The first artesian well was found in Europe in the province of Artois, hence the name "artesian."

BRADDOCK RE-ELECTED MAYOR OF TAWAS CITY

L. H. Braddock, heading the Peoples ticket, was elected mayor of this city at the election held last Monday. The election was remarkable in that there were two ties—Ernest Schreiber and Alfred Boomer in the first ward and Edward Trudell and H. J. Keiser in the third ward were tied for aldermen. Each of the four men received 38 votes.

The following were elected: L. H. Braddock, mayor; W. C. Davidson, clerk; Mrs. John B. King, treasurer; F. F. Taylor, justice of the peace; First Ward—C. E. Tanner, supervisor; Ernest Schreiber and Alfred Boomer tied for alderman. Second Ward—C. L. McLean, supervisor; Wm. Wendt, alderman. Third Ward—W. E. Laidlaw, supervisor; H. J. ## SCHOOL NOTES

High School

Baseball practice has begun on the grounds at the school building. Some games with surrounding schools have been scheduled. We trust that we will be able to obtain a full schedule.

A commercial club party will be held at the school building this evening. We already realize, although the event has not yet occurred, "that all had a good time."

The Student Council of the high school is now fully organized. It consists of one member from each of the four grades, a president elected by the high school at large and a faculty representative.

Dorothy Bigelow was recently selected by the Seniors to give the third Commencement part; that is, the Prophecy. Commencement will probably come Thursday evening, June 12.

The class of 1930 is considering the purchase of some worthy material to leave in the building by which to be remembered by future classes of Tawas high. This certainly is a worthy project and one in which the class should be encouraged.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
A number from our room have completed their essays for the "Health Essay Writing Contest." The winner will likely be chosen next week.

The eighth grade reading class has just completed the study of Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal."

Third and Fourth Grades
The fourth grade has finished the regular reading book and is using supplementary readers now.

The third grade is learning "The Bluebird."

Primary
Martha Herman, Kathleen Davis and June Louise Smith are ahead in spelling.

Miss Hardies' room played "Grimsy Joe Tren" and "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" for us and we liked them very much.

TAWAS CITY BOY SCOUTS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Troop 77 of Tawas City Boy Scouts held its regular meeting at the Baptist church on Monday evening, April 7. Seventeen boys were present.

As this was the end of the year, the meeting was used to elect new officers for the coming year. The following boys were elected:

The Boy Scouts of East Tawas asked us to accompany them on a hike to Evans' cottage on Lake Huron. All agreed to go. The meeting was then closed.

Ellwood Daley, Scribe.

ANNUAL NORMAL PLAY TUESDAY, APRIL 29th

Another Wayne P. Sewell production, surpassing the "Flapper Grandmother" given by East Tawas high school in 1928, is the home talent musical comedy, "Here Comes Arrabella."

This play is to be given as the annual County Normal play, April 29, at the Community Building, East Tawas. There are forty people in the cast and chorus, with very attractive costumes—also pleasing specialties.

It will be recalled that some of Boyd's most successful roles have been those in which he wore the distinctive garb of some branch of civil or military service. These include such pictures as "Dress Parade," "The Midshipman," "The Cop," "The Leatherneck" and "The Flying Fool."

Gregory La Cava, who was placed under contract by Pathe following the success of his production of "Big News," in which Robert Armstrong and Carol Lombard are featured, directed "His First Command," and Ralph Block was the producer. This is the first of three important pictures in which William Boyd will be starred on Pathe's new program. Dorothy Sebastian is featured as leading woman and the supporting cast is unusually imposing.

7:30 p. m., Friday evening—Recreation and Expression. Topic—"Must I Join the Church to be a Christian?" Roll call—Traits of Character I Like to See in Young People.

H. J. JACQUES BURNED WHEN STOVE EXPLODES

H. J. Jacques, manager of the Whitemore Elevator company, was seriously burned last Friday morning when a stove in the elevator exploded while he was attempting to build a fire. He used what he thought was kerosene oil to kindle the fire, and he did not have time to move away when the flames burst forth. His clothing was nearly burned from his body.

The interior of the office was badly burned before the flames could be extinguished, and many of the office record books and valuable papers were destroyed. Fortunately the fire occurred at train time and a hose was connected to the engine tank and the water used to put out the fire in the building.

Mr. Jacques is now in a critical condition at his home under the care of Dr. J. W. Weed and a trained nurse.

LOCAL BASEBALL CLUB WILL ORGANIZE WEDNESDAY

A meeting of the Tawas City baseball club will be held next Wednesday, April 16th, at the City Hall at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of organizing and to transact other business. Veterans and prospective players are urged to be present.

WILLIAM BOYD AGAIN IN MILITARY PICTURE

William Boyd and a uniform are becoming synonymous. The Pathe star's next appearance will be as a young khaki cavalier of the United States Cavalry in "His First Command," a new picture written especially for him by Jack Jungmeyer. It will be seen at the Family Theatre on Sunday and Monday, April 13 and 14.

It will be recalled that some of Boyd's most successful roles have been those in which he wore the distinctive garb of some branch of civil or military service. These include such pictures as "Dress Parade," "The Midshipman," "The Cop," "The Leatherneck" and "The Flying Fool."

R. G. SCHRECK ADDRESSES T. C. CLUB WOMEN

R. G. Schreck, of the U. S. Forestry, was the speaker at the Twentieth Century Club Saturday, April 5, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Braddock.

Mr. Schreck spoke interestingly of the early lumber days in this locality, of the immense number of logs floated down the AuSable, the AuGres and tributary streams. He made mention, briefly, of the early lumber barons who are often blamed for the great waste of timber, and explained that this was not the fault of the lumbermen but was made necessary by the only methods of taking the timber known or usable at that time. As a parallel, he told of the way the land was cleared for agriculture in the southern counties of the state where large hardwood trees, maple, oak, birch, walnut were felled by the early settlers and burned on the land, to dispose of them and fit the land for farming. We regret it now, but it seemed at the time the only way in Michigan's lumber and farming development.

He explained the methods and aims of the forestry department, and of the splendid experiment of the Kiwanis plantation, and of the project now on foot of placing on the bank of the AuSable river a monument to the Michigan lumberjack, who by his faithfulness and daring helped to maintain Michigan's great lumber industry.

The club members appreciate very much Mr. Schreck's fine talk.

The next meeting of the club will be April 12 in the lobby of the Masonic building. Topic, "Child Health," by Mrs. Smith.

IOSCO SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Alabaster Community school announces a Father and Son, Mother and Daughter banquet to be served in the church auditorium Monday evening, April 14th. Everyone welcome. Phone reservations to Stanley Rescoe.

April 4th, the afternoon Leadership Training class which has met for the past seven weeks, completed a course of studies in the Old Testament. In appreciation of his splendid service as instructor, Rev. Metcalf was presented with a gift of gold. A blossoming plant was given to Mrs. Mae Dease, the hospitality of whose home has been thoroughly enjoyed by the class. The names of the twenty-one credit students are listed as follows: from Rose City, Mrs. Verne Nye, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Dean; from Hemlock road, Mrs. Earl Allen, Mrs. James Chambers and the Misses Dora Coates and Lois Chambers; from Alabaster, Mrs. G. W. Brown; from Tawas City, Mrs. Olive Davidson, Mrs. Frank Dease, Mrs. Wm. Lesington, Mrs. Ervin Ulman, Mrs. Wm. Ulman, Mrs. Alfred Boomer, Mrs. Frank Metcalf, Mrs. W. C. Davidson; from East Tawas, the Messdames, Evans, Hughes, Price, Sedgeman and Shattuck. Visitors at various sessions included Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Beebe, Stanley Rescoe, of Alabaster; Miriam Sedgeman of East Tawas; Mrs. Pringle, Mrs. Horton, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Hatfield of Tawas City; the Misses Celia Smith and Hazel Burt of Hemlock road.

Only two more Sundays of the inter-school contest remain. Scores at present are as follows: Alabaster first in increased total attendance with a percentage of 71; Hemlock road second, percentage 33; Whitemore M. E. third, percentage 18. In the increased attendance of men, Hemlock road leads with a percentage of 64; Hale M. E. second with a percentage of 46; Alabaster third, percentage 42.

