SMALLEST COUNTY TO RUN DAIRY CAMPAIGN

Arenac, Michigan's smallest county, will join the list of districts which are making an intensive drive for better farming practices, with a county and alfalfa campaign during the week of October 29.

The Arenac campaign will be the first of a series to be put on during the coming season by the extension division of the Michigan Agricultural College, following up similar work carried on in many counties of the state during the past two years.

Success of the work conducted previously, as shown by increased alfalfa acreages and better dairy practices in the districts covered by the campaigns, led to the decision to continue the drives this year.

The unique feature of the dairy-alfalfa campaigns is the fact that the meetings are held right on the farms of the county, making possible a practical demonstration method which could not be accomplished in "general" meetings. Usually about 80 of are held in each county, with two teams, working for two weeks. In Arenac, however, because of the relatively small area to be covered, but 40 meetings are being scheduled for a one-week drive.

Next after Arenac in the itinerary for the fall and winter campaign series is Sanilac, where the drive will start early in November. Dairy and farm crops extension specialists from M. A. C. will compose the campaign teams, while general management of the arrangements is to be taken care of by the county agricultural agents, business men, and farmers of each county.—Herald Times.

STATE TO ENFORCE TRAFFIC LAWS

Calls Attention to Seven Important Features to Be Observed

Believing that motorists of Michigan have been given sufficient time to thoroughly acquaint themselves with the new automobile laws, the uniform traffic law passed by the last legislature, the state police are now enforcing automobile laws. Secretary of State Charles DeLand has issued letters to all peace officers and to the state police as well, calling their attention to the fact that the uniform traffic law is in effect and that they would be expected to enforce it and the old automobile laws as well.

The principal violations of these laws upon which the state police have been called to make recent arrests are:

Failing to keep automobile license tags properly hung.

Failing to have parking lights burning and failing to dim headlights upon the approach of another vehicle.

Failing to extend arm upon turning or halting a machine.

Failing to come to a complete stop upon approaching any main state trunk line.

Failing to stop behind stopped street cars or other passenger carrying vehicles.

Parking on the public highway.

There is a provision in the state law which says that automobile license tags must be fastened in a conspicuous place, front and rear.

Many drivers are being hailed into court for having them concealed behind bumpers or for allowing them to become mud bespattered so that they cannot be rapidly read.

At any time an automobile is stopped on a road, trunk line or county, the law says that a white light must show from the front and a red light from the rear. This provision of the law permits the use of what is termed a "parking light" or one light with white front and red glass rear.

The uniform traffic law says that the driver of an automobile, upon making a right or left turn, or upon coming to a complete stop, or upon slowing down must extend his arm to warn machines approaching from the rear. The state police have approved a system of signals as follows:

Arm pointing skyward to denote a right turn; arm extended horizontally to denote a left turn; arm pointing toward the road to denote a stop or slowing down. This same system of signalling has been adopted and approved by police departments of a number of cities.

Another feature of this same law is the section making it compulsory to stop while approaching a state trunk line road, the automobiles on the trunk line having the right of way.

On practically every main road in the state there is sufficient "shoulder" or unused part of the road to the side of the beaten path, where a motorist can stop his machine to make an adjustment, repair, etc. Failure to pull the machine to one side is violation of this section.

NOTICE

Since some people having taken offense at the enforcement of the "Uniform Traffic Laws", in Tawas City, I wish to say that these laws are for the automobile owner's protection. The regulations regarding head lights, parking lights, tail lights, entering and crossing trunk line highways, speed, etc. are easily observed, and are a benefit and protection, and they must be enforced.

ANNIVERSARY OF JOHN BROWN'S RAID

Sixty-four years ago today the entire nation was aroused by the news that John Brown had captured the arsenal at Harper's Ferry. The following day United States Marines, under the command of Colonel-Robt. E. Lee, captured the raider, who was afterward tried, convicted and hanged.

Despite the insignificance of this event it led to tremendous consequences. Like the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand provoked the European conflict, so the Harper's Ferry affair fanned the smoldering spark of public sentiment into the flame of the Civil War.

NOTICE

All bills and claims against the Wm. E. Soper, estate must be settled before Jan. 1, 1924.

Dated Sept. 1, 1923.

Elmer Graves, Administrator.

MICHIGAN PIONEER AND HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The year 1924 is the semi-centennial year of the organization of the Michigan Pioneer and Historical Society which during a period of fifty years published the Michigan Pioneer and Historical Collections. In commemoration of this event the Michigan Historical Commission has arranged to supply these volumes free to every school, library, American Legion Post, Business club, lodge, or grange, every organization that will make use of them to further the study of Michigan history. These volumes are neatly boxed for shipment, gratis. The only charge is the freight.

These volumes cover the entire field of Michigan's life, its resources, industries, people, politics, government, wars, institutions and achievements, the history of the church, the press, the schools of the state, its Indian legendary and prehistoric lore. Numerous historical illustrations are used.

