

Donkey Leads a Blind Race Horse

STORY FOR YOUNG FOLKS

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

JOHNNY CHUCK GETS HIS NOSE PINCHED

DOWN from the Northland one stilly night while the little stars looked down from the sky and twinkled cam-Jack Frost. He came silently and he worked silently in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows. He opened the chestnut burrs and the walnut husks. He painted the leaves of the maple trees and the beech trees and the birch trees and the sumacs and all the other trees except these which keep green all winter, and he pinched the stems so that the first Merry Little Breeze would shake them from the trees in showers of red and gold and brown. He covered the Green Meadows with a thin white sheet which people call by his own name—frost. All this he did in the stilly night, and then he made ready to race away back where he had come from as soon as jolly, round, red Mr. Sun should kick off his blankets and begin his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky.

Peter Rabbit and Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote and Lightfoot the Deer and Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter and Jerry Muskrat and Paddy the Beaver and Buster Bear and Hooty the Owl, who, as you know, are usually abroad in the night, knew what was going on. On the whole, they were rather glad to welcome Jack Frost, for they had new tick coats to keep them warm. But Johnny Chuck and Happy Jack Squirrel and all the other little people who curl up in their beds and sleep through the night as people are supposed to do, knew nothing of the coming of Jack Frost until they awoke just at the break of day. Then when they poked their noses out of their houses Jack Frost slyly pinched them ever so gently by way of introducing himself.

Now Johnny Chuck was, as you know, very fat, very fat indeed. For weeks he had been eating all that he could. He had been stuffing himself just to make fat so that he might sleep through the long winter in comfort. Of late he had been getting very sleepy. Fat people usually are sleepy. So Johnny Chuck had been going to bed much earlier than he did in the summer and finding it harder to get up early in the morning. On this particular morning somehow he didn't want to get up at all. He stretched and yawned and tried to make up his mind that he was fat enough.

But he remembered what Sammy Jay had told him of how Jerry Muskrat and Paddy the Beaver were preparing for a long hard winter and of how old Mother Nature had given Reddy and Granny Fox and Buster Bear and Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter extra thick coats.

"I may as well eat a little more while I can, and so make sure that I have fat enough to carry me through in case Mistress Spring happens to be late in coming back," thought he. "I guess perhaps today will be the last day I will have to eat. I'm getting tired of eating. Seems to me I never was so sleepy in all my life."

He yawned and stretched again, then very slowly crawled out of bed and started up his long hall to his doorway. He was still blinking as he poked his little black nose outside. Now Jack Frost had lingered just as long as he could, for the Jolly Little Sunbeams were already hurrying across the Green Meadows, and Jack Frost knew that he was not yet strong enough to face them. He was just getting ready to leave in a hurry when he saw Johnny Chuck's little black nose poking out of his doorway. The temptation was too great to resist. Jack Frost paused just long enough to reach out and gently pinch that little black nose.

"Ouch!" said Johnny Chuck and pulled his nose back. Inside his hall it was as comfortable as ever, and so he sat there for some time staring out and trying to get his sleepy wits together. He had half a mind to turn right around and go back to bed. At last a Jolly Sunbeam crept in. This decided matters for Johnny. He would at least go out and see how things looked. Out he went and sat up on his doorstep, jolly, round Mr. Sun smiled down on him, but somehow Johnny couldn't find any warmth in that smile. He looked this way and that way and saw what Jack Frost had been doing. He looked over to the nearest clover patch, and somehow it didn't make him the least tiny bit hungry. Then, right then, he made up his mind.

"I'm fat enough!" said he. Turning, he kicked up his little black heels and disappeared inside his house. Peter Rabbit came along just in time to see those black heels vanish.

"I do believe," said he, "that Johnny Chuck has gone to bed for the winter." Peter was right, Johnny Chuck had.

Inca Gold Excavated

TASTY LITTLE SARDINE

THE little silvery herring which we call sardine comes from the coast of Maine.

