LAST SUNDAY'S GAME LOOSELY PLAYED; 9 TO 7

	W	L	Pct
Tawas	7	2	778
Twining	5	2	714
Alabaster	4	4	500
Selects	0	8	000

Games Last Sunday
Tawas 9, Selects 7.
Twining 3, Alabaster 2.

Games Next Sunday
Alabaster at Tawas.

The Tawas boys won a loosely played contest from the Selects at Harrisville last Sunday afternoon. Matuzak for the Selects was hit so hard in the first inning that he gave the mound over to the Youngs to start the second inning. Youngs pitched fine ball except for the sixth frame.

Swales lasted for almost four innings but three walks mixed with five hits retired him in favor of Miles Main. Miles allowed three hits and but for errors would have been unscored on. The boys were not entirely over their error debacle of the week before but have improved wonderfully.

Ed Libka, who was loaned to the Selects for the game, was the star of the day. He pulled down five flies and hit twice out of four times up.

Next Sunday Alabaster has a chance to put Tawas in second place as Twining has no game and has lost the same number of games as our boys. The last game between Tawas and Alabaster resulted in a fast 2 to 1 win for Tawas and a good game is assured for next Sunday.

Alabaster put up a stubborn fight against Twining last Sunday but were forced to succumb by a score of 3 to 2.

RICHARD PROPER

The death of Richard Proper on Thursday, July 23 came as a shock to his many relatives and friends.

Richard Proper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Proper, died at the Toledo hospital, Toledo, Ohio, after an illness of two weeks.

He was born July 18, 1904, in Tawas township, being 21 years, five days old at the time of his death. He attended the public school here. He was employed by the U. S. Gypsum company for one year, later going to Toledo with his parents and remaining there until time of his death.

The surviving relatives are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Proper, three brothers, Willard, Lawrence and Cecil of Toledo, Elmer of Flint, Mrs. Henry Arnold of Tawas City and Mrs. Oscar Makinen of Lansing.

Those from out of town who attended the funeral were Miss Helen Pelton of Toledo, John Coberly of Toledo and Ephriam Webb of Carlton, Michigan.

Like the petals of a rose that drop and fade away,
So was our dear boy's life just fading day by day.
He suffered much but murmured not,
We watched through day and night,
And when at last the sad end came,
While we stood in tears, to think of all the loneliness
Through all the coming years.
The days will be sad without him,
And nothing will seem just right,
A face we dearly loved has gone,
A heart so kind and bright.

SAFETY AUTHORITIES SAY ACCIDENTS DO NOT HAPPEN

The National Safety Council answering the question as to what are the qualifications of a safe driver declares in order to be a safe driver, the individual must be of good moral character, possessed of all his senses understand his responsibility, have consideration for the rights of others and be able to act promptly. He should know that the car is in such condition that no accident will result from defective equipment. He should refuse to operate a car which has defective brakes for his own and others safety; he should know by actual application of the brakes that they function properly so that, should the occasion arise to use them, he can depend upon them to stop his car.

He should examine the car before starting to see that it is in good operating condition, that is such items as the steering, gas and oil supply. He should know that the headlights are properly focused, tires properly inflated and the spare tire ready for service.

He should be sure to use skid chains when it starts to rain or snow or when desirable for safety under other conditions, and should never speed or drive in a reckless manner. He should be careful to avoid an accident, for accidents do not happen; they are caused and a well qualified driver is never in too big a hurry to be careful, for he who takes chances usually take one too many.

At blind corners where buildings or trees obstruct the view, he should reduce his speed, sound the horn and keep the car under perfect control. He should drive slowly and carefully when approaching children at play. He should never count on them to see him or to be able to take care of themselves for he is responsible for their safety.

He should cooperate with the traffic officers to the fullest extent for it is their intention to help. All traffic rules of the state, cities and boroughs through which the car is operated, should be observed.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

About seventy friends and relatives, many of them former Tawas people, gathered last Sunday to help Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Goodale celebrate their golden wedding anniversary held at the home of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Myers at 4432 Drexel Avenue, Detroit. Rev. E. King, a former pastor of the Tawas City M. E. church officiated. Rev. and Mrs. King have just returned from a trip to Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Goodale were residents of Isoco county for the past 50 years until about five years ago when they moved to Flint where they have since made their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Myers home was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Dinner and supper were served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goodale of East Tawas, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Janousky of Almira, N. Y., and John Williams of Muskegon. There were two children, nine grandchildren and four great grandchildren and many friends and other relatives from Bay City and Flint present.

