TAWAS CITY DROPS FIRST TWO GAMES

Tawas City dropped its first two games of the basketball league season, the first to Standish last Friday night at Standish by a 24-13 score, and the second to Sterling at Sterling on Wednesday night of this week, 17-15.

The locals' hospital list has handicapped them greatly in their opening games and was instrumental in having the two defeats chalked against them. At Standish, Tawas City's patched-up team found the going too rough, and Standish met with little difficulty in holding them on the short end of the score. Martin, with ten points, followed by Allen, with eight, led the scoring of the game. Swartz led the locals with six points.

With a couple players still on the injured list Wednesday night, the locals put up a game fight against Sterling, but with a little hard luck on their side, fell short by two points to tie the count. Tawas City led at the half, 15-11. Bingham grabbed the scoring honors with 11 points, followed by J. Klenk of Sterling with eight.

On Monday, December 28, Tawas City will meet Hale on the Whittemore floor. The locals expect to have a stronger team by that time and hope to break into the win column.

FRANK GOIKE
Frank Goike, age 87 years, died Tuesday, December 15, at Detroit. The funeral services were held last Thursday afternoon from Emanuel's Lutheran church. Rev. W. C. Voss officiated. Interment was in Emanuel Lutheran cemetery.

Frank Goike was born November 9, 1844, at Pomerania, Germany. He was united in marriage to Caroline Cholger. In 1873 he immigrated to America, coming to this place. Eight children were born to them, of whom six preceded him in death. Mrs. Goike died in 1920.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. George Koenig and Mrs. Carl Dettmer of Detroit, 22 grandchildren, 37 great grandchildren and one great great grandchild. He had been a member of Emanuel's Lutheran church since 1888.

Those from out of the city who attended the funeral were, Mr. and Mrs. George Koenig, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dettmer, William Koenig, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gies and daughter, Alva, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Koenig, Albert Koenig, Mrs. Richard Zender, Mrs. Julius Koenig, Walter Koenig, Clarence Fiedler and Walter Dettmer, all of Detroit.

OIL STATION BURNS MONDAY MORNING

The oil station owned by Ernest Cecil at Tawasville was destroyed by fire at between four and five o'clock last Monday morning. The contents consisting of oil, tires and accessories were also destroyed. The lunch room a short distance away was damaged by the flames. The fire departments from Tawas City and East Tawas were called, but arrived too late to save the oil station. The fire is thought to have started from the electric lighting plant.

SHEER POWER OF NEW FILM IS SENSATIONAL

At last a motion picture on the theme of modern youth bursts forth upon a blasé motion picture public with real youth in it, a powerful feeling of authenticity, a breathless drama and a high degree of sheer entertainment value for theatre-goers of all ages.

High praise, but "Are These Our Children?" the RKO Radio Pictures' offering Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, December 27, 28 and 29, at the State Theatre, deserves every word of it, and more. In some instances "modern youth" has been the victim of sensational, tawdry and unconvincing exploitation on the screen. A gold mine of the best sort of film entertainment.

The outstanding performances in "Are These Our Children?" are by the principals, youngsters all below 20 years of age. Eric Linden, New York stage sensation, heads the cast and gives an unforgettable performance. Although Rochelle Hudson is the feminine romantic lead and does some fine acting, the part played by the "vamp," Arline Judge, gives opportunities that allow her to dominate many scenes.

"MERRY CHRISTMAS"

CHARITY SHOW NETS $89.10

The net receipts from the moving picture show "The False Madonna," given last Wednesday and Thursday evenings amounted to $89.10. The show was put on by the State Theatre with the co-operation of the Welfare committee. The members of the Welfare committee are: Mrs. John A. Campbell, Mrs. W. C. Davidson, Mrs. H. J. Keiser, L. H. Bradlock, C. L. McLean, and J. A. Brugger. The interest taken by the public in this undertaking was very gratifying.

The Welfare committee received the following communication from the State Highway Department: Iosco County Relief Tawas City, Mich. Gentlemen:

The employees of the Michigan State Highway Department have pledged a certain percent of their yearly salary to a Department Welfare Fund. They were privileged, however, to state on their pledge to what charitable organization they desired their contribution to go.

Keith L. Baguley, working out of Grand Rapids, Michigan, has indicated that he desires his contribution to go to your organization. A check for the amount of $4.90 for Mr. Baguley's pledge is being enclosed. Another check will be sent you in February.

Very truly yours,
Mae F. Durkee, Secretary,
Residency Welfare Committee.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS
I now have the 1931 tax roll and am ready to collect taxess any week day. I will be at the Iosco County Bank each Saturday afternoon until January 10.

R. A. Bentley, Treasurer,
Reno Township.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express in this way our sincere thanks to our many friends for the numerous acts of kindness shown us since our house burned.

SENIORS GIVE FINE PLAY BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE

A large audience witnessed the delightful presentation of the comedy-drama, "He's My Pal," by the Senior class of the Tawas City high school at the State Theatre on Tuesday evening of this week. The cast of the play was composed only of members of the Senior class.

The individual parts were handled in capable manner, showing the result of much preparation. The efforts of the students and their coach, Supt. A. E. Giddings, were well rewarded, as the rendition drew many laughs and much applause from the audience, besides swelling the coffers of the class considerably.

Vocal specialties and orchestral numbers by the new high school orchestra provided entertainment between acts. Considering the fact that practically all the members of the orchestra are beginners on their respective instruments, their initial appearance before the public at this event proved very gratifying and spoke well for the members and their instructor, Miss Marjorie Sage.

The proceeds of the play will be used to help defray Commencement expenses.

EAST TAWAS PIANO STUDENTS GIVE RECITAL

A piano students' recital was given by the pupils of Mrs. F. H. Richards on Wednesday evening of this week. Following are the numbers comprising the program:

KIDDIES ENJOY FREE "MOVIE"

Several hundred boys and girls enjoyed the free moving picture entertainment and the gift packages given at the State Theatre Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of Tawas City business men and the State Theatre. This annual event during the past two years has brought large crowds of enthusiastic children.

