Explains 10-Year Increase in Heat

Pressure at Sea.

Chicago .- The increase in the mean temperature in the United States over the ten-year period from 1921 to 1930 need not cause fear the weather will continue to grow progressively warmer, it was stated by Dr. Griffith Taylor, professor of geography at the University of Chicago. Temperatures tend to follow a cycle, Doctor Taylor pointed out, and in a survey of the succeeding ten years the mean may be lower. As a generality unduly warm years bring a dryness to temperate zones, while cool years produce abundant rainfall, Doctor Taylor said. There is no correlation so definite, however, which can result in an accurate predic-fall in a given period. Forecasts Still Puzzle.

tion of the amount of rain that will

"Meteorologists do not know themselves how to accurately make long range forecasts on heat and rain spells," Doctor Taylor declared, "and the best we can do is piece together various factors we have considered in the past and try to correlate them."

Doctor Taylor advanced a theory as to one of the causes of the prolonged drouth which has held the American midcontinent in its grip since April 1. This theory is based on a high pressure area in the Atlantic area.

This area is approximately 1,200 miles wide and 800 miles long and lies midway between the Azores and Bermuda. Its normal barometric pres-

Nature's Joke

Expert Blames Drouth on sure is high, about 30.3 inches. The normal barometric pressure in Chicago and the Middle West is 29.13 inches.

"The high pressure area has become more vigorous recently." Doctor Taylor stated, "and this increase in barometric pressure tends to cause disturbances. These disturbances, apparently, have been to the southwest and southeast of the area while a period of stagnation has set in in most of the North American continent."

The stagnation has stopped the eddies, or cyclonic storms, which produce rainfall, Doctor Taylor said. The stagnation is best visualized by a study of barometric pressure throughout the country. When there are material diferentials in barometric pressure rain results from the meeting of high and low pressure areas. During the period of the drouth, however, the differentials have been slight.

The possibility that the drouth may be reflected by unusual weather activity in other regions of the world was considered by Doctor Taylor. Just what this activity may be cannot be foretold, he said, but a relationship with the present condition in this country may be established in the future.

"It is curious the way changes in one part of the world may be repeated at a six year interval in another part," Doctor Taylor said, "but the correlation is a difficult thing.

Finds Inverse Relationship.

"One instance of an inverse relationship existing at the same time was noted by Mossman, a meteorologist, some years ago. He discovered-to a high degree of accuracy-that when the Nile floods were at their peak the water was low in the Antarctic region. The reverse also held-when the water was high around the South pole the Nile subsided."

At present the cyclonic storms, which should visit the Middle West three or four times a month, have "failed to obey their laws," Doctor Taylor stated. Statistics made public by the Smithsonian institution at Washington disclosed that at 14 government weather stations throughout the country the mean temperature for the period from 1921 to 1930 was from .3 of a degree to 1.3 degrees higher than the mean for all the previous years in which these stations have kept records.

There are two chief items to remember when catering to a family. One is food, the other is thrift. The food should be so bought that it can be served without monotony, and each member have some dishes to his or her liking at every meal. And coupled with this the food should be so wisely bought that extravagance is not incurred. This is just good management whether a family has ample means or must be penny wise.

It is not always luxuries which are responsible for extravagance in food costs. It is the wise use of luxuries and the distribution of them as occasions demand which should be considered. To have foods out of season is not as costly today as a generation ago, but still it is not actually cheap.

Catering Problems.

Where there is a large family or at least one that is not small, it is easier to have variety and every one have dishes to the liking, than it is when the family consists of two or three. To cater to a fault-finding family is enough to wear the caterer down and a revolt may do good. Insist that some one else does the catering for just one week, go away for a few days, or supply the table from the food shop continuously over a period of a week or more. This will quell criticism, if, and provided, the one who is the caterer really does set a good table. This advice is roman By Charles Sughroe Good Taste Today BY EMILY POST Author of

DINNER GIVING

MY DEAR Mrs. Post: Would you please sum up a list, including all items, for my waitress to remember when setting the dinner table for a dinner party? Answer: The items of a properly equipped dinner table include:

1. A tablecloth, or place mats, or whatever is to be the foundation of the setting.

2. A centerpiece, of fruit or flowers, or an ornament complete in itself. 3. A place plate (often called a service plate) marking the center of each place set for each person at table.

4. Flat silver: whichever implements are necessary for the courses to be served, but three forks, three knives and soup spoon, and either fruit spoon or oyster fork maximum amount.

5. Never less than four candlesticks or two candelabra. Two candles are absurdly out of proportion to any table bigger than a card table. (No candles in daylight.)

6. Two dishes of sweets on a refectory table, four dishes on a round or square table. 7. Glasses for whatever you serve.

(Never put on glasses or pieces of flat silver, which are not to be used.) 8. Salt cellars and pepper pots between every two places. 9. A napkin on each place plate. At a family dinner, bread and butter plates are allowed. But never at a halfway formal dinner party. Conventional place cards are not very suitable for dinners of less than ten or for lunches of less than eight. On the other hand, if you like fancy place cards or favors, there is certainly no reason why you should not set your own table with what you like-especially at Christmas or Thanksgiving, or at a birthday party, or a wedding anniversary, or other intimate dinpers. On more formal occasions, plain place cards are best. Salted nuts are put either in small individual dishes above each plate, or in a pair of dishes; one at either side or end of the table. Certain hostesses always include them, others rarely if ever do, just as olives, radishes and celery are always served at certain tables and never at others.

CONCERNING THE YOUNG

DEAR Mrs. Post: Should a young girl of fifteen pay a party call after dining with strangers, although the hostess' daughter is a schoolmate of hers? And should she leave a visiting card? After such an invitation, can possibly do to return the invitation is there anything a girl of this age Answer: It would be polite to go to see them, yes. Whether to leave a card or not depends upon the custom of your community. If all young girls

A Wyoming Claim

By CLARA DOUGLAS ©, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service

T WAS supper time at the Allen ranch in Wyoming.

The ranch foreman usually supped with the family, and he entered the room through one door just as Mrs. Allen and her daughter, Judith, sat down at table.

"My husband has had a telephone message from Red Spider," said Mrs. Allen to the foreman, Rex Thomas. "and so he had an early supper and started off-perhaps you saw him?"

"I did see him riding out of the gate," admitted Thomas, "just as I came in from the upper pasture." He waved his hand. "Has something come up at Red Spider?"

Something to do with businessthat is the worst of being a sheriffsometimes I wish Jim would give up his appointment."

"I saw Bob Blake, Miss Judith," said Thomas with a humorous twinkle in his eye.

Judith flushed, and a warm look came into her lovely brown eyes.

"I suppose he was riding Schuyler's herd," she said with assumed indifference.

"Riding something-I'll be hanged if I entirely understood the situationhe was going like lightning along the old Patch trail, but I was in a hurry and he didn't seem to see me, so I didn't hail him. Looked as though he was trying to get somewhere in a big hurry

Judith said nothing, but she looked rather worried, and Mrs. Allen carried on a desultory conversation until the meal ended. Then, while Mrs. Allen washed her silver and fine china, Chang, the Chinese cook, cleared off the table and Judith went out to the broad veranda and sat down with a book. But the girl's eyes were not on the printed page-they scanned the distant trail over which a racy black horse might come skimming-Bob Blake always came that way!