Many beautiful gifts, including a shower of gold pieces were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Goodale.

SECURE CHATAUQUA AGAIN FOR NEXT SEASON

The greatly welcomed showers which occurred during the five days of the Isoco County Chautauqua proved unfavorable to Chautauqua attendance. However, the audiences appearing at the several programs were highly pleased with the entertainment and when the question of signing the contract for another year came up a greater enthusiasm than ever before was shown. About 50 signed, thus assuring the community of another Chautauqua for next summer.

Most Chautauqua goers were of the opinion that this year's entertainments were the best ever presented here, each number being excellent. The lectures by Arthur Holden, Henry Black Burns and Joel Eastman were especially good.

Much interest was shown by the children in the children's hour held at nine o'clock each day. This is one of the best features of the Chautauqua.

POSSIBLE TO GET
TOO MUCH SLEEP

At Least, That Is Opinion
of English Writer.

That too much sleep diminishes the nervous energy and degenerates the small arteries is the opinion of Vaughan Dryden, who writes as follows in a London paper:

Persistent opponents of summer time are never tired of asserting that it "deprives people of their natural sleep." This is all very well; but nobody yet has defined when we ought to sleep and how many hours. Many people sleep far too much; and it is a well known scientific fact that excessive sleep diminishes the nervous energy and degenerates the small arteries and capillaries of the brain.

Sleepiness is generally a sign of mental lethargy; neither Sancho Panza nor the Fat Boy in "Pickwick" outstanding examples of doughty sleepers, were noticeably brilliant. Sir John Sinclair roundly declares that too much sleep
"blunts and destroys the senses, and renders both the body and mind unfit for action." Sir Herman Weber, the author of "Longevity and the Prolongation of Life," blames the habit of sleeping more than eight hours for the premature decay of mental faculties.

Many men of active brain are satisfied with little sleep. John Wesley was up at 4 o'clock every morning.
Immanuel Kant slept very little, remarking that much sleep exhausts the energy and shortens life. The latter conclusion is borne out by the fact that many long-lived people spend a short space of their time in bed.

Sir Julius Benedict slept only four hours a night, and lived to be eighty-one. Sir Henry Thompson, who lived to be eighty years old, was a busy physician who saw patients all day and attended social gatherings every night.
Yet he found the time to write several large books on medical subjects, and he did this by being in his study at six every morning.

Eminent barristers like Lord Reading and Lord Birkenhead were entertaining or being entertained socially every night. Yet they would rise at four or five in the morning and do several hours' work on their briefs
before going into court at ten.

Bees Pre-empted Nest

How the maternal instinct of a tiny wren twice in as many years was frustrated by a colony of wild bees has been related by Samuel Benn, a bird lover of this city, says an Associated Press dispatch from Aberdeen, Wash.

For two years, Mr. Benn said, he watched a wren carrying material to build her nest in a bird house he had erected; and although she occupied it for a time each season and laid her eggs, no baby wrens ever put in their appearance.

Recently, when he was changing the location of the bird house, Mr. Benn discovered that both years wild bees had taken possession of the nest and had formed their honeycomb over the mother wren's eggs. The second nest had been built over the honeycomb and the wreckage of the former season's hopes.

The Difference

Another thing that stands in the way of the perfect equality of the sexes is that when a man buys a new hat he always tries to get one just exactly like the old one.—Ohio State Journal.

Hand Power

It has been estimated that if all the hand-shaking of the last election could be put to milking cows, all the cows of the nation would be milked for a week.

Made in Michigan

This handsome young leading man in the "movies" is an American by birth. He went through the elementary schools, and then entered Yale university. His athletic nature made it inevitable that he should go into sports, and so it was that he made the Yale team for several years. It was while at Yale that he met the prominent producer who induced him to enter motion pictures.

