There will be eleven reels of thrilling, heart-gripping dramatic action in this story and every seat in the Auditorium should be filled on this occasion.

This picture is a part of the campaign put on by Mr. Main to give the people of Tawas City and the surrounding country better pictures at popular prices and his efforts should be rewarded by a record attendance. Whether you make a practice of attending the movies or not, you should not miss this great production.

U. S. FOREST SERVICE NOTES

The 1922 Tourist Season on the Michigan National Forest, Iosco Co. By R. J. Schreck, Forest Supervisor

A total of 17,844 tourists visited the Michigan National Forest in Iosco county during the season of 1922. This estimate was obtained from the tourist register boxes located on the main traveled routes of the forest, and from actual checks made by forest officers throughout the tourist season. Investigations have determined that two days is the average time spent on the Forest by each tourist thus making a total of 35,688 recreational one-man days spent on the forest in Iosco county during the summer season of 1922. The tourist registers further indicate that the people visit the forest from almost every state in the Union. The majority, however, come from southern Michigan, Ohio and Indiana. 6,000 automobiles were used in carrying this number of people on their vacations. Placing the money spent per day per tourist at the very conservative figure of $1.00 per day makes a total of $35,688.00 spent in Iosco county by one man taking advantage of the many good things the county has to offer to those seeking healthful recreation.

The East Tawas board of commerce are advertising the Michigan National Forest as one of their main attractions, which has resulted in more people visiting the forest in Iosco county than ever before. To cope with the situation and to make the tourists' vacation on the forest as pleasant as possible, the United States Forest Service has constructed cement fireplaces at many of the most popular camp sites, and have placed numerous signs at all road intersections to guide the tourist through the forest. The Forest Service plans in the near future to construct more fireplaces, toilets, rest houses, and other camp conveniences which are urgently needed to adequately handle the increasing number of tourists that visit the forest annually.

NEW RESORT DIRECTORY FOR THE HURON SHORE

The Northeastern Michigan Development bureau has for several years issued a little folder in the nature of a directory, listing and giving information of Northeastern Michigan hotels, garages, summer resorts, etc., sending this directory to the many who make inquiry to the bureau.

It is proposed to enlarge the scope of the directory for next year in that it may become a tourist guide for Northeastern Michigan. Nothing wonderfully elaborate is planned but it will give certain detailed information as to those places which are members of the bureau, so that with the regular maps and descriptive booklets already published by the bureau, very complete information is furnished to those interested.

The resort directory and tourist guide will be given wide and effective distribution made possible by the advertising appearing in this side of Michigan, this advertising being under the name of the Huron Shore Tourist Association.

NOTICE

Owing to lack of attendance, the Auditorium will show pictures only on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays until further notice. When patronage warrants we will resume the regular program.

OUTLINE OF COUNTY NURSE'S WORK

An outline of the public health nursing work to be done in Iosco county may be given as follows:

Introductory talks are being given in schools and communities now which lie in the accessible areas of the county, such as Oscoda, Alabaster, Whittemore, Hale, Tawas City and East Tawas. As soon as this has been completed extensive work will be started in the remote sections of the county, which will include school work, home visiting, nursing classes, and general public health work. The heavy snows may make these sections inaccessible later on so it seems advisable to cover these sections first. After this has been done the rest of the county will be worked-up in the same manner. As the work is introduced the groups of women are organized for the classes that are to follow and for the assistance they are going to give the nurse in carrying out the various projects that may arise.

After January baby health stations are to be started for young babies and children of pre-school age, in Oscoda and Tawas City. The Oscoda center will take in babies from a large radius around Oscoda, as will the Tawas City center take in babies from a large radius around Tawas City. The state department of child welfare is going to assist in establishing these centers and workers will be sent out to assist in setting up the material. The schedule of the days the center will be open and the days on which a doctor will be in attendance will be posted when the work takes effect.

In the meantime, epidemics will be watched and when necessary programs will be arranged with the state board of health to meet these situations. Prevention of disease is our motto and whenever this can be done by a little co-operation and an understanding by the people of the county, much may be accomplished in preventing the horrible complications so common in childhood diseases.

Many details of the work cannot be brought out in this outline, but enough is here stated to give a general idea of what there is to be done in Iosco county.