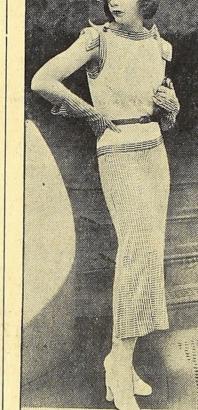

To Judith Allen, just at this time, most of the world consisted of Bob Blake's tall, active figure. Though they were not engaged, Judith's parents rather expected the tall cowpuncher to ask the fatal question any day, and Sheriff Allen had his answer all ready.

"I like you, Bob-there 1sn't another boy I would rather give my girl to! But you're nothing except a line rider for Old Man Schuyler-and you've got to be more than that if you want our Judith !" That is what Sheriff Allen had planned to say when Bob Blake came to see him about Judith, but he had never told anybody excepting his wife, and she, well-meaning soul if there ever was one, had confided in Judith.

So Judith Allen knew that much, anyway, and perhaps she was thinking that her father might have met Bob, and they had talked it out, as men are apt to do

She had not seen Bob for a week. but she had not mentioned it to the family.

The casual remark of the foreman, Thomas, had roused her thoughts and made her uneasy.

exhibits for this year. But, while this expenditure may seem exceedingly large, it must not be forgotten that the net profit last year was far beyond expectations, and this year it is safely estimated that it will bring hundreds of thousands of dollars into the currency circulation of Chicago. Any investment which brings a net return of so large an amount as that is certainly attributable to two factors, the merit of the exhibit itself, that it attracts so large a number of persons, and the financial management, which was of a very high character. We are informed that many of the Chicago hotels, which were on the verge of receiverships, were able to pay all back taxes, make necessary improvements, pay all other debts, and carry on as dividend paying corporations. This is not the only good result in a financial way derived from the fair. The railroads greatly benefited from the increased travel during the continuance of the fair last year. We should not forget the expenditures in many other directions on the part of those who visit Chicago, attracted by the fair. Circulation of money means progress.

The educational advantages of a visit to the fair are also an important factor. Nowhere can one see more for fifty cents than he can at the exhibit on the Chicago lake front. The latest improvements in modern industry can be studied in detail. Exhibits in all the departments of scientific research are open to inspection and one could spend many profitable hours at these exhibits. It is a good investment both from a financial and educational viewpoint. It will pay you immensely to take advantage of the opportunity. C by Western Newspaper Union.

one who does the catering is not interested in seeing that food is bought thriftily or served well. She probably could set a far better table on the same money if she gave the subject her real attention.

Proper Seasoning.

Every woman who does any cooking craves the reputation of being a good cook. Of the thousands, yes, even the millions, of cooks that there are, comparatively few rightfully gain the desired goal. One of the main essentials is the seasoning of food. This is so generally slighted. Without the right seasoning it is impossible for food to have the delicious flavor desired. It is impossible to instill the wanted zest, piquancy, richness, and lusciousness with any one flavoring or seasoning preparation. What these preparations are intended for is to aid the cook, and many kinds of spices, acids, herbs, sweetenings, etc., trimmed in the same fabric as the skirt. Matching hat and gloves.

Light Wall Color

When the sitting room is very small an effect of space will be obtained if plain paper of a light color is used on the walls.

Paintwork should match the paper, but curtains can be of a contrasting color.

They should be of plain material and tone with the carpet, which should also be as plain as possible.

Do not overload the walls with pictures, but select a few of moderate size and hang them carefully. Open-air subjects create the illusion of distance, and are more effective than portraits and indoor scenes.

Color in the Room

The floor covering of a room is usually darkest, the celling lightest and the walls a medium shade. The floor space around the floor covering should have a soft, rich sheen and be kept free of scratches and cared for are at her command. Without them just as your furniture is cared for.

My dear Mrs. Post: I am going to college this fall and would like to know now what is expected of a boy when he invites a girl from out of town to any of the house-parties or dances at school. What share of her expenses is expected from him?

Answer: He should meet her at the station and take her to wherever she is to stay; send her a few flowers, perhaps, to wear at the dance; and he should make whatever agreeable engagements for her that he can. But he does not pay her railroad or her hotel bill-nor that of her chaperon. . . .

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a divorcee. How should my daughter introduce her father's wife to strangers? She stays with them sometimes because we both have agreed that she should not be deprived of either her mother or father.

Answer: As her "stepmother." * . . *

My dear Mrs. Post: When two boys and a girl (or perhaps two girls and a boy is more usual) walk or go to the movies together, or ride in a car, should the odd person sit between the other two, or is there some other way in better taste?

Answer: When they walk, the girls together, the boy on the curb side of the pavement. In a car or at the movies the boy sits next to the girl whose especial friend he is. If he knows both equally well then he sits wherever there is place-next to one or the other, or he can perfectly well sit between them. On the street a man is not supposed to be sandwiched. because he must walk on the curb side of the street. At present this rule is being recognized as rather senseless.

Word Urge, as a Noun

Urge as a noun has been restored to the language gradually within the past twenty years, and can be said to be in good standing again, says Lit erary Digest. As a noun, it was in restricted use in the early Seventeenth got a claim here, and my bank account century, then disappeared until Wa.t Whitman brought it to light in 1884 in "Leaves of Grass": "Oh, I am sure they really came from Thee, The urge the ardor, the unconquerable will."

Sheriff Allen Later that evening came home, and with him came Bob Blake, of all people.

"I arrested this fellow," grinned the sheriff, "for loitering on the trail coming to the Blue Bottle!"

Bob grinned sheepishly, and openly winked at Judith.

"He told me," said Bob, "that I was breaking the traffic laws by speeding !" "Bob's made a voyage of discovery during the past week," said the sheriff, "and he is inviting the family (you, too, mother-I'll drive you in the buckboard) to start with him at nine o'clock tomorrow morning. I guess we'll be back in time for supper !"

Bob Blake remained that night at. the Blue Bottle ranch and the next morning they started forth-Bob and Judith riding their horses, and the sheriff driving two rangy colts in the shafts of the buckboard in which his wife was snugly placed.

The rode for many miles across the prairie, then up into the broken hills where they never met a soul, and then at last they rounded a wooded hillock, crossed a brawling stream, and Bob told them to stop.

It was noon and the sun shone down through one broken space in the thick tree tops, and fell into the bed of the stream where it was overhung by thick mosses and long, tangled roots.

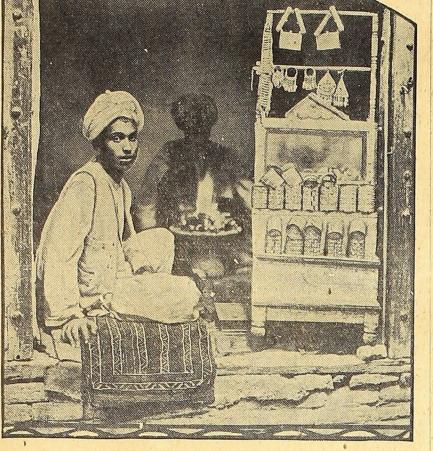

"Please come here a moment, all of you," said Bob rather gravely.

