TAWAS CITY SCHOOL NOTES

We had an old-fashioned spell down last Friday. Waldo Leslie carried away the highest honors.

Owing to the coldness of the building over week ends, the science department has found it necessary to discontinue using the aquarium until warmer weather.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
This is examination week again and we are all working hard trying to bring up some of our marks. We are going to print the names of those people who have an "A" average.

We have our new Christmas decorations up and we are practicing our Christmas program.

We are going to have our program and Christmas tree up stairs this year.

We find that more of us are paying closer attention to keeping our hands, nails and teeth clean since we began our health inspection contest.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
We are having examinations this week. They are our first gifts from Santa Clause this year.

We have a few Christmas decorations up now.

Some of us are planning on spending our vacation away from home. Ila Sims expects to be in Alabaster, Rose Watts is going to Gaylord and Mrs. Bogue plans to spend her vacation in Detroit and Cassopolis.

Third and Fourth Grades
The fourth grade has completed some very good looking health booklets, and the third grade made Christmas booklets.

We are planning a party for Friday afternoon, so we are busy learning songs for our share of the program.

Geraldine Fox was the only one in the fourth grade to have perfect lessons all last week. She will receive the spelling prize in the fourth grade and Dorothy Smith will receive the third grade spelling prize. The children in this room have worked hard to sell Christmas seals. They have now sold 700.

Primary Room
We are planning a short program and party for Friday afternoon.

We have our Christmas tree up and it is being decorated this week. The first grade is reading the last story in their Winston Companion Readers.

The beginners are memorizing "A Child's Christmas Hymn."

The children have sold 300 Red Cross seals.

We have 13 tardy marks this month.

ABBOTT-HARRIS
On Saturday evening, December 12 the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Simmons, East Tawas, was the scene of a quiet wedding, when Mrs. Simon's sister, Jennie Helen M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Abbott of Wilber, was united in marriage to Bertram Curry Harris of Baldwin. Ada Harris, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid and Alton Abbott, brother of the bride attended the groom.

After the ceremony performed by Rev. J. Strike of East Tawas of the M. E. church, supper was served and the young couple went to the home of the groom's father where they will remain until the beginning of the new year.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB
The regular meeting of the Twentieth Century club will be held in the Masonic hall, December 19. This will be the last meeting of the club this year. Let us try and have a good attendance and do not forget that a collection will be taken for the Near East Relief.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE

FARNUM TRIO HERE TONIGHT

The Farnum Trio will appear tonight at the State Theatre under the auspices of the 20th Century club. This entertainment is accredited with exceptional talent and to be especially pleasing.

The name of Doris Farnum, who heads the Farnum Trio, is well known to Lyceum audiences everywhere. Miss Farnum possesses a contralto voice of rich quality. Her presentations of the folk songs of Ireland to her own accompaniment on the Irish harp are a delightful part of the Trio's program. Another feature of her work is her miscellaneous readings consisting of cuttings from such popular plays as "Hop O' My Thumb" and "Mr. Antonio." English dialects, further attest her versatility in the entertainment field.

Edwyn Hames, violinist with the Trio, is a talented young Australian who is widely known in his native country. He is a graduate of the Melbourne (Australia) University Conservatory. Mr. Hames possesses rare artistry, based upon a nicety of phrasing and a keen depth of feeling.

PRESCOTT'S CATTLE WINNERS AT INTERNATIONAL

At the 1925 International Show held in Chicago approximately 860 head of Shorthorn breeding cattle and steers were on exhibition. These cattle came from herds in all parts of the United States and Canada.

In this show, the largest of its kind in the country, eight head of Shorthorn calves and yearlings from the Richland Herd owned by C. H. Prescott & Sons of this city, won eight ribbons together with cash prizes. A remarkable record considering the competition.

The cattle won as follows:
2nd prize—Summer yearling bull.
10th prize—Summer yearling bull.
7th prize—Junior bull calf.
2nd prize—Pair of bulls bred and owned by exhibitor.
5th prize—Three bulls owned by one consignor.
11th prize—Senior heifer calf.
7th prize—Young herd, (1 yearling bull and 2 heifers calves).
8th prize—Pair of calves.

The heifer calf that stood eleventh was one of the best in the string but took pneumonia upon arrival and was very sick. Had this calf been right she undoubtedly would have been well up in the money.

