RELICTED LAND TITLE SHIFTED BY HIGH COURT

Owners of upland property along the shores of the Great Lakes were given clear title to the relicted land between the waters' edge and the meander line by a decision of the Michigan Supreme Court, was reported in newspapers Wednesday of this week.

The decision constitutes a complete reversal of previous decisions in the cases of Kavanagh vs. Rabior and Baird vs. Kavanagh, the latter of which was decided three years ago. In those cases the Supreme Court held the relicted land extending for hundreds of miles along the shores of all the Great Lakes to be the property of all the people, held in trust for them by the state.

Today's opinion, written by Justice Louis H. Fead and concurred in by Justices Walter H. North, George M. Clark, Henry M. Butzel, and Nelson Sharp, holds that in arriving at its earlier decision the court erroneously applied to the Great Lakes certain legal principles having to do with the seas or with small bodies of water within the state.

The decision points out that while the state now loses title to the relicted land, it gains "the right to levy and collect taxes on the relicted land, the great value of which supports the argument that such taxes will more than compensate the people for the loss of an empty title."

REPORT OF COUNTY NURSE FOR MONTH OF NOVEMBER

The activities of Miss Myrtle Cowgill, county nurse, during the month of November included six prenatal calls, nine home visits to infants, 16 pre-school home visits, 21 school home visits, 16 visits to schools and two communicable disease home visits. 489 pupils were inspected by the nurse, and Dr. F. T. Zieske gave 546 treatments for immunization against diphtheria, completing the immunization in the Oscoda school and beginning the treatments in the Alabaster school. In both schools a large number of pre-school children have come for immunization. Fifty children were vaccinated against smallpox.

At a meeting of the rural teachers a talk was given by Miss Cowgill on promoting good health habits in the rural schools, and by F. A. Reagan, the sanitary inspector, on school sanitation.

A meeting of the county nursing committee was held on November 25th and a survey of health conditions of all the schools in the county is to be undertaken, the reports to be sent to the office of the Children's Fund in Detroit.

The schedule of the county nurse for December is as follows: 2nd—Oscoda; 3rd—Tawas City; 4th—Alabaster; 5th—East Tawas; 6th—West Branch; 8th—Hale; 9th—Grant township; 10th—Tawas City; 11th—Alabaster; 12th—East Tawas; 13th—West Branch; 15th—Sherman township; 16th—Tawas township; 17th—Tawas City; 18th—St. Joseph school; 19th—East Tawas; 20th—West Branch; 22nd—Whittemore; 23rd—Oscoda; 24th—Tawas City; 26th—Office; 27th—West Branch; 29th—Hale; 30th—Tawas City; 31st—Office.

Those who cared for her during the last two weeks of her illness wish to thank all who helped to brighten and cheer her last hours; for the lovely flowers and services of all kinds.

Santa's Appeal

GIVES HISTORY OF FIRE ENGINE PURCHASE

To the Taxpayers of Tawas City: In last week's issue of the Tawas Herald there appeared an article over the signature of Ernest B. Schreiber asking you to pray for strong men to tell the truth. It charged me with telling falsehoods. He says he does not remember my appearing before the Council in regard to fire protection for the high school, but admits there was $1000.00 raised for that purpose and says $265.00 of this amount was spent on the project but does not state why the other $735.00 was not used. I ask you, can it be used legally for any other purpose?

I do not retract the statement that I made about his being Alderman nine years and had never received anything. He made that statement to me personally.

He states that the records show that I was mayor three years, 1919, 1920, 1921. This is a mistake. I was mayor four years, 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921.

He says that in 1919 a fire engine was purchased that cost $4189.20, and was sold in 1920 for $1500.00—a loss of $2689.00. This is another mistake. I will let you judge the truth of his sewer yarn by the foregoing statements.

On September 5, 1919, the Council purchased a pumping machine on a one-ton Ford truck. The price was $2200.00. A double chemical machine costing $1175.00, 1000 feet of 2 1/2 inch single jacket hose and other supplies at $1000.00 brought the total amount to $5075.00. Neither Clerk Allan nor myself were present at that meeting—we were both out of the city. The city afterwards equipped the pumper with a self starter costing $75.00, making the total cost of the pumper $2975.00. We had this pumper 15 months. We sold the pumper back to H. Sutphen, the man the city purchased it from, for $1500.00 in February, 1921. The difference between $2975.00 and $1500.00 is $1475.00 instead of $2689.00. In September, 1920, we purchased the American LaFrance pumper for $9750.00. This was delivered in March, 1921.

If Alderman Schreiber, who has been a member of the Fire Department committee of the Council in 1922, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, will go over to the City Hall he will see that the city still owns the chemical.

The council who purchased the American LaFrance pumper were: Wm. Rouiller, Clark Tanner, Fred T. Luettke, Frank Miller, Reuben Wade and Geo. Lanski.

He says he kept his mouth shut because he thought these men and myself were acting to the best of our ability. I wish to congratulate Mr. Schreiber on his good judgment because the decrease in insurance rates has more than made up the $1475.00, the loss on the Ford pumper, if not the cost of all the apparatus.

The state put in the pavement in the city in 1921. That delayed the council's plans to put in the reservoirs recommended by the Michigan Inspection Bureau.

Mr. Schreiber asks what was done while I was mayor to improve fire protection. I will say that when I was elected there was neither fire engine nor fire department, and when I retired from office, there was a pumper, chemical, a supply of hose, and an organized department in charge of Chief Henry Neumann. Of course, I do not claim the credit for this personally, as each alderman is entitled to an equal share.

I am now going to ask Alderman Schreiber to use his influence to have the $735.00 used to finish the project started. I have proofs in my possession of the figures furnished you on the fire engines, also a photograph of the two engines.

I am now going to take the opportunity of thanking the people of this city for the confidence they have placed in me in the last eight years, that I have held the following offices: Alderman, Supervisor, City Clerk, Mayor, and member of the Board of Education; also to thank the Editor of The Herald for his kindness in letting me use the columns of the press.

This is my last appeal for fire protection.

Jno. A. Myles, Secretary. Board of Education.

EAST TAWAS PUBLIC SCHOOL NEWS

Rehearsals are well under way for "The Toreadors," a musical comedy which is to be presented by the Junior class Wednesday, December 17. A synopsis of the play is as follows: Senor Dكتور, wealthy farmer of Spain, entertains for his twin daughters, Juanita and Benita, in honor of their birthday. Juan and Pablo, admirers of the two girls, seem to have little chance of winning the fair maidens for Senor Dكتور has "other plans." He wants his daughters to marry toradors because he is very much interested in bull-fights. Although he has never witnessed a bull-fight he knows all about them, for he's a "sport page fan." Just as Juan and Pablo begin to despair, two beggars appear. As all beggars, they are starving. A scheme is devised whereby the beggars will pose as great bull-fighters. Senor Swato and Senor Whackoe. Complications arise, which require quick action and clever thinking on the part of Juan, Pablo and the toradors, in order that they may escape the bull-fight which is to be staged. Most of the leading characters have been picked from the Junior class, members of other classes assisting in choruses.

O.E.S. RECEPTION GIVEN IN HONOR OF JAS. MARK

Last Tuesday evening Tawas City Chapter No. 303, O. E. S., entertained in honor of Jas. E. Mark, Grand Sentinel of the Grand Chapter, O. E. S., of Michigan, at the Masonic temple. Every chapter in Losco was well represented and Otto W. Bush, Grand Patron, and Mrs. Eush of Flint, and Mrs. Gertrude Lewis of Ashley, Grand Treasurer, were among the 96 that attended.

The bride was attired in white satin. The bridal couple were attended by Miss Marjorie Morley and Guy Lickfelt. A delicious dinner was served to the wedding party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gus. Bean of 422 Miller St., Alpena.

Mrs. Darrow was born in Tawas City and is a graduate of Tawas City high school, class of 1926. The past four years she was employed in the office of the Register of Deeds.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrow left Monday for Battle Creek, where the groom is located at present with the Consumers Power company. Their Tawas friends extend best wishes for a happy married life.

OSBORN—DARROW

Miss Margaret K. Osborn of this city and William E. Darrow of La Valle, Wisconsin, were quietly married Sunday, November 23, at two o'clock, by Rev. Eicher, pastor of the First Baptist church of Alpena, the ceremony taking place at the parsonage.

L. D. S. YOUNG PEOPLE BEGIN SERIES OF MEETINGS

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the McIvor church November 28th, when about fifty young people of the L. D. S. church and their friends met for a program and recreation hour.

The program in charge of Eri Erwin of Whittemore was a credit to the director and his assistants. Special mention should be made of the "Guardian Angel" song, also of "Deacon Allen's Joke" by Elder Arthur Oakman of Bay City and Miss Louise Evans of Grand Rapids were also present and helped to make the evening a profitable one for all. After the program an hour of games was enjoyed and a lunch served.

