Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tuttle returned the first of the week from Holland where they were called by the illness of Mr. Tuttle's father.

Cecil W. Cox was pleasantly surprised Thursday evening when a number of his neighbors and friends met at his home. The evening was spent in cards. A fine lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Musolf are the proud parents of a ten pound baby son, born Sunday, November 1. The young man has been named William Martin.

Don't miss this Metro Goldwyn special, Rafton Navarro, Enid Bennett and Wallace Berry in "The Red Lily" with Fox News at the Auditorium, Sunday and Monday, Nov. 8 and 9.

The farmers of Iosco county will need to hustle to retain their laurels in the realm of corn growing from the appearance of some corn exhibited by Mrs. Milo Stevens at the Herald office. It is of the white dent variety and the size, shape and quality would be a credit to Iowa where they are supposed to grow corn that is corn.

L. L. Johnson this week has been exhibiting the new model Victrola. Those who have seen and hear it are very enthusiastic about its appearance and tonal qualities. In the new Victrola Orthophonic success has been achieved in the true reproduction of music.

A recent opinion handed down by the attorney general says that lotteries and the giving of prizes by the drawing of numbers, sold outright or included in the purchase of merchandise is not permissible under the law. The post office department does not allow a newspaper or magazine to mention a lottery or drawing contest in its columns or a list of the winners, as an advertisement or a news item.

IOSCO PIONEER DIES TUESDAY AT PLYMOUTH

Daniel Lowe passed away Tuesday November 3, at his home at Plymouth, Michigan, after a short illness. Mr. Lowe was 80 years old at time of death. He was one of the early settlers on the Hemlock road going there when it was a wilderness of pine forests.

The remains of the deceased were brought Wednesday to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Martin Long, at Tawas City.

The funeral services will be held at two o'clock, Friday afternoon, Nov. 6, Rev. Geo. Smith will officiate. Interment will be made at the Tawas City cemetery. The services will be in charge of Grant's Guiding Star Chapter No. 83, R. B. K. of which Mr. Lowe was a member. The following is the list of pall bearers: John Tyrrell, John Dempsey, Charles Harsch, Alex McCormic, Wesley Groff, and Richard Cornett.

TAWAS CITY SCHOOL NOTES

The faculty were the guests of the Junior and Senior Halloween party given on Friday night at the high school. The evening was pleasantly spent in guessing the masked characters together with other games arranged by the committees.

Mrs. Baguley was a visitor at school last week.

Leota Marzinski of Bay City high school visited school Friday.

A few improvements have been made in the classroom again this week.

A class in spelling has been started. All in high school are required to take this course. We expect much enthusiasm to be created among the grades in their attempt to obtain the highest per cent.

Those boys interested in basketball are working on the out door court noons and evenings getting themselves in train for our first game December 4.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

Everyone seemed to have a good time at our Halloween party held last Friday afternoon. Most were dressed in costumes. Pauline Davis was dressed very cleverly as witch and told fortunes.

This is better English week for the seventh grade. We hope to help them form better language habits.

We have two Christmas boxes to fill this year and we already have a great many things to put in them.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

We had our Halloween party last Friday afternoon. Everyone reported a good time.

Fred Wright and Charles Wright were absent this week.

Mrs. Baguley visited our room last Friday.

We are filling two Christmas boxes. Many useful gifts have been brought so far.

We have five new Health posters for our room. They ought to be a constant reminder for us to take care of our health.

Third and Fourth Grades

The children of this room have contributed generously to the Junior Red Cross Christmas boxes.

The fourth grade geography class has been studying wheat. They are now making a poster of wheat and the products made from it.

Those who had perfect spelling papers last week were Clifford Boomer and Geraldine Fox.

Primary Room

Two new pupils entered our room this week: Gerald Rapp in the beginning class and Isma Rapp in the first grade.

We were pleased to have Mrs. Dease visit us this week.

We have horse chestnuts, butter nuts, black walnuts, hickory nuts and acorns in our collection now.

NOTICE TO DANCE PATRONS

On account of the Armistice party at East Tawas the dance at the Tawas City Roller Rink will be postponed from Thursday, Nov. 12 to Saturday, Nov. 14.

ARMISTICE PARTY NOVEMBER 11th, EAST TAWAS

The Audie Johnson Post No. 211 of the American Legion will hold their 6th annual Armistice party at the Community building, East Tawas on Wednesday evening, Nov. 11.

