GEORGE ARLISS MOVES UP A PEG IN RANK IN "THE KING'S VACATION"

In his recent screen characterizations, George Arliss has been a captain of industry, a world famous banker, a gifted musician, a secretary of the treasury, an East Indian potentate and a prime minister.

His greatest success has been as a prime minister. Now he has moved up a peg in the cinematic social scale. He is a king in his latest Warner Bros. picture, "The King's Vacation," on the screen at the Family Theatre, East Tawas, next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 2, 3 and 4.

In fact it is around his giving up of his kingly prerogatives that the story of "The King's Vacation" is written in a highly humorous vein by Ernest Pascal, with the comedy spiced with delightful romance.

Among the players in support of Mr. Arliss are Dick Powell, Patricia Ellis, Dudley Digges, O. P. Heggie, Marjorie Gateson and Florence Arliss.

Poorer Than Poverty

"He who has only empty words to offer in sympathy with need," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "is poorer than Poverty herself." — Washington Star.

G. K. Fenger, supervisor of the Huron National Forest, received word yesterday that arrangements had been made for the transportation of 400 men next week from Camp Custer to Tawas for work in the National forest here. This is the first group of the 800 men who will be employed in the forest during the coming summer.

Supervisor Fenger states that the men will be allocated to four camps to be established at Gordon Creek, Bryant, McKinley and Luzerne. The camps will be constructed by the War Department and the men will be under the complete supervision of that department. Three army officers and a medical officer will be in charge of each camp.

Capt. Godwin and Liaison Officer John McLaren of the Sixth Army Corps headquarters at Chicago were here Friday making an inspection and preliminary survey of the sites of the proposed camps. Each camp will consist of six barracks, a mess hall, headquarters building, sick bay, store house, garage, fire station, pump and lighting plant house. Each will be equipped with electric lights, shower baths and other things necessary for the health and convenience of the men in camp.

In recruiting Michigan's contingent for the forest conservation corps, each county has been assigned a quota on a population basis. The quota for the northern counties will be small as Michigan's total quota is only 9,750. The men are enlisted for a period of six months at $30.00 per month. Each man must agree to make an allotment of $25.00 per month to dependents. In addition to the pay, the men will be provided with clothing, food, housing and medical attention. All will be expected to comply with rules and regulations laid down by the War Department.

One hundred fifty experienced woodsmen will also be enrolled by Supervisor Fenger for work in the forest. These men will be taken from the district in which the work is being done. No age limit is required in this group.

Supervisor Fenger said yesterday that a complete work plan for each camp had been prepared. It will include thinning in plantations and natural tree stands, removal of fire hazards, construction and maintenance of roads and fire lines and the instruction of telephone lines and towers. In addition to improving the National forest and increasing the tree plantations, this program, when completed, will make the forest more attractive for tourists, hunters and fishermen visiting this section and thus be of immediate benefit to one of our principal industries.

School Notes

High School
The following have been placed on the honor roll for the preceding month: Martha Becker, Gertrude Bessey, Patricia Braddock, Vernon Davis, Robert Hamilton, Albertine Herman, Leonard Hoshack, Sylvia Koskie, Arlene Leslie, Dora Mark, Arnold McLean, Nelda Mueller, Lois Nelem, Ernest Wegner.

The following pupils have been placed on the perfect attendance list for the year: Percy Cox, Earl Davis, Rose DePotty, Ernest Wegner, Walter Wegner, Arthur Ziehl.

The Senior girls will present "No Men Admitted" at the State Theatre Tuesday evening, May 9, at 8:15. The price of admission is 10, 20 and 30 cents. The net proceeds will be used to help defray the cost of Commencement. Come and enjoy an hour and a half, and also help a good cause.

Reliable information shows that as much money is spent each year in the United States to replace broken dishes as is spent to replace worn-out school books. The same information shows that more paper is burned in the smoking of cigars.

BEER NOT TO BE SOLD IN MICHIGAN'S STATE PARKS

When beer becomes legal in Michigan it will not be sold in Michigan's state parks, the Conservation Commission ruled at its April meeting.

Beer will be permitted in the parks if it is brought there by visitors and campers but concessions will not dispense it.

The action was taken by the Commission, according to P. J. Hoffmaster, superintendent of state parks, because of the fact that a large percentage of the millions of park visitors are children.

If picnicers and campers wish to bring beer into the parks they will find no objection on the part of park authorities so long as it is not connected with any disorderliness, the Parks division superintendent said.

NOTICE

We will open our furniture store in the Tait building opposite high school, East Tawas, May 3rd. We have a very good selection of used furniture at remarkably low prices. Furniture for bargains. Dan Phipps.

TROUT FISHING SEASON WILL OPEN ON MAY 1st

May 1st has come to mean more than just the date of opening the trout fishing season in Michigan. It is also the day which starts the tourist season and brings strangers into the regions noted for their recreational advantages.

This year, due to the activity of the West Branch Trout League and the Michigan legislature, May 1 has been given some rather unusual publicity and there has been an awakening to the fact that along with the ducks, geese and other birds, the fishermen are preparing to migrate.

Hundreds of streams which have been closed for the past few years closed to fishermen are again open and it is expected that Northern Michigan will entertain the largest influx of fishermen the region has had in a number of years.

Trout fishermen are a hardy lot and usually will accept the spirit of the camp, but they will naturally react to the hospitality afforded them by the residents of the communities which they visit.

The people of Northern Michigan can well afford to have the latch string ready for the fishermen, make them feel at home and ready to recommend to their friends that Northern Michigan is "the place" to enjoy outdoor recreation.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

The Twentieth Century Club met at the City Hall on Saturday, April 22, with 29 members present. An invitation was received from the Ladies Literary Club of East Tawas inviting the local club to be their guests on May 10th.

BEET GROWERS HELD TWO MEETINGS FRIDAY

Meetings were held Friday at Whittemore and Alabaster to secure beet acreage for the proposed sugar plant which would be built by the Arenac Sugar Beet Growers Association and located at Augres or Omer. About 7000 acres of the necessary 8000 have been contracted.

James M. Gorsline, Arenac county agricultural agent, was the speaker and gave an outline of the work accomplished. He said that the association is traveling an untrod path and that progress was slow but no setbacks had been encountered. He explained that the work of building the plant would be financed by a loan from the R. F. C. which would be repaid from profits of the plant during a period of five years.

The next meeting of the Association will be held at East Tawas.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET WELL ATTENDED

About 125 mothers and daughters attended a six o'clock pot luck dinner sponsored by the Ladies Literary Club at the American Legion Hall, East Tawas, on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Ed. Pierson, president of the club, opened the program with a speech of welcome to the mothers and their guests.

Miss Gravy of Alpena gave a very interesting talk on Girl Scouts. Mrs. Prout of Wakefield, State President of Clubs, was also present, and gave a talk to mothers which was very much enjoyed.

EAST TAWAS SCHOOL NEWS

Helen Nielsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Nielsen of East Tawas, is declared valedictorian of this year's graduating class. In three and one-half years Helen accumulated twenty-six A's and six B's. Three years ago Helen's sister, Geraldine, was valedictorian with a record of all A's.

Evelyn Katterman of the Hemlock Road has the second best record in the class and therefore is salutatorian. Evelyn spent her ninth grade year in the Vine school but in two and one-half years in the East Tawas high school accumulated twelve A's and eight B's. Jane Weed is third, Arlene Curry is fourth, and Helen Gottleber is fifth.

Twenty-three will graduate this year if all continue in their studies as they are now doing. Of the twenty-three seniors nine are out-of-town students. Miss Huhtala is the class adviser.

