RAILROAD COMPANY ERECTS FENCE AROUND PROPERTY

The Detroit & Mackinac Railway company is erecting a seven foot Page fence around the shops and yards. The fence is all steel construction, with posts embedded in concrete. Three strands of barbed wire attached to angle bars will top the woven fence. Three cars of fencing and steel were required for the work. It is said that the steel and fencing alone cost about $9,000. This, however, is only a comparatively small item in the amount expended by the company in improving its road bed and equipment during the past year.

PLAN MANY PARK IMPROVEMENTS

The tourist season is about closed and during the past week few campers have been in the Tawas City park. Since June 1st about 1500 cars have been registered in the park and it is thought that next year a greater number will camp here.

The park is well equipped with tables, benches, fire places, toilets, electric lights, play ground fixtures and an abundant supply of artesian well water. The excellent water has made the park especially popular with tourists as it is said that some camps are not so fortunate in their supply of water.

Officers of the park association are making plans for many improvements in the park for the next season. Among those contemplated are extensions of the gravel streets, gravel walks, a bath house, flower beds and other things to improve it in the way of beauty as well as utility.

Many of the campers who visited the park this season expressed themselves as being very much pleased with the park and the courteous, friendly spirit manifested by the townspeople. Many of them hope to return next year. A continuance of this attitude toward the visiting tourists will help to keep the park filled to overflowing next year.

H. J. Keiser, president of the association, says: "The officers of the park association, at this time, wish to thank the many people who gave their co-operation in helping to make the park a success and especially the 20th Century Club for the fine play ground equipment which they have had erected on the grounds."

ROSS-WATTS

A happy event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Ross at Theford, Ont., on Tuesday, Sept. 15, when their daughter, Audred Lucy, became the bride of Harold A. Watts of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Watts, Tawas City.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of only immediate relatives under an arch of blue and white streamers and white bells, by Rev. D. W. Williams.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white canton crepe trimmed with pearls, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and ferns.

Mrs. Norman Hetherington, sister of the bride acted as bridesmaid, dressed in pale blue crepe and carried a bouquet of roses and gladiolas while the bridegroom was supported by Norman Hetherington of Theford. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a white gold bracelet set with brilliants, to the bridesmaid, a white gold pin set with brilliants and to the best man a green pen knife.

OSCODA TAKES SUNDAY'S GAME

The fans who saw Oscoda win from Tawas to the tune of 7 to 6 last Sunday were just about discouraged with the article of ball put up by the teams, especially the home gang.

Oxel Johnson had won from Oscoda the previous Thursday and Joe Halligan was secured to pitch against them in Sunday's game. Oscoda did not bring a pitcher and Oxel consented to throw for them. The home team earned four of their six runs of Johnson but threw the ball around in such an erratic fashion that they handed Oscoda their seven runs in spite of Halligan's superb hurling. Only two healthy hits, two scratching hits and two walks, with one wounded batsman, were garnered off Joe but the errors of his supporting cast were a sight for gods and men.

The thrill of the game was furnished by Ed Killmaster in the eighth when with a man on second, he fell and caught with his bare hand a line drive that was ticketed for three sacks off Rahl's bat.

LOST CHILD FOUND AFTER 24 HOURS SEARCH IN BRUSH

Happy smiles were on the faces of the Soicmon family Thursday morning when little Selma, age two and one-half years, was found and returned to the distracted parents after having been lost in Tate's pasture for 24 hours. The little one had apparently not suffered any ill effects from exposure. She was found by Charles Pinkerton, a high school pupil, who with about 75 other boys from the East Tawas high and St. Joseph's schools were searching the locality Thursday morning.

Selma, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Solomon of East Tawas, while playing near her parents home suddenly disappeared Wednesday morning at about nine o'clock. Frantic search was made all day Wednesday. Sheriff Chas. Curry and parties of men and boys from East Tawas and Tawas City combed the nearby country until two o'clock Thursday morning, but no clue as to the whereabouts of the little one was found. Several of the men at one time thought that they heard a baby's cry, but the place from which it originated could not be located. It was found Thursday morning that several of the searchers had passed within a few feet from where the child must have been.