"DEVIL MAY CARE" WITH RAMON NOVARRO A ROMANTIC PICTURE

Ramon Novarro, dressed in the handsome uniform of a lieutenant of Napoleon Bonaparte, making his escape from a firing squad; climbing into a beautiful young woman's bedroom; masquerading as a footman; duelling his way to fame and fortune. . . . These are some of the sequences of "Devil May Care," Novarro's all-talking screen romance which will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre.

Among the scenes which stand out are "shots" of a cavalry troop riding down a mountain road; the historic scene in which Napoleon bids farewell to his guard; a forest glade in which Armand and Leonie go horseback riding; scenes in a French chateau and a scene filmed in technicolor in a reproduction of the gardens at Versailles.

Novarro sings a variety of attractive musical numbers in the picture written by Herbert Stothart and Clifford Grey. Songs are also sung by Miss Harris, who is well known as a "blues" singer, and Miss Jordan, who was formerly in New York musical comedies. The musical numbers range from sentimental love songs such as "Charming," "If He Cared" and "The Shepherd's Serenade," to the comedy songs, "Pompadour" and "Bon Jour, Louie," and the rollicking military number, "March of the Old Guard," which Novarro sings with a large chorus.

THE STORY

On a pleasure trip in eastern waters, Philip Amory, English World War veteran, now a trader on the island of Papua, New Guinea, plunges overboard to save the life of a musical comedy actress, known as "Gin-Sling." Amory becomes interested in Pia Laurier, member of a wealthy New South Wales family. He tells her of his knowledge of a wonderful gold field on the island, though he does not disclose the name of the place. "Gin-Sling" tells him Pia is engaged to Sir Richard Fanshaw. Amory, however, is confident that the girl is not indifferent to him. His holiday ended, he arrives back at Daru. He meets an Englishman, Spicer, there on development business for a syndicate of which Fanshaw is head. Fanshaw's name recalls to Amory a long-forgotten incident.

CHAPTER III—Continued

The tide was down, and the cutter aground. I cannot tell with what anxiety I examined her. I would almost have set sail on a tree trunk, if nothing else could be had—to get away.

Beyond all belief, I found the hull sound enough to float, with a bit of bailing. The mast was smashed, but I thought we could rig one up with the boom, setting the jib behind it. I went to look for Taviti; found him sleeping peacefully in his hole, and dragged him out by one leg.

"Hurry, Taviti," I urged. "The tide's on the turn, and we'll never get the boat down unless we catch it. She'll float. Come on."

"Ariki," he objected, "me old, me hungry, want to go look for some house I get kai-kai" (food).

There was nothing for it but a lie. I had already decided that Taviti should know nothing; what he did not know, he could not spread abroad.

"This is a desert island," I told him coolly. Full of ghosts, up to the brim and spilling over. Let's get away, sharp. And you can pick a few coconuts to take along, if you're as hungry as all that. Not the coconuts on the ground, Taviti! Those are ghost coconuts. Get them off the tree."

We loaded the boat with nuts, and started work on the broken mast. I was mad to get away. It was not yet dawn, but the moon seemed paling, and I heard, among the palm tree tops, inland, the first faint notes of waking parakeets.

If—"They"—were to hear us—if "They" came out—my secret was lost. And I had some idea, by this time, as to how the Power that owned Omega regarded people who poked inquisitive noses into secrets; how they might be likely to treat me, if I was caught.

Taviti and I got the large fairweather jib set, with the gaff for boom, and got under way. In the new yellow dawn, a mile distant, I saw the island clearly—small, low, pricked with palms; one like a thousand others. And I judged that Taviti would never know he had not landed on Turi, after all.

Back again in Omega, I got charts, which I should undoubtedly have had before, and the Sailing Directions. I looked up the island on which I had so unwillingly landed. This was what our own Admiralty volume said about it—"Iota— . . . This island is the leper quarantine station for the Omega group. Serious penalties are attached to landing."

"Yes," I said, closing the book, "and I can add to that; getting a leper away from it—to Valparaiso or elsewhere—is five years on the break-water."

All this I remembered, point by point, as I walked beneath the mangoes of Daru, three thousand miles away from Omega in distance; years in point of time. I remembered it clearly, without omission, as if it had happened yesterday. And most clearly of all did I remember—now—the face of the man who wore the yellow dress with the black spots big as plates. Undoubtedly, it was the face of Sir Richard Fanshaw. Everything came back to me—the height of the man, his thinness, his chestnut hair and yellow-brown eyes, the slim arched nose and neat chin, the lips, unusually red for a man's; the voice, peculiarly resonating and deep in tone; even the injured and deformed finger nail that I now remembered I had seen, as Sir Richard came up the ship's accommodation ladder, sliding one hand along the guard-rope. I was as sure as I was of my own existence, that Pia's fiancé was the leper who had, that night, escaped from Iota island.

Not while I stayed in Omega—which was no longer than the call of the next boat—did anyone discover what had happened. Down in Auckland, I came upon a paper that related the daring escape from Iota of a "foreign speculator" named Fellows, who had been buying up certain commercial interests for his country, and who had, in the course of these affairs, deemed it necessary to take out papers transferring his nationality to the flag that waved over Omega. A luckless transfer! It placed him beneath the Omega laws, and when a dramatic accident—the discovery of a seemingly harmless mark upon his body, when bathing—obliged him to go up to the local doctor for examination, he was sent without mercy to the quarantine island. There were those who hinted that Fellows' recently acquired commercial interests had something to do with the case; that a big company was behind the doctor. Be that how it might, Fellows was sentenced to Iota, and, but for the daring rescue, would probably have spent the rest of his days there.

Fellows had been nine weeks on Iota. Nine weeks on an islet inhabited by the terrible things I had seen; an islet reeking with contagion, and innocent of any modern sanitary precaution whatever.

"You Haven't a Dry Thread on You," He Observed. "Better Shift."

He might or might not have had the germ with him when he went there; but nothing was more probable than that he had taken it away with him, in any case.

Leprosy, I knew, could lie dormant for many years; might even acquire, develop so slowly that the victim could live an ordinary life without being suspected, for a very long time. If Fellows was indeed Fanshaw—if he had gone to Omega to carry out a daring speculation in Omega products, concealing his name, and altering his nationality—a course that sounded very like what one had known of him in the war—then, the most horrible peril that can be conceived hung over Pia, and there was no one but myself to get her out of it.

Myself—with a hundred odd pounds of capital, no position and no reputation, save the unlucky one of being in love with her. Myself, against a rich and famous man, high placed in society, and approved by Pia's family—no doubt approved by the girl. Time against me, place against me, everything against me, save one thing—the fact that Fanshaw was coming to New Guinea.

CHAPTER IV

It was late before I ended that restless tramp. The night had turned to rain, as it so often does in Daru; my torch, when I snapped it on to see the way, shone on a myriad of crystal rods, dancing all over the road. The frogs had begun their nightly chant—"Port, port, port! Starboard, starboard!" In the near distance, among the mangroves of the beach, an alligator belled, as they do on these wet steamy nights. I said to myself, with sudden resolve—"I'll go to Bassett; tell him the affair, and see what he says."

They were not yet gone to bed, in the Residency. I could see them from the roadway, Bassett's grave, ministerial face (he was the son of a well-known parson, and looked it); Northanger's narrow countenance, that was like the face of a schoolmaster, until you caught something strangely

Zinc Causes Paint to Show Color Variation

A man's puzzlement over a fence post which he had painted black, but which turned white every night, was the starting point of a program of research which has culminated in the discovery of a number of chemicals having this remarkable chameleon-like property scientifically termed phototropy. Information regarding these chemicals has now been made public by the American Chemical Society. The famous fence post was painted with a "pigment having a zinc basis." It would turn black soon after sunrise each morning, only to turn white again when darkness came. Many explanations have been given for the phenomenon, but scientists hard at the back of the blue eyes; Purchase, hair ruffled like the feathers of a hen, and features, as always, on the verge of a laugh, seeming to take the world, and his share of it, which was assuredly a hard one, very merrily indeed. Spicer was not to be seen; I was glad of it, for island houses offer small privacy, and I had that to say which would not pass with Fanshaw's friend. The others looked, in their fresh white shirts and pipe-clayed shoes, exceedingly clean, comfortable and peaceful—enjoying for a few days, an oasis in the desert of hardships that made up their common lives.

