Post Offices to Be Erected in 626 Towns.

Washington. - The administration has announced plans for the immediate expenditure of $110,000,000 in the construction of federal post offices and government buildings in more than 600 towns throughout the land.

Announcement of the program came from Postmaster General James A. Farley and Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., accompanied by a carefully detailed list of the cities and towns in each state which are to be affected 626 New U. S. Buildings.

In all, 626 communities in every state and four territories have been selected for new federal buildings, according to the announcement. Half of the program-302 buildings-will be undertaken with the $65,000,000 authorized for that purpose in the recently enacted deficiency-emergency appropriation bill. It was explained that 824 buildings will be constructed with "funds already available from other sources," it was explained.

In selecting the projects to be included in the new program Mr. Farley and Mr. Morgenthau stated they were guided by the language of the deficiency bill directing that they "endeavor to distribute the projects equitably throughout the county so far as may be consistent with the needs of public service," and "with a view of relieving country-wide unemployment."

The announcement by Farley and Morgenthau said: "The acquisition of the necessary immediately with a view toward getting the contracts on the market and awarded within the shortest practicable time. "Preference is being given to those projects for which the government has previously acquired the necessary real estate for building purposes, so that an immediate start may be made in the preparation of plans and specifications. In all other cases the real estate will be acquired as rapidly as possible.'

191 Lack U. S. Buildings. "Of the 302 projects," the announcement added, "there are 191 communities selected which do not have any federal building at the present time and where the average postal receipts amounted to approximately $29,500 per annum "In selecting the new list of building projects, the secretary of the treasury and the postmaster general have given consideration to the locations of the 324 projects already authorized under other funds but which have not been placed under contract. These will also be placed under contract as

THIS NEW AGE By LEONARD A. BARRETT @ by Western Newspaper Union

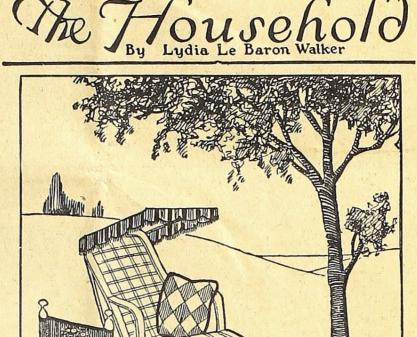

The old world, by which we mean the times in which our forefathers lived, had certain standards of value which are quite in contrast with those practiced today. Our fathers believed in thrift. Economy was an essential element in all success and progress. A penny saved was a penny earned. The wealth of past generations was built up from savings. The first objective was to secure a home. When this was accomplished, land was purchased, and other investments made, but all from the year's savings; which in the space of a lifetime amounted in many cases to a considerable sum. In contrast, the principle which many persons follow today is just the opposite. Thrift is not essential to security. Spend all the money you can. Have a good time while it lasts. The more money you save, and thus keep out of circulation, only retards recovery. The restoration of prosperity seems to depend not upon thrift, but upon how much we spend. Buy, Buy, Buy-is the daily

The all iron pieces withstand the elements better, of course, but the furniture with the textile upholstery will last at least two seasons if heavy awning or tent cloth is combined with the iron. The colors cannot be expected not to fade some under the severe test of rain and summer sunshine. But then the material is not expensive and is so simply attached to the frame that anyone can "re-upholster" the pieces. In our grumbling about patrons who are very slow, or do not pay at all, we feel we should express appreciation of your long-continued fairness." . . . I have not in a long time seen a letter affecting me more agreeably. Should there not be more appreciation for men who come somewhere near doing their duty to themselves, their families and their country?

I often think of the loneliness of my position in religion; I almost never meet a man who agrees with me; one I can sing hymns with, and call brother. As a hypocrite I think I am about the average, but have never seen any sense in exploiting it; I am rather disposed to hide my hypocrisy, and be ashamed of it. I have found it best to be honest with sentiment of all kinds: it is easier than to pretend a lot of things there is no practical warrant for. I judge religion as I judge everything else, and, as I say above, am very lonely.

A rather notable lawyer called on me lately. He visited London a few months ago, and told about a sensational murder case there. The crime was committed after his arrival. He was in and around London not to exceed two or three weeks, and by the time he left the murderer had been arrested, convicted and hanged. An appeal to the highest court had also been made, and considered and decided in due form.

