REMPERT—JOHNSON
Mr. and Mrs. John A. Miller returned Monday from a week's visit in Detroit with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swartz where they were in attendance at the wedding, Easter Sunday, of their daughter, Alvera Rempert, to F. Doyle Johnson of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Fred Swartz. John Henry of East Tawas acted as best man, and Miss Floreen Miller, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid.

Blue and peach was the color scheme in home decoration with a profusion of plants and flowers. The bride was attired in a beautiful creation of peach tulle net with corsage of sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore a beautiful gown of flowered chiffon with corsage of sweet peas. The ceremony was performed beneath a specially constructed bower, by Rev. Meredith. After the ceremony a six-course wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left immediately for a two months' trip through the eastern states after which they will be at home in Pittsburgh, where Mr. Johnson represents the Borg-Warner interests.

The wedding served to bring together, in a family re-union, the entire Miller family with the exception of Sheriff Charles Miller of Tawas City, whose duties unfortunately kept him at home. Those of the Miller family present were: Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Roseberry and three children of Wheeling, West Virginia, Herbert Miller of Wheeling, Walter Miller of Tawas City, Miss Floreen Miller of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swartz of Detroit.

TAWAS CITY HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY IMPROVED

The library of the Tawas City high school has been undergoing reorganization during the last week. Miss Edna J. Dinwiddie, library organizer of the state library at Lansing, had the work in charge. The library now consists of eight hundred twelve volumes, classified according to the Dewey decimal classification system, which is the system in general use, and a dictionary card catalogue and shelf-list have been made. The catalogue consists of author, title and subject cards, arranged alphabetically, as the name implies.

It brings the material in the library within the reach of the student, and simplifies the use of reference material for both teacher and student.

The small room, lately used as a supply room and formerly as an office, has been made into a library. Sufficient shelving has been added to hold the books, and there is enough room for necessary expansion. The room is well lighted, conveniently located, and has room for the necessary table and chairs for reference work.

The library has the Americana encyclopedia, brought up to date by the Americana annuals, the Book of Knowledge, and numerous handbooks. The magazines are also a practical part of the library.

Miss Crosby will have charge, and she will be assisted by a committee of the Student Council.

HIRAM PIERCE WILL OPEN RESTAURANT SATURDAY

Hiram Pierce announced Thursday that he will open the restaurant in the Trudell building Saturday. Mr. Pierce built up a high reputation with his popular fish dinners at Whittemore and fish dinners will be a specialty here. Mr. Pierce extends a cordial invitation to visit him Saturday. He spent Thursday at Bay City completing his purchases of stock for the confectionery and soda fountain departments.

BOWLING

Wm. Hatton held high score for the past two weeks at the bowling alley and was high this week at the time of going to press. Last week's high score was 212 pins. This week he scored 224 pins. Miss Margaret Neumann held woman's high last week with 118 pins. This week her score is 112 pins.

TAWAS CITY SCHOOL NOTES

Prepared and Edited by a Committee of the Student Council

High School
Miss Edna J. Dinwiddie, library organizer of the state library at Lansing, has been supervising the reorganization of the high school library during the past week. It has been classified according to the Dewey system of classification and moved into the room recently used as a supply room. Miss Crosby will have charge of the library and will be assisted by a committee of the Student Council.

The eleventh grade American history class is reviewing the Civil War in preparation for a test over this period.

All should remember the musical comedy, "Cupid Up-To-Date," which will be given by the school at the State Theatre, Tuesday evening, April 28th. Price of admission will be 25 cents and 50 cents. The local school pupils will be admitted for the price of 25 cents irrespective of their ages.

Some indoor baseballs and sport balls, secured by money raised by the school entertainment, have been distributed among the grades. These balls seem to be in much demand as they are in constant use at recess and at noon.

The sub-district oratorical and declamatory contest will be held in the Alpena high school building on Friday evening, April 10th. Viola Burtzloff and Clair Thompson, accompanied by their coach, Miss Crosby, will represent our high school at the contest. Other contestants will represent Alpena, East Tawas, Harrisville, Onaway, Oscoda, Rogers City, and Whittemore. Each contestant will be presented with a dictionary with his name engrossed upon it by the Detroit News.

Don't forget the bake sale at Moeller's store, Saturday afternoon April 11th, given by the Senior class.

WHITTEMORE SCOUTS RENEW ACTIVITIES

Scout troop 74 of Whittemore, Summertrails council, has had a large revival in troop interest since its reorganization at the beginning of 1931. Under the leadership of the following officers, troop interest has been held at a high point: Edward Graham, senior patrol leader; Ernie Jobe, scribe; Howard McKenzie, treasurer; Glen Dillenbeck, Merlin Partlo, and Earl Beardslee, patrol leaders. The troop has been very fortunate in having for its troop committee a group of men whose interest in the troop has been shown in many ways and who are always ready to lend a helping hand when needed, namely, C. H. Schuster, Rev. Geo. Smith and Geo. Partlo. Serving as scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster are R. H. McKenzie and N. C. Schuster.

The enrollment at the beginning of 1931 was eight and has now been increased to seventeen active scouts with more in sight in the near future.

Each month the program of the troop has been well filled with things of interest to the boys and the community in general. Any suggestions from members of the community as to ways in which the troop may be of service to the community will be appreciated.

Each month an honor roll is made up of boys gaining twenty points according to a pre-arranged schedule based on tests passed, hikes taken, attendance, etc., the boy having the highest number of points being given a trip to scout camp Hale, or some other scout camp. The leader of this contest to date is Glen Dillenbeck, followed closely by Bennie Lail, Merlin Partlo and Raymond Gay, with several others not far behind.

The troop itself is in a contest of the same nature with other troops in the council, it being in sixth place out of a group of over thirty troops in the council. The coming month it expects to be in a higher place as much work has been done to accomplish this end.

The boys are trying to make this troop an outstanding one in the council and any help that can be given by the community surrounding will be greatly appreciated.

DILLON—McELHERON
Earl McElheron and Miss Verna Dillon of East Tawas were united in marriage Monday morning at the St. Joseph church. Rev. E. Kirchoff performed the ceremony. They were attended by Miss Martha Klisch of Chicago, who acted as bridesmaid and E. Murphy of Lansing as best man.

The bride wore a beautiful dress of white satin, made on long lines, a veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of yellow chiffon, with matching hat and shoes, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast for the immediate families and a few close friends was served at the Garden Tea Room. Mr. and Mrs. McElheron will reside in East Tawas after a wedding trip to Chicago and other cities.

Out of town guests at the wedding were, Mr. and Mrs. Dan McElheron of Lansing, James Murphy of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. G. Murray of Flint.

"The Perfect Fool," who has made millions laugh in a score of hilarious Broadway stage successes, brings his fooling to Tawas City in his first audible film appearance in "Follow the Leader."

Ed Wynn won the title of "The Perfect Fool" from his own stage production of that name. The self-imposed name fitted him so well that, after the show closed, the name stuck. And, in "Follow the Leader," the State Theatre attraction for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 12, 13, 14, he is at his rib-tickling best, supported by two well-known and widely loved screen juveniles, Ginger Rogers and Stanley Smith.

"Follow the Leader" is hilarious farce comedy all the way through, the merriment enhanced by the Wynn personality, the Wynn floppy hat and the Wynn "lucky shoes."

"THE CAT CREEPS" IS BIG MYSTERY HIT
A breathless quality of suspense pervades "The Cat Creeps," the Universal mystery drama which comes to the State Theatre next week Friday and Saturday. The very atmosphere is heavy with dread, and there are many hair-raising moments when the audience feels impelled to relieve pent-up emotions with a lusty shriek. The story was adapted from the famous stage "Thriller," "The Cat and the Canary" and on the screen it is even more effective than it was on the stage, where it has long been recognized as one of the most spine-tugging plays ever written.

