ARBOR DAY

In view of the especial effort of Michigan's conservation department and other agencies to create new forests where they once flourished, additional emphasis is this year given to Arbor Day. The one purpose of the observance is to create as much interest as possible in the extreme necessity of tree planting. Human existence to a very great extent depends upon our wood covered land. We should never overlook an opportunity to plant trees of all kinds and restore as far as possible the forests of a generation ago.

Therefore I, Alex. J. Groesbeck, as Governor of Michigan, designate Friday, May 1, 1925, as Arbor Day and strongly urge that every community in the state take some part in fulfilling the intent for which the day has been set aside.

*Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the state this thirtieth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five and of the Commonwealth the eighty-ninth.

Alex. J. Groesbeck, Governor.

ASKS FOR MORE CAREFUL SELECTION OF JURORS

Judge A. Widdis last Wednesday morning explained to the new board of supervisors that in preparing jury lists supervisors and township clerks would greatly help in the making of law and order if they would follow the law in selecting jurors. He stated that there appeared for service at every term of court, as jurors, men who were not qualified to sit as such. Some of them were not citizens of the United States; others were not tax payers; others who may have been tax payers did not have their names on the assessment roll; some were more than 65 years of age, or were deaf, or nearly blind; and others were in such poor health as to be unable to serve. All such persons were excused from jury service, but they had to be paid; and whatever was paid to them, usually amounting to about $10.00 each for their per diem and traveling expenses, was a dead loss to the county.

But particularly he dwelt upon the provision of the law requiring supervisors to select persons of good character and of approved integrity. He stated that to send bootleggers in as jurors to try bootleggers was utter nonsense. He pointed out that upon many occasions he had tried bootleggers, knowing full well that there was one or more bootleggers on the jury who, notwithstanding their oath, that they would decide according to the evidence in the case, absolutely would not convict. This applies to persons charged with other crimes, besides bootlegging. He maintained that one of criminal tendencies always will try to shield those of like tendencies, when opportunity permits; and judges are unable to discharge them from service as jurors.

He pointed out that persons who had been members of jury panels during the previous years commencing with the June 1924 term, were not eligible to act as jurors during the forthcoming year or until after April 1926 term. However, all persons whose names were placed upon the jury lists, but who were not drawn as members of any panel during the past year, were eligible for service during the forthcoming year and might be placed upon the lists for this year. The names of those who were drawn for service during the past year can be obtained from the clerk of the court.

Supervisors and township clerks should read the following section in Compiled Laws 1925, third volume, before making up jury lists: Sections 12189, 12190, 12191, 12192, 21207, 12208.

Telephone Operators at the White House in Service Over Twenty Years

There are three White House telephone operators, each of whom is on the staff of the Secretary to the President and has been a White House employee for more than a score of years.

So familiar have these operators become with the voices of the most frequent callers that usually they are able to call them by name before they have had the chance to identify themselves. Of course only a few people are permitted to talk personally with the President. Cabinet members, some of the leaders of the House and Senate and personal friends have their calls put through. But otherwise you are connected with the Secretary to the President or one of the assistant secretaries.

These operators are kept posted as to the whereabouts of the President. They know with whom he is willing to talk and when. Two of these operators alternate in working day and night. One operator works during business hours and the other relieving him remains on duty until midnight, or until the President's family is known to have retired. From midnight until the day operator arrives for duty calls at the switchboard are handled by a White House policeman, who is on duty.

All White House telephone operators are proficient in telegraphy and, in fact, were hired in the beginning as telegraph operators, the handling of the telephone calls being incidental to their other duties. Now the situation, if not entirely so, is almost reversed, as the operation of the switchboard comprises the greater part of their duties.

The President is a believer in the efficiency of the telephone in business and he originates many calls. The switchboard is arranged so as to facilitate the handling of the President's calls in the quickest manner. There are direct lines to the offices of the officials with whom he is most likely to talk frequently as, for example, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Treasury, etc. There is a booth just outside the President's office which he sometimes uses for long distance calls.

Giving the Dairy Cow a Square Deal
News Bureau of Animal Husbandry

A scene on a scientifically conducted midwest dairy farm. (Inset.) Fifth quickly calving on banks of cows kept in poorly tended stables.

There are now 25,375,000 dairy cattle in the United States. Of these, says a recent report, only about one-half are cared for in a manner to enable them to return a fair profit to their owners.

Many a milk cow has been accused of being a "bearder" when the owner had only himself to blame. Unlike human beings, dairy cows never shirk intentionally, and frequent tests reveal that seemingly unimportant details in the care of milk cows have startling effects on milk production.

