HENRY HELMS DEAD; CIVIL WAR VETERAN

Was Corporal in 15th Regiment of Michigan Volunteers

Henry C. Helms, aged Civil War veteran, died Saturday at his home at Long Lake. The deceased was one of the last veterans in the county. He was 87 years old. Henry C. Helms was born October 30, 1846, in Livingston county. He served three years in the 15th Regiment, Michigan Volunteers, during the Civil War. When discharged he had the rank of corporal. He had been a resident of this county for seven years. The deceased is survived by the wife and two daughters. Funeral services were held Tuesday. The remains were taken to Flint for burial.

EMERGENCY RELIEF OFFICE IS NOW OPEN

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration is now open, with headquarters in the City Hall at Tawas City. R. E. Hodges of Jackson is relief director, and Edw. Stevens of Tawas City, E. G. Little and Mrs. C. E. Edinger of East Tawas, and Sylvester Vaughn of Oscoda are investigators. Miss Helen Misener of East Tawas is clerk in the office.

While this is not a work organization, or employment agency, work will be supplied for those who do not care for the idea of doing; but no person should let false pride keep him from applying to the committee for aid. These are unusual times and many who were once comfortable situated or well-off are now destitute.

All names are confidential and known only to the welfare workers. Another point emphasized is that each and every case must be investigated. This is the order from the State authorities who are allocating the money, and all should assist these investigators in every way possible.

Office hours are from 8:30 A. M. to 12:00 noon, and from 1:00 P. M. to 5:30 P. M.

Two Mikado Boys "Shine" Deer; Get 30-Day Sentence

Kelly King and Louis Michaud, two Mikado boys, were brought Tuesday before Justice W. C. Davidson charged with using an artificial light while hunting deer. They were also a little hasty in anticipating the opening of deer season. Each received a thirty-day jail sentence.

School Notes

High School
Dr. Edgar Johnson, principal of the University High School, University of Michigan, will speak over station WJR Sunday afternoon at six o'clock. His topic will be, "The Junior High School at Work."

A representative of the Crowell Publishing company is expected at the high school Friday. The students will probably be divided into two competing teams to secure subscriptions for the magazines published by the Crowell people. The magazines may be secured at regular subscription prices, and approximately one-half of the money received will go into the general high school fund.

The botany class is making an intensive study of the "Irish potato." This study includes material in regard to its origin, history and proper methods of culture. The methods of culture include the kind of soil best suited for its production, the proper method of preparing the seed bed, the correct depth of planting the seed, the better usages in caring for the seed, the recommendation.

Will Rogers Names It "Dr. Bull"; It's Great

"Name it and you can have it," said the Fox company to Will Rogers when they bought James Gould Cozzens' best seller novel, "The Last Adam." Rogers named it "Dr. Bull" and proceeded to make the genial doctor one of his best screen characterizations, truly as great and as human as his role in "State Fair."

But the picture, showing Friday and Saturday, November 17-18, at the Rivoli Theatre, Tawas City, is more than a star vehicle. Through the eyes of the doctor one sees the joys and sorrows of an entire New England community. Dr. Bull has time for everything—even for courting a widow. But first he has to solve the romantic problems of some of his younger clients, one of whom happens to be the daughter of the town's capitalist.

It's a great story, and John Ford has brought it to the screen with a fine feeling for the human drama latent in every life. In doing this he has the artistic co-operation of a splendid cast of supporting actors, including Vera Allen, Marian Nixon, Howard Lally, Berton Churchill, Louise Dresser, Andy Devine, Rochelle Hudson and Tempe Pigott.

November P.-T. A. Meet Held Last Thursday

About fifty people attended the November meeting of the local Parent-Teacher Association which was held at the school building last Thursday evening, November 9.

Immediately after the meeting was called to order, because of preparation for a high school party, the high school boys' quartette entertained the assembly with a group of old and new songs. They were accompanied on the piano by Miss Gulliford. The assembly then sang "Michigan, My Michigan," and this was followed with prayer by Rev. Gregory.

The committee on award reported that it had decided favorably for an award for the different rooms the same as for the past few years, and that it had chosen a bust of Colonel Lindbergh for that purpose. The committee also recommended that only the parents and guardians be counted each month to determine which room should receive the award. It was also decided in the business meeting that the Association should go on record as opposed to the use of money derived from the sale of intoxicating liquor to educate children.

The speaker of the evening, Rev. Gregory, was introduced by the chairman of the program committee, Mrs. Bing. Rev. Gregory gave an address that showed careful thought and preparation in a very interesting manner. He stressed the significance of the part that the home, the school, and the church has in the development of the child.

Mr. Moore's orchestra furnished lively music for the occasion. The award for the present month was won by the seventh-eighth grade room.

After the program, refreshments were served in the basement by the committee consisting of Mrs. Westcott and Mrs. Quirk.

The next meeting of the Association will be on the evening of December 14. The program committee for this meeting consists of Mrs. Horton and Mrs. Geo. Prescott. The refreshment committee consists of Miss Fitzhugh and Mrs. Cox.

Audie Johnson Post Will Stage Veterans' Rally

All Ex-service Men Invited To Attend

The Audie Johnson Post, American Legion, of East Tawas will stage a rally for ex-service men of Iosco county on Monday evening, November 20th, at eight o'clock. The American Legion Posts from Tawas City and Oscoda will be the guests of the East Tawas Post on this evening, and all Legion men and ex-service men in the county are urged to attend.

A special program especially for ex-service men has been arranged. Outside speakers will be Leslie Keifen, Past Department Commander of the state of Michigan, Department Commander Beardslee, District Committeeman Leslie Stonehouse, and Congressman Roy O. Woodruff. This will be a splendid opportunity for ex-service men of the county to get together and renew old acquaintances and old times. The Audie Johnson Post is making preparations for a special lunch after the meeting.

Mrs. W. E. Carter, who spent the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Klenow, and other relatives, left Sunday for Detroit, where she will spend a week with her brother before returning to her home in Decatur, Ill.

Mrs. Jennie McMillen of St. Johns, Idaho, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Thos. Davison.

D. & M. EMPLOYEE DIES; FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

Death Results From Illness Contracted by Exposure on Ice Last Winter

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Swedish Lutheran church for Herman Haglund, age 47 years, who died Sunday. Rev. P. G. Wahlstrom officiated Wednesday afternoon at the services. Death was caused from illness contracted from exposure on the ice last winter. He had been an employee of the Detroit & Mackinac Railway company for a number of years.

Those left to mourn his death are his wife; three sons, Harold, Herbert, and Richard; three daughters, Ardath, Rosemary, and Dorothy; also his father, Matt. Haglund; two brothers, Edward and Eino; four sisters, Siama, Rose, Olga and Nina, as well as other relatives.

Pall bearers were four nephews, Merrill Pollard, Deloise Durant, Howard Durant and Matthew Haglund, and two cousins, Fred and Orel Johnson.

Those from out of town who attended the funeral were: Ardath Haglund of Detroit, Nina Haglund of Detroit, Mrs. Abe Olli of Coney, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Olli of Saginaw, Mr. and Mrs. John Bush of Flint, and Arthur Currier of Ellyria, Ohio.

Gov. Comstock Stops Here Enroute to Beaver Lake

Governor Wm. A. Comstock stopped Thursday evening at the Hotel Iosco while enroute to Beaver Lake, where he will spend three days hunting deer. He said that he had not missed a season in that locality since he could carry a gun. He anticipated much enjoyment during the three-day hunt after ten strenuous months at Lansing.

Aged Woman Found in Unconscious Condition

Mrs. Ludwig Kirbetz, age 84 years, resident of this city was found unconscious on the floor of her bedroom early yesterday afternoon. She had been there since some time during the previous night. The aged lady was living alone.

Mrs. Kirbetz had apparently fallen to the floor while out of bed during the night and was unable to arise again. She is in a critical condition. Wednesday evening her son, Fred Kirbetz, had urged her to come and live at his home.

Arthur Staudacher Is Placed On Probation

Arthur Staudacher was sentenced Thursday afternoon by Judge Herman Dehnke. The sentence was 35 days in jail and five years on probation. Sheriff Charles Miller and Mrs. Staudacher were appointed probation officers by Judge Dehnke. If Staudacher secures employment his jail sentence will be commuted. He had plead guilty to the charge of breaking and entering the Tawasville Inn.

Mrs. Jennie McMillen of St. Johns, Idaho, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Thos. Davison.

Many Deer Hunters Here Despite Cold Weather

Storm and sub-zero weather did not seem to interfere with the trek of deer hunters into northern Michigan this week. Streams of cars containing red-coated hunters passed along the various highways Monday and Tuesday hurrying to favorite hunting grounds where camps were pitched in the snow. They are a hardy bunch and the unseasonable weather seemed to add jollity to the occasion.

Wednesday morning opened bright and calm, auspicious for the great event, but few kills were apparently made. The first two to report success in this locality were H. N. Butler of East Tawas and Earl Smith of Bay City. They shot their deer shortly after seven o'clock Wednesday morning.

One of our local hunters was surrounded by a flock of deer Wednesday morning. While measuring their antlers to determine which head would be most suitable to hang in his den, the deer became restive and loped away. Among those from Tawas City who shot their deer on Wednesday were Gerald Stepanski, John Groff, Leo Stepanski, and Wm. Rapp.

GRAND OFFICERS OF O. E. S. ENTERTAINED BY IOSCO CHAPTER

Meeting Held Last Saturday Evening

On Saturday evening Iosco Chapter No. 71 of East Tawas entertained the Grand Officers of Michigan, Order of Eastern Star. Dinner was served at six o'clock. Later the Grand Officers, assisted by some of the Iosco Chapter officers and Mrs. Jas. F. Mark, conferred the degrees on the Worthy Grand Patron's daughter, Miss Dora Edla Mark.

After the work of the evening, the officers were presented with bouquets from officers of Iosco Chapter and Miss Mark was presented with gifts from the Grand officers, her mother and father, and aunt, Miss Helen Applin.