Monday evening a number of the business men met at the American Legion and wrapped the gift packages. After the work was completed those present purchased oysters and enjoyed an oyster supper. The event was held in conjunction with the regular meeting of Jesse C. Hodder Post, American Legion.

The business section of the city has been decorated with Christmas trees, all lighted with colored lights and some carrying full tree decorations—that at the Electric Shoe Repair Shop being especially noteworthy. A fine tree was installed on the city hall lawn. Many residents have also placed lighted Christmas trees on their lawns.

This movement is especially laudable and indicates a fine Christmas spirit. This feeling has been spoiled somewhat by vandals stealing the lights from the tree erected by Jas. Robinson and G. D. King in front of their places of business. An attempt was also made to destroy the tree. The perpetrators of this piece of vandalism cannot be too strongly condemned.

TAKE INITIAL STEP TO GAME PROPAGATION

The initial step in a project that may make conservation history in the state of Michigan was taken last week when farmers, landowners and sportsmen gathered at meetings in Clare, West Branch, Rose City and Prescott to consider the plan of the NorthEastern Michigan Development Bureau for the formation of shooting preserves among farmers for the propagation of game.

The meeting at Clare consisted chiefly of businessmen and sportsmen. It was not intended for consideration if definite action.

The three meetings in Ogemaw county were attended by farmers' and landowners. The enthusiasm displayed in the general discussions at these meetings proved that the Bureau project has an appeal for landowners. It was pointed out at each gathering that the Bureau plan is the only one that can expect to enlist the sympathetic cooperation of farmers in an increase of wild life because it shows the landowner a chance for financial gain.

T. F. Marston, secretary-manager of the Bureau, Thomas MacClure, game authority, and Harry M. Jewett, game rearer and advocate, addressed these meetings.

Mr. Marston outlined the plan proposed, asked for an expression of a demand for such a movement and promised the formation and the full cooperation of the organization in fostering the growth and formation of associations designated as shooting preserves if the farmers and landowners so desired.

Mr. Marston pointed out the fact that wild life is a potent lure for prospective tourists and sportsmen and that a constantly increasing supply is necessary to satisfy the demands of the visitors who benefit this region with the cash they leave wherever they go.

Thomas MacClure, who has been a practical student of the various phases of conservation for 35 years, described the game preserves of Scotland where thousands of Americans go to get the game for which they pay $10,000,000 a year in shooting privileges. Mr. MacClure emphasized the intensity with which the Scotch engage in game management and he brought the picture down to this region by stating that

WHITTEMORE-NATIONALS IN ANOTHER VICTORY

Whittemore-Nationals added another scalp to their list by putting the skids under the Pinconning Independent cagers to the tune of a 44-32 score. The contest was cleanly played throughout. If the Nationals can hold this pace all season they will give a good account of themselves when the smoke of the league battle clears away.

The Whittemore-Nationals wish to thank the Whittemore merchants for their interest in the team shown by their donations of new jerseys, and hope to give a good account of themselves in them.

Whittemore Nationals meet the Glennie outfit on December 26th at Glennie, and play AuGres at Whittemore on December 29th. Come on, folks. Let's back the team. Both are important league games and will do much toward indicating a possible winner of the cup. We want your support. Watch for the posters.

CRAWFORD AND GABLE FORM ROMANTIC TEAM

The romantic team of Joan Crawford and Clark Gable in a dramatic story of a factory girl who becomes the toast of Park Avenue makes an engrossing talkie of "Possessed," which will come to the Family Theatre, East Tawas, for two days, Sunday and Monday, December 27, and 28.

The picture was adapted from the Edgar Selwyn stage hit, "The Mirage," and was directed by Clarence Brown, who last filmed the Norma Shearer success, "A Free Soul."

Miss Crawford's role as the girl who turns down the man she loves, in order to leave him free to become the governor of his state, gives her every opportunity for display of her dramatic prowess.

Her transformation from a plain factory worker to a member of the leisure class entails sixteen costume changes. The story also entails a number of spectacular scenic backgrounds.

The star sings a new song in this picture, "How Long Will It Last?" which title in itself gives away much of the plot.

"THE CUBAN LOVE SONG" WILL DELIGHT FAMILY AUDIENCES

"The Cuban Love Song," dramatic romance of a man and a girl in the tropics, brings Lawrence Tibbett, famous baritone and screen star, to the Family Theatre, East Tawas, this week Friday and Saturday, December 25 and 26, in what is undoubtedly his most interesting role since "The Rogue Song."

In a modern story, replete with drama, adventure, comedy and haunting music, Tibbett is seen as a swashbuckling marine. The story begins before the war and comes down to the present day.

There are novelties galore—an imported Cuban orchestra and Lupu Velez dancing the Rumba; Tibbett learning "The Peanut Vendor" in Spanish from the lovable Lupe; outstanding songs for Tibbett, such as the official U. S. Marine Corps hymn; "The Cuban Love Song," "Tramps at Sea" and a thrilling deep sea chantey.

W. S. VanDyke directed the production, and crammed it with deft little touches such as the "singing lesson" in the Cuban jungle.

Comedy is in capable hands, for Ernest Torrence and Jimmy Durante provide it as the two marine cronies of the hero of the story and the stunning Louise Fazenda plays a romancing shrew.

Lupe Velez is charming as the wistful Zenita and her exotic charm has a foil in Karen Morley's aristocratic beauty as the rival heroine.

"A HOUSE DIVIDED" SHOWS HUSTON IN NEW ROLE

Walter Huston, recognized as one of the most accomplished actors on the screen, contributes another virile characterization in Universal's swift-moving drama, "A House Divided," which comes to the State Theatre Friday and Saturday, January 1-2.

In this picture Huston is seen as a brutal, tyrannical fisherman of the North Pacific coast, fighting against the pounding sea and his peace-loving neighbors with equal abandon, and finally brought to the height of emotional rage when he discovers that his new mail-order bride has fallen in love with his own son. The fact that the son reciprocates the affection of the young girl aids in bringing about a situation which is filled with dramatic intensity.