Into the midst of this, I came, wet and bedraggled, and I make no doubt, looking like a last year's corpse. I could see the effect of my looks mirrored instantly in the faces about me; but nobody jumped up, or said—"My G—d, what's happened to you?" or "What's the row?" or any other silly thing, such as fellows elsewhere would certainly have thrown out at me. These fellows were not given to taking any circumstance in life other than quietly.

"Where's Spicer?" I asked of Bassett. It did not occur to me to offer any explanation of my return, when I was supposed to be abed with fever; nor did anybody ask for one.

"Sit down. He went back to Maidenstone's; he's staying there."

Northanger got up. "I must be going," he said. "The missus will be sending a patrol after me. Ready, Purchase?"

If there was a hint, Purchase took it. They were gone in another minute, and Bassett and I were left alone in the austere, shiny parlor. Bassett, in his precise way, became busy. He brought out a suit of clothes neater and better mended than anything I possessed, if somewhat cheaper in kind—and handed it to me.

"You haven't a dry thread on you," he observed. "Better shift." He went off into the kitchen, and I heard him stirring up a sleeping boy; heard the clink of a kettle lid, the jingling of glasses. Bassett came back, looked at me, as I sat, fresh clad, and made no remark. The boy followed almost immediately with hot punch, and a quinine bottle. I helped myself to a share of both.

"I wanted to ask you something," I said.

"Yes," answered Bassett. It was a brief reply, but it carried a good deal, the tone, the look of Bassett's brown eyes, beneath his high ministerial looking forehead, the settled attitude, hands crossed on knees, all suggested calm, reliability, and, what he must have known I desired above all things—as sick men consulting doctors, sinful men consulting priests, desire it—the professional attitude. I knew he would do anything that could be done.

I told him the whole thing. It was not easy to tell, because I had to bring Pia into it, and I found, to my intense disgust, that my voice got unsteady when I spoke of her. Bassett listened quite to the end, making no comment. When he thought I had quite done, he came out, surprisingly, with—

"You are very much in love with this girl." It was not a question, it was a statement, made much as one's physician might offer a comment on the condition of one's lungs or liver.

"Am I?" I said stupidly. Something had hold of me—I hardly knew what it was, but it shook me. What was the matter? Had I not agreed with myself that the wind which was Pia Laurier had blown through my life and passed away? To save her from marriage with one incredibly vile—that was a duty; but a duty that devolved on me merely as a man; not as the man who loved her. I had been so certain that I should not, therefore did not love the girl with the black shingle and blue eyes; the girl who, even if she were ten times free, was not for me, wanderer, rolling stone, black sheep.

Things cleared in my brain. The thought that had come to me was nothing brilliant, nothing new; it was only this—"If I am hurt, I am hurt; well, then, I've got to stick it." I found it steady, comforting even.

Testing the Airplane Engine

At the Arlington, Va., experimental farm of the United States Department of Agriculture, where the fitness of such things as dewberries and corn is tested, the bureau of standards has established a new laboratory for determining the airworthiness of airplane engines. Every aircraft engine approved and certified by the Department of Commerce must be tested here. T. P. Neill, in charge of the new laboratory, is shown with one of the three engine testing stands.

TWO WORLD FLIGHTS PLANNED FOR JUNE

Mears and Husted to Try for Plane Records.

New York.—Two attempts to lower the record of Dr. Hugo Eckener and his fellow-voyagers on the Graf Zeppelin are projected for next June. In each case an airplane will be used the whole distance. One flight will start eastward from New York, the other into the West from the Pacific coast.

John Henry Mears, who made the trip in 35 days in 1913 and in 23 days in 1928, has announced his intention of taking the eastern route June 8 with Bert Balchen, pilot for Rear Admiral Byrd on the South polar flight, accompanying him.

Flight to Follow Sun. On June 15 Harry A. Husted, Cleveland manufacturer, with three others, plans to take off on the West coast to follow the sun around the world.

Since each flight will challenge both the Atlantic and the Pacific, not to mention hazardous conditions on overland hops, weather conditions will play a pre-eminent part in dictating the success of both bids for the record. But the Husted team aims to return to its starting point in ten days, while Mears believes he and Balchen will be back at their take-off point in 12 days.

For his 19,500 mile flight, Mears has secured a Lockheed-Vega monoplane, powered with a Pratt & Whitney Wasp motor. After flying from New York to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, his schedule calls for a winter jump to Ireland and then long-distance hops across northern Europe and Siberia to Tokyo.

From Tokyo his course will be northward along the Asiatic coast, across the United States to New York. On his 1923 trip, Mears, with the late Capt. C. B. D. Collyer, used a Fairchild plane for all stages except those across the oceans.

Husted and his companions will use a giant Fokker F-32, powered by four Pratt & Whitney Wasp engines mounted tandemwise in pairs. The plane will be equipped with catwalks around the motors to permit overhauling while in flight.

An outstanding feature of Husted's plans is his proposal to carry still and motion-picture cameras in the plane and make pictures on a lavish scale during the whole flight. The movie cameras will be designed to take both half-tone and colored prints, and Husted has offered to furnish prints to the government authorities because of the potential educational value of the films.

Husted's schedule calls for a possible nonstop flight across the Pacific to China, with an aerial refueling over the Hawaiian islands. The itinerary from China, as projected, lies through Siberia, Moscow, Paris and London. After spanning the Atlantic, Husted hopes to reach the Pacific coast from New York.

438 Towns in Ohio Now Are Air Marked

Columbus, Ohio.—Planned to make Ohio safe for night and day flying, 438 cities and towns are airmarked. It is reported by John Vorys, state director for aviation.

Under the direction of the state department this work has just been completed by the various municipal officials. A report said that there are 103 airports and landing fields in the state, of which 15 are municipal, 45 commercial, 22 private and 21 emergency.

Says Murder in Air Cannot Be Punished

The author of a murder committed in a plane engaged in interstate commerce could not be brought to justice, according to Bailey Samelov of the legal department of Aeronautics, aviation monthly. The accused, having theright not to testify against himself, points out this authority, cannot of course be compelled to tell, if he knows, over what state or county the fatal bullets were lodged in the head of the man declared to have been murdered. And were he to remain silent upon his trial, it would be impossible to prove the venue of the crime—that is, the county over which the crime was committed. That being so, and venue being as important an element of proof as the murder itself, it would be impossible to try him and the court would be compelled to let him go. Within or without the three-mile limit, he says, no law at all could be applied to such a crime.

FCOLPROOF PLANE YET FAR DISTANT

However, Guggenheim Tests Show Much Progress.

New York.—The report of the results of the international safe aircraft competition, sponsored by the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics and won by the Curtiss Tanager, reveals the plane that stood second was within one point of the winning entry.

Competition ended last January and the prize went to the only plane that passed all the qualifying tests. Closest to the winner in ranking was the entry of Sir Frederick Handley Page of London. None of the other contestants came within many points of passing the requirements.

Although the "foolproof" plane has not been made yet, and may never be, the competition showed a decided progress in making flying more safe.

The closeness of these two competitors is of particular interest in view of the legal contest between the companies since the close of the safety competition. Almost coincident with the ending of the competition, Handley-Page announced he planned to sue the Curtiss company for its use of the slotted wing on the grounds of patent infringement.

His proposed action was answered by the Curtiss company with a court action based upon the alleged infringement of five patents and the violation of a standing court order forbidding the entrance of Handley-Page planes into the country on patent grounds.

The fund stood clear of this private squabble and in its report on the competition makes no reference to the points at issue beyond the statement that the slots used proved their efficiency.

Georgia Tech Gets $300,000

The committee of trustees appointed by Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, authorizes the statement that a grant of $300,000 for the establishment of an aeronautical engineering center in the South has been made to Georgia school of technology.