The Legion has made this their big annual party and are planning to make this one the best yet. They have engaged the Cranton & Ryan six piece orchestra of Saginaw to furnish the music for the evening.

The porch has been glassed in and they will have some surprises for everyone.

Another feature this year is extra good vaudeville. There will be a real Highland Fling and the bag pipes will be there. For those who have not had a chance to see the Charleston dance, the Legion is bringing two dancing teams for that evening. The last of the vaudeville numbers will be some real late song hits.

Leonard M. Bing passed away on Friday, October 30 at Lakemore, Ohio. Mr. Bing was a former resident of Tawas City, removing from here in 1920. He is a brother of Eugene Bing of this city. The funeral services and interment were held at Cheshire, Ohio, the old home of Mr. Bing, on Sunday, November 1.

Leonard M. Bing was born in 1864 and was 61 years old at the time of death. He was not married. During the past few years he had been employed at the Boy's Industrial School at Lancaster, Ohio.

Mr. Bing has many friends in this city who were shocked and grieved to hear of his death.

Eugene Bing returned Tuesday evening from Ohio where he had been called by the illness of his brother about two weeks ago.

EYESIGHT SPECIALIST OF NOTE MAKING RETURN VISIT

Dr. Frederick Gilch, O. p. ometrist, Eyesight Specialist, at Tawas City Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 16 and 17, Iosco Hotel

Dr. Frederick Gilch, well-known doctor of optometry, whose resident office is at Grand Rapids, will be here at the Iosco hotel to meet his old patients and any new ones who may require his professional services.

Dr. Gilch is an expert in fitting eyes scientifically with more than 35 years of successful experience and for the past ten years has been a post-graduate instructor, holding large schools in optometry every summer in Grand Rapids. He is recognized professionally as being one of the leaders in his profession, and many Tawas City and East Tawas people have been fitted by Dr. Gilch most satisfactorily during the past. Consultation free. Special attention to children.

IN MEMORY

No more we hear his pleasant voice,
No more his cheerful face we see,
As in from work at noon and night,
He comes with footsteps light and free.

But he has gone to yonder sphere,
All pure and free from sins,
Sorrow, sickness, pain or death,
Can no more come to him.

LEON V. BELKNAP DESCRIBES NEW SUPER-HIGHWAY

In an article appearing in "Michigan Roads and Pavements," Leon V. Belknap gives a description and tells of some of the immense problems which were met in building Wider Woodward Avenue of which he is builder. This Detroit highway is said to be the greatest highway of all time, exceeding all of the great highways of Europe, and it is a pleasure to the people of Iosco county to know that one of their sons was selected to successfully accomplish this immense undertaking.

Mr. Belknap is from a family of highway engineers, being a son of H. M. Belknap of this city, formerly of Whittemore. Many of Iosco county's highways were built by some member of this family.

The following are excerpts from the article by Leon V. Belknap which appeared in Michigan Roads and Pavements:

"Between Pontiac and Detroit there is rapidly being completed a pavement that is very properly called the World's Greatest Highway—Wider Woodward Avenue. It has an undertaking that is immense—immense in preparation, immense in size, and still more immense in the effect it will exert upon the whole great district northward from Detroit that will be served by it.

"Picture a pavement 44 feet in width, of nine inch concrete, drained with storm sewers and catch basins, with a curb and gutter, and equipped with eight feet of parking space at each side, running through a landscaped roadway 100 feet in width. That would be a splendid road, one that might be viewed with pride by any commonwealth that built it. But that is only one-half of Wider Woodward Avenue—which, when completed, will consist of two such roadways, running parallel, with street car lines between. One of these 44-foot stretches of pavement has now been completed with one-half in use and other half nearly ready for traffic. It extends from the Eight-Mile road, the northerly limits of Detroit, through Royal Oak, Troy and Bloomfield townships to the southerly limits of Pontiac, a distance of thirteen miles. Only in the village of Birmingham, where all ready a wide pavement exists, has the broader highway not been completed, due to the right of way problems which arise.

"Not only is this true, but the right-of-way, grading and other preliminary operations have been completed on the other parallel half of the greater highway except in that portion, about five miles in extent, where the Grand Trunk railway blocks development by its right of way.

"Work upon the great undertaking has been rushed during the season of 1925, and has been concentrated upon the westerly half of the job, with traffic detoured to prevent any unnecessary delays or dangers, so that the entire 44 feet could be completed within the present season.