NEW SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED BY MICHIGAN STATE ALUMNI

Michigan State College alumni clubs and alumni committees all over the state have started an annual program which will culminate in the awarding of thirty-two alumni undergraduate scholarships before the close of accredited high schools this spring.

"These annual awards," according to Glen O. Stewart, alumni secretary at Michigan State, "will make it possible for one outstanding student from each senatorial district in the state to enter Michigan State College who otherwise would be financially unable to consider a college education during these times of economic stress." The scholarships amount to a waiver by the College of all course fees for the first year.

Last year applications were numerous from Crawford, Oscoda, Alcona, Roscommon, Ogemaw, Iosco, Oscoda, Clare, Gladwin and Arenac counties, which are included in senatorial district number 28. The award was made to Wayne Stuve, Harrisville.

Applications from the above counties are now being filed with Hugo T. Swanson, superintendent at East Tawas. Other members of the committee are: (Turn to No. 3, back page)

GAS-WEIGHT TAX MONEY IS DELAYED

According to a letter just received from the State Highway Department, the counties will receive no payment on the gas and weight tax for some time. The State advises that they do not know when any payment can be made to the counties because of the fact that "the State administration of all institutions and departments depends upon the return by the counties of the state property tax as collected. With the present high rate of delinquency and the unfortunate banking conditions, only a very small part of the state tax money is being paid in by the counties. Undoubtedly some of the collections constitute county frozen deposits in impaired banks. Nevertheless, failure to make these funds available to the state has resulted in a condition causing the State to use its other revenues to meet the cost of government administration. Out of a total state tax of $24,500,000 of which approximately $19,000,000 should have been paid in at this date, only about $8,000,000 has actually been received."

Under these conditions the County Road Commission may not be able to properly maintain the roads as it is impossible to operate without money, especially when there is little assurance that anything will be paid within the next few months. Even if these payments should have been made they would probably have been small on account of the greatly decreased receipts in the sale of both license plates and gas. This will also deprive many of a few days' work they might have received in the various townships if this money had been available.

A limited amount of dragging and patching will be carried on in an effort to protect the counties' investment in roads, although it is possible that those who use the roads will have to shoulder a little more expense in car operation over somewhat rougher roads than usual. Many urgent jobs on township and county roads and bridges will have to go undone.

Word has also been received that several members of the Administrative Board are opposed to the use of calcium chloride on the trunk lines this year. Concerning this Mr. Dillman has the following to say:

"Personally, I feel that this is one of the last things that should be discontinued. It will cost about $750,000 to do the job complete this year but if we discontinue the laying of dust on gravel roads, it will render about 4000 miles of trunk line highways in a dangerous and hazardous condition. It will cost as much or more to recondition the gravel roads and to replace the binder material and gravel than the cost of these chloride applications and I believe it will cost many times the price of laying the dust in losses to the state on account of Michigan being a great tourist state during the summer. I think it will be a severe blow, especially to the northern two-thirds of the state."

GREENBUSH INN WILL BE OPENED MAY 30th

Carl E. Schmidt is preparing to operate Greenbush Inn at full blast this season. The Inn will open May 30 and be under the management of S. Ogden Chadwick, who was for twenty years connected with the Thomas Hotels of Gainesville, Florida.

LEE TRACY LEARNS LINES BY LAUGHTER

Laughter is Lee Tracy's formula for everything. The actor, playing the fast-moving news correspondent in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Clear All Wires," showing Sunday and Monday at the Family Theatre, East Tawas, has this philosophy so worked out that it's not only his panacea for all ills—but his working rules for any task.

"You can't respect troubles that you can laugh at—and if you don't respect them they won't trouble you," says Lee. For instance, he was handed a script with long speeches, and told to learn them by morning. "I looked at 'em and saw the funny side of 'em," he declared. "Once you laugh at something, you remember it. So it was a cinch. I had every line down pat."

Lee Tracy's experiences in life have been many. He was a lieutenant in the army. He's been a vaudeville star and a stage celebrity. He's Hildy Johnson in "The Front Page," is a stage classic. "Oh Promise Me," "Doctor X," and other footlight hits were followed by screen triumphs in "Private Jones," "Washington Merry-Go-Round," "Doctor X," and "Blessed Event" among others.

Study Sitting Bull's Own Story of His Life

Museum Claims Hieroglyphs Bear His Signature.

Washington, D. C.—Curious documents relating to Sitting Bull, the celebrated chieftain who generally is held responsible for the so-called "Custer massacre," are being studied by the bureau of American ethnology of the Smithsonian institution.

The story of this colorful Indian leader is now arousing exceptional interest in Europe. Numerous inquiries have lately been received from France, England, and Germany.

The bureau has one manuscript which bears strong internal evidence of being an original and hitherto unknown hieroglyph autobiography prepared by Sitting Bull himself. Matthew W. Stirling, chief of the bureau, is now investigating the authenticity of this manuscript which, if it actually was prepared by the chief, shows him to have been a skillful artist.

Autobiography in Pictures.

It is well known that the great Sioux leader wished to leave an authentic story of his life. Shortly after the Civil war he prepared his first "autobiography" in pictures. He could not write his name at this time but authenticated each drawing with his hieroglyphic signature, a conventionalized picture of a sitting bull. He gave the original manuscript to his brother, Jumping Bull, who—as the story reaches Mr. Stirling—allowed two copies to be made of it by an Indian named Four Horns.

The bureau of American ethnology has one of these reputed copies. The other is believed to have been destroyed in the San Francisco fire. No trace ever has been found of the original. The copy owned by the Smithsonian is mounted on sheets of an 1868 muster roll of the Thirty-first Infantry regiment and evidently was made for one of its officers. It consists of 55 pictures, each illustrating some incident in Sitting Bull's life from his first fight to his leadership of the Band of Strong Hearts.

The bureau also has Sitting Bull's own interpretation of these pictures, given to Rev. J. C. Williamson, a missionary, in which he vouched that all but a few of them were copies of his originals. He believed at that time that Jumping Bull had interpolated a few incidents out of his own life.

Sitting Bull's "Coups."

The character of the man himself stands out in these pictures. Nearly all of them relate to personal combats with Crow or Gros Ventre Indians or white soldiers. Many of these fights ended with the scalp of his opponent hanging from Sitting Bull's saddle. But he was even prouder of his "coups" than of the scalps he had taken. His object was to touch the enemy with his "coup stick" and get away. In accord with the tradition of his people, this life of constant killing and scalping was a game for Sitting Bull and every "coup" added one to his score. He esteemed a "coup" about as much as a scalp.

It is as an object of comparison that the bureau's manuscript stands out. It bears the date of 1882. Instead of the hieroglyphic signature the pictures bear the written signature of Sitting Bull—a peculiar, child-like scrawl. It has been verified that before 1882 Sitting Bull had learned to write his name and was rather proud of the accomplishment.

Specimens of the old chief's signature have been preserved. Comparson with the signatures on the drawings shows that if the latter are forgeries they are very clever ones—reproducing minute mannerisms. But, asks Mr. Stirling, why should anybody have gone to such trouble to forge the name of Sitting Bull in 1882? At that time he was "just another Indian." It would have been a very far-sighted person who could have predicted that some day an authentic autobiography by him would constitute an almost priceless historical document. On the whole, it is believed, the evidence points to the authenticity of the newly discovered document.

Police Arrest Woman, 71, as Reckless Driver

Pueblo, Colo.—Police Judge C. V. Marmaduke isn't so sure that it is all the "younger generation" when it comes to joy rides.

Officers arrested H. R. Newhouse, sixty-nine, and Mrs. Ellen Ogden, seventy-one, and charged the couple with drunkenness. In addition they charged Mrs. Ogden with reckless driving.