This supplements previous grants made by the Daniel Guggenheim fund for similar schools in other parts of the country.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

Director of Public Health Education, State of Pennsylvania.

A Dangerous Toy

THE other day some children were playing near a quarry. One of them picked up a shiny article resembling a small tin box. Curiosity got to work. Unable to pry it open, a hammer was used to smash it. Result, one mangled arm and two permanently disfigured faces. Thus it comes to pass that hundreds of young people in this country are annually crippled by the blasting cap.

It is logical for parents to consider the explosive hazard only in connection with the Fourth of July celebration. However, the blasting cap danger is more or less an ever present one in certain localities.

Annually hundreds of serious accidents from this cause are reported to the state and city health departments. Youngsters pick up these caps in the vicinity of mines, quarries or in the fields where agricultural blasting has been done. The accident follows as an almost inevitable consequence. And the sad feature of the situation lies in the easy avoidability of such hazards.

Blasting caps contain fulminate of mercury, which is a quick and powerful explosive. Consequently, they are not toys. Parents should warn their children never to tamper with them in any way. They should be shunned as in a rattlesnake.

However, the main obligation rests with those who use them. A careful checkup should be daily required. Under no circumstances should these devices be left at home or in other places readily accessible to young people.

Blasting caps are a necessary adjunct to the nation's business. But that business most emphatically does not include maiming and killing children. Let blasting cap users and parents appreciate this fact.

Why Fumigate?

THERE are a couple of old ladies who persist in traveling up and down Fifth avenue in New York city in a horse-drawn brougham. With noses in the air and seemingly unconcerned about the smiles which appear on the faces of other people, they go on their way feeling secure in the habit of a lifetime.

And there are still many persons, including members of school boards, who exhibit this same type of ill-chosen tenacity. This they display in their antiquated practice of smoking out germs alleged to be thriving where a case of communicable disease have been discovered.

No one will deny that fumigation will kill bacteria. But it requires a sealed room and an exceedingly careful technician to accomplish it. Provided, that is, that the germs were there in the first place.

It is a well established fact that most bacteria, responsible for communicable disease, are body parasites. They leave the body in its discharges, usually those of the nose and throat. Typhoid fever and other intestinal diseases of germ origin are of course eliminated through the intestines.

It follows that the main control object is the person himself. Disinfection of the bodily discharges, investigation of contacts, missed cases and "carriers" should attract the real interest and concern.

Entirely too much money is being spent these days on the Victorian and quite useless, practice of fumigation in school rooms. Substitute for this sunlight, fresh air and an application of soap and water. Jump out of the horse-drawn brougham. Be modern, scientific and sensible.

Started Stage Career in Hair-Raising "Turn"

The name of Peg Woffington, the actress-loved by the great David Garrick, idolized in her day by worshippers of beauty and patrons of the drama, the cynosure of rank and fashion, the darling of the town—has become a tradition, an item of British folklore, the theme, as it were, of an oft-told fairy tale. Probably no aspirant to fame in the theater has ever started quite so young as Margaret Woffington, to give her her baptismal name. She made her debut in Dublin, when she was scarcely two, writes Charles Pillely, in the London Sunday Chronicle. There was a rough shanty of a playhouse where a French acrobat, Madame Violante, filled up the intervals with tightrope walking, her most famous "turn" being to walk the rope with a baby in a basket attached to each foot. Thus did tiny Peg Woffington make her first entry into theaterland. Madame Violante was sure of step, else there might be no romantic tale to tell.

Dwarf Pines

The picturesque dwarf pines that so delight the gardener of Japan are developed through the grafting of the branches of the black pine onto soft white pines. The black or hard pines, which look so much like an old man stooped and bent beneath a parasol which he carries, when grafted upon the soft variety result in the stunting of the latter and produces the grotesque growths which lend so much interest to the Japanese garden.

The DAIRY

SOUR MILK COSTS FARMERS DOLLARS

Usually Result of Carelessness, Says Expert.

Sour milk costs producers thousands of dollars a year, and usually is caused by using unclean utensils or failing to cool the milk properly, says Prof. L. H. Burgwald of the department of dairy technology of the Ohio State university. "A little care on the part of the farmer would avoid this loss," says Professor Burgwald.

"Milk is an ideal medium for the growth of bacteria. All that the bacteria require when introduced into the milk, is the proper temperature, and they will multiply very rapidly. In growing they break down the milk sugar in the milk and convert it into lactic acid which in turn sours the milk. But the bacteria will grow very slowly, if at all, at a temperature below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Milk coming from the normally healthy cow is practically free from bacteria, so when large numbers of bacteria are found it means either that they have been introduced after milking, through the use of unclean utensils, or that the milk has not been promptly and properly cooled, and the bacteria have multiplied very rapidly.

"The public judges the quality of the milk by the length of time which it will keep sweet. The milk plant has to use some test which will determine in advance how long the milk will keep sweet. This test takes the form of a bacteria count under a compound microscope, an alcohol test, or a methylene blue test. The blue color of the milk caused by the addition of methylene blue dye, disappears more or less quickly, according to the number of bacteria present. The microscopic test, however, an actual count of the bacteria present, is the one most commonly used."

Feeding Calves Three Times a Day Is Favored

Best results can be obtained by feeding calves three times a day, with the periods between feedings as nearly equal as possible. When calves are fed but twice a day the feedings should be 12 hours apart. A calf weighing 50 pounds at birth should be given eight pounds of whole milk a day, while a 100-pound calf should have about twelve pounds. The amount of milk should be gradually increased until at the end of the second week the calf should get from 14 to 16 pounds per day. At the beginning of the third week either skim or separated milk may be given for whole milk, at the rate of one pound per day, and the daily ration increased from two to four pounds, depending on the vigor of the calf. If the calf does not drink eagerly when milk is offered, the quantity should be cut down. At the end of the third week the ration should approximate one-half skim milk. At the end of the fourth week only separated milk is fed, unless the calf is very delicate. The quantity fed can be increased gradually to 18 or 20 pounds per day. Six months is a good average age at which to wean calves from the milk. When good pasture is available, the calf can be weaned earlier. If skim or separated milk is available, however, calves, especially if they are available, may be fed on it with profit until they are eight or ten months old.

Dairy Notes

A cheap bull is about the most expensive investment a live stock man can make.

Sanitation in the management and blood testing are the methods of controlling abortion.

Immediate and adequate cooling of milk is necessary to prevent souring. A temperature of less than 500 F. is unfavorable to the growth and reproduction of the injurious bacteria.

With feeding of dairy cows, the question of minerals in the ration receives additional prominence. A cow may produce milk for some time without having sufficient minerals in her ration by drawing on her reserves.

Cleanliness is important in preparing milk for exhibition just the same as in producing milk for sale. Clean cows, clean milkers, and clean utensils and containers keep down bacterial content and prevent spoiling.

Provide now for a better milk-producing inheritance in your future herd. Get a sire from a line of breeding better than your own.

The calves will begin to eat grain after they are a few weeks old, and it is usually profitable to provide a creep where grain can be supplied.

During the cold months the question of water for the producing herd is one that is often given little attention. A cow milking heavily requires from 70 to 100 pounds of water daily.

DEVELOPING NEW FRUITS IS URGED

Future of Industry Depends on Higher Quality.

If the New York grape growers wish to remain in the grape business, their future is dependent upon the development of more productive and higher-quality varieties, says Prof. Richard Wellington, chief of research at the Geneva experiment station. This statement applies as well to all other fruits, for the day of keen competition has arrived, and only those who grow a superior product will remain at the top.

It is not a question of more varieties, but varieties that will serve the highest purpose. No one can question that the production of blight-resistant pears, equal to the bartlett in size and quality and extending from the earliest to the latest season, would be of great benefit to the fruit industry. Only the production of mosaic-resistant varieties of red raspberries can put that industry on its feet, according to Professor Wellington. Time will tell if the newburgh variety will meet these requirements in part.