"Thus there extends over the hills and through the valleys of the picturesque Oakland county scenery one half of the world's greatest pavement—running straight and beautiful as engineering skill could make it, in the very places where ten years ago a sixteen-foot pavement was laid and thought ample for a generation; in the very places, too, where a century ago the frontier Indian was making his painful way through the woods and where the Indian had his hunting trail.

"Wider Woodward Avenue is an extension of the main Detroit street of that name. It is a part of the Michigan trunk highway, M-10. It traverses one of the greatest residential developments in America, which a generation ago was a stretch of fertile farms. Now there is scarcely a cultivated farm for many miles. All this territory has been seized upon by home-seekers and subdivided and made into a beautiful development, which is rapidly being built up. Such parts of it had not previously been subdivided have been so treated since the decision to build the highway was reached, because of the general realization of the manner in which so gigantic a highway improvement must develop the adjacent property. In Bloomfield township alone, this is not generally true. There the famous Bloomfield Hills district maintains its hundreds of large estates; among the most beautiful of the country, rivaling famous Westchester county, New York. Even there, however, some evidence is given of the general tendency to secure home-sites upon the broad highway and some of the larger tracts have been subdivided.

"Wider Woodward Avenue is looked upon in engineering and road building circles as an outstanding example of road-making skill and of foresight in traffic planning. Unique in highway accomplishment as it is today, it is the opinion of the builder that a generation will not have passed before it will be copied in other places as the necessary solution to traffic problems on a main avenue into a large center."

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

QUININE SPONSON

"WHY so moody, Peroxide?" Quinine Sponson asked his wife as he looked up from the morning paper. "You haven't addressed so much as a comma to me all during breakfast. You're not mad, are you?"

"Yes," snapped Peroxide flippantly. "Is it because I put that block of ice cream between your sheets before you went to bed last night?"

"No. I didn't mind that so much." "Are you angry because I brought those six chorus girls home for dinner yesterday?"

"No. Men will be men." "Can it be that you resent my cutting your allowance in half because of the increase in the cost of cigars?"

"No. I regarded that as a mere whim." "Well, then, what can it be?"

With one pull of the tablecloth, Mrs. Sponson sent all the breakfast things flying to the four walls.

"It's your miserable habit of sticking your wet spoon in the sugar bowl, that's what it is! You've done it five times in five minutes, and now I'm through with you!—through! through! through!"

Soon afterwards the divorce was granted and they lived happily ever after.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

MENTAL INERTIA

IT IS the fine solid sort of man or woman, who by power or will alone can overcome the various imps or inertia which habitually cross his or her path, or stand on the highway of life like a common handit and shout out: "Stand up and deliver!"

It matters not what course we may be pursuing in business or among professional callings, we are pretty sure at some time or another to come face to face with this form of sluggishness and drag along for days and days under its strange spell in spite of all the energy we can muster to help us out of our difficulty. And when we finally emerge from the torpor, we realize that we have been in the clutches of an inertia that had slowed us down and frightened us until we were not our normal selves.

There is always in such a state as this, the nice critical moment of finding our bearings, breaking the heavy fetters and regaining again our old-time vitality and aggressiveness.

From timidity to boldness is but a short jump, but the man or woman who can make the leap, confident in his or her strength, is certain to land on solid ground, ready to fight the way to victory.

Those dull, blunt and passive persons whose mental faculties function slowly from habit can in a little while by well-directed, persistent effort become forcible, active and energetic.

But when they once set their faces toward an active life of usefulness they must not be persuaded to turn back to the old disuse, or they will never get an inch beyond the boundary line that separates success from failure.

In point of fact, mental inertia is one of the most formidable obstructions and destructive forces with which the world has to reckon.

It creeps in upon the mind like a thief in the night. It lures its victims to delightful hopes and dangerous illusions and later taunts them for their lifeless incapacity.

Nor does mental inertia preach what it practices, for in its deplorable work it is ever alert in the pursuit of unsuspecting dupes, and never a moment during the fleeting years of time does it discontinue to dethrone and destroy.

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

The young lady across the way says their coal dealer seems to be such a nice man and she is sure every ton he sells contains the full 1,500 pounds.

Not in Class by Herself

Heaven has its troubles as well as earth, only Heaven does not worry about them so much as we do. This fact was revealed by Betty, who was getting into bed when mamma came to kiss her good-night. "And did you ask God to forgive you?" she asked, haying in mind the little temper which Betty had shown during the evening. "Oh, yes, mamma," came the reply, "and God said it was all right. He had many little girls worse than me."

