Twining 3—Tawas 1.
Alabaster 14—Harrisville 9.

Tawas was on top for a week and can hardly expect to get back until June 14 when the boys travel to Twining. There will be no regular league game played at Tawas Beach until June 28.

By beating the hard hitting Harrisville team at their own game, Tawas amassed a total of ten runs which was four more than the Alcona boys were able to gather in spite of the errors of omission and commission chalked up against the home boys. The game was full of hard hitting and indifferent fielding but some good work was also shown by the fans by the fielders so the home rooters were treated to an eye-ful.

Have You This Habit?

By Margaret Morison

A GOOD MIND

AFTER 25 years of married life, it was more fun for Mrs. William to plan and get her husband's present than it had been even the first Christmas. One year she left Billy's book—it was always a book—until the last. His own special copy of "Rabbie Burns" had been lost, and, without saying anything to Billy, she meant if possible to duplicate it. Burns was the poet from whom he loved to quote on all occasions—there was a man, he was wont to say, who really offered one the milk of human kindness. So Mrs. William proceeded first to the library to hunt up the special edition that the lost copy had been.

The librarian had a straight line between her eyes and the corners of her mouth were drawn down. Mrs. William, who had carefully consulted the card catalogue before applying at the desk, was met with an icy stare. This was Christmas week and the library was short-handed; if she wanted a special edition she'd have to wait until the boy had time to hunt. Mrs. William was perfectly willing to wait—and she did; for three-quarters of an hour.

With her glow of pleasure somewhat lessened, she continued on her errand. At the book store where she dealt there was a tired and jostling crowd and a corps of Christmas trade clerks—Mrs. William wondered if these were the same "boys" that had made the library short-handed. The employee she accosted was not interested in Robert Burns, and took no pains to conceal his scorn of one so entirely unaware of the "best sellers." Mrs. William was made to feel that it was no time to come asking for a book so out of the holiday line.

As she came out onto the street, she had begun to think that perhaps the Christmas spirit was indeed a thing of slower-moving and less-crowded generations. It had started to rain and the rising wind whipped the storm round her ankles. A gust caught her umbrella, and as she struggled to hold it her package with Billy's poems fell to the wet pavement. "Some night!" came a childish high-pitched voice at her side, and looking down she saw a quaint figure in the uniform of a messenger boy picking up her lost book. He was almost a midget and was evidently a man past fifty. His face was "adaverous and there were deep lines round his mouth, but in his eyes was the flash of fun and youth. And all the time that Mrs. William thanked him sedately, there was in her mind the extravagant desire to take him home with her to their warm fire and good supper and Billy and "Rabbie Burns."

For he had crystallized a thought for her; that the habit of pleasantness means mental fitness; that a cross-grained person is not a healthy animal. To desire the best, expect the best, demand the best from others, and to acquire the habit of turning a tranquil countenance toward the world—these imply not what we used to mean by "good nature" but what we mean now by a good mind.

COMPANY GOOD THINGS

A CAPON is most delicious eating. The following recipe may be varied as to stuffing and sauce. Oyster stuffing is especially good:

Roast Capon With Savory Stuffing.
Cook the liver of the capon with one or two chicken livers in very little water and press through a colander. Moisten one pint of bread crumbs with the water in which the livers were cooked; press out superfluous moisture, and add white hot, six tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, six chopped mushrooms, seasoning to taste and lastly bind with one well-beaten egg. Fill the capon, truss for roasting and cook in a hot oven, allowing fifteen to eighteen minutes to a pound for a large capon. Serve with:

Truffle Sauce.
Rub through a colander with two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-fourth of a pound of truffles, heat in a saucepan with one ounce of lean ham finely chopped, and a sprig of parsley minced. Add one and one-half cupfuls of brown stock and thicken with one and one-half tablespoonfuls of arrowroot, blended with cold water.

Mushrooms in Pepper Cups.
Remove the stems from green peppers, cut a slice from the top and take out seeds and membranes. Parboil, place each pepper on a slice of toast and fill with mushrooms broken into small bits and pressed firmly into the cups. Place the toast and peppers on a grating or rack in a dripping pan and bake in a hot oven fifteen to twenty minutes. Season with butter and salt, with a dash of pepper on each cup.