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL
Facts about your name; its history;
meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

MAUDE

MAUDE, signifying "mighty battle maid," was interchanged in former times with Mathilda, the first instance of its double use being the daughter of Henry I, who was known by both names. But this is not its etymological origin, since Maude was primarily a man's name. But Maud, Mauid, and Mauid appear early as a feminine name, also Mahald, and Ma-halt. The Twelfth century reveals a woman named Mahald vel Mathilda, about whom little is known.

Many poets have felt inspiration at the name, "Maude Müller" is known to everyone; likewise this excerpt from that musical lyric, "Maude":
Maude with her exquisite face,
And wild voice ringing up to the sky,
And feet like sunny gems on an English green Maude in the light of her youth and her grace,
Singing of Death and of Honor that cannot die,
Till I well could weep for a time so sordid and mean
And myself so languid and base.

Maude's talismanic jewel is mala-chite, which is said to warn its wearer of approaching danger by breaking.
To be especially lucky it should be engraved with an image of the sun, which, by its dazzling light, drives out all evil spirits that work in the darkness. Wednesday is her lucky day and six her lucky number. Old superstition has it that a bit of malachite tied to a child's cradle will drive away evil and insure sound and peaceful sleep for the occupant.

A PROMISE

JUST for Today
As you run your way
Do all you can amid the rough and rubble
Completely to forget
Your own regret.
And bear a bit of 'other fellow's trouble.
I promise you that you,
If this course you pursue,
Will find that bit of kindly self-denial.
Upon the road
Will cut at least in half the pressing load
Of your own trial.

Jade Is Deceptive Gem
Pearls and jade are two precious gems widely worn by women today, and one cause of their popularity is the difficulty of telling at a glance the real from the artificial. This is especially true of jade, even when laid side by side. There is no perceptible difference, even to an expert, between one piece that costs a few dollars and one that costs hundreds.

Marvelous Tales Told of Reptiles' Strength

The boa constrictor is the largest of African serpents. The average length of a full-grown boa is usually not much over 20 feet. The record boa is without doubt the one which caught a famous explorer in its coils.
Speke had shot a young buffalo cow which, without his knowing it, the snake had been in the act of attacking, and his left fore-arm was caught between the buffalo's body and a single fold of the constrictor. The explorer was forced to stand perfectly still until the serpent had crushed the buffalo and relaxed its coils.
Then he sprang away, and almost at the same instant his friend shot the boa through the head. In its death struggles the monster leaped the grass, bush and saplings for yards round. It was over fifty feet in length and its greatest girth was nearly three feet.
There is only one other authentic instance of a larger snake being killed by man. That was the anaconda shot in Brazil by Lieutenant Colonel Fawcett, another well-known explorer, and it was mentioned by him in a lecture given before the Royal Geographical society in London.
This immense reptile exceeded sixty feet in length, but could not be accurately measured because a part of its tail remained under water, and the colonel, who had only two terrified Indians with him, was utterly unable to move the giant bulk.
The muscular strength of a constrictor is almost appalling. Some years ago a professional snake tamer named Karolyi was giving an exhibition in Madrid with an 18-foot python. In some way he managed to vex it, whereupon the creature tightened its coils, and with a gasp he fell flat on the stage. When his body was examined it was found that there were no fewer than 87 fractures of various bones.

Old Medical Treatise
The search for the fountain of eternal youth did not begin with the old Spaniard Ponce de Leon. A chapter on "How to change an old man into a young man of twenty" has been found in a treatise on medical science and surgery written 1,600 years B. C. The papyrus on which it is written, says Prof. James Breasted, is "incomparably the most important body of medical knowledge which has survived to us from ancient Egypt, or for that matter from the orient anywhere." In this treatise is a passage which shows that the writer knew that paralysis of one side of the body is caused by a brain affection of the other side. This fact was lost for more than 3,000 years and rediscovered in modern times.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Handicapped
"Dad-burn it!—there ort to be a law ag'in preachers riding mules!" ejaculated Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "Last night the presiding elder was coming along the Gogwaller road riding a mule, and the infernal varmint wanted to take the right hand fork of the road and the elder wanted to take the left hand track. According, they started down the right hand fork. Just then there came the sound of a motor horn in the left hand track. The mule jumped out of the road and cut across and got into the left hand track in time to get hit by the car, and turn around and kick h—l out of it. The elder had to pay the owner $25 damages. No, sir; no preacher ort to ride a mule. If it had a-been me I could a-handled the anecdote all right; but nacherly the elder couldn't cuss a note."—Kansas City Star.