Thursday morning the boys from the high school and St. Joseph's school were organized. Word was received that Mrs. Samuel Jacobson, while on her way up town, had heard a cry in the pasture and the boys formed in line and again searched the pasture. At about 9:30 the child was found. She had wandered in the thick brush nearly a mile from her home. Miss Vera Schell, D. & M. nurse, was at the home to care for the little one.

YEGGS ROB TURNER BANK OF $5,000

Yeggs robbed the State Savings Bank at Turner of $5,000 in currency early last Friday morning. No trace of the robbers has been discovered up to the present time.

The yeggs gained admission to the bank by jimmying the back window. A hole was burned through the door of the vault large enough for a man to pass through. The one ton safe in the vault was tipped off its foundation and a hole was then burned through its back wall from which the currency was taken. Many valuable papers were damaged by the heat from the acetylene torch used to do the work.

It is presumed that the robbery took place during the storm of the early morning. The robbers left several stolen milk cans filled with water and an acetylene tank in the bank.

LEGION DRIVE GOES OVER THE TOP IN 5 MICHIGAN CITIES

The local committee of the American Legion met Monday evening to make plans for raising Tawas City's quota of $225.00 for the disabled veterans and war orphans endowment fund. The income from this fund will be used to take care of soldier's orphans for whom the government has made no provision, and meet the expenses of such institutions as the American Legion tuberculosis sanitarium at Battle Creek.

Five Michigan cities have already gone over the top with their quota for the American Legion Fund being raised all over the United States for the care and education of the orphans of World War veterans, and other Michigan cities will have filled their quota within the next week. The cities that have already gone over the top with their quotas are Marquette, Iron Mountain, Lansing, Midland, Sault Ste. Marie and Lowell.

Spring Month Named After Greek Goddess

Mala, the Greek goddess for whom the Romans named the lovely spring month, was the oldest of the Pleiades, or seven daughters of Atlas and Oceanid Pletone. She and her sister, who were born on Mount Cyllene in Arcadia, according to Greek mythology, are sometimes called the goddesses of the mountains.

Mala became the mother of Mercury, and was greatly loved by the old Romans, who, on the first day of May, made sacrifices in her name. In Italy she was known as Maa Mapesta, a goddess of spring.

If you will watch the sky on a spring evening, you will see the six stars which form the Pleiades. The old Greeks believed that Jupiter placed Mala and her six sisters together in the sky, and that they formed for a long time a group of seven. One day Myrope married a mortal named Sisyphus, who in some way displeased the gods. For punishment he was condemned to spend eternity rolling a stone uphill, so that Myrope hid her face from her sisters in sorrow and shame. That is why we see but six of the daughters of Atlas shining in the sky; for Myrope's face is still concealed behind one of her sister stars.—Chicago Daily News.

Scottish City Goes Far Back in History

The city of Glasgow, the metropolis of Scotland, had its origin in the Sixth century, when St. Kentigern founded a small religious establishment on the banks of a tiny stream which flows into the Clyde at a point where the Scottish city now stands.

Christianity was then unknown in that part of Scotland, and Kentigern was the first to introduce the faith among the rude people inhabiting that section. Beside the clearing in the forest where he built his home he hung on a tree a bell which was rung to summon the savage inhabitants to worship, and thus it came about that a tree with a bell appears on the arms of Glasgow.

The saint had trouble later on with the king of the Strathclyde Britons and had to flee to Wales. Later he returned, and after his death, at an advanced age, was buried at the spot where now stands the great cathedral bearing his name.