The past year has been one of the best in the history of the U. S. Gypsum Co. at Alabaster. They were fortunate in that the D. & M. Ry. furnished them with cars when some of the other plants of the company were suffering a serious car shortage, which meant that business was transferred to the Alabaster plant. During the summer the county road leading into Alabaster has been graveled which has helped Alabaster a great deal. The company has painted their buildings and made several improvements about the community. Among these is the supplying of steam heat to the bag house and the hotel, making working and living conditions much better for the employees. Several garages have been built during the summer by Jos. Misener of East Tawas, which is a great convenience for the working men and office employees.

HAIL TEN-CENT GOLF BALL
 Innovation Looked To to Turn Cautious
 Playing Into the Merriest of Swatfests.

Would you believe the new ten-cent golf ball could arrive without affecting American outdoor life? Rather not! Did you fancy that with link pills available at a dime apiece golfing would remain the same coarse, crude, rather rough old pastime that it once was? Well hardly!

Persons who have entertained any such steadfast ideas are blocking the course. For! Let these fast ones play through.

In the first place, there need be no more mental hazards. A mental hazard, they say, is a form of moral cowardice—fear of losing the ball. Now, fear of losing the ball is logically the result of those traits of frugality which one unconsciously acquires the moment he undertakes to learn this ancient game of the canny Scot.

It is, therefore, not considered strange if a player, standing on the brink of a rather wide lake or seeking a foothold on the bushy bank of a tortuous stream, suddenly begins to quiver and to quake. He is battling with his mental hazard—the fear of losing his ball.

But with a ten-cent ball—why, who'll give a darn?

Another thing—there isn't going to be nearly so much profanity on the links with this ten-cent ball made of scrap rubber. Innocent youngsters who make an honest living caddyng need no longer be regarded with roundings on every time a ball is lost.

"Mister, I've lost it," the kid will chirp simply.

"Very well, sonny," will reply this new-style golfer, maintaining perfect composure. "Take this dime; run buy me a new one."

And besides all this, look what the ball will do for the husband. Now he'll be able to finance the wife to a game of golf every day during the summer, more than likely, and she can lose as many balls as she needs to without bringing the family to the brink of bankruptcy.—Exchange.

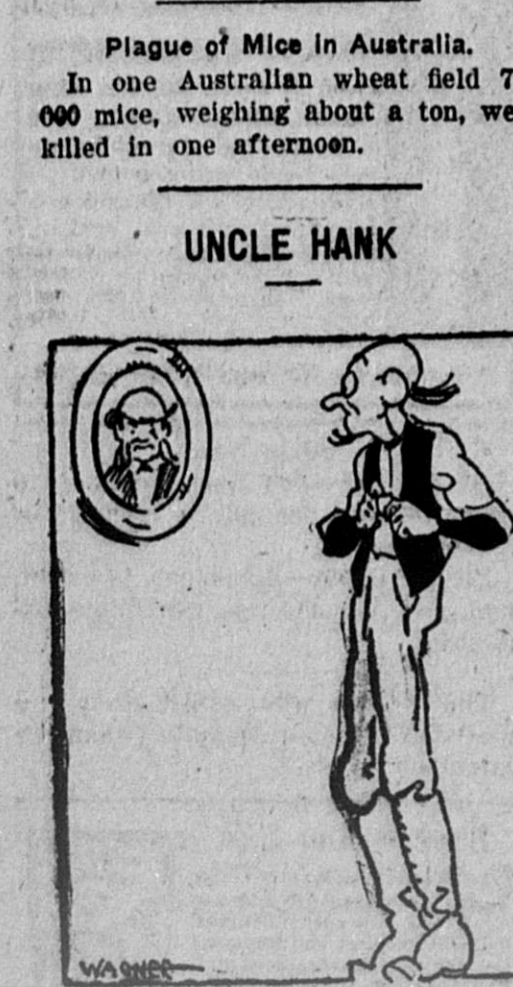

Pillings Now Made of Paper.
 Piles for submarine supports are now being made of paper in California, the chief recommendation of which is the fact that they are not subject to attack by the toredo, which ruins wooden piles in a short time. On a long wooden cylinder a long roll of tarred paper with glued edges is wound and covered with cord. Over this another band of paper, much narrower, is wound diagonally like the bandage on a wounded arm. The cylinder is revolved while it is bound with more cord, hot glue being applied continuously. After three layers of paper have been put in place, the wooden cylinder is removed and the paper cylinder is reinforced with a coarse mesh.