We do not serve this delightful little fish often enough to learn of the number of dishes which it may add to our list of good things. How about a rarebit? Everybody likes a rarebit.

Sardine Rarebit.

Mix two tablespoonfuls of melted butter with half a pound of rich cheese grated or broken into bits. Stir constantly while it melts, then add one egg beaten and diluted with two-thirds of a cupful of cream. Stir until smooth, season with paprika, a small pinch of salt and a few drops of tabasco sauce. Drain a box of sardines, broil them on slices of toast and pour over the hot rarebit. Serve at once.

One may buy the sardines put up in oil, or in tomato sauce, or "done" in mustard, so all tastes may be served and given a variety.

Curried Sardines.

Mix one teaspoonful each of sugar and curry powder, adding a pinch of salt. Put these into a saucepan with one cupful of cream and a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Stir until hot, then drop in a dozen sardines. In another pan heat some butter, and in it saute slices of bread large enough to hold a sardine and a slice of apple. Pour some of the hot apple sauce over each and serve.

Sardine sandwiches are probably the most popular way of serving this little fish, next to serving them as they come from the tin, with a bit of lemon and bread and butter. How would you like to try:

Sardines on Toast.

This is a most delightful dish for Sunday night supper or in fact for any day in the week. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, stir until smooth and browned slightly, then add a half cupful of good soup stock; stir until thick, add a cupful of sardines from which the skin and bones have been removed and serve over rounds of hot buttered toast.

OUR GLASSES

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

OH, THE glasses we wear we consider with care, Yes, the glasses we wear on our eyes, For we measure and test and decide on the best In a way that is cautious and wise— But the rest Of our glasses we never surmise.

Yet we look all the day all at life all the way Through the glasses we wear on the mind. Some with glasses of hate make the little hurts great; There are some so exceedingly blind Here of late That they seem to see only behind.

But the best sort of glass shows each blossom you pass, Sees the past, and a little ahead, Makes the mean rather small, makes the kind rather tall, Makes the highway more easy to tread—

After all Makes the world just as good as God said.

One of Captain Kidd's haunts ashore was the Penobscot Bay region of Maine. The bay, about midway between Kittery and Lubec on the coast, thrusts itself inland from the ocean for 30 miles as far as Bucksport, where it narrows to form the mouth of the Penobscot river. Its widest expanse, between Rockland and the southern end of Deer Isle, is about 20 miles.

ONE-FOURTH OF NET RECEIPTS FROM SALE OF FOREST PRODUCTS RETURNED TO STATES

The distribution to the states of 25% of the net receipts from the sale of forest products, rentals of summer home sites, etc. on all the National Forests in the Lake states has recently been completed, according to advice received from the regional fiscal agent, said G. K. Fenger, Forest Supervisor. Under the law 25% of the net receipts collected is returned to the state in which the National Forest is located to be expended for the state legislature may prescribe for the benefit of the public schools and public roads of the county or counties in which the forest is situated. Most states have provided that a further distribution of this fund shall be made to the counties in which the forest is located, in proportion to the net acreage of forest land within each county.

The amount paid to Michigan, $464,23, is the lowest in the last five years. This is due to the fact that all logging operations have been closed down during the business depression. Collections from the sale of stumpage have been very small and limited practically to fuel wood. As business conditions improve the revenues in which the state will participate will increase, concluded Mr. Fenger.

The "Seven Arts"

The term, "Seven Arts," had its origin in the list of what in the Middle Ages were considered the principal branches of learning, but of course, today our ideas of art are considerably different. The "Seven Arts" as set forth originally were grammar, logic, rhetoric, arithmetic, geometry, music and astronomy.—Kansas City Times.

Old Norman Trees

A tree census of Normandy disclosed the fact that there are many multi-centenarians in the forests. A yew tree in the village cemetery of Saint Ursin (Manche) was planted 900 years ago. There is also a colossal yew tree 32 feet around at Blondiere which is known to have been growing in the Seventh century.

Electrical Execution

The electric chair as a method of capital punishment is about forty years old. The first man to be executed by this method was William Kemmler. Electric power companies were terrified that the advertisement of the deadly powers of electricity would seriously hinder their progress.