During the past forty years the Geneva experiment station has collected fruits from various parts of the world that might have any possible value. No fruit has been obtained that fulfills all the requirements of a good variety. Many possess valuable characters such as good size, high flavor and color, long-keeping quality, freedom from insect pests and disease, proper time of maturity, and hardness of plant and floral organs. Many new combinations have been obtained which promise to be of commercial value. As an example, Professor Wellington cited the golden muscat grape which was obtained from a cross between the diamond and the muscat hamburg. This variety inherited the high productiveness, large clusters, and the delicate muscat aroma of its European parent, and the hardness of its American parent. If this grape were black instead of a golden yellow; if it ripened a little earlier; and if it had a tougher skin for shipping, it would be invaluable, Professor Wellington said.

Several grapes like the golden muscat show promise and there are still many promising seedlings that are too new and whose merit is yet unknown.

Cherry Leaf Spot May Be Checked by Sprays

(By C. E. GRAVES, Extension Plant Pathologist, Kansas State Agricultural College.)

Cherry leaf spot may be controlled by spraying with lime-sulphur solution. Usually only three sprays are used. To mix the spray for cherry leaf spot, use one gallon of commercial liquid lime-sulphur to 40 gallons of water. By adding two pounds of arsenate of lead, the curculio which causes wormy cherries will also be controlled. Dissolve the arsenate of lead in a small amount of water before adding it to the lime-sulphur spray.

1. The first spray is applied right after the petals fall.
2. Apply the second spray two weeks later.
3. The last spray should be applied right after the fruit is picked.

Cherry leaf spot has worked westward in the last three years. Cherries are the principal fruit crop in western Kansas. It will pay the owner of even a few trees to buy a five-gallon hand sprayer and apply the three sprays. A circular on spraying cherries may be obtained from the county agent or the agricultural college.

Sulphur Must Be Fine for Its Effectiveness

The effectiveness of sulphur as a fungicide is in proportion to the fineness of the particles. In fact, according to experiments and studies made at the state experiment station of New York, at Geneva, all coarse particles of sulphur are practically worthless, for such coarse particles do not remain on the foliage, while fine dust will adhere to the leaves. It is only the portion of the dust that adheres that does any good. The rest of it is just thrown away; it is worse than useless, for it has cost money to buy, and it costs more money to apply it to the plants.

According to a recent report of the experiment station, sulphur should be in such a state of fineness that approximately 100 per cent will pass through a sieve having 325 meshes to the square inch.

Success With Berries

Good, well-grown, healthy raspberry plants, or strawberry plants, will give good success whether grown in Michigan or Ohio. The principle thing is to get the plants true to variety, well grown, free from disease, and delivered to you in a growing condition. From the standpoint of getting the plants in a growing condition, it is often best to deal with a nearby grower if he has what you want as you can often get the plants dug, transported, to your place, and set the same day.

LIGHT BLUE FOR EVENING WEAR; "HATS THAT FLATTER" IS SLOGAN

TALK about "the blues," well, the new color card has them under four captions, as follows: Ciel, an azure hue; iris blue, which takes on a violet tint; baby blue, which is exactly what it is, and a pale turquoise, as lovely as its name implies.

Other fashionable blues highlight aquamarine, which looks quite green in certain lights, also "pirate" blue, which is bold and daring enough to knows, there is no surer road to becomingness than via the brim which frames the face like a picture. Wherefore brims is the word this season.

Because so much of the chic and the charm of a hat depends upon brims, milliners are playing them up in every mood. One of the outstanding moves in the direction of brims is the return of the cloche. In fact bonnet tendencies are that pronounced, compete with navy for supremacy. And as if we were not blue enough, certain eminent French couturiers are launching a dreamy sort of evening blue which they are pleased to call "blue Danube."

Lovely Dance Frock

The lovely dance frock in the picture is made of bemberg chiffon in this last named new blue which to Parisienne adores. The bolero bodice accented with a scrollwork of rhinestones, the high waistline and the flaring skirt with its delightful tucking encircling the snug-fitting hipline are outstanding details in the styling of this gown. A sleeved evening wrap of the same chiffon completes this formal ensemble.

This flair for blues of every degree is not by any means confined to the evening mode. Many of those voguish afternoon frocks of flat crepe which are so enchanting and so becoming to youth are in dusty pastel blue, if not in "baby blue," the latter being one of the new "pretty" colors fashion is exploiting this season. In fact, the color technique of the present trends to pastels, with emphasis placed on one sees the revival of quaintest of quaint types.

The thing to remember about many of the bonnet-brimmed hats is that they should be worn so as to reveal the forehead even to the point of showing the hair. The very lovely semi-bonnet effect shown at the top to the right in the group pictured below illustrates the idea. It is just such a pretty feminine straws as this which are capturing the heart of fashion's fair clientele.

Another proof that this season's hats are designed, likewise worn, with a view to revealing milady's soft fluffy tresses, is offered in the lovely model pictured in the panel below. This model is enhanced with one of the new transparent brims of lacy straw, such as are contributing a note of exquisite beauty to spring and summer millinery. Special attention is called to the shallowness of the crown. The majority of the new crowns are just that way, and they are expected to be worn back on the head, just as you see in this instance.

Whether brims go up or go down

these esthetic tones and tints used in combination such as pale pink with baby blue, pink with light green, or a yellow tint with green, and the use of delicate gray with either pink or blue is likewise advocated.

Perhaps the most outstanding color alliance is that of blue with pink. It is frequently worked out somewhat in this wise at afternoon bridge party or club affair—supposing the dress be of dusty pink monotone crepe, the coat which tops it is likely to be in pastel blue, the hat perhaps a pink straw and the shoes either moire or kid interworking the two colors.

Sports frocks made up of pastel flannels or crepes are intriguingly detailed with pin tucks, many plaits and all sorts of cunning dressmaker touches.

Little "Ifs" That Might Have Changed History

The word "if" has been the cause of much reminiscing ever since Adam said, "Oh, if we had never eaten the apple."

Professor Hearnshaw, of London university, has prepared a book called "The Ifs of History," in which he says:

"If Cleopatra's nose had been an eighth of an inch longer she would have failed to excite Julius Caesar or Mark Anthony and the history of the world would have been changed. "If the battle of Actium had not been fought, the empire of Augustus would not have been established, neither Pontius Pilate nor Herod would have ruled Syria and Rome might have remained a stranger to the Christian faith.

"If the Spanish garrison of Gibraltar had not been so pious as to be attending church when the English troops attacked, the rock would not be in English possession today."

Church's Soaring Tower Not Idea of Architect

St. Mary's church, Haggerston, London, England, designed by Nash in 1827, possesses an abnormally lofty tower, concerning which two amusing stories are current. One is to the effect that the contractor inquired of the architect how high he should carry it, and was told to go on building until he was ordered to stop. Then Nash went off, forgot all about the matter, and on returning home some months later, was flabbergasted to find that the tower had grown to its present unnatural height. The other is that a local builder, having a quantity of spare stone on hand, told the building committee that he could afford to build them a very high tower at a very low price. The committee closed with the offer; and the result was—what we now see.

Machinery in Industry

In the United States 45,500,000 men are employed, but electricity and machines bring the total annual man power to over 600,000,000 men, reads an article in Fortune, the business magazine. A conservative estimate of the energy output in terms of man power as compiled by Fortune follows: Electric power, 337,880,000; railroads, 127,000,000; agriculture, 73,070,000; manufacturers, 70,000,000; mines and quarries, 17,600,000; automobiles, 12,200,000. Total, 637,750,000.

Women Now Find It Easy To Bake Prize Bread and Pastry

WOMEN all over the country are now saying: "No longer is there need for worry about baking results. Now you can be sure of success with pies and cakes, bread and biscuits."

They use a new-type flour for all baking purposes—GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour that simplifies baking remarkably and banishes the cause of most baking failures.

Failures, experts found, were mostly due to the fact that 2 sacks of the same flour often acted differently, even with the same recipe... it was not uniform in oven action.

