FINAL NUMBER OF LYCEUM COURSE FRIDAY, FEB. 20

The last number of the Lyceum course, which has been sponsored by the Twentieth Century club of this city, will be given Friday evening Feb. 20 at the Auditorium. The ladies of the club should be commended for securing the course this season for the numbers were filled with excellent talent and the programs were pleasing and entertaining.

The Marion Male Quartette which will appear here Saturday evening, is primarily a vocal organization and can give a program of musical merit as a vocal quartet alone, but the members of the quartette being exceptionally versatile, they enhance the program with instrumental renditions and readings.

The marimbaphone selections of the Marion Quartette are particularly pleasing, since the numbers they use are specially arranged for this instrument. In a combination of piano, saxophone, banjo and marimbaphone they demonstrate their instrumental ability to a high degree.

Four seasons together in Lyceum and Chautauqua work have made the Marion Quartette an outstanding entertainment attraction.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl
By HELEN ROWLAND

MOST of a man's troubles in life are caused, not by love, but by his mistakes in diagnosing it. Most men are so apt to confuse the symptoms of spring fever with the symptoms of the love fever.

Of course, a man doesn't believe everything flattering that a woman tells him; but that doesn't lessen the effect with which he repeats it to the next woman.

The first deception wounds a woman's heart, the second breaks it, the third mends it—and all the rest simply harden it.

One reason why a bachelor grows so morose in his old age is that he goes all through life with his heart bumping along on skid-chairs.

Some husbands act as though they believed that all the compliments in the world were copyrighted, and it would be dangerous to use them.

A man who divorces his conscience, and a woman who divorces the conventions are the highest alimony payers in the world.

A woman often plans how she will "make a man suffer"; but a man can make a woman suffer just by acting naturally.

The motto of the flapper appears to be, "First come, first kissed."

By his genial personality and pointed, earnest, passionate appeals he has already captured his hearers and the interest steadily grows. We trust that those who have not been out to do so at the earliest opportunity, as some will begin to realize what they are missing when the series is almost over. Why Man Fails

If a man had the persistency of the housefly, the driving power of the zigger and the ability of the mosquito to dodge the avenging hand he could succeed as a politician, a professor and a bigamist.—Louisville Times.

Through the Glad Eyes of a Woman

By Jane Doe

YOUNG LOVE

I TAKE a text for my little piece this day from a wise man. And I address it to all young lovers. "There can be no improvement in morals until we revert to the old-fashioned practice of youthful marriage."

Thus, an eminent physican. How true!

There is nothing half so sweet in life as love's young dream.

All those young things I have heard bemoaning their cruel fate because they are not in a position to collect household gods and goddesses, including Cupid, generally want to commence their hymeneal partnership on the same comfortable plane as that on which their parents are now living. I think this is silly.

There are few experiences more thrilling than to start life from rock-bottom as 'twere, and climb steadily upwards with the help of each other to a state of security and ease which is all the sweeter because you have both sweated to secure it.

Well, maybe your girl refuses to marry now because she wants to start life where her father left off, or because you haven't got that expected raise, or because she's frightened at the responsibilities and ties of motherhood and matrimony.

You can tell her from me, she's a ninny.

You can also tell your girl from me that it has sweet prizes—to the deserving—which are undreamed of by those who won't or who can't take a chance and venture it.

And you remind her that it is the youthful love which has the greatest possibilities of long life and health.

Youth with its wonderful buoyancy of spirits, its magic well-springs of hope, its engaging outlook on life and work and love.

Tell her that there is nothing more dear than the spectacle of a Pa and Ma and Baby all groying up together!

She will never know such fun until she marries. She will never know what happiness is until she has a baby all her own.

And you, sir, instead of evenings spent at stuffy cinemas, or afternoons wiled away jammed like a sardine at the baseball match, will be able to stay at home in your own young nest, playing at "mothers and fathers" in real earnest.

I see, by the way, that someone is lamenting because nobody has invented a game in which both players can win.

Well, "mothers and fathers" is one, at any rate.

UNSHAKEN

EINSTEIN and all the scientists Who analyze all mundane mistis May prate of this, and prate of that. As though they knew what they were at. And maybe all they say is true. And very good for me and you. But spite of all these fellows' wise With deeply penetrating eyes, If man be vapor, flesh, or wine, It never stirs that faith of mine That in the end, beyond the gates, A God of loving purpose waits Our coming when our course is run To share the glories we have won.

MAIL CARRIER IS LOST IN FOREST, LEGS ARE FROZEN

Wanders Four Days in Dense Woods Suffering From Cold and Hunger.

Fort William, Ont.—Another epic drama of the Northwest was unfolded as Steve Denoski, a mail carrier, dragged himself into the Twin Falls lumber camp, his legs frozen and nearly dead from exposure and hunger of four days of wandering in a dense forest.