TAWAS CITY PAYS OFF $8350 OF ITS BONDS

Tuesday evening City Clerk Davidson and City Treasurer King burned $8350.00 in bonds which had been paid off during the past fiscal year. These bonds represented indebtedness for the fire engine. Indebtedness to the amount of $3150.00 will be paid off during 1931. Tawas City will then owe $5500.00 which will not be due until 1934. Tawas City is one of the few cities in Michigan of its size with outstanding indebtedness so low.

AMERICAN LEGION MINSTRELS TO HAVE PROFESSIONAL COACH

American Legion Minstrels, presented by American Legion Post No. 211 of East Tawas under the direction of a professional coach, will be given at the East Tawas Community Building two nights, Thursday and Friday, April 16 and 17. Shows start promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

The Legion has engaged the services of "Hi-Brown" Bobby Burns, a professional performer and black-face comedian of the major vaudeville circuits and leading minstrel shows of the south. Mr. Burns is a native of Louisville, Kentucky, the Blue Grass State, and a native haunt of the southern negro. He talks their language and does their dances just like in the old plantation days.

No expense is being spared in planning this to be the biggest fun and musical event of the year. A jazz band will play for the show and the greatest array of talent throughout the county will perform. Some of the cast from outside of Tawas includes Edward Furtaw and Edward Tate of Oscoda, Lois Leslie of Whittemore, Clyde Blakely of West Branch. A few of the local names are Alva Misener, "Spot" Gardner, Soure Woods, Hugo Swanson, Hosea Bigelow, Geo. Klump, Miss Sage, Lucille Klump, Elsie Ahonen, Helmie Huhtala. A jazz band will be featured along with a male quartet.

MRS. FRANK WOOD
Mrs. Frank Wood, age 68 years and eight months, passed away on Monday evening, March 23, after an illness of about one week.

Mary Stiles was born in London, Canada, July 13, 1862. She was united in marriage to Frank Wood in 1884. To this union were born eight children. The youngest, Helen, preceded her in death four years ago.

She is survived by her aged husband, seven children, Roy of Tawas township, Maggie and William of Hazel, Harry of LaPorte, Ind., Hazel, Gertrude and Guy of Bay City.

Mrs. Wood will be sadly missed in the community in which she lived, for she was loved by all who knew her.

LAWRENCE TIBBETT AND GRACE MOORE SCORE IN "NEW MOON" AT FAMILY
Two of the world's greatest voices and two of the screen's most vivid personalities are seen in "New Moon," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer transcription of the stage hit, co-starring Lawrence Tibbett and Grace Moore playing at the Family Theatre, East Tawas Sunday and Monday, April 12 and 13.

Both Tibbett and Miss Moore give flawless performances exclusive of their brilliant singing. Adolphe Menjou is excellent as the suave but sinister superior officer; Roland Young is amusing as the whimsical count; Gus Shy as the faithful Sergeant Potkin gives a characterization in which comedy and pathos are blended, and Emily Fitzroy as the countess gives her usual finished portrayal.

The story is a romantic drama of love, adventure and intrigue with music woven in as integral details of the situations themselves. The original Sigmund Romberg songs from the stage production were retained including the memorable "Lover Come Back to Me," and additional music by Herbert Stothart and others was interpolated.

MARILYN MILLER DANCES IN "SUNNY"
Marilyn Miller dances into the Family Theatre on Friday and Saturday, April 10 and 11, in "Sunny," the Vitaphone adaptation of her famous success.

This is Miss Miller's second film. Her first, "Sally," was one of the most popular pictures ever produced. Despite the fact that the dialogue was in English, the picture "packed them in" in practically every foreign country.

Miss Miller holds a unique place on the American stage. She is so outstanding as a dancer and as a light comedy opera star that has no competition. There is no other actress with her combination of talents who can challenge her supremacy.

"Sunny" is a different type of picture from "Sally," but the same comedy prevails. Miss Miller introduced a number of novelties in dancing. There is no chorus in the picture.

Lawrence Gray, Joe Donahue, O. F. Heggie, Judith Vosseli and Barbara Bedford are among those in the supporting cast.

IOSCO YOUNG PEOPLE'S PROGRESSIVE SOCIETY

A very interesting evening was spent at the McIvor church April 3, by the young people of our society. After a short devotional service, Leona Ulman, of Tawas City, gave a short reading on the progress of the past century. Arthur Rogers, of Whittemore, gave a very interesting talk in connection with the splendid collection of ancient papers which he had on display. Among them was a teacher's contract given in Genesee county in 1858. We certainly would not wish to go back seventy years.

Elder J. W. Peterson also gave a very fine talk on customs of the South Sea islands.

Mrs. Isabelle Earhart took charge of the recreation hour. We are indebted to her for a very pleasant and profitable hour of fun, and we hope to have her with us whenever we meet.

Lunch was served, and just before leaving all gathered about Elder and Mrs. Peterson, who are soon to leave for the former's new mission field in Oklahoma, and sang "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again." A short prayer was offered by Stephen Barr.

MRS. ADELBERT E. CHASE
Mrs. Adelbert E. Chase, age 78 years, five months and six days, died Friday at Whittemore.

Almeda E. Crego was born October 27, 1852, in Hockingsville, Ontario county, New York. She was married to Adelbert E. Chase of Hockingsville on June 9, 1869. They made their home there until April, 1883. That year they moved to Whittemore, Michigan, where they have since resided.

Two children were born to this union, Bertha May Cataline, who died August 5, 1907, and Jesse W. Chase, who, with his wife, is left to mourn her loss. Her husband preceded her in death April 25th, 1930. She also leaves three grandchildren, two great grandchildren, and an adopted sister.

Arbor Day

The young lady shown in the picture above looks ahead almost 50 years to the centennial of Arbor day in 1972—Phyllis Westwood of Washington, D. C., joins the American Tree association by helping to plant a tree. Her father, H. W. Westwood, helps with the shovel, while Mrs. Westwood (right) sees that Phyllis throws the earth in the right direction. Her great uncle, Rev. J. J. Rives, who christened Phyllis, sees to it the birthday tree has enough water. Mr. Rives brought water from the River Jordan to christen Phyllis the day the tree was planted. Some of this also christened the tree. Phyllis means "green bough."

Sterling Morton

Charles Lathrop Pack

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Arbor Day is observed on various dates in the different states, but there is one celebration which has special significance. That is on April 22 in Nebraska. April 22 is the birthday of J. Sterling Morton, "the Father of Arbor Day."

Next year will be celebrated his centennial, for he was born in Adams, Jefferson county, N. Y., in 1832. When young Morton was two years old his parents moved to Michigan and there he grew up, attending a private school in Monroe and then a Methodist seminary in Albion. In 1850 he entered the University of Michigan and remained there for most of the course, but withdrew in his senior year and was graduated from Union college in his native state in 1854.

In the same year he was married to a Michigan girl and the young couple decided to "go West and grow up with the country." They settled first at Bellevue in the territory of Nebraska, but moved later to what is now Nebraska City, where Morton was a member of the town company, which surveyed and established that town. Adjacent to the townsite he pre-empted a tract of land half a mile square and upon that site he built his home which he called "Arbor Lodge."

Morton was the founder and first editor of the first newspaper in Nebraska City, the Nebraska City News and was a prominent figure in Nebraska during its territorial days. In 1858 President Buchanan made him secretary of the territory, and upon the resignation of Gov. William A. Richardson he became acting governor. He was, however, more interested in other matters than in politics. He was an original member of the Nebraska Territorial Board of Agriculture and the Territorial Horticultural society. Coming from two heavily-wooded states, New York and Michigan, Morton was struck by the bleakness of the "treeless state," as Nebraska was called at that time.