FRINK A. WEBB

Frink A. Webb, 77 years of age, well known Plainfield township farmer, died Tuesday, December 15. Mr. Webb's health had been failing for the past four years. Paralysis was the cause of death.

Frink A. Webb was born in Monroe county, May 10, 1850. He was united in marriage to Lottie R. Dolby, January 1, 1877 at Whiteford Center, Monroe county. In 1901 Mr. and Mrs. Webb and family came to Plainfield township where they have since resided near the village of Hale. He is survived by the wife and the following children, Charles W. Webb of Saginaw, Ross Webb, Mrs. E. O. Putnam, Leo, George, and John Webb of Hale, and three brothers, Haskel Webb of Nashville, Mich., George and Albra Webb of Sylvania, Ohio, and two sisters, Mrs. B. Hall of Lyons, Ohio and Mrs. L. Whiting of Lansing, Mich., also fifteen grandchildren.

During his long residence at Hale, Mr. Webb's genial manner and sterling character have won him many friends who grieve at his death.

The funeral services were held on Thursday, December 17, at the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. David Shugg officiating.

CHANCES FOR STATE NORMAL BRIGHT

The strength of the forces behind the movement to place the contemplated State Normal at East Tawas, states H. N. Butler, who spent several days last week at Lansing, is becoming stronger every day. The chances of it coming to that city are very bright. While other places have been strenuously pressing their claims for the coveted institution, East Tawas, with its undeniably ideal location and site, having the support of nearly all eastern Michigan, stands at the forefront in possible locations for the normal school.

The movement to locate the normal here should have the support of every person in the county. It is one of the largest projects ever contemplated for this section.

During the course of a few years the state will spend several million dollars in buildings and equipment, and hundreds of students will be enrolled. This will improve the local markets to the farmers, increase the number of employed men and women and in many other ways improve the two Tawas and Isosco county at large.

MABEL LENA CHARTERS
Mabel Lena Charters was born in Reno township, July 14, 1891 and departed this life at her home in Cheboygan, Michigan, at the age of 34 years, four months and fifteen days.

She was united in marriage to Roy Victor Kincaid July 5, 1910 and to this union three children were born, two girls and one boy, namely Beatrice Eleanor, Verneta and Douglas. Her girlhood days were spent in Reno but since her marriage has lived mostly at Atlanta.

Although she has not spent here last years in Reno, she will be greatly missed by all who knew her. Her illness was of brief duration and her death came as a shock to her loved ones, most of all to her companion, who so tenderly cared for her; but God's will must be done and we must be resigned to him; who is wise to err and too good to be unkind.

Besides the husband and children, she leaves to mourn her loss her father, five sister and one brother, Mrs. Josiah Robinson of Reno, Mrs. David Shellenbarger of Lake Odessa, Mrs. Harry Sloan of Masonville, U. P., Mrs. Ed LaLonde and Miss Gola Charters of Bay City and James Charters, Jr., of Reno, besides a host of other relatives and friends.

The remains were brought to the home of her sister, Mrs. Josiah Robinson and funeral services were held from the Baptist church, Rev. J. Roberts, pastor of the church officiated, assisted by Rev. Sharpe.

The sympathy of the community goes out to the bereaved family.

Christmas Spirit as an Interlude

Young Executive Would Not Make Some Happy
and Others Sad.

By JUSTIN WENTWOOD

THE great hall of the penitentiary was brightly lit by electricity. Holly was wreathed along the walls. There was roast beef and plum pudding, and two cigars for every inmate—for the warden was a believer in modern methods of penology. And the men were falling in.

They came in with the prison step, and their faces brightened as they saw the good cheer. They sat down, and for an hour they forgot their sorrows.

They knew that in a myriad of homes families were celebrating. Many of them had wives and children who must pass this and many more Christmases without them. This gave an added poignancy to the dinner. And there was a note of sadness beneath the merrymaking.

The chief guard moved up and down the lines of tables. "Hear the governor's comin' to see you, boys," he said. The whisper ran round the room. Not a heart but beat the faster for the news. The governor was a young man—not far beyond thirty.

The last governor of the state had been spectacular in his methods. He had made a point of setting prisoners free on public holidays. Two Christmases before he had descended on the penitentiary and announced a whole sheaf of pardons. It had left happiness and bitterness behind it, that visit of the late governor's. And he had been an old bachelor. The new governor was young, married—he would take pity on them.