If you are considering drying up any of your milk herd because you believe them to be unproductive, fill in the questionnaire below for your own satisfaction. If you can write YES as an answer to all of the questions, it is safe to assume that, if your cows are not diseased, they are getting a square deal and therefore ought to repay you generously.

Are you feeding them a properly balanced ration?

If not, or if you are not quite sure of what makes up a properly balanced ration for milk cows, get in touch with your county agent. It will pay you to do this.

Are the stables kept clean—especially during the months you keep the milk cows in?

Clean stables and good ventilation are essential if the cow is to give full returns. Clean gutters, clean bedding and lots of pure air are important.

Has your milk herd access to all the fresh water they will drink? If not, give it to them. Water is cheap, and they will repay you with more and better milk.

Do you keep the cows clean?

Filth adhering to flanks and udders takes money right out of your pocket. Impurities are absorbed into the system. That means more feed or less milk. Milk from a manure-caked cow is unclean and, on a strict interpretation, against the law. In just a few minutes, you can clip the udders, flanks and underlines of the cows. Thereafter, it is only a matter of seconds to wipe off all clinging foreign matter with a damp cloth. Farmers and dairymen who follow this practice say it increases milk flow and enriches the milk. And the cow is certainly more comfortable and contented.

Are you giving your cows a square deal?

CRISMAN-MARX NUPTIALS
About seven-and-a-half relatives and friends assembled at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. McKay, northeast of the village, last Saturday afternoon at three o'clock for the celebration of the nuptials of Miss Laura Hulett Crissman, daughter of Mrs. McKay and the late Jehiel K. Crissman, and Julius Wm. Marx, of Detroit.
It was an ideal day, spring also characterizing the decorations in the house. Huge baskets of pussy willows and spring flowers adorned the rooms. Both the hall and parlors, in which the ceremony took place, were festooned with ropes of green myrtle and clusters of white carnations; white and pink predominated in the dining room.
The bride was very lovely in a gown of white satin en train, with pearl trimming, and wore a most becoming veil of rose point and net. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of white bridal roses.
Mrs. Harold Hartley, of Grand Rapids, who attended the bride as matron of honor, was charming in a gown of white georgette embroidered with pink and carried pink roses.
The groom was attended by Mr. Benjamin Murbach of Detroit.
The bridal party entered to the strains of Mendellshon's wedding march, played by Miss Marie Sprenger of Detroit. Very cunning were the little ribbon bearers, Vera and Billie Sprunk, twins, niece and nephew of the groom, while little Frances Jane Puls was the flower girl.
The impressive marriage ceremony was read by Major Ralph Duff, of Lansing, after which delectable refreshments were served.
The young couple are very popular and well known here. The bride is a graduate of the local high school, and Mr. Marx is also a graduate of the M. A. C. engineering department and is employed as surveyor in Wayne county.
They will be at home at 1635 Calvert avenue, Detroit, after April 11. Guests were present from Detroit, Algonac, Rochester, Alpena, Grand Rapids, Lenox and other places.—Romeo Observer.

McKay, northeast of the village, last Saturday afternoon at three o'clock for the celebration of the nuptials of Miss Laura Hulett Crissman, daughter of Mrs. McKay and the late Jehiel K. Crissman, and Julius Wm. Marx, of Detroit.
It was an ideal day, spring also characterizing the decorations in the house. Huge baskets of pussy willows and spring flowers adorned the rooms. Both the hall and parlors, in which the ceremony took place, were festooned with ropes of green myrtle and clusters of white carnations; white and pink predominated in the dining room.
The bride was very lovely in a gown of white satin en train, with pearl trimming, and wore a most becoming veil of rose point and net. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of white bridal roses.
Mrs. Harold Hartley, of Grand Rapids, who attended the bride as matron of honor, was charming in a gown of white georgette embroidered with pink and carried pink roses.
The groom was attended by Mr. Benjamin Murbach of Detroit.
The bridal party entered to the strains of Mendellshon's wedding march, played by Miss Marie Sprenger of Detroit. Very cunning were the little ribbon bearers, Vera and Billie Sprunk, twins, niece and nephew of the groom, while little Frances Jane Puls was the flower girl.
The impressive marriage ceremony was read by Major Ralph Duff, of Lansing, after which delectable refreshments were served.
The young couple are very popular and well known here. The bride is a graduate of the local high school, and Mr. Marx is also a graduate of the M. A. C. engineering department and is employed as surveyor in Wayne county.
They will be at home at 1635 Calvert avenue, Detroit, after April 11. Guests were present from Detroit, Algonac, Rochester, Alpena, Grand Rapids, Lenox and other places.—Romeo Observer.