The result was that at a meeting of the state board of agriculture on January 4, 1872, Morton introduced a resolution setting aside April 10 for tree planting so that Nebraska would be a "treeless state" no longer. More than a million trees were planted that year and several million more during the following years.

In 1885 the Nebraska legislature, wishing to further honor the man who had originated the idea of Arbor day, passed an act changing the date of its observance to April 22, Morton's birthday, and making it a legal holiday in that state.

In 1893 Morton entered the cabinet of President Grover Cleveland as secretary of agriculture, remaining in office until 1897.

By 1895 the Nebraska legislature was able to proclaim to Nebraska's sister states that henceforth she was to be known as the "Tree-Planter State" because this commonwealth, which had once been so markedly destitute of this form of verdure, now had more than 700,000 acres planted in trees.

President Roosevelt was strongly impressed with the wisdom of an Arbor day program and threw the influence of his office strongly behind the movement. The aid he gave the tree planting received fresh impetus under President Harding, through setting aside Forest Protection week, when the public, or that part of it which uses the forests, was instructed in the necessary care to guard the forests against destructive fires. President Coolidge followed suit with American Forest week, going even deeper into the forest problems, and urging that farmers plant vacant and unproductive land with trees, and develop, and tend their present woodlots. If J. Sterling Morton is honored as "the Father of Arbor Day," some kindred title should be devised for Charles Lathrop Pack who has been outstanding in carrying on the work started by Morton. For years Mr. Pack has gone up and down the country preaching the doctrine of "Plant trees! Plant trees! Plant trees!" As president of the American Tree association he has originated many plans for awakening the interest of the American people in trees—not only in conserving such forests as we have now, but in planting trees to provide for the forests of the future. He has sponsored a "Hall of Fame for Trees" wherein may be registered those trees which have been connected with some historic event or which have some similar claim to fame. He has promoted the idea of planting memorial trees and creating "Roads of Remembrance" in honor of the soldiers of the World war.

On the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Arbor day in 1922 Mr. Pack announced his far-seeing plan for celebrating the centennial of Arbor day in 1972. His idea is summed up in these words: "Plant a centennial tree and register it with the American Tree association so that your name will be on the honor roll of tree planters and good citizens 50 years from now." Since then the association has urged this idea upon Americans so that thousands of trees will be planted and marked by 1972 and the centennial celebration of that year may be made the greatest ever held in this country.

His latest idea is that of joining in the bicentennial celebration of the birth of George Washington next year by planting ten millions of trees this year and next in honor of the Father of His Country, who was also a tree lover—a living memorial to a great man stretching clear across the country.

New Mecca for Those Who Are Seeking Divorces

Here is a general view of Hot Springs, Ark., which expects to rival Reno as a divorce center, for the legislature has passed a law providing that a 90-day residence, instead of one year, is necessary before divorce proceedings are filed.

Indian Ruler Is the Richest Man

Nizam of Hyderabad Worth $2,000,000,000, but Lives Frugal Life.
London.—The world's richest man, the Nizam of Hyderabad, doesn't know the extent of his fortune, estimated at more than $2,000,000,000, and lives in frugal simplicity in his castle in the heart of India. Many tales are told of the great wealth of this proud and aristocratic forty-five-year-old ruler of 13,000,000 subjects. He is said to have $500,000,000 worth of gold bricks and coins in his treasury house. Two Englishmen worked more than two years classifying family jewels worth millions of dollars. The value of the state gems is unknown. During the World war he made contributions totaling more than $50,000,000 to the British government to aid in defraying the costs of the conflict, and makes gifts regularly of $50,000 and $100,000 to charitable and educational bodies. Outraged at the German submarine warfare, the Nizam sent his check for $500,000 to London to be used to combat the menace and then insisted on paying the entire cost of two bodies of Indian troops engaged in the war. Little Known by World. Although the world's wealthiest man, the Nizam is not as well known outside of his country as is the ordinary American millionaire. He is prohibited by precedent from leaving India, the tradition being that his person is too valuable to be placed in danger. When he does travel, however, he does it in state. On a visit to New Delhi two years ago the Nizam arrived in a special train of 22 pullmans. The luggage had been sent in advance in four special trains, one of which carried only his private motor cars. He owns more than 400 automobiles, most of them expensive limousines, used by his family and state officials. $40,000,000 Income a Year. Various estimates have been made of his private income, which is generally agreed to be between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 a year. In 1929, when his treasury vaults were overflowing, he ordered $4,000,000 transferred to the Imperial Bank of India. Despite this, one writer who recently returned from a visit to Hyderabad said: "He lives simply, frugally and is reported to be as penurious over sartorial requirements as a poor clerk in an office." Yet the Nizam felt it a good investment to spend $1,500,000 on a new castle in Delhi which contains more

Chicken Feather Pierces Windshield

Camden, N. J.—Can a chicken feather pierce a pane of glass? Scientists say no—but they're wrong. John Krown was driving a truck near the city asphalt plant. A dog started to chase a chicken. The chicken flew into the air and struck the windshield. It was uninjured. But when Krown examined the glass he found a feather had penetrated the windshield. One inch of the feather is on the inside, while four inches stick out on the other side. He announced he would leave the feather where it was.

Canada to Protect Road Beauty From Billboards

Toronto, Ont.—More stringent regulations regarding the erection of advertising signboards on or adjacent to provincial highways are planned by the Ontario department of highways, according to R. M. Smith, deputy minister of highways. The department at present levies a heavy tax against all signs which do not advertise a business conducted upon the property on which the billboard is situated. Now it is planned to introduce legislation forbidding erection of signs where they will destroy the appearance of the countryside. It also is planned to ban the erection of signs within 500 feet of road intersections and railroad crossings. The present limit is 300 feet.

Incubator Studies of Cop Fail as Excuse

Baltimore.—Patrolman Earl Lichtenberg won't do any studying on duty for a while. He was recently fined one day's leave of absence for being found asleep on the job by Lieutenant Jones. Lichtenberg denied he was asleep. He said that he had an incubator at home that wouldn't hatch chickens properly and that he was deeply studying how to remedy the matter when Lieutenant Jones walked by.

Tests Prove Freezing Fruit Juice Practicable

Washington.—Experiments conducted at the United States Department of Agriculture have shown the practicability of freezing fruit juices and selling them fresh from drug stores or groceries. The juices of Florida oranges, for instance, can be frozen and shipped to northern markets. It can then be purchased and served as fresh on northern tables.

"FIREPROOF" BUILDINGS NOT PROOF AGAINST FIRE

Expert Says Damage to Those Under Construction Often More Than First Cost.
New York.—The trouble with fireproof buildings is that they are not fireproof. The word does not mean to the builder what it does to the layman, who takes it literally. The fireproofing of buildings rated as "fireproof" varies as much as 80 per cent, says Herbert E. Maxson, vice president of the Continental Insurance company, in an article in the American Architect. "With the introduction of fire-resisting construction there developed a more or less false sense of security," writes this expert. Many buildings commonly called fireproof, he writes, have walls and interior partitions of materials that will burn. Another fallacy common to the laymen is the belief in the strength and dependability of steel under fire. Uncovered steel standards, Mr. Maxson says, are among the things that lower the percentage of fire resistance which so-called fireproof buildings have. Bare steel may cause the fire-resisting properties of a building to drop from 20 to 80 per cent. The greatest fire hazard to buildings built of the so-called fireproof materials comes during construction. It is then that damage may be done which, because of the state of the building, costs several times what it did originally. The Riverside church in New York, while it was being built, suffered damage from a scaffolding fire to the extent of 200 to 300 per cent of the cost of the parts that suffered. "The wise course," says this American Architect writer, "is to keep insurance figures at the maximum as construction work proceeds, giving some consideration to replacement costs as well as actual costs to date."