Sol Stoneman, the old forger, with five years yet to serve, heard the news with emotion. Surely he had served his time, paid all the punishment that the law could fairly ask of him.

And Richards, the murderer, who had done seventeen years and was now an old man—surely he was ripe for remission.

And Benson, the financier, who would have looked down upon the why, it was his associates, not he who had wrecked the bank, and he had served two whole years out of seven. Surely the governor would announce his pardon!

And the boy Johnson, who had killed his brute of a stepfather, and got thirty years for it—he had been in the pen since he was seventeen and was now twenty-five. Was his life to slip away, slip away within those walls? Wouldn't the governor give him a chance?

So thought five hundred of the inmates, and gradually the suspense stilled their voices, and they hardly spoke. And the meal drew to a close.

Then quick steps were heard outside. The warden entered: "Boys, the governor's come to see you!"

They rose to their feet. "Three cheers for Governor Browne," yelled somebody. And they cheered with a will. The governor smiled and nodded. They were sizing him up. Why, he was only a kid, this governor. A kid anybody could make do anything he wanted him to.

"Go on with your dinner," said the governor, and he remained chatting with the chief warden and some of the guards. At last he turned toward the men. A deathly silence fell. Now it was coming. Who would be taken? Who could be left?

He began to speak in an informal way. There was none of the flourish and grandeur of the former governor. He spoke of the spirit of Christmas as an interlude in the interactions of life, a little resting place in the struggle for existence. He spoke of the responsibilities of citizenship. There were many there who would look with a keener sense upon these responsibilities when they had their citizens' rights restored to them.

"Now it's coming," thought each and all of them.

And he wished them all a happy Christmas. They sat there stupefied. And suddenly there came to them an understanding of what was in the governor's mind. He would not bring the sense of triumph, of rivalry, into that meeting. He would not make some happy and others sad. That was the Christmas spirit—that interlude. . . .

debased of them.

Christmas Cookies

Cream together two cupfuls brown sugar and one-half cupful butter. Add one-half well-beaten egg, eight tablespoonfuls sweet milk, one salt spoonful salt, one-half teaspoonful soda dissolved in one-eighth cupful boiling water, one teaspoonful cinnamon, two and one-half cupfuls rolled oats, two cupfuls flour. Mix all together and let stand for an hour, then drop a teaspoonful at a time on greased tins. Press a fat raisin on the top of each and bake in a moderate oven. This amount makes about four dozen cookies.

Lily of the Valley
The number of its names testifies to the popularity of the lily of the valley. Prettiest of all these is "ladder to heaven," which refers to its quality of purity and humility. The French call it "Muguet de Mal," the German, "Mal Blume."

Nothing Goes to Waste
Dried rabbit skins are used for the manufacture of felt hats. No part of the skin is wasted—the fur goes to hat factories, while the skins, reduced to shreds by the fur-clipping process, are made into glue, and the overhair and waste underfur are disposed of to manufacturers of fertilizer.

Business Propaganda
You can't always tell about anything; maybe there is a sleeper in the statement, and just as like as not the man who broadcast the opinion that pedestrians have the right of way and don't have to hop around to avoid being run over by a motorcar is an attorney who is looking for damage suits to settle.—Albany Press.

Light on Natural History
The discovery of a section of a large caribou horn imbedded in a swamp near White Cloud confirms the belief held by old-timers that Michigan once was the habitat of this northern game animal. This is the second find of this nature within recent years in the same territory.

Japanese Decorations
Catching fireflies is proving a profitable venture for several firms at Tokyo, Japan. The flies are sold to people giving lawn parties. Sometimes they are hung as decorations in cages about the grounds. Often they are released among the guests like a shower of sparks.

The Fool's Fire
Every morning in the country forest fires burn up the equivalent of a bushel basket full of $10 bills. When the last bill is in ashes our daily waste of $100,000 is accomplished and we square away for the day's work to replace with thought and sweat what folly has destroyed.—Colliers.

We Pay You 6%

Get ready to drive a new Chevrolet. It's easy to do the Certificate way.

Come in tomorrow and choose the model you prefer. Make the first down payment—say $5—and we issue to you a Chevrolet Purchase Certificate that pays you 6%. Weekly or monthly you keep adding to your Certificate savings. All money which you pay on your Certificate is deposited in a trust fund at a bank. In addition to this safeguard for your Certificate payments, both the bank and we ourselves are insured by a strong, well-known insurance company so that absolute protection for your funds is assured.