Officers said the automobile driven by the elderly woman narrowly avoided crashing into a police car, and did finally collide with a parked automobile.

Wife Investigates; Is Knocked Out by Burglar

Stockton, Calif.—When Charles H. Huston arrived home early in the morning, he found his wife unconscious on the floor with a swollen jaw. When she regained consciousness she related that, hearing a noise, she arose to investigate and encountered a burglar, who struck her. She had been "out" for about fifteen minutes, she estimated.

44 Legislatures Reduce Expenses

More Than $200,000,000 Was Lopped From Budgets.

Washington, D. C.—Legislatures in 44 states which met this year cut tax-payers $5,875,230 in salaries and effected savings estimated at more than $200,000,000, a survey revealed.

The salaries were paid to 6,687 legislators. Incidental expenses for legislative sessions bring the total above $11,000,000. In four states—Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Virginia—no legislative sessions were held.

Twenty-four states paid legislators on a work-day basis ranging from $3 to $15 per day. The larger figure is paid in Arizona and the lower in Kansas, Michigan, and Oregon. The remaining twenty states paid their representatives a set amount a session, ranging from $200 for New Hampshire to $3,500 for Illinois and $3,000 for Pennsylvania.

Legislative experts computed that $100,000,000 had already been saved to taxpayers, although 32 legislatures

Nuisance May Become Source of New Industry

Minneapolis, Minn.—The aspen growth of the Northwest, hitherto regarded as a nuisance by farmers, may become the source of a new industry and give Minnesota a new source of income.

Experiments conducted at the University of Minnesota under the auspices of Ralph E. Montonna, associate professor of chemistry, show that a high grade of alpha cellulose can be made from the aspen. Alpha cellulose is used in the manufacture of cellophane and rayon fabric.

The research was conducted as part of the rehabilitation program instituted last summer by Lotus D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota.

Catching Sap on Coolidge Sugar Lot

The coming of spring is the signal for the maple trees to begin yielding their maple sugar sap. And so the old sugar lot of the late Calvin Coolidge once more takes on an active appearance. It was at this same old sugar lot that the late President and his father, Col. John Coolidge, worked year after year gathering the sap and boiling it down into maple sugar. It may be spring but still three feet of snow covers the ground. Here are the oxen dragging the maple sap to the sugar house for boiling down.

Mothers Baby Rats With Her Kittens

Henryetta, Okla.—An ordinary black and yellow speckled house cat has adopted two rats to raise along with her brood of four kittens at the Miracle Sweet Feed mill here.

E. A. Croom, part owner of the mill, found a nest of young rats in the building. Intending to furnish a wholesome meal for the mother cat and her four young ones, Croom placed the baby rats in the cat's pen.

Instead of devouring them, however, the sympathetic cat promptly began to mother them.

New Spanish Justice Is Slow, Records Indicate

Madrid.—Justice moves unusually slowly in Spain and there are persons who have been under arrest since the proclamation of the republic, April 14, 1931, without trial.

The principal prisoner of this type is Gen. Damaso Berenguer y Fuste, premier of Spain from January 28, 1930, to February 14, 1931. He is held in connection with the "responsibility" investigation of the execution of Capt. Fermin Galan and Garcia Hernandez at Jaca in the December, 1930, republican uprising. Berenguer has been held on various occasions in the Madrid military jail in a castle at Segovia, and has also been allowed to remain under arrest at his home, where he now is.

In their cells in the Madrid jail still are the three Miralles brothers, ardent monarchists, who were arrested during the excitement around the ABC building on May 10, 1931. On that occasion a mob attempted to burn the monarchical newspaper. Police and civil guards intervened. Shots were fired. Two persons were killed. Various monarchists were arrested and all eventually released except the Miralles brothers, although there are no definite charges docked against them.

Normandy does more than sit around and dream of the long ago. Through Havre, second seaport of France; through Cherbourg, it saw some of the legions pass to the western front. It has greeted kings and queens, admirals and generals, and heard the roar of cannon salutes, the hum of sky craft. Through these ports today pass travelers from the western world, and processions of consuls, agents, buyers, salesmen, ambassadors of commerce of every kind—hunters all, scenting the romance and adventure in foreign trade, in anything from anchovies to antiques.

Dress designers, looking to Paris for the first and last word on fashions, send "scouts" to the golden beaches of Deauville and its less aristocratic vis-a-vis, Trouville. Here, where the beau monde disports itself in season beneath gaily striped tents, at the casinos, along the promenades, and at the races, the gods and goddesses of style display their latest creations on beautiful women.

Back from white chalk cliffs and sandy beaches stretches a green and pleasant land of winding streams, fertile grain fields and pastures, hedgerows, orchards, well-kept farms, and villages of thatched cottages. There are hills and dales and glens, forests and waterfalls, and the typically Norman long, straight roads.

Idle Filipinos Go Home Seeking Work on Farms

San Francisco.—Large numbers of Filipinos are leaving the United States to replace Japanese workers on Mindanao island, southern Philippines, according to Gabriel O. Arellano, president of the Filipino national convention in America.

Many of the Japanese farmers on Mindanao island have left at the invitation of their government to settle in Manchuria, Arellano said. Their places are being taken by Filipinos, who have had to leave the United States because of unemployment conditions, he said.

"Of the 45,200 Filipinos in the continental United States, about 20,000 are unemployed and eager to return to their homeland," Arellano said. Many of them have been advanced money by the Mindanao Development corporation, a Filipino organization of Sacramento, Calif., he revealed. The company sells them land on Mindanao island on easy terms and aids them in developing the production of rubber, copra, and sugar.

Normandy Dons Festival Attire

Greets Spring With Quaint Age-Old Ceremonies.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

NORMANDY is planning for apple blossom time. Like Winchester, in the Valley of Virginia, and other great apple-growing regions of America, Normandy fares forth in festival attire when the buds of its famous apple trees burst in the spring.

While the French are largely a wine-imbibing people, the natives of Normandy drink apple cider. There, you can't eat a meal without cider, you can't be born without cider, and you can't get married or die without cider. The old duchy, slightly smaller than the state of Maryland, is one huge orchard.

Even "When it's apple blossom time in Normandy," however, the duchy has many world-famous spots that also attract the attention of the traveler—Rouen, Deauville, Cherbourg, Havre, Bayeux, Honfleur, Dieppe, Falaise, Alencon.

Northmen swooping down, raiding, destroying, but finally settling on the land and giving it a softened form of their name; stalwart son of duke and tanner's daughter crossing the channel to make world history at Hastings; Norman dukes reigning in England; the king of the English reigning in Normandy. Armored knights clanking about, in London, Sicily, Naples, at the tomb of Christ. The Maid burnt at the stake. Daring sons of Normandy roaming the seas to fish, to explore and colonize unknown lands, from Newfoundland to the Antarctic, to the South Seas, around the world. Normans building lordly castles, chateaux, cathedrals, and abbeys of distinctive "Norman architecture," painting pictures, writing poetry, plays, and novels of enduring fame. Poussin and Millet, Pierre Corneille, Alain Chartier and Malherbe, Flaubert, De Maupassant, and others—a Norman galaxy.

Normandy does more than sit around and dream of the long ago. Through Havre, second seaport of France; through Cherbourg, it saw some of the legions pass to the western front. It has greeted kings and queens, admirals and generals, and heard the roar of cannon salutes, the hum of sky craft. On an early visit to England, the future Conqueror found Normans everywhere. There were "Norman" prelates in the bishoprics, Norman lords and soldiers in the fortresses, Norman captains and sailors in the seaports. The Conquest itself affected every phase of England's national activities, especially its political and social institutions. One writer has called attention to the fact that for more than 800 years the British parliament has used Norman French when imploring the king to approve or reject its laws.