As "Will" Would Say It

Jones and Jenks were arguing about Shakespeare. Jones contended that the bard was a genius, and Jenks scoffed at it. "Genius, nothing," he said. "All he had was a big vocabulary. Anyone that applied himself to it could duplicate Shakespeare's stuff. I could do it myself." At that moment two very bow-legged men turned the corner and walked toward the disputants. "Here's a chance to show how good you are," said Jones. "How would you describe those two fellows?" "That's easy," said Jenks. "There's only one way to describe them; Shakespeare himself couldn't say anything but 'Here come two bow-legged men.'" It was what Jones was waiting for. "He couldn't, eh? Shakespeare would have said: 'Ho! What manner of men are these, with legs that could serve as parentheses?'"

ECONOMY RULE WORKS CHANGES FOR TROOPERS

COM. ALAN G STRAIGHT REORGANIZES SAFETY DEPARTMENT TO MEET BUDGET LIMIT

Alan G. Straight, recently appointed commissioner of the Department of Public Safety of Michigan has put into effect sweeping changes which amount to a reorganization. This has been made necessary because of the action of the legislature in allowing only about one-half of the appropriation requested to enable the department to function at full strength and perform all duties assigned to it. Since 1923 when other divisions of the state government were merged with the State Police, the department has been given many new duties but little additional funds.

It is estimated that 100 additional men would be required were the policing of the state trunk line highways to be carried out fully. Unformed men of the State Police have been divided into five troops with headquarters at Negaunee, Gaylord, St. Clair, Paw Paw and Platteau. Each of these troop commanders has responsibility for a district. All supplies and purchases for each district must be approved by the commander in that district. All matters of criminal investigation and highway patrol in the district are under supervision of the commanding officer.

Force Is Divided

Supervision of the uniformed force will be directed by Captain C. J. Scavarda from East Lansing. He is also in charge of the State Police school where recruits are trained. Under a law passed by the 1925 legislature local police officers may also attend sessions of this police school in order to better fit them for their work. Lieutenant J. C. Cleghorn is assistant to Captain Scavarda.

The Negaunee headquarters, in command of Captain A. N. Downing, has the Upper Peninsula as its field, the Gaylord troop, under Captain John Fagan, operates in the northern section of the Lower Peninsula, the St. Clair troop, under Lieutenant Frank Walker has the Bay City-Saginaw-Flint-Port Huron district, the Platteau troop, under Lieutenant Joseph Kearney has the southeastern corner of the state and the Paw Paw troop, under Lieutenant Ora E. Demora, the southwestern section.

The state detective bureau and the state identification bureau will work in conjunction with the uniformed State Police as well as with local officers. Men displaying a special aptitude for crime detection have been assigned to the detective bureau. The need of such a bureau lies in the fact that many counties of the state have no trained detective force to deal with serious crimes. This bureau also conducts investigations for the governor, attorney-general and other state officials.

Free Lance Squad Formed

Captain I. H. Marmann has been placed at the head of a free lance squad to deal with problems arising from gambling places, disorderly roadhouses and the like. A number of places where the laws were violated have been closed.

A special squad has been detailed to deal with prohibition law cases. The uniformed men are utilized to conduct raids upon evidence secured by the members of this squad.

The duties of the State Police go far beyond routine police duty. The force is charged with the destruction of seized alcoholic liquors and a number of men are kept busy at this disagreeable task practically all of the time. Transfer of prisoners from one institution to another and from prisons to road camps is also under the State Police. Several men are engaged most of the time in bringing back prisoners who have escaped from Michigan to other states.

Other Divisions

Use of convicts to build state highways has been made possible through the employment of State Police to guard these prisoners. This has resulted in a large saving to the state in construction costs.

Some of the burden of prohibition law enforcement has been taken away by the consent of federal officers to assume charge of a part of the border patrol against smugglers. Owing to the small number of men in the State Police, enforcement of the prohibition laws in the cities is also left almost entirely to local officers.

One of the divisions of the Department of Public Safety which has had to be restricted in expenditures owing to the cutting of the budget is the state fire marshal's office. This has the general task of fire prevention in the state and the more specific work of investigating all suspicious fires and inspecting theaters, public buildings, rural schools, public institutions and the like.

Oil inspector is a division which takes all of the time of some inspectors and part time of many officers.

