GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION

"For the Lord is good; His mercy everlasting; and His truth endureth to all generations"

Let us "enter into his gates with Thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise; be thankful unto Him, and bless His name."

Pursuant to a custom which has endured through many generations and by direction of the President we have again been called upon to set aside one day of this glad and prosperous year for Thanksgiving. There is no day in all the year so wholly American as Thanksgiving day and there is no day in the year when greater opportunity is offered for re-creating our patriotism, and making manifest our love of country.

America, in this year about to end, has much for which to be thankful.

In our sorrow over the loss of a great and good leader, the Almighty lifted up another great and good President to guide us. The sudden death of a great chief might be expected to cause disorder and political dissatisfaction. Our advance onward and upward under the direction of our new President has been without interruption or turmoil, proving once again that this is a nation guided by Providence.

A sister nation suffered from a frightful calamity, through our bounteous prosperity we were able to relieve suffering and quell despair.

"For the Lord is good; His mercy everlasting"—so we have endeavored to display to the world that His ideal is our ideal and that we have mercy unbounded. Our destiny is service to humanity. Let us not be swerved from our purpose.

Our continued social peace and tranquility and our amazing prosperity, educational, agricultural and business development are due to the mercies of the Lord because we have always been thankful unto Him.

But because our crops have been good and our industrial conditions satisfactory, let us not forget the necessity of careful living, let us not spend bounty in extravagance, let us never be wasteful of that which has been provided. Let us conserve so that no matter what the emergency, we will always be able to provide freely for those not so fortunate as ourselves.

In pursuance to our time honored custom and in accordance with the proclamation issued by the President of the United States and by virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of Michigan, I hereby designate Thursday, November 29, 1923, as a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State this twelfth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, and of the Commonwealth of Michigan, the eighth day of the month of November.

Alex J. Groesbeck, Governor

PROMINENT EAST TAWAS RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

The death of W. M. Gardner on Monday evening at 11:45, November 19 came as a shock to his many friends. Mr. Gardner had been ailing only a few days but was thought improving.

Walter Mitchell Gardner was born in Nantucket, Mass. in 1848 and was about 75 years old at the time of his death. He leaves a wife, Sarah J. Gardner, three sons, Chas. A. of Port Arthur, Walter S. of Detroit and Lawrence A. and one daughter, Mary of this city, also one brother, Leander Gardner of Detroit.

The funeral took place at the home Thursday afternoon, Rev. Chas. Edinger officiating.

Mr. Gardner was well known in Iosco county and has a host of friends who will miss him. He was a resident of East Tawas for about 40 years and had been in the lumbering business for many years but retired a few years ago. The family have the sympathy of the entire community.

JOYFUL THANKSGIVING

Scripture reference Isa. 43. 1-13

These verses are filled with wonderful promises and many reasons for Thanksgiving on the part of the ancient Jews. Our reasons for Thanksgiving, personal and national, are so many. Without following more closely the above reference let us notice some of our reasons for joyful Thanksgiving.

I Thank God for life. "It is one of the Lord's mercies that we are not consumed." "Why should man complain? So begins the anthem of thanks. It starts at the lowest note of all: We are alive. Whatever we may think of our hardships and deprivations, we are all far above the extreme point, and therefore have much cause for Thanksgiving. An unknown writer well expresses this thought, "I felt most ill used because an accident had disabled my hand. Taking a walk through a street I met a man with one leg gone, another with one arm gone, a blind man, two deaf and dumb, two funerals and a load of prisoners. Having passed these and come to a lunatic asylum, I made up my mind I should be very thankful."

II Not only are we alive, but what a wondrous life we are permitted to live. A man alive? Can you find in all God's works a being which surpasses him? He stands upon the earth, but his eyes need not be earthward bent. His is the upward look, the onward march, the glorious future. Thus it was with the Pilgrim Fathers, thus it was with the Fathers of the Republic, and thus it should be for us today.

III Therefore our gratitude is due also because of the age in which we live. The mists of superstition have almost disappeared. The darkness of ignorance no longer envelopes us. We have got out of the Egyptian night into the clear, crisp morning of liberty.

And this liberty includes liberty to worship, and liberty of the church to foster and cultivate in men the spirit of worship. When we compare our condition with the condition of men of the past, and men of other lands, we have much on this our National Thanksgiving Day to be thankful for; for truly it can be said of our glorious people,

There is no heart so bleak and bare, But heaven hath sent some blessing there;

No table e'er so sparsely spread, But that a grace should there be said.