A doctor amputated both legs below the knee, and later shortened one leg at the hip.

May Survive Shock.

Only the man's excellent physique and his astounding fortitude brought him out of the forest alive. He has a slim chance to survive, doctors say.

Denoski, a mail carrier for the New Ontario Construction company, became lost 40 miles east of the Soo lookout.

Become Numb With Cold.

Off the beaten trail he decided to take a short cut instead of retracing his steps as a more experienced woodsman would have done. Owing to the darkness he lost his way and wandered all night, apparently in circles.

All the next day he wandered about, hoping to locate a trail or cabin. Late in the afternoon he lay on a sunny hillside exhausted, and slept a little. Weakened from lack of food he roused himself and kept going.

Tortured by Hunger.

Without means of making a fire he became numb with cold. Occasionally he saw a rabbit which he had no means of killing or capturing. Hunger tortured, he kept on in what seemed to him an interminable tramp.

Striking off in a direction he thought was northward, he hoped to find the Canadian National railway tracks. On and on he went. Too exhausted to walk, he crawled. His legs and feet were frozen then, but with indomitable courage he pulled himself along the snow-covered ground with his hands. Finally he came upon an old logging road and managed to scramble into the Twin Falls Lumber company camp.

Shakespeare as an Actor

In the list of the principal actors of Shakespeare's plays, prefixed to the folio, the first collection of his plays, published in 1623, the name of the famous dramatist is placed first. He was an actor by profession, but the extent to which he acted in his own productions is not clear. He is said to have impersonated Adam in "As You Like It" and "The Merchant of Venice."

Airedale Blocks Escape of $3,500,000 Robbers

Kansas City, Kans.—An airedale pup prevented the escape from the Wyandotte county jail here of Fred E. Profenberger and Keith Collins, principals in the $3,500,000 Council Bluffs (Iowa) mail robbery in 1920.

When the dog caused Sheriff Maher to start an investigation he found the prisoners had burrowed almost through the 14-inch brick wall which separated their second-floor cell from the jail yard. A slight push would have eliminated the outer bricks and liberated the men, the sheriff said.

In the cell, Maher found an iron bar and several sharp pieces of iron, which had been used to penetrate the wall. Two gas pipes, wrapped with a padding of silk thread, also were found. Maher said he investigated when the dog kept barking constantly at the wall outside the cell.

New Fish Story

Arnolds Park, Iowa—Harry Tennant and Guy Rickman, both of this place, caught an eight-pound goldfish while seining "soft" fish from Minnewashta lake, recently. This fish was of the carp variety and was of a bright orange hue, with a few small black spots near the head—an exaggerated replica of the little goldfish many people keep as ornaments in small glass bowls. The last time such a fish was found in these lakes, according to Mr. Rickman, was 15 years or more ago.

'Ware Uncle Sam

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Mail boxes are expensive playthings, John Regier, who knocked over one of them, found out when he came to the reckoning in Federal court here. He was fined $500 by Judge R. L. Williams, and told that rough stuff didn't go with mail boxes. "As boys, all of us did worse things," said Judge Williams, "but we never ran up against Uncle Sam."

GOOD WEATHER MARKS FARM WEEK MEETINGS

The weather man chose to deal leniently with visitors at M. A. C.'s annual Farmers Week this year, serving up bright, sunny days most of the week. As a result, what is estimated as the largest crowd in the history of the big winter conference at East Lansing gathered for the various meetings from February 2 to 6.

From Monday noon, when the first of the associations began group meetings, until Friday, when the Farm Bureau and the Michigan Press Association lingered over for the final chapter, the week was full of events of interest.

With more than 30 association meetings, a half dozen special exhibits buildings, daily afternoon and evening programs of general interest to the whole list of guests, and various special entertainment features sandwiched in between, the Farmers Week list of events proved too complex to permit of complete recounting.

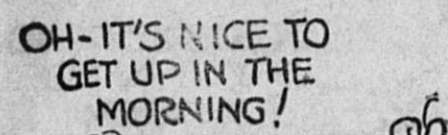

No one visitor could take in more than a small percentage of the activities scheduled. It was a case of "pick and choose" with plenty of variety on the bill of fare.

Among the many prominent speakers who addressed the general meetings were Dr. William Evans, health editor, Chicago Tribune; Hon. John C. Ketchum; Bishop Francis J. McConnell; S. Parkes Cadman of New York; Huston Thompson, chairman Federal Trade Commission; President Kenyon L. Butterfield of M. A. C.; L. Whitney Watkins and Mrs. Dora Stockman, state board of agriculture, and many others.

Community development proved a central theme for many of the addresses, the idea of family life betterment in the rural districts standing out through most of the general meetings.