Paper Razor Strop
Ordinary newspapers folded together in a thick strip and held between wire clips make a satisfactory substitute for a regular leather razor strop, according to a European inventor, Popular Mechanics Magazine reports. The ink on the paper is said to assist in giving a keen, non-pulling edge and consequently a smooth shave. A fresh strop can be prepared in a few moments and it is especially convenient for the traveler and camper.

Full Explanation
"So you were caught red handed counterfeiting ten-dollar bills?" said the police magistrate. What have you to say for yourself?"
"I am not a malicious counterfeiter, and I should never have been arrested," replied the suspect. "I am a chemist whose interest is entirely scientific. I have been trying to make gold from less precious elements and I have only got as far as ten-dollar bills."

"Be photographed this year on your birthday."

Prickly Pear Pest

Vast areas in Queensland and New South Wales are being overrun by prickly pears. The pestilent cactus was introduced into Queensland several years ago by an American girl who brought a cutting from California to remind her of her old home. The plant is extremely prolific and practically cannot be eradicated.

When Chicago Was Settled.

The site of Chicago was discovered in 1673, but the first house was not built until 1770, by Jean Baptiste Point de Saible. In 1793 he sold his claim to Le Mal, a French fur trader who in turn sold to John Kinzie, the first white man to make his home there. In 1803 Fort Dearborn was erected on the south bank of the river.

TAWAS DEFEATS HARRISVILLE; LLOSES TO TWINING

Earned runs, Tawas 6; Harrisville 0. Three base hits, Johnson 2. First on balls, off Matuzak 3. Left on bases, Tawas 8; Harrisville 5. Wild pitches Matuzak. First base on errors, Harrisville 5; Tawas 2. Two base hits Syze 2, Dillon 2, Beede 2, Kearly. Struck out by Mark 7, by Matuzak 10. Double plays, Musolf to Moeller. Passed balls, Potts 2. Hit by pitcher, by Matuzak, DeMore and Musolf.

Sunday's game was a real battle but the Tawas boys were unable to hit Clayton with any effect while a bad bound materialized into a run for Twining in the second inning and with four men standing around a fly in the seventh, the ball dropped safe and two runs materialized. The base-running of the home boys was a little erratic also.

However, the error column will show that the boys in the field were playing good tight ball. Jack Johnson pulled four catches of the star variety. Otto Rahl caught his usual good game.

Belated Honor Paid Founder of New York

The city of Avesnes, Belgium, recently was host to a large delegation of Americans, here to pay tribute to the birthplace of Jesse de Forest, founder of New York.

It was just three centuries ago that this son of Avesnes, at the time a refugee at Leyden with other Walloons who were fleeing from Spanish oppression, set sail for America, where he had planned to establish a colony. He died before reaching the shores of the new world, but his sons and son-in-law carried out the plan which he had conceived and perfected during long years.

The Walloon emigrants, landing on Manhattan island at the mouth of the Hudson river, reared there the foundations of a city which they called Nieuwe Avesnes. A few years later Dutch colonists, more numerous than the Walloons, changed the name to Nieuwe Amsterdam. Still later the English again changed the name to New York.

May 20 a monument recalling the above incident was unveiled in Battery park, New York. This was the gift of the provincial council of Ranaut, Belgium, and was presented to the American metropolis by Baron de Cartier, Belgian ambassador to the United States. The monument was unveiled by eight-year-old Priscilla de Forest, a direct descendant of Jesse de Forest.

The day following the arrival of the American delegation an exact replica of the New York monument was unveiled in the presence of a representative of the United States government. On one side it bears a commemorative inscription and on the other an engraving of the vessel in which Jesse de Forest started his long voyage, surmounted by the arms of New York and Avesnes.—From Le Petit Parisien (Translated for the Kansas City Star).

Old Coin Revived

Modern Palestine has adopted as its monetary unit the dinar, or dinarius, of the time of Herod, the Roman governor. Its present value is of two English shillings, or about 50 cents in American money. Originally the dinar was a gold coin issued by the chiefs of the Damascus government and by certain Arabic tribes of the time of Christ.

It became a silver coin as that metal grew more precious. As dinarius the coin became widely known by reason of its use in the literature of the day and since. The dinar was a distinctive Palestinian coin. To give needed support to the young government, the issue of dinars will be secured by an equal sum in British bank notes. The new coin will attain circulation independently of the existing Egyptian pound and be a strictly Jewish affair.—Detroit News.