The next meeting will be held at the McIvor church on December 12. All who would enjoy a short program and an hour of good, clean fun are invited to come.

A name contest will be held at the next meeting. Write your choice of a name for the society and a short paragraph to explain the meaning, place in a sealed envelope, and write your name on outside of envelope. Prizes will be given for the three best names.

I am now going to take the opportunity of thanking the people of this city for the confidence they have placed in me in the last eight years, that I have held the following offices: Alderman, Supervisor, City Clerk, Mayor, and member of the Board of Education; also to thank the Editor of The Herald for his kindness in letting me use the columns of the press.

HEMLOCK NUTRITION GROUP HOLDS THIRD MEETING

The Hemlock Road Nutrition group held its third meeting at the home of Mrs. John McArdle, on Tuesday, November 25, with 21 ladies present. After a short business session the work was turned over to Mrs. Sada Moore. The lesson was on calories. Each member present figured how many calories her body consumed each day. Balanced meals were arranged with cut-outs from the text-book. A true and false statement test was given from McCallum.

At noon the hostess served a very delicious roast venison dinner, which indeed was a treat to all. Needless to say that we did not count the calories for this meal.

Mrs. Minnie Nelem has invited the group to meet at her home for the next meeting which is December 16th.

COUNTY NORMAL NOTES

Inez Larson returned after a week's absence. She was in Caro caring for her sister.

Miss Worden visited Normal Wednesday morning.

The Normal enjoyed two delightful Thanksgiving programs last Wednesday afternoon. The critic room program was arranged by the student teachers. Mrs. Bigelow's was very interesting, especially the radio program and dramatization of the First Thanksgiving.

Dr. Davis, from the dental division of the State Department of Health, will speak Thursday.

The basketball schedule is just about completed. The Normal expects to give the fans their money's worth this year.

MRS. TILLA STAPLES

Mrs. Tilla Staples, aged resident of Hale, died last Friday at her home. She had been a resident of Plainfield township for 31 years. The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. George Smith officiated.

Mrs. Tilla Staples was born February 12, 1851, in Pennsylvania. Mr. Staples preceded her in death several years ago. She is survived by a nephew, George Caslu, of Mesick.

Mr. and Mrs. Staples were members of the M. E. church over 40 years, and she was the last of the members of the Ladies Aid of that church. In her earlier days no service was too small or lowly for her to render for her church or her friends. Only during the past few months had she faltered in her brave fight to keep going. Her Christian influence among her neighbors and friends will indeed be of lasting benefit to the community in which she served God always.

Those who cared for her during the last two weeks of her illness wish to thank all who helped to brighten and cheer her last hours; for the lovely flowers and services of all kinds.

ADD BASEMENT TO WILBER M. E. CHURCH

The construction of a fine, new basement at the Wilber M. E. church is about complete and will be dedicated next Wednesday, December 10th. Features planned for the evening are as follows: 5:30 to 6:00 p. m.—An illustrated lecture entitled "Into All the World." Next an oyster supper will be given to the community that has so generously spent its time and labor on the building, also to friends and farmers, members of the church living in Tawas City, East Tawas, or elsewhere. Following the supper a very interesting play will be given by a young woman from East Tawas. Title of the play is "Jancy." It shows the confession and reformation of a wayward girl.

The new basement is the full size of the church with a seven foot depth, built of concrete blocks, and will provide space and comfort for social and recreational programs. It is a credit to the community.

Mrs. Harrington, the L. L. C. president, presided, introducing Mrs. Mulder, who gave a very fine address on "Woman's Last Word," touching on the lives of several of America's greatest women. She stressed particularly the inspiration and benefit to be drawn from the fact that these leaders insisted on the last word on vital issues.

Mrs. James Mark and Mrs. Ira Figtel sang a duet, Mrs. Hosea Figtel accompanying. Mrs. Giddings played a piano solo.

Delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. Hill presided at the table, Mrs. Pinkerton at the coffee table, Mrs. Warren, Mrs. Goupil and Miss Richards assisting.

"FOR THE LOVE O' LIL"

"For the Love O' Lil," coming to the Family Theatre, Thursday and Friday, is better than average material and this little domestic comedy should please any audience. There is nothing heavy-weight about its treatment nor does it purport to carry any preachment. Designed only as entertainment, it achieves its purpose pleasantly.

The story concerns the attempts of Sandy and Lil to stay happily married despite the kibitzing of their best friend, James Tingling, in his direction, keeps things moving at a light tempo. Neat camera work adds in stimulating action.

As Sandy, Elliott Nugent delivers perhaps his best screen performance. He is perfectly at home in the sheep-like husband role and proves it. Jack Mulhall also gives good account of himself as the interfering friend. It is the most workmanlike job he has done in talkers.

Sally Starr gamers as much from Lil as could be expected of the assignment and Margaret Livingston does the inevitable other woman with her usual charm.

Variation of Dutch Colonial Type Brings Most Interesting Results

Six good large rooms and a large sun parlor are shown on the floor plan of this frame home. The center entrance leading into the hall and a living room that extends across the side and a good-sized sun parlor are features. The house is 24 feet wide and 30 feet long.

By W. A. RADFORD
 Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 407, South Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Variations of the different types of home building designs are always interesting for they demonstrate that individuality of treatment brings most happy results. This is shown in the home reproduced herewith. This is a variation of the Dutch colonial type of architecture. But by the design of the roof over the porch and extending it up to the eaves, the architect has taken away the plain effect of the Dutch colonial and substituted a graceful break in the otherwise straight rooms and a large sun parlor. How these rooms are arranged and their sizes are shown on the floor plans. But it is the exterior of the home which will have its greatest appeal to those who want the unusual in the design of their home but who have not a large sum of money to invest to achieve this result. The entrance door design, already discussed, the sun lines. This arrangement has made possible a closet off the entrance on the first floor and one of the same size on the floor above.

 This home contains six good large porch and the balcony above, the suggestion of a balcony outside the bedroom to the left on the second floor, and the lattice side into the porch, all are unique features.

The interior arrangement is along colonial lines in that there is a central hall with the living room to the right extending the depth of the house and the dining room, sun porch and kitchen with breakfast nook adjoining the latter room, on the other side. The stairway running out of the hall leads to the central hall on the second floor off of which open three bedrooms and a bathroom.

The dimensions of this house are 24 feet by 30 feet, exclusive of the sun porch projection. It is of frame construction set on a concrete foundation and has a full basement.

Find Unlimited Use for Basement Wasted Spaces

When a person thinks of all the space that has been left over to no purpose in the cellar he marvels that it is not put to use.

The basement is usually the warmest spot in the house and is an ideal location for a playroom for children or a recreation-room for adults. Clever householders are found taking to the cellars, even when there is no danger of cyclones or thunderstorms. Architects who are designing new houses are reckoning with the room built below stairs, and those who are making over old houses are devising means whereby they may evolve at least one attractive basement room besides the laundry.

It is quite possible to decorate the necessary beams and supports, and it is also within a possibility to have small windows fixed attractively, and then there may be any number of electric light plugs. Often the chimney is such as to make a fireplace an accomplished fact, and that is a great asset, especially a room fixed downstairs for billiards.

The house entrance may be the one that many basements have, but it may be beautified by having an iron hand-rail, and it is also a good plan to cover each step with a protector to avoid accidents by icy weather. The floor covering may be just plain (what is called granite) linoleum, or it may be of tile laid in mortar, or the cement floor itself may do with a few furnishings. Carpets of many inexpensive varieties may be used. The expert contractor knows many tricks that can be used in finishing the floor. If the floor is wood and expense is an item, use the floor as it is. If you have any old carpets or ancient clothes that are too badly worn for use by you or the Salvation Army, have rugs made from them. The cost is small and the covering will be ideal.

Concrete or stone walls in the basement may be whitewashed or painted a light color and wall lights with glass reflectors add much charm and cheer. Hickory furniture that does duty outside in summer may take a new lease on life.

It may do winter service. There is much wear and tear saved on all parts of the upper quarters and stories when the basement is turned into livable quarters, and with the installation of modern heating apparatus, even in the oldest houses much dirt is eliminated.

Plant for View

A few wisteria vines, two or three box bushes and a clump or so of tall flowering spring shrubs, to be seen from the house rather than against it, are much more attractive than quantity planting in the nurseryman's style.

Healthful Fad Saves Makers of Home Doors

Door manufacturing, an industry seemingly threatened by an architectural fad, has been saved by a health fad, according to H. Y. Stillwell, executive secretary of the National Door Manufacturing association.

"When they started building these new-fangled homes and apartments without any interior doors we thought the door industry was going to be seriously harmed," Stillwell said. "Spanish arches, oriental arches, French arches, the architects went arch-crazy."