Cannibal Ancestors

The discovery of a pile of human bones dating from the Neolithic period—at least 6,000 years ago—in a cave near Auch, in the south of France, has given rise to the theory that prehistoric men at that period were undoubtedly cannibals. The bones all bear marks of having been gnawed, and apparently from the remains of some gigantic cannibal.

GENEVIEVE

GENEVIEVE signifies "white wave." It has the same origin as Gwen, which is considered the British Venus. The planet is Seren-Wener, a morning star, Gwen as an evening star. Teutonic etymologists have tried to construe Genevieve as a combination of gan (magic) and vaips (a crown), but without success.

History has established the fact that the first Genevieve was a Gaul born at Nanterre in 422 and could scarcely have been given anything but a Celtic or a Roman name, and the whole family of Gwen were dear to the Cymric race, whose religion was the same as the Gauls' and Britons'.

Genevieve was a shepherdess like Joan of Arc, who anticipated her deeds of patriotism, though she wore no armor and carried no sword. When Paris was besieged by the Franks she walked forth unarmed in search of provisions and her heroism so impressed the savage Franks, that they granted her entreaties that the wounded be spared. When she died she was erected into the primary patron saint of Paris and is adored as such by all Parisiennes down from Anne Genevieve de Bourbon. The Teutons have a Salat Genevieve of Brabant, to whom has attached the story of the wife who was driven by malicious accusation to the woods where she gave birth to an infant and was nourished by a white doe until her innocence was proven.

The French use Genevieve, also Ja-votte, and Genevion; Italy makes her Genoveffa; Germany, Genovefa, Vevay and Vefe; and Russia, Zeneviva.

Her talismanic stone is amber, which is said to ward off illness and bad luck. Monday is her lucky day and 5 her mystic number.

Coleridge wrote a charming lyric to Genevieve:

Maid of my love, sweet Genevieve,
In beauty's light you glide along;
Your eye is like the star of eve,
And sweet your voice as seraph's song.
Yet not your heavenly beauty gives
This heart with passion soft to glow;
Within your soul a voice there lives,
It bids you hear the tale of woe, etc.

FUNERAL 60 YEARS AFTER HIS 'DEATH'

Confederate Captain Lives to Deny His Demise.

Richmond, Va.—How Capt. J. J. Geisler, veteran of the Civil war, erroneously reported slain, was buried 60 years after his "death," is being told by Capt. W. Frank Smyth, state accountant, who as a ten-year-old youth was detailed to inform the family of the casualty.

Captain Geisler died recently at ninety-three. While leading his company of Confederate cavalry in a brisk encounter near Lynchburg 60 years ago, two Federal soldiers whacked him across the forehead with their sabers, making a complete cross. The report spread that he had no chance to recover and his death was accepted as fact.

"The tears were streaming down my face when I appeared at the captain's home near Saltville and broke the news," said Captain Smyth. "While I was there a man suddenly appeared on a horse, riding slowly and sitting perfectly straight in the saddle. It was Captain Geisler. He was a sight, and it took him a long time to recover, but he lived to a ripe old age, carrying those crosslike scars with him to the end."

Gunman Goes 50-50 With Disabled Vet He Robs

Detroit, Mich.—A nice 100 per cent American robber held up Alexander Kopsky, disabled war veteran.

There was a residue in him of the expansive pride a nation felt in the A. E. F. when the transports were outward bound and casualty lists grew dismayingly longer.

Kopsky was a restaurant. He and his wife, Clara, were on duty early in the morning when the armed caller appeared.

"Up with them!" he said.

They upped them. As the former soldier did so his coat sleeve slid down and his shirt sleeve followed, revealing a forearm jaggedly scarred.

The holdup man took time out to inspect this relic of war days.

"How did you get that?" he inquired.

"Over in France," said Kopsky, ironically. "Still got a couple of pieces of shell in the old souper." The thug pondered a moment. Then he went to the cash register and replaced some of the money.

"I'll split with you," he said, as he left, "I'm sorry to have to do this, but I'll go fifty-fifty, buddy. That's probably better than you get sometimes in France."

Eight Adrift at Sea

53 Hours in Yawl

Boston.—A story of shipwreck, long exposure in an open boat, hunger and thirst, was told by Mrs. L. B. Bishop of Malden, sea-going wife of the skipper of the schooner Susan B.

With Miss Katherine Woodworth, her eighteen-year-old niece, Captain Bishop, John Bishop, their son, who was the schooner's mate, and three members of the crew, the sixty-year-old woman, who had been at sea for 27 years, was landed here after her first shipwreck, by the steamer City of Atlanta, which had picked up the party from a yawl off the Virginia capes.

