HOW TO SAVE MONEY WHEN SHOPPING

By MRS. HARLAND H. ALLEN
(©, 1922, Harland H. Allen.)
BUYING MATERIALS BY THE YARD

They tell us that we women shoppers spend a billion dollars every year for textile materials alone. Yet many women know next to nothing about selecting materials, and that is why there are so many poor and adulterated goods on the shelves. It is the presence of these cheap and inferior materials which makes it so hard for the woman who wants to get value received for her money.

When buying materials by the yard, there are several points that the careful purchaser ought to keep in mind. Before setting out on your shopping trip you should know exactly the amount of material needed. What is more important still, is to know exactly the amount of money you can afford to spend. Then you should decide which kinds of materials are best suited to your purpose, and within the price you wish to pay. Next you must know the points that show quality in the various materials, so that whatever you finally select will be worth the money it costs.

Remember always that good materials of their kind should be selected, in preference to a poorer-quality of some more expensive goods. For example, it will pay you in the long run to choose a good quality of serge, if you have only so much money to spend, rather than a cheaper quality of broadcloth which may be selling at the same price as the serge.

Always test the strength of any material you buy. Do this by unraveling some threads and breaking them. If they pull apart too easily it does not speak well for the endurance of the cloth. By holding the cloth up to the light, or by grasping a piece of it with the fingers about an inch apart and pulling steadily, unexpected weakness can often be showed up.

Firmly woven materials usually hold their shape better and wear longer than loosely woven goods. If the yarn is poor and the weaving irregular and sleazy, or long threads float on the surface, do not expect the fabric to stand up under much hard strain. Push the nail against the cloth to see if the weave is strong. Cloth will be more enduring if the yarn both ways is about even strength.

PAYING BY CHECK

"Paying by check is such a great convenience that I wonder that more shoppers do not do it," said a big department store manager. "I was greatly surprised to find that not one-fourth of our women customers settle their accounts that way."

There are many reasons why women customers should make a practice to pay bills by checks. In the first place, it does away with the risk of carrying large sums of cash on your person. It saves time, and the check is a record of the money you spend. A canceled check is the very best kind of receipt. The check also furnishes a safe means of paying a bill when the collector is unknown.

Every woman should know how to make a check properly and to keep her account with the bank. When your first deposit is made the bank will give you a check book containing blank checks attached to "stubs." Always fill out the stub first, as that is your own record of the check torn out. Each time a deposit is made at the bank it should be added to the balance shown on the stub, and each time a check is drawn it should be subtracted. This enables you to know at any time just what you have in the bank. If the bank account becomes low, great care must be used not to write a check for more than you have on deposit. It not only inconveniences a number of persons, including yourself, but is also a criminal offense in some states to deliberately overdraw one's account.

A few other cautions should be mentioned. Never leave blank spaces after the amount so that it would be easy for any one to alter your check. The amount should be written both in words and figures. If a check has been lost, notify the bank to "stop payment." When you wish to draw money from the bank yourself, you simply make a check payable to the order of "Cash" and sign it. It is not wise to make such a check, or endorse others, before reaching the bank lest they be lost on the way and the finder cash them.

At the end of each month the bank will render a statement of your account, and the balance should agree with your check stubs. The depositor must remember that in case she has more in the bank than her stubs show, she still must not draw out the full bank balance, as it means only that some of the checks have not been cashed.

The Difference

Another thing that stands in the way of the perfect equality of the sexes is that when a man buys a new hat he always tries to get one just exactly like the old one.—Ohio State Journal.

The Planet Mercury
Mercury is the smallest planet, and the nearest to the sun. Owing to its proximity to the sun it is difficult to see it with the naked eye. Its mean distance from the sun is 36,000,000 miles, while that of the earth is about 94,000,000 miles. Mercury completes a revolution of its orbit in 88 days; it is about 3,000 miles in diameter; and its mass is only about one-eighth that of the earth.

Makes Night Driving
SAFE

The Controllable Beam on the Better Buick

Night driving strain, the blind insecurity when you dim to keep glare out of the eyes of an approaching driver—both have been eliminated by the Controllable Beam Headlight, a feature of the Better Buick.

Daytime visibility every inch of the way! Bright light all the time! A simple control on the steering wheel lowers the beam when you near another car.

And this is only one of many 1926 improvements which Buick engineering has given to the Better Buick. 75 horsepower and more; Duotone in Duco finish; Triple Sealed Valve-in-Head engine; light-pedal pressure clutch; approved mechanical 4-wheel brakes; and many other exclusive advancements now make the Better Buick the better car to own and drive.