The complete set originally comprised 41 volumes, but there are several that are now out of print. Each volume, however, is an independent publication with an index of its own.

If there are clubs or schools wishing to have these volumes, write direct to the Michigan Historical Commission at Lansing for the free volumes.

Plea for Wild Flowers.

Too often areas frequented by tourists and picnickers (the latter title probably coming from the tendency to pick things, are denuded of the wild flowers. The picking in moderation of the flowers alone or even with a small amount of foliage would not be so bad, but the fact is that when a person once gets the habit he (usually she, in this case) readily loses the sense of moderation and becomes intemperate. Moreover the plants are usually pulled up or broken off at the ground and in such cases extermination is the common result. It is only the weedier, less attractive species, or those which have some natural defensive or offensive property that escape destruction.

Picking or cutting the flowers alone, while slower in its effects, will in time lead to extermination of most species, if continued persistently. Not even the ubiquitous dandelion could long survive the complete loss of seed production and our choicest wild flowers are much less aggressive than this hardy immigrant.

Fishes as Pets.

Is it possible to tame fishes in the same way as we do other creatures that become our pets? The answer is, "Yes."

Doctor Fastenrath, of Zurich, has succeeded in taming fish in the Lake of Lugano to such an extent that they eat out of his hand and allow themselves to be taken up and caressed.

For six months the doctor repeatedly stood in the lake up to his neck in water, and holding a piece of bread in each hand, at the end of a couple of months the fish came up and nibbled at the bread and eventually became quite friendly.

Upon several occasions Doctor Fastenrath let a white screen down into the water, and against this background, by means of a special camera, he took some curious photographs of his family pets.

Her Favorite.

"Who is your favorite poet, Miss Gush—Longfellow or Whittier?" asked the professor.

"Oh, neither of them; mine is much more wonderful. I am quite in love with him, and the strange part of it is that I don't even know his first name. Can you tell me, professor? His name is Anon."

Insect "Rogues' Gallery."

A rogues' gallery of insects is being organized by the American Nature association in Washington. The pests are to be identified and information as to their migrations gathered together with the best methods of opposing them. Such insects as the Hessian fly and the boll weevil will no doubt head the list of undesirables.

Chances of Longevity.

Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk, diagnostician and author, says, "The 'average' person does not stand the best chance of living long. The man or woman who weighs 20 or 30 per cent below the average has the best chance for long life. It is safe to say the average individual reaches the ideal build at thirty. If he can keep near that build for the rest of his life, he increases his chances of longevity."

PERFECT DAYS ALWAYS

By GRACE E. HALL

There isn't a day in the whole round year

That isn't a perfect day; Measured and true and painted with gold.

It glides on its destined way; It is one of the gems that is given to you—

A pearl in life's necklace rare, And it hasn't a scar and it hasn't a mar— Unless you have made it there.

The sun cannot shine every day of your life, But the soft clouds have their place;

If all of the hours were a glitter and shine, You would weary in each day's race;

For the eyes must behold and the soul must feel The peace of these quiet days, That soften the light and refresh our sight,

After the burning rays. There is beauty abundant for every need

In every day of the year; If you cannot see it, you're blind indeed,

For beauty is ever near; Whatever your lot, you may freely share

In the paintings of earth and sky; They are wondrous in worth and there's never a dearth

Of charm—for the seeing eye. (© by Dodd, Mead & Company.)

Struggled Hard for Life.

Strange evidence was given by the house surgeon at a Barrow (Eng.) hospital at the inquest of an eight-year-old boy. The boy died from lockjaw caused by falling and cutting his wrist on a tin. The surgeon said he died three times. He stopped breathing twice and animation was restored twice. The third time he stopped breathing it was final.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"PORK-BARREL"

WHEN, in the midst of a congressional discussion upon some measure which entails the expenditure of large sums of money in different parts of the country—for example, the rivers and harbors bill—one member will denounce the bill as a "poorly disguised pork-barrel", the meaning is at once apparent to anyone familiar with American parliamentary slang, for it has come to be the accepted equivalent of an attempt to secure public money for private or semi-private purposes. A "pork-barrel" measure, therefore, is one which would enrich certain districts at the expense of the public treasury, either by providing for costly improvements or by spending money unnecessarily.

To find the genesis of the phrase we have to go back to the earlier days of the republic, when the majority of the citizens were farmers who, during the winter, were forced to live on salt pork. If their supply was adequate and their barrels well filled, they said they had no need to worry about a long, hard winter—the pork-barrel would take care of them. In a similar, but more metaphorical sense, they now look to their congressmen to take care of them by securing at least a portion of the "pork-barrel" legislation, which will lead to profits on labor, land and supplies. TEACHING PATRIOTISM

Part of the business of the Youth's Companion is cultivating a fine patriotism—the love of country; not wrong, but right. The Youth's Companion started the movement for putting the flag on the schoolhouse, it formulated the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag that is repeated today in practically every schoolhouse in the United States. It has for a long time, now, been running a series of patriotic covers picturing striking events in the nation's history. Painted by the best historical illustrators in the country, they are reproduced in full color at frequent intervals on The Companions cover. It is worth a year's subscription to The Companion to have these scenes so graphically. They help greatly in fixing the memory of the events related in the school histories.

