BUSTER KEATON'S NEW EPIC FARCE
Buster Keaton has done it. He has carried out his threat to make a mirth-provoking picture without wearing his traditional pancake hat and outlandish clothes. Don't get the idea that the frozen-faced comedian doesn't wear any clothes in his latest photoscream, "Battling Butler," which comes to the State Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 3-4-5.

He wears plenty of them in the early part of the picture; in fact, he's a veritable fashion plate and 1926 Beau Brummel. Later, however, Keaton turns prize fighter, all for the sake of a girl, doffs his fancy garments and after taking a beating from varied and sundry cauliflower-eared gentlemen, gets up his dander and knocks the champion for a loop.

REALISTIC SCREEN BATTLE
A realistic fight in an Alaskan barroom is one of the features of Metropolitan's "The Flame of the Yukon," featuring Seena Owen and Arnold Gray, which will be the feature of the State theatre Saturday, Oct. 2. The fight's between Gray and Matthew Betz, who plays the part of Black Jack Hovey, a gambler. There are many exciting scenes in the picture.

The annual conference of the reorganized church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints of central Michigan district was in session on the 18th and 19th of Sept. at Whittemore, with a large attendance. Over four hundred being present. About 70 of the Priest Hood.

The Apostle Glazer from Independence, Mo. and W. L. Chapman, presiding Elder of the district and his counselors were in charge of the business session. The session was handled with satisfaction.

The prayer service on Sunday morning was inspirational, the preaching was of a very high order and all enjoyed the feast.

PROCLAMATION BY GOVERNOR GROESBECK
Governor Groesbeck Tuesday issued the following proclamation for fire week:

"By calling especial and emphatic attention once each year to the great losses resulting constantly from fires, it is believed that greater efforts have been put forth by individuals to prevent forest fires and to do away with the causes of unnecessary conflagrations.

It has been decided to set aside one week for the purpose of emphasizing the necessity of fire prevention.

Therefore I hereby proclaim October 3 to 9, as Fire Prevention Week."

WIN MANY PRIZES AT EXPOSITION

The C. H. Prescott and Sons exhibit of Shorthorn won the following at the Sesquicentennial exposition, Philadelphia:

One second prize, one third prize, one fourth prize, two fifth prizes, three seventh prizes, one eighth prize, one ninth prize, one eleventh prize and one twelfth prize.

These cattle took high honors at the Ohio and Michigan state fairs and have been exhibited against specimens from the finest herds in America. The Prescott herd for many years has kept this section of Michigan on the map as a producer of high class shorthorn cattle.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. John Baguley and Miss Marion Hamilton were visitors at High School last week.

Mae Schultz entered High School Monday.

The athletic association reorganized Monday afternoon at a meeting conducted by the former Vice President Alta Leslie. The officers for the coming year were elected:

President, Reginald Bowdler; Vice President, Martin Schlechte; Secretary, Waldo Leslie; and Treasurer, Billy Gleazen. Since the organization has already a sufficient sum to cover athletic expenses, they readily accepted the idea of not having a concession at the fair this year. The time and energy used by our several students, who must manage such a stand, we believe will be more profitably used this year in the school room.

The Misses Dora Kulazeski, Lucille Kane, Mabel Myles and Edna Daley were visitors at High School last week.

On Monday the senior class met and elected the following officers under the supervision of Mrs. Bigelow:

President, Waldo Leslie; Vice President, Gladys Fowler; Secretary, Walter Kasischke; Treasurer, Charles Colby. Under the leadership of these officers the class hopes to have a very successful year.

At a meeting of the sophomore class their officers for the coming year were also chosen.

President, Theodore Look; Vice President, Onalea Main; Secretary, Wallace Leslie; Treasurer, Howard Swartz.

The business training class has completed the study of thrift and safe investments and are this week investigating the nature and value of life, accident, health and various kinds of insurance policies.

Everyone enjoyed the two half holidays last week.

The eighth grade language class has been studying debating. Each member of the class took part in one debate.

We are drawing near the end of the first month of school. We shall soon be able to tell what kind of a beginning each one has made in this year's work. A good beginning is often a good ending, and a poor beginning is often a poor ending.

FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADES
Some very interesting reports have been given by the sixth grade geography class, on Cotton.

The "Red Racers" are proud to report a 100% spelling lesson Tuesday.

THIRD AND FOURTH GRADES

Great Fight Scene
The final big fight scene, in which Buster humiliated by the world champion suddenly develops into a human wildcat and gives the boxing celebrity a terrific beating, has been rightly hailed as a greater fight than the one in "The Spoilers." For suspense and excitement, "Battling Butler," although built for laughing purposes, is eclipsed by few dramatic features. Keaton has surrounded himself with an unusually capable cast. Pretty Sally O'Neil, Buster's new leading lady, gives a charming interpretation of the small town beauty-and-bride-role. Others who contribute to the laughs and thrills are Snitz Edwards, Francis McDonald, Tom Wilson, Walter James, Mary O'Brien and Eddie Borden.

