Remarkable Play—"The Storm" at Chautauqua

The Thrilling Forest Fire in "THE STORM"

"HELD the audience spell-bound with breathless attention."—New York Evening Mail.

"It is extraordinary."—New York Times.

"The Storm can run for years and be remembered for a lifetime."—New York Herald.

Such are the press comments on "The Storm," which will be produced in all of its realism on the first night of our Community Chautauqua. The tent will be crowded and parking space for automobiles will be at a premium for this remarkable attraction will draw not only the people of our own community but will bring large delegations from the surrounding towns to the Chautauqua tent on that night.

What would you do if you were a young girl and a tremendous blizzard forced you to remain for three months shut up in a cabin in a northern forest with a rugged American and a polished Englishman, both professing love for you, and you not daring to admit your affection for either because of the tense situation which would come to a climax? Would you do what the little French Canadian girl did in Langdon McCormick's play "The Storm?" Or if you were one of these men would you, under this severe test, prove one of Nature's Noblemen, conducting yourself under every condition honestly with yourself, with others and with your Maker? Could you endanger your own life to save that of another whom you had previously had cause to doubt?

These are but a few of the situations in which the characters of "The Storm" find themselves. The realism of the blizzard and of the great forest fire as they will be presented on the Chautauqua platform on the opening night of the Assembly, will carry you into the primitive and make you to live the parts portrayed by the members of the company. But once in a generation is there a play produced which is at the same time a great spectacle and a great sermon.

THE COMIC OPERA—"OLIVETTE"

DAVIES LIGHT OPERA COMPANY AT CHAUTAUQUA

CAPTAIN DeMERRIMAC had gained the consent of Marvejoil, the Seneschal, to his marriage to his daughter, Olivette. Things progressed nicely for the Captain (but not so agreeably for Olivette) until the arrival of Valentine, the Captain's nephew, who loved Olivette and was loved by her. The Captain being called away to his ship, Valentine disguised himself as his Uncle, the Captain, and married Olivette. On the Captain's return complications naturally developed. . . . But to get the entire story with all of its clean comedy you will have to see and hear the Davies Opera Co. on the third day of the Chautauqua.

The English Sparrow

English sparrows are Hums among birds. They are quarrelsome, greedy, pestiferous. Whenever English sparrows become abundant, valuable native birds are driven out. Barn swallows, wrens, bluebirds and many other useful insect eating birds have given way to this pesky little robber.

Undoubtedly English sparrows destroy insects enough the first year of lives to pay for what grain they eat, but because they drive off the birds that are so much more valuable as insect destroyers, we must condemn them. The young are fed almost wholly on insects and even the adult sparrows find that grasshoppers and weevils make a nice addition to their usual seed diet. Insects form only two per cent of the food of adult sparrows. Grain forms 74 per cent, grass seed seven per cent and weed seed 17 per cent.

Many cities have had effective campaigns against sparrows. Anybody undertaking to reduce the number of English sparrows must be very careful not to kill our native sparrows which are all useful and are protected by law.

Probably the best and safest way to get rid of English sparrows is to destroy their nests. They raise from two to four broods each year. A systematic destruction of their nests will cause them to leave any community.

Hale Baptist Church Notes

Union prayer meeting this week Wednesday in the Methodist church. A praying church is a growing church. Teaching services next Sunday morning at the usual hour, 10:00 local time. Sunday school following. We are hoping to see every member in their class.

We note with pride the improved appearance of our church with its new coat of paper. We thank the W. W. G. girls who, by their efforts in raising the money, made the much needed improvement possible. The girls expect to be instrumental in making some more improvements in the near future.

Rev. Speers of Harrisville, who hung the paper for us, took Rev. Roberts place in the pulpit the Sunday he spent with us and gave a very fine sermon.

Rev. Roberts has organized a Sabbath school in the Bielby school house. Last Sunday morning found a goodly number in attendance. Officers and teachers were elected and we are sure they will carry on the work to the best of their ability. We are with you dear people in prayer for the success of your Sunday school.

Covenant meeting last Saturday afternoon was very well attended. Much important business being attended to. Remember preaching services and Sabbath school. Your presence is an inspiration to us in carrying on the Lord's work.

SPARROWS

One-seventh of all the birds in the United States are sparrows. Of the more than 30 species comprising the family, all but the English sparrow are useful and valuable birds.

Sparrows are not fussy about their food. Weed seeds form the bulk of their food but in season they destroy many insects. This ability to adapt themselves to whatever conditions they meet and whatever food they can find, no doubt accounts for their abundance. Fussy birds like fussy people, have a hard time in the world.

Strong, conical bills are characteristic of sparrows. They also have gizzards like chickens. Nature has well fitted them to crush seeds and grind them fine so that all the nourishment stored in the seeds can be obtained.

The sparrow's flight is slow, labored and heavy, a great contrast to the swift and graceful movement of the swallow. Since sparrows can pick up a living almost anywhere, they do not migrate far. Most of the species that nest in the northern part of the United States winter in the southern states, but they are replaced by the juncos, snowflakes, tree sparrows and others that come down from Canada.

THE SMALL HIGH SCHOOL DIS-APPEARING

Costs of education are mounting. A higher percentage of the population is being enrolled in high schools yearly. Each year more communities are demanding opportunity for their children for a good high school training. The people are demanding that the high schools offer a wider range in courses of study so that the interests of students having other than college preparatory aims be met. Can we finance the program? We can through elimination of the small high school. We cannot if we attempt to maintain effective high schools for 15 or 20 pupils. Cities maintain effective high schools at per pupil costs within reason, simply because they have large numbers of pupils. Union high schools in the West offer country children as good facilities at a reasonable cost for the same reason.

Where the small district attempts to support a high school for a few pupils the cost is prohibitive. Two high schools in a western state reported per pupil costs of over $1,000 per year for 1921. The country can not finance such a program as this. Careful organization in the interest of economy as well as effectiveness is becoming more and more a necessity. Larger units of support must displace the small district high school.