Chinese Plan System of Modern Prisons

Nanking.—Lawbreakers in China are given the prospect of comfortable and most up to date prisons. According to plans, model prisons are to be established in the very near future. There will be four separate prisons in each province. Besides the general prison there will be a prison exclusively for juvenile offenders, for confirmed criminals, and another for consumptive or demented prisoners. There is also to be a modern detention house in every province.

Race to the Crossing—Usual Result

The old story of the race to the crossing is told again with graphic details in this photograph. A Charlotte (N. C.) street car and a railroad train called it a tie. Forty-three persons were injured.

ETON-JACKET SUITS OF SILK OR CLOTH SMART FOR SPRING

JACKET suits, so widely heralded this season, are at their smartest when they are either eton or bolero types. It will be seen from the youthful eton suit pictured, that even when adhering to lines of strictest simplicity, this type of tailleur registers a complete departure from the regulation mannish silhouettes of yore. This subtle femininity of "lines" may be said to be characteristic of the majority of the new suit fashions.

Chic through and through is expressed in the suit pictured. Beige cloth of the popular spongy weave is its material. Its sleeve is the "last word," flaring as it does in a bell shape. Then, too, the skirt declares the latest, in that it buttons half-way down the front, featuring a snug-fitting hipline at the same time that it achieves a full hemline.

The scarf contributes a vivid splash of green which with the beige makes a striking color combination. Scarfs, by the way, are playing a most spectacular role this season, in accordance with fashion's demand. In fact, accessories in general are called upon to high-spot color to the nth degree. There's no such thing as exceeding the limit according to the color campaign which is being waged in the style realm for shoes, gloves, pocketbooks, handkerchiefs, scarfs and all the other details which complete a perfect costume.

If the gay color note is not sounded through a touch of flamboyant plaid here and there about the costume, it is perhaps because vivid stripes are flying the colors, and last but not by any means least on the program of fashion for this spring and summer, are the voguish tri-color effects worked through fabric manipulation or by combining three shades of ribbon, especially velvet ribbon which is so outstanding in the mode this season.

Turning again to the original theme under discussion—eton and bolero suits—there is this to say concerning white jersey frock, per example, the young woman who posed for this picture wore a bright red jacket. Every other detail of her costume is white even to her kid shoes and her felt hat.

No less chic are the ensembles where the black, brown, or navy dress is contrasted with a jacket in a color so vivid as to be startling, such as for instance an orange flannel coat with a brown frock or a gray with navy for the skirt, or red with black.

The very newest note is the light jacket with the dark skirt or gown. For some time fashionists have been calling attention to the costume which has a light top, the dress with yoke and sleeves in white, or a delicate tint sharing honors with the dark skirt via the seamed-on bodice top of lace or a light fabric. In the light jacket with the dark skirt the vogue takes an entirely new angle.

We have in mind in this connection the white jacket worn over a black or navy skirt, white blouse completing this ultra modish trio. These jackets are made either of white satin or them, the fact that they are classified under the caption "eton and bolero" in no way restricts the wide diversity of their styling. This is especially true in regard to the versatile bolero costume which is apt to be any type from a strictly tailor made to the softly styled ensemble which indulges in a silhouette which involves all sorts of whimsical details such as scallops and pleatings and novel sleeves and unusual necklines, not to forget fancy buttons which are made an outstanding trimming feature this season.

Gay Color Season.

In the world of fashion the very atmosphere is charged with gay color this season. Even the woman who has hitherto been wary of hectic hues must needs join the ranks of the color enthusiasts, if she would dress smartly.

In the separate jacket which tops the majority of costumes in the new style pageant, designers have discovered a most intriguing opportunity for exploiting color accent. The vogue takes on many phases, always with the thought of making striking contrast the outstanding theme.

One of the methods of stressing contrast is that of topping the light skirt or frock with a darker jacket. With a crepe, jersey, serge or flannel, according to the formality or informality of the occasion. Their styling varies greatly from hip-length tailored versions to boleros and etons.

Very good looking and clever for town and travel wear are two-piece tailleurs which partner a jacket of checked woolen with a skirt in a solid tone, a brown and beige check, for instance, with a brown skirt or checked navy and tan with navy skirt, not forgetting black with white.

The KITCHEN CABINET

"Our spectacular opportunities for courage may be few or none at all. Our commonplace opportunities for courage start when we wake and last until we go to sleep. The courage of the commonplace is greater than the courage of the crisis."

WHEN ENTERTAINING

For the hostess who must prepare and serve everything, such dishes as may be prepared the day before will save her strength, good looks and enjoyment of her guests.

Every hostess enjoys serving something a little out of the ordinary, and by observing the daily things in homes and shops she may make her entertainments very much worth while. There can be nothing more gratifying to a hostess than to give pleasure to her friends.

One can do marvelous things with just a pickle. Cut into the thinnest of slices, spread in the form of a fan on a tasty sandwich it not only garnishes it but adds an appetizer as well.

Slice inch-sized pickles into very thin slices, place on open-faced sandwiches that have been spread with cream cheese. Put one slice in the center of rounds, on the tiny slice place a spot of whipped cream or cheese mixed with cream and dust with cayenne or paprika. If finger-length sandwiches are used, place the round pickle at the end and at the other end a spot the size of a quarter of finely shredded carrot.

A Man's Salad.—Prepare a half dozen hard cooked eggs by cutting into halves and removing the yolks, mash the yolks with butter, add mustard, salt and cayenne and refill the halves of egg white. Arrange on lettuce and cover with a sour cream dressing or a mayonnaise with plenty of sour cream added. If liked shredded onion may be sprinkled over the lettuce before placing the eggs.

Here is another that the men like: Take one head of lettuce, three or four green onions or a slice of Bermuda onion finely minced, three or four slices of sweet or sour pickle and one hard cooked egg. Use the lettuce in nests on the salad plate, shred the coarser part and mix with onions, pickles, and finely chopped egg. Serve with french dressing.

Cold Cream Long Popular

Don't let this jar your cold cream, girls. But, "believe it or not," that indispensable cosmetic of present-day femininity has been keeping the wrinkles from milady's face for more than 2,000 years. So says Charles Whitebread, curator of the division of medicine at the National museum in Washington. What is more, he says it is the second oldest of all pharmaceutical preparations. And do you girls know who "invented" your old standby? To quote Curator Whitebread "the fragrant unguent has changed very little from the original formula for unguentum refrigerans ceratum, invented and prescribed by the Roman physician Galen, sometimes known as the 'father of pharmacy.'"—Pathfinder Magazine.

Niagara's Rival

The African waterfall which is by many said to rival Niagara, is Victoria falls, on the Zambesi river, in Central Africa. The chasm is about one-half the total width of Niagara, but more than twice its depth, varying from 256 feet at the right bank to 343 feet in the center.

Great River of Brazil

The Amazon river in the interior of Brazil is between one and two miles wide where it enters Brazil and gradually increases in breadth to 50 miles at its main mouth. Where it enters the sea the distance across the water from headland to headland is fully 150 miles.

Noted Western Character

"Poker Alice" Tubbs was a picturesque character of the old West where she was a fixture in the mining camps of the gold rush era. She was born in Devonshire, England, and came to the United States with her family. She died February 27, 1930, in Rapid City, S. D.

Source of Supply

Five-year-old Mary was driving through the country with her daddy when, for the first time in her life, she spied some cat-tails in a swamp. "Oh, Daddy," she cried, shaking his arm, "look at the hot-dog garden!"—Parent's Magazine.