Uncommon Sense By JOHN BLAKE

NEGLECTED GENIUS

ONE of the best-known of modern poets, ill and destitute after a lifetime of toil, announces cheerfully that he is emphatically not a neglected genius.

True, he has no money, but it was not money that he worked for. His fame is perhaps not as great as his talent merited, but he did not work for fame. He worked for the joy of working, and that was enough.

He looks back upon life feeling that it brought him all that he could ask. Genius is not neglected any more than diamonds are neglected, and for the same reason. This man, had he chosen, could now be comfortably supplied with money.

We believe that he should have been. Every man owes it to himself to gain independence, and money means independence. Our poet's celebrity could have been come into enough cash to ease his old age, but if he preferred to neglect his opportunities it is nobody's business but his own.

It is his absence of bitterness that is worth heeding. He has discovered, what every other man should discover, that no earnest effort is wasted. He has learned that people are only too ready to recognize genius when they find it, and to reward it when they recognize it.

Indeed, so keen is the hunt for genius that hundreds of near-genuses grow prosperous in America as soon as they betray the least sign of talent.

Publishers and producers hunt for men who can write. Great corporations send out scouts for men with executive or engineering ability that is beyond the common order.

No musician who is really gifted ever falls of an audience. And even industrious mediocrity will sometimes be mistaken for genius and have riches thrust upon it.

Cast the fear that you may be a neglected genius from among your worries. If you are a genius somebody will find it out, and you will have to hire an office boy to keep people from invading your privacy.

Even if you are not a genius you are likely to be mistaken for one. But that will not harm you unless you make the mistake yourself. Be careful not to do that, for it will be fatal.

Ignore Supper Law.

One of the ridiculous acts of parliament still in existence in England is that passed in the reign of Edward III, regulating the meals of the people, which forbids more than two courses being served at dinner or supper, except on certain holidays. Needless to say, the law is broken with impunity.

Parents and teachers should warn their children on their way to and from school. Some of the children not knowing the risk they are taking will barely get outside the track. One little fellow climbed onto the tire carrier of a car and was carried a ways with the car when he jumped off unknown to the driver and received several severe cuts about the face but was fortunate to escape so lightly.

Mr. and Mrs. Dearth of the Meadow road spent Sunday at the home of their son, Virgil.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Craner entertained friends from Saginaw on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Clare Long visited at the home of Mrs. Long's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dearth, on the Meadow road.

110 DISASTERS IN YEAR ENLIST RED CROSS AID

Nearly $400,000 Spent in United States—Greek Refugee Work Completed.

For its preparedness to render relief through effective and generous aid to the sufferers from disaster the American Red Cross is universally regarded as the one organization from which response to appeal for help is immediate. In the last year, according to the annual report of the Red Cross, its disaster relief operations were carried out in 110 localities in the United States. This work, with activities carried over from the previous year, required the expenditure in the United States of $397,468.04 by the American Red Cross, its Chapters and Branches. In the emergency following the defeat of the Greek forces in Turkey and the burning of the city of Smyrna, which entailed the relief of nearly 900,000 men, women and children, Red Cross National Headquarters expended $2,605,696.09. The food distributed in Greece aggregated 25,000 tons; garments, 809,000; blankets, 48,550; new shoes, 5,000 pairs; medical, hospital and sanitary supplies, 304 tons. In the feeding of the refugees there was listed upwards of 32,000 children under three years of age.

The disasters in the United States during the past year reported 240 persons killed, 991 injured, 12,691 rendered homeless. The total property loss was estimated at $20,710,000.

Relief of suffering caused by disasters of such magnitude as to overwhelm the resources of the communities in which they occur is fundamental to the charter of the American Red Cross. In addition to making appropriations from its treasury and assigning trained personnel to relief work, the Red Cross in disaster centralizes and makes more effective relief funds and supplies contributed by the country at large.

Since 1881 the Red Cross has administered more than $20,000,000 for the single purpose of disaster relief. That it may continue to accept the responsibilities which grave emergencies place upon the American Red Cross appeal is made for a nationwide renewal of membership during the annual roll call, which opens on Armistice Day, November 11, and closes on Thanksgiving Day, November 23.