Supervision of paroled prisoners also is a work of the Department of Public Safety. Boxing shows are supervised by another division of the department.

Mother's Cook Book

The food supply would be probably far better selected, varied and cooked, if the daily supervision were allotted definitely to one who has been trained for the purpose, and chosen because of capacity for the office.—Dukes.

SO GOOD!

Broil fillets of beef as usual, season well with salt, pepper and butter, arrange on a platter, set into a dripping pan of hot water. On each fillet place a plump, well-drained oyster, put under the gas flame and cook until the edges curl and a minute longer (for half-cooked oysters are most unpalatable). Serve immediately, seasoned well and dotted with bits of butter. Garnish with parsley and lemon.

Tasty Sandwiches

For substantial sandwiches for a lunch or for Sunday night supper try these: Spread whole wheat bread with butter, then a layer of well-seasoned cottage cheese; place a leaf of lettuce dipped in French dressing on the cheese, cover with another slice of buttered bread.

Pepper Steak

Place a thick steak from the round or sirloin in a dripping pan, cover with a layer of finely chopped green pepper (one will be sufficient for a two-pound steak), one small onion chopped, and three sliced tomatoes, or the same amount of stewed tomatoes; add such seasoning as is needed of salt and pepper and bake thirty minutes.

Scotch Tea Cakes.

Take one cupful of sugar, two and one-half cupfuls of oatmeal, which has been lightly browned and then put through the meat grinder, two well-beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of vanilla, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a little salt. Drop them on buttered sheets and bake in a quick oven.

Cartier, the Pioneer

The first effort to cultivate the soil of Canada was made by the discoverer, Jacques Cartier, who, in 1541, had an acre of land cleared near where Quebec now stands, and had it planted with turnips, cabbage and lettuce seeds. The first public garden was Adam's garden in Halifax, N. S., established in 1733. The present public gardens in Halifax are the pride of the city and the admiration of all visitors.

Cause of Pellagra

Recent investigations of the United States public health service have demonstrated that pellagra—the disease that was for a long time thought to be caused by eating spoiled corn—is caused by living on an unbalanced food.

GRADE MARKED GOOD LUMBER

How to Read the Hemlock Grade - Mark
The initials N and W with the design signify that the lumber is Northern Hemlock—your native building lumber. The numeral with the diamond in the grade of the piece on which it is stamped by the expert grader at the mill.

Northern Hemlock, as an all-round construction lumber, has long been favorably known for its immunity to dry-rot, an important factor in the service life of your buildings. Being free of resin, it takes and holds paints and stains perfectly.

Add to these natural qualities of native Hemlock, the guarantees of the Grade-Mark—responsible manufacture and rigid, uniform grading at the mill with every piece plainly identified; that Northern Hemlock lumber is full standard size; that Northern Hemlock studs, rafters and joists are extra standard size, more wood and greater strength to the piece, assuring greater strength and rigidity to your buildings—and you'll appreciate the many advantages and investment value in Northern Hemlock construction.

Also, when you utilize the products of home industry, you contribute to the prosperity of your State and community upon which your income directly or indirectly depends. Prosperity, likewise, enhances property values. Yes, any practical way you figure it, it pays to use Northern Hemlock. BUT—BUY BY THE GRADE-MARK. SAVE MONEY. Your Lumber Dealer will gladly assist you in selecting the right grade for the right purpose.

BANKERS HELP

The banks of Linn County Oregon, are showing more enthusiasm than ever this year in behalf of a county corn exhibit similar to that held last year at the Linn County Fair. Last year's exhibit was the result of a contest for a prize offered by a number of local banks. This was so successful that this year ten out of the eleven banks in the county will subscribe to the effort.

The Agricultural Committee of the Alabama Bankers Association has recommended that a scholarship fund be established for the education of worthy young men and women along agricultural and home economics lines. It is estimated that if each bank in the state were to contribute 25 cents per thousand capital, five to six thousand dollars per annum would be realized.