A mixture of cement and sand is squirted all over the cylinder, and several cylinders are joined end to end with the cement so as to make a pile 10 feet long and from 15 to 20 inches in diameter. A square steel head is fitted over the top to receive the shocks of the tugs.

Boring Metals.
 Brass, copper, iron, steel and other metals are easily drilled if you use oil or grease as a lubricant. Do not try to drill too rapidly, and when nearly through the metal go very slowly, as a drill may easily be broken by trying to turn it too rapidly as it pushes itself through the surface.

Plague of Mice in Australia.
 In one Australian wheat field 70,000 mice, weighing about a ton, were killed in one afternoon.

UNCLE HANK

After seeing what some fellows have left in this world, it's no wonder that their departed spirits never return.

Did You Ever Stop To Think---

THAT the Shawnee Oklahoma Gloom-Chasers have gotten together and organized a "Swat The Pessimist" club.

THAT they proclaim that the pessimist and his pestiferous ways will have no place in the new order of things.

THAT he is simply advertising his own inability to do things.

THAT it is necessary for all persons not now looking hopefully and optimistically into the future, to readjust themselves to the bigger and better things of life and business.

THAT the pessimist is the man who simply will not see the silvery lining beneath the cloud; who advertises by his looks and actions, his utter inability to meet his neighbor on a competitive basis.

THAT the optimist knows that unemployment is gradually diminishing, that money is getting cheaper, that the fellow that hustles gets the business and the pessimist must no longer be permitted to stand in the path of progress and prosperity

THAT the men back of this movement maintain that an analysis will show that there is nothing so radically wrong and the country is not going to the bow-wows.

THAT if it looks that way to some people, it is only a reflection of their own incapacity and inability to adjust themselves to the conditions of today.

THAT All Should Swat The Pessimist! Ostracize Him! Make Him Lonesome! Run The Steam Roller Over Him! Make Him So Unpopular That He Will Either Become A Business Christian Or Go Back To The Wilds From Whence He Came.

—By E. R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Oklahoma, Board of Commerce

CHRISTMAS SEALS HELP TO SAVE THE CHILDREN

Flora Jessica Jane is chasing the cure in the children's infirmary at the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium. She has her rest periods twice a day, and takes her "temp" every afternoon; and she is beloved of every small maiden in the girls' infirmary.

Seventy children are now being cared for in the children's infirmaries at Howell. Tuberculosis is a deadly menace to childhood. Christmas seals, which make possible the work of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, fight to keep children so healthy and strong that they can throw off the effects of the omnipresent infection.

No Longer Dread White Hairs.
 One by one, all our old ideas are being turned topsy-turvy. We used to dread white hairs. Now, at the bidding of Dame Fashion, we want them, a writer in London Answers asserts.

The white hair craze seems to have started in Paris, and it is spreading to this country, where well-preserved young women with impressive white locks are being admired.

Most of the hair comes from the south of France (for it is not all come by naturally), and the lighter the shade, the higher the price. A face will show its age under gray hair, but under white it may take on fresh youth—that is the secret of the matter.

Many villages in southern France are holding periodic "hair markets." Women with more hair than they need attend these markets with their superfluous locks, and white hair of good length and strength is worth many times its weight in gold. The best qualities are said to fetch £30 per ounce!

He Knew.
 The old story about some one always being willing to give the bride away was beaten by a happening in Indianapolis the other day. A spinster in the early thirties who is soon to be married was completing arrangements for her wedding. She had selected her bridesmaids, and then she turned to her family and said: "I would be happy if I only could decide who would present me to the bridegroom."

No one made any suggestion, but her little nephew piped out: "Why I thought he was a present to you, auntie. The neighbors said he was something you had wanted for a long time."

Now none of the neighbors is included on the wedding invitation list.

Christmas Seals Take Care of Marjorie

Marjorie has been her father's housekeeper ever since her mother's death three years ago. When her cough and lassitude declared themselves in no uncertain terms last summer, her plight was pitiable. There was no room for her at the sanatorium, and her father could not afford to pay a nurse.

The doctor prescribed rest in bed until her fever was down, but Marjorie, tossing and fretting while her father was at work all day, had little chance to reduce a temperature. Neighbors were kind, but tuberculosis nursing was to them a sealed book.