They stood and watched him expectantly. "Mr. and Mrs. Allen, of course you know that I love Judith," he said flushing beneath his bronze, "and now I am going to ask you for your daughter. Of course, I am just hoping that Judith likes me well enough to-" he paused and stared rapturously at the girl who had stepped forward and slipped her slim hand in his large brown one, clinging to it firmly, "there, I guess that that proves she does like me a whole lot," he went on choking a little, "and though you folks all think I am just a line rider, I am telling you I am a whole lot more than that! I am ambitious myself, and so, if you'll just glance down there where the sun is shining right through the water onto the prettiest bit of gold deposit-well, I've been taking it out for weeksand believe me I am a happy man! THE TAWAS HERALD

An Afghan Silversmith's Shop.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.-WNU Service. HE story of silver is a very old one. For ages it has been popular among coin and ornament makers; yet today its name flares in the news headlines to an even greater extent than that of its fellow precious metal, gold.

Less costly than gold or platinum, almost plastic in the hands of clever silversmiths, silver's everyday uses are legion.

Not every one is born with a silver spoon in his mouth; yet the spoon, in some form, is almost as old as man, or at least, as one witty Frenchman said, certainly as old as soup.

One Greek example in the British museum has a stem ending in a goat's hoof. Pliny speaks of spoons whose handles were shaped like spikes to perforate eggs. The famous Apostle spoons, usually in sets of 13 (the additional one with the figure of Christ), were once popular gifts to a new-born child. Made in 1640, its bandle an image of St. Peter, one such spoon is on view now at Wanamaker's in New York.

Knives and forks came much later. That the head of the family should carve at table may have come from the fact that in old days men carried knives for defense. Forks were not generally used till the early 16th century, when Italian nobility started the fashion.

The practice, though some thought it effeminate, gradually spread to other countries. The English novelist James Payn wrote of "the culture of the sil-the death of the Duke of Albuquerque, six weeks were needed to make inventory of his gold and silver services." Nearly a century before the Revolution, pioneer New England silversmiths were busy at their benches. Among this group was William Moulton, of Newburyport, Mass. Pieces designed by him are among silver treasures shown in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Once Newburyport rang with the sound of hammer and saw, and ships. built there carried Colonial wares to the ends of the earth, bringing back coins which its silversmiths melted for use in their art. This was known as 'coin silver." Itinerant artisans worked even into our Far West until well past the 1860s making knives, forks and spoons from silver dollars.

Colonial Silversmiths. Newburyport, however, is unique for its continuity in silverwork since 1690. One family, the Moultons, made sterling through six generations, the fourth being competitors of Paul Revere. When the last of the Moultons laid down his tools, some years before our Civil war, an apprentice, Anthony

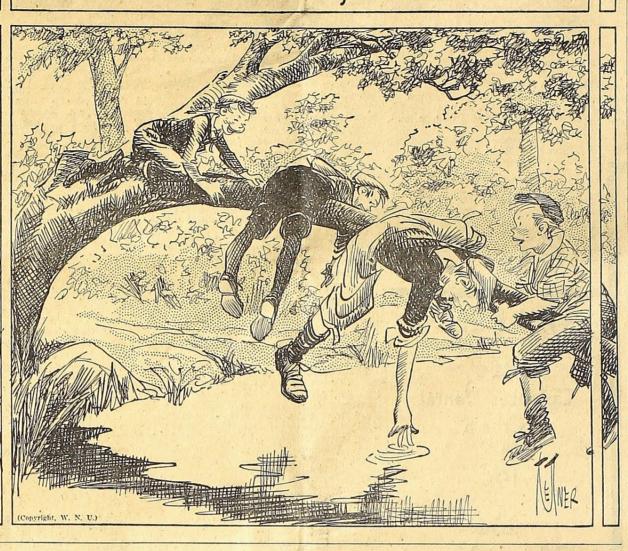

Towle, was among those who carried on the ancient traditions of the craft, and today the pioneer factory bears his name. Colonial silversmiths flourished in spite of such Puritan sentiments as John Adams expressed in a letter to his wife: "If I had power I would forever banish from America all gold, silver, silk, velvet and lace."

In Boston, before 1800, more than 50 names of silversmiths are record ed, and its rich merchants bought much costly silverware. British officers stationed in New York before the Revolution were astonished at the wealth of silver used in fashionable homes there.

Poverty

By ED HOWE

EVERY little while I encounter the statement in American print that 73 per cent of citizens die, as paupers; if not in the poor house, then as helpless burdens on grumbling relatives. It is a disgraceful charge to make in a country as good as this. How near true is it? And how much of the blame attaches to the unhappy 73 per cent? The other day I attended the funeral of a man I had known some years. For six months he had been a charity patient at a public institution (and a very unpopular one, as he had an ugly temper). For 30 years he had a salary never below $40 a week, and light and pleasant work, yet was never a week ahead of the hounds. Within a year of his death he took a long trip on borrowed money, in an automobile the mortgage took after the funeral. Mortgages also emptied his house of all the furniture worth anything. I have known him to give "parties" on money he should and might have saved to pay his funeral expenses.

He jazzed his music, his job, his life. He might have owned a shop of his own 30 years ago, but was always expecting a "raise" when a reduction was steadily more probable.

It is not an unusual case; the disturbing figures quoted may not be too high.

. . . I know an old fellow who, disposed to do his duty to the unemployed the past winter, hired an automobile driver he did not need, because the fellow had a wife and two children.

In one night the man stole a car, help up a filling station, and married a street walker, and is now in jail at the expense of overburdened taxpayers. Before the state is through with him-trial, rehearing, deputies to take him to prison, officers to guard and feed him, chaplains to pray for him-his cost to the public will be several thousand dollars more.

All Her Fault

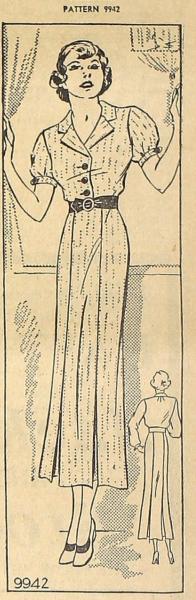

It is a sordid tale, but true. What was in that man's brain cavity? Did his parents spoil him, or was it the help howling in publications and conventions, and everybody saying that civilization is a failure?

I know a stout young man with excellent natural intellectual equipment who for 20 years has been a contemptible scoundrel in all his relations with his mother.

He reduced her to poverty, and she went to work, but he refused to; he lives off her work, and is mean to her. He is a disreputable loafer, yet the women say "there is nothing vicious about the boy," and rather like him. They even severely criticize his mother for "spoiling" him, although she has done nothing except love him, and coax him with tears in her eyes to behave himself. . . .

A certain great scientist, whose spe-ver-fork school without their affectation." The "Lytyl Reporte of How Young People Should Behave" gives these guides to correct table manners: "Your knife is to be kept clean and sharp.... Eat your broth with a spoon, not sip it. . . . You are not to leave your spoon in your dish nor dip your meat in the salere (salt).'

Old beliefs cling to some silver articles. Malays make a betrothal cup. It is filled with sirth (betel pepper) leaf, and sent by a man to the girl he wishes as a wife. If she is agreeable, she accepts the cup and eats some of the leaf.