The Agricultural Committee of the Oklahoma Bankers Association, in its report, recommends that the bankers see that a competent agent is appointed in each county and that he has a degree from some agricultural college. They believe that the agricultural possibilities of the state should be better advertised and that each county bankers association should do some work along that line.

Searcy County Bankers Association, Arkansas, entertained as its guests, recently some seventy-five farmers and business men. The result was the organization of the North Central Arkansas Agricultural Association. Its purpose will be to co-ordinate the efforts of the farmers and business men in promoting a better agriculture. Searcy County bankers are giving 100 settings of purebred eggs for distribution to the boys' and girls' clubs in the county.

Mystery Attached to Lost Cities of World

There is always fascination attached to stories of lost and abandoned cities. The East has many such places, once teeming with life—now the abiding place of lions, monkeys, snakes and jackals. For instance, the holy city of the Buddhists, Baraboe-door, in Java, had been forgotten for 600 years when Sir Stamford Raffles rediscovered it and its wonderful temple, the eighth wonder of the world. The jungle of Siam has hidden its ancient capital, Ayuthia, for four centuries. Its inhabitants fled before the conquering Burmese, and never returned. It is now said to be the lurking place of thousands of enormous snakes. Mystery surrounds the dead city of Tibet, which Captain Rawling discovered. It is a vast collection of palaces, monasteries, and dwelling houses, but the Tibetans professed ignorance of its existence, and also of the reason for its abandonment. Five centuries ago Angkor had a population of three-quarters of a million. Today it is the Dead City of Cambodia. The carved stone elephants, the immense causeways, the majestic temples still remain, but the jungle has invaded the streets and squares.

Plant That Charges Its Location at Will

To those who have made it a study, plant life seems with wonders. Take, for example, the Loranthus, a species of mistletoe. If this plant finds itself in a situation unfavorable to its growth, it will throw out a root by which it is enabled to move to another site, the means of locomotion being a flattened disc that acts as a sort of foot. The moving process is repeated until a satisfactory position for development has been found.

Another plant, the Clusia, lodges its seeds in the branches of a tree, whence the roots grow downward and strike in the soil. From these suspended roots branches grow on all sides, until the tree by which they are supported becomes literally suffocated. These and other queer happenings in plant life are related in "The New Book of Gardening."

Explaining "Gringo"

G. F. Weeks inclines to the view that "Gringo" was derived from the word "Greek." He says: "When English-speaking people began coming into Mexico they found the people with whom they came in contact unable to understand their language, just as they themselves were unable to understand that of the Mexicans. When addressed by a native quite naturally they used the familiar expression, 'That is all Greek to me.' The word Greek in Spanish is 'Griego' (pronounced Gree-aye-go), and what more natural than that the Mexicans, hearing this word used so much, came to speak of the foreigners as 'Gree-aye-goes,' which easily enough became corrupted into 'gringos.' This expression was heard wherever English-speaking foreigners were encountered.

Dogs Not a Commodity

"Rusticus," author of "Bucolic Beatitudes," has only contempt for those who buy and sell dogs. "A dog," he says, "should never be purchased, should never be made the subject of barter and dickering. A dog may be rescued from abuse, he may be found and kept, and, in cases of real necessity, he may be stolen in a dignified manner; but he should never be bought. I have heard of men that make a livelihood from the purchase and sale of dogs. I cannot conceive of them as good husbands and kind fathers, but they seem to me inhuman monsters engaged in a sinister traffic."

Tiger Talk, Etc.

The mating call of a tiger, the mournful, whining "ah-woongh," repeated five or six times in succession at intervals is really a very loud "miaoow," and when mating, tiger, or tigress, will roam the jungles for miles, miaoowing all through the night, and sometimes till as late as noonday. But when a tiger is angry at being disturbed, especially a tigress with cubs, it gives a low, humming, murmuring growl, very cat-like, and followed by a long-drawn "hoo-eeh." A tiger will often give its "ah-woongh," and a leopard its sawing roar, when on their way to their kills.