Though the old Norse language died out quickly in Normandy, it left tokens of its Scandinavian origin in such place names as Dieppe, "deep"; in Harfleur and Barfleur, fleur, the Norse flote, meaning "small river"; in Yvetot, Ivo's "toft" or "inclosure." Another proof that this is the land of William the Conqueror lies in the fair-haired Scandinavian types which persist to this day in various districts.

As to the origin of the Norman's inclination to "hedge" on every question, let historians argue as they will, but it is a fact that one must usually labor hard to extract a plain yes or no from him. "Was the apple crop large this year?" You ask. His classic reply is: "Well, for a good apple year, it is not too good; but for a bad apple year, it is not too bad."

The tendency to avail himself of subtle distinctions may account for the Norman's reputation as a somewhat grasping character, and his fondness for legal forms and lawsuits has earned for him and his fellows the title of "the lawyers of France."

For all that, the Norman has his own traditions of fun and good fellowship. Remember, he likes his cider! And never Norman more so than one Oliver Basselin, he of the red nose, who sang songs in praise of hard cider long before Villon roistered and recited in Paris wine shops. Basselin ran a fulling mill near the little valley known as Vaux de Vire. From it his songs took their name, and these, in turn, gave rise to the corrupted term "vaudeville."

Natural Curiosity.

Thirty miles southwest of Vire, as the crow flies, on the border between Normandy and Brittany, towers the duchy's most imposing natural curiosity and its finest coastal monument of the Middle Ages—stupendous Mont Saint Michel. It is a granite islet 3,000 feet in circumference, girt with immense walls and towers, plastered with houses climbing up its sides, and the whole crowned with an ancient abbey, shrine of the Archangel Michael, saint of high places. Lovers of the unique find in its historical associations, in the grandeur of its outward aspect, an appeal and a fascination similar to those of Carcassonne.

East of Vire is Falaise, where Robert the Devil, the Magnificent, looked out of the castle window and saw Arlette, the tanner's daughter. Another story goes that he first saw her washing clothes at the fountain one day when he was returning from the chase. However, it was, her "pretty feet twinkling in the brook" led to her becoming the mother of the Conqueror.

North of Falaise is Caen, a Norman Athens and unrivaled center for the study of Norman art. Here the Normans' extraordinary faculty for adaptation appears at its best. Though they invented little that was new, they adopted from other countries, developed and improved. French language and literature, French feudal doctrines, and Romanesque architecture in particular bear the stamp of their genius. In Norman hands this architectural form from northern Italy became a distinctive, living thing, marked by great size, simplicity, and massiveness, and love of geometric ornament. The two abbeys founded here by the Conqueror and his wife are superb examples of the architecture which preceded the rise of the early Gothic in the Thirteenth century, and which also crossed the channel even before the Conquest.

The Conqueror was buried in one of these abbeys, and Matilda, his cousin-wife, in the other. Both were built with the hope of conciliating the pope regarding their marriage.

What a courtship was William's! A seven-year siege of Matilda's hand, disdain from the lady, slights not to be endured, and finally a wrathful lover rushing into Matilda's presence, seizing her by the hair, dragging her about the room, striking her, flinging her to the floor. After that she said yes!

Johnny's Persuasion

"IT'S a funny thing," said the cook, beating mashed potatoes to a creamy frothiness. "It's a funny thing that the doctor, bless his heart, is such a swell man to work for, and the idol of all his patients, and is such a devil in his own house."

"Oh, hush up, Mrs. Carey," said Molly, the maid. "Hurry up with them potatoes. I want to take in this course. They're licking up your soup like they always do, I suppose."

"Hello, Mrs. Carey," said John, the chauffeur, coming in from the kitchen porch. "May I have my dinner as soon as it's convenient? The doctor's got a date at the hospital at eight-thirty and he and I've got to hustle with dinner."

"All right, Johnny boy," said Mrs. Carey. "I'll serve you as fast as you can eat. Just get a soup plate and you can start right in."

"Say, Mrs. Carey," said Molly, returning, "there's something wrong. Miss Betty's left the table crying, and Mr. Bob is sitting there sulky and red as a beet. The doctor's giving him the—Oh, you here, Johnny? Well, you know as much as we do, I suppose. Things are in a mess, I'll say."

"Sure, I'm here, Molly. I'd always be where you are if I had my way." He winked broadly at Mrs. Carey, who smiled benignly. She favored Johnny's suit for Molly's hand. So did Molly, for that matter, but she hadn't told Johnny as yet.

"Molly, how about the movies after I get back from the hospital with the doctor?"

"O. K.," said Molly. "Only Johnny, I sort of feel I ought to stay home tonight. I mean, Miss Betty seems to be in trouble, and the whole house is upset, and maybe I'll be needed."

"Sure we'll all stay in this evening," said the cook, giving Molly a platter of chops. "I'll make coffee about eleven, and we'll have toast and some of that strawberry jam—maybe Mike'll come in, too, and we can have a game of cards. It beats me how anybody who doesn't mind having the servants play cards and drink coffee at all hours can be so near-sighted they drive their own children from home."

"There's no use taking in the dinner," said Molly. "They're not eating anything. But I suppose I'll have to." And she started in.

"I hate to waste that nice pudding on them. It's Mr. Bob's favorite. Well," added the cook philosophically, "maybe he'll eat some of that and feel better. Hello, Mike," she said quietly, as a weather-beaten middle-aged man came in from the garden. "The family isn't through yet. It'll be twenty minutes till our dinner. Go in there and tell Johnny how your cucumbers are getting along."

Mike the gardener said "Hello" gruffly, grinned a little sheepishly at Mrs. Carey, and clumped noisily into the little room where John was already half through his meal.

As the voices of the two men joined in conversation, Mrs. Carey stopped Molly by the arm. "Molly," she said, "what's the trouble in there?"

"The doctor's raising Cain because he's found out Betty's engaged to that young Jack Prescott."

"But why doesn't the doctor like him?"

"Oh, he's young, and hasn't got any money. I guess that's all. And Miss Betty could have anybody she wanted, she's that lovely. And the doctor's blowing up Mr. Bob because Prescott's his friend."

"At eight-fifteen John put on his hat and coat preparatory to starting out with the doctor, 'Molly,' he said. He and she were alone in the little room. 'Molly, with all that trouble in there, why can't you and me settle things? You promise to marry me, Molly—will you?'"

Molly bowed her head. Her heart fluttered, and for a moment she hesitated. Then, "No," she answered. "Johnny, I couldn't. They're so unhappy in there. It wouldn't seem—"

"But Molly, you're all wrong. It won't help them any—and—"

"Johnny!" Molly turned shining eyes toward him. "If you can get the doctor to give his blessing to Miss Betty, I'll—marry you."

At half past ten Molly and the cook and Mike heard the purr of an engine and a few minutes later John came into the kitchen. He swept across the little room, smiling exultantly, and took Molly by the shoulders.

"Molly," he said, beaming at everybody, "you're going to marry me. It's all right about Miss Betty and her young man—and—"

A voice came from the pantry door. "Oh, Molly—" it was Mrs. Bartley—"I wonder if you'd bring me something to eat in the living room. Some for the rest, too," she added, "as we all seem to be hungry." Her voice sounded light, happy.

Molly beamed back at John. "How did you do it, John?" she asked.

"I told him a man could eat his heart out and die if he couldn't get the girl of his heart—and that he was killing Miss Betty. I told him you said so, that you said he was a brute and—"

"Why, Johnny," said Molly. "What did you do that for?"