Those attending the festive affair were: Mrs. Selma Brown, Worthy Grand Matron, and Mr. Brown of Birmingham; Jas. F. Mark, Worthy Grand Patron, of East Tawas; Mrs. Georgina Bauer, Associate Grand Matron, of Hastings; Glenn A. Tupper, Associate Grand Patron, of St. Johns; Miss Genevieve Nauman, Grand Secretary, of West Branch; Miss Gertrude Tennis, Grand Treasurer, of Ashley; Mrs. Flora Sutherland, Grand Conductress, of Benton Harbor; Mrs. Cassa Leonard Howe, Associate Grand Conductress, of Grand Rapids; Mrs. Anna Ball, Grand Ruth, of Traverse City; Mrs. Beatrice Fuqua, Grand Elceta, of Harrisville; Winfield Gardner, Grand Sentinel, and Mrs. Gardner of Manveltona.

WHITTEMORE SCHOOL FAIR HELD FRIDAY

Annual Event Is Very Well Attended; Fine Program Rendered

The Whittemore school staged its sixth annual school "Fair" on Armistice eve. The affair was very well attended by guests from all of the neighboring towns as well as a good local turnout.

As in other years, the Parent-Teacher Association gave its annual supper, the memory of which will remain until your next supper, ladies. Never was a meal better prepared, served, or more enjoyed by those whom you served.

Besides the usual carnival attractions, a two-hour program was given by the school. This program included the children of the primary room coached by their teacher, Miss Lois Leslie. Besides their regular part in the program, the elementary room, with Norman Schuster as teacher, introduced their children's orchestra. Russell Rollin, in addition to preparing the intermediate room for its share of the program, assisted in arranging the entire program. Mrs. John Musser had a well trained mixed chorus as her part of the program and Miss Norma Lilley trained three groups of the high school in plays and a minstrel. Howard Switzer's agricultural display was unusually good this year. The seed display was almost as complete as that at many county fairs. Everyone, teachers and students, did his bit and so the affair was put on better than ever. Truly, many fingers do make a task easy and quickly finished. Much can be done when so large a group have a common task and work together as the whole faculty and student body do at Whittemore.

We, your school, are glad to have again presented a successful "Fair." We hope you enjoyed your evening with us and that we may gather together again next year. We wish to thank all of you who donated your services, cars, trucks, the piano used in the program, the lumber to construct the stages, and most of all, we wish to let you know that we realize how much the success of our "Fair" is due to your efforts and attendance. May you and we always be so kindly associated in doing things for each other.

NEW HEATING PLANT INSTALLED AT RIVOLI

The Rivoli Theatre has just completed the installation of its new vacuum steam heating plant to insure its patrons against the coldest kind of weather. Fred T. Luedtke, local plumber and heating engineer, made the installation and spent much time and effort to make this job one of his best.

Herman A. Bird, manager of the Rivoli Theatre, informs us of a reduction in theatre admissions to be effective with the showing of Will Rogers' newest and latest picture, "Doctor Bull"—adults, 25c; students, 15c; and children at all times, 10c. These prices will continue through the winter for the evening shows and will also prevail for the Sunday and holiday matinees.

"Broadway to Hollywood" A Drama With Pageantry

Sweeping back in brilliant splendor to the joyous eighties and the gay nineties, onward to modern times, "Broadway to Hollywood," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's glittering cavalcade of theatredom, is the unusual attraction playing at the Family Theatre, East Tawas, for three days, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, November 19-20-21.

This picture is unique in that while essentially a vivid drama of three generations of a vaudeville family, it at the same time injects the pomp and pageantry of the Gay White Way of an earlier and more colorful era.

Broadway and Hollywood stars mingle in the picture, which starts in the days of Tony Pastor, with Alice Brady and Frank Morgan as "The Two Hacketts," a dancing duo. Their son, played by Jackie Cooper, grows up and joins the act. This boy, grown up, is played by Russell Hardie, and in the final sequence, laid in a modern talkie studio, Eddie Quillan plays the grandson who becomes a film star. Also prominent in the action of the story are Jimmy Durante, Madge Evans and May Robson.

To the present generation it offers a new type of entertainment with "old timers" playing alongside personalities well known to the theatre-goer of today.

"East of Fifth Avenue" Thrilling, Dramatic Film

Life in a boarding house fraudulently presents situations fraught with dramatic possibilities. Each tenant is a story by himself—all the occupants together offer a colorful, kaleidoscopic panorama of life—joy, despair, love, hate, and intrigue weave the pattern.

Columbia Pictures has taken this interesting theme and produced a picture—a picture which might be labeled "The 'Grand Hotel' of boarding house life in New York." It is called, "East of Fifth Avenue," and will be showing at the Family Theatre, East Tawas, next Wednesday and Thursday, November 22 and 23.

Heading the cast will be seen Wallace Ford, Dorothy Tree and Mary Carlisle, with a supporting group that includes Walter Connolly, Walter Byron, Lucien Littlefield and many others.

Zion Lutheran Church

Rev. C. G. Riedel of Detroit will conduct services in both the German and English languages next Sunday, November 19.

Rev. F. A. Sievert, the pastor, is still in Samaritan hospital, Bay City, recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident last week Wednesday night near Pinconning.

To Destroy Submarines From Air

THE British royal air force has developed a flying boat that is expected to destroy submarines, for it will carry the quick fire gun here illustrated. The gun fires 1 1/2 pound projectiles at the rate of 100 rounds a minute with an effective range of 1,500 yards. It is mounted on a rotary turret in the forward cockpit of the plane. How the heavy recoil of the gun is absorbed is the secret of the air force.

JERRY PLANS A HOUSE FOR REDDY

AS REDDY FOX trotted away in the moonlight with never a glance back at the Smiling Pool and Jerry Muskrat he grinned. "He almost forgot himself," he muttered. "In another minute he would have been out on the bank. If he had he would have been in my stomach by this time." Reddy chuckled. "I wonder how he came to wake up so suddenly. Well, I don't mind. I didn't expect to go 'im the very first time. I'll call a few times and after a while he'll forget all about who I am."

Promptly at the appointed time the next evening Reddy appeared on the bank of the Smiling Pool. From the shadow of the Big Rock Jerry Muskrat was watching him. He tried to make himself think he wasn't watching for Reddy, but he was. And if Reddy hadn't come Jerry would have been disappointed. As it was he swam out quite as if he was on his way to the entrance of the Laughing Brook.

"Have you got my new house all planned for me?" asked Reddy softly. Jerry stopped swimming and glanced toward the bank where Reddy sat. He was looking just as handsome and just as pleasant as he had on the night before. Jerry wouldn't have had Reddy know it for the world, but he had thought of little else but that house since Reddy had left the night before. You know Jerry dearly loves house-building and planning.

"I've thought about it a little," he confessed. "Of course you know my house hasn't any entrance except from underneath by way of a tunnel and that is what makes it so safe," he continued.

Reddy nodded. "I know," said he, "but of course my house, being on dry land, will have to have an entrance in the side."

"No, it won't!" cried Jerry Muskrat, drifting in close to the bank. "No, it

WHAT HE IS

MAN will be judged by what he is, Not what he has. Each coin of his, If riches are his only goal, May make him poorer in his soul.

If he shall prize Alone the things That money buys Or money brings, He may be poorer far than those Who still find pleasure in a rose. Unless that pleasure has remained, More he has lost than he has gained.

Man will be judged by what's within, Not what he wears. An act of sin Makes rags of riches. Deeds of good Make rich the poorest brother's hood. The world thinks more Of wealth, of style, But only for A little while,

THREE GOOD THINGS

WHEN troubled as to what to serve for the Sunday night supper, try:

Supper Dish.

Take one cupful of grated cheese, one-half cupful of bread crumbs, one-half tablespoonful of butter, two cupfuls of milk and one egg well beaten. Melt the butter, add the milk and crumbs, and when hot add the cheese. When the cheese is melted add salt and pepper and stir in the well beaten egg. Season with a dash of cayenne and mustard and serve on toast.

Date Puff.

Beat six egg yolks and add one cupful of powdered sugar, one-half cupful of walnut meats cut up, one-half package of dates cut fine, one-half cupful of fine bread crumbs to which one teaspoonful of baking powder has been added. Mix all together and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a slow oven for half an hour. Serve with whipped cream topped with a maraschino cherry.

Meat Stew.

Cut one and one-half pounds of veal or beef into small pieces. Sear well in hot suet fat. Remove from the fat into a kettle and cover with boiling water. As soon as boiling begins lower the heat and cook slowly until the meat begins to get tender. Then add three potatoes, peeled and cubed, and when the potatoes are nearly done pour all into a deep oblong pan. Reserve a little of the liquid for gravy. Cover the top with sour cream biscuit, leaving spaces between for the steam to escape. Bake in a hot oven and serve with the gravy.

Chicago Children See Their First Cow

INQUIRY brought out the fact that most of the children in the Wentworth school in Chicago never had seen a cow. So Dr. Lloyd Buckhardt of the University of Illinois escorted a real live cow and her calf to the school yard and the children learned about the source of the milk they drink. Some of them were skeptical and were given the chance of milking the cow themselves, whereupon all their doubts vanished.

Will Our Civilization Be Destroyed?

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

At a recent clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons, Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., said, "The war of the future will be one of swift attack from the air. Planes will drop explosives, gas and disease germs which will be rained on centers of civilian population. This is a machine age and wars hereafter will be waged by technical men. We are spending a quarter of a billion dollars for warships which will be obsolete in ten years."

Is Doctor Mayo's statement correct? It certainly is, if the new social order, now in the making, continues to be entirely influenced by size, bulk and monetary power. The present civilization has been largely developed upon the mistaken idea that quantity is indicative of prosperity. Popular opinion acclaims the most prosperous man lives in the largest house, the most successful business enterprise is located in the most ostentatious building. The most important city is the one which can boast of the size of its parks, municipal buildings, bonded indebtedness and the financial security of its banks. The average man thinks

Repeal Will Open Cells of Hundreds

Convicted Liquor Violators to Be Freed.