TAWAS CITY SCHOOL NOTES

Our high school stand at the fair this year proved to be a decided success. Although everything is not yet disposed of, about fifty dollars has been realized. This is an encouraging start for the Athletic association, which organized last week with the following officers: President Glenn Wolff; vice president, Alta Leslie; secretary and treasurer, Walter Schlechte; advertising manager, James King.

Mr. Cook, the principal, has been coaching the high school boys, who are interested in base ball, getting them ready for a few games to be scheduled with the near by teams. The chemistry and physics laboratory has been equipped with modern apparatus, including three new combination tables, a new supply cupboard and display case with other necessary equipment to be used by the classes in laboratory work. During the first few weeks of school the following people have visited high school: Irene Davidson, Margaret Murphy, Bernice Graves, Edna Wendt and Chelsea Chambers. We hope to have many more names to print next week. The classes in English are enjoying the several new books that have been added to our library. There is also a splendid line of new reference books in history and science. It is hoped that a sufficient number of students may be made interested in the class for Bible study which was organized last year. Will the parents, who are interested in such a course for their children, kindly send in a statement to that effect as soon as possible? Ervin Galbraith entered the ninth grade the second week of school, increasing our enrollment to 33. The enrollment is somewhat less this year than previously owing to the fact that only eight were promoted from the eighth to the ninth grade from our school as well as rural communities. Several necessary changes in text books have been made in the grades. It is realized that this has been a burden for some of the parents, but we believe that the children will be benefited by this change. It has been discovered that some of the children have found these new texts so interesting and attractive that they have already read them through. Mr. Bogue attended a superintendents convention at Saginaw Thursday.

The senior class, consisting of six girls and five boys, Ila Carter, Margaret Osborne, Edna Daley, Irene Sommerfield, Mabel Myles, Lillian Tanner, Stanley Daley, Forest McCaskey, James King, Glenn Wolff and Walter Schlechte, organized their class last Friday. The officers elected for the year were: president, Edna Daley; vice president, Ila Carter; secretary, James King; treasurer, Stanley Daley; student council rep., Ila Carter. With these executives they intend to put forth every effort toward making possible our best year.

The junior class of 1925 consists of eighteen boys and girls: Beulah Brown, Isabelle Davis, Gladys Fowler, Luella Gackstetter, Irma Kasischke, Eleanor Lange, Hattie Look, Louise Look, May Rouillier, Rose Ruel, Lucile Snyder, Alta Leslie, Reginald Boulder, Charles Colby, Herbert Hosbach, Walter Kasischke, Waldo Leslie and James Senecal. On Monday the class organized electing the following officers: president, Walter Kasischke, vice president, Isabelle Davis, secretary, Herbert Hosbach, treasurer, Hattie Look, student council rep., Reginald Boulder. They too intend to make their junior year the brightest and most successful in the history of the class. Organization of the tenth grade took place Tuesday with the officers as follows. president, Arthur Bigelow vice president, Carl Libka; secretary Violet Brown; treasurer, Pearl Brown; student council rep., Louis Braddock.

The freshman class for this year has organized electing the following officers: president, Carl Harting; vice president, Herbert Buch; secretary and treasurer, Theodora Look student council rep., Cuthbert Bright. Our school notes will be edited each week by two high school students selected from one of the three English classes.

Seventh and Eighth Grades School opened September 8 with an enrollment of 35. Dorothy Cooke and George Prescott have entered since.

The seventh and eighth grades challenged the fifth and sixth grade to a deportment contest. We want to see how much we improve from year to year. We have also accepted a challenge in regard to attendance. Our room has been organized with Stewart Roach, president, George Roach, vice president, Billy Robinson, secretary and Marcella Low, treasurer. We hope to have some class parties and make this year the best one we have ever had. We have already gone on a hike and a roast and plan on going on another Saturday.

Fifth and Sixth Grades There are now 34 enrolled in our room. Charles Malcolm has been absent the past two weeks on account of illness. Bessie Rouiller spent last week in Toledo and Detroit. She gave us a very interesting account of her trip. We all feel that her trip was educational to her and to us as well. We have new books to use this year. They are so interesting that some of us read them all through the first week of school.

The fifth and sixth grade pupils wrote letters to the seventh and eighth grade pupils challenging them to a contest in attendance, starting next Monday. We are going to see which room can have the best attendance for the next nine months. There have been so many absent last year that is hindered us in our work. We are asking our parents not to let us stay out of school unless we are ill. We also don't want to be late for school. We are determined to beat the seventh and eighth grade.