Then came Miss Gibbs, the visiting nurse. She gave Marjorie skilled care every day, taught her how she could hasten her own cure, and how to make sure that infection from her disease did not menace her father, or others who came into the house.

Today Marjorie takes the cure contentedly, happy in the daily visits of her new-found friend, and sure that health is once more on its way to her.

Christmas seals made Miss Gibbs' visits possible. Christmas seals, which finance work of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, will care for as many Marjories next year as you will allow them to. All they need is your pennies behind them.

Millions of Silkworms.
 In northern Italy huge plantations of mulberry trees are grown for the express purpose of supplying the well-to-do with silk. The silkworm is as greedy as he is industrious, and he cannot do his duty except upon an ample diet of tender, juicy mulberry leaves.

The silkworm is the caterpillar hatched from the eggs of the silk moth. The tiny spinner of fine fabric is reared in millions in many a darkened Italian attic and loft. For days he does nothing but digest mulberry green, and at last, when he has had his fill, he climbs up into a twig and begins to weave around himself a comfortable bed of silk. This takes him several days, and by the time his task is finished he has completely hidden himself in a beautiful egg-shaped cocoon.

Every Piedmontese cottage offers housework to the silkworm, says the Detroit News.

Manufacturers offer good prices for cocoons, and they generally want more of them than they can get. Each peasant can supply thousands of the wonderful silken balls which have to be carefully unwound on to skeins, cleansed and passed through delicate combing machinery, until the egg of a moth and the leaf of the fruit tree are ready to be made up into articles of wear.

That Was Different.
 They were having a prize fight in a building at Coney Island, and a woman was hanging around the door. When she was asked what she wanted she answered:

"It's my Mike who is one of the fighters. Will you tell me how the fight is going?"

"Yes, I will," was the reply. "Your Mike has knocked the fellow down nine times."

"Glory, glory be!" shouted the woman.

"But, you see," said her informant, "the other man has knocked your Mike down ten times and was going to make it eleven just as I came out."

"Oh, that's it," said the disappointed woman. "Then I had better go home and get my club ready for Mike, for I told him he would get his head cracked if he didn't win this fight."

HAIL TEN-CENT GOLF BALL

Innovation Looked To to Turn Cautious Playing Into the Merriest of Swatfests.

Would you believe the new ten-cent golf ball could arrive without affecting American outdoor life? Rather not! Did you fancy that with link pills available at a dime a piece golfing would remain the same coarse, crude, rather rough old pastime that it once was? Well hardly!

Persons who have entertained any such steadfast ideas are blocking the course. Fore! Let these fast ones play through.

In the first place, there need be no more mental hazards. A mental hazard, they say, is a form of moral cowardice—fear of losing the ball. Now, fear of losing the ball is logically the result of those traits of frugality which one unconsciously acquires the moment he undertakes to learn this ancient game of the canny Scot.

It is, therefore, not considered strange if a player, standing on the brink of a rather wide lake or seeking a foothold on the bushy bank of a tortuous stream, suddenly begins to quiver and to quake. He is battling with his mental hazard—the fear of losing his ball.

But with a ten-cent ball—why, who'll give a darn?

Another thing—there isn't going to be nearly so much profanity on the links with this ten-cent ball made of scrap rubber. Innocent youngsters who make an honest living caddy need no longer be regarded with resounding oaths every time a ball is lost. "Mister, I've lost it," the kid will chirp simply.

"Very well, sonny," will reply this new-style golfer, maintaining perfect composure. "Take this dime; run buy me a new one."

And besides all this, look what the ball will do for the husband. Now he'll be able to finance the wife to a game of golf every day during the summer, more than likely, and she can lose as many balls as she needs to without bringing the family to the brink of bankruptcy.—Exchange.

Pillings Now Made of Paper.

Pillies for submarine supports are now being made of paper in California, the chief recommendation of which is the fact that they are not subject to attack by the toredo, which ruins wooden piles in a short time. On a long wooden cylinder a long roll of tarred paper with glued edges is wound and covered with cord. Over this another band of paper, much narrower, is wound diagonally like the bandage on a wounded arm. The cylinder is revolved while it is bound with more cord, hot glue being applied continuously. After three layers of paper have been put in place, the wooden cylinder is removed and the paper cylinder is reinforced with a coarse mesh.