Mr. Stillwell admitted that he liked arches personally, but decried them as a menace to the door industry. "But we have been saved," he continued. "Just as this arch fad was beginning to be felt throughout the industry, the sunshine for health fad saved us. Almost overnight home owners demanded more sunshine. Sunshine demands windows, sun parlors and walls of glass."

"Fortunately the door manufacturers also make windows. Houses may be built without interior doors, but as long as the demand for windows, solariums and French doors has been increased the manufacturers of doors—and windows—are content."

Tile Used for Floors, Roofs and Partitions

Light weight and incombustible tile for use as fireproof partitions, roof-decks and floors are manufactured from gypsum and wood fiber, with about 97 per cent of the whole being gypsum and the balance wood fiber. When used for partitions such tiles are laid up very much as brick is laid up, only the mortar used is a gypsum mortar.

For roof-decks they are manufactured to special sizes, laid across the steel roof members, fastened and then are ready for any standard kind of a roof covering. When used for floors, they are covered with cement topping, over which the finish flooring is applied.

In addition to barring fire, because of their incombustibility, tile reduces the transmission of heat and sound from room to room or floor to floor, because of the natural insulating properties of the gypsum from which they are made and because of the hollow air space that each tile contains. They also can be sawed to fit odd-sized spaces with the same ease that wood is sawed and nailed.

Wash First

Planning on some repaint jobs around your house this spring? Don't forget that the price estimate should include a thorough washing, for paint won't hold on a greasy surface or make a good appearance on top of dirt.

It Is Easy to Make a Christmas Wreath inexpensive Christmas wreaths may be made of cuttings from pine trees, barberry and bayberry with pine cones wired on. At any florist's a wire circle can be bought with punches of thin wires, making it the easiest of tasks to build up a wreath that is unusual in its beauty.

A Belated Christmas
 By Blanche Tanner Dillin

"WHAT do you kids think you're going to do with all those Christmas ads the airplane has been showering over the town every afternoon?" Randy Roberts demanded of his small brother and sister at the table a few evenings before Christmas.
 "That's what I'd like to know," Eleanor, nineteen, chimed in as she folded her napkin.
 The twins, Beth and Bob, aged but seven, looked at each other over their plates and then turned towards their mother.
 "Beth and Bob are quite justified," Mrs. Roberts assured her two older children. "Those advertisements are unusually attractive with their holly wreaths, bells, possettias and their red, gold and green lettering. The twins are making Christmas cards out of them with the aid of paste, cardboard and a verse now and then clipped from some magazine. It is their own idea and that is what every one is striving for nowadays, you know, unique and original Christmas cards." Mrs. Roberts' brown eyes twinkled.
 "I'd say they're original all right," Randy grinned. "But go to it, kiddies. At least you're saving expenses, and that's what we're all trying to do." He turned to his father at the head of the table.
 "How about the doctor's bill, Dad? Is it reducing enough so that we can manage a turkey for Christmas dinner, or shall we regale ourselves on something simpler?"
 Mr. Roberts smiled wearily: "I don't know, son, you know that incision isn't healing as it should and I've only worked two days this week. Even with your help and Eleanor's bills just about stand still."
 "That's all right Dad, I was just asking. Mother's cooking makes everything taste good." He stopped on the way out to look at the heap of ads piled on various chairs. Suddenly he picked one up and scrutinized it.
 "See here, folks. Listen what it says on the Smith Market announcement—Some of these advertisements are marked. The one turning in the greatest number of marked ads will receive a 12-pound turkey at our market the morning of Christmas eve. Bables, the turkey's yours! There can't anybody beat a collection like this."
 And nobody did.

CHRISTMAS should be a happy time for every one, but in Ruth Kenfield's heart there was little cheer. Every one seemed to be receiving gifts, she thought, as she sorted the mail in the little suburban post office. She had received a goodly number heretofore, the day before Christmas. But although there must be many beautiful gifts in the unwrapped ones, the one gift for which she had looked for three years, a letter or just a card, had never come.
 Three years ago she had been certain that before Christmas Ned Traverse would ask her to marry him. But Christmas had come and gone and he had not spoken. Then she heard that he had gone to South America. Just yesterday she heard that he was again in a neighboring city living at his old club.
 She had been grateful for the work as postmistress that had been given her, for the last few years would have indeed been lonely. But how she wished that she might go with the letters which she had just given to the man for the night air mail, and fly into new scenes and experiences.

 Feeling around in the storage box to be sure that she had left nothing, her hand struck a loose board. Then she felt something like a letter. Prying it loose she held it up to the light, and to her astonishment she saw that it was addressed to her.
 "I am sailing for South America in two weeks and shall expect an answer before I leave. No answer will mean 'No' to me." Then she saw it was post-marked three years before.
 Rushing to the telephone she called the club in the neighboring city and heard the dear, familiar voice. It might be a belated Christmas letter by several years, but both Ruth and Ned agreed the next day that it was "Better late than never."

Financiers of Freedom

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
HE names of Thaddeus Kosciusko and Casimir Pulaski, the two Polish soldiers who fought in the Revolution, are familiar to most citizens of the United States, but it is doubtful if the name of another Pole, Haym Salomon, means anything to more than one out of a thousand Americans. Yet his contribution to the cause of American liberty may in some respects be considered infinitely greater than those of the other two combined.

The invaluable services of this Polish Jew, whose financial genius was so vital to the Revolution's success, have always been known to the scholars of that struggle, but the difficulties of obtaining reliable information have kept this inspiring story from the public and the efforts which have been made to pay appropriate tribute to his memory have, for some unknown reason—unless it can be attributed to the proverbial ingratitude of republics which so easily forget their debts to those who labored mightily in their cause—been defeated for more than a century.

Fortunately for the cause of Truth there has appeared recently a biography of this man which enables us to see him in his true stature as one of the really great figures of the Revolution. It is the book "Haym Salomon and the Revolution," written by Charles Edward Russell and published by the Cosmopolitan Book Corporation. Salomon was born at Lissa in Poland in 1740. At the age of thirty he joined in the fight to resist Russian domination of Poland, was associated with Kosciusko and Pulaski in their heroic but futile effort and like those two, was forced to flee from the country. He first made his way to England but soon left there and came to America, arriving in New York in 1772. Salomon had had considerable training in business before leaving Poland and he quickly established himself as a broker and commission merchant in New York city. The opportunity lay at hand for him to make a great fortune but he hindered his chances for that by one act. For the freedom-loving Pole almost immediately allied himself in the strongly Royalist colony of New York with a "disreputable and discredited" organization, called the Sons of Liberty, who as early as 1734 had banded together to resist oppressive acts by the British crown.

He was a worker in their cause at the outbreak of the Revolution, and late in 1776 he was one of a number of the Sons who were imprisoned by the British, accused of having started the fire which swept New York soon after the defeat of Washington's army on Long Island led to the occupation of that city by Lord Howe. Salomon was lodged in the Provost and to be held there meant certain death for many a patriot during the reign of Cunningham, the brutal master of the British prisons in New York.

Among the British troops were thousands of Hessian mercenaries who could not speak a word of English. When it became known that Salomon could speak German (he was also a master of French, Polish, Russian and Italian), he was put in better quarters and used as an interpreter to the Hessians by the British. Eventually he was released on parole. Even while a prisoner he was working in the patriots' cause for, unknown to the British, in his talks with the Hessians he was urging them to desert and pointing out to them the boundless opportunities which lay in the new country for them when the war was over. More than that he was taking advantage of the fact that was regarded as a "trustee" by the British, passing by their sentries freely and going pretty much where he pleased, to aid in the escape of American prisoners. After his parole, he was able again to engage in business, using this as well as his interpreter duties for the British, as a cloak for his activity in behalf of the patriots.

For two years Salomon led a seemingly peaceful existence, although there was never a moment when his life was not in danger of being ended before a firing squad or at the end of a rope if the British had suspected what he was about. Then suddenly in August, 1778, Sir Henry Clinton received word that Washington was plotting to burn the city, and Salomon was arrested as the chief agent in the plot and returned again to the Provost. Details of this imprisonment are lacking, but it is believed that he was condemned to death but managed to escape from the prison shortly before the day of his execution. How he did it is unknown, but it is believed that he bought his way out of the prison and then used his familiarity with British posts and British guard methods to escape from the city.

At any rate he next appeared in Philadelphia and there the most important part of his career began. Although he was penniless, he still had his native energy and his knowledge of commerce and finance. So he immediately opened an office and began to deal in bills of exchange and other securities. By this time France had come into the war on the side of the Americans and French money was coming into the country. Philadelphia was not only the capital of the newly-created United States but it became a prosperous business and shipping center. In its prosperity Salomon shared. But this prosperity was not shared by the infant government, for the financial policy of the Continental Congress had been a blundering one from the start. By 1779 it was having serious financial difficulties. By 1780 the situation was even more critical. By 1781, with a treasury deficit of $1,600,000, it was desperate. It was desperate because the Revolution seemed near to collapse. On the first day of the new year the entire Pennsylvania line mutilated and started from Morris-town for Philadelphia to force Congress to relieve their distress. They had not been paid for months, they were in rags and they were half starved. Two weeks later the New Jersey line also revolted.