So now all GOLD MEDAL Flour is "Kitchen-tested" before it comes to you. As each batch comes

STATE PARK RULES AND REGULATIONS

Michigan State Parks are open and free to the public. Visitors are welcome to use them for the various activities permitted. In order to prevent abuse and misuse of the privileges offered by these parks the following rules and regulations will be enforced:

1. The destruction or injury of any sign, guide post or property of any kind is unlawful. This includes the peeling of bark, carving and chopping of trees, cutting branches, driving nails, digging ground from roots and the removal of trees, shrubs and plants, picking wildflowers, and other injuries.
2. To carry or have firearms in possession in a State Park is unlawful.
3. Throwing of tin cans, bottles, papers, junk or refuse of any kind on the ground or in a lake or stream; or the misuse and abuse of seats, tables and other park equipment is prohibited.
4. Speed limit for motor vehicles on park roads is 20 miles per hour except where otherwise posted.
5. Dogs in park must be tied with chain or controlled on a leash. They are not allowed to run loose about the park.
6. Vending or peddling in the park is prohibited.
7. Building or starting fires in the open or in any place except where proper provisions have been made or to leave fires while burning is prohibited.
8. Washing or the throwing of waste of any kind around well or spring or the use of woods as toilets or the use of toilets for bath-houses is prohibited.

9. Persons desiring to camp in State Park are required to obtain permit before making camp. A permit will be issued to camp 7 days or less on a single site in parks within Oakland, Livingston, Macomb, St. Clair, Ottawa and Bay counties. The time limit in all other parks will be 15 days on a single site. When time of permit has expired, campers are required to move from the park. To remain longer, permit must be renewed.
10. Camping, horseback riding or driving of automobiles or other vehicles on areas (picnic ground, children's playground, bathing beaches, etc.) posted against such traffic or utilization is prohibited.

11. Camping in the park by boys under seventeen years of age unaccompanied by an adult or adults and girls under eighteen years of age unaccompanied by their parents or chaperon is prohibited.
12. Disorderly conduct in the way of drunkenness, vile language, fighting and personal exposure by change of clothing in automobiles, woods, park or any other place where person is not properly sheltered is prohibited.

Sec. 3a—Act 17, Public Acts 1921, as amended by Act 337, P. A. 1927 provides that (any person who shall do or perform any act required by such rules and regulations concerning the use and occupancy of lands and property under the control of said commission of conservation, which shall have been made, promulgated and published as in this act provided, during the time such rules or regulations shall be in force and effect, or who shall violate any such rules or regulations thus made, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, together with costs of prosecution, or to imprisonment in the county jail for not more than ninety days, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.)

The Park Officer is in full charge of the park with police authority. Inquiries, suggestions or complaints can be filed with the officer or submitted in writing to the Conservation Department.
By order of Department of Conservation, Lansing, Michigan.
These rules and regulations shall be in force and effect until April 1, 1932.

THE NEW Maytag

The New Maytag Aluminum Washer is the crowning achievement of The Maytag Company. It embodies the skill, the resources and the best ideas of the Maytag organization. It exemplifies the highest development of a domestic washing machine for the home. No other washer so completely fills the need of the housewife. The New Maytag is the result of patient and painstaking engineering skill developed along the lines that would serve the user best. It is impossible here, with mere words, to do the New Maytag justice. The power of description falls short in its effort to give you a graphic picture of this greatest of all washers, to outline its higher qualities and points of greater superiority.

Forestry in Europe

France took up forestry only when the destruction of most of her forests was followed by heavy floods and the washing away of her hillsides. Outstanding acts of service in moments of extreme emergency, that called for unusual initiative, quick action and the application of first aid measures, have brought recognition to four Michigan Bell Telephone company employees in the form of the bronze Theodore N. Vail Medal for 1929, according to Burch Foraker, president of the company. The announcement followed action by the Michigan Theodore N. Vail committee of award which considered the cases.

Two telephone employees rescued persons from drowning, a third made a heroic attempt under similar conditions, and the fourth dragged an unconscious man from a carbon monoxide gas-filled garage and helped restore consciousness. These acts of life-saving were performed by James L. Barrett and George Adams, Detroit; Carl Shoemaker, Pontiac, and Louis J. Lozaun, Mt. Clemens.

Honor Telephone Leader

The awards were made under the plan of the Theodore N. Vail Memorial Fund, created a decade ago, in memory of a man who played a leading part in the development of universal telephone service, and to perpetuate the ideals and traditions of public service he inculcated into the telephone business.

Since the establishment of the fund, 43 such awards have been made to Michigan telephone men and women, 35 of them employees of the Michigan Bell Telephone company and four employed by connecting telephone companies.

In the territory of each Bell System operating company, consideration is given annually to meritorious acts performed by telephone men and women, and the bronze Vail medal is awarded in outstanding cases. Those receiving the bronze medal award also are considered for the national gold and silver medal with cash awards. In past years, two Michigan people have been awarded the silver medal.

First Aid Saves Lives

While performing his duties, last December 27, Mr. Barrett, line inspector at Detroit, found a man, unconscious from carbon-monoxide gas, in a closed garage. Breaking into the garage, he dragged the man to safety, summoned a physician and applied artificial respiration. With the aid of a police rescue squad pulmotor and inhalator, the man was revived, and recovered.

On July 14, last, George Adams, Detroit splicer, pulled a man from Baldwin Lake, near Greenville, Mich., at considerable danger to himself, and applied artificial respiration nearly two hours in an effort to restore life. The man succumbed to heart failure, however. Adams was cited for courage and prolonged effort in an endeavor to save a life.

Carl Shoemaker, Pontiac line foreman, rescued a small boy from the swollen waters of the Clinton river, March 25, 1929. He applied artificial respiration and restored breathing, and the boy recovered.

Three Others Commended

Louis J. Lozaun, Mt. Clemens line-man, on Memorial day, 1929, rescued a man who had been caught in the strong undercurrent of the Clinton river. Lozaun applied first aid and restored consciousness. He was the only person in the crowd that witnessed the near tragedy who had a knowledge of artificial respiration.

These four telephone men are holders of American Red Cross first-aid certificates, awarded jointly by the American Red Cross and the Michigan Bell Telephone company upon completion of first-aid training classes conducted by the Michigan Bell company. The first aid knowledge thus acquired by telephone men has been used to good effect in many emergency cases the last several years.

The Michigan committee on the Vail medal award also awarded letters of commendation to Lewis Schroeder, Battle Creek, for calling attention to a fire and helping rescue a man from a burning room; Leo Babcock, Lansing, for finding and removing a large casting from a railroad right-of-way; and Ziba Winget, Benton Harbor, for pulling to safety a boy who had broken through river ice.

Indian Allotments

The oldest Indian reservation is the one at Indian Mills, N. J., established in 1758. Other old ones of considerable size are the Navajo reservation (largest in the United States) and the Seminole reservation, 75 miles southeast of Fort Myers; also the Crow reservation in Montana.

Fresh Air and Warmth

The public health service says that fresh warm air of a proper degree of moisture and free from appreciable draft is now recognized as essential to indoor workers. The old idea that a cold room necessarily contains fresh air and that comfortably warm rooms necessarily contain bad air has been discarded.

Children's Favorite Books

Opinions differ as to the most popular book for children, but when over fifty famous authors were asked by a New York newspaper to name which book they had read as children and still liked, "Alice in Wonderland" was the overwhelming favorite. "Grimm's Fairy Tales" ranked second in popularity, followed by "Swiss Family Robinson," "Little Women," "David Copperfield" and "Andersen's Fairy Tales."

MORTGAGE SALE

DEFAULT having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Rowland Keith and Sarah Keith, his wife, and Sarah Keith in her own right, of Plainfield township, Iosco County, Michigan, to Ealy, McKay and Company dated the 14th day of January, A. D. 1921, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the county of Iosco, State of Michigan, on the 27th day of January, A. D. 1921, in Liber 21 of Mortgages on page 341, said mortgage being duly assigned on April 30, 1925 to First National Bank of Bay City, Michigan, said assignment being recorded on May 4, 1925 in Liber 26 of Mortgages on page 301, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, for principal and interest, the sum of Two Thousand Six Hundred Ninety-five and 20/100 Dollars ($2695.20), and an attorney fee as provided for by law, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, on Saturday, the 24th day of May, A. D. 1930, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon, the undersigned will, at the court house in the city of Tawas City, that being the place where Circuit Court for the county of Iosco is held, sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount so as aforesaid due on said mortgage, with six (6) per cent interest, and all legal costs, together with said attorney's fee, to-wit: the South one-half (1/2) of the northeast quarter (1/4) of section 28, town 23 north range 5 east, containing 80 acres of land more or less.