Washington.—Before Christmas day dawn and as soon after December 6 as it can be managed there will occur an exodus of "prohibition prisoners" from federal penitentiaries throughout the country without parallel since a Paris mob threw open the gates of the Bastille and tossed a monarchy into the discard.

It is more than a possibility that the governors of many of the states which have been marking time so far on the release of prohibition law offenders will follow in line with orders from Washington and free every man and woman convicted of crime under the wording of the Eighteenth amendment.

The repeal of prohibition law is no longer a possibility but as certain as death or taxes. By December 6 the last of the necessary state ratifications will have been made—and a new leaf will be turned over where the book has lain open for 13 years.

Will Use Common Sense.
According to Attorney General Homer Cummings, "a common sense attitude will be maintained in the department" in the matter of federal prisoners. He added that it might not be advisable to issue a blanket order for release, as many cases have other sides to them over and above the simple breaking of the prohibition law.

Repeal also will bring demand for issuance of Presidential pardons for the thousands who have been sentenced over the last 13 years and who now are on parole.

Already a number of those states which have voted to throw the Eighteenth amendment out of the Constitution have freed the men and women held in accordance with that law. In Michigan, Governor Comstock let out everybody.

From Indiana, where there was until last November, a bone-dry law equaling that of Michigan in severity, comes word that Governor McNutt has released all persons held on simple liquor charges and is giving consideration to all transport and traffic charges.

Leniency in Texas.
"Ma" Ferguson, governor of Texas, is, on the advice and counsel of husband Jim, who led the wets to victory, following in the footsteps of Indiana and promising consideration to the graver liquor charges after repeal is an actual fact.

Such leniency does not mean that the federal government intends to let up on the arrest and prosecution of bootleggers after the Twenty-first amendment becomes effective. Beating the law after repeal means beating the tax laws, Mr. Cummings has gone to some pains to make plain.

The history of prohibition over 13 years shows the following violation tallies as far as the federal government alone is concerned:

Persons to the number of 539,178 were convicted and fines of $75,358,000 were assessed. Since 1926—records before that time were not accurately kept—152,510 persons received jail sentences. Ten millions went in attorney's fees, court cost and loss of wages.

The federal government padlocked 48,911 places, seized 75,517 automobiles and destroyed 326,303 stills at an estimated cost to the owners of $32,000,000. From 1920 to 1929, 1,360 per-

NO NEWSPAPER manager can possibly keep nonsense out of his columns, but he should be careful to carry along every day a suggestion of the old conservative common sense necessary in properly distinguishing right from wrong. Most newspapers do this with considerable faithfulness in spite of the increasing demand for sensationalism. Some of them call it humor, but the common sense is suggested, and may be worked out by those who care for it.

As an example of this I note a recent syndicated article by Westbrook Pegler, and appearing in a good many first rate papers. In introducing Mr. Pegler the paper I see regularly says: "Pegler Gives a Humorous Slant on the New Deal."

What is called a humorous slant is actually the most important piece of wisdom I have seen printed in many months. Mr. Pegler says:

"The trouble with the Russian Soviet system has been that it sought to compel the citizens to work, sometimes resorting to enforced labor, whereas under the American plan enforced loafing will be held over the heads of the comrades as a threat to work hogs who endanger the success of the new deal by indulging a selfish passion for toil."

Mr. Pegler works out the idea to the extent of a column, which is not too much; many others would have made it into a book, and thus buried the good idea.

I cast my vote for a wreath to Westbrook Pegler for writing the most illuminating piece of American wisdom in 1933; possibly for all time.

In being careful I'm rather an enthusiast; when in such mood, and receive an important paper or letter, I put it away so carefully I can't find it later. . . . Altogether my average in exercising care is low, although I believe such virtue one of the first a human being (constantly in danger) should exercise. . . . The time to lock the stable door, of course, is when the thought of thieves first occurs to you, but so many delay that a warning maxim was written centuries ago.

The wisdom conveyed by the maxim is so important that all careless men have been familiar with and frequently repeated it hundreds of years without it doing them any good. That is what discourages me.

A young man went to a doctor for advice, and the doctor asked: "Have you been leading a normal life?" The young man replied that he had. "Well," continued the doctor, "you must cut out liquor and women for at least six months. . . . This may be a good joke—I confess to a smile myself—but it displays a fault common to most American jokes, in that it gives the impression that all normal men drink too much intoxicating liquor. Not one in twenty of them do. How many confirmed drunkards do you know? I have asked myself the question. My reply is, I do not know to exceed three or four, and these so widely scattered they annoy me rarely. . . . In thinking over that part of the joke referring to women, I become more serious, but risk no figures.

A new word lately becoming popular is moron. (Meaning a man suffering from arrested mental development.) It is rather a better word than fool, which seems to mean a man who is not a full shilling; who never had any sense, and never will have any. But a moron means one born with sufficient and average intelligence, and after reaching twenty-five or thirty, becomes shiftless as to his mind, and quits developing it.

I estimate there are hundreds of morons to one fool; the number of complete fools is actually not great; there seems little doubt that the mind may be developed as naturally and easily as the muscles, by proper exercise; but as we grow older our natural disposition is to become flabby in flesh and mind. Millions are today supporting doctrines as foolish as perpetual motion. (Inflation, as an example; it is the same thing.)

All such are suffering from arrested mental development; they do not take a proper daily dozen for their heads. Men die unnecessarily every day because of arrested physical development, and morons develop in the same way; they become poorer thinkers because they do not fairly and properly exercise their minds, and shuffle shiftlessly along to the bread line or poor house when they might have easier lived fairly respectable and successful lives, and finally achieved a very good obituary in the local papers.

After young men become educated in engineering they begin clamoring for jobs. This clamoring has already resulted in the present staggering appropriations for unnecessary and foolish dams, reservoirs, lakes, river improvement, etc.

The more young men act like cautious old men, the better they will get along.

Usually an American will cheerfully attend a reform convention, and make and listen to flowery and foolish speeches; but he is very slow in shouldering a musket and attending the secret meeting of a vigilance committee that means business.

WAR ON "HATLESS" FAD

Spain's "hatless brigade," started recently by young men, has spread until it has developed into a fashion to not cover the head, and as a result 200,000 Spanish families are facing want. Decreased sales have spread poverty among the hat-making and allied industries to such an extent that hatmakers are distributing printed appeals saying: "Our plight today may be your plight tomorrow. So be patriotic and wear a hat to help Spanish industry."

Why Children Need a Liquid Laxative

The temporary relief children get from some synthetic, habit-forming cathartic may cause bowel strain, and even set-up irritation in the kidneys. A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to give the child "a double dose" a day or two later.

Can constipation be corrected in children? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say many mothers who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Give the dose you find suited to the system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until the bowels are moving regularly without aid.

An approved liquid laxative (one that is widely used for children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The mild laxative action of this excellent preparation is the best form of help for children—and grown-ups, too. The dose can be regulated for any age or need.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

In this era athletics are considered important for the good health of women as well as to men. Since it is not always possible for homemakers to devote hours to training, it may be well to suggest that there are such things as household athletics. These do not have the glamor which is present when a group of women don gymnasium suits and practice in a building or on grounds devoted to physical training. Nor are the exercises planned for the particular purpose of developing the human figure and making it strong. Nevertheless, they supply bending and twisting, straightening and spiral, stretching and crouching positions, etc., as decided in athletics. Every homemaker can take advantage of them without spending money and to the advantage of her health and her house.

There are few of these household athletics which develop as many muscles and sinews as does dusting—a daily routine. Rungs of chairs, feet of tables, edges of lowest shelves of open bookcases, baseboards about walls, all these have to be dusted and hundreds of other low articles or parts of them. The homemaker at the task must bend, crouch, and straighten up again. There is exercise for arms, wrists, hands and also for legs and feet, for there is more or less walking about which must be done. Nor is this all. The woman must stretch some to reach tops of doors, bureaus, and other pieces of tall furniture. She may even have to stand on tiptoes, thus developing the muscles of the feet.

Exercise in Making Beds.

When making beds the muscles of arms, legs and back are brought into action, for here again there must be more or less walking and stooping and then the arms are kept in constant movement when pulling covers up, smoothing them and tucking them in, as every housewife knows.

Doing the laundry work is less of an athletic stunt than it used to be, if the electric washer is part of the household equipment. But, even so, there is some action requiring muscular movement. Ironing calls for arm motion, and the continual lifting and pushing back and forth of the iron calls into play the muscles of the back as well as arms.

It would be possible to go through the whole category of household tasks, viewing them in the light of their gymnastic values. But it is not so important to enumerate them as to suggest how to get the best athletic advantages from them. For instance, when stooping, bend from the waist as often as it is possible, keeping the knees straight. When crouching low, squat, for this bends the knees and keeps them supple. When stretching beware of overstraining the muscles. Use a stool or stepladder for things that might cause strain. Bend sideways sometimes instead of moving the body as for a forward stoop.

Poise and Rest.
Keep the head up and the back as straight as possible, for this helps poise. Make the most athletic use of the simple and regular household tasks and be ready to stop for the rest which would be demanded of one doing regulation gymnastics when fatigue is felt. To overdo is to lose the value of the gymnastics or the household athletics.

One of the things which helps to make life happy is the power of enjoyment. The saying quoted, "He that hath, to him shall be given," is indeed true in this instance. By exercising whatever capacity of enjoyment we have, the more power for happiness is given to us. We are given perceptions, quick to note and to seize upon things great or small which tend to increase joy. Since happiness cannot exist when detrimental to others, not true happiness, the pleasure in it is to be treasured.