Congress managed to head off the revolt and soon afterwards took steps to salvage what seemed to be a lost cause. Robert Morris, whose financial genius Washington had discovered early and upon whom that leader had leaned heavily in more than one crisis, was called to lead Congress out of the financial morass. It was a formidable task which faced Morris in his newly-created post of superintendent of finance and a part of our admiration for the man who faced the bullets and bayonets of the British on the battlefield in the struggle for liberty should be reserved for this man who fought his fight far from the firing line and fought it with what must have seemed overwhelming odds against him.

He was "beset with a thousand difficulties and perils," writes Russell. "He used up all his own credit; always he was at the end of his resources, often he was at the end of his wits. Help from abroad came in fragments and slowly. When it arrived it was in the form of bills on Paris, chiefly on the great French banking house of La Couteux and company. These reached Morris (sometimes) from various sources, and he must needs turn them into current money before they could be of use to him. In other words he must sell these bills for what he could get for them, gather up depreciated state currency and try to keep going. . . . His position was virtually at the mercy of brokers and yet set against them. The government and the government's officers could never go huckstering the government's bills up and down the Coffee House. Brokers were indispensable, but they were reputed, probably not without reason, to be cormorants; all except one."

That one was Haym Salomon. Morris' unpublished Diary, upon which Salomon's biographer draws heavily for his information, is filled with references to his dealings with Salomon, and all of them reflect the highest credit upon him as a patriot and a man. "One thing is made by the Diary as plain as daylight," writes Russell. "Haym Salomon is the pivot of the whole business. He stands in the breach; he keeps back the masses at attacks that make for bankruptcy; everything depends upon him. It is Haym Salomon this and Haym Salomon that. On some days he makes six or seven visits to consult with the superintendent. Forty times, according to the testimony of the cashier (of the Bank of North America, which Morris established), between August 1, 1782, and the time Morris goes out of office, Haym Salomon comes to bat with his timely check. No matter where he gets the money; he gets it and it is this money that saves the day. "He sells bills when no one else can sell them. More than that; he sells without gouging, without profit, even. Other brokers continue to harass the superintendent by underselling the market and hampering the sale of his bills. He has no trouble from Salomon. . . . One other great service he performs, though to this day no one has noticed it, nor given the slightest credit for it. With a magnificent disregard of his own interests, he endorses the paper of the broken-backed government. No one else will do this. The government's credit has ebbed and ebbed until it has sunk from sight. Everybody knows it is gone; sagacious men believe it will never return. Salomon endorses its paper and its officers' paper, and its Allies' paper, and makes himself personally liable for all. We have the evidence; no need for speculation or surmise."

All of this was, of course, after Cornwallis' surrender. Contrary to popular belief the affair at Yorktown did not end the Revolution. Great as was that victory, the patriot cause was still in danger and none realized that more than Washington who immediately after receiving the surrender began making plans for the next season's campaign. He could not realize that his victory had dealt the British ministry a blow from which it could not recover and that it was paving the way to peace. That was still two years away, and before it could be realized there was still much yet to be done. And, of course, the doing of that had to be financed. So the burden of making good the victory of Yorktown fell upon Robert Morris and his friend and helper, Haym Salomon.

It is impossible to estimate the full text of Salomon's contribution to the cause of liberty in terms of such intangibles as moral support and fostering the will-to-win. But there is a definite record of his tangible contribution, great in itself but smaller in importance than the intangible. For the records show that Salomon advanced in specie to Morris at various times and in various sums a total of $211,678, and although it can not be proved definitely that all of this was his own money, it is probable that most of it was. But the main fact is that he placed that money in Morris' hands when it was most needed and when few others had sufficient faith in the cause to risk even a fraction of that sum.

And his reward? He died January 6, 1785, when he was only forty-five years old. There is no doubt that the hardships he suffered in the British prisons and in his labors for the Continental government shortened his life. He was supposed to be rich, but after his death it was found that he was virtually a bankrupt. He left a widow and four children facing poverty. He had given his all to the cause of liberty. "He died without formulating any claims for reimbursement for the sums he had advanced," writes Russell. "In the opinion of later investigators he had entire confidence that when the government should be established, it would pay his obligations to him. As for his 'entire confidence' that the government would pay its obligations to him, they were never realized. For more than 80 years his heirs tried to get some recompense from Congress but they never succeeded. "A republic soon forgets!"

VELVET ADDS TO ITS LAURELS; CLOAKED AND HATTED IN VELVET

YET another leaf is velvet adding to its wreath of laurels. This latest conquest which velvet is recording is that of the fur-trimmed tailored suit.

The return of velvet for the daytime-tailleur is stressed in this illustration of a fetching model which has wide sleeves of black astrakhan. There is nothing smarter for semiformal daytime wear this season than velvet trimmed with astrakhan, or in fact, any of the flat furs such as galyak, persian lamb, broadtail or seal.

The unusual sleeve which styles the velvet jacket pictured is but one of quota of elegance, but the blouse is assigned a role which depends on resplendent materials and ingenious fashioning.

Elegance the Keynote. Richly furred velvet coats are sauntering along the highways of fashion in continuous procession. Which confirms the earlier reports that winter modes will attain to heights of elegance such as has not been experienced for many a season.

Nor is the velvet coat reserved for state, in fact, we are wearing velvet these days quite casually. Of course, it depends on the type of velvet as a program of capricious effects such as are capturing the fancy of women who glory in the "new" and the distinctive. One of the latest whims of fashion is to play up sleeves which are "different." This they accomplish not only in the shape of the sleeve which is often quite generously proportioned and unique in contour, but the lavish fur trimmings are made to tell a tale of most out-of-the-ordinary treatments.

However, the sleeve does not carry the entire responsibility of interpreting that which is novel and new. A fascinating vagary of the mode is that of the coachman's cape made of astrakhan or a similar fur. When worn with the tailored suit of velvet it speaks unmistakably chic.

Then there is the little fur bolero to take on and off at will, how striking well as its general styling as to when and where it may be correctly worn. As to the models in the picture below they are exquisite to the slightest detail, are high-class, yet are so conservatively styled as to tune in to most any hour of the day.

The social rounds of the day seem not so arduous to the woman cuddled in luxurious fur and who feels the soft caress of rich velvet. And so if you are pondering as to whether the new winter coat shall be of cloth or of fur, why not let the models in the picture solve the problem in their suggestion that you choose velvet.

While the most natural thing to do is to decide upon black for the daytime velvet coat, the vogue for deep rich colors is also declared. The youthful model illustrated to the right is fashioned of velvet in empire blue.

RICHLY-FURRED VELVET COATS

Its style as it poses over a street dress of velvet cut among slenderizing princess lines. Add a muff of the fur and a beret of the velvet trimmed with a bit of the fur, and there is nothing on the style calendar which outclasses this costume in way of smart style.

There is no end to the luxury expressed in the afternoon velvet suits and ensembles such as fashion bids us to wear to bridge parties or when making polite calls or dropping in to a matinee musical. Not only are sumptuous rurs called upon to add their

HE big bus came to a stop with a jolt which buried its tired passengers against the seats ahead. The powerful engine whined to silence. For a long moment nothing was said. Twenty people stared at the back of the driver. Twenty pairs of ears heard the wild rush of wind outside: a noise which up to this time had been drowned by the motor speeding through the night.

The driver was young. He had wide shoulders and a fresh color in his cheeks. He was used to these long, cross country runs: he knew how to handle people and he understood the temperament of a bus as a mother understands her child.

He turned about in his seat to face the silent people. "Sorry, folks, we're out of luck." A faint shadow seemed to rest on his face. "We're hung up . . . a hundred miles from nowhere."

A rustle of amazement passed through the listening passengers. A man climbed over a seat mate and began talking in a loud, irritated voice. "You mean to tell me this blasted bus won't move another foot tonight? That we must stay here the Lord-knows-how-long? On Christmas eve and the folks home waiting for us? A fine, fat driver you are!"

The young man was unperturbed and ready. "No use telling you I can't help it. They gave me a bum bus, an old one, because of the holiday travel. They gambled on my getting through . . . and lost."

"Ain't you even going to get out to look at it?" demanded the man unpleasantly.

"No, boss, I ain't. I know this bus like an old friend. It's plumb give out and I told them so." He looked the protestor straight in the eye. "What's more, we're the last one through tonight. Laugh that off."