What the Presidency Did to Lincoln

"The Congressman from Illinois" 1848

"The Lincoln-Douglas Debate" 1858

"The President-Elect" 1860

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

PRIL 14 is the anniversary of one of the great tragedies in American history. For it was on that date just 65 years ago that the bullet of John Wilkes Booth struck down Abraham Lincoln and plunged a whole nation, rejoicing that four years of war was at last ended, into the deepest sorrow. Ever since that day there has been endless speculation as to "what might have been" if he had been spared. Would the North have been a more generous victor and the South have been spared the ruin and despair of the Reconstruction era? Would the wounds of the most terrible civil war in history have been more quickly healed during those next four momentous years if there had been at the head of the nation the man who had said "With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in." No one can answer those questions positively, but there can be but little doubt in anyone's mind that the answer in each case is "Yes."

"The Speaker at Gettysburg" 1863

"The Man of Sorrows" 1865

as an egg. In this unusual rig-out, he looked so uncomfortable that it was quite pathetic. Matters were even worse when he reached the platform for he did not know what on earth to do with his hat and his stick. There he stood, a target for thousands of eyes, holding these two encumbrances, the image of hopeless perplexity. To that Ludwig adds this comment: "There he stands burdened with things which his fashionable wife must have forced upon him, too elegantly attired, lest he should look like a backwoodsman—a man used to wearing his clothes just anyhow, decked out with a useless walking stick, transformed into a comedy figure and all the more a mark of silent sarcasm. There he stands for the first time he is to speak to the nation as a whole, for he is embarrassed by this fine new stick with a gold knob, and the terribly shiny top hat. What is he to do? Dreadful moments, but fate has sent him his longtime enemy, who, as if in irony, is watching his plight at close hand. Douglas it is who comes to his rescue; Douglas as a valet, Douglas who stretches out his short arm to take the hat and hold it for half an hour, like a footman, till all is over, and the new President can take it back from the senator with a friendly nod."

The story of what Lincoln endured during the first two years of the war—his struggle to secure the co-operation of a wrangling, discordant cabinet, his repeated disappointments in his generals who either wouldn't fight or who fought only to be defeated disastrously and all the other factors which thwarted him at every turn—is matched as a record of despair only by what followed. For when he issued the Emancipation Proclamation "the effect was catastrophic. Confusion was widespread throughout the North, there was a slump on the stock exchange; the elections were adverse; the Democrats declared that thousands of whites were being forced to give their blood in order that their fellow countrymen might be illegally deprived of property. . . . When congress was sitting in December, the President's unceasing personal struggle on two fronts, the near approach of the momentous date fixed for the enforcement of the proclamation, the varying and for the most part unfavorable fortunes of war, the skepticism of friends regarding the new measure and the scorn in which it was held by enemies, made him weary and dispirited as well."

An unforgettable picture of the Lincoln of this period is given by an old friend who had not seen him for six years and whose description of him is cited by Ludwig as follows: "The change . . . was simply appalling. His whiskers had grown and had given additional cadaverousness to his face. . . . The light seemed to have gone out of his eyes, which were sunken far under his enormous brows. . . . There was over his whole face an expression of sadness, and a far-away look in his eyes, which were utterly unlike the Lincoln of former days."

The wonder is that the war President did not break under the strain. For, says Ludwig, "For him, private life had ceased to exist. Work, agitations, enemies at home, reverses abroad, danger threatening to undo the work done by the fathers of the country and to frustrate the activities of his own career such had been his lot for three or four years, almost without cessation. The tree-feller's tall body had been attacked from within, mined as it were and weakened here and there; he was laid up for awhile by a modified smallpox, caught in a visit to the front; he complained that his legs were always cold, but he would not give way; very rarely indeed, after a sleepless night, would he lie down on Welles' sofa, or say that he was too tired to receive visitors. 'I hardly know how to rest. It may be good for the body. But what is tired in me lies within, and can't be got at.' "As the years went by, the tensions increased rather than diminished. If things were going well in the field, he would be harassed by the violence of the political factions; when all was quiet in that quarter, the result would be a decline in recruiting; and if, for a moment, matters really seemed to be making progress everywhere, he would still be perturbed by the mutual jealousies of the members of the cabinet or the governors. In addition he was distressed by the daily sight of sufferings caused by the war, for hospitals abounded in Washington, and the surrounding hills were sprinkled with tents for the temporary accommodation of the sick and wounded, while the stretchers seemed to pass in unending succession whenever the President went out for air or exercise. Riding was about his only exercise."

But even this was not safe for once he was fired upon by a hidden assassin. His horse bolted and quickly bore him away from the spot and a soldier who went to the place found his hat lying on the ground with a bullet hole through the crown. "Sometimes after riding into Washington in the small hours he would spend the rest of the night at the White House, writing or reading, and would ride back to the Soldiers' home when morning came, depressed in mood. Such depression was common enough, for Lincoln was incapable of taking much delight in victory or of feeling hatred for the enemy, and civil war was doubly distressing to him, since the enemies were his brothers. 'The war' he said in a speech during the last year of his life, 'has carried mourning to almost every home, until it can almost be said that the heavens are hung in black!'"

Nor did the gloom lift when the end of the war finally came and Appomattox silenced the four-year clamor of the guns. For, as Lincoln looked back upon those four years, he could see naught but tragedy—personal as well as national. "Where, now, is Douglas, who had been so full of life and activity? Where is old friend Baker? Where are his little boys, wilted and perished like half-open buds 'nipped by the frost? Death was grinding at him from every corner! Would history speak of him only as the Lord of Death; would history be justly entitled to give him such a name?" Such are the thoughts which Ludwig puts in his mind as he enters Ford's theater that night of April 14. Then—the shot, the cry of "Sic semper tyrannis!" the scream of Mary Lincoln and in a little house across the street the next morning "he dies at seven o'clock; in a strange bed like a pilgrim, slain on Good Friday like a prophet." And the tragedy of Abraham Lincoln's whole life was summed up by his little son, Tad, who "when he stood beside the coffin in the White House, said 'Is father in heaven now? Yes? Then I am glad, for he was not really happy here.'"

They Learned to Fly in One Day

A test was made at Roosevelt field, Long Island, to prove that women, none of whom has had any previous flying experience, can be taught to fly modern airplanes in one day. Miss Dorothy Galberth, eighteen-year-old college girl of Hollis, Long Island, and Miss Esther Wagner, twenty-four, a stenographer, of Hempstead, Long Island, and Mrs. Helen Gillespie, thirty, a Garden City mother, each started a one-day course in the morning, and before sunset each of them had made a successful solo flight. The photograph shows, left to right, Miss Galberth, Mrs. Gillespie and Miss Wagner.

After the America Cup Again

Sir Thomas Lipton is coming over to try again to capture the America cup, which has been in the possession of the United States ever since 1871, when it was first offered. The photograph shows workmen in the bows of the new Shamrock V, which is being rushed to completion at Gosport, England.

SUCH IS LIFE — "Plenty of Reasons"

Surmounts Physical Handicap

Seattle, Wash.—A practical idealist, whose credo is "service" and who gives a philosophy of cheerfulness to those who are down, such a man is Dr. Frank R. Loope of Seattle.

For eighteen years he has been bed-ridden. A reporter walked into the "office," a big sun porch, as one of two telephones at his bed rang and the doctor proceeded to aid a World War veteran in getting out of jail.

Doctor Loope lay flat on his back, the two telephones within easy reach, letter files at the side of his bed, a checkbook on the covers, magazines, papers, cigarettes and a radio at hand.

And there he directs almost innumerable enterprises—aiding individuals to overcome physical handicaps. The physician picked up a specially framed mirror and focussed it on his guests. He is unable to turn his head, but he can move his eyes and arms. Thus he is able to follow the movements and expressions of any one in his room.

Under the general title of "sunshine industries," Doctor Loope is the directing genius behind a wheel chair store, a repair store, is building up a fund for an industrial home for shut-ins and arranges hundreds of programs for invalids.