A tiny house, a plot of earth; And thou, and I ah, these make home!

SEASONABLE DISHES

ALTHOUGH clear soups, which are largely water, contain little nourishment, they are of value because they stimulate the juices of the stomach. Appetizing soups may be made of materials otherwise wasted. Good soup is not necessarily made from soup stock; vegetables of various kinds as peas, beans, asparagus, cooked until soft then put through a puree sieve, heated with milk and bound with butter and flour cooked together, using stock sometimes if at hand, will make many kinds of soups.

Split Pea Soup.

Take one pint of split peas, four quarts of water, one large onion minced fine, four tablespoonfuls of butter, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of minced celery, or a few dried leaves, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, and two teaspoonfuls of salt. Wash the peas and soak them overnight in cold water. In the morning pour off the water and put them into soup kettle with three quarts of water. Place over the fire and bring to the boiling point. Pour off this water and add four quarts of boiling water, let the peas simmer for four hours. Add the celery the last hour of cooking. Cook the onion in the butter, add to the peas with the flour and cook until smooth and well blended. Rub all through a sieve and season and serve.

Scotch Broth.

Take three pounds of mutton, two tablespoonfuls of pearl barley, two tablespoonfuls each of minced onion, turnip, carrot, celery and salt, one tablespoonful of minced parsley and three quarts of cold water. Remove the bones and the fat, cut the meat into small pieces and put into a kettle with the water, chopped vegetables, barley and seasonings, except the parsley. Simmer for three hours, add the parsley and serve.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL
Facts about your name, its history, meaning, whence it was derived, significance, your lucky day, lucky jewel

AUDREY

AUDREY is closely allied with Ethel. Both signify "noble threatener," since they have their origin with the Anglo-Saxon feminine name Aetheldred or Aethelthryth, which in turn comes from the German Edithrud noble maiden.

The first Audrey of note was the Anglo-Saxon Saint Audrey. She was in reality Queen Aethelthryth; who was rather an unsuccessful wife and retired to a monastery, later being canonized as St. Etheldreda. She was revered as St. Audrey and many fairs are given in her honor by the peasantry. It is said that the garish little articles sold at these fairs have given rise to the term "tawdry."

Because of her saintly reputation, the name of Audrey reached a high estate of popularity in England and has never ceased to be in common usage. Particularly of late has it been revived and set to rival its counterpart, Ethel. Addy, which is commonly believed to be the contraction of Adelaide, is really the Devonian diminutive for Audrey.

The Hotel Stenographer

"THAT'S Henry Hammond's son," explained the House Detective. "That's why I do not like him," answered the Hotel Stenographer, looking after a young man who had just given her some dictation. "I have no use for a boy who is celebrated because he is somebody's son."

"A lot of sons of famous men loaf around Peacock Alley here in this hotel and several of them have tried to make me. I turn them all down promptly."

"I play with a lot of boys whose fathers I never heard of. Some of them were hod carriers and some of them were preachers; some of them were small-town merchants and some of them were farmers. I never care. I am interested in their jobs, not their ancestry. I never loved a dog because its papa and mama were registered and had been in a bench show. It's the dog I like and nobody can pick out their ancestors, anyway."

"A lot of boys think they can get by in the world because of what their papas did. They may be able to get their money that way, but they can't get me."

"I would rather know a boy who had taken a half-nelson on the world and twisted a living out of it for himself. When I am with him I may have to ride in a flivver but with good roads everywhere a flivver is good enough. I may have to go to the 'movies' instead of having orchestra chairs in a swell theater but the 'movies' are often better than the theater, anyway. I wonder what certain rich boys would have done if they had gone to public school and had a paper route? Would they spend so freely if they knew how hard a dollar is to get? Every boy I play with is a possible husband and I always wonder what father's son would do to make a living if papa's money ran out and I was married to him. Nix! Give me a boy with a union card and a good trade."

Cause and Effect

When Eddie Laemmle was making "Spook Ranch" it was only natural that the boys got to telling ghost stories. Finally some one asked a darkey who worked in the cast if he had ever stayed in a haunted house.

"Ah sure has," admitted the black man. "But never again!"

"Why, what happened?"

"Well, sub, long 'bout two in de mawnin' Ah wakes up, an' dar comes Mistah Ghost right through de wall, jes' like dat wall wasn't dar."

"And what did you do?"

"Me? Ah went through de other wall de same way."

Tawas Briefs

Vol. 1 September 24, 1926 No. 1

Published in the interests of the people of Iosco County by Wilson Grain Co.

BURLEY & LEE, Editors

Moon Steinhurst down at The Herald office says everybody thinks he knows how to run a newspaper.

We're no exception to that rule.

But we can't afford a newspaper of our own. We're too busy with the elevator business.

So we have arranged for this little corner in the Herald and will devote it to news of our customers and our business.

We may not talk about the buying and selling of Farm Products, Coal, Flour and Feed all the time.

We may decide to write poetry or high brow editorials.

But we'll at least try to be interesting and we hope you'll watch for it each week.