Out of a dim, rear seat rose a girl. Her hair was light. It seemed to ripple into curls as you looked at it. Her face was pale with weariness, but she smiled. "What say, fellers, we buck up and have a party of our own? He can't help things," she nodded towards the driver. "He's done all the work and had the worry and now all he gets handed to him is a bunch of growls. Come on, folks! We're safe and warm. Nothing can hurt us. We'll get help in the morning."

She smiled at the big man who was biting his mustache. She laughed in the face of an old lady who was fur-tively wiping her eyes with the corner of a handkerchief. She grinned at a boy of fourteen.

The bus driver showed a fine set of white teeth. "Some grand little sport," he whispered to himself. Then aloud, "I got to warn you folks of something else, too. Nothing serious but kind of

A man shot out of a seat and shook himself into a fur coat. "Open the door, driver . . . I'll be back in a couple of minutes." A blast of cold air, and the man slipped out. He came back presently with a small ragged bush. "Found it here by the roadside. Gee! . . . some little blizzard going on!"

He shed his coat. He asked for string. Bundles were untied and the cord offered. By tying several lengths about the center of the bush, and then stretching them taut to various seat-braces the bush was made securely upright in the aisle.

"Now for trimmings. Who's got trimmings?"

The cross man was busy with a bundle. He was a trifle reluctant, still he continued to unwrap papers. Soon a glittering angel with tinsel wings was in the hands of the tree trimmer. Gently, almost reverently the angel was fastened to the top. The disagreeable man beamed.

"I Knew When I Set Eyes On You . . . Ye Belonged to Me."

"Anyone got any white tissue paper?" asked the girl.

More girls were untied and their wrappers volunteered. With nimble fingers the girl folded long strips of red and white together into a sort of accordion effect.

"What's your name, driver?" suddenly demanded the girl.

"Michael O'Hara."

She glowed with pleasure. "And mine is Katy Connelly . . . the top of the evenin' to ye!"

Then the fun began. Michael was possessed of an irresistible humor. He sent the old lady into stitches by presenting her with a package of cigarettes. He completely disarmed the cross man by giving him an artificial rose, bowing with so much ceremony that his hair almost touched the floor.

The fourteen-year-old boy was delighted with a candy cane and began to demolish it at once. There was a gift for everyone. The bus rocked with laughter. It was "Katy" this . . . and "Mike" that. The driver thought of everyone but himself.

The girl had a moment of acute distress. There was nothing for Mike, swiftly she thrust her hand into her bag and brought out a small box. With this she went close to Michael. "Here's a present for you, bozo," she said lightly.

"Go 'way wid ye!" remonstrated the man in surprise.

"No, please, I mean it." Something in the blue of her eyes decided him. He opened the box. Out of it came a silver cigarette lighter.

"Gosh . . . what a swell present! But you mustn't . . ."

"If you don't take it I'll never speak to you again!" declared the girl.

Amusement and tenderness mingled in his thanks.

"I Have a Flashlight," Said the Girl. "Who's Got Another?"

The fun went on. Twelve o'clock . . . one . . . two. The old lady dropped off to sleep. The bus grew quiet. The girl curled up in a rear seat. The driver stared out into the storm. Once he drew out the lighter and held it against his lips. "The darned little darlin'," he murmured.

On Christmas morning they were transferred to another bus. At the city terminal the passengers parted from one another with the warmest greetings. But Michael O'Hara and Katy Connelly did not part. They went on to Michael's home, and when his mother saw the girl, and her laughter, and her blushes, she just opened her arms.

"I knew the bye would be findin' his lady suddint. It's the O'Hara way."

She did not even inquire about the bus. Her son was home. It was Christmas . . . on with the turkey and pumpkin pies!

"But the cigarette lighter, darlin'!" Michael asked, "how did ye . . . ?"

"Oh, I just bought it . . . I like the looks. And I knew the moment I set eyes on you that it belonged to you."

"And," said Michael with a big grin, "I knew when I set eyes on you ye belonged to me."

"Hooray!" said Michael's mother, plumping the turkey on the table.

(© 1930, Western Newspaper Union.)

The bus grew a little chilly but the girl would not allow them to think of that. "Now each of you must choose a present from your own, to give some one else here tonight. The folks at home would be glad to sacrifice one gift for the sake of giving us some fun. We'll make him," she smiled at the driver, "be Santa Claus, and if any of you have eats . . . I say, have a heart and pass 'em around."

She went quickly from one to another. The old lady's wrinkles crinkled up in laughter as she fumbled in her shabby gladstone bag. The fourteen-year-old boy came out of his grumps and offered to do anything from singing a song to pushing the bus—a suggestion which was greeted by a roar of laughter from the driver.

"We ought to have a tree," mused the girl aloud. "We can't do a thing without a tree."

"Hey, I got an idea," called a voice.

W. H. Grant, County Treasurer. Moved by Searle, supported by Brown, that report of County Treasurer be accepted and spread upon the record. Motion prevailed.

Tawas City, Mich., Oct. 14, 1930

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors of Iosco County:

We respectfully request that the sum of twelve thousand dollars ($12000.00) be placed to the credit of the Poor Fund for the coming year. Yours respectfully,

John A. Mark, Secretary.

Waldo Curry, Chairman.

Moved by Evans, supported by Christenson, that the request of the Poor Commissioners be granted and that they be allowed $12,000.00. Carried. Yeas: Anschuetz, Angell, Britt, Brown, Carlson, Christenson, Colbath, Black, Curtis, Evans, Loffman, Laidlaw, Latham, Louks, McLean, Mills, McAuliff, Schneider, Searle-19. Nays: 0.

Moved by Colbath, supported by Brown, that the matter of an appropriation to the Michigan Tuberculosis Society be made a special order of business tomorrow at 2:00 o'clock. Motion prevailed.

Sherman Township, Oct. 6, 1930

Committee on Drains and Ditches beg leave to report that the committee met in Sherman Township and went to parts of Burleigh Drain and Elm Creek Drain which was released last year and find the same in good condition. There is some work being done on McMillen Drain which was incomplete at time of inspection. We also viewed parts of Pink Drain and bridges and find same in good condition.

Signed, Committee—
Frank Schneider,
Elmer Britt, John Searle.

Moved by Schneider, supported by Searle, that the report of Committee on Drains and Ditches be accepted and adopted. Motion prevailed.

Moved by Anschuetz, supported by Angell, that we take a recess until tomorrow morning at 8:30. Motion prevailed.

Clark Tanner, Chairman.
Frank E. Dease, Clerk.

Wednesday, October 15, 1930

The Board of Supervisors of the county of Iosco met at the Court House in the city of Tawas City, said county, on Wednesday, the 15th day of October, A. D. 1930, pursuant to a recess from Tuesday, October 14th.

Board was called to order at 8:30 a. m. by Chairman Clark Tanner.

Roll call. Present Supervisors: Anschuetz, Angell, Britt, Brown, Carlson, Christenson, Colbath, Black, Curtis, Evans, Loffman, Laidlaw, Latham, Louks, Mills, McAuliff, Schneider, Searle-17. Quorum present. Minutes of Tuesday's session read and approved.

Waldo Curry, chairman, and John A. Mark, secretary, asked the board for permission to borrow $4000.00 to take care of bills now due and other expenses that will have to be paid before the taxes are paid to the County Treasurer.

Moved by Brown, supported by Curtis, that the request of the Poor Commissioners be granted. Carried. Yeas: Anschuetz, Angell, Britt, Brown, Carlson, Christenson, Colbath, Black, Curtis, Evans, Loffman, Laidlaw, Latham, Louks, Mills, McAuliff, Schneider, Searle-18. Nays: 0.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors: Your County Road Commission wishes to submit their report.

During the past season, or from October 1, 1929 to October 1, 1930, we have completed:

Baldwin Resort Road, 1.2 miles, graded and graveled by county; South Branch Road, 0.8 mile, graded and graveled by county; Mill Station Road, 2.8 miles, graveled by county, graded by townships with $800.00 assistance from county; Town Line (Alabaster), 1.0 mile, graveled by county, graded by township; Rodman Road, 0.5 mile, graded and graveled by county; Greenwood School Road, 0.75 mile, graveled by county, graded by township; Old State Road, 1.00 mile, graveled by county, graded by township; Britt Road, 0.8 mile, graveled by county, graded by township. Total, 8.85 miles.

In all cases survey and plans were furnished by the county. In addition to the above, 5.5 miles of the Indian Lake Extension (from the end of the Indian Lake Road through plains by way of Indian Lake Resort to north end of Sand Lake Road) were cleared and grubbed and shaped up with the grader. On this road one big fill was made at Round Lake and 42 feet of 48 inch pipe placed and a light course of clay and gravel put on.

One mile of the Esmond Road was partly resurfaced and about one hundred yards of additional surface on the Wilson Creek Road.