A mixture of cement and sand is squirted all over the cylinder, and several cylinders are joined end to end with the cement so as to make a pile 10 feet long and from 15 to 20 inches in diameter. A square steel head is fitted over the top to receive the shocks of the pile-driver.

Boring Metals.

Brass, copper, iron, steel and other metals are easily drilled if you use oil or grease as a lubricant. Do not try to drill too rapidly, and when nearly through the metal go very slowly, as a drill may easily be broken by trying to turn it too rapidly as it pushes itself through the surface.

Did You Ever Stop To Think---

THAT the Shawnee Oklahoma Gloom-Chasers have gotten together and organized a "Swat The Pessimist" club.

THAT they proclaim that the pessimist and his pestiferous ways will have no place in the new order of things.

THAT he is simply advertising his own inability to do things.

THAT it is necessary for all persons not now looking hopefully and optimistically into the future, to readjust themselves to the bigger and better things of life and business.

THAT the pessimist is the man who simply will not see the silvery lining beneath the cloud; who advertises by his looks and actions, his utter inability to meet his neighbor on a competitive basis.

THAT the optimist knows that unemployment is gradually diminishing, that money is getting cheaper, that the fellow that hustles gets the business and the pessimist must no longer be permitted to stand in the path of progress and prosperity

THAT the men back of this movement maintain that an analysis will show that there is nothing so radically wrong and the country is not going to the bow-wows.

THAT if it looks that way to some people, it is only a reflection of their own incapacity and inability to adjust themselves to the conditions of today.

THAT All Should Swat The Pessimist! Ostracize Him! Make Him Lonesome! Run The Steam Roller Over Him! Make Him So Unpopular That He Will Either Become A Business Christian Or Go Back To The Wilds From Whence He Came.

Christmas Seals Take Care of Marjorie

Marjorie has been her father's housekeeper ever since her mother's death three years ago. When her cough and lassitude declared themselves in no uncertain terms last summer, her plight was pitiable. There was no room for her at the sanatorium, and her father could not afford to pay a nurse.

The doctor prescribed rest in bed until her fever was down, but Marjorie, tossing and fretting while her father was at work all day, had little chance to reduce a temperature. Neighbors were kind, but tuberculosis nursing was to them a sealed book.

Then came Miss Gibbs, the visiting nurse. She gave Marjorie skilled care every day, taught her how she could hasten her own cure, and how to make sure that infection from her disease did not menace her father, or others who came into the house.

CHRISTMAS SEALS HELP TO SAVE THE CHILDREN

Christmas seals, which make possible the work of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, fight to keep children so healthy and strong that they can throw off the effects of the omnipresent infection.

No Longer Dread White Hairs.

One by one, all our old ideas are being turned topsy-turvy. We used to dread white hairs. Now, at the bidding of Dame Fashion, we want them, a writer in London Answers asserts. The white hair craze seems to have started in Paris, and it is spreading to this country, where well-preserved young women with impressive white locks are being admired.

Most of the hair comes from the south of France (for it is not all come by naturally), and the lighter the shade, the higher the price. A face will show its age under gray hair, but under white it may take on fresh youth—that is the secret of the matter.

Many villages in southern France are holding periodic "hair markets." Women with more hair than they need attend these markets with their superfluous locks, and white hair of good length and strength is worth many times its weight in gold. The best qualities are said to fetch £30 per ounce!

He Knew.

The old story about some one always being willing to give the bride away was beaten by a happening in Indianapolis the other day. A spinster in the early thirties who is soon to be married was completing arrangements for her wedding. She had selected her bridesmaids, and then she turned to her family and said: "I would be happy if I only could decide who would present me to the bridegroom."

No one made any suggestion, but her little nephew piped out: "Why I thought he was a present to you, auntie. The neighbors said he was something you had wanted for a long time."

And now none of the neighbors is included on the wedding invitation list.—Inneapolis News.

Your commissioners would propose building the trunk line roads proposed by the state highway department:

Road No. 10-30, Wilber township, length 5.0 miles, class A, width 16 feet. Estimated cost $47,500.00.

Road No. 10-21, Oscoda township, length 2.5 miles, class B, width 16 feet. Estimated cost $24,000.00.

Total cost $71,500.00. County's share $10,725.00.