The 52 issues of 1924 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. Subscribe now and receive:

Oldest Known Will.

A will executed in 2548 B. C. is the oldest extant. It is written on papyrus by an Egyptian named Uah. In it he gave his home and other property to his wife, to be left by her to any of their children; arranged for the burial of himself and wife, and appointed a guardian for a son. In fact the will differs little from one which might be executed today.

ACCEPTED OXFORD AS MODEL

Architecture of New Paris University is to Be That of Famous English College.

Architects' plans and illustrations are now published in the French press of the new Paris university buildings on the site of the dismantled fortifications and away from the crowded Latin quarter. It is interesting to learn that the architect for the first block has abandoned the conventional French style and gone to Oxford for his models, remarks the Manchester Guardian.

A writer in L'Illustration curiously describes the architecture as "Anglo-Hollandais," but as a matter of fact the design bears a great resemblance to the new Brasenose buildings. The ground plan reveals ample space that is to be devoted to gardens—though we are not told whether an attempt is to be made to rival Oxford's carefully tended lawns—and playing fields. In the latter spaces have been carefully marked off for "football," "Rugby" and "baseball."

Students at English universities—and especially at the older universities—may feel a little envious when they learn the cost of living in this new Paris settlement. The price of a well-equipped room, one of whose luxuries will be that "hot and cold running water," which the French now appear to think so indispensable in every well-regulated establishment, will be 90 francs a month, and the maximum price for dinner or lunch will be 3 francs. Both men and women are to find homes in the hotels.

M. Emile Deutsche de la Meurthe, the generous donor of the first block, has stipulated that out of the 350 for whom rooms are to be found in the first instance, 100 must be women. Among foreign countries which have already consented to establish hotels for their students on the new site are Canada and Argentina. Some of the French papers say that the University of Oxford has been asked to take a hand in the scheme.

Exterminating the Prairie Ant.

The Kansas State Agricultural college, after experimenting with different substances, has adopted carbon bisulphide as the most efficient means for destroying the prairie ant.

The work should, if possible, be done when the ants are at work and their gateways open. Otherwise, it would be advisable to take a sharpened broomstick or an iron rod and run down to the bottom of the nest in several places. A galvanized tub or similar vessel is turned over the nest and earth is thrown around the tub where it rests on the ground and packed down to make it as nearly airtight as possible. A shallow dish is placed on the nest and into it is poured from one-half to one and one-half ounces of carbon bisulphide, according to the size of the nest. The tub is quickly lowered and the earth is placed all around it. The deadly fumes of the drug are heavier than air and sink into the underground galleries of the nest, destroying every ant with which they come in contact. The drug must be carefully handled, as the fumes are even more inflammable than gasoline, if possible, and not a speck of fire, not even a pipe of cigar, must be permitted anywhere near it or an explosion will likely result. The tub is left in place five hours and then removed.

"So Shines a Good Deed."

A Kentucky mountain girl, crippled with infantile paralysis, crawled on her hands and knees to school over a mountain more than a mile and a half away. The sharp rocks, despite pads, cut her knees so she could not make the trip more than a few times. A Louisville physician heard of the case and, taking her to the city, he operated on her. By breaking and resetting the bones in her legs he made it possible for her to walk in a year's time. She learned to read and write in the hospital and was taken to Beera college to finish her education. A man whose name is withheld deposited $1,000 to her credit in a Louisville bank.

Getting His Bearings.

One day three of my girl friends and I were out walking. After we had gone a short distance we decided to go to one of the neighbors to visit. We had to go one mile north to get there. We had just started in that direction when along came a big car with only the driver in. He stopped and said: "Are you going north?" "Yes," I replied, as I put my foot on the running board. "Thanks," he said. "I thought I was going the wrong way," and with that the car dashed off, leaving me standing there embarrassed, and my friends were laughing.—Chicago Tribune.

A prominent American woman is making it possible for six British students to enter universities in the United States every year. She has founded scholarships at Princeton, Harvard and Yale for students at Oxford and Cambridge. It is to be hoped that the time soon will come when it will be possible to arrange exchange of students with all enlightened nations of the world.—Dearborn Independent.

Save Woodlands.

Organization of local chapters of the Motorist League for Countryside Preservation throughout the United States is progressing rapidly, automobile owners and civic clubs generally having endorsed the league's creed that motorists owe to themselves, their fellow men and the nation the care and preservation of woods, hills and countryside.

Money Not Everything.

When I hear a man saying that he is in business only for the money he can make and not for the favors he can render, I think of what some wise man said one time: "If a pig could pray he would devote his entire prayer to corn and swill, but men should pray for other sorts of things."—Tom Dreier for Forbes.