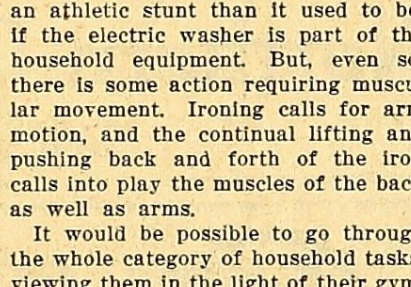

It is said of some people that they have the "gift of happiness" or the "gift of enjoyment." This is the result of having made the most of whatever capacity they had. It is well to remember that this same thing is true of unwelcome as welcome things. We must stem whatever capacity for unpleasant things lies within us, if we would draw unto us gifts of happiness. We must stress the good, we must note, daily, all, even the small things which make for joy.

of progress in terms of statistics, and success is measured by the balance sheet at the end of the year.

No sane person would venture the suggestion that we return to a condition of living prior to the time we possessed many of the comforts of our modern age. Nor would any person suggest that less money be spent on the development of the arts and sciences. Perhaps we need more of such cultural advantages. The permanence of our civilization, however, does not depend upon these possessions for the obvious reason that they all can be destroyed in the twinkling of an eye. In this respect again Doctor Mayo is right.

What guarantee have we then against the destruction of our civilization? The rise and fall of nations attest the truth of the statement, "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." "If 90 per cent of reform is purely educative and the rest emotional and legislative," then is it not imperative that all forms of organized Christianity and all educational institutions teach the necessity of cultivating the spiritual values of life? Only when the spiritual transcends the material will our civilization be safe from those forces which laid in ashes other nations and completely annihilated their civilizations.

Convicted Liquor Violators to Be Freed.

Washington.—Before Christmas day dawn and as soon after December 6 as it can be managed there will occur an exodus of "prohibition prisoners" from federal penitentiaries throughout the country without parallel since a Paris mob threw open the gates of the Bastille and tossed a monarchy into the discard.

The repeal of prohibition law is no longer a possibility but as certain as death or taxes. By December 6 the last of the necessary state ratifications will have been made—and a new leaf will be turned over where the book has lain open for 13 years.

Will Use Common Sense.
According to Attorney General Homer Cummings, "a common sense attitude will be maintained in the department" in the matter of federal prisoners. He added that it might not be advisable to issue a blanket order for release, as many cases have other sides to them over and above the simple breaking of the prohibition law.

Repeal also will bring demand for issuance of Presidential pardons for the thousands who have been sentenced over the last 13 years and who now are on parole.

Already a number of those states which have voted to throw the Eighteenth amendment out of the Constitution have freed the men and women held in accordance with that law. In Michigan, Governor Comstock let out everybody.

From Indiana, where there was until last November, a bone-dry law equaling that of Michigan in severity, comes word that Governor McNutt has released all persons held on simple liquor charges and is giving consideration to all transport and traffic charges.

Leniency in Texas.
"Ma" Ferguson, governor of Texas, is, on the advice and counsel of husband Jim, who led the wets to victory, following in the footsteps of Indiana and promising consideration to the graver liquor charges after repeal is an actual fact.

Such leniency does not mean that the federal government intends to let up on the arrest and prosecution of bootleggers after the Twenty-first amendment becomes effective. Beating the law after repeal means beating the tax laws, Mr. Cummings has gone to some pains to make plain.

The history of prohibition over 13 years shows the following violation tallies as far as the federal government alone is concerned:

Persons to the number of 539,178 were convicted and fines of $75,358,000 were assessed. Since 1926—records before that time were not accurately kept—152,510 persons received jail sentences. Ten millions went in attorney's fees, court cost and loss of wages.

The federal government padlocked 48,911 places, seized 75,517 automobiles and destroyed 326,303 stills at an estimated cost to the owners of $32,000,000. From 1920 to 1929, 1,360 persons were killed in connection with enforcement. The bill for trying to dry America ran into an average of $40,000,000 a year, or a rough total outlay of $520,000,000. During that period America's illicit drink bill has been figured at $2,848,000,000.

Frenchman Finds Petunia Plants Kill Potato Bug

Potato bugs were imported into France during the World war in sacked potatoes for the American expeditionary force.

Abbe Cales discovered that if petunias were planted among potatoes the bugs flocked to the petunias.

Hobo Pigeon Rides Switching Engine

Moncton, N. D.—There's a hobo pigeon in the railway yards here. Its favorite roosting place is the tender and cab of a switching engine.

Upon this mobile roost it will ride the length of the yards, but it supplies its own motive power for the return trip. It flies back to the starting point and awaits the return of the engine. Then it goes for another ride.

With a number of switching engines busy in the same yard, the pigeon always picks the same one for its trips. The pigeon is jealous of its prerogatives and will fight away any other pigeons that attempt to usurp its rights.

You Can DEPEND ON Corduroy Tires

Quick starting—increased power—high speed—and four-wheel brakes make it essential that your car is equipped with tires of extra strength. Corduroys are designed and constructed to meet every requirement of today's cars.

They are built as good as the best, then made stronger by addition of Sidewall Protection—extra ribs of rubber molded on the sidewall to doubly fortify that vital part of the tire.

They're safe and modern.

RED CROSS RELIEF AIDS DISTRESSED IN 120 DISASTERS

Help Given in Fires, Floods, Earthquake and Epidemics Part of Year's Task

The American Red Cross has reached into the homes of six million families in the past year with unemployment and disaster relief, Chairman John Barton Payne announced.

"As the year closed the organization continued in readiness to serve in the forthcoming winter at the point of greatest need and to adjust its service to meet the calls of the emergency of unemployment and disaster," Chairman Payne stated.

In a year of greatest economic distress in the nation's history, in which the Red Cross ably discharged a relief task in distributing flour and clothing to distressed families in all but six of the nation's 3,098 counties, the organization also was called into action in 120 disasters, of which 96 were within the borders of the United States.

Earthquake, floods, hurricanes, fires and other cataclysms visited death and destruction upon the lives and homes of thousands of people. Red Cross statistics showed that in the 120 disasters almost a thousand lives were lost, 148,340 homes were destroyed or damaged, 13,275 persons were injured, and Red Cross relief was given to 452,879 individuals.

In giving aid in these disasters, in its unemployment relief and in handling the distribution of government wheat and cotton, the Red Cross expended from its national treasury the sum of $1,070,284.

During one period of twelve weeks, 46 disasters occurred in 23 states. Red Cross disaster workers were hard pressed in meeting all of these needs occurring at once, but everywhere misery was promptly relieved.

Support of the Red Cross work is through its annual roll call, conducted by chapters in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to November 30. Every citizen who joins the Red Cross as a member aids in carrying relief to disaster victims and in other Red Cross services, such as preservation of life, child welfare through the Junior Red Cross, and direct service for the public health.

First "Red Cross"

Although not identified in name, the history of the Red Cross may be traced back to 1813, when some ladies of Frankfurt, Germany, formed themselves into a society, called the Frauenverein, to alleviate suffering caused by the great continental war commenced in that year.

Writer's Odd Amusement

Hale News

Miss Cecelia Simmons is the guest of Miss Ruth Ingersol.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson, Mrs. R. D. Brown and Mrs. D. D. Pearson attended the dinner and initiation ceremonies of Iosco Chapter, O. E. S., at East Tawas on Saturday evening of last week.

Several local parties of deer hunters left for camp on Tuesday.

The Worthy Matron and ten members of Hale Chapter, O. E. S., attended a school of instruction given by the Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Selma Brown of Birmingham, to Zion Chapter, O. E. S., West Branch, on Monday evening. Dinner preceded the ceremonies.

Mrs. M. Earhart of Whittemore is visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. Peck, of Loud Dam.

A community Thanksgiving dinner has become an established event in Hale. The two churches are sponsoring the dinner and an invitation is extended to all to attend. A program and social hour will follow the dinner.

The First Baptist church held its business session on Monday evening, November 13. A superintendent was elected in addition to the routine church business. Several of the young people are going to Prescott Sunday evening for baptism. The regular Sunday school hour is 11:00 A. M. On Sunday, November 19, several new members will join the Sunday school classes. Everyone is extended an invitation to attend the services.

(Too Late for Last Week)

Twenty members of Hale Grange met with the newly re-organized Greenwood Grange on the Hemlock road Wednesday evening. Installation of officers and an interesting program of dialogues, recitations and music was put on during the lecturer's hour by Hale members. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Nunn, delegates to the recent meeting of the State Grange, were present, and Mr. Nunn briefly presented the chief resolutions and business transacted at Alma during business sessions. A delicious lunch was served by the ladies of Greenwood, and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the evening together.

Mrs. Mary A. Scofield of Toledo, Ohio, passed away Wednesday night after a short illness. Her son, Thurman, left for Toledo on Thursday. The remains will be brought to Hale and interred in the family lot at Evergreen cemetery. The funeral services will be held at her old home now occupied by her son, Thurman, and family, on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

Wheat Production and Acreage Statements

Of Members of the Wheat Production Control Association of Iosco County of Arenac-Iosco District, State of Michigan.

The following is a statement of the production and planted acreages of wheat in the years 1930, 1931, 1932, and planted acreage for 1933 of producers of Whittemore Community who have submitted applications for farm allotments. This publication is made in compliance with the regulations of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. It is made so that a check may be made on all statement claims, and so that reports may be made to the county Wheat Production Control Association on any inaccuracies which may appear in the statements.

The allotment for this county has been definitely calculated from official records of the United States Department of Agriculture, and is 3990 bushels. This is the total allotment for the county. Therefore, if any farmer receives a greater allotment than his past production warrants, he is thus depriving other farmers in this county of their just share.

Total production figures of those who apply for contracts, together with those who do not, must be consistent with the official county production as shown by the records of the United States Department of Agriculture. If the county totals are greater than the official totals, it will be necessary to make a downward adjustment.

Any person may make a confidential report if he finds any statement here which he believes to be inaccurate. Such reports should be made to the community or county Allotment Committee, either in writing or verbally. The reports will be strictly confidential. A farmer whose statements are said to be inaccurate will need to prove his production figures.

Farmers have been asked to furnish evidence of production and evidence of sale, such as thresherman's certificates, elevator certificates, or other records and receipts. Satisfactory evidence will be required of any farmer whose statement is questioned.