Malays also use a silver box, rounded like an apple, for ceremonies at the first shaving of little boys' heads and at ear piercings. Sometimes this box is brought to a wedding when a lock of the bride's hair is buried in it under a banana tree for good luck.

Odd Uses of Silver Articles.

In tsarist Russia the proposer of a toast stood in the center of the room, drained his silver bratina, or drinking cup, and then, to prove his sincerity, turned it upside down over his head! The sumptuousness of the tsars' plate was proverbial. In this collection was a famous English wine cistern weighing 8,000 ounces, with a bathtub capacity. How this vessel, raffled off in 1735, when funds were sought for a bridge over the Thames, finally came to the winter palace at Petrograd (now Leningrad) has long been a mystery.

Barcelona, Spain, used to present each visiting member of royalty with a magnificent silver service, remindful of a similar courtesy sometimes extended by one of our own states when a new ship has been named in its honor.

On dining tables of the rich from the Fifteenth to the Seventeenth centuries, silver ships, originally designed to hold the knives and napkins, and sometimes the wine, made striking center pieces. In Toledo, Spain, is one such vessel which belonged to the daughter of Isabella and Ferdinand. Nefs, these ships were called. As early as 1392 Italy records a silver nef on wheels, a foreshadow of the popular German and Dutch models of later years.

After the conquest of Mexico and Peru, silver flooded the markets of Europe, especially Spain. One visitor to the Spanish capital in the Sixteenth century observed: "Utensils of common metal are not employed here, onthose of silver or of ware. . . . Upon

Our own Navajo Indians are good silversmiths. Using merely a forge and hand bellows, with a small anvil and other simple tools, they make buttons, beads, bracelets, rings, crosses, bridle mountings and buckles, as native works; as a concession to American demand, they add miniature canteens, stickpins, hat-bands, knives, forks and SDOODS.

In such studios as that of Gorham's in Providence, designers create an amazing variety of silver prize cups and trophies, often in the form of horses, sailing craft, or athletes in action. Tiffany, Wallace, International and others are also known for artistic creations in this field.

Silver in Olden Times.

Silver jewelry was not new when wives of the Pharaohs "dressed up." Helen of Troy used a burnished silver mirror to admire the face that launched a thousand ships. When Cleopatra flirted with Mark Antony on the Nile, gleaming silver oars splashed softly in the moonlight.

Silver jewelry is worn in the Orient to guard against evil. Charms made from coffin nails covered with silver are common in parts of China.

In India a peasant father may mortgage his whole future to deck a marriageable daughter with silver. Wealthy Indian women carry many pounds of this jewelry at one time, and tinkle liked belled cows as they walk.

In Visigothic Spain, gold and silver were reserved for the ruling class, whose passion for show led to fabulous decoration. Then the Moors came with greedy hands for the treasure. After the battle of the Guadalete, 711, "Muslim victors, stripping the Visigothic dead, identified the nobles by golden rings upon their fingers, and those of less exalted rank by their silver rings."

Serenely indifferent to the Koran's ban on gold and silver ornamentation, the Moors embellished everything from dress to furniture, and even trappings for horses and mules. Similarly, modern South American cattle barons use bits and bridles of pure silver, as well as cruel, sharp-edged stirrups. "He bids his horse to dig for him a grave," said one writer describing Turkish scenes, "with silver-plated hoofs.'

cial branch is mankind, said in a recent writing that he liked to study his own body; he even found toothache interesting.

I wonder what this man thinks of love. I once had a friend who, as a single man, was quite admirable. Soon after he married a woman we all thought very nice, he became so brutal as to strongly suggest insanity. Totally separated from her by divorce, and removed to a distant place, he again became a gentleman, and made a name for himself in one of the foremost professions.

I was once with a hunting party in the West, and we set a trap. One morning we found a bear in it. As we rode back to camp with the hide, the negro cook, who had come along for the ride, was speaking of the surprise of the bear when caught. Here was a tempting morsel: half an antelope, and the bear was hungry. In getting it, a hidden trap suddenly snapped. Quoting the bear, the negro said: "My Lord, what have I stepped into!" . . . Great outrages are apparently committed by judges. It is stated by a reputable newspaper, quoting official records, that a woman was judged insane. During the following year the court allowed bills of the guardian amounting to forty thousand dollars, mostly bills for fees of lawyers, while the insane woman was allowed only six thousand for living expenses.

And now hundreds of the woman's neighbors testify she was never insane; the woman herself swore that she was persuaded by lawyers to consent to a fraudulent insanity plea as the best means of robbing relatives in a court proceeding.

What a sickening outrage to go on in a courthouse built at the cost of taxpayers to insure justice. . . .

I do not believe the people can ever be cured of their natural dishonesty, but still have hope they can be taught honesty is the best policy, if we will teach it as long and industriously as we have taught some of our untrue doctrines.

. . . Some of these days you will realize that you have managed your affairs badly all your life. Why not admit your weakness as early as possible, and endeavor to do better? This is the soundest advice one fool man can give another.

Blushing Bird Bride

Old world.

The paradise tern has been termed the blushing bride of the bird family, because when a female of this species accepts the advances of a suitor the white feathers on her breast change to a brilliant rose color. After mating and the bride becomes absorbed in raising a family, the gay bridal attire becomes more and more subdued until finally no trace of the lovely rose coloring remains.

THE TAWAS HERALD

SYNOPSIS

At the close of the Mexican war, Robin Kershaw, with his bride, rode in northeastern California. Here he found an ideal valley for cattle raisfound an ideal valley for cattle rais-ing. They christened it Eden Valley. Below Eden Valley is a less valuable tract which Kershaw's wife names Forlorn Valley. Joel Hensley settles in the lower half of the valley. There is bad blood over fences and water for irrigation. Kershaw kills Hensley and the blood-feud is on. By 1917, Rance Kershaw, his son Owen, and daughter Lorry are all that remains of one clan. Nate Tichenor is the sole survivor on the Hensley side. He goes to help Lorry in her car and finds her father has died of heart disease. Silas Babson, banker, schemes to control the Irrigation and hydro-electric possibil-ities of Eden Valley. Nate tells Lorry he and Owen Kershaw, Lorry's brother, met in France just before Owen was killed. They became buddles, and Nate promised that if he survived Owen he would look after Lorry as a brother might do. Babson, determined to se-cure Lorry's lake-site and Nate's damsite, makes legal application for the allocation of flood waters to the Forlorn Valley irrigation district, which he organizes. With money advanced by Nate, Lorry clears up her indebtedness to Babson.

-8-"Why do you have to go away, Nate?"

"Got a couple of deals on and can't handle them from here." "If you're coming back in the fall,"

she suggested, "you should have the Bar H place put in order. It's fallen into decay; it smells neglected. It isn't a nice place for you to live, even with capable servants to care for you."

"I had thought of that. Indeed, it's one of the reasons I have to leave Eden Valley. Got to engage an architect to draw plans for a new house, new barns, four-car garage, kennels, and such. Got to engage a smart gardener to put in a nice lawn around the new house and plant flowers. Got to grade a new graveled road from the main Eden Valley highway to the ranch house and plant a border of trees. And I wish you'd sort of superintend the job while I'm away. And when the house is finished I'd be obliged to you if you'd run down to San Francisco and buy the furnishings

"Oh, I'll be so glad to. Nate, you're giving me an interest in life. A woman's interest. I'm kept pretty busy operating the Circle K, but it isn't my job and_"

for it."