Our editorial policy will be simple.

First—The best service and prices, both in buying and selling.

Second—Good Fuel, Flour and Feeds.

Third—A better Iosco County.

Fourth—Absolute neutrality in politics. (Safety first.)

Correggio's Odd Death

The death of Correggio, the great Italian painter who lived in the early part of the sixteenth century, is alleged to have been caused by his having to carry home a sum of money due him for a picture he had painted, and paid in copper coins to humiliate and annoy him. The painter carried the money some twenty miles on a hot day to save the expense of hiring a conveyance. The consequent exhaustion led to a breakdown that ended in his death.

Man Who Reaches Top

To achieve what the world calls success a man must attend strictly to business and keep a little in advance of the times. The man who reaches the top is the one who is not content with doing just what is required of him—he does more.—E. H. Harriman.

LYDIA
PINES

By HONORÉ WILLISIE

The author of "Still Jim," "The Heart of the Desert" and other splendid American stories, has outdone all previous efforts in her creation of Lydia, one of the most appealing figures in our distinctively American fiction. A novel to be read eagerly for its plot alone, it contains so much to think about and talk about that no brief description suffices. One must read it to appreciate it. The reading will surely yield a vast amount of pleasure.

SMILE FOR SMILE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WE CAN'T be merry all the day, but if a friend should come your way

With smiling face and happy air, Whatever load you have to bear, What sort of sorrow for awhile, I hope you give him smile for smile!

Now, much is said about the need, Of bringing cheer to hearts that bleed, And bringing joy to souls that weep; But there's another faith to keep, There's something for the sad to do— To smile at folks who smile at you!

So when they come, as come they will, To speak of good in time of ill, To speak of blessings, too, no doubt, Perhaps you had forgot about, When joy comes knocking, night or day, Run out to meet it half the way!

Yes, there's a duty for the sad, When good folks come to make you glad, And that's to grin, and show your grit, And cheer yourself a little bit. At least this much you ought to do— To smile at folks who smile at you. (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Support for Grapevines

The bureau of plant industry says that copper wire may be used to support grapevines. While the copper wire is more expensive at first, some believe that it is cheaper in the long run, as it endures longer than galvanized iron, which is used more universally. The galvanized iron wire needs to be removed in about three years. No. 10 wire is the size which is used for vineyard trellis.

The TALE of KIDDIE KATYDD
by Arthur Scott Bailey

A NOISY CROWD

WHEN the night of the races and other sports finally came, when Katydd, Mr. Frog, Benjamin Bat, and others had planned to meet, a great crowd began to gather about Farmer Green's place soon after dark. Although Benjamin Bat had told people that the fun wasn't going to begin until almost morning, they were all so excited that they couldn't wait for the night to pass.

They lingered around the dooryard and talked so loudly that they actually disturbed the household. Farmer friends that he hated the thought of trying to beat Kiddle at jumping. "Kiddle might feel bad," said Mr. Frog. "People might laugh at him because I won."

"Don't you worry about me!" Kiddle Katydd called out.

"Where are you?" asked Mr. Frog, looking all around. "I can hear you, but I can't see you."

But Kiddle Katydd refused to show himself. He preferred, for the time being, to remain safely hidden among the leaves, where he could listen to what people said—and talk to them when he wanted to.

"Wouldn't you prefer some other sort of contest?" Mr. Frog then asked him. "Now, there's swimming! We could swim in the watering-trough, or the duck pond. And if I beat you, you could stick your head under water, so you wouldn't hear what people said. Don't you think that's a good idea?"

"Goodness, no!" cried Kiddle. "I'd drown myself in no time."

"Dear me!" said Mr. Frog. "I never thought of that!"

And then everybody laughed so loudly at him that he hurried off to the watering trough to dive under water, and stay there until he was sure that his remarks had been forgotten.

Meanwhile Benjamin Bat was worrying. He couldn't find anybody who was willing to try the sport of hanging head downward by his heels. He asked Kiddle Katydd, and Kiddle declined flatly to do any such thing.

Now, since Benjamin had not yet dined, he was very short-tempered. And he grew angry at once.

"What's the matter?" he sneered. "Don't you know how to do any easy trick like that? If I could see you—" he declared, peering among the maple leaves—"if I could see you I'd show you how it feels to hang beneath a limb."

Kiddle Katydd said no word in reply. He knew well enough what Benjamin Bat meant. Benjamin wanted to eat him! And he wished that Benjamin would go away and get a good meal somewhere before he came back again.

Benjamin Was Very Short-Tempered. "What's the Matter," He Sneered.

Green was even tempted to get up and shut his window, he found it so hard to go to sleep.

The noisiest of all the gathering was Mr. Frog, the tailor, who lived over by the creek.

He had a great deal to say about everything; and it soon became plain to everyone that he was trying to manage the whole affair.

Mr. Frog objected to every arrangement that Benjamin Bat had made. When he learned that he was expected to enter a jumping contest with Kiddle Katydd he explained that he and Kiddle were such good