Words! Words!

Some very beautiful choral music we heard recently reminded us of a little speech Sir Henry Wood once made to Sheffield choristers. "Now for your greatest fault!" he exclaimed. "Words! Words are your master. When you go and hear a bad comic opera and you listen with rapid attention to the principal comedian, what attracts you? You are able without effort to hear every word he sings. You forget that he has no voice. Now think when you are singing choruses at the next festival what a delight it will be to the public if they hear every word you sing!"

King's Power Nominal

In England the veto is a remnant of the more extensive power formerly exercised by the king, but which has gradually been cut down until only the negative power of disapproval is left. Since 1708 the right has never been exercised. Nonsense, however, does not imply that the power does not exist at the present time, although the system of responsible cabinet government makes its use out of place.

Fish That Climbs

Scientific investigation into the habits of fishes has shown that many of them are by no means helpless when out of water. There is, for instance, a tropical fish known as the climbing perch, which has the very curious habit of scrambling by means of its fins, up stones, roots, and even the trunks of trees, in search of the insects on which it feeds.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY WHEN SHOPPING

By MRS. HARLAND H. ALLEN

(© 1922, Harland H. Allen.)

SELECTION OF TURKISH TOWELS

By looking at the smooth, plain border at the end of a Turkish towel, you can get a better idea of its quality than in any other way. The finer and more closely woven this border is, the better your towel.
Then examine the loops. A long, loose loop will pull out much quicker than one more tightly woven. The best toweling is made of good yarn, two or more threads are in each loop, and the ground is substantial. Several alternating threads hold the loops in place, consequently they do not readily pull out. The poorer quality of towels have an altogether less substantial weave, and you can easily observe this at the ends where there are no loops.

Then, too, the closely woven, short-looped towels also feel much softer and are pleasanter to use than the loosely woven ones. These surface loops hold the air and help in drying the body, while a smoothly woven towel would be much less effective. No doubt the majority of people prefer the softer bath towels, though for men and women who delight in the cold shower and the brisk rubdown, there are the coarser towels that produce more friction. The Turkish towels used in the majority of bathrooms are frankly all cotton; though many linen Turkish towels are sold.

In order to meet the demand for a cheap towel, manufacturers sometimes use too great haste and careless methods in the bleaching process, and as a result the cotton in the towel becomes overbleached and is greatly weakened. You can generally tell when a towel has been weakened in the bleaching, by stretching the material tightly across the fingers, and noting whether the threads give way and spread apart too readily. Linen towels are less likely to be affected by too strong bleaching than cotton. And it is because cotton does become overbleached so easily that you must use special care with Turkish towels in the laundry.

Newer kinds of bath towels are made of porous material, the air being a factor in drying. These resemble knitting, with the open meshes the same size. The drying quality of these towels is good, but soiled spots are hard to eradicate.
Toweling may be purchased by the yard, but as this requires the housewife's time to scissor or hem the ends, it is seldom an economy.

Daring French Thief

Stealing a bronze dolphin from the fountain in broad daylight in the Place de la Republique was a feat recently accomplished by a lone man in Paris. A policeman saw the man detaching the dolphin and questioned his right to do so. The man replied that he was removing the dolphin for repairs. Eventually he departed with the dolphin in a handcart. The disappearance of the dolphin was commented on by the newspapers, and a few days later a dealer in antiques called on the commissioner of police and informed him that he had bought a bronze dolphin corresponding to the missing one. This statement was confirmed, and now the police are seeking the pretended workman, who is said to be a well-known safe-breaker.

Panama Canal Revenues

The Panama canal has not as yet completely paid for itself. The cost of construction including payments to Panama and France, approximated $375,000,000. The total amount of tolls collected from 1915 to 1922 aggregated $75,000,000. Three years ago, for purposes of accounting, a part of the total cost of constructing the canal was written off to national defense. This left, June 30, 1924, a balance of $235,684,662 as the investment in the canal proper and an additional sum of $4,017,642.46 invested in equipment. In 1924 the net income of the Panama canal was $16,807,948.50, and the net profit on auxiliary business operations was $301,624.12.