She sighed ecstatically. So he was coming back, after all. He needed her and he hadn't scrupled to tell her so.

That night, when he departed for the Bar H, the girl walked with him to the gate. A full moon rode the sky above them, and Eden Valley was filled with the silvery light. It was a night for love, and Nate Tichenor, who had never felt his heart beat high in any woman's presence, was suddenly thrilled to the core of his being at sight of Lorry Kershaw leaning over the gate. He had a sudden mad impulse to place his hand under her adorable chin, tilt her face upward and kiss her on the lips. For the strangest of all reasons he refrained. He had been reared in Eden Valley; he was old-fashioned, the wictim of an iron code of morals and social procedure. Her father hadn't been dead long enough! So he compromised and said, with an effort paternally patronizing: "Good night, Lorry dear. I've had a delightful eveping." But his burning eyes betrayed him. The girl smiled up at him wistfully. "Thanks to you, I'm happy for the first time since Owen went away," she said. At his gate he stood for a little while, gazing over the hills toward Forlorn Valley. "Coyotes!" he growled. "Not one of you, except Doc Donaldson, would come to her father's funeral -and Doc couldn't. And not one of you came to my mother's funeral, either. She was an angel and Rance wasn't less than a man, if he did pump Uncle Taylor off . . . Well, one day you'll come asking me for a favor, and when you do, by gad, I'll remember and charge accordingly. Coyotes !" Silas Babson rose next morning, sans headache, and with a very definite realization that he had many busy days before him. He drove over to Gold Run first, to interrogate the county recorder, from whom he ascertained that a deed to a quarter-section in Eden Valley from Nate Tichenor to the Mountain Valley Power company and another deed for four thousand acres, from Lorraine Kershaw to the same company, had just been sent over by the First National bank to be recorded. Well, he had been thwarted by this interloping power comporation, just as he had feared would be the case. Well, no matter. The Mountain Valley Power company could not thwart him in his plan to secure from the Department of the Interior permission to erect a diversion dam in the Handle and dig a canal from Eden Valley creek down beyond the western buttress of Forlorn Valley. They might have influence, but not with the congressman and senator whose constituency included Forlorn Valley. Well, his first step was to create | hole she's in."

public interest in the proposed irrigation district-not at all a difficult task, since the Valley Center Register was the only newspaper in the valley and its editor, Joe Brainerd, had financed his venture largely on money borrowed from the Bank of Valley Center. Brainerd would see his duty and do it nobly. He must attack the power company and pay the community's respects, in no uncertain terms to those two Eden Valley outlaws who had betrayed them or at least sought to betray them.

Suddenly, as he drove home across Forlorn Valley, a thought occurred to him with such force that he jammed on his brakes and stopped in the middle of the highway so suddenly that a car coming behind him, smote his car in the rear and skidded it off the right of way into a ditch. Babson emerged from the wreckage unharmed, but frightened and exceedingly angry, just in time to come face to face with a young man emerging from a limousine driven by a liveried chauffeur.

"What's the matter with you?" he cried furiously. "Can't you stay on your own side of the road?"

"I'll answer your question with another, sir. Why did you stop so suddenly, without giving the legal warning by thrusting your hand out? My chauffeur is not a mind-reader." "You've wrecked my car, d-n you, and you'll pay for it."

"I'm not wishful to argue that point." The young man's tones were crisp and unafraid. "I got out solely to see what damage has been done to my car. Very little, I observe. Bumper thrust back on the frame and twisted a little. that's all." Then to the chauffeur: "We'll stop in at a garage in Valley Center and have it repaired. Lucky you had most of the speed off the car or we'd have knocked this peculiar person over into that alfalfa field." "This peculiar person wants your name and your license number," Bab-son shrilled. "I'll give you my card, sir; help yourself to the license number. You added. "A new company, I believe. Know anything about this outfit-who's back of it and why?"

"It is a Delaware corporation capitalized for two million dollars with a license to do business in California. The corporation plans to erect a dam, impound the flood waters of Eden Valley creek after they have passed over the Circle K and the Bar H ranches and use the water for the production of power." Babson now remembered the dazzling thought that had operated to wreck his automobile. "You may have noticed the large number of gasolinedriven pumping plants, Nate."

"I did, and guessed the reason. The water tables are receding and the lift is increasing; hence more power is required to pump. I hear the power company's rates are pretty high, so I suppose the farmers are trying out a cheaper method of pumping, although since gasoline is not cheaper than electricity, I surmise the gasoline farmers must have had their power cut off because they didn't or couldn't pay their bills to the power company." "You've gone straight to the milk in the coconut, Nate. I wonder if it wouldn't be a good idea for the farmers of Forlorn Valley to organize an irrigation district and make a contract with the Mountain Valley Power company to sell it water for surface irrigation?" "A good idea for the farmers but a bad idea for the company. Of course in years of unusually heavy freshet it might be glad to divert its excess water to Forlorn Valley, but in subnormal years, such as we have been experiencing the past three winters, the demands of Forlorn Valley might lower the water in the reservoir to a point below the power company's ditch and operate to close down its power plant." "You seem pretty sure of your premise, Nate. How do you know that?" Tichenor smiled a prescient little smile. "Because I'm the president of the Mountain Valley Power company. In fact I'm the entire company."

For the remainder of the trip into Valley Center, Babson was glum and silent to such a degree that Nate Tichenor noticed his preoccupation, saw that Babson's hands were tremwith him-and we might be able to buy the company with all its assets. He'll have to do some tall financing just the same. . . His executor might not be capable of the financing -damnation, what am I thinking of? But he may ruin me. . . . We've got

CHAPTER VIII.

Nate Tichenor's action in admitting to Silas Babson that he was the sole owner of the Mountain Valley Power company had not been predicated on a desire to shock the banker.

Tichenor was merely in a position where he could not afford to promise Babson to enter into negotiations to sell Forlorn Valley water for irrigation. Before deciding to acquire Lorry Kershaw's lake site and proceed to the vast expense of building his dam and power station he had found it necessary to make certain of a market for the power he purposed generating, for the Mountain Valley Power company was not in position to enter the field in competition with the P. G. & E., the company that already controlled the market in northern Cali fornia, with a dozen large plants scattered through the mountains. In order to consolidate his position, therefore, he had already had the Mountain Valley Power company enter into negotiations for a contract with the P. G. & E., whereby that company was to purchase all the power Tichenor's company could deliver. While this contract did not restrain his company from selling water for irrigation, and Tichenor had hoped to sell water for that purpose, he dared not consider the proposition until quite certain he could do so without threat to his production of power. Instinctively cautious, he declined to commit himself even to a half-way promise to Babson. He had discerned that his refusal o enter into negotiations had shocked Babson, but he had no idea as to the extent of the shock.