If you now own a car, we will credit your Certificate with an additional 6% on all service, repairs, and accessories which you buy from us. This is in addition to the 6% interest earned on the money you invest in your Certificate.

Here is the simplest, safest, easiest, thriftiest way to buy a car ever devised. Come in today! Learn how easy it is to own a quality Chevrolet.

Breakfast Caps

At Christmas time breakfast caps blossom out in gay colors, insuring the new year a cheerful start. Here are two in the latest modes. Ribbons and laces will, as usual, set off numberless dear faces during the coming year.

The cap at the top is made of shirred colored net, narrow satin ribbon, lace edging and tiny ribbon flowers. Wide point-de-esprit, with flowers at the front and ribbon ties, accomplish the other pretty headpiece.

For Dressing Table

The prettiest new lamp and candle shades are made of plain and picot edged ribbon, as shown in the illustration. Plain satin ribbon, in strips set together with narrow beading, and laid in shallow plaits, forms the shade, finished with ruffles of picot and plain ribbon. The lamp standard is also covered with the plain ribbon, scantily shirred and sewed row on row. This is a dainty and elegant gift suited to a boudoir reading stand or dressing table.

Lester Had Set His Heart on Giving Peggy a Desk for Christmas.

By KATHERINE EDELMAN

LESTER KINSLEY walked out of the store with a disappointed look upon his usually cheerful face. The sum of money that he had in his pocket was not enough to buy the Christmas gift that he wanted for Peggy. And his heart had been so set on giving her a spinet desk. True, he could let part of the payment price extend over Christmas, but Lester had made it a point to pay cash for his purchases, and the thought of breaking this rule was repugnant to him, much as he wanted to buy the desk. He would have to content himself in buying something else.

But during the days that followed he could not shake off the thought of the desk. He knew that there were many other gifts he could get with the sum that he had—gifts that would probably be just as good—but somehow when it came to looking at them he always hesitated. The spinet desk loomed before as mental vision as the only and desirable gift for Peggy. He had added a few more dollars to his fund, but he was yet short of the price, and Christmas was only two days away. He must get something today!

It had always been a habit of Lester's to read his morning paper with care. Now, before he left the house for the day he scanned it over, page by page, advertisements as well as news. Suddenly he started from his chair. The same make of spinet desk that he had looked at was advertised at another store for a price that was now within his reach. This was in a smaller store in a less pretentious street. "Such luck!" Lester Kinsley whispered to himself.

So, after all, he had the happiness of giving Peggy the Christmas gift that he thought would please her most—and it did.

Use for White Stockings

An eastern hosiery firm received an order from a North Carolina woman with the following note: "The reason I get white stockings is on account of fleas, and we don't know where so many fleas come from. I can't see them on black stockings and they are gone before I can see them, so that's why I get white stockings, so I can catch fleas on them."

Apes and Monkeys

The terms "ape" and "monkey" are frequently used interchangeably; all monkeys are called apes and all apes are called monkeys. But the term "ape" is more particularly applied to the tailless, manlike monkeys of the old world, such as the chimpanzee; while "monkey" is more often used when speaking of the smaller aboreal monkeys.—Pathfinder Magazine.

To Dry Out Wet Boots

The quickest and best way to dry out wet hunting boots is to heat a pan of oats or small pebbles. Get them good and warm, not red hot. Pour them into the boots and let them stand for a half hour. Map of Silver

A silver map of the world, exhibited at the Royal Geographical society, London, is the best of four such maps in existence. It is a thin, circular silver plate, and commemorates Drake's voyage 'round the world, 1577-1580.

Oldest Church Bell

The oldest known bell still in use is in the parish church of St. Mary of Loreto, at Villalago, in the Abruzzi mountains, Italy, and is dated 600 A. D. So that for over 1,300 years it has called worshippers to prayer.

Danger Somewhere

Two men were watching two women pitching their tent at an auto camp in the mountains. "It's dangerous for women to be traveling around alone that way," remarked one, as the women set up their cots and unrolled their bedding. Just then one of the women opened a satchel, pulled out a big revolver, dumped out some cartridges and began cleaning and oiling the weapon. "Yes," said the other man, "it is dangerous. Mighty dangerous."