Our portion of the South Branch Road was the south end extending north to the new bridge and including one-half of the new bridge which amounted to $2135.00, or one-half of the total cost of $4250.00. Ogemaw county built that part of the road north of the bridge and paid for one-half of the cost of the bridge.

We have paid one-half of the cost for state survey and plans for a state reward bridge across the East Branch of the AuGres near McIvor. However, the bridge has since been temporarily repaired and considered safe for the present, and consequently we have not pushed our demands for a new bridge.

A little over four years ago, or the spring of 1926, we had only 49.5 miles of county gravel road. Some of this was 12 feet in width, but most of it was only 9 feet. We now have a total of 109 miles of county gravel road. All of that built in the last four years is 9 feet in width with the exception of 5 miles which was 12 feet. In other words, our road mileage has more than doubled in the last four years. Of this total of 59 miles built in the last four years, 26 was graveled by the county, three by contract in 1926 and 23 by county force during the last three years.

Nine miles were built by the Federal Government and 20.5 miles by the townships assisted by the county. Four miles out of the total of 59 miles of old M-55 which has been returned back to the county.

Neither of our only trunk lines, I. S. 23 and M-55, are included in his discussion or the mileage given as we do not have the state contract for maintaining the trunk lines.

This mileage was built largely through assistance given by the townships in building the grades by plans furnished by the county. Sixteen and one-half miles of this grade was built by the county without assistance from the townships. The remainder of the 26 miles of grade was built by the townships, in some cases with financial assistance from the county. In all cases the county furnished the plans without charge to the townships. With this system of co-operation between the county and the townships the county has been able, with its limited resources, to accomplish a great deal more in getting roads improved, and those townships that have co-operated with the county in this way have also realized more for their money in having something to show for what they have spent.

As recently as the spring of 1926 we had almost no equipment and no garage or place to keep tools and machinery. We now have a fine garage and quite a lot of equipment. Greatly increased maintenance made necessary the purchase of some additional equipment this year. This year's new equipment included one 3 1/2 ton Republic truck with grader blade and snow plow for road patrol and snow removal, and one road mower, besides a welding outfit and other small tools.

With two truck snow plows in operation this winter we hope to be able to please a lot of our people on snow removal.

We have drawn warrants for construction $40212.25
Warrants for equipment 12155.85
Warrants for material in stock 1507.51

Warrants for supplies and repairs to county garage	119.60
Warrants for County Road maintenance	13698.21
Warrants for General Account	4117.27
Warrants for rented garage	13.01
Total	$71823.70

Balance on hand, October 1, 1929 $21297.08
Received as revenue or transfer 53311.30

Total cash available	$74608.38
Warrants drawn	71823.70
Balance, Oct. 1, 1930	$2784.68

With unpaid bills of September to more than cover our balance.

Next year the Five Channels bridge will require twelve to fifteen thousand dollars. In addition to this amount at least ten thousand and probably more will be required to build our part of the big fill at Five Channels and gravel three miles of road made necessary by law in connection with this bridge. Adding to this at least fourteen thousand for maintenance and resurfacing, we have a total of thirty-seven thousand dollars.

In addition to the above, it is planned to make some provision next year for dust layer. Assuming that we treat only about 40 miles of the most traveled roads the cost will be at least six or seven thousand. Thus, with a total of forty-three or forty-four thousand dollars in the above items we are going to cut deeply into next year's funds.

However, in so far as funds are available we submit the following with the promise to do only as much of it as there is money to do with, after the above is taken out. The list below is in addition to the three miles in connection with the Five Channels bridge which is included in the above.

Should more funds be available than is expected the above programme will be enlarged, if less it will be cut. It all depends on the money available. We are proud of the results obtained for the money spent and hope to keep up the good work. We therefore ask the same arrangement as last year, or 2 1/2 mills on assessed valuation of Iosco county for 1929.

We would call your Honorable Board's attention to our general account. This includes the engineer's salary and traveling expenses, plans and specifications for county and townships, all office supplies, and all necessary convention expense, light and heat and telephone at garage, and all clerical and supervision of a business of $72,000.00 for only $4000. In looking over a number of counties in Michigan, Iosco County Road Commission have used the lowest percent of any county in their administration of the past year.

W. J. Grant, Harry VanPatten, J. G. Dimmick—Commissioners.
J. N. Sloan—Engineer.
Frank E. Dease—Clerk.

Moved by Louks, supported by Christenson, that the report of the County Road Commission be made a special order of business at 2:30 P. M. Motion prevailed.

The Honorable Board of Supervisors: Your committee on Roads and Bridges respectfully submit the following report:

Alabaster Road—Road in good condition; Culvert No. 1 needs cleaning out on the east end; Culvert No. 2, abutment on east side broken off, and west end defective; Culvert No. 3, west end in good condition, east end needs repairing; Culvert No. 4 in good condition; Culvert No. 5 in good condition; Bridge at Slingerland Gully in good condition.

Meadow Road—Road in good condition; Bridge No. 1 over Dead creek in good condition; Bridge No. 2 in good condition; Bridge No. 3 over Sadler creek in good condition; Culvert No. 1 at Schultz farm needs repairing on the east side; Culverts No. 2 and 3 in good condition; Culvert No. 4 west of Sadler creek bridge defective.

Harsch Road—In good condition; Bridge No. 1 good, also Bridges No. 2 and 3.

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Strikingly beautiful, fleet and smart
—a masterpiece of Fisher styling

In the entire field of modern coachcraft no symbol has come to mean more to the buyer of a motor car than Body by Fisher. And never has Fisher's superiority been more strikingly exemplified than in the beautiful new bodies of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six!

Working with the added advantage of a lengthened wheelbase, Fisher designers have been able to achieve in the new Chevrolet a degree of smartness, comfort and impressiveness hitherto considered exclusive to cars far higher in price.

Front view of the new Chevrolet Sport Coupe

Interiors, too, are exceptional in every way. The new mohair and broadcloth upholstery is tailored with exceptional smartness. Seats are wider and deeper and more luxuriously cushioned. A deeper windshield and wider windows give better vision for both driver and passengers. And beautiful new hardware, of modern design, lends a final note of charm.

The greater quality and beauty of the new Chevrolet-Fisher bodies have a counterpart in the many improvements which have been provided in this Bigger and Better Six. Among these improvements are a longer, deeper, stronger frame; easier steering; a more durable clutch; a quieter, smoother-shifting transmission; and engine refinements which make the new Chevrolet a car you will be happy to drive—as well as proud to own.

The Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six is now on display in our showrooms. See it today—drive it—and learn for yourself that it is the Great American Value!

The feeds we carry: Corn cracked corn, oats, ground oats, corn and oat chop, scratch feed, bran middlings, chicken wheat, screenings, Hexite.

Why pay a dollar for a patent cigarette lighter when you can get matches that won't light for nothing.

Barrel salt, $2.70; 25 lb. sacks, 30c; 50 lb. sacks, 50c; 100 lb. sacks, $1.00; 50 lb. block, 50c.

Old Salt: "So you want me to spin a yarn?"

Boys: "Yes, a true one."

Old Salt: "All right, I'll tell you about the time I was eaten by cannibals."

Convict: "It is much more pleasant working in prison than outside."

"More pleasant? How so?"

"Because you are not always threatened with dismissal."

Attaboy egg mash, $3.00 per 100 lbs. Oyster shells, $1.50 per 100 lbs.

A fellow up in Chicago recently took up a collection for the mother of the unknown soldier—and he got away with it.

IDEAL GIFT FOR THE BOY

What glorious adventures boys between the ages of ten and twenty have reading THE AMERICAN BOY—YOUTH'S COMPANION! As if by magic this well-known magazine carries boys to distant parts of the world, introduces them to strange people, lets them experience queer customs and revel in the adventures of foreign lands.

In a single issue, a boy will battle the frozen Northland with sled and dog team, cross Indian-haunted plains in a prairie schooner, zoom over war-torn lands in an army plane or on dangerous routes with a U. S. mail pilot, hunt wild animals in Africa atop the swaying back of an elephant, go cruising in a battleship, fight Arab raiders with the Foreign Legion and participate in many other thrilling experiences that come to readers of THE AMERICAN BOY—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

It is such experiences as these that sharpen a boy's wits, kindle his imagination, strengthen his character, develop his understanding of the world in which he lives and of the people that inhabit it. Here indeed, is the ideal gift for that boy in whom you are interested—that son, nephew, cousin, neighbor, or perhaps the son of a business associate. An attractive gift card bearing your name will be sent to the boy if you request it with your order. Then every time the mailman brings the magazine to his door, the boy will think of you gratefully.

Subscription prices are only $2.00 for one year and $3.00 for three years. Mail your order direct to THE AMERICAN BOY—YOUTH'S COMPANION, 550 W. Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan. Service on your subscription will start with whichever issue you specify.