Other than the knowledge that Bab son had organized a raid to ruin Lorry Kershaw, Tichenor had no cause to dislike the man, indeed, the knowledge that he, Tichenor, had always been in position to frustrate that raid, had operated to dull the edge of his resentment. He knew the world was quite filled with Silas Babsons; indeed, during his busy years in New York he had met more than one of them, had crossed financial swords with them, had defeated them and been defeated by he had felt against Babson was solely | raised from the time they are two or out of sympathy for Lorry Kershaw. If the impending disaster appeared to affect Babson only, he would have dismissed all thought of him. Certainy he would not have wasted any sympathy on him. But, without water, eventually hundreds of people in Forhave good range. lorn Valley would be reduced to poverty. And with the collapse of the Bank of Valley Center, the absolute ruin of the valley would be hastened and completed. Nate Tichenor, ostracized as he had been by the people of Forlorn Valley in his boyhood-ostracized as all of his people had been-had, not unnaturally, acquired a fierce resentment against these people who looked to him for succor. But his resentment faded now before the realization of the tragedy they faced. His heart welled with pity for them. 'I'll have to do something about this," he decided. "I'll defer signing the contract the P. G. & E.'s counsel is preparing; I'll defer building the hydroelectric plant until after I've experimented with the water. Perhaps I'll not build the power plant. I'll show those Forlorn Valley cattle that the despised Hensley clan managed to breed a human being and a publicspirited citizen after all." TO BE CONTINUED.

A use for some of the surplus milk on the farm is seen in the practice of milk-fattening broilers. This practice may lead to four possible gains.

Milk-fattened broilers add weight faster than do cockerels on range. Their meat is of better quality, and in some markets the broilers will command a better price because of it. By hastening the maturity of the cockerels for broilers the poultryman can separate them from the pullets sooner, which will result in better laying stock. Fattening cockerels in feeding batteries leads to best results, and very fine results may be secured by pen-fattening if the pens are darkened between feedings so that the birds exercise less than they do normally. A good fattening ration may be made of three pounds of yellow corn meal and one pound of wheat flour middlings, mixed with liquid milk to the consistency of a batter that pours readily from a bucket.

If liquid milk is not available, semisolid buttermilk may be used in place of the skimmilk at the rate of 11/2 pounds to each gallon of water.

Very little feed should be given the birds the first day a fattening ration is put before them. Let the birds get hungry. Give them as much feed as they can clean up in five minutes the morning of the second day, and in the evening, as much as they will eat in ten minutes.

Not until the third day should the chickens be given full feedings as much as they will eat in 10 to 15 minutes morning, noon, and night. Nothing to drink should be given the chickens. As much liquid as they need is contained in the wet mash.

Early Care of Goslings

Cited by an Authority

Goslings do not need feed until they are from thirty-six to forty-eight hours old, when they should be fed stale bread soaked in milk, or a mash made of four parts corn meal and one part middlings, says an authority in the Missouri Farmer. Green grass should make up most of their feed and only a limited amount of grain should be fed. Plenty of fresh, clean drinking water should be supplied. After two weeks, if the goslings have plenty of grass, they will not need any other feed. In case extra feed is needed a suitable mash can be made of two parts shorts, one part of corn meal or ground oats. After six weeks old, if extra feed is still needed, the mash should be changed to equal parts shorts, corn meal, and ground oats them. Such men were all in the day's with 5 per cent meat scrap. Where work for him, and such irritation as pasture is good, most goslings are

Life Begins and Ends in Day's Quiet Hours

The majority of babies enter this turbulent world at its quietest time, between two and five o'clock in the morning. Strangely enough, most people depart this life at the very hour when Napoleon insisted man needed the greatest courage-four o'clock in the morning. These conclusions are reached by a famous physician, Dr. Eduard Jenny, after prolonged study. Doctor Jenny discovered that the number of births increase rapidly towards midnight, reaches a maximum between two and five in the morning and falls off to a minimum late in the afternoon. There is a difference of 40 per cent between the number born around 5 p. m. (12,257) and 5 a. m. (17,254). A similar rhythm is found in the pulse rate, blood pressure, rate of breathing and other organic activities during the course of 24 hours. The death rate, too, follows a cycle. Although most deaths occur at the hour mentioned, Doctor Jenny deduced that invalids should fear the hours when day is changing into night, and the hours when night is changing into day. Dawn and dusk. The hours of death, however, are not so marked as the hours of birth.

"Thanks." Babson stepped in. "Well, well," he began unctuously, "you've changed, Nate. I should never have recognized you. Back in Eden Valley to stay?

"Perhaps. How are things with you, Mr. Babson?"

"Fair, fair! Forlorn Valley, like the rest of the country, is recuperating gradually. The bank's had to carry this doggoned valley since the postwar depression struck us."

"Well," Nate soothed, "you'll soon begin to get your loans in. Beef's coming up. The cattlemen have certainly taken a bad licking, but those who have held their breeding stock intact will make a clean-up within three years. I was saying as much to Lorry Kershaw recently. Old Rance's estate is in a bad way and Miss Kershaw was feeling a bit downhearted." "Well, she's light-hearted today." Babson was pleased that his host had opened this subject of conversation and little dreamed that Tichenor had purposely done so. "She's sold four thousand acres of worthless land her father gave her to the Mountain Valley Power company. Must have got at least three hundred thousand dollars for it. Cleaned up the mortgage and paid old Rance's notes." He glanced slyly at Tichenor. "Unless you close in on her I reckon she'll work out of the

"For some reason or other. Tichenor decided "that was a direct hit. I'll have to figure this out."

On his part Babson was thinking confusedly. "As yet the Mountain Valley Power company exists on paper only. It has its charter from the state of Delaware, its permit to do business in California, a dummy board of directors and the lands it has recently acquired. If this wretch I am riding with should die suddenly, the Mountain Valley Power company might die with him-" "Do you mean to tell me, Nate, that you are alone in this power enterprise?"

"I own all of the issued capital stock of the Mountain Valley Power company, and I intend to keep it. It'll be valuable.'

"Guess it will, Nate." And again Babson's wild thoughts took possession of him, "This fellow is liable to ruin me. He's no mean enemy. He may have more money than we have. He'll fight as the power company and he'll fight us privately as a riparian owner. But if he should die, who are his heirs? He's the last of his line, so far as I know. His executors would not be llable to carry through his plans for the Mountain Valley Power company. . . . The scheme would die

Only Few Stone Age Men Lived in Caves, According to Analysis of Numerous Sites

Stone age man was not necessarily | years ago, the presence of man is evia cave man, says the Providence Journal. Doubt is cast on the prevalent conception that all our hairy, clubwielding grandsires and great-uncles had "walk-ups" in caverns, by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the United States National museum, who has made an analysis of 360 sites in Europe and Asia where human remains or stone implements of Old Stone age data have been discovered.

The earliest evidence of human activity, Doctor Hrdlicka finds, were found predominantly in open sites, away from caves. As time went on and the climate grew colder with the coming of the last great advance of Ice glaciers, man took more and more to the caves, finally emerging into the open again, this time as a house builder, with the coming of the New Stone age.

Thus, during the remotest and crudest of human culture periods, the Chellean of approximately 200,000 in the open.

denced only by crude stone artifacts, and out of 94 places where these have been found only two are caves. Then comes the Acheulian, dating approximately from 150,000 to 100,000 B. C. Only 10 out of 48 identified sites are in caves.