"For you," said Johnny.

"Well," said Molly. "All right, Johnny, you can have me."

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

MONDAY MORNING

TAKE it any way you look at it Monday morning is a bad time for the children. The week-end broke their routine. Their bodies have been forced to adjust themselves to another rhythm and that always makes children, and grown people, irritable. They don't mean to be bad tempered, they just are, and cannot help it. When your whole body is grumbling, your mind cannot maintain a sweet and strong attitude. That would be too much to ask even of one's mind.

Things are always lost on Monday morning. The brief case that John left "right there," cannot be found. The belt of Janet's dress which she knows she fastened to the dress the very fast thing Friday afternoon, has vanished.

The schoolroom fares no better, indeed it fares worse. The children arrive in various degrees of distress. They got up late, the breakfast wasn't right, the milkman hadn't come. The teacher feels dull, tired, weighted down with the cares of the ages. Monday morning isn't the happiest time imaginable for any of us. It takes a long time to get by it and that means so much time wasted. What is to be done about it?

For one thing, don't begin Saturday until Friday is nearly completed. Too many children think Saturday begins Friday noon. Keep them to their schedule. All lessons are to be completed Friday afternoon and no excuse for leaving them until the weekend is to be allowed. That means that mother will be saved hunting for a fountain pen and a sheet of note paper on which to write an excuse to the teacher on Monday morning.

All school clothes, books, whatever has to do with school on Monday morning is to be laid waiting and ready before going to bed on Friday night, exactly as it would be if it were Thursday night. That means that mother won't have to hunt for somebody's shoe, belt, hat, and whatnot.

When things have been arranged for school on Monday morning let the week-end have its way. Children need to break routine as well as to maintain it. Let the children rest and play, secure in the knowledge that they are ready for Monday morning. We won't have a hundred per cent perfection but we will save a lot of trouble and time. We can get the school work well started by Monday afternoon instead of Tuesday. And we can maintain some sort of peace and order to the household over the week-end.

THE TEACHER'S DRESS

THE teacher's dress is part of the classroom atmosphere. I would say that it was a very large part of it. The children look at the teacher all day long. If what they see is pleasant, if the colors are bright, if the style is good, the picture attractive, the children feel better. Anything that makes them feel better makes them do better. The teacher's dress affects them one way or the other and for everybody's sake let us hope it is for the better.

Bright red clothes are not for classroom. A red costume would stimulate a class out of bounds. The teacher would have a bad day. Red is cheerful but it has other qualities that make it unfit for school wear. Blue is always good. The children love it.

Teachers ought not to wear mourning clothes in the classroom. If they feel they must wear them they ought to be laid aside during school hours.

It is our duty to make school a cheerful, pleasant place. Our troubles, our disturbed feelings, our prejudices are not to touch the children if we can help it. We will carry our ghosts with us and they will make themselves felt to the children without dressing the part. We should leave our mourning at home.

Children note the details of the teacher's dress and these stay with them. They become standards for the children in school when they are good. They become pivots upon which to hang personal dislike when they are not good. I have a distinct memory of a teacher who wore a brown tailor-made dress with a narrow silk braid down the seams. With the dress she wore an orange bow at her throat. I thought her beautiful in that dress. I never think of her save in that gown and the thought never fails to give me pleasure. I wanted my clothes to have that very clean, smooth, pleasing quality that was in hers. They went so well with her fine face and beautiful manner.

There is another picture I have in my memory. It comes every time I see an untidy, careless, colorless person. A teacher gave me that picture, too. She never had a chance to give me anything else. My ears were closed against what my eyes had pronounced unfit.

A teacher's dress ought to be a pattern, an inspiration, a joy to the children in her care. Most of the time we find them that way. It is only the exceptional person who offends. That one is too many.

Where to Find Happiness

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WHERE to find happiness?
Of what are you speaking?
The less you find happiness
The more you go seeking.
Seldom the wanderer
Will find where he chooses;
For often the wanderer,
While seeking it, loses.

Where to find happiness?
But few ever reap it.
For they who find happiness
Just have it and keep it.
Never the querulous
Will ever achieve it.
For seldom the querulous
Who have it believe it.

Many have happiness,
Yes, have it not knowing,
And so, to find happiness,
Where are you going?
It may be near to you,
If you but mind it.
So look for it near to you,
And there you will find it.

Sea Casts Up Its Message of Death

SHOWING every evidence of the severe pounding it received from the icy surf, this is all that is left of the little Alaskan vessel, Umnak Native, after she had been tossed up on the bleak shores of Umnak island in the Aleutians. This photograph was brought into Seattle by Bishop Antonin Pokrovsky of the Russian Orthodox church, one of the four survivors of 13 who clung to the vessel for 13 hours before finally struggling ashore.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

JOHNNY CHUCK DISCOVERS A GREAT TRUTH

Whoever's honest with himself
With others will be honest too.
Remember this wherever you go
And whatsoever you may do.

WHEN Johnny Chuck reached home he was so tired that for a while he even forgot that he was hungry. You know it was a long way from the other side of the Old Orchard down to that far corner for one so fat and stiff and sore as Johnny Chuck.

At first Polly Chuck would have nothing to do with him. But when after a nap Johnny came out to get something to eat she saw how stiff and lame he was and she saw how he had been torn by the teeth of Reddy Fox. She had heard all about that fight from Sammy Jay and down deep in her heart she was proud of Johnny Chuck. Now as she saw his wounds she was filled with pity. Very softly she sidled up to Johnny and gently licked his wounds. She didn't say a word, just licked and licked, oh so tenderly. With every touch of her tongue, Johnny Chuck felt his anger because she had refused to go away with him melt away. At last there wasn't a bit left. Never had clover tasted so sweet and delicious. Never had the rustle of leaves in the trees sounded so pleasant. Never had the sky looked so blue or the fleecy clouds so white. Johnny sighed. It was a sigh of happiness and contentment.

"I'm glad I'm home," he said.
"So am I," replied Polly softly.
"Home is the very best place in all the Great World," continued Johnny Chuck.
"Of course," replied Polly. "I've known that ever since we've had a home."

"And this home of ours is the safest and best home that ever was," said Johnny. "I wouldn't trade it for any other home anywhere in all the Great World."

Polly Chuck smiled wisely, but she said nothing and after a minute or two, Johnny continued, "You mustn't believe, my dear, all that is told you of the wonderful things of the Great World," said he. "It has nothing, nothing at all to equal the peace and comfort and safety of our own home here."

Once more Johnny sighed and as before it was a sigh of pure happiness. He had made a great discovery. He had discovered that the secret of happiness is contentment, and that contentment is to be found within, and not without one's self. So despite his stiffness and lameness and soreness, Johnny Chuck was happy, and being happy, there was no room for bad temper. Suddenly it came over him that he was glad that Polly Chuck had refused to go away with him when he had insisted on looking for a new home, and he told her so.
Polly made no reply, but went right

Do YOU Know—

That dueling originated from the old German "wager of battle" or judicial combat, in which, instead of having a case tried in court as now, the two men fought before a judge, the one being victorious was thought to have proved that he was in the right.