The following statements have been condensed to save space. "bu" represents acres planted and "bu" represents bushels harvested. The "3-year average" represents the 3-year average acreage and production of 1930-32. Farmers should refer any questions regarding this publication to their Community Committee or the County Allotment Committee. (Signed) Alex Shambleau, Chairman, County Allotment Committee; Archie M. The Fourth Lovely Lady

By THERESE BENSON

WNU Service

(© The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

SYNOPSIS

Following the splendid wedding of her niece, Cintra, to Lord Leister, which she has financed, Matilda Smith Lovely ("Smif," by her own insistence), youngest and physically the weightiest of the four Lovely sisters, finds herself in decidedly straitened circumstances, but has her own plans for the future, which she refuses to divulge to her sisters, prominent figures in New York society. The historic Lovely estate, Lovelylea, in Virginia, is owned by Smif's brother, Bill-Lee, but, financially unable to maintain his position there "as a Lovely should," he is living in Chile, while the estate is rented. Smif's dearest wish is to own Lovelylea, to which she feels sure her brother will not return. It is rented to a Mr. Johnstone Nesbit.

Her heart beating rapidly, almost unable to believe her eyes, Smif stared around her. They were on the second floor of the establishment and it seemed designed expressly for her purposes.

"What part of the premises do you wish to reserve for yourself?" she asked breathlessly. "Could you get along without this floor?"

"As ailsy as ye'd get along without a hollow tooth," the woman answered eagerly. "Do ye know of any one who'd like to take it off me hands?"

Again Smif looked around her. "Not with your fittings, I'm afraid."

"To be sure not. 'Tis more than I could expect. There's little here but draperies, an' they can be packed away. The lounge chairs I could use down stairs until better times. 'Twould save storage." The woman's quick brain had settled all details in a flash.

"Do ye think there's any chance of me rentin' it, Miss Lovely? It might make just the difference to me between sinkin' or swimmin'." I don't mind tellin' ye that I'm overladen.

Miss Cintra's dresses was a grand help—

In her agitation and sudden hope Madame Georgette was babbling.

Smif stopped her good-humoredly. "Fix a moderate price for a frock and, once we've settled that, I'll tell you what I have in mind for this floor if you can really spare it."

Madame Georgette, amazed, incredulous, doubtful of the success of so unusual a venture, when at last she was won over, threw herself wholeheartedly into the details of furnishing the stage-setting and incidentally saved Smif both money and annoying delays. In time the alliance of good will was destined to work out to the advantage of both Madame Georgette and her tenant, neither hesitating to recommend the other where she might be of use.

The word Lovely having an unfortunate connotation, from the inception of the plan Smif had known that she must take a business name, and finally she struck on the name Saitou. It was in no known language. It did not mean anything, but it sounded as if it might, and before she had expected, Smif found herself launched as Madame Saitou.

Her staff consisted of one small boy. He was dressed in black with many gilt buttons. A round braided cap of jade green, poised over one ear and held by a gilded chin strap, lent him picturesqueness. The diminutive infant was officially entitled Buttons and entered into his duties with enthusiasm.

Smif had seen little of her sisters during her period of preparation and, hearing nothing of her activities, they took it for granted there were none. Either she had given up her foolish plans or had exaggerated her situation. It was like Smif to make an amazing story out of nothing.

It was Doctor Stannard who brought about the revelation. He and his wife were engaged to dine at the Hammersleys and he was called out professionally at the last moment so that Lucy was obliged to go on alone.

He came in, however, before the cocktails were finished.

"I'm glad you weren't detained, Cyril," his wife greeted him. "Nothing serious, I hope?"

"Nothing at all, you might say," he shrugged, as if the fault were hers. "A fool who wants a doctor to hold her hand and tell her she looks younger than she did when she was nineteen every time she discovers the beginning of a wrinkle. I've always thought that a man was justified in sending his tiresome patients to psychoanalysts and such people as this Madame Saitou Reeves Blanton is so keen on."

Cyril fumbled in his pocket and drew out a couple of cards.

"Blanton gave me several of these and advised me to use them," he said. "She's not a psychoanalyst, as I understand it. She's just a Pollyanna sort of person. Big and jolly and fat. Rather laughs people out of their silly fads and notions, I take it."

There was a swift exchange of glances between the sisters. A horrible suspicion had struck them at the same instant.

Laura reached for the cards and passed one to Lucy.

MADAME SAITOU
Little Sister of the Rich
000 Fifth Avenue
Terms high.

Special appointments, double fees.

"Surely it's a joke!" Lucy cried. Watching her, however, Laura saw the fingers that held the card tremble and at once skillfully dismissed the subject of Madame Saitou.

Not till she went into her sister's room to put on her wrap did Lucy find a chance of sharing her suspicions.

"You don't for a moment think it can be Smif?"

"I'm afraid I do," Laura returned. "Isn't it just the sort of thing she talked of at luncheon that day?"

"If this is what she's doing she must be stopped. It would simply engage Cyril. I mean he is so particular about his professional standing it would simply kill him."

"We're probably agitating ourselves needlessly." Laura patted her sister on her shoulder to reassure her. "Anyway, say nothing about it—especially to Louise. I'll see Smif tomorrow and find out what she's doing with herself."

"You'll see her tomorrow without fail?" Lucy implored. "I shan't have a happy moment until I know, you know."

"Without fail," Laura promised. But by the time she was up and had telephoned the Badminton Miss Lovely had gone for the day.

Did they know where Miss Lovely could be reached?

With deep regret, the clerk assured her that he did not.

Laura hung up. She wished she could find Smif. There was nothing more annoying than to be kept in suspense. And then the way to end that suspense occurred to her. She took up the telephone again and ordered her car. She would go to see Madame Saitou.

On the way to make her call, Laura had time to reflect and to suffer many qualms. Should Madame Saitou prove not to be Smif, what could she say to her? There was nothing she wanted to consult her about. She finally decided to ask to have her horoscope drawn. It might be amusing, and if Madame Saitou were not a horoscopist it would provide an easy escape.

The motor drew up as near to the number she had given as the crowd of cars parked at the curb would permit. She descended, and locating the number she was searching for on a tall narrow building, she walked past it twice before she entered the vestibule leading to the elevators.

She had recognized Madame Georgette's shop, and its proximity reassured her. The elevator slid into sight to discharge its freight: a girl, pretty in spite of the cheap make-up which hid her fresh young skin; a messenger boy, chewing gum as if his job depended on it; and a worried-looking man with a large horseshoe pin of emeralds adorning his expensive necktie.

Laura was sure the emeralds were real, and immediately, while noting no more of him than the pin, cast him in the role of gunman. When the elevator boy asked, "What floor, please?" she said "Madame Saitou" reluctantly, as though she were disclosing a compromising secret. And she was no whit reassured when he announced cheerily "Second floor," and ushered her out of the car before she had time to resist.

She thought peevishly that he was in a great hurry to be rid of her. Directly in front was a door across which was a bar on which was printed for all the world to read: "Obliged by using the entrance at the front." No name was attached.

"Highly mysterious!" Laura told herself.

A few faltering steps brought her to another door, uncomprehendingly labeled "MADAME SAITOU." Nothing more.

Here she paused to quiet her nerves. Of course it was Smif. Why was she hesitating? Yet she opened the door with a hint of violent haste, so fearful was she that her courage might evaporate.

At once she found herself in the most cheerful and modernistic of foyers, done in emerald green and citron yellow. A boy in livery, with red curls bushing out below his natty cap, sprang to attention.

Would Madame be seated while he inquired if it would be possible for Madame Saitou to see her? Madame Saitou's time was heavily taxed.

"Tell Madame Saitou it is Mrs. James Hammersley. She will see me." She said it haughtily, placing the slightest shade of emphasis upon the last word; and the next moment regretted the impulse that had led her to give her name. If the woman were a blackmail—she had heard of such things.

The boy returned. Madame Saitou would be able to give her a few minutes shortly. At the moment she was engaged.

If Laura was nervous, Smif at the back of the establishment was hardly less so. Plainly the tug of war with her family could be postponed no longer.

The upshot of much meditation was that she used Madame Georgette's private elevator to summon that kindly woman.

"My sister, Mrs. Hammersley, is here," she announced without reserve, since Madame Georgette already knew that her family were in ignorance of her occupation.

"And what do you care, dearie—" she at once began truculently.

Smif stopped her. "In one way, not at all. In another I find I care a surprising lot," she said succinctly. "This is why I wanted to speak to you, Madame. There's just a chance that even yet she has no idea who Madame Saitou is and has come to consult her in good faith. But if Laura has come snooping—and that is what I suspect—I mean to punish her for it. Why didn't she ask me what I was doing, straight out, man to man?"

She did not add that on the few occasions when she had seen Laura or Lucy of late they had taken every opportunity to stress the pleasures and advantages of life in South America, and that their obvious desire to be rid of her had wounded her deeply. Their affection for her was so hidden by their selfishness that she had begun to doubt its existence.

"And what do you want of me, Miss Lovely?" Madame Georgette asked. "I'm ready to help you, you know that."

"I want you to lend me Mademoiselle Ivonne for a few minutes. I propose to make sure of Mrs. Hammersley's fee before she sees me."

Smif showed her white teeth in a highly malicious grin and Madame Georgette ejaculated "God save us!" adding: "You wouldn't be takin' money off your own sister, Miss Lovely?"

"If she has come here to spy on me, I would," Smif declared. "She deserves to be punished. Moreover, in any case, to make her appreciate that

"I am not making a show of myself," she said. "I am making money. And that is what I set out to do. I have a use for money."

"Most people have." Laura brushed this aside. "You're only quibbling, Smif. You must know this can't go on. We can't have our sister practising as a sort of charlatan. Imposing on the gullible—"

"I am not a charlatan," Smif returned without heat. "For the first time in my life I am a useful member of society. I am ashamed when I think of the years I wasted on Cintra."

"You're talking like an awful prig," Laura was eager to make the argument commonplace and to drive home her contentions. "The truth is, what you want is money, as you owned at first; and not for charity or any high-falutin' object but just for self-indulgence. You want to buy back Lovelylea. All right, say you could buy it back, what would you do with it?"