Alien Women Top Men

Alien women seeking American naturalization in the United States usually meet the examination in naturalization court better than men. The percentage of women successfully passing the test in the eastern part of the United States is said to be considerably larger than that of the men.

Wisdom in Choice

A doctor who had taken up as his specialty the treatment of skin diseases was asked by a friend how he happened to select that branch of medicine. "There were three perfectly good reasons," replied the physician. "My patients never get me out of bed at night; they never die; and they never get well."—Medical Review.

Mouth Organ Really Old Musical Device

The probable ancestor of the mouth organ was the Greek syrinx, one of the most ancient of musical instruments. It was formed of a number of short hollow reeds of graduated lengths, fixed together by wax. The lower ends were closed and the upper ones open and on a level, so that the lips could pass from one to another. The modern mouth organ is the invention of Christian Messner, of Trossingen, Wurtemberg, Germany, about the year 1830. The factory that he founded still gives employment to 5,000 workers, not counting 3,000 home workers in the town. Messner got the idea after buying a child's trumpet at a fair, to place a number of trumpets side by side, each giving a different sound. He produced a piece of wood with breathing holes in it, to which was fixed a lead plate with brass tongues.

From Trossingen the industry spread to other places in Germany, notably Klingenthal in Saxony. During the World war attempts were made by other countries, such as Japan and the United States, to gain a footing in this industry, but Germany soon recovered her trade. Skilled workers, cheap production and an old established industry give the German factories the advantage.

"Flip-Jacks" Made No Appeal to This Post

Taylor, the poet who lived and wrote early in the Seventeenth century, evidently failed to fully appreciate the Shrove Tuesday pancake, or flip-jacks. Dealing with the pancake custom he wrote: "There is a bell rung, called 'the Pancake Bell,' the sound of which makes thousands of people distracted, and forgetful either of manners or humanity; and then there is a thing called wheaten flour, which the cooks do mingle with water, eggs, spice, and other tragical and magical enchantments; and then they put it by little and little into a frying pan of boiling suet, where it makes a confined dismal hissing, like the Lethear snakes in the reeds of Acheron, Styx, or Phlegethon, until at last, by the skill of the cook, it is transformed into the form of a flip-jack, called a pancake, which, with ominous incantations, the ignorant people do devour very greedily."

Melanchthon

The original name of Philip Melanchthon was Philip Schwartzhered. He was born in 1497 and died in 1560. He was a German Reformer. In early manhood he was professor of Greek at Wittenberg university, but became a fellow-worker with Martin Luther. He drew up the Augsburg confession, and managed with consummate skill the conference with the opponents of the reformed religion held at Worms and Ratisbon. By his skill and wisdom he did much to save the Reformation from excesses. On the death of Luther he became the leader of the Lutherans. His most popular publication was a book that is regarded as the first great Protestant work on theology.

The Objective Mind

Can you bring all your faculties to the front, like a house with many faces at the doors and windows; or do you live retired within yourself, shut up in your own meditations? The thinker puts all the powers of his mind in reflection; the observer puts all the powers of his mind in perception; every faculty is directed outward; the whole mind sees through the eye and hears through the ear. He has an objective turn of mind as opposed to a subjective. A person with the latter turn of mind sees little. If you are occupied with your own thoughts, you may go through a museum of curiosities and observe nothing.—John Burroughs.

Boiling Water in Bag

Here is one from Australia on a novel way to boil water. The old fisherman is speaking: "I left my william-can at home one day. The prospect of dinner without tea did not appeal to me. Fishing in the tucker bag, I found a sound paper bag. Making a fire, I propped the bag, full of water, near it. By constantly pouring water into the bag, the top of it was prevented from burning. The water boiled, the tea was made and there was no prouder man in all the land than I." Try this some time when you haven't anything else to do.