GRAPHIC GOLF

WATCH POSITION OF BALL IN DRIVING

OFTEN considerable trouble is occasioned by beginners in golf with the driver. Its straight face demands a powerful and accurate blow to send the ball on its proper path. With the brassie and spoon and their greater loft there is a better chance of hitting the ball satisfactorily for even should a slight error occur at impact the angle of the clubface is likely to minimize it and the result be reasonably fair. With the driver, however, the ball must be hit accurately for anything like a satisfying shot. For this reason it is advisable to tee the ball well in front of the drives. Few golfers can drive well unless the ball is placed forward so that the golfer's body is greatly behind it. This gives the clubhead a chance to come onto the ball in a straight line. If teed back toward the right foot there is every chance that the clubhead will be hooded at impact, i. e., the face of the clubhead pointing toward the ground. With the more lofted woods, the angle of the clubface would counteract this mistake somewhat so that it would not likely be disastrous. Yet no one could drive consistently well under such a condition with the driver. If your tee shots are poor, look to your stance and see where the ball is located at address. Placing the ball just a bit further ahead will often do wonders for your game.

Detachable Capelets on Latest Wraps for Spring

Coat designers are again coming forward with a wealth of new ideas in collars. While the furless coat is placed in the position of volume leader, fur-trimmed models are much worn, the detachable fur playing an even more important role this year than last.

Since the coat silhouette advanced for spring is decidedly more modified, getting away from the top-heavy contours of the fall, it is natural that fur trimmings should enhance this feeling. Hence the capelet collar is often cut smaller and lies flatter, draped collars add a softer quality to the silhouette, while numerous crossed treatments add symmetry and balance.

SUSTAINING SOUP

ONE may prepare with milk vegetable soups which are most nourishing. The vegetables may be asparagus, peas, beans, spinach, onions, celery, potatoes, turnips, carrots, corn, cabbage or some of these in combination. The soup should be slightly thickened. The following will be a good basic recipe:

Thicken two cupfuls of milk with one tablespoonful of flour and the same of butter well blended, add seasonings and two-thirds of a cupful of cooked vegetables chopped, mashed or strained. If the vegetable is not starchy, more flour may be added.

Vegetable Vitamin Soup.

Take one cupful each of diced carrots, chopped onion, one and one-half cupfuls of chopped celery, one cupful of diced turnips, two cupfuls of diced potatoes, two quarts of meat stock, one cupful of tomato juice, two tablespoonfuls of chopped green pepper, six tablespoonfuls of butter and a few dashes of pepper. Brown the vegetables, except the potatoes, in the butter, add three teaspoonfuls of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper. Boil twenty minutes and add the potatoes.

Turnip Soup.

Heat four cupfuls of milk in a double boiler, add one tablespoonful of flour with two tablespoonfuls of butter, then add two cupfuls of fresh grated turnip, one teaspoonful of grated onion, one and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, a half teaspoonful of sugar. Cook until the turnip is soft. Sprinkle with parsley and serve. Serve with croutons.

The card displays at football games were introduced at the Naval academy during the 1936 football season by Midshipman N. C. Copeland, a member of the 1931 class. However, it was not Copeland's original idea. He received his information regarding these stunts from Stanford university, at Palo Alto, Calif.

Snow Huts Warm
Eskimo huts are made of snow, and as long as there is a supply of blubber to fill six or eight lamps, the place is so warm that the children go about naked.

Many Muscles in Body
In the human body there are more than 500 muscles, varying in length from a small fraction of an inch to two feet.

Vinegar From Watermelons
Watermelons have been used successfully for making vinegar, but the juice must be concentrated to about half its original volume to give the proper sugar content.

Hair's Growth After Death
Certain claims have been made that in rare cases hair has been proved to have grown after death. The United States public health service has stated there are no authentic records of such cases. The widespread belief in this growth is held to be caused by the shrinking of the skin toward the roots of the hairs, giving an appearance of hair growth. The same may be said with regard to growth of nails.

TOWNLINE

The supper held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Miller for the boys' baseball team was well attended. A very pleasant evening was spent by everyone.

Not Connected With Town

Those who attempt to connect the origin of the phrase "go to Halifax" with Halifax in Nova Scotia are on the wrong track. That town was not founded until 1749, years after the phrase was popular in England, when it was established as a rival to the French town of Louisburg in Cape Breton and named after the second earl of Halifax, then president of the board of trade and plantations.

Old Roman Hairpins

Ivory hairpins, found in London and dating from the Roman occupation, are knopped with the busts of Roman ladies of the empire. One in the British museum is adorned with a little statuette representing Venus wringing the water out of her hair after rising from the sea. Another is topped by an ivory hand holding a cone and encircled by a serpent.

WHITEMORE M. E. CHURCH SCHOOL NEWS

There was a fine attendance at our church school last Sunday, a total of one hundred twenty-four regular scholars and three visitors being present. Our visitors were Miss Lois McCready, Kenneth Jacques and Miss Nurene Eymmer. We appreciate the attendance of visitors in our school and wish to extend a hearty welcome to all who wish to come, and to those who have already visited our school we extend an invitation to come back again. The classes carrying off the honors last Sunday were Class No. 2, our primary class with Miss Flavia Bellville teacher, which received the attendance banner; the men's Bible class received the banner for highest average offering. The older ladies' Bible class is to be congratulated on their attendance on Easter Sunday, which was 100%. Their teacher is Mrs. Ross.

We wish to ask the cooperation of the entire community in helping to make our school a success, and would like to extend an invitation to all those in the community not now members of another Sunday School to come and join with us. We have classes for all—boys, girls, men and women. We wish to extend an invitation to all the young people of the community to come and attend our young people's Bible class which at present has a membership of about thirty and a very capable teacher in charge. You will be more than welcome to our sessions. We open at 10:30 each Sunday morning and try to have a program of interest to everyone. Will you come and help us reach our enrollment goal of two hundred fifty members by October first? We will appreciate your attendance greatly and would like to have you as one of our church school members.

Popular Adage

The adage about the pot calling the kettle black is found in many tongues. A Spanish adaptation is: "Said the jackdaw to the crow: Get away, nigger," while in Italy one hears: "The pan says to the kettle: Get away lest you stain me." "The shovel scoffs at the poker," is the way the French put it. Hindus quote: "The colander said to the needle: 'Get away, you have a hole in you.'"

Should He Obey?

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Late Dean of Men,
University of Illinois.

The Browns have never gotten on together. There have been no triangular differences. She has cared for him as much—or as little—as she has cared for anyone, and he likewise for her. Possibly if she had been a man and had taken up some distinctly masculine activity she would have been easier to live with. She simply adores controlling things; whatever she goes into she must have the reins in her hand, and she desires no advice or direction as to how the driving should be done. Had she lived in Russia at the time of the empire she would have been the czar, or she would have gone to Siberia.

It is not a matter of poverty which has disgruntled Mrs. Brown, for they are in good circumstances. In fact Mr. Brown retired from active business some time ago and they live in financial comfort on the income from their property. Maybe it is because when they were married she brought to the union somewhat more assets than he possessed, and this fact gave her a feeling of superiority and domination. It isn't that Brown is lazy or shiftless or that he dissipates their income. He has been a hard worker, shrewd and careful in his business dealings, but nothing that he has done has ever pleased her. For thirty years they have scarcely had a quiet, peaceful day together.

They have a son, and it is with him I am most concerned. He is twenty years old now, and he has known nothing since his babyhood but this daily domestic wrangle. He is a bright boy, energetic, hard working, intelligent, but nothing that he does pleases his mother.

If he earns money, as he does, she takes it away from him. If he wants to go out at night, she refuses. If he forms even the most healthy friendship with a young woman of his own age and makes a social engagement she makes life for him hell until he

What advice would you give him if he were to ask you, Should he obey her unreasonable demands? He has appealed to his father, who only shakes his head.

Study Proposals to Bring an End to Postal Deficit

Plan to Increase Revenue and Curtail Outlay.

Washington.—Legislation designed to halt an annual post office deficit which rose to a new high of $200,000,000 for the last fiscal year, is now being drafted by the house committee on post offices and post roads.