"I can make it self-supporting, which is what Bill-Lee ought to have done—"

Laura swept on, not, however, ignoring the interruption:

"—And that would only be postponing the evil day. It is bound to go out of the family. I ask you, what do you think would become of the plantation after you died? You'll never have any children, and if you left it to any of us, we'd be only too anxious to sell it and get it off our hands. Oh, Smif, don't be an idiot! Be satisfied with something suitable. I'll get Jim to buy you a dear little place in the country. In Virginia, if that's what you want; and, if you really need it, we'll manage an allowance—"

Laura meant to be kind and one or two of her arguments had struck home. Smif had long been sure she would never marry and asked herself why the bald brutality of the statement that she would never have any children had given her such a pang? But it was the suggestion that she should live out her life dependent on Jim Hammersley's bounty that roused her to rebellion.

"You're very generous for Jim, Laura," she said angrily. "Please forget that plan, as I shall. I am entirely able to support myself. I'm sorry if you don't approve of my business. I find it both remunerative and enjoyable, and I propose to continue in it. It is useless to argue the matter further."

Seeing at last that her first efforts had been wrongly directed, Laura tried entreaties, in time even working herself up to the point of tears.

"How can we bear to have you run such risks? Open to visits from the most awful people in a public building like this. Why, I met the most terrible creature, a gunman I'm sure, coming out of the elevator with a huge emerald horseshoe in his necktie."

Smif burst out laughing.

"To think what I missed!" she cried. "Unfortunately your gunman was not one of my clients, Laura. . . . You may as well break it to the others that there's nothing to be done with Smif. As usual, she's as obstinate as a mule. Keep them from bothering me and I'll bless you for ever. And now run along like a good girl. My time's worth money."

As Smif retraced her steps to the middle of the lounge, thoughtfully tapping her lips with Laura's folded laid long," she suggested. "I am not accustomed to waiting."

Jalna was pleased with her new role. People with the inflections Mrs. Hammersley employed always rubbed her the wrong way.

"No longer than is necessary, Madame," she said. "I assure you it is a concession on Madame Saitou's part to receive you at all without an appointment." She bowed herself out, and again Laura was left to her own devices. Time passed slowly until Buttons at last appeared once more.

"Madame Saitou will see you now if you will come this way," he said, and led her past the angles of the corridor into the lounge at the rear.

The room was modernistic, the walls sharply patterned in black, red and gold; the floor black, highly polished; the hangings of the little stage red velvet, a tone softer yet as vivid as geranium. The boy went out the way he had come and again Laura waited. Then the curtains parted silently and Madame Saitou advanced.

For just one instant Laura was in doubt. Costumed in the color of her surroundings there was something oriental, mysterious and majestic about her youngest sister which she had never sensed before.

"Smif!" she cried; but Smif shook her head.

"Madame Saitou," she corrected. "You wished to consult me?"

"Don't be silly," Laura rejoined pettishly. "What in the world would I want to consult you about? I only wanted to see you."

"You need not have come here to do that," Smif pointed out.

Laura's rejoinder was tart.

"I had to come to find out if you really were making such a show of yourself."

Suppressing a smile, Smif shook her head slowly.

"I am not making a show of myself," she said. "I am making money. And that is what I set out to do. I have a use for money."

"Most people have." Laura brushed this aside. "You're only quibbling, Smif. You must know this can't go on. We can't have our sister practising as a sort of charlatan. Imposing on the gullible—"

As Smif retraced her steps to the middle of the lounge, thoughtfully tapping her lips with Laura's folded check, Buttons entered from the passage.

"They's a gentleman, ma'am. No appointment an' he didn't give no name. An' say, he's got the toniest tie-pin I ever saw! Looks like all the green lights up an' down the avenue made into a horseshoe."

Smif started. Plainly Laura's gunman had arrived.

CHAPTER IV

Smif's only advertisement had been the cards which Charles had mailed to a list he had mysteriously procured. Much to her disappointment and contrary to her expectations the business that had come to her so far had proved commonplace. "Not an adventure in the whole batch!" She had sighed to herself regretfully, and indeed so it had proved until the advent of the man with the emerald horseshoe.

An emerald horseshoe did not suggest a friend of Charles. In fact Smif was sure his reaction to such an adornment would have been quite as violent as her sister's.

How then had the man heard of her? Not that it mattered. Of course she meant to see him. The opportunity to interview a possible gunman was unique.

It was, however, a fixed policy with her to make those without appointments await her pleasure.

"Show the gentleman into the second waiting room," she said. "Then go round the corner to the sandwich shop. I'll have olive and cream-cheese sandwiches today. Toasted, don't forget. You've still got money?"

"Yes'm," said Buttons, and vanished on his errand.

This order for sandwiches was usual, Smif took her lunch there daily to avoid dressing for the street.

To await Buttons's coming, she seated herself in a comfortable chair in the lounge and lighted a cigarette. It had a well-nigh hypnotic effect in calming her nerves, and before an engagement with a client she always tried to empty her mind of speculations and personal anxieties as well as of her previous cases. But she was accustomed to docile clients who stayed where they were put.

Consequently she was unable to control a start when a voice at her elbow, in anything but a tone of apology, said:

"Excuse me, you're Madame Saitou, aren't you?"

The gunman, of course, and Buttons, her valiant protector, was absent.

"Yes," she replied, turning and facing him icily, her eyebrows raised, her whole air a resentment of intrusion.

"I am Madame Saitou. At the moment I am engaged. When I am ready to see you, you will be notified."

And she turned her back upon him, expecting him to accept his dismissal. Instead he came swiftly into the lounge and seated himself on a chair facing her, hanging his hat and coat on its back.

"I only wanted to tell you I didn't want to see you at all," he remonstrated mildly.

In spite of herself Smif chuckled. It had struck her that this was a very gentle gunman. And there was something charming in Smif's chuckles.

"That's too bad," she said, still twinkling, "because you are seeing me, aren't you? What do you suppose can be done about it?"

"Nothing." Her visitor looked at her without cracking a smile. His face, melancholy in its lean brownness, was lit by gray eyes under straight black brows. Eyes that were looking at her with a fixity that threatened to degenerate into a stare. It was not a face that fitted the emeralds. It occurred to her that it was not a modern face, its like had looked out upon her from canvasses by Moron.

"I'm not so sure now that I don't want to see you," he remarked with an effect of casualness, plunging his hands in his pockets and continuing to study her under contracted brows.

"You're good. All this, you know—" He withdrew a hand, waved it around the room vaguely and again plunged it back up to the wrist.

Raleigh Gets All Blame for the Muskrat Scourge

Although Sir Walter Raleigh, the transitory favorite of Queen Elizabeth, still has the honor of having introduced tobacco in England, he should, in the opinion of the curator of mammals of the London zoo, also have the dishonor of having introduced the muskrat, which is the scourge of the agricultural districts of the British Isles.

From a certain odoriferous gland possessed by this animal, to which it owes its name, as well as from its pelt, Raleigh expected to make a fortune on account of its rapid breeding qualities. Unfortunately for his aspirations, it took just four centuries for the muskrat to become thoroughly acclimated, so its natural proclivities for perpetuating itself became at all evident. Then they became manifest in a way they never had in the New world whence they came.

BEAUTY TALKS

By MARJORIE DUNCAN

THE HOME FACIAL

HAVING arranged your beauty articles and adjusted your head band, you are ready for the first step in your home treatment. Pour a little skin tonic in one of the small glass bowls. Moisten one of the small pads in the skin tonic and add the cleansing cream to the pad. Start cleansing with sweeping upward movements on the neck, up and around the neck, then on the face—three upward motions on either side of the face. Then around the chin, around the mouth, down on the nose and across the forehead.

Always be sure to use an upward motion.

Applying the cleansing cream with a moistened pad of cotton is the best method and really cleanses the skin thoroughly, not only removes surface dust, but penetrates the pores.

Having applied the cream all over neck and face, remove it with cleansing tissues. They are soft and silky and do not stretch the skin—and are economical to use in the long run because they save your towels and laundry bills. Remove the cream just as you applied it—with upward sweeping movements.

Now, with the face really clean we go to the second step, which is:

Saturate the large patten in the iced skin tonic. Start patting the neck, using a quick, staccato movement—a quick, slapping movement to whip up the circulation. Now up on the face, pat at the corners of the mouth, then across the mouth, then under the chin, then the other side of the face—keep patting briskly until your skin tingles. Hold the patten over the ice for a minute then knead under the eye and over the eyelids. Ice again. Repeat. This is excellent for puffiness under the eyes. By kneading, I mean a gentle pressing and lifting motion, working from the corner of the eyes out to temple both above and below the eyes.

Our skin needs exercise just as our body does, and patting with the skin tonic is the way to exercise it. Not just sponging the skin, but brisk patting for several minutes. This will stimulate the circulation, will help to normalize the oil content if the skin is too oily, or remove the flakiness we find in a dry skin. Don't use skin tonic indifferently—use it regularly—daily.

The skin needs constant study. Notice that it is inclined to be more dry in the winter and moist, normal or even a little oily in the summer. Notice how certain preparations affect it. Treat it to the diet that seems to be kind to it.

Three things are necessary toward perfect results in caring for the skin: first a definite understanding of your own skin, second the choice of preparations suited to it, and third the persistent use of these preparations in the right way.

APPLYING SKIN FOOD

ALWAYS after cleansing skin with a cleansing cream, spend a minute or two patting with skin tonic. I cannot emphasize this too strongly. A good skin tonic should tone your skin, help to keep it clear, glowing, the pores refined. The tonic in itself is an excellent "pick-up" treatment if you have only a few minutes to spare before an important engagement or after a busy day.

Most women need a skin food. Dry skin especially. And this type of skin seems to be on the increase. Unless your skin is excessively oily, include a good, nourishing and preserving skin food in your home treatment. The proper movements for the application of this cream are important.