Life Saving Work Of Red Cross Corps Wars on Drownings

The insignia of the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps on the bathing apparel of men, women and youths is seen everywhere at favorite bathing places along the coasts, rivers, lakes and ponds. In its unrelenting campaign to reduce loss of life by drowning the Red Cross is making constant headway. The demands for instruction from organizations in all parts of the country were so numerous the past year that it was necessary to more than double the staff of Red Cross instructors. This work of training for water life-saving showed an enrollment of over 30,000 volunteers enlisted for duty on patrol, for rescue and resuscitation, all competent to instruct others in the standard water-safety methods. The Red Cross by request of the War Department gives water first aid training at the United States Military and Naval academies and in the military training camps for reserve officers and civilians. The four cash prizes awarded by the Red Cross last year for heroic rescues were conferred upon two girls, a boy and a man, indicating that the youths of the country stand well at the top in conserving life along our water courses.

Red Cross Field Of Action Covers All the World

Represented by 93,668 members, the American Red Cross penetrates to nearly every part of the world. The insular and foreign roll call statistics for the past year are a most conclusive manifestation of the Red Cross spirit carried into the most remote lands. In Europe there are 4,088 members; in Turkey, and active in the Constantinople Chapter, 3,545. China has an enrollment of 2,362; Africa, 136; India, 224, and Australia, 29. Even Vladivostok, in frigid Siberia, has a live chapter with 100 members. The Philippine Islands can mobilize 53,747 under the Red Cross banner and Hawaii 7,863. The total funds raised through foreign and insular membership enrollment and sent to national headquarters in Washington amounted to $60,216.54, while an additional $33,350 was forwarded for the endowment fund of the American Red Cross. The high seas roll call in 1922 was an inspiring success. The Navy signed on 4,331 for the Red Cross and the merchant ships 4,141. Of the total membership outside the United States 83,990 are registered with chapters in foreign lands, the insular possessions and dependencies.

"I want to; therefore I can!" is the spirit that spurs the Red Cross workers in well-doing.

DUE TO GLACIERS RED CROSS ADVANCING IN HEALTH CAMPAIGN

Professor's Explanation of Richness of Mid-West Soil.

Areas Which Show Poorer Crops Believed to Have Been Protected From the Ice Floss.

Farmers living in the fertile valley of the Middle West may attribute their rich crop yields, fat swine and excellent butter to the fact that more than 50,000 years ago their acres were covered with ice, says an Associated Press dispatch from Chicago.

This is the gist of the finding of Prof. William H. Haas of the geology department of Northwestern university, who has made a study of the subject, concerning his observations upon Ohio.

Comparing the glaciated section of the continent and the driftless area Professor Haas found that the soils in the two differed. In the glaciated-land the soils are more diversified and of better quality, he states.

"With this asset it is little wonder that the farmer living in the zone which aens ago had been covered with ice, should find himself better off than his brother of the driftless area," says Professor Haas. "This area covers some 10,000 square miles and embraces northwestern Illinois, a small part of Iowa, southwestern Wisconsin and Minnesota."

The geologist, in explaining the action of the ice and why that portion of the earth's surface touched by it should yield to man an abundance of crops, said that the pressure exerted by the glaciers 50,000 years ago crushed the rocks and mixed the dirt as they rolled southward; hence the many soils.

"It is remarkable," said Professor Haas, speaking of Ohio, "to notice how, suddenly, the tall corn will end and be neighbored by stunted stalks and shriveled ears.

"All this is on account of the fact that hundreds of centuries ago some rocks of a particular hardness, able to withstand the onward sweep of the ice fields from the North, deflected the fields, thus leaving the area which the rocks appeared to protect, unglaciated. That, in my opinion at least, accounts for those 10,000 square miles of comparatively poor soil, or, as we geologists say, the driftless area."

Professor Haas stated that the demarcation between the healthy grain and the sickly, stunted grain was so distinct as to form a well-defined line showing the boundary between the glaciated and non-glaciated land.

Professor Haas explained that many authorities do not hold to this view, professing themselves unable to account for the driftless area; others, he said, went so far as to question the existence of the so-called driftless area.

The Northwestern professor declared that the glaciers accomplished three great effects: they cut down the hills and filled in the valleys; they ground up the boulders, and, thirdly, mixed the rocks.

Transplanting Insects' Heads.