"I Have Found It"

The word "Eureka" is Greek, more correctly "Heureka," meaning "I have found it." It is an exclamation of delight, appropriate when a discovery has been made. Eureka is the motto of California, in allusion to the gold discovered there.

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE for Stubborn Bowels

"Drink at least six glasses of water daily—preferably before meals. Eat bulkier foods, such as vegetables, fruits and coarse breads. Use a mild laxative as needed."

That is Dr. Caldwell's advice to people with stubborn bowels. He specialized on the bowels; treated thousands for constipation and its ills. The prescription he used over and over in his practice has become the world's most popular laxative! "Syrup Pepsin," as it is now called, was tested by more than 47 years of practice.

Today you can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore in America. It is always the same; made exactly according to the original prescription, from laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other valuable ingredients. Nothing in it to harm even a baby. It does not gripe, sicken or cause any discomfort. But it moves the bowels; it gets rid of all the souring waste which clogs the system; makes you bilious, headachy, gassy, bloated, weak, half-sick. A doctor should know what is best for the bowels. Syrup Pepsin is a famous doctor's choice of a safe, pleasant, effective laxative for men, women, older folks, babies and children.

Two Freakish Forms of South Atlantic Birds

Penguins are strange birds. They use their wings for swimming instead of for flying. They are found in the seas of the southern hemisphere, and range in size from the emperor penguin, who stands four feet high, to little fellows hardly larger than an ordinary duck. The legs of the penguin are set very far back, and on land they waddle and shuffle about in the most mirth-provoking manner, holding their bodies upright. The king penguin, which comes from the South Atlantic islands, stands over two feet in height, and has a long bill and a bright orange chest. Another strange bird similar in many ways to the penguin is the steamer duck. He gets his funny name from his rapid and splashy way of swimming, just like an old-fashioned paddle steamer.

An Eminent Physician Prescribed this Tonic

As a young man Dr. R. V. Pierce practiced medicine in Pennsylvania. His prescriptions met with such great demand that he moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and put up in ready-to-use form his well-known tonic for the blood, Golden Medical Discovery. It aids digestion, acts as a tonic, and enriches the blood—clears away pimples and annoying eruptions and tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. This medicine comes in both fluid and tablets. Movie Morals

Winston Churchill said to a reporter after his visit to Hollywood: "Hollywood is all right. Not half—no, not quarter as bad as the story makes it out.

"It's a story about a Hollywood director. On his return from New York he said to his bride, a famous star: "Do you love me as much as ever, darling?"

"Sure I do, Jim," said she.

"Jim?" said the director. "My name is Arthur."

"Why, so it is," said the bride. "I keep thinking today's Tuesday."

Asbestos Known to Ancients

The name "asbestos" is derived from the ancient Greek word meaning a fabulous stone, about which it was said that once set on fire the fire could not be quenched. The noncombustible character and spinning quality of asbestos fiber were undoubtedly known to the ancient world. Plutarch mentions "perpetual" lamp wicks used by the Vestal Virgins.

Waltz King's Record

Strauss, the waltz king, is said to have written nearly 400 waltzes and that there was not a poor one among them. In addition he wrote many selections for other dance steps, including polkas, mazurkas and schottisches, not to mention marches and ballads. His operettas were next in fame to his waltzes.

Choose Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks for low first-cost and unsurpassed economy

The economy of using Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks is an actual dollars-and-cents economy that shows up, month after month, on the balance sheet. It starts with a purchase price that is one of the lowest in the market for a complete unit. It continues throughout Chevrolet's long life with an operating cost that is unsurpassed!

Consider, for example, the cost-records of leading national organizations who use large fleets of Chevrolets. They prove (1) That the six-cylinder truck can operate on just as little gasoline as the four. (2) That no other trucks of equal capacity give any better gasoline, oil or tire mileage than Chevrolet. (3) That the cost of keeping a Chevrolet in satisfactory running order is unusually low. (4) That Chevrolet trucks are exceptionally reliable and long-lived.

Today, Chevrolet's proved economy is available to buyers in every truck-using field. For Chevrolet's new line of quality bodies includes a type for every hauling need.

Swedish Prince to Cultivate Farm

Berlin.—In the upper arm of Lake Constance just above Meersburg, lies the peaceful island of Mainau, where Prince Lennart of Sweden has announced his intention of turning farm and, under the Swedish royal family name of Bernadotte, of working out his future after his marriage with Miss Karin Nissvandt.

The prince inherited the island estate of several hundred acres from his grandmother, the late queen of Sweden, Princess of Baden. The house of Baden got it from Napoleon in 1805. It was one of the favorite retreats of Kaiser Wilhelm I.

Dates From Thirteenth Century.
The old German Order of Holy Knights first took possession of the spot in the Thirteenth century, uprooted the gloomy wooded patches and planted linden trees, firs and cedars. Successive owners have added to the landscape through the centuries, but the island still stands today, a quiet retreat, a beauty spot from the Middle Ages, amid the lively atmosphere of Lake Constance resort life.

In Park of Palms.
The castle stands in the center of a park of palms and cypresses, flanked by rose terraces. Fir and pine trees form cool, quiet lanes winding down to the water's edge. A veritable flood of terraced roses add their color against the dark sides of the old ramparts. Orange, lemon and banana trees bloom in the mild southern sun, and wine terraces stretch down toward the beach on the western side. A narrow staircase here leads up to a watchtower high over the lake looking toward Linzgau and the Swiss Alps. The castle contains many of the

WHY THEY JOIN

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Colton was very proud when he was pledged to a fraternity, and when three months later he was initiated, and one of the brothers attached a jeweled pin to his vest he was delighted.

If some one had asked Colton what motives induced him to become a member of the organization he might not have been able to give a convincing answer immediately, but it was not many months before anyone who knew him well could have given the reason. Colton had no thought of contributing anything to the advantage of the organization. He was in it only for the prestige or the power which it could give him.

He was politically ambitious, and he expected his fraternity to further these ambitions in every way possible. He had no especial principles to guide his actions except the principle of self-advancement.

Outside of the organizations to which he belonged you would not hear a great deal of Walters. He was not a man who pushed himself into the front seat at any meeting he attended. He was not disgruntled if he did not sit on the platform when prominent people were in town. He never wanted an office, and if his name were suggested he could always conjure up some good reason why some other man was better fitted for the place than he himself was. But he knew every man in his fraternity, and he liked everybody and everybody liked him. There are all sorts of men in any group of thirty or thirty-five, but Walters seemed to understand each man's own peculiarities and to be able to adapt himself to his particular idiosyncracies. It was to him that each man went when he was in any sort of trouble or wanted help of any kind.

Father Sage Says:
Some men would get along much faster if they didn't lose so much time telling other people how smart they are.

Walters had joined the organizations to which he belonged not so much for what he could get out of them but for what he could put in. Having joined, he felt his obligation to contribute something. Unselfish as he was, never looking out for his own advancement, he yet got more pleasure and profit from his association than did Colton who never gave a thought to anyone but himself.

The prosecutor remarked if he were "any kind of a man" he'd take the law into his own hands. Ella did.

Here the chiefs of the holy order met to plan their campaigns, and, perhaps, to divide their spoils. Their names can still be read on the stones of the crypt in the castle church.

POTPOURRI

Fish Reproduction

There are some 13,000 known species of fish. Because smaller fish are prey of larger ones, great quantities of eggs are produced, each cod depositing about ten million annually, but providing no protection or insurance for hatching. Some fish eggs hatch in 48 hours, while some, like the brook trout, require as much as three months. (©, 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Meter Will Reveal Roistering

Akron, Ohio.—Better be careful how much whoopee you make the night before, because your boss can find you out by testing your "morning-after" wobbles.