Not Connected With Town

Those who attempt to connect the origin of the phrase "go to Halifax" with Halifax in Nova Scotia are on the wrong track. That town was not founded until 1749, years after the phrase was popular in England, when it was established as a rival to the French town of Louisburg in Cape Breton and named after the second earl of Halifax, then president of the board of trade and plantations.

Halo Long Employed

There is evidence that aureoles or halos were in use in earliest times as an attribute to the deities. Aureoles have been found with the pictures of the gods on some of the coins of the Indian kings Kanishka, Huvishka and Vasudeva, 58 B. C. to A. D. 41. They are also found in the depiction of Egyptian deities, from which their use spread to the Greeks and Romans.

Ancient Glass Painter

M. Herbe, in his "Histoire des Beaux Arts," names a monk, Roger, who in the Eleventh century won distinction from the beauty of the windows which he painted in Rheims.

WASTE LAND USEFUL FOR RECREATIONAL PURPOSES

Return to the tax rolls of all the lands under the jurisdiction of the State Department of Conservation would make an appreciable difference in the state's tax load, George R. Hogarth, director, said recently. He pointed out that practically all of the department controlled lands are in northern Michigan where acre values are low. He said that even if an assessment valuation of $3 per acre were allowed for the 2,000,000 acres under his department's jurisdiction, the shifting of assessments over the state would be only 1-15th of one per cent.

On the other hand, he asserted, these lands are highly valuable for recreational development which will later return compensation to the state.

"The planting of new forests and the protection and management of young volunteer growth to become merchantable and otherwise progressively more valuable, illustrates the creation and development of such values," he said.

"To maintain adequate park facilities, dependably good fishing and hunting, and an inviting forest region to attract an increasing amount of recreation business from our own and neighboring states, is more of the same sort of construction; more correctly reconstruction in the wild land districts is the main business of the conservation department and the principal hope of bringing the tax reverted cutover land into early and productive use."

Picnic of the Dead

One of the strangest sights in the world is on a mountain top of Luzon, Philippine islands. Fully clothed, and sitting in groups of from 10 to 25 each, there are hundreds of bodies of Igorots which have been mummified by the hot, dry air—their method of burial. It resembles a vast picnic.—Collier's Weekly

Old Testament Dates

New discoveries in the East are revising some of the Old Testament dates. Jericho was destroyed about the middle of the late Bronze age (B. C. 1400), and the brick walls did lie down flat as a result of earth tremors.

Is It Possible?

Jud Tunkins says the next time he sees a college professor, he's going to ask him whether in history, as far back as wrote up, there was ever a tax plan that gave entire satisfaction to everybody.—Washington Star.

"Prince of Rails"

Robert Todd Lincoln, the eldest son of President Lincoln, was facetiously known as the "prince of Rails," the title being a pun on the prince of Wales and alluding to his father's rail-splitting experiences.

Military Funerals

For a military funeral, officer's escort consists of the band, the body bearers, firing party and trumpeter. The size of the escort is in accordance with the rank of the officer. The escort of enlisted men consists of body bearers, firing party and trumpeter. The vehicle which carries the casket is the caisson. The casket is draped with a flag whenever one is available.

Extreme Northern Park

The farthest north of all the national parks of the United States is Mount McKinley park, entrance to which is by automobile from the Alaskan railroad station at the base camp on the Savage river. Wild game abounds—mountain sheep, caribou, moose, fox, bear and smaller animals.

Lake Dwellings

The name "lake dwelling" is applied to human habitations built usually upon foundations of piles or posts, but also constructed of trunks of trees, brush, earth or stone, and erected on the shallow borders of lakes, rivers and other inland waters. These structures abounded in Switzerland and adjacent parts of Italy, France and Germany in the Stone and Bronze ages, but are known to have existed in many other parts of the world.

World's Population

The total population of the world is about two billion and it is estimated that women slightly outnumber the men. There are no exact statistics.