Huston's characterizations since making his screen debut in "Gentlemen of the Press" have been of infinite variety, ranging from West ern bad men to Abraham Lincoln in D. W. Griffith's recent production dealing with the life of the ex-President. Previous to appearing in motion pictures, Huston was starred in a number of stage successes.

Helen Chandler and Kent Douglas are featured with Huston in "A House Divided."

ANYWAY he has some queer ways. That is what Peter Rabbit thinks, and Peter ought to know. But as to that it is quite probable that Buster thinks some of Peter's ways queer. It is the way of the world to think other folks queer, and Buster thinks some of Peter's ways queer, and I am quite sure that both think your ways and mine very queer indeed.

TASTY TORTES

FOR the cake par excellence, the torte is one of the daintiest. Our German cooks excel in this kind of a cake combination. Tortes are rich with nuts, chopped or rolled fine, plenty of eggs and crumbs, with spices. The baking is another important point, as slow, careful baking is necessary for a light and tender torte.

ST. VALENTINE

ST. VALENTINE, in whose name expressions of sentiment have been exchanged since early Roman times, appeared frequently in early church history. Monks or priests have been sainted under that name in France, Italy, Spain and South Africa, and it was given special significance in the Third century by a Roman priest noted for his good deeds and also by a certain bishop of Umbria.

But a favorite legend identifies the saint who is responsible for our annual indulgence in lace paper, cupid's and sweet ditties with a Roman youth of the early Christian era, who chose to be crucified rather than deny his adherence to the new faith. While lying in prison awaiting execution, he fell in love with his jailer's daughter and left for her a farewell message signed "from your Valentine." Early rites in his honor are identified with the Roman festival of the Lupercal, in which supplicants prayed for success in mating.

Valentines in the familiar heart shape were commonly exchanged in England as early as the Fourteenth century, and St. Valentine's day is mentioned by both Chaucer and Shakespeare. Probably the earliest valentine in the English language was written in 1419:

This day Dame Nature seemed in love. The lusty sap began to move, Fresh juices stirred the embracing vines And birds had drawn their Valentines—!

ANNIE LAURIE

IT IS Annie Laurie to whom tourists pay reverence when they visit, in Forest Lawn Memorial park, Glendale, Calif., the reproduction of the "Wee Kirk in the Heather," the church the heroine of this oldest and sweetest of love songs is said to have attended at Glencairn, near her Scottish home. But 'tis William Douglass, her devoted lover and author of the original version of the poem, to whom honors are due.

Annie Laurie, stripped of Douglass' adoring poetry and the lilting music which we all know, was but a brave Scotch lassie after all, with a "rolling eye" and but little sense of duty. Born in 1682, at Maxwellton house, Glencairn, she grew up to be the most charming and provocative young lady in all Dumfriesshire. How William Douglass felt about her he wrote down for all the world to sing. In spite, however, of her "promise true" of which he boasted in his song, Annie married one Alexander Ferguson while William was off to the wars. As the wicked often do, she flourished, even to her eighty-second year!

Douglass has been as unlucky as a poet as he was in love. Bereft of his Annie Laurie, he was eventually bereft also of his song. The original version had but two verses. The version familiar today is a modern adaptation by Lady John Scott.

"GRAVE ALICE"

TO HER friends Alice Longfellow was the "grave Alice" of her father's loved poem, "The Children's Hour," a thoughtful, widely traveled woman of unusual personal charm. As a young woman she attended Newnham college, Cambridge, thus becoming the first American woman to attend a foreign college. She was a member of the first class of Radcliffe, was among those whose vision and energy founded this "Harvard Annex" in 1879 as a four-year experiment in feminine education, and was actively connected with its growth and progress until her death just a few years ago.

But Alice Longfellow couldn't have been such a "grave" little girl after all, for her father, who was already forty-four and famous when she was born and inclined to grandfatherly indulgence toward all his children, wrote of her just after her christening, "The brightest, gayest of girls, who enjoyed the ceremony as much as any of us." And it was Alice he used to tease with that little classic:

There is a little girl, who had a little curl Right in the middle of her forehead; When she was good, she was very, very good, But when she was bad, she was horrid.

World's Forest Area

The present forest area of the world, in round figures, is about 7,500,000,000 acres, which is 22 per cent of the total land area, exclusive of the polar regions. The area of actually productive forest, however, is probably one-fourth less than this amount, or 5,500,000,000 acres, which is 16 per cent of the land area.

THE SHEPHERD'S STAR

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

IT IS not strange that shepherds were the first to note the new-lit skies. Self-love is no philosopher.

But tenders of the sheep are wise. It is the generous, the kind, Who are the first the Christ to find, And those who gain the gift of heaven

Are always those who first have given. Now in our arms we take the earth, Even as shepherds take the sheep, Give strangers cheer, and children mirth,

And comfort to the ones who weep. First feel the radiance from above, As shepherds, some poor lamb enfolding, Were first the Shepherd's star beholding.

How Railey and Lake Will Explore the Lusitania

SIMON LAKE'S STEEL DIVING STAIRWAY

S. S. LUSITANIA

THE British board of trade has given to the Lake-Railey expedition official permission to explore the wreck of the Lusitania, which was sunk by a German submarine off the southwest coast of Ireland on May 7, 1915, and underwater craft. Captain Railey, leader of the expedition, says there will be no attempt to raise the Lusitania or to salvage much of the cargo, though some of the latter, it is hoped, will be brought to the surface by the Lake submarine salvaging tube. Undersea photography at depths never before achieved will be an important objective of the expedition. The illustration shows how this is to be carried on.

Your Invisibile Christmas Tree

By Charles Frederick Wadsworth

DAWK settles down on Christmas eve, and the tree has been appointed to its place before the big window. Decorations are unwrapped and suspended among the green branches. Strands of colored globes are festooned over the tree and plugged into the socket. Mysterious-looking packages are hung in the tree and piled under it.