You can't pretend you have had enough rest, for the wobble meter is certain to give you away.

So it was announced recently by R. W. Brown, head of an engineering research laboratory, who developed the meter principally for industry to test its man power and automobile manufacturers to test the fatiguing effect of joy-ride jolts. It was developed at the suggestion of Dr. F. A. Moss,

George Washington university psychologist, who is also using it in other fatigue tests.

"We intend using the meter to measure the amount of energy we get out of our employees and adjust their jobs accordingly," Brown said. "Automobile manufacturers can use it to take out the vibrations from automobiles that tire you and leave those that are restful."

"It can be used to determine the comparative fatiguing or relaxing values of jazz and classical music. One of the things it has already uncovered for us is that absolute silence is tiring. "It has revealed the effect of age on fatigue. It has found we tire the least in ages of ten to eleven years when the muscles are fairly developed and the mind has done but little worrying. It has also discovered that women have more poise than men."

The "wobble" meter consists of a low platform which totters in two directions, sidewise and from front to back. When you stand on it you continually shift your weight from one leg to the other, swaying the body. The more tired you are the more rapidly you sway.

The sways or "wobbles" are added up by two little meters on the platform and the amount is in direct proportion to your fatigue.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

By WALTER TRUMBULL

Mysteries of the sea have been written by many authors, but there is one which the big passenger boats sailing between New York and Europe would like to have solved. They wish to know what becomes of ping-pong balls during the course of a transatlantic voyage. On one big ship, for example, there are two ping-pong tables, both indoors. It therefore is not possible for the ping-pong balls to be knocked overboard and it is hardly conceivable that the passengers would keep them for souvenirs. Yet in spite of a thorough search of the room, about three dozen balls disappear regularly between shore and shore. Nor are these the only things which vanish. Shuffleboard disks, rope rings used in deck tennis, dice and dice boxes vanish. Chess sets frequently lose men like an army in action and even a check-board has been known to be among the missing. It has got so the officers count the ship's funnels after reaching port. Some day they expect to find one gone.

Beyond the Law

DAIRY FACTS

ONION-FLAVORED MILK AND CREAM

To Prevent Keep Cows Off of Pastures Infested.

Onion flavors in milk and cream, which sometimes occur in early spring, may be prevented by seeing that milk cows do not satisfy their craving for green pasture plants on wild onions.

People who "know their onions" prefer them separate from milk, coffee, cream or butter. Onion cream cannot be made into a good grade of butter. To avoid heavy loss, the creamery must either refuse to buy it or cut the price paid at least 10 cents per pound butterfat.

The remedy for onion-flavored dairy products is to keep the cows off of pastures that have onions, according to John O. Toliver, deputy Colorado state dairy commissioner. Where there is no other pasture, let the cows graze two or three hours after milking time and then shut them off the onions the balance of the day, he advises.

Milk will lose part of the onion flavor if it is properly aerated by pouring over the cooler two or three times. When onion milk is separated, the flavor stays with the fat in the cream. Stir the cream frequently and do not keep lids on the cans at all.

Most Important to Feed Milk Producing Rations

The fallacy of keeping feed costs down with no regard for the amount of milk the cows produce is well shown by the records of an Illinois dairy herd improvement association. The lowest producing herd in this association had an average yearly feed cost of $29 a cow—the highest herd $70 a cow. The latter herd produced 375 pounds of butterfat and made an income over the cost of feed of $120 per cow. The herd with the low feed cost of $29 a head produced only 185 pounds of butterfat for the year at a profit over feed cost of $50 per cow. The feed bill of the higher producing herd was more than double the feed cost for the lower producers, yet the profit over feed cost for these higher producers was likewise more than double that of the cows of lower production.

For greatest profit from any dairy herd, be it only two cows or twenty cows, the important thing is to feed good milk-making rations, and to feed each cow as much of this ration as she will eat for greatest return. To learn how much feed a cow needs for most profitable milk production, a daily record is needed of the amounts of milk produced and feed consumed by each cow.

Prevent Contaminating Milk With Bad Flavors

Taking cows off of garlic or onion infested pastures five hours before milking will decrease chances of contaminating the milk with this most unpleasant odor, according to Dr. A. H. Ruehe, University of Illinois. It is better to inspect the pastures early in the spring and fence off the onion or garlic pastures.

The onion flavor in milk is not the only bad flavor to be guarded against in the spring. As soon as the weather is warm enough to quit wearing an overcoat it is time to begin cooling the milk as soon as it is drawn and thus prevent other bad odors in milk.

Improving Quality of All Dairy Products

The problem of raising the general level of quality of milk and cream at the point of production, the farm, is one that must be given more consideration. The objects of quality improvement are to increase consumption and provide the consumer with clean, wholesome and nutritious dairy products. Statistics on the per capita consumption of milk show that the southern states are low in their per capita consumption of milk; they show that these states are low in their per capita consumption of all kinds of dairy products, as compared with other sections of the country.

Abortion Control

Abortion takes a large toll of the dairy industry and it is regrettable that we know so little about control measures. Vaccines of one kind and another have been sold and some of them seem to be fairly effective in some herds and of little effect in others. One or two facts we are sure of—that the spread of the disease is largely through germs expelled in the droppings and carried to the feed given to healthy cows or heifers. Probably the contagion is carried to the feed on the feet of the herdsman.

Bad Milk Flavors

Certain weeds, especially wild onions, garlic, and leeks impart to milk, cream and butter, flavors which are not desired, such as a most intense onion flavor, which is very difficult to remove from these products. These flavors usually appear in milk and cream in spring and fall, due to the cows having access to pastures which are not sufficiently advanced, or have dried up too much to satisfy the cows causing them to feed on anything green they can find.

The disclosure that American waterproof ink was used in preference to domestic or British inks to inscribe the names of Australian soldiers at the war memorial in Melbourne has created a mild political storm. Counsellor Luxton, lord mayor of Melbourne, replying to critics, said American ink was superior to all others and was used because the inscriptions were to last as long as possible.

Choice "Dahlia"
A friend brought to the Old Orchard bungalow of Miss Anna Wenzel some dahlia bulbs, says the Boston Globe. Among them, she told Miss Wenzel, was one very choice one, which was planted in a selected spot. All the bulbs came up, but the choice one did look a little different and when the donor of the dahlias saw it, she exclaimed that it was a potato. And so it was and Miss Wenzel dug up enough potatoes in the fall for five or six dinners.

The fires burned down until they were eyes in the night. Hours passed, and the Senecas listened in the stillness as if oppressed by fear. At last they heard the chanting of a voice coming nearer as fast as a canoe could travel. It was the death song with which Tiaoga had grieved for his daughter, and the savages were moved by it as leaves are moved by a wind. The suspense was broken, for in the song of grief was also a note of triumph which brought the message that Tiaoga had been successful in his pursuit. Fresh fuel was piled on the fires, and the flames leapt high. When Tiaoga and his companions came from the river, they brought no prisoner with them. Yet a fierce light shone in their countenances as they entered the illumination, and beginning his death song again Tiaoga snatched a burning brand and flung it into the midst of the pitchy material about the torture stake. In a moment a winding sheet of flame licked its way up the pole, and around this Tiaoga danced, finishing his song to the crackling of the pitch. He described how they had overtaken the fleeing ones at the edge of the Great rocks beyond which the water thundered in a maelstrom. The blind man had fought with a hatchet he had stolen from Ah De Bah's tepee until another blade was sunk in his brain to quiet him. He was a devil in his blindness, and Tiaoga pointed to Shindas, who held back his buckskin shirt to show a long and bleeding gash. The white man was dead, and his body, weighted by the darkness of his soul, was gone forever in the deep waters beyond the rocks.