With the coming of the Neanderthaler during the next state of pre-historythe Mousterian-the practice of cavedwelling became considerably more widespread, but man still clung to the open. Sixty-six per cent of the known Mousterian sites which have been investigated are caves.

From that point on there is a steady increase in the number of cave or rock shelter sites, until during the Azilian and Tardenoislan eras, about 10,000 years ago and just at the edge of the Old Stone age, man seems to have been chiefly a cave dweller. Only 10 per cent of the sites found belonging to these periods are three weeks old to fattening time without additional feed. Whole grain should not be fed until the goslings are well feathered. Because of a limited demand, it is doubtful if geese cap be profitably raised except where they

Cutting Range Costs

Next to the feed cost, the greatest expense in brooding and rearing of chicks is in labor. Any poultryman, observes a writer in the Country Gentleman, whose range is not already so equipped can well consider installing certain practical labor-saving devices. A lot of time can be wasted carrying water in pails, so any range on which a considerable number of chicks is reared should be piped for water. Three-quarter-inch pipe for leaders one-half-inch pipe for laterals, with an automatic, self-feeding shut-off near each colony house, will more than pay for the complete cost before the season is half over. To keep the water cool, the pipe should be laid in a furrow which has been plowed up and laid back over the pipe. Once a day the pans can be rinsed with a large bottle brush, which is all the labor required in the watering operation. In the fall the pipes can be taken up and stored till spring comes again.

No Cure for Stunted Chicks Start a chick in the way he should go-and you will reap the reward, says Miss Cora Cooke, extension specialist in poultry, University farm, St. Paul. Flocks in which some chicks lag behind the rest, carry evidence that something is wrong. Some chicks, unfortunately, are "born runts." There is nothing to do but put them out of their misery. Some of these runts could have been avoided, however, if the parent stock had been selected with care-selected for health, vigor.

Production of Geese

According to the 1930 census, Missouri ranks fourth in the production of geese, says a writer in Missouri Farmer. Geese production in the United States has, since 1910, passed completely from the South Central to the North Central states. This shift is attributed to the fact that geese were formerly produced in the South mainly for the feathers, and that as the demand for feather declined in that section the production of geese was abandoned.

they have received, they still suffer with hay fever and asthma. What are the various "cures" that are thus recorded?

The cures are first aimed at the causes of these two ailments-sensitiveness to certain foods, furs, feathers, pollen of plants, various dusts in the home; ailments or deformities in the nose, throat, or bronchial tubes; acute infections such as influenza, bronchitis, pleurisy, scarlet fever, whooping cough, measles.

Before treatment is undertaken the patient is thoroughly examined and tested by the various substances, now known to be hundreds in number. Treatment is then given according to what the examination and various tests showed.

This treatment consists of various drugs, of which adrenalin stands first; proper attention to diet, rest, and outdoor exercise; vaccines; the surgical removal of adenoids, tonsils, growths, or deformities in nose and throat; the use of pollen extracts before and during the hay fever season.

Dr. T. S. Heaton, Toronto, who made a study of the various causes and different methods of treatment. gives conclusions reached after reviewing some of the work and writings of sixty-six physicians doing research work on hay fever and asthma.

He believes that the treatment of hay fever and asthma by the avoidance of the substances that cause these conditions is the best method at this time. Rooms in which these substances cannot enter and the use of air filters are of great value in fighting these ailments. Avoiding the foods known to cause hay fever or asthma is the best method of treating this particular type. "Certainly asthma and hay fever are difficult to cure. Certainly, too, the special treatment by extracts can help many at any age."

So, if you are an asthma or hay fever sufferer and think you have tried everything, just ponder over these remarks by Doctor Heaton, and try to discover if there is not something you have left undone.

Mysteries of the Deep Well Guarded by Neptune

Many Legends Inspired by Crewless Ghostly Ships.

Washington .- The greatest sea mystery of the decade may be near solution if it can be proven beyond doubt that wreckage recently washed up on the coast of Australia is from the lost Kobenhavn. The sea guards well her secrets, and the world has waited five years for news of the Danish training ship which sailed out of Montevido in . December, 1928, bound for an Australian port.

"The Kobenhavn," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society. "was a new, five-masted, steel bark, the largest sailing vessel in the world, equipped with auxiliary engines and a powerful radio. On December 21 she reported all well. She was then 400 miles out, well started on her course through the South Atlantic, the lone-liest waters in the world. That was the last word that was ever heard from her.

"One month later the settlers on Tristan da Cunha, an isolated rock halfway between Brazil and Good Hope, were greatly excited by the approach of a sailing vessel. She seemed to be steering aimlessly, with a light sail set, before a gale which was driving her straight for the island's jagged reefs. Just as disaster seemed inevitable she veered aside and drifted safely past, not 400 yards offshore.

"There was no sign of life on board, and she was riding far down at the stern, indicating some damage. Otherwise all was in good order, and there could be no doubt of her identity. She was the lost Kobenhavn. By the next day when it was calm enough to put out in boats she had vanished forever. Whatever the fate that overtook her crew, it must have been disastrously sudden to have prevented even a wireless message. Scarcely less strange is it that her wreckage should turn up halfway around the world, and on the Australian coast.

Stranger Than Fiction.

"Many are the legends, songs, and stories inspired by ghostly, crewless ships, wandering on year after year, 'alone on a wide, wide, sea.'

"Even stranger than ghost ships of fiction are the ships of wood and steel, ships of fact, which in modern times have sailed our seas unmanned. One of these, the Hudson's bay steamer Baychimo, has haunted Arctic waters for the past three years. Loaded with a valuable cargo of furs she was caught in the ice off Wainwright, Alaska. Her captain and crew went ashore, resolved to wait until the spring break-up to work her free. One night a terrific storm broke her loose from her moorings and set her on her wandering course. At intervals she is and trading vessels. Eskimos have salvaged most of her cargo, and twice she has been boarded by parties of white men from passing ships. But always she eludes capture, drifting onward with the ice pack into northern mists.

"Some ten years ago Atlantic shipping was for months endangered by the erratic behavior of the Governor Parr, a disabled British shooner, abandoned by her crew in mid-ocean. Superstitious sailors credited her with supernatural control over storms. She carried in her hold a fortune in Canadian lumber. Twice steamers put off from Nova Scotia to tow her ashore and salvage her cargo, but each time after they had boarded her a sudden storm forced them to abandon the attempt. Months later she appeared off the Azores, where again efforts at salvage met with the same defeat. Her final fate, like that of the others, remains a mystery.

"Perhaps the most famous mystery of all, a puzzle that has defied solution for over sixty years, is the question of what happened one day in December, 1872, on board the Mary Celeste. Countless ingenious theories have been advanced, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle fashioned from his explanation a romantic novel, but no one will ever know the true story. On November 7, 1872, the brig Mary Celeste put out of New York harbor for Genoa, her hold filled with barrels of alcohol. On board was the captain, Benjamin S. Briggs, his wife, their small daughter, and a crew of seven men.