Girl's Wonderful Hair
The longest tresses in the world are believed to pertain to the head of a twenty-two-year-old Detroit girl. Her locks measure 70 1/2 inches from root to tip. This unusual growth of hair offers some unusual statistics. It takes her less than two minutes to "do it up," she says, except when it is freshly washed, when the task becomes more difficult. It is considerably longer in front than on the rear of her head. In the sunlight it is multicolored, part of it blonde, part reddish and part brown. In 1920 her hair thinned after an illness. What was left reached her knees, but not much was left. And then it started to get thick and just grew.

Advocates Raw Food
Professor Charles Richet, the famous French anatomist, reported to the Academy of Science (Paris) that carnivorous animals such as the dog, cannot live long when their diet is restricted to cooked meat. His experiments show that the same animals thrive and develop great strength when fed with raw meat.
His latest experiments were made on fish fed with meat. The results were the same as with animals. He says he has demonstrated that cooking destroys vitamins and modifies the muscular albumenoids so as to make them difficult to assimilate.

Telephones in China
The four largest cities in China—Shanghai, Peking, Canton and Tientsin—with an aggregate population of approximately 4,500,000, have fewer telephones than the single American city of Portland, Oregon, although there are fifteen times as many people in the four Chinese cities as there are in Portland.

'Never "Out" Is Man Who Keeps His Head

Take it from ye pastor: Some great things may have been accomplished by excitement or desperation, or wild impulse, but you needn't be particularly wise or observing to know that most is accomplished by the man who retains his mental poise; "keeps his head." I once saw a weak swimmer become exhausted while beyond his depths, and saw a strong swimmer go readily to his rescue. The drowning man forgot what he knew, that it is easy to carry another in water, if the one carried submits willingly and intelligently. Therefore a struggle followed when the two met, in which a double tragedy was averted only by the fact that the strong swimmer kept his head, fought better and knocked out his opponent, after which he carried him to shore. Had both been cool, it would have been easy and had both become excited, it would have been impossible. And the rule applies as well to the other than physical trouble. The fate which seems to have you down and out can be thwarted if you "keep your head." If you do the best you know, instead of merely wasting time in useless worry and anger. And this trait or habit will stand cultivation which will bring it within the range of possibilities even for impulsive, nervous or weakkneed persons.—Arkansas Thomas Cat.

American Tribute to Work of Rider Haggard

It is many years since some one on this side of the Atlantic, chafing under the obligation of Anglo-Saxon fellowship, expressed his longing for the time when the Rudyard's cease from Kipling and the Haggards ride no more. It was a forced marriage of names; yet it is doubtful whether Kipling at the height of his popularity ever reached an audience as large as that which palpitated over "King Solomon's Mines" and "She," the later now inconceivably immortal in more senses than one, on her own modest level in literature, the New York Times says, editorially. On that same level justice should be done to the very respectable figure of Allan Quatermain, lion hunter and mystic. For sheer drama memory will not easily forsake that scene of the African berserk Umstogogans—spelling approximate—defending the staircase against a world of enemies. There are men today not too far advanced toward grandfatherhood who can still catch the horror of the impl, that merciless Zulu phalanx whose onset was doom.

Impl and assegal—they stand for an emotional experience which the generations are still going through. For the appeal of Rider Haggard has been international. It would not be surprising that he shares in Russia today the vogue of Jack London and Sherlock Holmes. World fame during the last half century of British letters has not fallen to the Hardys and the Kiplings, but to Conan Doyle, Rider Haggard and, as Mr. Shaw remarked the other day, "Charley's Aunt." For many years silent in his chosen field, Rider Haggard came into notice a few years ago when the great success of Pierre Benoit's "Atlantide" inevitably recalled "She." The French story was good, but "She" was much better.