Market Cross in History

Throughout all its history the market cross continued to perform its chief functions as the center of civic life in the burgh. Proclamations of all kinds had been made there throughout local history, public punishments were inflicted there; hanging, decapitation, etc., took place there also, and at one time the "shanks" or iron bridge for criminals or disorderly women was attached to the cross.—London Answers.

CHRISTMAS GREENS

CHRISTMAS trees, as a family, are the oldest of all trees. Scientists say that their direct ancestors were the first flowering plants on earth. They are believed to have originated during a period of very severe climate, their needlelike leaves presenting less surface to cold and exposure than the broad leaved trees that evolved in later periods of the earth's history.

JEWEL THIEVES KEEP BUSY

New York.—There was an increase in the number of jewelry thefts and swindles during the first nine months of this year over a corresponding period of last year, according to the Jewelers' Security alliance, but the extra losses suffered by jewelers were more than offset by the additional number of arrests, convictions, and recoveries of stolen goods. Convictions have been obtained in 100 cases and a large number, having occurred within the last two months, are still pending.

"Almost three-fourths of the tricked firms are members of the alliance," the report states, "warning jewelers to take precautions against robbery, and greater care would have prevented every one of those losses."

"A loss means action by the alliance

—a hunt which may extend clear across the country and may last for months or even years. A loss means the payment by some insurance company of a sum of money. It raises the total of crime losses for the year in our industry and will perhaps result in an increase in insurance rates for next year or the years to come.

Is Your Mind on Your Work?

"Be on your guard. Don't trust anyone you don't know intimately. Don't let a single piece of jewelry out of your sight for a moment. Watch your customers, especially strangers, every minute they are in the store. Count every item you display as soon as you finish waiting on a person. Honest people won't resent your care and crooks will see that you are alert and won't try any tricks on you."

The report points out that the increased number of thefts from unlocked showcases indicates that many losses to lack of ordinary precautions on the part of the jeweler. Additional precautions are urged during the holiday season near at hand. Carelessness in merchandise displays after closing hours leads to many losses through window smashing and this form of loss can be greatly reduced through the use of common sense and proper protective measures.

"We are everlastingly at it to prevent robbery as far as possible and to punish robbers when our members are attacked," said H. C. Larter, president of the Jewelers' Security alliance. "Only about 5 per cent of our members are robbed each year."

WINTER FEEDING HINTS FOR DAIRY

Legume Hay and Silage Are Favored in Ration.

"Without doubt, legume hay and silage are essential for economical milk production," says John M. Shaw, of the Iowa State college dairy husbandry department. "The dairyman must realize he is competing with others who are producing dairy products, and without both these good roughages he is handicapping himself at the start. While the dairy cow is, and always will be, a machine for converting farm produced feeds into products of high marketability, yet those who depend on the cow for this work must supply her with the best possible crops which the farm can produce. Frankly, but I believe truly, the man who does not supply his cows with leguminous hays and silage has no right to complain if he falls at dairying. These feeds are part of a dairy farmer's equipment."

"A good grain mixture can be made up of 500 pounds ground corn, 400 pounds ground oats and 100-150 pounds linseed oil meal, or coarsely ground soy beans. This mixture should be fed at the rate of about seven pounds daily per one pound of butterfat produced."

"The silage and hay should be fed liberally, but the cow will ordinarily handle silage at about the rate of three pounds daily per 100 pounds live weight and hay at the rate of one pound daily per 100 pounds live weight."

Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance— at the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole once every hour for five hours.

Children's Musterole is just good old Musterole, you have known so long, in milder form.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

Keep full strength Musterole on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Musterole for little tots. All druggists.

By WALTER TRUMBULL

One of the best known figures in New York is Rev. Francis P. Duffy. Partly owing to the fact that he went overseas with the "Fighting Sixty-ninth," Father Duffy has many parishioners from that portion of the city commonly known as "Hell's Kitchen." Going to a dinner one evening, he passed a group of them standing on the corner of Forty-second street and Broadway and stopped to speak. He was wearing a dinner suit with his black shirt, and felt that he looked rather well. Indicating his evening attire, he demanded:

"Well, boys, how do you like the scenery?"

"Father," said one, "you ought to know that patent leather shoes go with that uniform."

"Any other criticism?"

"Yes," said another. "White gloves should either be worn or carried in the hand."

"An evening overcoat should be folded over the left arm," volunteered a third. Father Duffy was becoming a bit nettled.

"Maybe you have some other suggestions," he said, a bit sarcastically.

"Just this," came a drawing voice from the rear of the group. "If you will rig yourself up like that, you ought at least to take a taxi."

get a job. I had a wife and family and I needed work. You gave me a letter to Mr. Egan, the station master, and I have been here ever since."

"Sometimes people give me money for the poor," says Father Duffy, "but what I really need more, is jobs. Say I can get a man a job at a salary of $1,000 a year. That's 5 per cent on $20,000. Isn't that better than giving him $10 or $20, which can last him only for a few days?"

Police Commissioner Mulrooney also told me of a porter, but this was a pullman porter. He had once been on the police force and he wanted to know what chance he had to get his job back. His total tips on a chair car run to Syracuse and back had been 75 cents. He had lost interest in the railroad business.

Rosita Forbes, traveler and novelist, has lost a bit of faith in charms. One night in Persia she came to the cave of a minor prophet who gave her a very superior snake's head, guaranteed to bring immediate and lasting luck. The next morning her car got stuck in the mud and it took five hours to yank it out.

POTPOURRI

The Tower of Pisa
The marble tower of Pisa, already fourteen feet off the perpendicular, is increasing almost one foot per century. It is a bell tower, and although only 179 feet high, with eight stories, required 176 years to build. The marble walls are thirteen feet thick at the base and seven at the top. Will it ever fall, and when?

When Father Duffy isn't trying to get somebody out of trouble or out of jail, he is getting him a job. One day, coming in on a train at the Pennsylvania station, a porter said to him:

"Please let me carry your bag. I don't want any money."

"Why do you want to carry my bag?"

"You don't remember me," said the red cap, "but a couple of years ago I was down on my luck and couldn't

BABY ENDS DIVORCE IDEA

Souderton, Pa.—Mr. and Mrs. William Kenneth Moyer will not have to separate to fulfill the contract they signed last January 2, the day they were married, in which they agreed to divorce each other if they didn't have a baby within two years.

An eight-and-a-half-pound boy has arrived on the scene and since then the marriage has been hailed as a huge success by the proud parents and their friends. The couple will be remarried.

The unique premarital agreement attracted nationwide attention and although it was denounced by ministers and social workers, the literati of Greenwich Village gave the young couple a big hand when they came to New York.

Dr. I. Z. Kinsey, who attended the mother, said:

"The child is one of the most perfect I have ever seen in years of practice."

The happy father has torn into two pieces the contract which had provided for divorce. He said he would frame the pieces separately as a symbol of the success of the marriage.

The marriage philosophy of the young couple attracted much comment when the union was first announced.

A baby, they maintained, was the chief and most sacred aim of matrimony—the only real thing worth marrying for—and if at the expiration of the two years they had failed to attain one they might proceed along separate paths.

FACING FACTS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Mary was dreadfully sick, and we all knew it—she quite as well as any of us who stood by and saw her gradually fade out of life. Whenever I asked her how she was feeling, it was invariably a cheerful reply which she gave. She had had a good night; she was better today; she was quite sure that she would shortly be around again. She never admitted weakness or discouragement, though we realized how she was feeling. I was young then, and I did not understand her point of view.

"Why do you say you are feeling all right and that you are getting better?" I asked her one day, "when you know you are not?"

"It is because I want to be getting better," she said rather sadly, and she kept on making the same sort of assertions until the end. It is more than interesting to see to what extent the things we would like to have true we fool ourselves so often into believing that they really are true.

I had a great admiration for old Judge Marks who for years was the legal authority in our town. He had had an excellent legal training and many years of judicial practice, but, like most mortals, he had his prejudices and his preferences. I came to see after I had known the judge for a time, that when a procedure against which he had some prejudice or to which he was opposed, came up for discussion he could always find some legal obstruction in the way.

"It can't be done," he used to say. "It isn't legal, and we'll get into serious difficulty if we try it."

On the other hand, if he was in favor of the proposition, he could always find some way to evade or override any legal objections which might be presented by those not in favor of the proposition. What he wanted to be true he could always discover sufficient authority to prove true.

Johnson has not gotten on well in the world, and to those unprejudiced neighbors who stand at a distance and look on, it is not difficult to see why. He has never done his work very well or very regularly. His place at any time during the last 15 years could have been filled very easily, and at a lower salary than Johnson is getting. He has little interest in his work, little enthusiasm, and still less loyalty to his employer. It pleases him, however, to imagine that he has been badly treated, that his talents have not been recognized as they should have been, that enemies have stood in the path of his progress and have held him back. He wants to believe that his present situation is in no sense his own fault and he marshals all sorts of spurious facts in order to establish the conclusion which he desires to reach. Like a good many of us he refuses to face the real facts.