The light is turned on, and little feet dance and little hands clap for joy!

A Christmas tree is a wonderful thing! But at about this same time, out over the country and perhaps even across the seas, another Christmas tree, invisible but no less real, is being set up in your House of Friendship.

On a framework fabricated of good will, friends, relatives, loved ones, pals of other days, business associates, tradesmen, college chums, church, lodge and club members, fraternity brothers and sorority sisters—everybody who knows you and your family is contributing to your invisible Christmas tree.

There may be some who could not even expend a dime for a material gift who are thinking of you with gratitude for a service rendered or a helpful word spoken in time of discouragement. The gifts they place on your invisible Christmas tree may be heartfelt wishes or fervent prayers for your happiness and prosperity.

Some of these invisible gifts may take the form of a desire to be with you and your family, to share in and contribute to your enjoyment.

Others may be wondering if you are in health and how your business or crops turned out during the past year.

Still others may be thinking that you are entitled to advantages and privileges that you have not enjoyed, and speculating how they may aid you in reaching your aspirations.

Or, having achieved under difficulties and handicaps, you may have inspired others to give you a thought of appreciation and admiration.

Every kind thought of you, every conscious remembrance of you, at Christmas time, whether in your own household, among the ice floes of the Arctic or the jungles of the tropics, is a gift to you to grace your invisible Christmas tree.

The conventional Christmas tree is a wonderful thing, but the invisible one is far more wonderful!

CHRISTMAS in the MOUNTAINS

By Noni Clack Bailey

PLMS and poinsettias, orange trees and roses in the sun bright valley with snow and frozen lakes a few hours' ride away in the High Sierras, that's California in winter; so Marion's father, who was a New Yorker, planned to take the family to the mountains for a white Christmas. "Christmas without snow, isn't Christmas at all," he said.

Marion, her mother and father and Tom and Harry, her two cousins, made up the party of five. As they were ready to start, Prince, Marion's collie, mounted the running board of the car and insisted on going. With much coaxing on Marion's part he was allowed to do so.

When the snowy playground was reached there was plenty of fun with snow-ball battles, skating, lessons in skiing with many spills and thrills. Then the suggestion for a toboggan ride was answered with shrieks of delight.

Marion and her mother decided to let the father and boys try it first while they gathered more courage. Prince stood by watching excitedly, wagging his tail and voicing his approval in sharp barks.

It was a thrilling ride but a safe one so Marion and her mother readily took their places for the second slide. As they started down hill, Prince gave a quick leap, caught Marion by her coat and pulled her off the toboggan into the soft snow; returned like a flash and caught her mother's clothing in like manner and dragged her free of the toboggan.

Several times they made the attempt but Prince simply would not be pacified and at last they had to chain him to a tree so they could take their ride. For men and boys it was all right, but Prince did not approve of so dangerous looking a sport for his little mistress and her mother.

"Well, daddy," said Marion, "I coaxed you to let Prince come, so I suppose I deserve to get rolled in the wet snow; but poor mother had to pay for my coaxing, too, and I am sorry."

"Let's not be sorry about anything today. It's Christmas," her father replied, "there's a huge log fire in the lodge and you'll soon be warm and dry."

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

A Needed Explanation

MAXINE was entertaining the bridge club of which she was president with a Christmas party. The group of lively young women gathered about the tree for their annual election.

"Before we take up the election of officers for next year," Maxine announced, "I want to review with you a little of what we have done this past year.

"It was at our last January meeting that we decided that good times alone would not keep our club alive. Then it was suggested that we carry the Christmas spirit through the year by considering the 25th of every month a 'Christmas anniversary,' and doing some act such as we would do if it were really Christmas time.

"On January 25 we helped the Stone boy get a new suit; on February 25 we took out and cooked a real Christmas dinner for the Perkins family; on March 25 we arranged to buy music for the postman's boy, and got Mr. Williams to give him free violin lessons, and by the way, I understand he is showing real talent. In April we took care of Mrs. Perkins while she was sick, stopping in every noon to fix lunch and straighten up.

"May 25 was a Sunday, and we took all the poor children we knew to the park for the day. In June we gathered discarded winter clothing for the Welfare society to put in shape for fall use.

"On July 25 we started Phyllis Bivens off to a tuberculosis sanitarium. In August we bought school supplies for Sarah Stone, and in September we made another drive for discarded clothing.

"For a couple of weeks during October we helped in the Community Chest campaign; in November we waited until Thanksgiving day, when we distributed five turkeys; and here it is December again. What are we to do this month?"

"Well," said one of the girls, "of course we have been working all month on toys for the Community tree for poor children. So I suggest that this month we spend the 25th at home, but that next year we follow the same plan, and I nominate our President Maxine for re-election."

WELL, Jennie," said Mr. Jameson, "I don't see but that I'm a failure after all. Even though I could probably sell out this minute for a cool half-million, I cannot give you the only happiness you really want this Christmas eve."

"What's that?" queried his wife. "Why, our son!" he exclaimed. "Don't you suppose I know how you are going to miss him this first Christmas birthday of his that he has not been home. Don't you suppose I realize as well as you do that he is our life, our joy, our only true wealth; that money and things are really worth nothing to us in comparison with him?"

"Of course," answered Mrs. Jameson. "But you are a success, nevertheless. If it hadn't been for the money you've made by your hard work, we never could have given Richard the advantages he has had. He has that splendid opening in Chicago, and even if he is too far away to come home for just one day, I am glad that he has the opportunities which our wealth has given him. Of course our son means more to us than all these things, but we still have each other, you know."

"Yes, my dear, we still have each other," he said.

Mrs. Jameson kissed her husband affectionately and led him toward the window.

"Look!" she exclaimed. "A plane!"

Sure enough, high over the great expanse of white lawn before the house circled a tiny plane the sound of whose motors just barely reached their ears. Nearer and nearer the earth it came, and Mrs. Jameson kissed her husband again. She knew that in the plane was Richard, their boy, their treasure.