A remarkable experiment has been tried at the biological research laboratory of the Vienna Academy of Sciences by Dr. Walter Finkler who, in order to solve certain problems connected with the correlation of body and soul, cut off and exchanged the heads of insects duly narcotized. The head having been lifted out of the thorax socket, was severed from the trunk by a simple stroke of the scissors and transferred to another individual treated in the same manner. The blood thus escaping, which, by the state of narcosis, was reduced to a minimum, immediately closed the edges of the wound and, without any seams or other means of fixation, merely in virtue of its natural adhesion, kept the head in the position most suitable for healing.—Scientific American.

Wifely Supervision.

"I dunno why women want to nag so," complained Mr. Wombat. "What's wrong now?" "There's always something wrong. Either I'm home too late, or I'm home too early. Maybe I got dandruff on my coat collar or soup on my vest. It's this, that and the other. My wife is always finding some flaw." "They mean it for our good, old man," advised his sagacious friend. "A wife wants her husband to appear at his best. To keep him so is a labor of love." "Will it always be that way?" "I fear so. Even if you were an angel your wife might well find a feather misplaced now and then."—Yankers Statesman.

What Next?

After a physical examination by the school nurse, Jane appeared from the mysterious examination room with a pronounced limp.

"Say, what's the matter?" inquired Peg, her chum, anxiously. "Well that nurse in there said I had tonsillitis, a crooked spine and pyorrhea and I thought I might as well limp too," replied Jane nonchalantly.

Explicit.

Howard objected to putting on a certain pair of socks. I said, "Which ones do you want?" He replied: "I want those that I had on the day we went to somewhere."—Exchange.

Extends Service to New Fields and Brings Healing Hope to Remote Sections.

"The supreme opportunity for leadership" for the American Red Cross is its health service. Thus a committee made up of prominent physicians, sanitarians and public health experts, after months of exhaustive study, reported and urged that not only should the Red Cross continue its present service, but should undertake a comprehensive educational campaign along public health lines. The annual report of the American Red Cross, just issued, discloses that it has grasped this opportunity in the fields of public health nursing, instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick, nutrition work, first aid to the injured and in water life-saving.

Health service is fundamentally, historically and practically an important function of the Red Cross, and each year marks its extension into new fields and along broader lines. In the Red Cross Nursing Service there are enrolled nearly 40,000 nurses, 20,000 of whom served during the World War. The past year Red Cross nurses were assigned to duty in isolated sections of Alaska and North Carolina and to work among the fishermen of Penobscot Bay, Me.

The Public Health Nursing Service, inaugurated by the American Red Cross in 1912, which operates chiefly in rural sections untouched by other public health agencies, has 1,038 Red Cross nurses working under the direction of Chapters. This work has won so high a regard that many of the nurses are taken over by the local authorities to maintain health services for their communities. Instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick is noting a steady advance. Since 1914 certificates of proficiency have been given 304,427 women who completed the Red Cross course. In the last year 26,595 certificates were awarded and 65,901 students were under the instruction of 1,054 Red Cross nurses.

The benefits derived from meals balanced to meet each person's peculiar needs is winning widespread recognition through the work of the Red Cross Nutrition Service, particularly in the schools. During the school year 2,688 carried on regular instruction in nutrition, reached more than 150,000 children and adults. More than 2,250 volunteers assisted in this work. Throughout the country 35,283 health meetings were held under Red Cross auspices, attended by approximately 254,500 persons.

The American Red Cross did at once when this crushing earthquake disaster came without warning showed that it was ready on the instant with country-wide team work to carry out quickly and effectively the request of the President to lead the national effort for the relief of the many thousands of sufferers. Preparedness to take the field when relief is needed is a charter duty of the Red Cross. Without a membership enrolled in every community in the land this readiness would be impossible. That is why your dollar membership is most important.

It is imperative that the structure of the American Red Cross be made up of millions of individual units. Opening Armistice Day, November 11, and closing with Thanksgiving Day, November 29, the Roll Call this year will penetrate to the ends of the earth and to the ships sailing the seven seas. The 3,600 Red Cross Chapters in the United States will have their busy volunteers enrolling members during this period imbued with renewed enthusiasm due to the recent revival of effort when the call came from Japan.

Annual Summons to Red Cross Banner On Armistice Day

America's great humanitarian effort in behalf of stricken Japan early in September gave the answer to the question, "What is there for the Red Cross to do in time of peace?" What the American Red Cross did at once when this crushing earthquake disaster came without warning showed that it was ready on the instant with country-wide team work to carry out quickly and effectively the request of the President to lead the national effort for the relief of the many thousands of sufferers. Preparedness to take the field when relief is needed is a charter duty of the Red Cross. Without a membership enrolled in every community in the land this readiness would be impossible. Persistent Bees.