But the unclean one who had tricked them, the girl whose evil spirit had come to bring dishonor upon them and to desecrate the soul of Soi Yan Makwun, they had taken alive. Tiaoga's face grew livid. His soul had gone so black when they caught her that he could see only death, for he heard his daughter's voice crying to him for vengeance. So he had killed the treacherous one. He had killed her at the command of Silver Heels, whose spirit was singing to him. He had killed the white girl with his own hands and had flung her body to disappear with that of the blind man.

Suddenly Tiaoga drew from its hiding place next his breast a thing which brought a gasp to the lips of those about him. All recognized it as Toinette's beautiful braid of hair streaming from the bleeding scalp the savage held above his head.

Tiaoga became more than ever a fiend in the flesh as he danced about the stake. Flecks of blood from the red scalp struck his face. At the height of his madness he flung it into the heart of the pitchwood fire.

Soi Yan Makwun was avenged and the demand of his people answered.

CHAPTER XII

At noon of the second day of his journey Jeems came to the village of Kanestio, whose chief was Matozee, or Yellow Bear. He had traveled the seventy miles in thirty hours, and was determined to return as quickly, for he was troubled deeply by the thought that Toinette was alone at a time when the sentiment of the Indians was turning against them. Why he and not a tribal runner had been sent to Yellow Bear puzzled him, and the fact that he bore a message of small importance increased his uneasiness.

He had scarcely reached Kanestio when his weapons, a knife and hatchet, were taken from him and he was brought to Matozee. This individual, who was killed at Lake George the following year and who was a boy in appearance though the French held him among the bravest fighters of the Six Nations, informed Jeems that he was a prisoner. He said Tiaoga had defaulted in a payment of corn that was due, and Jeems was to cover part of the obligation. Matozee tersely explained the agreement between the chiefs. If Jeems attempted to escape and was caught by his warriors, he would be killed; if by any chance he succeeded in getting back to Chenusfio, then he would answer to Tiaoga with his life. A dead line was drawn encircling the tepee in which he was to live, and he found himself under a surveillance little less strict than that accorded to a prisoner whose fate was to be torture or death.

The fourth afternoon he perceived an excited gathering of women and children some distance from him but paid no attention to it. Depressed by fears which had become unbearable, he was determined to gain his freedom before another dawn. Increasing cloudiness during the afternoon and a promise of storm with the beginning of evening added to his hopes for success. Thunder and rain came with darkness, and he feigned sleep at an early hour. It was almost midnight when he sat up and listened to the downpour. He was about to rise to his feet, certain that no Senecas would be lying in the deluge, when he heard the sudden rustle of the skin flap to the tepee as it was drawn back and some one entered.

In a moment a small voice whispered his name. Cold hands found him as he held out his arms. He felt a child's drenched form.

Then came choking words half smothered in the heat of the storm: "I am Wood Pigeon. I ran away from Chenusfio three days ago. I have come to tell you Silver Heels is dead."

Lightning flashes which accompanied the storm that night revealed a solitary figure hurrying through the wilderness toward Chenusfio, a figure which sped until it was winded and then continued at a slower pace with a persistence no heat of rain or blast of wind could halt.

The traveler was Jeems. Wood Pigeon had repeated the message Toinette entrusted to her a few minutes preceding her flight with Hepsibah Adams, and no blackness was so thick that it hid from him the tortured faces of his wife and his blind uncle as they beckoned him to vengeance.

Even vengeance seemed futile and inadequate. Hope did not rise in his breast. He had hoped when he knew his mother was dead, he had hoped as he sought for life among the ruins of Tonteur manor, he had never quite given up hope that his uncle was alive. But now it was impossible for him to find that saving grace within his mental reach. As he went on, he was slowly dispossessed of the power to hate, though every sinew in his body was bent with implacable resolution in its mission of death. He would kill Tiaoga. He would kill Shindas. There would be only justice and no gratification of the flesh or the spirit in his act. A greater and more encompassing thing than the impulse which had sent him from Matozee's village began to choke him with a force that was sickening. It was his aloneness. The vastness of the world. The sudden going of the one who had remained to make it habitable for him. Without Toinette there was no reason for its existence, no reason why it should continue to give him the warmth of life. Toinette was dead. It was a fate predestined from the beginning, something he had always feared vaguely. Nothing counted now; to kill Tiaoga and Shindas would not cause a rift in the hopelessness which lay ahead of him.

He advanced with a speed which would have exhausted him at any other time. As the hours passed, an explanation for this haste gathered in his consciousness. He was going home. That in all of its significance was the cabin in which Toinette and he had lived. Their home. A thing that had not gone with her body and yet was a part of her which he would find as he had left it when he came to the end of the trail, unless Tiaoga had destroyed that, too.

He reached Chenusfio. The place gleamed with pools of water. Suspicious dogs appeared to identify him, but the people were asleep. He found his cabin with the door closed as it would have been if Toinette were asleep inside. He could feel her presence when he entered. But she was not there. He made a light cautiously and screened it so that eyes outside could not see. The floor, the walls, the room were illumined faintly. He began to put his hands on things, to gather them here and there, making a bundle of his treasures on the table—her things. When he had prepared the bundle he armed himself with a knife and a hatchet and his bow, then extinguished the light and went out, closing the door behind him.

He sought Shindas, for his plan was to kill him first.

Then he would kill Tiaoga. Shindas was not in his tepee. The place was empty and his weapons were gone, evidence that he was away on a journey. For a few moments after this discovery, Jeems stood in the shadow of an oak looking at Tiaoga's dwelling place. The urge to destroy was not strong in him. The gentle whispering among the trees and the drip of water from their foliage combined in a melody of peace which struggled to turn him from the thought of death. It might have won if a tall figure had not come out of the tepee he was watching. Jeems knew it was Tiaoga. The chieftain advanced toward him as if an invisible fate were leading him to his execution. Then he paused. The moon was bright. It lit up his features thirty yards away as he gazed into a mystery of distance which his eyes could not penetrate. What had brought him, what he was thinking, what the night held for him, Jeems did not ask himself. He strung his bow and fitted an arrow. Then he called Tiaoga's name in a low voice to let him know that retribution had come. The bow twanged and a slender shaft sped through the moonlight with the winged sound of a hummingbird. He heard the arrow strike. Tiaoga did not cry out. His hands clutched at his breast as he sank to the earth and lay there a motionless blot.

Jeems went down the river. For many days he hid along its shores seeking for Toinette's body. He saw Senecas pass and re-pass, but as he traveled almost entirely in the water he was successful in evading them.

When he reached Lake Ontario, he turned eastward, still carrying his bundle. At night he slept with it close to his face, breathing the precious incense of Toinette's things. Sometimes he held to his lips the piece of red cloth she had worn around her hair.

No spring of action encouraged him to return to Forbidden valley or the Richelieu, and it was chance and not a definite purpose which brought him to the place on Lake Champlain called Ticonderoga by the Indians. This was late in the summer of 1756. The French had occupied a part of land and were building Fort Vaudreuil and Fort Carillon. Jeems seized upon these activities with the avidity of one who at last had found something to assuage a killing hunger. He joined Montcalm's forces and was given a musket and a spade in place of his bow and arrows.

He entered now an apprenticeship of digging and building in the earth where the forts were going up. The work and its environment, the excitement of war, and the ever-increasing news of French victories were a relief to his broken spirits, but they did not thrill him. He fought against this apathy. He tried to hate once more. He repeated to himself many times that the English and their Indians were responsible for the tragedies which had befallen his loved ones. But he could not rise to the passion for vengeance. He wanted to fight, he wanted to see the English and their allies overwhelmed, but his emotions were as dull as they were implacable. They burned with a fatalistic evenness which neither triumph nor defeat could raise to great heights or lower to the depths they had plumbed. Death could never stir him again as it had already stirred him, no shambles could sicken him and no victory bring to him the remotest gladness of the song he had chanted in the frelight at Chenusfio.