"It is my Christmas present to you and to him," interrupted his wife. "Just as twenty-one years ago today I gave him to you as your son and heir, today I give him back to you. With this machine he can visit us on holidays, for now we are twelve hours nearer Chicago."

Forgotten HEROES

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Cochise's Friend

IN 1860 there came to the territory of Arizona a sandy-haired, ruddy-breasted giant named Capt. T. J. Jeffords, ex-steamboat captain on the Mississippi, ex-stage coach driver on the Butterfield line, who engaged as a free trader with the Indians from whom he picked up some knowledge of the Apache language. Next he took over a sub-contract from the Butterfields for carrying the mail between Silver City and Yuma. His mail route ran through the heart of the Apache country where Cochise, the great war chief of the Chiricahuas, had declared undying vengeance against the whites.

Captain Jeffords soon realized that his line was doomed to failure unless something could be done about the Apaches. To try to conquer them by force was out of the question. The United States army had not been a conspicuous success at that. The only other chance was diplomacy. Known everywhere as an utterly fearless man and one who never broke a promise, Captain Jeffords believed that Cochise was a man of the same caliber. So he arranged for a meeting with the chief and agreed to ride alone and unarmed into the natural fortress in the mountains known as "Cochise's Stronghold."

Such was the reputation of the Apaches for treachery and ferocity that Jeffords' project was the equivalent of a child walking into a den of starved Bengal tigers.

But Jeffords took the chance and Cochise was so impressed by the audacity of the white man that he would not permit his warriors to injure the captain. Then the two men got down to business. Pointing out the fact that the constant fighting was costing the lives of both white men and Indians Jeffords made a strong plea for peace between them. If Cochise would leave his mail carriers alone, he in turn would make no effort to harm the Apaches.

This meeting was the beginning of a strange friendship which was to make the name of Jeffords known throughout the Southwest. When President Grant sent Gen. O. O. Howard to make peace with the Apaches after the army had failed to subdue them, it was Captain Jeffords who took General Howard unarmed and accompanied only by his aide, Captain Sladen, into Cochise's stronghold for a conference with that chief. The people of Arizona pronounced Howard's mission a foolhardy one and said that he would never come back alive. But Jeffords knew that the Apache chief having given his word not to harm the general would keep it. The result was a treaty of peace which Cochise kept until his death and the credit for bringing to an end for a time the reign of terror by the Apaches in the Southwest was due to the efforts of one brave man who always kept his word, Captain T. J. Jeffords, Cochise's friend.

Magistrate Had "Called the Turn," Unknowingly

The president of the Oxford union completed his term of office and came down to London to see some friends. The friends were congenial, not to say convivial, and in the early hours of the morning the president of the union was found reposing in a wheelbarrow in the middle of Piccadilly circus by a policeman.

Before the magistrate, the president, having very little recollection of what had happened, decided to bluff it out. The magistrate wanted to know why he had chosen a wheelbarrow for a resting place.

The president replied that he was there "for purely valetudinarian reasons."

The magistrate pointed out the offender's lack of responsibility and respect for the court. "You talk," he added, "as if you were 'er, well, president of the Oxford union."

And the president leaned over the dock and in a very soft and tender voice said:

"We are."—London Tit-Bits.

Hero Well Identified

When the body of John Paul Jones was exhumed eminent scientists of the United States and France conducted an investigation to identify the body. In the comparison of the life-size Houdon bust of John Paul Jones and the photograph of the body taken after the examination it is seen how the contour of the brow, the arch of the eyebrow, the width between the eyes, the high cheek bones, the muscles of the face, the distance between the hair and the root of the nose, between the sub-nasal point and the lips, and between the lips and the point of the chin, all agree. The peculiar shape of the lobe of the ear in the bust is the exact counterpart of that observed in the body.

Supreme Sacrifice

A very gallant deed was performed by a chemist named Zurbriggen. He was employed at a chemical works in Switzerland. There was an explosion, and poison gas began to pour out upon the 20 men who were at work. Herr Zurbriggen, knowing only too well the penalty he must pay, forced his way into the room where the explosion occurred, found the leakage, and stopped it. All the workers were saved, through the swift courage of the chemist, but he himself was so severely gassed that he died soon afterwards.

Earthquakes' Oddities

During the great Tokyo earthquake of 1925 nearby coal mines were not affected, and a recent Texas earthquake which was felt within a radius of several hundred miles had no effect on the Carlsbad caverns, within the earthquake zone.

WE WISH to thank each and every one who favored us with their valued patronage during the Christmas season.

It was a pleasure to us to serve our old friends and our new ones. We had spared no time or effort to assemble the best values we could find in Christmas merchandise, and the numberless expressions of pleasure and appreciation on the part of our customers amply repaid us for the efforts made.

We sincerely hope that every person in this community had an abundance of Christmas cheer. We hope that the New Year will be a healthy, a happy and a prosperous one for this community of ours and for all who dwell within it.

We hope that all who honored us by coming here, either for large or small purchases, will keep on coming. We'll do our best at any and all times to serve you better than best, and we invite those who do not know us to get acquainted.

It is a rule in the Game of Life, that we must toss as well as catch, and recognition of the favor of patronage—for it is a favor, is one form of tossing.

Week of December 14 to 18
Editors, Ella Lomason and Lillian Rouse

The entrance of Sam and Bertha Bolsby to our school has increased the number of first graders to nine.

Nearly all of the first graders are taking part in the Christmas program.

Our second grade has completed its third reading book this year. Some of the members told Mr. Schuster that subtraction is easier than addition.

Our third grade has one new member, Calvin Bolsby.

The fourth and fifth grades are farther advanced in their arithmetic notebooks than any other grade in the school.

Louis Bolsby, a new pupil in our sixth grade, thinks Europe has too many countries and capitals for its size.

Practically all the seventh graders have mastered the pronunciations of the countries and capitals of Asia. They found their orthography a great help. We have a new member in our class, Pearl Bolsby.