First movement—Apply the cream with long, sweeping, upward movements all over neck and face. Then using palm and cushioned parts of the fingers, knead the neck. Repeat at least six times. Remember kneading is pressing and lifting.

Second movement—To keep the contour firm and for the important muscle in front of the ear—use the cushioned part of the fingers, start under the chin and lift firmly—under the chin, under the contour (do not stretch or pull, but press and lift) keep lifting and pressing until you reach in front of the ear. Knead about seven distinct movements. Do the movements slowly and practice in front of the mirror.

Third movement—For the important muscles around the mouth and the line from mouth to nose—to prevent drooping and sagging; use three fingers of each hand. Start on chin and lift, lift, lift, using about six movements up from the chin—around the mouth to the side of the nose.

Fourth movement—Use palms of hands, grasp chin firmly and hold it, tense slightly, use five movements, lifting each time, lift under the chin, lift under the contour until you reach below the ear. Do this movement every night and morning. It will rebuild and firm the contour.

Fifth movement—To keep the eyelids full and firm: Place thumbs in front of ears. Starting in the center of the forehead, bend the index fingers. Now lift the brows, press slightly, lift, now move fingers outward a little, press and lift until you come to temple. Repeat very, very gently under the eyes.

LAUNDRY ECONOMY

By RUBY BAKER
Poor quality of soap means a lazy worker in the tub. Tiny specks of dirt stay behind in the clothes. That soon turns your clothes gray. Moreover, you have to rub harder and that actually shortens the life of your clothes.

It's more economical in the long run to pay for a high-grade reliable soap. It will save your clothes and you.

Remember, too, that the color of soap has nothing to do with the whiteness of the clothes. It's washing ability that gets results.

When you buy quality in a soap, it does not matter in what form the soap comes. Quality is everything.

COLORING GOLD

Every fire burns up a portion of the world's stock of gold; practically every shipwreck adds to the loss. Gold has only one way of coming into use, but a thousand ways of disappearing.

Pure gold is extraordinarily soft, and for coinage purposes is alloyed with copper or silver. Jewelers use various metals for the purpose of alloying gold and in this way produce those beautifully colored golds which are now so popular.

Red gold is got by adding 25 parts of copper to 75 of gold; green gold is a mixture of 25 parts of silver with 75 of gold; white water-green is got by mixing 40 parts of silver with 60 of gold.

Blue gold, which is curiously beautiful, is obtained by alloying iron with gold. 25 parts of iron with 75 parts of gold.

Do this for Your Child in TWO WEEKS

How to rid any boy or girl of sluggishness or constipation and build a big appetite. The trouble with children who will not eat is usual stasis. The symptoms are a tongue that's always coated, bad breath, poor color, dull eyes that are often a bilious yellow. No appetite, no ambition—even for play. Hard to get to sleep, hard to wake in the morning.

There's an absolute remedy for this condition. It gives listless youngsters the appetite and energies of a young animal! They eat! They gain! They keep well!

It's not the stomach, but the bowel condition that keeps children from eating. But the trouble is in the lower bowel—the colon. California syrup of figs is the only "medicine" that is needed to stimulate the colon muscles. The very next day, your child is eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and you will see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight and spirits.

Any drug store has the real California syrup of figs, all bottled, with directions. Nature never made a nicer acting or nicer tasting laxative. (It is purely vegetable.) Remember California syrup of figs when sickness, a cold or any upset has clogged a child's bowels.

WARNING: Even when it's something to give children, some stores will try to substitute. So be sure the bottle says CALIFORNIA Syrup of Figs.

Sulphur Has Become Important Industry

Makes Great Strides in U. S. in Thirty Years.

Washington.—Thirty years ago the sulphur industry in the United States was in its swaddling clothes. In 1901 oil drillers discovered large deposits in Texas. From this and other deposits sulphur production has developed until today, domestic mines give up about 80 per cent of the world's supply.

"Perhaps, to the average layman, sulphur is known only as a mineral used in the manufacture of matches, an ingredient of pills and liquids filling drug store shelves, or a yellow substance that is burned to fumigate sick rooms," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"But to many chemists and manufacturers it is a far more important mineral," continues the bulletin. "It hides in many products and aids in the manufacture of others.

"Manufacturers of alcohol, alum, artificial fertilizers and silk; beltings, binders and bleaching agents; celluloid, cements and chemicals; dyes, ebonite, elastics and explosives; fire extinguishers, fireworks, preserved food, and fumigants; glass, glue and glycerin; leather, liquid fuel, live stock food and lubricants; medicine and moving picture films; paints, paper, photographic supplies and poisons; refrigerators, rodent exterminators, and rubber; shoe polish, soap, soda, pickled steel, storage batteries, sugar, and textiles, are all good customers of the sulphur producer. And this is only a partial list of the users of the mineral.

Texas Is Sulphur State.

"Nature was no respecter of world regions when she scattered sulphur through the earth's rocky crust. Apparently, however, she was more generous with some regions than others. Wherever there are volcanoes there is sulphur, but lava-spouting craters were not nature's only beneficiaries, for the coastal plains of Texas now are the world's greatest source of the yellow mineral.

"In 1903 about 95 per cent of the world's supply of sulphur was dug out of the hills of Sicily where it had been produced for several centuries. Although sulphur now is the leading Italian mineral, Italy is the second largest producer. Japan, Chile, Spain, Austria, Ecuador, France, Greece, China and Mexico also have 'workings' but the total output of all of them, including Italy, is only about one-fifth of the amount taken from United States deposits today.

"Texas, with its numerous sulphur properties, is the 'Sulphur State' of the United States. It supplies about 99 per cent of American sulphur. The other 1 per cent comes in normal times from Nevada, Utah, Louisiana, Colorado, and New Mexico. The Lone Star state produces more than 2,000,000 tons a year.

Resembles Oil Well.

"Many deposits, particularly those in Sicily, are worked in much the same way as coal mines. In Texas, a sulphur-producing area resembles an oil field, with lofty derricks dotting the landscape and a network of pipes covering the ground.

"When drillers reach sulphur, they sink steel piping, force super-heated steam into the deposit, and pump the melted mineral through pipes to a huge wooden vat. As the vat is filled, its sides are built higher. The sulphur solidifies—it is almost pure sulphur.

"Then the wooden sides of the vat are removed and the mountainous block of sulphur—about 1,000,000 tons—is exposed. A characteristic sight in the Texas sulphur country are the towering yellow blocks, gleaming in the sun. Some of the vats in which the sulphur is molded are 800 feet long, 300 feet wide, and from 40 to 50 feet high. Railroad spurs are laid beside the blocks, and as sulphur companies receive orders, explosives break down the masses and the mineral is conveyed to cars by steamshovels and belt conveyors."

Urges Early Fight on Boll Weevils

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

Washington.—The Department of Agriculture has already started its fight on next year's crop of cotton boll weevils. It is urging all cotton farmers with whom it can come in contact to destroy the stalks of this year's cotton crop because it is in those stalks that next year's boll weevils are now hibernating.

"Early destruction in the fall of the stalks prevents the development of a multitude of weevils," the department experts explained. "Plowing the stalks under or grazing the land destroys the weevils in immature stages, and destroys the places in which they may grow next year. Destruction of the hibernating places also may cause many weevils, now in adult stage, to starve to death before cold weather arrives, while others will be in a weakened condition from lack of food and will not survive the hibernating period."

The department is asking that the fight on the weevils may be developed into community affairs. It was pointed out that, while every cotton farmer ought to act individually, the efforts of all when joined together will be much greater for whole areas than can be made reasonably free from the pest.

Frauds in Bibles Are Revealed by Collector

San Francisco.—The experience of John Howell, owner of the finest private collection of Bibles in the west, reveal that even that book does not escape being a party to frauds and deceptions.

"Every week some one brings in a Bible and tries to sell it as a valuable copy hundreds of years old. But they are only 60 to 90 years old," Howell said.

"Some of them have been stained by soaking in tea or coffee to give the pages the yellow tinge of centuries.

"These stained pages easily can be detected by examining the paper—if you know what to look for. A Bible printed on old paper from plates engraved from a photostatic copy of an original work also can be detected. Most collectors have bound photostatic copies of every rare edition and even a hurried checkup will reveal a counterfeit."

Howell started his collection only seven years ago. Today he has 200 volumes printed in 30 languages. He values it at $50,000.

$50,000 BLOSSOM

Developed by Fred Howard, Southern California horticulturist, the first double Transvaal daisies ever shown were given their "pre-view" at the annual Garden Club Flower show at Glendale, Calif. The stand of the new flowers from which these blossoms were cut is the only one in existence and is valued by its developer at $50,000. It will not be possible to reproduce enough of the new flowers from the parent stand for general use until 1935.

Full Blooded Redskin Head of Indian School

Lawrence, Kan.—For the first time in history a full-blooded Indian is head of the Haskell Indian institute here.

He is Henry Roe Cloud, born in a wigwam "in the month of snows, early in the hungry winter," on the Winnebago reservation in Nebraska.

Henry wasn't the name his father gave him. To that brave his son was Wa-Na-Xi-Lay-Hunka, which in the Winnebago dialect means War Chief.

A government school at Genoa changed all that. His first day at school found conflict and deletion of his name.

Wa-Na-Xi-Lay-Hunka was too long for the government register, and so he became Henry.

After the Genoa Indian school, Cloud went East, finally financing his way through Yale university.

He became a teacher and leader of his tribesmen. He made a valiant fight for the freedom of Indians and their wives and children imprisoned at Fort Sill, Okla., after their leader had waged war against the government. He won the fight.

Later he became a field representative of the Indian service, and recently was appointed superintendent of Haskell institute.

Women Man Life Boats on Huge Pacific Liner

Vancouver.—The distinction of having the first women's lifeboat crew on the Pacific to be awarded Lloyd's certificates falls to the Empress of Japan, largest and fastest vessel plying between North America and the Orient.

During the liner's last visit here, the eight ladies lowered their boat, rowed off several hundred yards and sailed back, ably demonstrating that they would be equal to any emergency. Each was presented with a certificate. The crew consisted of the ship's shopkeeper, five stewardesses, the ship's stenographer and the ship's hair-dresser.