Relics of Past Age

Most English towns have lost their walls and city gates. York and Chester, however, still retain them. Many English castles, abbeys and colleges still have their medieval barriers.

Mystery Hangs Over

Prophecies of Enoch

The first traces of the existence of the Book of Enoch is found in the Epistle of St. Jude, verse 14, in which reference is made to the prophecies of Enoch from which St. Jude quotes, but it is uncertain whether he derives his quotations from tradition or from writing, although the wide spread of the book in the Second century seems almost decisive in favor of the latter supposition. Considerable fragments are preserved in the "Chronographia" of Georgius Syncellus (about 702 A. D.), and these, with the scanty notices of earlier writers, constitute the sole remains of the book known in Europe till the close of the Eighteenth century.

A report was current that the entire book was preserved in Abyssinia, and at length in 1773 Bruce brought with him on his return from Egypt three manuscripts containing the complete Ethiopic translation. The Ethiopic translation was made from the Greek, and probably toward the middle or close of the Fourth century. But it is uncertain whether the Greek text was the original, or itself a translation from the Hebrew. In its present shape the book consists of a series of revelations supposed to have been given to Enoch and Noah which extend to the most varied aspects of nature and life, and are designed to offer a comprehensive indication of the action of Providence.

Notwithstanding the quotation in St. Jude and the wide circulation of the book itself, the apocalypse of Enoch was uniformly and distinctly separated from the canonical Scriptures.

It's Worth the Money

"Golfers certainly are persistent, even when persistence is costly," declares a seller of supplies at the Sylvan Glen course. "Not long ago a well-knickered chap with plenty of clubs and a terrible slice bought three balls to start his game. At the first tee he drove all three into the creek below, a creek that holds enough water to make recovery impossible. He came back and sought three more and shot two of this new supply into the creek with the others before he finally drove over. After that he played all the way around with the one ball. His experience is not unusual, either. Others suffer the same way. But they keep on buying balls until they make a successful drive. And that one drive always seems to compensate them for their losses."—Detroit News.

Pajamas After This

A coed at Indiana university was sending her washing to a woman in town instead of sending it home, as so many of the students do. The clothes always came back with a neat list of the clothes included, with the price after each. The coed had a favorite blouse that she wore to classes, which was often in the wash. It usually headed the list: "Blouse—20 cents."

One day the regular washwoman was sick and a neighbor did the work. This time the list read, "one-half a pajama—6 cents." It was the same garment. The coed hopes the same mistake will be made in the future, because seemingly as much care was taken with the half a pajama as with a street blouse.—Indianapolis News.

Taking Advantage

Now that Frank Atkinson has given up breaking records and flippers on Cahuenga pass, he devotes his time to his police dog Nan, and recently brought her home from the farm where they have been training her. The dog immediately took a great fancy to Doris. She tried to lick her face, kept brushing up against her and followed her all over the house.

Doris was half afraid of her and once, when Nan rushed up to her from behind, Doris turned and said with great indignation:

"You is 'tentioning me too much, even if I is your relation."—Los Angeles Times.

Extensive Irrigation Plan

A striking scheme of irrigation which will tap the Huancabamba river on the eastern Andean slopes and divert the water through a nine-mile tunnel to the western side of the range, where it will be connected with four or five other rivers and form a permanent water supply for 120,000 arid acres on the coastal plain, is an innovation in irrigation plans now under way in northern Peru. Forty million cubic feet of river water will reach the rice fields and sugar plantations of Chiclayo and Lambayeque by means of a dam about forty-five miles from the seaport town of Piementel.

China's Gifts to the World

The Chinese, before 1357 B. C., invented water cocks, improved weapons, wheeled vehicles, musical instruments and junks. The Emperor Yau built roads and canals. The compass was invented in 1115 B. C. and engraving in 1900 B. C., and gunpowder, firecrackers, which they used extensively at celebrations, etc., and also in battle to frighten horses, etc., and repeating crossbows and printing were also invented by the Chinese.

No Need to Worry

Talk about overcrowding the world is nonsense. On a conservative estimate there are enough unsold building lots laid out in the United States at this writing to accommodate 500,000 people with plenty of purchasable acreage for allotment just beyond.—Miami Tribune.