"Five weeks later the British ship

Dei Gratia found the Mary Celeste 300 miles west of Gibraltar. Her sails were set on a starboard tack and she was plowing steadily eastward, but their signals to her met with no reply. Worried by this they sailed along side and boarded ner, finding to their astonishment that she was completely deserted. The decks were absolutely in order, no sign of struggle, mutiny, robbery, or murder. In the ship's cabin were the captain's watch, money, and compasses. They found Mrs. Briggs' sewing machine with a garment halfstitched. In the forecastle were the seamen's chests, their money, and even the remnants of a meal. The ship's log was lying open, the last entry dated eight days previous. Chronometer and sextant were missing, and the ship's only boat-an open yawl-was gone.

"Obviously the Mary Celeste had been abandoned in great haste-but why? Possibly those aboard feared an explosion in her hold, put off hurriedly with no provisions, then awaited a disaster which failed to occur. Too late they may have tried to overtake her, only to find her sailing steadily farther out of reach."

than 30 per cent and with return of the bicycle to popularity, the toll jumped nearly 500 per cent.

One of the most unusual was that of a man suffering a broken leg who, in trying to turn over in bed, snapped the other one. The ever-present bar of soap in the bathtub results in a surprising number of bad falls.

There is a record of one accident with half-way pleasant result. A golfer addressing the ball was stung by a bee. The added impetus to the drive gave him a hole in one.

Visual Signal Apparatus

to Show Radio Beacons Washington .- A device for visually interpreting signals of aeronautical radio range beacons has been developed by W. E. Jackson and L. M. Harding, radio engineers of the Commerce department's aeronautics branch, according to Rex Martin, assistant director of aeronautics.

Signals, Martin explained, are received through headphones by airmen who rely upon them for guidance during periods of poor visibility. The device features an indicator which, fitted in the instrument panel, is similar to the contrivance used for blind landings. It is open-faced and has two needles-one vertical and one horizontal. The vertical needle, Martin explained, is chief indicator, and when a plane leaves the course defined by a radio beacon, this needle will move accordingly. However, he added, if the plane is exactly on course, the vertical pointer will remain in center of the dial.

The horizontal indicator, the official revealed, shows the volume of received signals, which the pilot may adjust as ne sees fit.

Plan Attempt to Scale High Alaskan Mountain

Washington .- Carrying a short wave radio set with which to keep in communication with the airplane base in Fairbanks, a party headed by C. S. Houston of Cambridge, Mass., will undertake to scale the ice-covered Mount Foraker in McKinley national park, Alaska, it has been announced here by the Interior department.

Permission to attempt to climb was granted by Arno B. Camerer, director of the national park service, who said approval of such hazardous feats is been accomplished. Mount McKinley, 3,300 feet higher, however, has been successfully climbed several times, the latest ascent being that of the Lindlev-Liek expedition, in the spring of 1932. This party, according to the report, was the first ever to reach the summits of both the north and south peaks of that mountain.

Institution for Blind Has Its Own Track Team

Watertown, Mass. - Matthew De Martino, track coach at Perkins Institution for the Blind, has devised a system by which the blind boys can run dashes, high jump, and throw the shotput. De Martino, who has normal sight, explained that in the dashes a wire is strung along the track with a rope tied to the ring. The boys hold the rope and the ring slides along. To warn the athletes of the finish line, a tape is bound around the wire and some rope ends dangle down. The shotput and high jump were the hardest events to master. Lack of vision was the cause of the difficulty because it hampers the form.

Cat Travels 27 Miles on Kentucky Trail in Night

Big Laurel, Va.-When Finley Adams moved from Big Laurel to Dunham, Ky., 27 miles away by the nearest trail, he moved his cat. "Puss" was present at the new home in Kentucky when the family retired at 11 o'clock that night. The next morning Adams' brother-in-law went to the abandoned Big Laurel house to feed some chickens, and found the cat sitting on the porch, dividing her time between washing and watching a mouse hole.

Black Beauty in Real Life

Methuen, Mass. - Fiction's Black Beauty has a real life counterpart here. It is Vic, now spending her last days at the Methuen Vacation farm. Thirty-six years old, Vic long served her mistress, Mrs. A. L. Pease, proprietor of a Haverhill lunch room, before being retired "on pension."

Gold Changed to Silver St. Louis .- Mrs. Rose Gold always liked the name of Silver, that of her father. When she was granted a divorce from her husband she had her maiden name restored. She said Silver was of more value to her now than Gold.

ANNOUNCING 12 MONTHS' GUARANTEE AGAINST ALL ROAD HAZARDS***

Effective today, Firestone guarantees their complete line of tires against all road hazards for 12 months*. In addition, Firestone gives the industry lifetime warranty against defects in workmanship and materials.

*When used in commercial service, these tires are guaranteed for 6 months.

IFES

HE New Firestone High Speed Tire for 1934 was built to give you the same dependable service it provided for the 33 drivers who started in the torturous 500-mile grind at Indianapolis May 30.

This new tire has a wider tread of flatter contour, deeper non-skid, more and tougher rubber, giving you more than 50% longer non-skid mileage.

Besides being Safety Protected on the outside it is Safety Protected on the inside. Eight additional pounds of pure rubber are absorbed by every one hundred pounds of cords. This additional rubber surrounds every cotton fiber inside every cord in every ply. This is accomplished by soaking the cords in liquid rubber by Gum-Dipping, a Firestone patented process.

Heat caused by internal friction of cotton fibers destroys tires-causes separation and blowouts.

Gum-Dipping counteracts friction and heat-provides greater adhesion and strength, assuring car owners of the greatest Safety, Protection and Economy that it is possible for human ingenuity to build into a tire.

Every one of the 33 drivers at Indianapolis chose and bought Firestone High Speed Tires. Race drivers KNOW tire construction-they will not risk their lives or chance of victory on any other than Firestone.

At terrific speeds the cars plunge into the treacherous turns-tires are braced against the scorching brick trackso hot the tires fairly smoke at times-they give-yield and stretch-every conceivable force works to tear the tire to pieces, yet Firestone High Speed Tires "come back" on the straightaways. Not once during the entire race did a tire fail.

Surely this is the most amazing proof ever known of Extra Strength, SAFETY and Dependability. Call on the Firestone Service Dealer or Service Store nearest you TODAY. Equip your car with new Firestone High Speed Tires for 1934.

Gerald Mallon, timekeeper; and J. J. Flint of Bay City, starter.

The outboard races, which were run in two classes, provided some unexpected thrills. Louis Uehlein of Chesaning collided with Vern Martin of Flint after his steering gean failed on the first turn. Both boats were capsized, Martin losing his motor. This left three boats in the race, until Tom DeFoe, who was in race, until Tom DeFoe, who was in the lead, also suffered an accident to his steering gear and was cap-sized. The race was then between Stewart Wallet, a Flint school teacher who was driving a home-made beat, and Leo Costley of Midland. Costley was disqualified for missing a buoy on the last lap, leaving Wal-let to take the heat and the race. There were four entries in the C class—O. B. Woods, Howard Rice, and Stewart Wallet of Flint, and Eddie Kriewell of Bay City. Woods' notor went dead at the start putting Kriewell in the lead, followed by Rice and Wallet. In the second heat Kriewell won the heat and the race, and Rice, getting a late start, fought it out with Wallet for second place on the basis of elapsed time.