That Thin Knowledge

Required to tell what he knows about Isaac Newton the average person would reply that Sir Isaac was sitting under the old apple tree at Appomattox composing Paradise Lost, when an apple fell from the tree and hit him on the head. He jumped up, crying Eureka! and immediately invented the steam engine.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Seals "Preserved"

Under the law passed by congress in 1912 a reserve of 5,000 three-year-old male seals is required, but this number is not now considered adequate to supply the future needs of the herd in the Pribilof Islands. During the season of 1925, therefore, 9,350 three-year-old seals were reserved from killing. They are marked by shearing the fur from the tops of the heads.—Washington Star.

World's Lightest Wood

Balsa is the lightest known wood. It is found in commercial quantities in Cuba, parts of Porto Rico, Jamaica, Trinidad and along the east coast of Central America, where it is confined very largely to the mangrove swamps and to other inaccessible swampy places. Exploiters often experience the greatest difficulty in getting the logs out of these swamps.

OH! She: How long have you realized that you couldn't live without me? He: Ever since the manager raised you to $200 a week.

Has Done Good Service

Practically all the world's vessels are babies compared with the Italian ship Amta, which was broken up during the present century at Genoa. She was built in the days of Queen Elizabeth, and for well over three centuries had sailed the world's seas. She was not only the oldest but the slowest ship in existence. No wonder, for her hull was of oak 12 inches thick.

Compare these Better BUICK Sedans with "Coaches"

These finer closed cars are built on the famous Buick chassis with the 21-year-proved, 60 and 75 horsepower Buick Valve-in-Head engines. Extra power!

And they have the famous "Sealed Chassis" and the new "Triple Sealed Engine." No other car, regardless of price, furnishes this completeness of protection for driving parts.

And these Buicks have the characteristic Buick charm of body profile. They are finished in Duco. They seat five full-grown people in roomy comfort. They have the Fisher VV one-piece, ventilating windshield, automatic windshield wiper, and a host of like necessities. Buick's exacting closed car standards prevail in their Fisher-built bodies.

Come in and see how much superior these Better Buick Sedans are to "Coaches", before you spend your money!

FIRST LOVE AFFAIR IS TURNING POINT

Struggle of the Adolescent Mind a Severe One.

Calif-love is the easiest thing in the world to laugh at.

That it is less easy to endure was revealed by a boy criminal in a strange letter to the magistrates who tried him. In that document he described the stages of his downfall from the moment when he realized that his first love could not be reciprocated.

Happily, most boys and girls recover from the shock of their first love affair without ruining themselves in the process. Yet no one who has studied the adolescent mind can doubt for a moment that, as a rule, the struggle is a severe one.

The first love affair is far more serious, far more anxious, than people who have grown up are ready to admit.

Nor are its dangers made less, or its burdens lightened by the attitude commonly adopted toward the victim by those who should be his friends. Almost invariably they laugh and deride when a word of sympathy is most eagerly desired and most urgently needed.

The wretched boy or girl is shamed into silence about an event of the emotional life which, after all, is perfectly natural, and must, in any case, exercise a profound influence on his or her whole attitude to life.

Thousands of marriages are ultimately spoiled by cynicism which brands first love as a joke or dilates on its grotesque and silly character. The wild freshness of the dawn is but seldom recovered once it has been lost.

This does not mean, of course, that boys and girls are to be encouraged in sentimentalism.

But their feelings, however exaggerated, must be accepted as genuine for the moment and honored as such. They must be taken, if not seriously, at least respectfully.

If they feel that their strange emotional experience is being understood and regarded sympathetically their own common sense becomes the ally of emotionalism and the enemy of their critics.

Thus, instead of being "laughed out of" their folly, they are very effectually laughed into it. Their best weapon of defense is struck, as it were, from their hands.

It is a good sign of the present generation that it is beginning to take emotions seriously and to grant them their rightful place in the business of life.

This attitude has certainly made life happier and easier for many people. There is no reason in the world why it should not be extended to those earnest but inexperienced mariners, our growing lads and lassies.

Either this powerful force can be used to ennoble and glorify life or it can be turned aside by cheap laughter into channels of shame and misery.—Washington Post.

