During the period he has been selling Ford cars, Mr. Kane has disposed of nearly 1,000 cars. And his sales are more than keeping pace with his ability to secure cars from the factory at the present time. He states that even with the new addition he has hardly space enough to accommodate his large stock of parts and supplies. There is probably not another garage in the state that is better equipped to give service on Ford repair, parts and accessories than Mr. Kane's establishment.

The body of Alice Stillson, who disappeared at the Cooke dam on Sunday, July 29, was found by Norman Ferguson floating in the driftwood above the dam last Sunday morning at about 7:30. Justice W. C. Davidson of this city was called and viewed the body but decided that no inquest was necessary as it was evidently a case of accidental drowning.

The girl, who was 14 years of age, belonged at the Juvenile Home in Saginaw and with a number of other children was bathing in the river. She was seen a few minutes before her disappearance walking along the shore, laughing and apparently in the best of spirits. It is thought that the bank caved in and she was caught under the driftwood. The body was taken to Saginaw on Monday for interment.

One special prize has already been offered that is worth working for and the officers would be glad to hear from anyone who is interested in the promotion of any department and would like to offer a special premium to be announced later.

The new building is under construction and the officers are anxious to fill it to its capacity, which can easily be done if every one will do their part in boosting a county institution.

LARGEST FORD GARAGE NORTH OF BAY CITY

With the completion of the addition to the Henry Kane garage Tawas City has the largest and best equipped garage north of Bay City. Mr. Kane has just recently finished and occupied this addition and is now better prepared than ever to accommodate his immense business in Ford cars and tractors and repairs and accessories for same.

Mr. Kane has been selling Ford cars since 1908. In 1916 he erected a cement garage 46x87 feet in size, which at the time he thought would be ample for all future requirements. However, his business grew so fast that last fall he saw the need of more room and purchased the lot on the east side of his garage and this spring began the erection of an addition 30x87 feet, with full basement. This addition is now completed. The ground floor of the new part is occupied by the offices, stock room and display room with repair shop in the rear, while the old garage and basement will be used for storage.

Mr. Brockway had been a patient sufferer for several weeks. He was removed from Mercy hospital, Bay City, a week ago and died at his home in East Tawas. He had been a resident of East Tawas for 12 years.

Mr. Brockway's first wife died after 20 years of married life, and on Oct. 8, 1908, he was married to Miss Rosetta Vails of Johnstown, Ohio. To this union a son was born, S. E. Brockway. This son, the wife and six step-children survive him. The step-children are Mrs. Claude Halterman, Ed. Grove, Arthur, Vern, Earl and L. D. Jennings. He also leaves several grandchildren and four sisters.

The funeral services were held at the home on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. A. Mitchell officiating, and interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Brockway had many friends here, by whom he will be missed. The sympathy of the community goes out to the bereaved family.

Removing Ink Stains.
To remove ink stains, wet the soiled parts with cold water, then immediately cover these spots with ground mustard. After allowing this to become entirely dry, wash the material with warm water and a small amount of soap. I have found this to be very efficient and economical in that it saves much good material from being cast aside.—Exchange.

Divided Play.

Virginia came running over with her dolls to play with Nan, and it seemed that an agreeable time was in store for the youngsters. But a short time later mother came into the room and Virginia was in one corner with her own things, looking rather pouty, and Nan in the opposite corner. Seeing the questioning expression on her mother's face, Nan explained: "Virginia was cross, so I said we'd play with each self."

Why Marie Laughed.

Marie was naughty while visiting with her aunt and she was slapped on the hand. After drying her eyes, she began to laugh, which puzzled her aunt, who asked why she acted like that. The child replied: "It was this hand you slapped, and t'other that doed it."

Civil War Vets and Children at State's Big Fair

First replies to invitations sent to G. A. R. post commanders, indicate that there will be a big response to the Michigan State Fair's invitation to veterans of the Civil War and their wives to attend as the guests of the fair on Tuesday, Sept. 4, Secretary-Manager George W. Dickinson announced this week.

The old soldiers will be given seats of honor in the grand stand where they may view the many attractions, including horse races, and enjoy the music of the big bands.

A special program has been arranged by Mr. Dickinson so that the veterans annual visit to the fair will be most enjoyable.

The crippled children living in and about Detroit and in the border cities of Canada also will be guests of the fair on this day.

The fair opens Friday, Aug. 31 and closes Sunday, Sept. 9.

AUTO BIG HELP TO STATE FAIRS

The importance of the automobile in the development of the State Fairs is being emphasized more and more every year, according to George W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the Michigan State Fair which will be held in Detroit from August 31 to September 9.

"There was a day," Mr. Dickinson said, "when many persons thought the passing of the horse would doom the fairs. But the result has been just the opposite.

"The large number of automobiles relieves the heavy traffic on trains during fair time with the result that the motorists and those remaining railroad passengers all travel in comfort.

"This encourages many more farmers to bring their families to Detroit for the great exposition. In fact the automobile has just about brought the fair to the front yard of every farmer within a radius of 75 miles.

"We expect to do a great deal more for the accommodation of touring motorists this year. We had a camp for them last year where, for a reasonable fee they could park their cars, pitch tents and do their cooking. This year the tourists camp will be enlarged and we will be able to accommodate comfortably about 1,000 persons a day."

AUTOMOBILE DAY AT STATE FAIR

Plans are being made for the reception of huge throngs on "Automobile Day," the first day of the $5,000,000 Michigan State Fair which will be held in Detroit from August 31 to September 9, according to Secretary-Manager George W. Dickinson.
Many of the big automobile manufacturers have pledged their cooperation and assured fair officials that large numbers of their workers, enthusiastic about "Automobile Day" will be there day and night.