These improvements should be made this coming year in co-operation with the state in order to complete our trunk line mileage. The expense to the county is only 12 1/2% of the total cost.

We also have in consideration for improvement when funds are available the following work:

Alabaster road from end of present improvement to railroad crossing.

Sherman road, completion of present improvement and proper drainage of road.

Burleigh township, improvement of a road reaching into the southern part of this township.

Hale, improvement of a road under Covert Act petition north and west of Hale.

Reno township, the improvement of the west end of Hemlock for the proposed east and west trunk line between Tawas and Manistee.

Meadow road, the improvement of this road now under Covert Act petition.

Work Accomplished and Under Way in 1922

Improvement of Alabaster road, Class B 12 foot gravel surface, length 2.5 miles, at a cost of $20,280.32.

Improvement of the Sherman road, more. This road is in good condition but shows effect of heavy loading this summer.

Thence south over pavement through the city of Whittemore; found the same in good condition; thence west over trunk line road No. 70, known as Assmt. Dist. 35. It is in fine condition. Thence over trunk line road No. 10 south of Whittemore, known as Assmt. Dist. No. 48. This road is in good condition but needs some top dressing in places. We recommend that the county road commissioners petition the state highway department to have 300 foot radius curves placed at county line on this road. Safety first.

Thence north over trunk line road No. 10 north of Whittemore. This road is in fine condition but needs some top dressing in places. Thence north from the Hemlock road on road now being constructed, known as Assmt. Dist. No. 3. This road is about 80 per cent complete and is in very good condition as far as completed, thence over county road one mile east of Hale; good but needs some top dressing. Thence over trunk line road east from road running north from Whittemore. This road is a 9 foot stone road in fair condition but needs top dressing in places this fall, commencing at the East Branch bridge to Tawas City over newly constructed road in fair condition as far as constructed. About 90 per cent constructed.

We recommend the construction of the 5 miles of sand and clay road through Wilber township on trunk line road No. 10, and the 3 miles through Oscoda during the coming year. We wish to recommend that the county road commissioners do everything possible to further the laying out and constructing of the new proposed trunk line road from Tawas to Manistee. We also wish to commend the county road commissioners on the good work they have done this year.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Iosco County:

Gentlemen—Your committee on drains and ditches, to whom was assigned the duty of viewing the drains and ditches of said county, beg leave to report as follows:

On October 5th we met at the home of Mr. Londo and proceeded to view the Craner Creek drain. We found the same completed, but the work not very satisfactory. We then proceeded to the Addy drain and found same about two-thirds completed and the remainder under construction. We then proceeded to view the Wilson drain and found same completed and in good condition.

In regard to drain commissioner's accounts, we find more short stubs covering part of the orders issued and in looking over our book we found them in such condition that we are unable to make figures in his report. We would suggest that this be referred to the drain commissioner and request him to give us a more complete report at the next meeting of this board for further consideration.

The Modern Way.
Blinkums needs a new motor car. The old bus is about joned. It rattles in the transmission and jumps in the rear. The engine pumps oil like a gusher. The valve taps sound like a battle of snaredrums. The top is as handsome as an old umbrella, and he has stopped risking bumps with his tires.

The mortgage is overdue on the house, which needs a roof, and the company is doing pretty slow business this year. His wife is wearing last year's clothes, and his one suit has long forgotten the feel of a nap. They are eating storage eggs and buying butter seconds, because the grocery bill is something fierce.
But Mr. Blinkums needs a new car, and this prophet lays ten to one he gets it.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Just Like a Woman.
A Fullerton man says he gets two eggs from a single hen. His plan is ingenious and might be worth trying on a larger scale, so we print it for the benefit of some of our suburban readers.

He has arranged a mirror opposite Biddy's nest, so that when she hops off and cackles she sees in the glass what she supposes is another hen cackling. This arouses her jealousy and not to be outdone by a supposed rival she jumps back on the nest and lays another egg.—Los Angeles Times.

The Condemned Man's Mascot
By JOHN PALMER
(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

"I can't make out why Big George wants rabbit every day for dinner," said the warden.
"Oh, well, I guess we'll have to humor him," answered the penitentiary governor. "He's only got three more weeks now."

Big George was the cheerfulest negro prisoner that ever lay in the condemned cell. Big George was to be electrocuted in three weeks' time for the murder of his wife, Lily.