For 20 years a swarm of bees have occupied the back of the school clock at Micheldever, England, and no attempt at removing them has been successful, states a resident of that town. The swarm had been thought destroyed some years ago and the entrance the bees had made was cemented up, but each year they have returned, and they even bored a new hole through the cement.

On Santa Fe Trail.

"Give me that roll of tape, sweetheart," a camper said to his wife at Tourists' park one morning. "That's the way with you," she retorted. "When you want me to do something, it's 'sweetheart,' and any other time it's just plain old Sue. Go get your own tape!"—Emporia Gazette.

Stagnant Spots in Ocean.

The Sargasso sea is almost the resting center of the whirl of the ocean currents in the north Atlantic. The seaweed comes from distant shores, where it has been wrenched off by the force of the currents. There are four other great weed-hampered areas of little motion beside the Sargasso sea.

Origin of Crests.
The Carolans are credited as being the originators of crests. Richard I of England wore a crest on his helmet like a plume of feathers. In the Fifteenth century the crest was described as a figure on a coronet.

The Law and the Railroads

Railroad recovery in Michigan—the "Better Service" you hear about and enjoy—is being provided you despite the severe handicaps imposed by a multitude of special laws.

Such laws have established certain governmental bodies entirely separate and without co-ordination. These bodies fix our rates for carrying freight and passengers—pass judgment on all of our security issues and other financing—specify the working hours of our employes and the wages we must pay them—limit our profits, when there ARE profits, to a small and definite maximum—have full jurisdiction over our tax assessments—restrict rigidly our methods of competition—hedge about, with a multitude of restrictions, every department of our operations.

Michigan's 24 steam railroads honestly try to obey every one of these laws. We do not even ask for a lightening of this load. But we do maintain that this present burden should NOT be INCREASED.

We are furnishing you today the best transportation you have ever had. With conditions unchanged, we can see our way clear to still further improving our service.

Give us a square deal—an honest chance.

And let this Association know you consider this a reasonable request.

REVERENSES.

One of the hardest things to understand is how the fellow who used to ride to work on a street car—and got there on time—now seems to think he has to drive past all the street cars in town to get down to work at the same hour.

FIRE LOSS VISUALIZED.

It has been graphically calculated that the timber destroyed annually in the United States by preventable fires is the equivalent of enough lumber to build five-room bungalows 50 feet apart on both sides of a street reaching from New York to Chicago.

CREDITABLE RECORD IN THE SCHMIDT HERD

Four creditable records for the production of butter were made recently in the herd of Carl E. Schmidt of Oscoda, Michigan, by his purebred Holstein cows according to an official announcement made by the advanced registry office of the Holstein Frieian Association of America.
 At the age of two years and eleven months Dora Riverside Colantha, produced 628.8 pounds milk containing 23.125 pounds butterfat equal to 28.90 pounds butter in seven days.
 Queen Segis of Serradella, produced 676.3 pounds milk containing 20.376 pounds butterfat equal to 25.47 pounds butter in seven days, she is four years and five months of age.
 Huron Hill Pontiac Sarcastic, age three years and four months produced 495.4 pounds milk containing 16.791 pounds butterfat equal to 20.98 pounds in seven days. In thirty days she produced 1061.3 pounds milk containing 32.649 pounds butterfat equal to 208.1 pounds butter.
 Testing for the advanced registry is one of the two chief agencies for improving the capacity of dairy cows. The other is the cow testing association. The latter aids the farmer-dairy man to size up his herd, cull out the undesirable animals and put his dairy on a paying basis. The former, testing a purebred cows for advanced registry, sorts out the most desirable cows and bulls for the improvement of the breed. Purebred bulls from cows holding advanced registry records are in demand for the further improvement of dairy herds in cow testing associations.

Jealous Spaniards Hid Wives.

The so-called Venetian blinds first came to Venice from Spain, where they were called "jealousies." The jealous Spanish husband kept his wife in seclusion. She was not allowed to draw up her blinds, but she might peep out through the slits between the laths.

Mistaken Identity.

A young millionaire showed a black eye to a beautiful film star, and said, reproachfully: "Why did you knock me down when I kissed you in the dark conservatory?" "Forgive me, dear one," the beautiful star explained. "I thought it was my husband."
