collection.
We have no preaching next Sunday evening as a large number of our people plan on going to Long Lake for the church dedication. Among the speakers for the occasion will be Dr. Dystant of Bay City and Rev. Colby of Rose City.
Last week saw the installation of a Zenith motion picture equipment in our church. The object of this is to provide clean, wholesome amusement for our community. The complete outfit cost $350. Films cost from $3 to $28, depending of course upon the films used. The rental of such a film as "The Shepherd of the Hills" is $25 per night. This explanation is being made that the public may know exactly what we are doing. The plan is to give two entertainments each week, Tuesday and Friday evenings. Appropriate films and slides will be shown from time to time at the various Sunday services.

Hale in Lead for Pennant Hale took the lead in the Interstate Central league when Mio refused to finish game last Sunday. After a small shower of rain, although the diamond was in good condition and the rain over, Mio felt too weak to fall out and so the umpire had to announce the game forfeited to Hale with only three innings played.

NO MIRRORS IN BARBER SHOP Tonsorial Parlors for Bobbing Lady's Hair Are Now Without Looking Glasses.
Speaking of the play of Hamlet without the Dane, what do you think of the mirrorless barber shop? Surely as an egregious thing, revolutionary and rather alarming, almost a contradiction in terms. Yet it has arrived. It flourishes. It proves itself an answer to a need of the hour.
But not for men. No, no! The barber shop without mirrors is for the bobbing of women's hair, remarks the New York Sun. It seems that women are too emotional to watch the amputation of "woman's crowning glory" without raising a fuss interfering with the work of the hair surgeon. They twitter and fidget, and get excited and give directions, and make the operator so nervous that he is sometimes prevented from turning out what he considers a neat job.
The idea of mirrorless surgery for the mutilation of female heads seems to have originated up Boston way.
When the bobbing craze first struck New York barber shops were fitted up for women with a special eye to abundant and brilliant illumination of mirrors. Indeed, the mirror, woman's firmest friend, was banked upon as the supreme attraction in the new style of shearing parlor. But it was found the reflection of the victim after her tresses received their first slash was so unnerveing to her, and stimulated her to so many criticisms, warnings and minute instructions that it was soon seen that the mirrors would have to go. And now milday must learn to take her shearing like a sheep.

TO MAR ST. MICHEL'S BEAUTY Sitting Up of the Bay Is Causing Much Anxiety to the People of Normandy.
The steady sitting up of the Bay of St. Michel is a cause of much anxiety to the good people of Normandy. It threatens to spoil the beauty of the famous Mont St. Michel, which at present is linked to the mainland only by an artificial causeway. Formerly the Mont, which in the course of the centuries has been by turns a Druidical shrine, a Benedictine abbey, and a state prison, and which, since its restoration by Violet-le-Duc, is jealously preserved as an historical monument, was as inaccessible at high tide, except by boat, as its Cornish counterpart, St. Michael's Mount still is. But the causeway enabled a light railway to run to the very foot of the Mont, and this causeway is stated by experts to be one of the great causes of the sitting up, which it is predicted, will eventually make the Mont just part of the ordinary coastline.
Electric-Lighted Handbag.
The latest novelty from London—not Paris—is a lady's handbag equipped interiorly with an electric light. Just as if it was necessary for a woman to need a light to empty her purse! Nevertheless, the novelty handbag is about the cutest thing to arrive this season from the other side. One that was a gift to a young matron was the sensation of a section of the lower floor in a theater, Raymond G. Carroll recently wrote from New York to the Philadelphia Ledger. She opened the handbag, a function which automatically flooded the inside of the bag with light from a tiny electric bulb, located about half an inch below the clasp, and fed from a miniature storage battery covered with oil skin, fastened at the bottom of the bag.
Tangled Tongues.
Spoonerisms, like the poor, we have always with us. Two new and rather good ones came to our attention recently. The other day a Chicago woman, testifying against her husband in her divorce suit, declared: "He leads me, his awful wife, a lawful life." There was a loud titter in the court, and blushing with embarrassment she hastened to correct herself.
The other concerns a young woman who was dining at a strange house. On the table was a dish of boiled onions, and when her hostess was serving these and remarked that, of course, she liked them, the young woman remarked enthusiastically: "Oh, yes, indeed; if there is one vegetable I like it is oiled bunions." Just think if her hostess' husband had been a chiropodist.—Boston Transcript.

Took a Long Journey.
Last fall an inhabitant of Osthelm, Alsace, captured a swallow nesting under the eave of the roof. He released it with the following message attached on parchment: "During the summer of 1921 I lived with a farmer at Osthelm. He would be glad to learn where I have spent the winter when I return." The bird returned recently, to its Alsatian home, bearing the following inscription: "I have been staying with a shoemaker, Joseph Bady, of the Island of Martinique, who salutes my present host."