Giant Bones in Mexico

One of the most interesting of recent discoveries in Mexico is that reported by prospecting miners operating a new gold and silver mining district in the state of Chihuahua. According to one of the engineers, who has reached Mexico City from the Sierra Madre range of mountains where the operations are being carried on, there have been discovered several human skeletons measuring from ten to twelve feet in length. They were all found in one cave, being quite intact. The average length of the feet was from 18 to 20 inches. The anthropological department of the Mexican government is planning to send a commission to investigate the discoveries. The investigation is expected to clear up the origin of the wonderful Indians of the state of Chihuahua. The skeletons were all found in a sitting posture, shoulders bent forward and arms resting on upraised knees.

British Patents in 1924

Applications for patents in Great Britain totaled more than 30,000 last year, according to the New York World, and although the number is 1,000 less than was received in 1923, there was an increase during the later months. Radio developments were the most numerous subjects of the patents, more than 800 being granted, an increase of 200 over the year before. Many applications from inventors in this field were not pressed, the originators apparently realizing that their ideas were in many cases commercially useless or had become out of date while the matter was pending because of the rapid progress in this science. Many patents were for household improvements and the inventions were made by women.

Historical Gala Coach

The management of the zoological garden in Berlin has recently bought the gala coach of little Napoleon II, the great Napoleon's only son, from the Castans museum of wax works. The vehicle is still emblazoned with the Imperial French crown surmounting the date, A. D. 1813. The coach takes its place in the "Little Caravan" at the zoo, a procession of youngsters on the donkeys and camels and in coaches drawn by goats and ponies, making hourly rounds of the zoological garden.

Santa Approves a Christmas Gift. Santa Claus has been down a great many chimneys since he started business, and he is intimately acquainted with a large number of people. He knows that the best kinds of gifts are those which please the whole family, and which bring the excitement and enjoyment of Christmas every week. That is why he looks so jolly when he receives hundreds of subscriptions to The Youth's Companion with which to fill his pack. And, being wise from long experience, he knows that people are likely to overdo things around Christmas, so he chuckles when he sticks a Companion into the top of a stocking. "Be as greedy as you like," he thinks, "the more, the better for you."

The 52 issues of The Youth's Companion for 1926 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. Just send your order to the address below and Santa will take care of delivering the paper to your home or to the home of a friend. Subscribers will receive:

1. The Youth's Companion—52 issues in 1926, and
2. The remaining issues of 1925. All for only $2.
3. Or include McCall's Magazine, the monthly authority on fashions. Both publications, only $2.50.

Two "hushing bees" were held at the home of Wm. Latter. The first for young people at which 40 bushels of corn were husked. A taffy pull, games and lunch filled out the evening. A jolly, good time was reported. The second was for the school children. At this "bee" 20 bushels of corn were husked. After enjoying various games, lunch was served.

Root of It All

Everywhere we are taught that "life is sacred," that "liberty is sacred," that "property is sacred"—but where are we taught that happiness is sacred? And yet it is only because of their relation to happiness that these other things have a trace of sacredness.—James Markaye.

Make Sure!

All previous wills are revoked by the drawing-up of a new will, but so much trouble arises through error or carelessness that it is always best to make sure of the matter by burning the document to be revoked. Remember that, if the new will is lost or destroyed, an older will that is not lost or destroyed might become valid. It is impossible to be too careful.

Exchange of Statues
The equestrian statue of George III which stood at Bowling Green, N. Y., was dragged from its pedestal July 9, 1776, and laid prostrate in the dust. The statue being composed of lead was afterward melted and run into bullets and in 1802 the first statue of Washington was placed on the pedestal it formerly occupied.

Icy Touch of Death
Not Always Terrible

There are few men in this world to whom death holds no terror, who can meet it fearlessly and unflinchingly when not hypnotized by the excitement that goes with battle," a clergyman is reported to have said when speaking of the death of Mr. Bryan and the sentiments the Great Commoner is said to have held on the subject. Yet history abounds with instances of men, who seemed not the least perturbed about the imminence of the Grim Reaper. Take among the kings alone: Frederick I had his coffin carried in a few hours before he died and had a grenadier lie down in it to see if it was comfortable and then suggested that some pillows be placed at the head. Louis XIII, of France, racked by pain, suddenly straightened up and gave orders that a section of the St. Denis road be paved at once. "I don't want my body to be jostled like a bale of hay in those ruts on the funeral procession," he said. Frederick the Great ordered all the clocks in the old palace wound, so that there would not be any "foolish and superstitious people" say that they had stopped when the king died. Napoleon, when his eyes were already glazing, calmly turned down the page in "Plutarch's Lives" he was reading and smilingly questioned when he should continue the narrative. William of Orange, mortally wounded and certain of death, suddenly dropped his head while a reader recited the Twenty-third psalm. And Edward VII of England asked that the Whitechapel band of the Salvation army come and play as usual under his window while he lay dying. And who can count the thousands, unknown and unrecorded, who met death without the slightest tremor of fear?—Pierre Van Paassen, in Atlanta Constitution.