It is expected to be introduced as a part of the administration's economy program either at this session after emergency matters have been disposed of or early in the next regular session. Members of the committee are understood to be working on both ends of the problem, seeking to increase revenue and to curtail outlay. Their major efforts along the first line, it is reported, will be the restoration of the former two cent rate on first class postage which was raised to three cents in the revenue act of 1933.

Three Cent Rate Causes Loss.

A recent survey conducted by Representative James M. Mead (Dem., N. Y.), committee chairman, indicated that instead of realizing a promised $130,000,000 in postal income, the increased first class rate is going to lose some $100,000,000 in the current fiscal year. He termed the three cent rate one of the "greatest blunders" in the history of the mail service.

Efforts to stem the outlay of the Post Office department will be directed at a curtailment of air and ocean mail subsidies. In the fiscal year 1932 steamship mail subsidies totaled $21,606,103, while subventions to air transport companies engaged in carrying the mails amounted to $20,536,107.

Recently the committee compiled a comprehensive report embodying a new plan of air mail payment under which subsidies would be completely abolished within five years. It is expected that this program will be included in the legislation which is to be brought before the house.

Representative Clyde Kelly (Rep., Pa.), author of the original air mail act declared that "a complete change in the method of payments to contractors must be made in the interests of justice and economy."

"Whatever justification there may be for a large subsidy as a means of establishing the new aviation industry," he said, "it is now time to look forward to the cessation of such payments and the establishment of the air mail service on a self-sustaining basis."

According to Representative Kelly the record of decreased revenues in the postal service during the last three years has never been paralleled in history. In 1930, he declared, postal revenues were $705,484,000. In 1931 they dropped by nearly $50,000,000 to a total of $655,463,000, and in 1932 they declined another $68,000,000, to a total of only $588,171,000. In the two year period the aggregate loss amounted to more than $117,000,000, while in the period from 1921 to 1930 postal revenues showed an average yearly increase of nearly $27,000,000.

The post office deficit has been mounting swiftly, according to figures compiled by the department.

In 1929 there was a gross deficiency of $85,000,000, including payments for air and ocean mails subsidies, franked mail service and nonpostal functions, while in 1932 the deficit, on the same gross basis, jumped to $205,000,000—an increase in the red of $120,000,000.

The 1929 net deficit, representing the outgo for purely postal purposes against the income from postal services, amounted to $56,000,000. The 1932 net deficit was $152,000,000.

Washington's Home Gets Paving From England

Whitehaven, England.—Paving from a sandstone quarry here has been sent to Mount Vernon, Va., to renew similar paving at Washington's house there. Red sandstone from this area of Cumberland was used in the building of the house.

The paving, of an unusually even texture, is of a cream color, and is difficult to duplicate. The quarries of the Whitehaven district have long been celebrated for their stone.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

Young children, as a rule, have a wonderful and well-developed sense of balance. They can slip and almost fall and regain their equilibrium without a tremor or the feeling of having done anything unusual. They have had a wide experience in their young lives, whereby they have acquired their power of equilibrium. Every mother knows of the constant tumbles the wee tots have when they are learning to walk. They are so little and so short that they have no heavy falls or of a great height unless they tumble down stairs or off of some high place. At first the falls these small folk have are almost equal to the number of steps they take. So determined to conquer are they that after a few years they may be said to be masters of equilibrium. They are practically fearless.

It is at this stage that parents and grandparents often make the mistake of instilling the element of fear in the children. With their older years and greater stature, falls are not of small significance to these adults. They hold their breath as they watch their children climb tall trees, and often call out words of warning when in reality the youngsters are as secure as if on terra firma. They plant their feet well on limbs or in crotches of branches and revel in the feeling of freedom and elevation above the green grass many yards below. They look out over the heads of their elders or over the roof of garage or barn and get the exhilaration of adults who sit securely in airplanes when they take flights from aviation fields.

Sure-Footed Safety.

This ability of children to keep their balance and to climb will stand them in good stead when they grow older, provided they do not get so many warnings that they imbibe the spirit of fear which will hamper them later on. There is no time in one's life when to be sure-footed is more prized than adult years. The ability to grip the ground or the floor with the feet is valuable. To walk fearlessly over a plank across a stream, to tread the uncertain deck of a steamer plowing through a storm and remain well balanced is an enviable thing. To climb to mountain heights over rocky crags and icy surfaces is an accomplishment which only the sure-footed can enjoy. The children who continued to exercise their power of equilibrium during their growing years and have the sense well developed are in this favored group.

Floor Coverings.

Textile floor coverings, also called soft surface floor coverings, are divided into two comprehensive groups, those made by hand and those constructed by machinery. Handmade carpets and rugs include all kinds made entirely by hand, or on what are called hand looms. On the latter the weft is inserted by hand either by throwing a bobbin through the separated strands of the warp, on the loom or by knotting the threads on the warp, using the hands to tie the knots, or otherwise insert the weft. Sometimes needles are threaded with colored yarns and are used in place of bobbins to carry the weft through, around, or about the warp. The weft is also called filler.

Handmade Coverings.

All genuine oriental rugs are handmade, as are also the kinds called hand-knotted carpets. These latter are knot-tied carpets made with the same ghorides knot of the oriental weavers. They are made in the British Isles and in some European countries, rather than in the Orient, and are therefore given the distinguishing name of hand-knotted carpets. They differ also in designs which are noticeably French or English. Plain carpets of this sort are a favorite style. Navajo rugs are hand woven, as are all primitive floor coverings, peasant and folkcraft rugs, such as hooked, crocheted, knit rugs, etc. Also exquisite turkey and embroidered rugs are hand made.

Dog Carries Puppy Two Miles for Aid

Columbus, Ind.—The loyalty of one dog to another was proved here when Shep, a large shepherd owned by Thomas McClure, carried Felix, a five-month-old spitz owned by David McClure, two miles after an automobile had broken Felix' leg.

As the dogs trotted along, Felix bounded into the street and was struck by an auto. Shep picked Felix up with his teeth. He carried him home, where the fracture was treated.

Ancient Temples Brought to Light

New and interesting discoveries made recently in Egypt in hitherto unexplored ground on the west of the ancient city of Hermopolis. The excavations were conducted by an Egyptian university archeologist, Dr. Samy Gabr. He is reported to have unearthed whole streets with buildings on both sides, and temples from the period of the First Century B. C., to the Second century A. D. One of the temples is Greek, with an altar, almost intact, in front of it, while the other is an imposing Graeco-Egyptian structure. There are pillared houses, some of them two stories high, built of stone and brick, whose interiors are decorated with beautiful and well-preserved wall paintings that show a remarkable knowledge of perspective and the value of light and shade. The picture shows a pyramid-shaped tomb discovered during the excavations at Hermopolis by the expedition.

Howe About:

Poor Advisers
Drag on Progress
Geniuses

By ED HOWE

IN 1929 the President appointed a Research Committee on Social Trends. The members were the most notable of the college professors, seven in number, and their report has recently been made. With one exception everything in it might have been recommended by a similar commission appointed by Joseph Stalin, the scoundrel who heads the Soviet government in Russia. The one exception is that the members express faith in private property, but the belief is also expressed that violent revolution in America is probable, if not inevitable, and that the injustices we practice warrant such revolution.

Arthur Schopenhauer is, I believe, accepted as one of the ten most intelligent and best educated men in all history. He contended steadily throughout his best years that college professors are the least reliable of all advisers, because of their seclusion from practical affairs, and their enormous prejudices and over education.