The industrial home—where those aiding themselves would be able to live close to their work—is his big dream.

In addition to that work, Doctor Loope finds positions for those who have been handicapped. He distributes radios, gives advice, acts as father confessor to hundreds of persons, advises as a physician and arranges for medical attention.

His telephone rang constantly during the interview. The soldier was paroled to his custody, then a hysterical woman telephoned. Calm tones replied to shrill voice, and then, ironically, an organization that had obtained his telephone number called to ask him to buy two tickets to a dance.

The doctor is not a wealthy man, in fact he frequently encounters difficulty in obtaining funds for his many enterprises, in addition to those needed for himself.

For years after he was stricken, the doctor related, "I felt I was terribly abused." Then he adopted the philosophy of "Sunshine and Smiles," the title of a column he conducts for shut-ins in the Seattle Star.

"I don't preach, I serve," he said. "Help the shut-in to help himself—to keep himself away from his troubles."

Although bedridden eighteen years, Doctor Loope is no invalid. He is more healthy mentally by far than millions who have complete use of their bodies.

Filing Custom

It is customary in most systems of filing to file behind the index letter. This is the custom used in the Library of Congress and followed by most such institutions.

Father Sage says:

The ocean is the only power on earth that can make a woman indifferent to her personal appearance.

Wild Rose Favorite Flower

New York.—The people of the United States named the wild rose as the national flower in the American Nature association campaign just ended. Rechecking of the more than a million votes shows the wild rose rolled up a total of 492,811 votes out of the 1,067,672 votes cast. It gained a plurality of more than 150,000 votes over the columbine, the nearest contender.

The wild rose won in every state except Colorado, Florida, Minnesota and Washington.

Pennsylvania, with 111,256 votes; Ohio, with 78,648; New York, with 63,835, and Wisconsin, with 59,779, led the country in number of ballots cast. Washington supported the columbine more vigorously than any other state. Only seven votes separate the rose and its rival in South Dakota. More than 6,000 people, Americans living outside the 48 states, are represented in the "No State" column.

The columbine had 261,451 backers, who threatened, during early December, to sweep under the rose in a flood of votes. When the contest closed, however, the leader was still gaining.

More than 65 per cent of the vote was divided between the two leaders and there is no question of these being the national favorites. The violet, goldenrod, American beauty rose, phlox, daisy, dogwood and mountain laurel, which finished in the order listed, never had a chance of victory. All other flowers received but three and one-half per cent of the total.

The wild rose, despite criticisms to this effect, is not the flower of England; that emblem is the cultivated rose. The campaign did not designate one particular variety of wild rose, but left it possible for each community to feel that its local representative of the genus was the choice of the country.

PUBLIC LOVE MAKING

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK, Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

They are apparently more conservative and more conventional in China than we are here in America. The city government of Hankow has recently enacted a law prohibiting out-door kissing even between husbands and wives, the reason for this seemingly radical enforcement of the law being perhaps that when one sees these public demonstrations of uncontrolled emotion it is impossible to tell without embarrassing inquiry just what the exact blood relationship, if any, there is between the osculating parties.

The first victims, according to reports, have been Mr. and Mrs. Chen Chang-hang, a newly married pair. They were driving in an open carriage when a policeman saw Mr. Chen kiss his bride. Both were arrested. Mr. Chen was fined $25, and he and his wife were forced to furnish bondsmen, who guaranteed that the newlyweds will not again offend the proprieties.

I believe that such a law might prove salutary in our own country. Husbands and wives do not seem to be our most serious offenders, but one need not go far to find others who use public places to do their love making. Once upon a time it was not considered good taste for young people,

HOPES TO WIN DERBY

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

By GRANT DIXON

Meaningless

One of the more meaningless details of New York life is the business of supplying references when one wants to move into a new apartment. A friend of mine, a dramatic critic, is lodged in a towering, exclusive building. He informs me he had to pass close scrutiny before he was allowed to sign a lease.

Yet his neighbor on the top floor is the proprietor of a speak-easy across the street. He is a relative of one of New York's most notorious gangsters. He is politically powerful, though, and once a year gives a huge ball in his own honor at one of the better hotels. His apartment is a fortress. The door is of armor steel. He didn't like ordinary windows, so he had a church supply house make him stained glass windows.

The Vanishing German

There are, even at this late date, five German bands in New York, and if you look hard enough you may find one playing on a street corner. But the business isn't what it used to be. Variety reports that the average income for each man in these bands was a dollar a day last year. They used to get "throw money" by playing in front of speak-easies, but the police chased them away.

Al Fresco Dinner

Alexander Mazzone, a gatekeeper on the Long Island railroad, has a lunch hour from noon to 12:45 p. m. No trains pass his gate during that time, but Alexander feels that he should not leave his post even then.

So, promptly at noon, he gets out a folding table, sets it between the rails, spreads a cloth and serves himself a lunch. It is only fair, thinks Alexander, that he and not some foolish motorist should get bumped in case an unscheduled train should arrive during the noonday.

A Hot Fire

Sam White smelled a fire the other day and turned in an alarm. He was in a building at the foot of Manhattan, and in that district a single alarm brings out more apparatus than two or three would farther uptown. When a dozen or so pieces of fire-fighting machinery had arrived Sam discovered that the fire had been in the rear of his trousers. He had put his pipe in his hip pocket. Naturally, the newspapers made much of the story.

The next day a veteran newspaper man told me that none had written so clever a headline as a friend of his had written twenty years ago concerning a similar occurrence. The headline was: "Sixty Firemen Rush to Blaze in One Pair of Pants."

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripes; children liked its pleasant taste. All drugstores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

Don't neglect a COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours. Working like the trained hands of a mason, this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses. Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

"Brought Back My Strength"

"My little daughter was born on a homestead in northern Alberta. I had four other children and I worked so hard that I suffered a nervous breakdown. The doctor's tonic did not seem to help me and when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to take that instead. I kept on until I felt well again. It brought back my strength. Today I can do anything, thanks to the Vegetable Compound." —Mrs. William Parent, 1415 W. 62nd Street, Seattle, Washington.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like. It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Old friends of Mrs. A. B. Tompkins of Marysville, Washington, who joined in giving her a postcard shower March 25th on the occasion of her 73rd birthday anniversary, will be interested to learn that about 50 friends participated in the event. In the days that have followed the shower, Mrs. Tompkins has lived again those happy days she spent on the Hemlock road among her old acquaintances. Of interest, also, is the fact that in her declining years Mrs. Tompkins is surrounded by six of her seven children. The families of her sons, Charles and Will, and her daughters, Elizabeth, Laura, Maude and Stella, all live within 30 miles of each other.

"His First Command"

Thrilling and Colorful Military Love Romance

Rich in entertainment values, William Boyd's new Pathe stellar vehicle, "His First Command," surpasses in interest his two big successes, "Dress Parade" and "The Leatherneck." You've seen Boyd, the West Point cadet, and Boyd, the Marine, but as a cavalryman, it will be generally admitted, he is seen at his best. "His First Command" is thrilling and colorful. The story has dash and the romantic atmosphere of army life and tradition form a fascinating background.

You Can Beat the Life Out of Rugs and Carpets, but --- You Cannot Beat CLEANNESS Into Them . . . . .

IT has been tried for years and cannot be done. No amount of whacking will beat all the dirt or any of the stains from rugs and carpets. Why flog your floor coverings within an inch of ruination? Why raise a whirlwind of dust for the family and neighbors to consume?

When we clean your carpets and rugs by our Special Shampoo Process you can see and feel cleanness all over, all through. Dirt and grease spots are dissolved and washed away by pure soap and water. The Shampoo process is gentle, harmless and thorough. It cannot wear, tear, discolor or loosen the fibers of the finest rug. Shampooing leaves only brightness and cleanness to show where dirt has been.

We Will Take as Much Care in Shampooing Your Rugs As If They Were Our Own

WE cannot give you more assurance or a safer guarantee than this. When you entrust your rugs and carpets to our shampoo process your work is placed in safe hands. WRITE OR PHONE US TO CALL.