He had drowned her in the creek, near his cabin, giving out the story that she had left him for another man. He had mutilated her body, so that the remains were only recognizable by the ring on the finger. Witnesses had sworn positively that it was Lily's ring.

For the defense it was alleged that the body was that of one Martha Washington, an aged colored chore-lady, who had disappeared one night on her way home across the bridge, while under the influence of moonshine. But that had not weighed with the jury.

Big George kept up his courage and reiterated that he would not go to the chair.

"Lily'll turn up—yes, sah," he kept repeating. "That woman's always on de job. Say, boss, can't you give me nothing but rabbits' backs? Can't you give me rabbits' legs for a change of diet?"

"Humor him," said the governor. "We don't often get a prisoner like George."

He certainly was a cheerful coon, and every one was sorry that the chair loomed so deadly close to him. There had not been an execution in the prison for three or four years. There were three condemned cells, but none of them had been occupied within that period of time, until George came. The other two were used for storing fuel and potatoes.

The chair had had to be overhauled—altogether it was nasty business, and every one would be thankful when it was over. They had tried their hardest to get a reprieve for George, but the governor had turned down the appeal decisively. So George had to go.

"That woman'll turn up, sah," George insisted.

"Say, ain't you got no rabbits' laigs for a change?"

Two weeks before the day set for the execution George's sister was announced. George opened his eyes. He had no sister—at least, he had never met one. However, the prospect of a lady visitor was naturally a welcome one.

In came Lily, as large as life, accompanied by the warden.

"Hello, Lily, I guessed you'd turn up," said George. "So you come back to me?"

"What yo' talking about, nigger?" demanded Lily. "I'm your sister, Pansy. Yo' killed Lily in the crick. Yo' brain must be going nigger."

"For Gawd's sake, Lily, don't hand me that," pleaded George. "Ain't yo' going to tell the governor yo'se my wife so's they'll let me out?"

The warden, who was listening to the conversation, grinned cheerfully.

"I dunno, George," said Lily. "I might say it, but they wouldn't believe it, 'cos every one knows I'se yo' sister, Pansy—see?"

George collapsed on his bed. "For de Lawd's sake have a heart, woman," he pleaded.

"Say," he asked the warden next day, "how many times must I ask you for rabbits' laigs? Sure to Mike they ain't all backs, are they?"

"Humor him," said the penitentiary governor. "So George had rabbits' legs thereafter."

Lily came again. "Say, coon, I been thinking over what you asked me," she said. "If you was to get clear of here, yo' see, I'd have to take up with you again. You're a worthless sort of nigger, and yo' ain't a good provider, are you?"

"Honest to God, Lily, ef you let me out I'll work for you as long as I live."

"How 'bout that yaller ball dress, George, what I left you for because you wouldn't buy it for me?"

"I'll git it for you, Lily," pleaded George desperately. "And yo' know I allus loved you, honey."

"Hey! None of that!" commanded the warden—for only quick kisses are permitted in the condemned cell.

Three days later George was summoned into the governor's room. There stood Lily, his lawyer and a representative of the police department. The governor clasped George by the hand.

"George, you're a free man," said the governor. "And you've got to thank your devoted wife for it. You've had the narrowest escape of your career." He shook hands with him. "Be a good boy, George," he said. "Go home with your wife and be good to her."

George grinned. "I tole you I wasn't going to the chair," he said. "But it shore was a mighty near thing. Ef you hadn't given me rabbits' laigs—"

He planked a rabbit's foot down on the governor's desk.

Glove Exports Grow.

The United States glove industry shows a favorable increase on the export trade of 1922, as compared with 1921. During the January-May period 73.4 per cent as many leather gloves were exported as during the entire year of 1921. The five leading markets for 1922 are Canada, England, Cuba, Mexico and Norway.—From the Industrial Digest.

Find Zest in Seed Gamble.
Baseball fans are not the only fans in this town. The suburbs are full of dahlia fans, and when they get together the talk is of bulbs, quill, cactus, peony flowers big spiders and spider webs, swapping aphids, thrip, borers, variegated, nitrate of soda, midsummer fertilization, hybrids, decorative pompon, collaretta and other terms that only the dahlia fan understands.