In addition to the many other attractions, the fair officials have invited the automobile companies and automobile dealers to enter one or more decorated cars in an automobile parade which will pass in review before the grandstand where notables in industrial and public life will be seated.

Mr. Dickinson predicts that this will be the biggest opening day ever seen at the Michigan State Fair and that the great masses of people as well as the scores of costly attractions will be worth while making a long trip to see.

7 MORE FREE ACTS FOR THE STATE FAIR

Seven special acts have been included in the free attraction program for the Michigan State Fair, which will be held from Aug. 31 to Sept. 9, Secretary-Manager George W. Dickinson announced.

Triple somersaults, double twisting and reverse flights will feature the tumbling of the "Flying Fishers." A comedy triple cradle novelty will be presented by the Palone Trio, featured by mid-air acrobatics.

LaFleur and Portia will appear in a combination contortion and aerial novelty.

A sensational perch novelty, marked by unusually finished technique is promised in the act of the Three Alex. The Cleora Miller Trio will give a musical treat, featured by a girl with a lyric soprano voice of great range. There will be syncopated operatic, popular and jazz numbers.

The Four Readings, reputed to be among the best hand balancers and ground acrobats, will demonstrate remarkable strength and speed in their performances.

The Six Belfords, crack foot jugglers, will complete the bill.

SWIFT UNDER SAIL

Feat of Clipper Ship of a Generation Ago Recalled.

Sovereign of the Seas Averaged 13 3/4 Knots an Hour, for Eleven Days, Back in 1853.

The recent announcement that the Leviathan, the world's second largest ship and the largest flying the American flag, on her completion would probably break all records for speed across the Atlantic, recalls the seventeenth anniversary last month of a record made by the great clipper ship Sovereign of the Seas, flying before the winds in the South Pacific, in which she made a run in 11 days averaging 13 3/4 knots, or 330 miles, every 24 hours.

The Sovereign of the Seas had been built the year before in the East Boston yard of Donald McKay, whose famous brother, Lauchlan McKay, commanded the ship on her most memorable passages. A lofty three-masted vessel of 2,421 tons, the Sovereign of the Seas was then the largest and unquestionably the swiftest and most powerful sail ship in the world. She had gone out to the Pacific on her maiden voyage, as most of the clippers of that time were accustomed to do, sailing from New York on August 4, 1852, for San Francisco. In a squall in the South Pacific the huge ship carried away her fore and main topmasts and foreyard. But Captain McKay had a strong crew of 100 men, 80 of them able seamen, and under his skilled leadership the Sovereign was completely remasted and re-rigged at sea in 14 days—arriving out at the Golden Gate in a fine passage of 103 days from Sandy Hook. But for the dismasting she would have broken all Cape Horn records for that season of the year.

Instead of running across to China, as the clippers often did, to reload for the Atlantic coast, the Sovereign of the Seas crossed only to Honolulu and there obtained a cargo of whale oil, taken on the Pacific grounds by whale ships from New England. It was on this passage southward for Cape Horn that the Sovereign performed the memorable feat of running 3,562 miles in 11 days, in strong winds and gales, continuing unceasingly. In the four days from March 16 to March 19 inclusive the mighty clipper sailed 1,478 miles, or, allowing for longitude eastward and difference in time, an average of 15 1/2 knots. No ocean steamer of that period could have done this. On one day, March 18, the Sovereign of the Seas is credited with an average speed of 17-2/3 knots for 24 hours. In the Atlantic on this passage light and moderate winds prevailed, but the Sovereign of the Seas passed Sandy Hook only 82 days out from Honolulu.

Through those memorable 11 March days of 1853 in the South Pacific the art of sail-ship handling obtained its apotheosis in the work of Captain McKay, his four mates and his hundred seamen. Never before had such sailing been seen; never again will it be witnessed, because no such tall, keen ships as those Yankee clippers will ever again be constructed. Steam has sounded their doom and the end of the kind of crews that manned them.

(As you picture it after listening to the advice of your home-owning friends.)

It will be a colonial cottage in the Tudor Gothic style, revealing the French chateau influence and embodying the best features of the English manor, California bungalow and Adirondack lodge. It will be heated by hot air, hot water, steam, electricity and gas; it will have a tile, slate, shingle, terra cotta, asphalt, asbestos and thatched roof and will be painted in quiet tones of purple, green, red, yellow and pink. The house will contain many bedrooms, to encourage one's relatives; and very few, to discourage them. The living room will be long, low, high, wide and narrow, treated in the Empire, Italian Renaissance and late Flemish manner, with straight lines, a broken frieze and a footless pediment.

Your home will be situated on a wind-swept hill top on low ground in the midst of a dense wood, ten miles from the station and within easy walking distance of your office.—From Life.

Betty Explains.

"Now, Betty," said her grandpa, trying to be severe, "tell me why you didn't put that dime into the plate at church this morning. I like to see a little girl give cheerfully and not let her right hand know what her left hand doeth."

"Well, grandpa," said Betty, who is very fond of candy, by the way, "that's just the trouble. My right hand thought my left hand was putting it in and my left hand thought my right hand was, and so between the two of them it didn't get put in at all."—Boston Transcript.

Rebuking Helen.

The girls were calling upon their grandparents, their first visit for several weeks. Naturally they felt they must tell all the news they could possibly think of, so talked incessantly.

Helen had the floor, telling all about the terrible ailments she had been troubled with for a long time.

Betty Ann tried in vain for a chance to talk. Finally she exclaimed: "Aw, Helen, you're always braggin' on yourself."
