We understand that the League season has been split in two, beginning last Sunday, so Tawas City finished the first half of the season in last place.

Last Sunday our boys went to Standish to play the team there and had a very exciting time. No umpire showed up so the first game of seven innings was played to take care of the advertising and A. E. Whiting was prevailed upon to umpire. He did the job in a very acceptable manner, not getting razzed any more than is usual at any game.

Tawas City batted Blakely out of the box in the third and managed to get twelve men around in the game. Rahl held Standish to two hits but his and his mates wildness allowed them five runs.

No umpire showed up for the second game and Mr. Whiting refused to tackle "the game that counted," so the Standish management found it necessary to draft the city baker, Mr. Hazzebraim, for the job. His bread

BIG DAY AT SAND LAKE

The Baptist Union Picnic of the vicinity was well attended and the beautiful day and inspiring program were much enjoyed. Seven Sunday schools were well represented. One was stalled with tire trouble somewhere on the way. Tawas City, Hemlock Road, Reno, Hale, Prescott, Twining and Goodar were on hand. After lunch the water soon began to splash and the air filled with yells and squeals of delighted boys and girls.

The chief speaker was C. G. Crozer M. D. of Assam. He cited instances in his experience as corner for the British government in which he had made medical examination of British subjects who had been scalped by wild native people and showed how the same natives afterwards receiving Christianity became so zealous in its propagation that they consecrated over one eighth of their income to carry its message to other needy tribes. A very interesting account of work among women and children was given by Mrs. Crozer and by Miss Florence Latter and the Sunday school workers were earnestly and pointedly addressed by Mr. Davis of Indian, Lake and Rev. Davis of Tawas City. But nothing moistened the eyes more than the prayer of little Willma Allen of Hale.

It was decided that the assembly should meet again about the same time and the same place next year.

PRESCOTTS REMODEL DISPLAY WINDOWS

Monday morning Rudolph Stark commenced the work of remodeling the display windows in the C. H. Prescott & Sons building. This improvement has been under consideration for some time and when completed will give the stores occupying this building fine windows for the display of their goods.

The improvement consists in the lowering of the present windows to within eight inches from the floor and placing prism glass windows above the plate glass. This will not only give the store front a more pleasing appearance; but will light the interior of the sales rooms to a better advantage.

Behind Big Fair

GEO. W. DICKINSON

In cold December you will find him thinking, talking, breathing, living a bigger, better fair next year and—always is. He is George W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the Michigan state fair.

OUTDOOR HOME BUILT BY MICHIGAN BEES IS MOVED TO STATE FAIR

One of the annual attractions at the coming State Fair, Detroit, August 29 to September 7, will be an outdoor home built by bees on a cluster of wild grape vines, the work of a new swarm of bees who could find no hollow tree, box or hive for a home.

These bees were found by two hunters in White Lake township, Oakland county, and the sight is so rare that the home has been given a place in the Apiary department of the seventy-fifth exposition.

Farmers interested in bee-keeping and its possibilities will find E. B. Tyrrell, superintendent of the Apiary department college ready to answer all questions pertaining to this industry.

A great deal of work in bee raising is being done in Michigan now by the Department of Agriculture and there will be a representative of the United States director of Apiary, Inspection at the fair.

AN EXPLANATION

Mr. Editor:
 Fairness and correct understanding seem to require of me an explanation to the people of Hale and Renos district respecting Sunday funerals. First it is not true that I refused to conduct a service last Sunday as some supposed. Nor is it true that I am one who signed a recent communication to the Herald on the subject, as some affirmed. I am however heartily in accord with those who desire so to regulate the management of funerals that they will not needlessly disorganize other Sunday work.

The feelings of the bereaved friends whose sorrow we would alleviate, are of prime importance, the convenience of the undertaker whose calls can not be controlled are to be duly weighed, but even these and the preacher's preferences are not the whole matter. The preacher is the minister of a body with whom he has contract to do work, much of which inevitably falls on Sunday. This work is of prime importance as church and minister understand. But their view of this is not shared by all members of the community, and here lies perhaps the main divergence.

Yet constrained by the very spirit and genius of their calling the churches and their ministers in spite of this difference of appreciation, are aiming to serve the highest interest of the whole community in every legitimate and practicable way. The present writer and those he serves are willing to and constantly are adjusting Sunday services so as to meet the needs and wishes of the people even to the entire omission of regular preaching services, when real necessity demands it. And the rest of the churches I should judge are of substantially the same mind.