All of the eighth grade boys are taking leading parts in our Christmas play, "The Birth of Christ."

Our school is one of the six schools in the county which are enrolled in the health contest sponsored by the Children's Fund of Michigan.

We have a higher percentage of children with perfect teeth than any other school in this county examined by Doctor Keteik.

We have a membership of 43 now. Our percentage of attendance for last month was 99.4. Our percentage of attendance for the year is 96.8.

Christmas Camouflage

By Myrtle Koon Cherryman

HOW, how am I going to give Jack Bayes a dollar for spending money without offending his mother?" thought Isabel, as Christmas approached. "Anna is so sensitive, and while she wouldn't mind my sending her boy a book that cost a dollar, I know she would be hurt at my giving money. And there's Mrs. Montgomery—I've always sent her a small plant, but a dollar would be so much better, now that she's in the Home, where the board always decorates for holidays, anyway! But would she like it? I'm sure she likes to have a little something in her purse, but she is proud, and—"

Thoughtfully Isabel looked at the crisp dollar bill she was holding, and suddenly it struck her what a really beautiful thing that steel engraving of George Washington was. She took a piece of paper and cut from it an oval about the size of the engraving, and then placed it over the picture. It didn't quite fit, but it showed up the portrait effectively, with the lettering on the bill excluded.

Next, she took an envelope, and after some measuring, cut from it, very carefully, an oval at the left side. She scribbled with her pencil for a while, got out her mineral paints, and after fifteen minutes work, she had before her a neat portrait of Washington in a gold frame, at the side of which was lettered:

The Father of His Country for his children should provide.

If you want some little trifle, you need not be denied—

He will get it for you straightway: (You'll find him just inside.)

"There," she said. "That ought to do for Mrs. Montgomery. Now I'll try the other verse for Jack. If I make a joke of it, Anna will swallow it more easily."

On another small framed miniature, she printed carefully:

If you need some little extra, just go to it!

If you think you can't afford it, "let George do it!"

Christmas morning Isabel was rewarded by a note from Mrs. Montgomery, thanking her for her "artistic and ingenious card," and by a phone call from Jack, who said:

"Miss Isabel, you don't know how many little extras I need, and that dollar! Well, mother doesn't like folks to give me money, but she's perfectly willing to let George do it!"

And she knew that her Christmas camouflage had succeeded.

When Columbus Died

Christopher Columbus' will and other evidence indicate that he did not die in poverty, and that he was in possession of a considerable amount of wealth at the time of his death at Valladolid, Spain, in 1506. He was very much disappointed, however, that he was neglected by the court, but he was not in destitute circumstances at the time of his death.

Fruit for Royalty Alone

"One orange, please"—"Ah, no, me laddie, 'tis king's fare"—and so it was, for way back in 1800, fruits and desserts were considered as part of the food of royalty alone. In the reign of Edward I, a Spanish ship brought to Portsmouth a cargo which included Seville figs, raisins or grapes, "a bale of dates, 230 pomegranates, 15 citrons and 7 oranges."

The general Christmas custom in Spain is to have a family dinner where none but blood relatives sit down, friends being seldom invited to the Christmas feast.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEARS GREETINGS TO ALL

To our Friends and Customers:

As we look back over the year 1931 we are moved to a deeper, more sincere appreciation of our friends.

Each year we realize more fully that our friendships are what make life worth living and we, therefore, like to feel that there is a spirit of friendship underlying our business relations with our customers. Our daily experiences confirm this feeling.

We manifest our appreciation of our loved ones by tokens or remembrances at Christmas time. We manifest our appreciation of our friends by a word of friendly greeting. And so at this Holiday time we want to extend to you our sincere good wishes as an expression of our genuine appreciation of your friendship.

What's New in the New Chevrolet Six

When you read what's new in the new Chevrolet Six, you, too, will agree it's the Great American Value for 1932.

It is the only low-priced car to offer both Syncro-Mesh and Free Wheeling in combination. It has engine and chassis improvements that raise performance to new heights of power, speed and smoothness. It provides the finest Fisher bodies Chevrolet has ever introduced. And it maintains the same factors of dependability and economy that have won the approval of millions of Chevrolet owners.

All that has proved to be sound and dependable in the past, plus all the new advancements given below—at one of the lowest prices in the market! That's why the new Chevrolet Six is the Great American Value for 1932!

Silent Syncro-Mesh Transmission

This well-known feature of high-priced cars is the finest type of transmission developed. In the new Chevrolet Six, it brings a new type of handling ease and control to the low-price field. Syncro-Mesh permits you to shift gears with marvelous quickness, quietness and ease. As a safety factor, it is especially valuable. For it enables you to shift rapidly from high back into second, any time you want to use the engine as a brake.

A Smoother, Improved Six-Cylinder Engine

New experiences await you in the Chevrolet Six—new thrills in power, pick-up, smoothness and speed. For Chevrolet has introduced many new engine-features that increase power 20 per cent to 60 horsepower, and make Chevrolet's built-in six-cylinder smoothness even smoother. These features include down-draft carburetion, a new cylinder head, new manifolding, a counter-balanced crankshaft and rubber engine mountings.

Simplified Free Wheeling

Chevrolet's Free Wheeling mechanism is a new and advanced type that is extremely simple in construction. You may take advantage of its thrills whenever you want to, by simply pressing a button on the dash. Thereafter, and until you pull the button out again you are "in" Free Wheeling. You coast along on momentum every time your foot is off the accelerator. And you can shift with magical simplicity and ease.

65 to 70 Miles an Hour with Faster Acceleration

Vital new features introduced into Chevrolet's six-cylinder engine enable it to develop 65 to 70 miles an hour with astonishing ease, stability and smoothness. And stop-watch tests show an acceleration from 0 to 35 miles in 6.7 seconds.

Distinctive New Front-End Appearance

The chromium-plated elliptical radiator, tilt-in radiator grille, double tie-bar, bullet-type horn, and bullet-type headlamps form a front-end ensemble of arresting beauty, enhanced by new adjustable hood-ports.