Will you help us? Last week one half of the boys and girls attended the moving picture show on Thursday night, as a result, one half of the boys and girls did not have their lessons on Friday. They were either too sleepy to study or the show was so exciting that they could think of nothing else. Going to show on school night is a poor policy. We must get our lessons but we cannot if we don't get our sleep and our minds off other things.

We extend an invitation to all the mothers and fathers and any others interested to come and visit us. Come and see what we are doing. Third and Fourth Grade The enrollment in our room numbers 45. 18 in the third grade and 27 in the fourth. First and Second Grade Twenty eight children are enrolled in the primary room. 11 beginners 8 in the first and 8 in the second grade. Blinda Yanni and Mildred Cholwer entered the beginners class this week.

SPARROW AND ROBIN

MRS. CHIPPY SPARROW sat under an overhanging ridge of the house on a shutter. It was raining and Mrs. Chippy was not happy. "Never saw such weather," she grumbled. "A body can't get a bite to eat while it lasts."

"Never Saw Such Weather," Mrs. Chippy Sparrow Grumbled.

way, you can't get anything to eat with the rain coming down like this. "Oh, but it will make everything nice and clean," chirped Mrs. Robin. "And then think of all the worms we can get after the rain is over." "Over!" grumbled Mrs. Sparrow. "That is just it, if it ever is over." "But of course it will stop raining," Mrs. Sparrow said. Mrs. Robin in a cheery tone. "It always stops sometime, you know." "Just because it always has stopped is no reason at all why it will stop this time," snapped Mrs. Sparrow. "Just look at the way it comes down on that roof and runs off through the spout, 'nough to drown a body." "But it won't drown anyone," Mrs. Sparrow, and your best nest is safe behind that blind," said Mrs. Robin. "Well, suppose it was under the water spout," replied Mrs. Sparrow, angry because she could not make Mrs. Robin as unhappy as she was. Mrs. Robin began to sing merrily and just then the sun came out from the clouds. "See, there is the sun," she said.

"Yes, and a nice chilly breeze with it to freeze us," said the grumbling Mrs. Sparrow. "Here we are all wet with the rain and now we must shiver. I am sure I will take cold. Oh, what a world this is for poor creatures to live in. I am most starved, too."

"Look, look," chirped Mrs. Robin. "There is the maid in the big house throwing out crumbs for us. Oh, how kind every one is."

"Hub," snapped Mrs. Sparrow, "she wants the cat to catch us, I suppose. I heard her say my nest was a nuisance behind the blind and let it tumble. Now did you ever hear of such a cruel thing?"

But what Mrs. Robin thought about building nests behind blinds she did not say, for she was busy picking up crumbs, and Mrs. Sparrow soon flew down beside her and began to eat. "Great big crumbs," grumbled Mrs. Sparrow. "Have to peck and peck at them before I can swallow them. If I threw out crumbs I would break them up as they should be broken."

"There, what did I tell you? It's raining again," she went on, flying back to her shelter place. "It is a hard world to live in. Things are always wrong."

Mrs. Robin flew away to another tree. "If I stayed there and listened to her faultfindings I might get to be as dissatisfied as she is," she chirped. "I don't see anything wrong with this world. It is a pretty nice place to live in, I think."

Mrs. Robin's way of seeing the world was much happier than Mrs. Sparrow's, don't you think it was? (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

GOOD THINGS TO PUT UP

Pickled Onions.
Use small white onions, remove the ends and skins and wash thoroughly. Cover with brine, allowing three-quarters of a cupful of salt to one quart of boiling water; let stand twenty-four hours. Drain off the brine and cover with a new brine half as strong; boil the onions in this for three minutes and then drain. Pack the onions in jars with small strips of red peppers, a few cloves and bits of whole mace; fill the jars with scalding vinegar in which has been boiled one-half cupful of sugar to each two quarts of vinegar. Seal while hot.

Mandon Cateup.
Remove the stem end of a bushel of ripe tomatoes but do not peel; add one quart each of brown sugar, vinegar, one cupful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of mustard, one tablespoonful each of cloves, allspice and cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of black pepper and one-fourth teaspoonful of cayenne. Boil slowly, stirring often until reduced one-third, or as thick as desired.

Observations on Rivers
There are a large number of stations reporting on the daily stages of the rivers, probably from 500 to 1,000, and in addition there are other stations maintained to study the general climate of the country. These are known as co-operative weather observing stations and probably number between 4,000 and 5,000, well distributed over the United States.