It flatters neither church nor non-church people if the two parties, the one the professed dispensers of good will in the community and the others no other spirit, can not get near enough together and long enough, to see one another's point of view and arrive at a complete understanding on this very tender subject that is so vital to us all and which only a little side, is left for us to execute, the rest of it being determined by a higher power.

This will make sufficiently clear what my attitude in general is to any one who may care to know.
 Respectfully,
 Joshua Roberts.

Costliest Saxophones To Tool and Groan At 75th Michigan Fair
 No fair is a fair without plenty of good music, according to G. W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the Michigan State Fair, and so Cervone and his famous band will reappear at the opening of the Seventy-Fifth Annual State Fair, Detroit, August 29 to September 7. They will play every afternoon and evening.
 State Fair goes last year will remember Cervone, who comes this year with new talent and new music, not forgetting the old popular numbers, whose strains drifting out over the big fair grounds give a spirit to the state fair at night that isn't duplicated.
 Besides Cervone one of the big musical attractions will be Joe Thomas and his Saxo-tette with that lively groaning-jazz that has been called typically American. The Thomas players play on what are said to be the most costly saxophones made.

STATE FAIR READY FOR BOYS' SCHOOL

BIG PROGRAM FOR THE YOUNG AWAITS OPENING DAY AUGUST 29

GIRLS WELL REPRESENTED IN CLUB COMPETITIONS

Michigan boys and girls will have a bigger place than ever in the Seventy-fifth Annual State Fair from the opening August 29 to the close September 7, according to G. W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the fair, under whose direction the Michigan State Fair has passed all others in its work with boys and girls.

First, there will be the Boys' State Fair School, which has come to be recognized by fair men over the country as one of the most important works ever started by a fair. There will be one boy from every county, selected in competitive examination based largely on his knowledge of farming.

At the State Fair school he will be given an opportunity to learn the latest methods in farming. He will be given a broader view of the possibilities of Michigan farming and he will learn things and get an outlook that may be priceless to him in after years.

One of the things G. W. Dickinson looks after personally is this school. He inspects the little city of tents that the boys live in, sees to it that they mix fun and work and that they are generally cared for. The school is only one phase of the part youth plays in the Seventy-fifth Annual State Fair. We get an idea of this, and the fact that girls are not neglected, from the total of $4,586 to be awarded in cash prizes in the Boys' and Girls' Club department of the fair.

Obelisks Misnamed

The name "Cleopatra's Needles" is improperly given to two famous obelisks erected by Thothmes III, at On (Heliopolis) about 1500 B. C., and brought to Alexandria by Augustus about 23 B. C., to add to the beauty of the city. One of these granite monoliths now stands on the Victoria embankment in London, while the other is in Central park, New York.

TAWAS CITY—STANDISH GAME

is no doubt good to swallow but it sure was hard work swallowing some of the decisions he mixed up for the Tawas boys. It wouldn't have been so bad if he had confined himself to calling decisions but when his snap judgement brought forth kicks from the Tawas boys he added flourishes that sure were good. Jackson curved one of his quick breaks over the plate that Mr. City Baker called a ball and when Rahl asked him what was the matter with it he allowed that "It wasn't where you caught 'em but where they went", that decides the question. He called a strike on Pearsall that was up to the button of his cap and when Duell kicked he remarked that the only difference between you fellows and Oscoda is twenty-two miles. So Oscoda can't be in the good graces of the baker either. Jack Johnson poled out a three base hit in the fourth, having stopped sliding after hitting the bag while the third baseman was just getting a high throw from the outfielder, but he had to get up and go to the bench to suit his honor.

We have been getting as poor an article of umpiring this year as has ever been seen since the old North-eastern Michigan was organized but the one last Sunday sure "has the cake."

Uses an Empty Shell

The hermit crab, says Nature Magazine, protects itself by inserting its abdomen into some empty shell which it carries about in all of its wanderings.

Tobacco Far North

Tobacco may be grown in every part of Canada, even north of the 55th degree, a bulletin of the Canadian Pacific railway announces. The tobacco plants are grown as are cabbage. When it is felt certain that the last spring frost has occurred, the plants are set out. One Alberta farmer, living well above the 55th degree, has never failed to produce a crop.

The Red + Pharmacy

Listen my good people, and you shall hear,
A story of how Baby Rice Pop Corn is made.
First of all, the pan is heated, then the corn is added.
Over the corn is then poured good butter and salt (iodine salt)
The little man next turns the crank and out rolls those nice fluffy kernels of equally buttered pop corn.
The kind that melts in the mouth and!
But come in and try it for yourself in either 5c bags or 10c box containers.