Bus Passengers Out of Luck in Spanish Town

The poorer class of Spain believes that if you cannot catch the man who deserves punishment, the best thing to do is to punish some one else, even if vengeance is exacted upon those who knew nothing about what had happened.

In a little village in the province of Valencia a small boy was knocked down and slightly injured by a passing automobile. The driver did not stop, but the villagers decided that some one ought to be punished. So they lined up in the main street, under command of the magistrate, to pummel the first automobilist who came through.

Unluckily, the first car was a big bus. It was halted and the driver and all the passengers were pulled out and given a thorough beating. None of them knew what it was all about, but the punishment was so real that 15 had to be treated by doctors when the bus reached the nearest city and three had to go to a hospital.

Resourceful Officer

When two men who had stolen an automobile were surprised by a Marylebone (England) policeman recently, they jumped from the machine and fled in another car, but the officer mounted the abandoned machine and overtook them.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 407 South Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

"Let there be light—" For years and years the practical meaning of this Biblical expression was lost to the farmer. True, he may have got some spiritual consolation from it, but there was a significance that had not dawned upon him. He kept hard at it, working his long hours each day and far into the night with little of the comforts of home that make it a solace and comfort after the day's work is over. His first consideration was a barn. And after he had built a structure that was not to be excelled in the neighboring country, he built a hoghouse or sheep barn. All the while he was living in a makeshift shelter which he called home.

But the light was coming, coming to show the way in the darkness. The light that showed the real value of a home, the absolute economy of the idea, and its influence on the future of the boys and girls who were growing up. As they began to desert the farms, to leave their parents to go to the lights of the city, the farmer began to think, and as he thought, he began to see the gleam that was to enlighten him. He realized that to keep his boys on the farm, to get the maximum joy out of life, he would have to build a regular home as well as a substantial barn.

And with the home came many of the conveniences that are now available in the city. With the home came running water, bathrooms, and electric light, the light that was to lead the farmer down the road to ideal home life.

You would have to travel far and long to find a modest farm home that embodies more real comfort, more convenience and labor-saving inventions than the house shown here with floor plans. It is not at all elaborate, being of the familiar, practical and economical square or box type, as it is often called, frame exterior set on a firm concrete foundation with high cellar for heating plant and storage room. A farmhouse without plenty of room for a large laundry, vegetable store room and modern heating plant, is not worth while and certainly not practical.

Across the entire front extends a wide, open porch, an ideal recreation place for the family in the warm weather and cool evenings. In the summer it can be screened in to keep out pests and dirt.

The front door opens into a small vestibule in which there is a clothes

Irony in Story of the Famous "Fireside Song"

The erection of a boulder memorial to Eben G. Rexford, author of "Silver Threads Among the Gold," in a churchyard at Shiocton, Wis., is a reminder of the ironic story connected with the writing of the song. Rexford, who wrote the words while a student at Lawrence college, spent most of his life on a quiet Wisconsin homestead in a way befitting the author of the nation's fireside song, but Hart P. Danks, composer of the music, knew an altogether different life. Fortunately Danks and his bride in 1874, secure in youth, could sing their pledge that age would make no difference without foreseeing the separation which the future held for them. Danks died friendless and alone long before the tranquil evening of their dreams, and she who inspired the song was equally as lonely years afterward. After the composer's death a son and daughter lived bitter lives, spent wrangling about royalties. At one time the quarrel reached such a pitch that the sister sought her brother's arrest for failure to turn over what she felt was her share. Even such a story as that cannot tarnish the song, whose acceptance by the American people was not on account of the greatness of either its words or music, but because it furnished a means for thousands to express one of their deepest feelings.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Hubby Not Altogether Interested in "Sport"

Arthur Samuels recently crossed the ocean with a man who was frankly bored with the trip, says Walter Trumbull. When he was not in the barber shop or the bar, he was restlessly sprinting up and down the deck like Columbus looking for dry land. "My husband's chief interests are horses and dogs," explained his wife. "He got a couple of books on sport out of the library, but he is so restless that he can't get into them." Mr. Samuels had curiosity enough to look at the books on sport the man had selected. They were "The Hounds of Spring," and James Branch Cabell's "The Silver Stallion."—Los Angeles Times.

SWEETEN ACID STOMACH THIS PLEASANT WAY

When there's distress two hours after eating—heartburn, indigestion, gas—suspect excess acid. The best way to correct this is with an alkali. Physicians prescribe Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water neutralizes many times its volume in excess acid; and does it at once. To try it is to be through with crude methods forever.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. All drugstores have the generous 25c and 50c bottles. Full directions in package.

Antiquarian Find

Ancient dynasties whose origin is lost in antiquity were recalled when the remains of a king and queen, which experts say are from 1,800 to 2,000 years old, were discovered by antiquarians on Sheebeg, a mountain near Carrick-on-Shannon, Ireland. After infinite labor the antiquarians removed the covering of centuries, and were then faced with the entrance to the royal vault. It had been barred by a solid block of dressed masonry weighing over ten tons. When this was removed the skeletons of a male and female were discovered, side by side, facing toward the former royal seat of Tara.

Right at Home

"Sleep well in the country?" "First night I couldn't sleep at all. After that I hired a farmer boy to sit in my auto and blow the horn all night. Then I got along fine."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Modernize With Sunshine

This is the age of sunshine and outdoor life. Houses are built with many windows, sun parlors, sleeping porches and daylight basements. Homes are brighter, cheerier and healthier. To modernize an old house is to bring the sunshine in with more larger windows.

Wall Paper Designs

The modern wall paper manufacturer pays the bill. His expenditures amount to many thousands of dollars on each pattern put at your disposal. At an unbelievably small cost you can secure an infinite variety of beautiful backgrounds for your home.

REGULAR PAINS

The modern Miss needs no "time out" for the time of month. If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective in the relief of those pains peculiar to women! Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry-on in comfort. Take enough to assure you complete comfort. If it is genuine aspirin it cannot possibly hurt you. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. It does nothing but stop the pain, so use it freely. Headaches come at inconvenient times. So do colds. But a little Bayer Aspirin will always save the day. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day or a sleepless night. Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

Castoria... for CHILDREN'S ailments

ARE you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or for the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish spell, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine.

Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so. You can tell from the formula on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

Dinner doesn't burn when you have a Telephone in the Kitchen

You can't keep one eye on the oven when you must go into the front hall to answer the telephone.

An extension telephone in the kitchen speeds household business and helps to keep cook or yourself from straying too far from an active oven.

It's convenient, too, for ordering groceries and supplies.

The cost of an extension telephone is less than 3 cents a day. To place an order, call the Telephone Business Office.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE OF FORD VALUE

Bright, enduring RUSTLESS STEEL is used for many exposed bright metal parts of the Ford

WHEN YOU BUY a Ford you buy enduring beauty. The body finish is made to last for the life of the car and practically all exposed bright metal parts except the bumpers are made of enduring Rustless Steel.

This Rustless Steel has great tensile strength. It is the same bright metal all the way through. A salt test equivalent to forty years' service under the severest weather conditions failed to have any effect on its brilliance. It never requires polishing. All you do is wipe it with a damp cloth, as you do your windshield.

This is just one of many features that show the substantial worth of the Ford. In speed, comfort, safety, economy and long life—in the richness of its finish and upholstery—it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

Call or phone for demonstration.

LOW FORD PRICES $430 to $630

(F. o. b. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra, at low cost. You can purchase a Ford on economical terms through the Authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.)