Stabilized Front-End Mounting

An ingenious method of mounting front fenders, lamps, double tie-bar and radiator securely to the frame—a method exclusive to Chevrolet—stabilizes the whole front-end assembly and insures steadiness when driving over rough roads.

Smart New Fisher Bodies

Chevrolet's new Fisher bodies are the smartest bodies ever to appear in the low-price field. Moreover, Fisher craftsmen have added many new elements of strength, quietness and solidity to the wood-and-steel construction. Greater vision is provided for all occupants.

Down-Draft Carburetor

The down-draft carburetor is a big factor in Chevrolet's greater power, speed and pick-up. An intake silencer combined with it assures greater quietness. A heat control device, operated from the dash, warms up the engine quickly and provides more efficient operation in cold weather.

Finger-Touch Fat Seat

One of the most interesting conveniences in the new Fisher bodies is a new type of adjustable front seat. A push of the finger on a lever at the left of the cushions, and you can move the seat to any desired position. This feature is exclusive to Chevrolet in the lowest-price field.

And the following Chevrolet features that have won the approval of millions of owners: Big, powerful Four-Wheel Brakes . . . Four Hydraulic Shock Absorbers . . . Four long Semi-Elliptic Springs . . . Full Length Frame . . . Insulated Driver's Compartment

LARGER FOWL BEST TYPE FOR BROILER

How Feed Cost Can Best Be Estimated.

The cost of broiler production depends upon many circumstances to which a definite figure cannot be attached, since they vary with each case. About all that can be said is that broilers brought to market will, if properly fed, have consumed from 8 to 10 pounds each of a well-balanced ration in the case of the larger breeds, like the Plymouth Rocks or Rhode Island Reds, about a pound less if Leghorns are used.

Chicks hatched or purchased for broiler production, however, should be of the larger type of fowls, the Rocks being as good as any. By ascertaining the cost of a growing mash for broiler, such as the following one from Cornell, you may figure the feed cost very closely. The mash mixture mentioned consists of 45 pounds yellow cornmeal, 15 pounds flour wheat middings, 10 pounds wheat bran, 10 pounds fine ground heavy oats, 10 pounds dry skim milk, 1 pound pulverized limestone, and one-half pound sea salt. The cost of chick grains may easily be ascertained also.

Overhead costs vary with equipment, facilities and experience of operator of plant, but it should be said that experience is needed if winter broiler production is to be engaged in upon a considerable scale with any hope of satisfactory profit. This phase of poultry production presents problems of its own, proper feeding being but one among many.—Exchange.

Just Wouldn't Want Him on Bank's Directorate

There is an old story of the late Senator Caraway of Arkansas, and a speech he is alleged to have made in the senate, which may not be true; but it is fair to recall it because it might be true, and it is illustrative of some of his ways. The story is that he had been mildly called to account for what appeared to be a rather excessive attack on the integrity of a Republican senator. He apologized, says the yarn, somewhat after this manner:

"I am sorry if anything I have said appears to reflect on the character of my distinguished friend on the other side. I know nothing whatever against him. I have no facts whatever to support any assault upon him; and I would go no further than to say that he is not one whom I would choose to have serve on the board of directors of my home town bank."—Washington Star.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ounce and use as directed. Fine particles of aged skin peel off until all defects such as pimples, liver spots, tan and freckles disappear. Skin is then soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. To remove wrinkles, use one ounce Powdered Sazelle dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. At drug stores.

Bees Made Cough Mixture

A colony of bees—three hives—kept by a farmer in the neighborhood of Campbelltown, Scotland, last summer made their cells and cell covers of a mixture of tar and wax, the former, which they collected on the main road near at hand, predominating. As might be expected, the honey in the three hives was impregnated with tar, but the bees were not in any way affected by feeding on a mixture of tar and honey. Coal tar contains among other things, saccharine, the natural food of bees. This is vouched for by Doctor Morrison in a letter to Country Life.

The United States, with about 6 per cent of the world's population, uses approximately 19 per cent of the world's annual output of commercial fertilizer and ranks second only to Germany as a producer.

The world's annual production is worth $592,235,000 on assumed values of $160 a ton for nitrogen in the warehouses of the producer, and a value of $50 a ton each for phosphoric acid and potash. The total amount of plant food used by American farmers increased 45 per cent from 1914 to 1928.

SUCH IS LIFE—Poor Junior!

Grotesque Triangle Bared in New York

Wife Mothers "Other Woman" and Her Child.

New York.—A love triangle with a grotesque twist, worthy of Freud, was revealed as Mrs. May Gledhill, a pretty Canadian, lay fighting for her life in Nassau hospital against an illness which authorities believe may have been caused by poison.

The sick woman is a native of Montreal, where she won recognition as an expert swimmer and was chosen to pose for a Canadian railway advertisement as "the ski girl." She is reported to be distantly related to Sir Robert Peel, British peer, whose wife is Beatrice Lillie, the actress.

In the modest Floral Park home from which Miss Gledhill was taken to the hospital, lives Mrs. Inez Connor, forty-eight, whose husband, William Connor, fifty-two, once a wealthy consulting engineer, is serving a sentence in Vermont state prison for forgery. And with Mrs. Connor is a pretty two-year-old boy, whom both she and Miss Gledhill call "my baby."

Miss Gledhill's Son.

The boy is the son of Connor and the Canadian girl. When Connor was sent to prison, a little over a year ago, Mrs. Connor took Miss Gledhill and her baby into her home. Together the two women had been mothering the illegitimate baby and awaiting the return of Connor from prison, until, when Miss Gledhill, who had feared deportation to Canada, mysteriously collapsed after a visit from two men who called themselves federal immigration officers. She was taken to Nassau hospital, where she refused to tell whether she had taken poison.

When the wolf and a collector arrived at the front door at the same time, both gave it up as a bad job.