Hubby's "Butter Dance" Brings on Divorce Suit

Evansville, Ind.—A "butter dance" put on by John Moore, Avondale, led to a divorce suit tried recently in Superior court.

In listing her reasons for wanting the divorce, Mrs. Moore said that after a family quarrel her husband smeared butter all over the floor and then danced on it.

In another fit of temper, she said, he tore down a stove pipe and poured the soot into the beds.

Vigilantes Training to Prevent Holdups

Michigan Organization Ready for Any Crime.

Plainwell, Mich.—A vigilante organization, the members of which are husky, well-armed citizens, is being trained in this village to cope with criminals in Allegan county.

Eleven specially picked residents meet at the village hall one night a month to study the county map, familiarize themselves with ideal situations for crimes, practice the use of firearms, and enact mock holdups.

The Plainwell vigilante group differs from others of the familiar Michigan system of vigilantes in many counties, as the Plainwell men are equipped to meet any criminal emergency, while most of the vigilante groups are on call for bank holdups only.

The Plainwell men are subject to call from their captain or from the county sheriff, who has deputized the group.

In calling the group together all that is necessary for the captain or sheriff is to notify the Plainwell telephone exchange. Names, telephone numbers, and addresses of all members are on file.

Every man is required to study the map of Allegan county and to learn the location of every state, county, township, and rural highway and its intersections. They are required, too, to learn in detail the distances from important points to the various highways and their intersections, and to familiarize themselves with the driving time from villages and cities in the county to strategic points.

At their business meetings the vigilantes map out holdups and other major crimes and then plan their method of search. They select two or three men to stage the holdup and plan a getaway, and the rest of the organization then sets up the machinery of the mock search. They mark on the county map the spots where holdups would be likely to occur and in each different plan have outlined their method of search in such a manner that virtually every entrance and exit in the county is guarded.

Municipal Pool Guard Saved 100 in 11 Years

Wichita, Kan.—George McCormick who has been a life guard at the municipal pool for 11 years, has rescued more than 100 persons in that time. Most of his rescuers, he said, were men, and due to overconfidence, or grandstanding. He has rescued a number of women, but he said that women, as a rule, are afraid of deep water.

Scraps of Humor

NAMING THE BABY

Jane, secretary to an attorney, went to call on a dear friend, Mrs. S., and her new-born daughter. She was met at the door by little William. Full of news about the new sister.

"Well, what have you named her?" asked Jane.

Suddenly an aggrieved expression overspread his happy face, and almost in tears he replied:

"Oh I wanted to name her Spot, but muvver wouldn't."—Indianapolis News.

Beaten!

A cyclist was boasting about his abilities as a rider. So strongly did he hold forth that the landlord of the village inn challenged him.

"Look here," he said, "I bet you can't ride up and down this street till the church clock strikes six."

The cyclist looked at the clock. It was 5:15.

"Done!" he said, and started. After a time he shouted to some villagers, who stood watching in amazement: "Has the church clock struck yet?"

"No," came the answer. "It never does."

Ingenious Norah

There was a crash in the kitchen. The mistress found the maid and little Margaret gazing at something on the floor.

"Oh, mother," exclaimed the child "just see the lovely jig-saw puzzle Norah has made out of one of the new plates."

PERIOD OF FORTY DAYS HAS POINT IN HOLY WRITING

In the New Testament the miraculous 40-day quarantines of Moses and Elijah are repeated in the fast of the Savior, and this still survives in the 40-day period of Lent. St. Louis is established in France a period of 40 days during which no man could avenge an injury. Under William the Conqueror no man was permitted to remain in England over 40 days unless he was enrolled in some taxable unit.

In Magna Charta it is specifically provided that a widow is entitled to remain in the house of her dead husband for 40 days. This period is known in law as "the widow's quarantine," and it gives a breathing spell during which the widow's dowry may be agreed on.

A man who held land in England under a knight's grant was bound to respond to the king's call and be prepared "well and fittingly arrayed for war" to serve 40 days.

The very word "quarantine" comes from the Latin term for 40. In modern law we have quarantine periods which are not always 40. Children who have been exposed to contagious diseases are quarantined for different periods, depending on the "period of incubation" of the germs involved.

In the Arabian Nights tale of "The Forty Thieves" it was not meant that the gang of highwaymen necessarily had just that number. Forty is regarded by the orientals as a "round number"; it might actually mean more or less than 40 in a particular instance. So, if a senator should charge that Wall Street is a den of "forty thieves," it would not be necessary for him to prove that they numbered precisely 40 in order to make his case out.—Pathfinder Magazine.

WHY DAD'S NOSE IS RED

Two foreign-looking girls, evidently domestics, were discussing their employers. "The missus is fine," said one, "but her husband is very cross." "He is?" "Yeah. But I get even with him. Every time he scolds me, I put starch in his handkerchiefs."—Boston Transcript.

Imitation Influence

"Are there any lobbyists around the United States Capitol?" asked the lady with a note book.

"Certainly not," answered Senator Sorghum.

"Who are the gentlemen who pretend to have so much influence?"

"They are enterprising persons who manage to get paid large sums for fooling their employers."

It is expected that the students will thus obtain an idea in regard to the method by which information is secured at these institutions.

Music and Art Notes

There were eighty-four people present at the "Campus Frolic" last Friday evening in the City Hall. The hall was decorated to look like a football field. At the extreme ends of the room were goal posts, wound in maize and blue, underneath which was grass. From the crossbars hung a football with the initials "C. H. S." inscribed. The floor was marked off in yardage lines. The ceiling decorations were red, white, maize and blue, the former colors having remained there from a former party. The council-room was arranged as a lounge and was made cozy with bridge lamps, table lamps, swings, wicker chairs, and pennants, pictures, and blankets thrown over the furniture. The favors were made of sponges to be used as pen-wipers, and each one was different and in various colors. The party was under the direction of Miss Gulliford, and in cooperation with six committees, which were most capable. The high school orchestra furnished all the music and did remarkably well. Several guests, parents, visited us during the evening, and expressed their praise for the members of the orchestra, as much praise is due them. Thursday evening, the boys' quartet, consisting of Earl Davis, Richard King, Willard Wright, and Kenneth Howell, sang three numbers for P. T. A.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
Ethel Rempert, Norma Burtzloff, Marion and Norma Zollweg visited our room last Friday.

A large percentage from our room took the tuberculin test last Tuesday.

The following pupils had perfect spelling papers the past week: Clarence Fowler, Betty Davis, and Ruth Clark of the seventh grade; Thelma Herman, Myrton Leslie, Richard Ziehl, Lucille DePotty, and Marguerite McLean in the eighth grade.

Mrs. Bigelow has finished reading "Breaking Sod on the Prairie," by Taber. Everyone enjoyed this story of the early life in Dakota, and we are sorry it has been finished.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
The sixth grade dramatized scenes from "The King of the Golden River" on Friday afternoon. Allan Miller, June Smith, Margaret Davis, and Dorothy Blust were directors in turn. Each wrote the dialogue for their scene.

Most of the boys and girls in our room took the tuberculin skin test given by Dr. Johnston on Tuesday.

Third and Fourth Grades
Vernon Beaubien of Whittemore

entered the third grade Monday. Marian Krumm and Virginia Ris-tow visited our room one day last week.

Most of us had the tuberculin skin test Tuesday morning. We enjoyed the health play given by the second grade Tuesday afternoon.

We are collecting materials for a wheat chart in the fourth grade geography class.

Primary Room

Blanche and Pearl Beaubien from Burleigh township entered the first grade Monday. We now have 30 first graders and a total enrollment of 48 pupils in the primary room.

The following second graders took part in a health play entitled "The Germ Drive," which was given at the City Hall Tuesday afternoon: The Gems—Harry Rollin, Wayne White, and Neil Libka; Health Fairies—Maxine DePotty, Norma Lou Westcott, and Lou Libka.

The second graders made turkey spelling booklets this week.

Frederick Lomas returned Monday afternoon from a few days' visit in Chicago, where he attended A Century of Progress.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Vigrass, Fillman Canfield, and Mr. Barry, all of Grand Rapids, are spending the week in the city with Mrs. Mary LaBerge.

Miss W. Meisel of Bay City was the guest of friends in the city over the week end.

Miss Winnifred Babcock of Detroit spent the week end in the city with relatives and friends.

Garrett Estes returned on Sunday from a ten days' visit to his home in Kentucky.

A Grand Rapids district meeting was held at the Abigail Lutheran church on Monday. Reformation festival was held at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Herbert Swanson of Muskegon, Rev. Martin Swanson of Detroit and Rev. Alexis Andren of Allegan were the guest speakers. On Tuesday afternoon a pastoral meeting was held at the home of Andrew Christeson. A congregational dinner, attended by about 150, was served at six o'clock at the church, followed by installation services. Rev. Dr. Peter Peterson, president of the Illinois Conference, assisted by the pastors of the district, Rev. Herbert Swanson of Muskegon, Rev. Martin Swanson of Detroit, Rev. Alexis Andren of Allegan, Rev. Johnson and Rev. Hoffstine of Detroit, officiated at the installation of Rev. P. Gustav Wahlstrom.

ZERO-FLO

Zero-Flo has the two necessary features to make it the ideal winter oil for your car.

1. 35° Farenheit Below Zero Pour Test.
2. Viscosity (body) S. A. E. No. 20 --sufficient body to assure you lubrication during extremely cold and moderate temperatures.

This low pour test means an easy motor starting and consequently prevents undue strain on your battery.

In zero weather you protect your cooling system by using Anti-Freeze. ZERO FLO under like conditions will protect your motor. It will pay you to drain your crank case now and fill up with ZERO FLO. Remember, when you fill up with ZERO FLO you are sure of easy motor starting and good lubrication, which combination is lacking in many "so called" winter oils.

Come In and Let Us Fill Your Car With This High Grade Motor Oil.