Japanese Constitution

The constitution of Japan was not patterned after that of any other country. It was promulgated in 1889 and was formulated by Prince Ito, who, after investigating the constitutions of the various nations, modeled the constitution of Japan largely after the Prussian. It is divided into 76 articles and provides for a law-making body of two chambers, the house of peers and the house of representatives. The emperor convokes, opens and closes the diet, has all executive authority, and all laws are submitted to him for sanction.

Rough on the Preacher

The Sunday school girls of a certain church put flowers in front of the pulpit each Sunday.
One was asked by an elderly person what they did with the flowers after the service.
"Oh, we take them to people who are sick after the sermon," was the innocent reply.

FOREST RANGER EXAMINATION

OCTOBER 27

The organization of fire prevention is constantly "on his toes" in the business of fire prevention and suppression. He is also praying earnestly that everyone will give a thought to the fire danger when in the woods, thus aiding in eliminating every man caused fire.

In spite of the heavy burden imposed on the forest officers by reason of the large number of fires, there have been new roads, fire lines and buildings constructed, as well as a great amount of repair work done. Camp grounds have been improved and additions made. Many new signs have been erected for the guidance of visitors to the forest. Teams and plows have been going continually since the middle of July furrowing four thousand acres of land in need of planting and this week the actual planting operation has begun. Senior Planting Assistant Ralph Johnson is in charge of the planting work and will have a crew of approximately fifty men encamped on the area to be planted. The men are furnished meals and sleeping quarters at government expense.

During the past few weeks Assistant District Forester W. W. Ashe and Senior Investigator Fred R. Johnson in company with Supervisor R. G. Schreck have been examining lands in Michigan and Wisconsin with a view to establishing other national forests. This work is to be carried on further within a few days. It is hoped that in the not far distant future we may see this country well on the road back to fine timber production, which is only another name for greater prosperity for the communities involved.

Metayer System

Under the Metayer system of farming land the cultivator or tenant pays his rent in kind—generally a fixed proportion of the product, not a fixed amount. At one time it was common in France and Italy, but it has declined during the past 20 years. The product of the farm is sometimes divided equally between owner and occupier, sometimes in the ratio of two to one. The proportion is a matter of contract.

Die at Heire's Grave

Heine, famous German poet, lies buried in Montmartre cemetery. His tomb is the scene of many love-sick French people. Police records show that every year at least twenty suicides are committed at his grave by unlucky lovers. This year, the number having exceeded the usual average, the police have decided to station a policeman at the grave to prevent young people from taking their lives there.

First to Foresee Eclipse

The first man, so far as historical records show, to calculate the time of an eclipse in advance was Thales of Miletus, who lived 640 to 586 B. C. He prophesied an eclipse which, according to modern reckoning, took place March 28, 585 B. C.

LAKE LEVEL LOW

THIRTY YEARS AGO

It is said that thirty years ago Lake Huron was practically as low as it is now, the difference noted in the record being less than a foot, the level for December 1895 being 579 feet above sea level, the lowest up to that time. From that point the lake gradually raised with its seasonal fluctuations, until in 1908 and again in 1918 it was three feet above the level of 1895. In 1920 the line lowers again, the summer gain registering less than in previous years. The downward tendency was much the same as during the few years previous to 1895.

If the waters follow the cycle of previous years they will gradually begin to raise this year or next, the general level going up until in four or five years it will be back to a point where it will cover the rocks that have been left high and dry during the last two years.

To Tell Silver Fox

It is almost as important to be able to recognize a silver fox scarf as to own one. From a distance, a pointed fox with the white hairs inserted amidst the black looks the same, but in a real silver fox each white hair has a bead of black at the tip, then a band of white and at the base another touch of black.

Early Glass Making

Glass is said to have been brought to England in the year 674 A. D. by Benedict Biscop, but the first glass factory in England was established at Crutched-Friths in the year 1557. Glass-plate for coach windows and mirrors was first made in England at Lambeth, London, by Venetian artists under the patronage of the duke of Buckingham in the year 1673.