The President must have known this. I wonder he did not appoint on the commission some of the more notable men of practical sense and education, and save us from this humiliating broadcast. The report comes at a time when the Soviet doctrine is falling to pieces of its own weight, from having been put into effect. It comes at a time, also, when the intelligent world is most interested in attempts to confine the Russian plague to its own borders.

A report encouraging renewed efforts of the respectable majority everywhere to more courageously attack the Russian monster would have been wiser, and more in accord with the decent lessons of history. The Russians, are being starved out of the false doctrines founded by their own professors; that we should be placed on record as encouraging their ghastly error, and call it another noble experiment, is not only humiliating, but astounding. The report of the commission is an exhibition of old folly the more intelligent of the savages, themselves, warned us against; more to be ashamed of.

Every twenty years there is a new crop of young men, of whom so much has been expected. As a matter of practical fact young men, with their immature, rebellious notions, are a drag on sound progress. By the time a generation gets things reasonably well settled and is preparing to proceed with greater peace and intelligence, along comes another lot of young men to dispute all that has been decided upon, and the row starts all over again.

The feats of the geniuses have never greatly astonished me; I have been more interested in the amazing manner in which common men have been able to get along with no greater effort than the practice of natural habits.

I have concluded there is no such thing as genius, unless it is determination and ability to steadily follow the simple rules of morality. History tells of a people who were once slaves, but able to overcome their masters by patient practice of industry, efficiency, reliability, saving. Such information as the masters had, the slaves acquired and improved. The rowdy masters disappeared from the face of the earth, but the slaves survived because of better habits.

I wonder an American is not ashamed to fail in a country where a good living is so easily made.

Women believe men hover around them because they need the counsel, wisdom and morality of the sex. . . . Men are not attracted to women by any of these things; women themselves say men are famous for hovering around silly women, and will not marry women of real worth.

At a time when many of the Romans had statues erected in their honor, a man asked Cato, the elder, why he had none. He answered: "I much prefer that men ask and wonder why I have no statue than wonder that I had one."

It is always wise to remember that your mind is as much a part of your body, and needs as much help and management as your stomach, your ears, or your eyes; your mind is not a noble thing that functions without care, or assistance, or the teaching of experience.

When I hear men are steeped in sin, it occurs to me they have done rather well in spite of it. Of twenty discoveries of greatest use to mankind, thirteen were made in the last hundred years, as against seven in all preceding time.

In the early days of the republic one Cotton Mather believed Americans were so sinful they were likely to be destroyed at any time, and he expected no improvement. Since his day the country has shown a development that the men of all time will marvel about. What Cotton Mather believed the people needed most, they have paid least attention to.

A good many flirt with the devil, but every morning there are sufficient sober men at desks, benches, and plows to carry on a creditable day's work.

Use of Milk Increases Average Span of Life

When George Washington was inaugurated as President of the United States, the average length of life was only thirty-five years. In the next century, the average expectancy was increased to forty-three years; the span had been increased to fifty-one by 1910, and the baby born this year, according to records of the United States bureau of census, may be expected to live about fifty-eight years.

While many different things have contributed to lengthening the average span of life, one factor which has done much, according to J. H. Frandsen, head of the department of dairy industry at the Massachusetts State college, has been the increased use of milk, based on the greater knowledge of its value in the diet.

Milk has been called the "perfect food," for it contains more nearly than any other single food the proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals and vitamins necessary to support life and maintain good health. It is particularly rich in calcium and phosphorus, the minerals which are most important in the development of sound teeth and strong bones. Milk contains all of the known vitamins to a greater or less extent, Professor Frandsen says, and is one of the best sources of vitamins A and B.

How to train BABY'S BOWELS

Babies, bottle-fed or breast-fed, with any tendency to be constipated, would thrive if they received daily half a teaspoonful of this old family doctor's prescription for the bowels.

That is one sure way to train tiny bowels to healthy regularity. To avoid the fretfulness, vomiting, crying, failure to gain, and other ills of constipated babies.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is good for any baby. For this, you have the word of a famous doctor. Forty-seven years of practice taught him just what babies need to keep their little bowels active, regular; keep little bodies plump and healthy. For Dr. Caldwell specialized in the treatment of women and little ones. He attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby.

On the honor roll for this month are: Ellen Bradley, Maxine DePotty, Neil Libka, Willard Musolf, Norma Lou Westcott, Wayne White, Marion Clark, Betty Jane Ferguson, Ruth Giddings, Betty Nelson and Richard Sievert.

The following have been neither tardy nor absent during April: Richard Hawkins, Maurice Hayes, Willard Musolf, George Smith, Henry Brown, Ralph Hill, Vernon Hill, Norman Koepke, Billy Musolf, and Jack Smith.

According to Mr. Swanson only boys and girls entering Michigan State College this fall as freshmen and who have been in the upper one-third of their high school classes are eligible. Applicants must be students whose financial circumstances definitely warrant scholarship aid.

Immediate application is urged by the committee assisting Mr. Swanson in the final selection include: H. A. Kitson, Harrisville; W. A. Boerner and R. B. Coulter, West Branch; Geo. Carpenter, Roscommon; J. D. McConnell, Beaverton; W. C. Tuchner, Clare; L. C. Atkins, Reed City; and James Gorsline, Standish.

Applications might include the following: Rank in class for the four year period; list of sports or extra curricular activities; state what course is desired in college; give as references two responsible adults other than relatives; general health now and during high school.

Warrant for Shakespeare
An order made out two years ago for the arrest of William Shakespeare has been found by Dr. Leslie Hotson, of Haverford college. The order was written at the request of William Wayte, who, the paper said, "walked in fear of his death" at the hands of Shakespeare and three of his friends. One of those, Francis Langley, had sought protection a few months before from William Gardner and Wayte, Doctor Hotson learned through papers in the files.

Chop Suey Ingredient
The bean used in chop suey is the mung bean. This is an oriental bean grown primarily in China and Japan. The bean sprouts grow to be from one to one and one-half inches long. It is only the bean sprout that is used, as practically all of the bean goes to sprout. For sprouting, the bean should be soaked 24 hours in water and then placed in a well drained container and kept at a medium temperature for about ten days. The bean should be moistened daily.

No Set Execution Time
Prisoners condemned to death are executed in the early morning hours primarily because it is the time of day when it will cause the least disturbance in the prison. There is no particular hour when all executions must be carried out.—Washington Star.

Picnic of the Dead
One of the strangest sights in the world is on a mountain top of Luzon, Philippine islands. Fully clothed, and sitting in groups of from 10 to 25 each, there are hundreds of bodies of Igorots which have been mummified by the hot, dry air—their method of burial. It resembles a vast picnic.—Collier's Weekly.

Arnold's Lameness
Benedict Arnold was lame. Serious thigh wounds received at Quebec and at Saratoga occasioned his having a shortened left leg. He referred to himself as having "become a cripple in the service of my country."

Foot Pound Calculation
A foot pound is a unit of energy equal to the work done in raising one pound avoirdupois against the force of gravity the height of one foot.

Sex and Memory
There is no detectable difference in memory abilities between men and women or boys and girls, psychologists at the University of California report.

Not for Glory
"Men who have made enemies," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "often seek power not so much for glory as for self-protection."—Washington Star.

Indian Allotments
The oldest Indian reservation is the one at Indian Mills, N. J., established in 1758. Other old ones of considerable size are the Navajo reservation (largest in the United States) and the Seminole reservation, 75 miles southeast of Fort Myers; also the Crow reservation in Montana.

"Backlash"
The play in a gear train, or any loose motion in connected parts of machinery is known as a "backlash." In angling, bait casters call a reverse winding on the reel a backlash.

Begot Each Other
Health and cheerfulness mutually begot each other.—Addison.
