U. S. AIRPLANES STAGE BATTLE NEAR ALPENA

The Oscoda-Alpena "sector" was effectively defended from the attacks of a theoretical invader in the winter maneuvers of the First Pursuit group of the United States air forces held here last week. This is the first expedition of the kind ever held where the air forces worked independent of land forces and land transportation and a widespread interest was taken in the maneuvers.

An eye witness gives the following description of the "air battle" over Thunder bay:

"The maneuvers reached a high point of interest on Wednesday of last week when a battle was staged on Thunder Bay near Alpena with all the maneuvers of modern warfare.

"First came two couriers who hovered, alighted for a few moments and then scurried back to the base at Van Etnan Lake. Within an hour a dozen tiny specks could be seen in the air to the southward. As these drew nearer they appeared as a flock of birds, and, as they drew nearer the details of the planes could be seen.

"Over Thunder Bay and over the city of Alpena they raced in battle formation. Two swift-moving pursuit groups, flying low, in 'V' formation ducking, twisting, turning, swooping. These were the fighters. Higher up floated the heavier, slower observation planes and bombers. These maneuvers continued for an hour, when, the enemy theoretically on the ice of Thunder Bay, later taking the air and returning to their temporary base at Van Etnan Lake.

"Watching the planes over Alpena Wednesday, and remembering that the testimony before the investigating committee at Washington of veteran flyers that anti-aircraft guns scored one hit in thousands of shots, there was only one conclusion, and that was that these ships, fighting with gas bombs could have wiped out every living thing in Alpena in ten minutes, including all the anti-aircraft batteries that could be placed there. And the thought that these planes were operated from a base 200 miles distant, and covering a territory extending to the straits must be kept in the foreground."

The base of operations was at Selfridge field while the field headquarters were at Van Etnan lake. All supplies were brought from the main base by air, and the planes from Van Etnan defended the entire "line of warfare" from Mt. Clemens to the straits of Mackinac. Ter pursuit planes, (over one-half of the entire pursuit force of the United States) three observation planes and three giant Martin bombers made up the forces that took part in the affray.

On Thursday evening the Aerofans of Oscoda entertained Major T. G. Lanphier, his fellow officers and men. A dinner was served by the Rebekah ladies and a program was given in honor of the flyers at the Auditorium.

The effectiveness of the air service which was proven during the Great War, was again demonstrated here last week. Many people here have expressed themselves as believing that the United States, the pioneer nation in aviation, should not fall behind in the use of this most effective arm of defense, and that the government should adequately provide for the air forces. While there are certain natural conditions which tend to minimize the effectiveness of attacking planes, and certain ground defenses which can be used with effect upon an enemy air squadron, it was proven thousands of times to the Allied Powers in the Great War that no nation could hope to successfully cope with an enemy amply provided with properly equipped planes without an efficient air force of its own.

The First Pursuit group are scheduled to leave for Miami, Florida, in a dawn-to-dark trip. This emphasizes the amazing mobility of the plane.

Sunday school, 11:15 a. m., Tawas City.
Sunday evening, 7:30 p. m., Tawas City. Subject: "The Penitent Thief."
Thursday evening, 7:30 p. m., Tawas City—Bible study and training class.
Thursday evening, 8:15 p. m., Tawas City—Epworth league.

These are the meetings for the people, and you will receive a most hearty welcome to any or all of them, and you cannot go wrong by at least coming to see for yourself what the meetings really are like.

The sermon for the morning is another one on "The Life of Jesus Christ," and from what the people say about them they are really good. The one for the evening I think is the very best in the series of the remarkable conversions of the Bible. If you are a real lover of the Bible and its contents, then you ought to attend these services. We specialize in the Word of God. Not what the other fellow says, but what the book says. There is only one Bible and it is the one we use.

The Thursday evening meetings are still well attended, and great interest has been taken in both meetings. The Bible study is fine, and then it is followed by the young people's meeting, which is certainly great. Young people come along, we shall be planning for our next month social, and you don't want to forget the great time we had at the last one, and we are certainly going one better the next time. I might say that the Clarion Call, our little monthly paper is ready for March, and will be given out on Sunday in church, you be sure to be there to get one, and then you will see what is doing next month.

Knew Only One Eagle

The fathers of the American republic decided upon an eagle as an emblem, and unfortunately the species known to them was the sea or bald eagle, feathered only to the knees, and a "piratical parasite of the osprey." The golden eagle, to which a change has been made on the coins of the country, is feathered to the toes.