What Christmas Means
By Floyd Meredith in Zion's Herald

HAVE you ever wondered why it seems that Santa Claus never grows old? Why, my mother knew him in her dreams— When she was three, he was gay and bold; And that was a very long time ago, Yet Santa's as young as he used to be. It's funny he's never changed, don't you know, But lives right along so happily. My mother says—and she tells the truth— That the reason is plain to see, For Santa Claus is the Spirit of Youth In the hearts of folks, like you and me; And that he goes beaming, year on year, Same as the stars above, So that Christmas may mean—say, isn't it queer?— Nothing at all but Love!

FLAPPERS ARE OLD AS RACE'S HISTORY

Have Been Common in Every Race and Class.

There is nothing new under the moon. The flapper of today is one with Tyre and Nineveh. Away in the incredible years when the first foundation slab of the Sphinx was laid, the Egyptian flapper was interfering with the process of its future by furtive glances cast on impressionable members of the board of works of the pharaohs. Cleopatra was a flapper. Shakespeare talks of her "hopping 40 paces down the public street." No one but a flapper could have adopted such a method of progression. Her freak of putting a valuable pearl in acid was sheer flapperishness. Helen of Troy was a girl of many destructive impulses. She would have run at any cost. Hence the wooden horse and the fall of Troy.

At a little later period the skittish Venus was in the same capricious form when she prevailed upon the "Pious Aeneas" to break his journey with her.

Horace in his songs invokes the name of Lalage and other maidens. It is safe to assume that two-thirds of them were little canaries who coyly responded to the lyrical advances of the Latin nightingale.

In the heroic days the Grecian flappers took much more exercise than their Roman sisters. They were the forerunners of the modern sports girl.

Here it may be well to indicate that flappers are not confined to any one class of communities, ancient or modern. They are just as frequent among the plebs as among the patricians.

There is not the faintest doubt that ill-fated Marie Antoinette, in her early years at the French court, was an enchanting flapper.

Another most unhappy woman, Mary Queen of Scots, was so full of epileptic and fascination that John Knox, in Puritan Scotland, found her an easy victim to stern-browed persecution.

Louise de la Valliere was not the obvious type, but she was a type of flapper none the less. She was quite a little bird who attracted the long devotion of a fastidious king in a few flights. Her friend, Mlle. de Tonny-Charente, afterwards Mme. de Montspou, was a bird of brighter methods, but both were of the order seducante that captures kings and clerks alike.

More hoydenish and daring than either of them was the gallant sister of Charles II, later Duchess d'Orleans. Charles' sister was as gay and larkish as the most up-to-date New York fun-seeker. She loved to dress in the apparel of men, as girls of today adore appearing in mock-masculine garb at fancy dress dances.

Nell Gwyn was the very pink of flappers. Her smiles were as restorative as her oranges; and her kisses would have bucked up a regiment. Nell remained a flapper until the end. She never lost the arts of her grinning, impudent girlhood. Charles was a mighty good judge of the fair sex; and it is significant that he gave his best devotion to the queen and pride of flappers.—Book Notes.

Early Protestants

The name "Huguenots" was given to French followers of Calvin, Protestant leader of the Reformation. They suffered massacre at Vassy by the party of Guise in 1562. This act led to the civil wars, which continued until the Edict of Nantes in 1588, when civil and religious liberty was confirmed to them. The massacre of St. Bartholomew occurred August 24, 1572, during a truce in the wars. The power the Huguenots gained as a political party following the edict was of short duration, being destroyed in a few years by Louis XIII and his minister, Richelieu. Louis XIV, in 1685, revoked the Edict of Nantes, and as a result half a million Huguenots fled to England, Germany, the Netherlands, Switzerland and America.—Kansas City Star.

Found It Easy to Forgive

"You know the feeling, that flush of anger that comes over you when you're driving peacefully along a country road and suddenly hear a familiar sharp report," said the motorist. "You begin to curse and ask yourself why you didn't change that tire. Well, I was driving near the Oakland Hills Country and Golf club recently and all of a sudden 'Bang!' I got out to see which tire it was. They were all O. K. Then up comes a beknickered chap and starts apologizing for something. 'Sorry,' says he, 'sort of missed my aim and drove my pill into your rear fender.' Sure enough there was a dent in the fender and the ball was a short distance away. I was only too glad to forgive him."—Detroit News.

It is sponsored by the National Child Welfare association.