His Inquiry

"The city council got busy last week after the fishing season was about over and ordered barrels filled with cement located in the middle of the intersections of Broadway, Grand avenue, Throgmorton and Zizzle streets, for motorists to drive around," related Constable Sam T. Slackputter, the faithful guardian of the peace and dignity of Petunia. "Then they had signs painted on 'em, fixing the speed of cars at 18 miles an hour. Aw, I tell you, our progressive little city is going ahead by leaps and bounds!"

"Eh-yah!" returned City Marshall Grabbit of Peeweecuddyhump, who had come over for a fraternal call. "But how can them fellers drive 'round and 'round them barrels at that rate of speed?"—Kansas City Star.

Butter in Coffee

"It's odd about folks and their coffee, isn't it?" remarked a waitress in a city hotel. "Some drink it with cream, some without. Some take sugar and no cream and some take both cream and sugar, in various amounts. Only a few drink it plain and black. One man will sip his when it's piping hot, another wants it lukewarm. But the prize eccentricity came to my attention when a salesman came in, ordered his coffee and asked for an extra piece of butter. He put the butter in his coffee, waited until it had melted, and then drank it. All folks are finicky about their coffee, but this one was the most finicky in my experience."

Tree Named for Secretary

In honor of Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine a giant juniper tree, recently discovered in Logan canyon, near Logan, Utah, and said to be the oldest and largest one of its kind in the world, has been named Juniper Jardine. The tree has a circumference of about 28 feet and is asserted by local residents to be the oldest living thing with the possible exception of the redwood trees in California. Secretary Jardine was present at the naming, which took place at a reunion of the class of 1904, Utah Agricultural college, of which he is a member.

Talk 600 Years a Day

The daily average of local and long-distance telephone conversations in the United States is about 60,000,000, or 22,000,000,000 a year. As a basis for estimating we will assume that the length of the average conversation is five minutes—it may not be so long in the very large cities, but in small cities, towns and in the country districts the average conversation exceeds five minutes. On a basis of 60,000,000 five-minute talks per day, the nation would consume 300,000,000 minutes, 5,000,000 hours, more than 208,000 24-hour days or about 600 years.—Thrifty Magazine.

Measuring Blood Corpuscles

The bureau of standards in Washington has attained the finest of measuring devices—a mechanism by which blood corpuscles are enumerated. The blood corpuscles count, which has become an increasingly important aid in diagnosis and treatment of diseases, has hitherto been a somewhat inaccurate enterprise.

Odd Sale "Caught On"

When the owner of an Indiana store left on his midsummer vacation last year, the clerks held what they called "the boss is gone sale." This unconventional name attracted much attention and drew business to the store.—The Progressive Grocer.

Timber Harvest Vast

Thirty-seven billion feet of lumber were cut in the United States in 1924.

Chose Poor Hiding Place

For picking out a stove as a hiding place for his $500, a miner in the Ashby de la Zouch coal fields in Leicestershire, England, is now minus that amount.

He didn't wish his wife to know he had taken the money out of the bank, and he couldn't think of a better hiding place in summer time than a kitchen range. But his wife decided to heat some water for washing clothes and—the moral to this little tale is, "let the wife in on your secrets."

The Beauty of the Heatrola

THAT'S something everyone talks about. And no wonder, for the Heatrola, besides being a powerful heating plant, is also a handsome piece of furniture. It is finished in vitreous enamel, smooth as glass and everlasting, and resembles a mahogany cabinet. With straight, simple lines, gleaming surface, and freedom from "ornamentation," you will find it a welcome relief from the fussy stove which it is so rapidly replacing.

And it is so easy to keep the Heatrola looking like new. Merely a moment going over with a dust-cloth—nothing to polish or shine.

But, of course, the best way to know how the Heatrola looks is actually to see it. Come in and let us show you a Heatrola in "real life"—let us explain to you its many advantages. It is efficient—giving even, comfortable warmth in every room. It is economical—burning only the fuel of a single stove. It is also a handsome piece of furniture for any room in the house.

See the Heatrola now—and all this winter, and through many winters to come, you will be drawing dividends on an investment in comfort, economy, and in appearance.