The true fan delights to raise seeds and plant them. No blooms are produced the first year, but bulbs are grown and these will produce blossoms the next year. These flowers may or may not be like the flowers from where the seeds came. The chances are a hundred to one that they will be different, and this taking chances is one of the enjoyments the dahlia bug has. It is a mild form of gambling.—New York Sun.

Scotland Yard Museum.
The museum of Scotland yard has been reopened, but not to the public; only police officers and others professionally interested may view the gruesome relics. Plaster casts of murderers' heads line the uncreling shelves, and the souvenirs of sensational murders include poisons, arsenical paper used in the Maybrick affair, locks of hair from the head of Doctor Grippen's wife, and the pestle with which a woman was killed in a railway carriage. Revolvers and knives abound, and there is a "put and take" top with which the spinner did all the taking and none of the putting.—Scientific American.

Kill Turkey Buzzard.

The green fly and the turkey buzzard are two of mankind's worst enemies, because they help spread infantile paralysis germs and other malignant forms of disease. The buzzard was in large measure responsible for the spread of rinderpest in South Africa, cholera in India and the epidemic that killed off the water buffalo in the Philippines. The green fly and the turkey buzzard should be killed on sight.—Thrift Magazine.

TAWAS CITY SCHOOLS

The week of December 3-9 is to be observed as American Education Week. As our part in this great movement, we invite the parents of students in our school and any one else who might wish, to visit school on the afternoon of Friday, December 8. The high school program was well attended. The receipts amounted to $32.00. The proceeds are for the benefit of the library and picture fund, or as we have remarked, luxuries to be enjoyed by all. The highest class average for the period was attained by the solid geometry class, a standing of 88%. Ask the eighth grade about partial payments. Some members of the class wish that all payments were made at the same time. You may expect to see the new basketball uniforms at the game with Harrisville, December 8. Student definition of automobile: "An automobile is only a wagon with a top on it and propelled by an engine." Every one doesn't say what he means. Student—"He was driving an old mule that was blind in one eye attached to a cart." Two piano selections were rendered by Mrs. Conant at the high school assembly on Wednesday morning.

"Importance of English"

Theme by Dorothea Wojahn The importance of English is not realized by all people. When the students go to school they study how to improve their English. The students who do not try to improve their English in school will notice it when they want to get some work during their later life. Self-improvement in school can be accomplished by being able to notice your own mistakes and also the mistakes of others. It is a good thing if a person is able to speak so that he can be well understood by anyone. When we begin to learn what English is made up of, we first begin with one word. When we have studied the words separately so that we know what they mean and how to use them correctly we group these words into sentences. We must be sure that we express only one complete thought in each sentence. As soon as we understand the sentences well, we take one central idea and form a paragraph by using several sentences which describe or lead about the central idea. Several paragraphs are used when we write a story or a theme. This way we study the different parts of our language. If English takes all this time to prepare us for later life, it certainly must be of some importance to us. It can easily be seen when the student grows up and wants to earn his own living. If a salesman or saleslady does not know how to speak good English he or she will not be able to sell very much goods. Every salesman or lady must speak politely to his customers. This is natural to the person if he has had the right kind of work in high school on this subject. English is important to you no matter what you like for your employment. You cannot get along with your work well if you do not know your language. Since this is the most important language of our country we ought to get it well and know every thing of which it consists. Later life is always a test for what you have grasped in school. If you grasp it well in school it will be much easier to get work in later life.

MICHIGAN SCHOOLS ENROLL

Have you a chore card in your home? If not, it's safe to prophesy that Johnny or Mary will bring one home inside of the next month, for 40,000 chore cards have already been given out in Michigan schools, and 60,000 more are expected to be in service by Christmas. In the home the chore card is said to be comparatively harmless. Symptoms of its presence are mainly noticeable among the rising generation. A passion for tooth-brushes and a mania for soap and water point almost infallibly to a lurking chore card in the family. The chore card, in fine, is the record folder of the modern health crusade. Special instruction in this device for the teaching of hygiene is being given at each of the district teachers' conventions during this month. The crusade is sponsored by the Michigan Tuberculosis association and the state departments of public instruction and health.

A Poet With Good Sense.

If such a man as Corneille lived in my time I would make him my prime minister. It is not his poetry I admire so much, but his good sense, his knowledge of the human heart and, in a word, his profound policy.—Napoleon.