CALL ON U. S. FOR SUPPLIES Various Countries Are Asking Uncle Sam to Provide All Sorts of Merchandise.
Have you any chrysoprane or varisetics to sell? If so, write the Department of Commerce, foreign trade division. Dr. Julius Klein, the director, has requests for 'em on his desk from Australia. If you don't know what they are, they are precious stones.
Our South American neighbors in Brazil are more prosaic in their wants. They are asking for sanitary drinking fountains.
Canada wants moving-picture machines and wireless telephone sets.
With the Volstead act putting a crimp in the business over here, anybody with a left-over stock of bungs and bung pegs can find a ready market for them in England. The British also want garbage cans.
Ditto above. The French are asking for oak casks.
Ditto again. Chile asks for corks.
The prohibition bureau, with an eye to business, might fill the order from Mexico for alcohol distilling plants by shipping down some of the wildest stills seized over the country.
Evidently all the Italian boot-blacks are not over here. There's a request from Italy for shoe polish.
Musical instruments are in demand in Palestine and Spain.
The canny Scots want calculating machines.
Poor old Siberia would like a square meal of dried fruits and vegetables and prepared milk.

RACED LIKE THE GREYHOUND Botafogo, Most Famous Horse of Argentina, Was Known to Turf Followers Throughout World.
The most famous race horse that the fine studs of Argentina ever bred was probably Botafogo, for he was renowned among turf followers the world over. He died near Mar del Plata a short time ago, being only eight years old. Not particularly fortunate in his parentage, as great racers usually are, he nevertheless became a phenomenon of the track. At two years he sold for $25,000 at auction, although he was never good looking.
When he raced the horse stretched himself out like a greyhound. He made his debut in 1917, and all the classics fell before his amazing speed. One day when he was not in form and lost to Gray Fox the event was regarded in Argentina as quite a national catastrophe. In a subsequent "revenge race" he defeated his conqueror with perfect ease before the greatest crowd that ever assembled at the Palermo tracks.
Actor Who Could Not Write.
The true story of "Joe Miller's Joke Book" is an interesting bit of literary history. Truth is that Joe Miller never read a joke in his life, and therefore could not have compiled a book of jokes. For Joe Miller could not read. He was an ignorant actor, who achieved great success in 1714 at the Drury Lane theater in London. And the only way that Joe Miller could memorize the lines of his parts was to have them read and reread to him until he was able to repeat them, the duty of thus drumming dialogue and cues into the comedian's mind being entrusted to a wife, whom he had married for the purpose.
Off the stage or on, Miller was not a wit or humorist. But a year after his death a pamphlet appeared in which 247 jests were given, of which only three were ascribed to Joe Miller. They had been compiled by a man with the appropriate name of Motley. By the middle of the Nineteenth century the number of jokes had been increased by successive compilers to 1,546.

Power in Silence.
The proper value of the power of silence is probably best expressed in the scriptural reference to the various convulsions of nature, the wind and the earthquake, followed by the still, small voice. Coming down to a more recent period and a less renowned authority, we are reminded of the man who advised his son to keep his mouth shut so that people would not know he was a fool. This advice is still good for the great majority. Astronomy is said to be one of the best means of teaching the individual his relative unimportance in the universe of matter, but to be left alone, far from any human habitation, in a vast silence will probably accomplish the same.
Employer Paid for Nut.
A curious point in workmen's compensation has been settled by the Eng. Sup. Court of Appeal. A collier, who did not drink or smoke, was in the habit of carrying a nut in his mouth apparently for much the same reason that some people carry chewing gum. One day while at work he slipped and fell; and the nut was jerked down his windpipe suffocating him. The court held that the accident was "in the course of his employment," and entitled his widow to recover.
Poor Mule!
"That," said the city man, "is what I call downright brutality. That man ought to be reported to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals."
"Why? What's he doing?"
"What's he doing? Can't you see how fast that mule has to walk to keep out of his way when he's pushing the plow?"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Them Were the Happy Days.
Progress is progress, but still, back in the old days a horse could cast a shoe without having to get out in the mud and rain to put on a new one before you could continue your journey; and you never had to walk back 10 miles to the nearest feed store because old Dobbin had run out of hay.—Brooklyn Eagle.
Take Your Time.
An eminent English doctor says every one ought to have a post-mortem for the benefit of science. He may be right, but we have a positive disinclination to be in a hurry to accommodate science in this way.
"COLD IN THE HEAD"
is an acute attack of Nasal Catarrh. Those subject to frequent "colds" are generally in a "run down" condition.
HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a treatment consisting of an Ointment, to be used locally, and a Tonic, which acts quickly through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces, building up the System, and making you less liable to "colds."