Mrs. Connor, in her home, said she didn't believe "dear May" had taken poison. She said she thought she had been simply overcome by dread—that she had long feared that she might be sent back to Canada and separated from her child.

The wife revealed that since going to prison Connor has written constantly to both her and his young mistress; letters filled with tender passages.

"He informs me he is still in love with me, but he also tells May that she holds all his affections. We read each other's letters when they arrive," Mrs. Connor said. "I used to think they were both equally responsible in this affair, but after reading some of the letters he has sent to the girl I think he's more than 75 per cent to blame.

"However, I believe that May in a way is responsible for his downfall. He dissipated a once prosperous business and was driven to forgery while laboring under his infatuation for her."

How It Began.

The romance between the young woman and the engineer began in 1925, in front of the Ritz-Carlton hotel in Montreal, Mrs. Connor said. She was able to fix the date because she and her husband had just returned from a reception to the prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George.

"We were parked in our car outside the hotel," she continued, "when my husband spied Miss Gledhill. She was weeping bitterly. We accosted her and then drove her home—and that started it all.

"Soon they were conducting an affair under my very eyes," she said. "I can't blame May; she was young and innocent. It was my husband, his gifts, and attentions that turned her head. I started divorce proceedings once, but he persuades me to drop them."

Mrs. Connor said she and her son, William, Jr., were living in Greenwich, Conn., when Connor was arrested in Floral Park for the Vermont authorities. When she arrived at the jail the girl was there, too.

"I want you to take care of May and the baby," my husband said to me," Mrs. Connor continued. "I moved to Floral Park and rented this home. I love May as a mother would love a daughter."

Throughout the interview, the little boy remained by Mrs. Connor's side. She referred to him as "my baby."

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Rub Indian meal over a greasy sink and it will be much easier to clean it.

When serving a fish hold it under running water. Begin at the tail and scrape toward the head.

To get a tasteless apple sauce a good flavor, add one-eighth teaspoonful of cream of tartar to the cinnamon and sugar used.

The time allotted for the roasting of a turkey per pound is from 15 to 20 minutes, and a chicken per pound, 15 minutes.

A food chopper will not slip or move when attached to a smooth table if a small piece of sandpaper is placed under each clamp before screwing it to the table.

Salt should not be added to the water in which delicate green vegetables are cooked until they are almost done. To preserve color, greens should be cooked in an uncovered pan.

Soak brussels sprouts for one hour in four cups of water, to which one teaspoonful of salt has been added. This will draw out any little insects which may be lurking in the leaves.

The marks of matches on white paint may be removed by rubbing first with cut lemon, then with a damp cloth dipped in powdered whiting. Rinse with cold water and wipe dry with soft cloths.

Town Gives Practical Aid to Needy

The town of Redford, Mich., has devised a practical means of aiding its jobless. Besides providing clothing and food, the local community house has a shoemaker and barber, set up by the township, whose sole duty is to attend to the wants of those in need. Thus job seekers are not handicapped by a shabby appearance. The photograph shows the town shoemaker at his work.

LENDING TO FRIENDS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Emeritus Dean of Men,
University of Illinois.

"If you want to lose a friend, lend him money," some one has wisely said, and he might very sanely have continued, "If you want to throw a monkey wrench into the amicable relations between relatives, and lend to the habit of borrowing and lending be started among them."

One would suppose that there would be a much greater feeling of responsibility when an obligation is assumed with a friend or a relative, but usually quite the opposite feeling exists.

John Mason had never had anything of his own, but he had "married well," as the wife owned a good farm and had considerable other assets including money in the bank; and John himself was no spendthrift, so there was no depletion in what they possessed after the union.

His brother Joe was in a different situation. His wife was without means as was he himself, and they got on very slowly. They saw a good chance, as it seemed, to improve their condition if they could get hold of a little ready money, and what was more reasonable than to suppose that since John had it in the bank and had only to sign his name to a small piece of paper in order to get it out, that John was the open sesame to their success.

Divorce Laws Vary Widely in States

Difference in Requirements Shown in Survey.

Sacramento, Calif.—There are as many specifications for cutting the marital knot as there are states in the Union.

Lawmakers, it would appear from a survey made by the California legislative bureau, do not see alike when it comes to the question of divorce. The requirements, as a rule, are many and varied.

In Nevada, where the divorce business is considered in the light of a major industry, a marriage may be dissolved for anyone who has lived in the state six weeks. As contrasted to this, South Carolina recognizes no such thing as divorce except by special legislative act in the individual case.

In Tennessee, proceedings may be based on any one of 13 grounds, while New York and the District of Columbia recognize only a charge of infidelity, and in the latter the defendant may never remarry. In Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Tennessee, the defendant may not marry the complainant until after the death of the plaintiff—an arrangement, incidentally, which puts a premium on the disappearance of the innocent party.

While these points would indicate that the disagreement over divorce details is general, the survey points out that the states do agree on certain matters.

With only a few notable exceptions, the states agree that the parties must have resided in the state for at least one year.

The exceptions come from Nevada, with its six weeks' stay, and Idaho, asking a three months' residence, and Massachusetts, which requires only three years' residence, and which recognizes five years' residence.

The survey indicates there is a definite consensus concerning causes for divorces as outlined by the statutes. Thirty-seven states, at least seven grounds, and only four, in addition to the District of Columbia, recognize less than five.

Eleven states apparently have no sympathy for the defendant by setting up restrictions concerning the right to remarry which do not apply to the plaintiff.

More People, Speedier Money
The more densely populated a locality the more rapid will be the velocity of circulation, because there will be readier access to people from whom money is received or to whom it is paid. A lady who has a city house and a country house states that in the country she keeps her money in her purse for weeks, whereas in the city she keeps it but a few days.

Boys who augment the family income in the poorer sections of New York city by selling and delivering small quantities of wood for use in fireplaces use a special nomenclature in their trade. To them wood is not pine, oak, ash—but "log wood," designating pieces chopped from waste construction material or old boxes, or else "tree wood," meaning untrimmed pieces as they come from trees.