The seven, huddled in the open boat for 53 hours, with food destroyed by salt water, attracted the attention of their rescuers by waving a blanket. Three times other vessels passed them, their lookouts failing to see them.

"We could not have stood it much longer," Mrs. Bishop said.

Stories that Miss Woodworth had kept the spirits of the shipwrecked ones alive by song had preceded her ashore. But this she disclaimed. "How could one sing under such circumstances? But we did try to be brave," was her remark.

Widow Is Lashed With Whip byirate Woman

Newark, N. J.—Mrs. A. Eitner of Irvington, N. J., accompanied by three men, horsewhipped Mrs. Rose Donahue, a widow, on a street here, according to a complaint charging atrocious assault filed in the police court by Mrs. Donahue.

The complainant said Mrs. Eitner and the men accosted her a block from her home as she was on her way to work and that, without warning, Mrs. Eitner drew a horsewhip from under her coat and struck her face, neck and body. The four then fled, she said.

Battles Deer

San Antonio, Texas.—J. T. Hall of Uvalde recently dehorned a full-grown pet deer which he had raised. Later when Hall went into the lot he was attacked by the buck, which knocked him down and trampled him severely before his daughter came to his assistance, hitting the deer in the head several times with a hammer.

The buck refused to give up the fight until Hall's wife appeared with a rifle and shot it.

Boy Chases Burglar

Millbury, Mass.—Fourteen-year-old Dudley Van Ostrand, discovering a burglar in the home of his grandfather, George W. Dudley, president of the Millbury Savings bank, calmly fetched his .22-caliber rifle and drove the thief from the house. Silverware worth several thousand dollars, which the thief dropped in his flight, was recovered.

'Evidence in Mitigation' Reduces Penalty for Lively Episode at Party.

Chicago.—"Evidence in mitigation" reduced the penalty meted out to Mrs. Francis Butterfield by Judge John A. Bugee of the Sheffield avenue police court for shooting up a party where her husband was a guest, to a mere $25 fine and a day in the house of correction.

"No, your honor," testified her husband, in contradiction of his previous statement that Mrs. Butterfield had taken exception to the number of times he had fox-trotted with Caroline Rehmer.

"No, your honor, it wasn't anything like that. Caroline's a dancing teacher and my wife wouldn't take a shot at me just for picking up a few new steps. You see, your honor, it was like this. There was a party—"

The party, according to the police who broke it up, occurred so late Saturday as to be early Sunday, in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mulder, on the floor below the Butterfield menage.

"Mrs. Butterfield didn't shoot up the place very badly," Mrs. Mulder testified, with the tact of the perfect hostess. "All she did to me was to chase me into the kitchen and beat me up."

Punched His Nose.

"And all she did to me," Mrs. Butterfield's hostess concurred, "was to punch my nose."

"She only threw a bridge lamp at me," said Frank Keller, one of the guests.

"She hit me with the shade," added Clarence Gariard, another guest.

It was at this point, testimony revealed, that Mrs. Butterfield, feeling the inadequacy of her weapons, went home for her automatic.

She returned to the portal of the Mulder apartment, only to have it inhospitably slammed in her face by Miss Rehmer.

It was necessary, Mrs. Butterfield explained to the court, to shoot through the door to let those within know that she wished to enter.

Police, who arrived presently, claim that Mrs. Butterfield was extravagant in firing a total of 13 shots.

Total casualties from the fray being shown to be only Mrs. Butterfield's brooch and housekey, Mr. Butterfield's diamond ring (slightly injured) and the Mulder bridge lamp (a complete wreck), the court was lenient. All but Mrs. Butterfield were discharged.

Convict Survives With Three Stitches in Heart

Moundsville, W. Va.—A life convict at the West Virginia penitentiary is alive today, due to a surgical operation performed by prison physicians who used three stitches to close a gash in his heart.

The convict, Roscoe Caldwell, a negro, was stabbed in the left chest with a pair of scissors by another convict and the blade penetrated the lung and slashed the heart. The stabbing occurred six months ago and the other day Caldwell was discharged from the hospital and returned to prison.

Wits Save Life

Andover, Mass.—Ellsworth G. Rood cheated death by his presence of mind when his clothing became caught in whirling shafting in the mill where he is employed.

Rood, instead of struggling to disengage himself and risking certain death by being flung against the ceiling, wrapped his arms around the shaft, flattening himself against it. He was dropped to the floor only slightly injured when his clothing, with the exception of the neckband of his shirt and his shoes, had been torn from him.

Husky Old Timer

Augusta, Maine.—J. D. Cameron is one hundred years old and can shoulder a barrel of potatoes. He does it every few days just to help out in his son's grocery store and to keep young Cameron can lift a man and hold him aloft. He attributes his strength and longevity to a life in the woods for 40 years.