FARM WOMAN BENEFITED

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lickdale, Pa.—"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Finally our family doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches."—Mrs. CLYDE I. Dairy Facts

Clover hay is two-and-a-half and alfalfa three-and-a-half times as rich in digestible protein as is timothy.

Heavy losses in butterfat occur whenever separators are poorly adjusted or not properly cleaned.

Milk production also carries responsibilities. When carelessly produced and improperly handled milk may be the means of spreading disease.

Every owner of a separator should have the skim milk tested at regular intervals to detect any loss of butterfat. Most creamery operators are glad to do this for their patrons.

Wheat is about equal to corn, pound for pound, as a feed for dairy cows. Because of its stickiness, it should be mixed with other grains and should not exceed one-third of the grain mixture.

Many bulls are confined to box stalls, which sometimes makes them hard to handle, offers no chance for exercise and is dangerous for farmers in handling the animals. The lack of exercise may get them out of condition.

Pedigrees must be something more than mere records of the names and numbers of the ancestors of animals offered if buyers are to be persuaded to pay prices very much above the commercial milk producing value of such animals.

The Plains of Abraham

By James Oliver Curwood

THE STORY

With his English wife, Catherine, and son, Jeems, Henry Bulain, French settler in Canada in 1749, cultivates a farm adjacent to the Tonteur seigneurie.

Catherine took off her cape and hood and patted her hair more properly into place before a mirror hanging on the wall.

Each time that he came, he bore a huge pack on his shoulders, as if partly in penance, and the opening of this pack and the distributing of its contents had come to be the biggest event in Jeems' life.

"It doesn't take size to win a fight, Jeemsy," he said, speaking in a confidential way. "Barring this Dutchman at Albany, I've never been rib-roasted by a big man yet, and I'm only tolerably sized, you observe.

Catherine came around the corner of the cabin to meet the plotters, and Hepsibah discreetly held back further words as he winked broadly at Jeems.

It was the great night of two long years in the Bulain cabin, and Catherine's three Betty lamps and her Phoebe lamp and a dozen candles as well were lighted in honor of it.

Just a few little trinkets," he began, using the identical words he had employed one year after another. "A few whim-whams and baubles for the boy, a bit of trumpery for Sister, and a farthing worth of nothing in particular for you, Henri.

"As Long as You Live, You Must Never Part With This Pistol, Jeemsy."

and tuckers and threads and buttons and ribbons, and four pairs of the nicest shoes that ever came up the Hudson," and placing these last-named articles on the table with a flourish of arms, Hepsibah gave a gloating chuckle and paused to fill his pipe.

"Three of the finest pipes I ever laid my eyes on," he announced. "One made in Holland, one in London, and one in America, and five pounds of Virginia tobacco to go with them, Henri, along with a hat, a coat, and a pair o' boots that may take you with honor to any sworree or gentry merrymaking this side of the sea.

For an eternity, it seemed to Jeems, his uncle remained in this terrifying posture. Then, with deliberate and aggravating slowness, Hepsibah Adams returned to his pack.

No one of the three who were watching him would ever have guessed that Hepsibah's act was one weighted heavily with the force of destiny, nor that with dramatic inevitableness it was to change the course of human lives, bringing the high down to earth, and the earthly to great heights, losing passions and hatreds and loves, breeding tragedies and joys, and ending, at last, in what it is the purpose of this humble chronicle of human events to narrate.

A swift-coming thought, a deft return into the pack of a small bundle which he had intended for Catherine, and Hepsibah had changed a world. On such trivial happenings do the most powerful of the fates sometimes rest.

Great Buddhist Temple Deserted and in Ruins

It is the Chandi Borobudur, at Djokjarta, the ancient temple ruin 325 miles up the hills west of Batavia.

Vast in size, magnificent in architectural conception and unbelievable in its wealth of fantastic bas-relief, the Borobudur now stands desolate and solitary in the midst of one of the world's most teeming fertile plains.

than four short years you will be a full-fledged man!" Having delivered himself of this introductory peroration Hepsibah finished unwrapping the package, and never had Catherine beheld such a handsome piece of velvet as that which her brother displayed in the candle glow.

"Dear Mother in heaven!" she cried. "Are all of these ravishing things for me? They must have cost a fortune!" pausing to look at her smiling brother and at the same time holding up the scarlet petticoat with black lace.

"For Mademoiselle Marie Antoinette Tonteur from her devoted admirer, Daniel James Bulain," he announced. "Jeemsy, don't blush. Twelve and ten are not far from sixteen and fourteen, when you will be man and woman, and if ever a seigneur's daughter finds herself lucky it will be on the day she marries a son of the tribe of Adams. The writing on it, Jeemsy, tells where't came from and how much it cost; and along with it I have brought you some nankeen for britches and clothes, four shirts, and a three-cornered hat with a black ribbon, six handkerchiefs, and a jackknife, two pairs o' serge britches, as many of new shoes, and—this," and from the now completely emptied pack he drew forth a beautiful long-barreled pistol, his eyes aglow with a fighting man's pride as he fondled it in the light of the candles and pointed out its merits to Jeems.

"It was kind of you to bring the cloth for Antoinette but I do not care for the pistol, Hepsibah," she said. "A pistol makes me think o'—men fighting men. And here we are at peace, having need only of the rifle and of Jeemsy's bow and arrows to bring us meat. I feel it is not best!"

As she spoke thus confidently of peace, a cloud came over Hepsibah's face, but in a moment he had laughed it away and was telling her that within a week she would be as proud of her boy's marksmanship as she now seemed fearful of the pistol's influence upon his future.

The next day was the day of the auction sale at Lussan's place. Lussan was a wealthy farmer at the edge of the next seigneurie, ten miles away. He was returning to his old home near the Isle of Orleans, a country he liked better than the Richelieu, and was selling most of his goods.

Should Paul Tache be there and dare to overlord him again, or laugh in his meanly suggestive way, or speak sneeringly, or so much as say a word against his gift for Toinette.

A rumble of fresh-growth thunder was advancing out of the west, and preceding it came a roar of wind and a deluge of rain. Lightning cut once more in vivid flashings across the narrow panes of the bedroom window, and the roof seemed to bend and groan under a sudden torrential bombardment. Jeems fought in unison with the elements.

The outburst of thunder and wind and deluge, a whim of playful spring, passed as swiftly as it had come, and, in passing, it left Jeems breathing quickly and fiercely in his bed. He had risen in these moments to reckless heights, and his mind, hot with its desire for action, had settled with grim assurance upon what would happen the next day.

First he would present his gift to Toinette. Then he would do what his Uncle Hep had told him to do. He would whip Paul Tache. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

The delegates returned very enthusiastic over the Older Boys' Conference which was held last week end in Bay City. The representatives from the school, Alfred Curley and Walter Klump reported this week at the high school and will also report to the P. T. A. at their next meeting, December 15. The outstanding speakers were Governor-elect Wilber M. Brucker, whose topic was "Christian Living in Citizenship," Dr. Lawrence L. M. Gould, second in command with Admiral Byrd at the bottom of the world, Dr. T. W. Graham, a dean of Oberlin College, Dr. F. B. Fisher, pastor of the Methodist church in Ann Arbor. Henry Ford's Dixie quartet furnished some wonderful selections at the meetings on Friday and Saturday. Possibly the most constructive part as far as the boys were concerned were the group discussions on boy problems. At these the boys expressed themselves more fully than at any previous conference.

The high school boys' basketball squad has been working hard this last week in preparation for the game with their ancient rivals, Oscoda, December 12. On that evening, at Oscoda, the girl's team plays the undefeated Oscoda girls team of last year; the boys second team plays the Oscoda seconds; and the first teams engage one another at 9:00 o'clock, E. S. T. This should be the most thrilling encounter of the season.

The schedule for the boys' first string for the rest of the season is as follows: Dec. 5, Harrisville, there; Dec. 12, Oscoda, there; Dec. 19, St. Ann's (Alpena), here; Jan. 9, Alpena Central, there; Jan. 13, Standish, here; Jan. 16, Oscoda, here; Jan. 22, St. Ann's (Alpena), there; Jan. 23, St. Bernard's (Alpena), there; Jan. 27, Standish, there; Jan. 30, West Branch, there; Feb. 6, St. Bernard's, here; Feb. 13, Alpena Central, here; Feb. 18, West Branch, here; Feb. 27, Harrisville, here.

God and Life

I think God is equally concerned with man and all the animals to whom He has given life, but that, perhaps, He has a special leaning toward dogs.—Dumas.