Evolution of Horse Proved by Skeleton?

Scientists of a recent geological expedition sent to Texas by the American Museum of Natural History (New York) have discovered in rocks more than 1,000,000 years old the fossil skeleton of a horse in one of its ancestral stages of evolution.

In the evolution of the horse the newly found specimen represents an intermediate stage between the type called Pliohippus and the early Ice-age horse called Equus. It is smaller than the modern horse.

While the fossil horse discovered is almost the earliest one-toed horse, long before the day of Pliohippus there had existed quite a number of more primitive or less evolved forms of the horse.

For example, if we go back to the Eocene epoch, when the ancestor of the horse was no larger than a cat, we discover that he had four toes on his fore feet and three on his hind feet. The subsequent evolution of the horse is most clearly marked by the gradual loss of all of these toes, except the single toe on which our modern horses walk.

American Colony

American Samoa, comprising the islands of Tutuila, Aunu'u and others, has an area of 57.9 square miles; population of 8,324, including 206 Americans. The capital is Pago Pago on the island of Tutuila. This town is the most valuable harbor in the South Pacific. It was ceded in 1872 by the native king to the United States as a naval and coaling station. American Samoa is 4,160 miles from San Francisco. The natives are Christians and are regarded as the highest type of the Polynesian race. All of the land of the islands is privately owned. The chief product is coconuts. Fruits are also grown, but not exported.

Fable Worth Remembering

A crow, half-dead with thirst, came upon a pitcher which had once been full of water; but when the crow put its beak into the mouth of the pitcher he found that only very little water was left in it, and that he could not reach far enough down to get at it. He tried, and he tried, but at last had to give up in despair. Then a thought came to him, and he started dropping pebbles, one by one, into the pitcher. At last, he saw the water mount up near him; and after casting in a few more pebbles he was able to quench his thirst and save his life. Little by little gets results.—Aesop's Fables.

The Windmill

Windmills were in use in the remote ages and their discovery and first use is not known, but Titus Livius says when Hannibal crossed the Alps in 180 B. C. the Carthaginians saw windmills in the valley below and there is legendary information that they were brought from the Orient by the Crusaders. They were well established in the country around Paris in the Twelfth century and shortly after that time were put in use in the Netherlands. They were known in the days of Cervantes, who gave them a place of some distinction in his writings.

Effect of Altitude

The geological survey says that according to science there is an altitude at which water would not boil; however, no one has ever reached that point, as it is about twenty miles above sea level. While it is not impossible to boil an egg hard at the top of Pike's peak, it takes longer to do it. Water boils at 212 degrees Fahrenheit at sea level, but on Pike's peak it boils at about 180 degrees Fahrenheit.

Times Had Changed

The salesman who had been turned away several times remarked to the office boy with fine sarcasm: "Well, I suppose the boss is in conference again this morning?" The office boy flipped a paper wad at the stenographer before he replied: "No, sir; not in conference. He's sworn off golf."

Restoration of the cross to the center of the Roman Colosseum has caused much satisfaction to Catholics. More than fifty years ago, in the burst of anti-clerical excitement which followed the entry of the Italian government into Rome, this cross was removed. Recently Minister of Public Instruction Fedele ordered that it be replaced. He publicly regretted that it had ever been removed. For centuries the church has regarded the Colosseum as holy ground because of the many hundreds of Christian martyrs who perished there for their faith. The popes have been zealous in preventing its collapse and in restoring portions of it to their original condition. Now the Colosseum is a favorite resort of Romans on moonlight nights, when the ancient theater of blood echoes with gracious songs and choruses.

Of Spanish Origin

Ranching is a term derived from the Spanish-American word rancho, originally meaning a place where herdsmen eat and sleep, but gradually extended to mean a grazing farm.

Striking Effect of Diet

Our Uncle Abner says that, as he looks around among mankind in general and a few that he might mention in particular, he is more than ever convinced that a man is what he eats and that a large percentage of them eat prunes.—Liberty (Ohio) Press.