I do not know a reputable lawyer who is not ashamed of our courts. Many of the judges, and all the people are, yet we do nothing about it, as we do nothing about our disgraceful political system, our banking system, or racketeering, kidnaping, or bombing. We shout higher ideals than the people of other nations, and submit to actual performances not existing among the Indians before we not use their power; the mistaken, irresponsible, incapable, vicious, are in control. It is said Russia is ruled by less than 2 per cent of the people. That is about the percentage here. We pretend we are devoted to the Old Flag, our homes, our families. Actually we daily assault and insult

Cool Storage Room Needed in Summer Time.

H. Alp, Poultry Extension Specialist, llege of Agriculture, University of Illinois.-WNU Service. By H.

Complaints of consumers about the low quality of eggs sometimes offered for sale during summer months can often be traced to careless management on the part of people handling the eggs after they leave the farm. Poor quality eggs tend to reduce purchases by housewives, and this in turn lowers the prices and profits received by both farmers and dealers. Thus with the arrival of warm weather, greater care should be taken in handling eggs as a truly perishable product.

Too commonly eggs are held in the back room of a store which also serves as storage space for various items, some of which should never be in the same room with eggs. This room during the summer months will frequently have a temperature high enough to start the incubation of fertile eggs.

Another criticism in this connection is that often the small country buying stations do not have satisfactory places to hold a product as perishable as eggs.

In one instance last summer, when the prevailing temperature was about 90 degrees Fahrenheit, there was a produce house consisting of a large room covered by a sheet metal roof. In this room poultry was being fed and eggs stored until time for delivery to the next buyer. Regardless of how good the quality of those eggs when originally received by this dealer, they would quickly deteriorate under such conditions.

The level of egg prices depends a good deal on consumer demand, and this fact makes it important to maintain quality if the maximum returns to be gained by both the farmer who cares for the flock and the dealer and merchant who handle the eggs between producer and consumer.

Sun Porch Will Benefit

Growing Young Chicks A sun porch attached to the brooder house is a most valuable improvement to have. For the little chicks to have a clean place, one absolutely free from disease germs and parasites, to roam during fair weather, is invaluable, says a poultryman in Wallaces' Farmer. They may occupy the brooder house until the cockerels are sold as broilers, after which the pullets can be transferred to summer shelter on the range, away from contaminated ground. These sun porches must be thoroughly cleaned once every year. That is, six or eight inches of the dirt should be removed from the floor after the pullets are taken to the range, and fresh sand or gravel added, ready for the next year's chicks. When such town, you should see some of our precautions are taken and fresh, clean range is supplied each year, loss from disease and parasites will be reduced to a minimum. Sun parlors may be built the same size as the brooder house, surrounded by wire netting high enough so the birds will not fly out. This adds expense, but it contributes greatly to the health of the young birds, and the extra sunshine which they get while exercising in these parlors promotes rapid growth.

of working ten or twelve hours a day. They rejoiced in work. Work usually came first and pleasure afterwards. Work to them was the basic essential of life. Little children were taught to do their share in the day's toil. Many young people went to school only in the winter because of the demand for work during the other seasons of the year. Today, it is not how much work we can put into the day, but how little. A five-day week of eight hours to the day seems to be the usual requirement. Forty hours of work a week in contrast to anywhere from eighty to a hundred a week in the days of long ago. We emphasize leisure and claim its rightful place in the program of the week's toil. Our fathers took their leisure at the end of the day when it was too dark to work, and they spent the time in reading; we take our leisure any old time, and many times cannot tell just how we spend it. To our fathers the produce of the land was utilized to feed the hunger of both man and beast. Today we kill the cattle and regulate production of the fields in order to stabilize a price while masses go hungry. Our fathers toiled with their hands, we use machinery. Yet we hear it said "We are now witnessing the birth throes of earth's first genuine civilization." Are we?

The better elements among the Russian people knew for hundreds of years before the revolution that their government was bad; not as good as it might have been easily made. Had the best citizens insisted on good government-the greatest good for the greatest number; there is nothing better than this-there would have been no Russian revolution. . . . The present disturbance in the United States is due to the same cause: the better elements have neglected to insist on the best government possible. . . . But the old government in Russia was better than what the radicals are giving the people now-as our old government was better than what the radicals are offering. . . .

In my town there is a woman who was once very tough. She has a daughter, and is stricter with her than any other mother in town. . . . I do not believe stories that parents are responsible for the bad children now so numerous. It is nearer the truth to say that we have all encouraged liberty so much that parents are no longer able to control childreu as they once did.

I know an old man who is ill, and lately went to see him. He lives in the house of a relative, as there is no other place for him; and he is not very welcome there. He told me his greatest terror is the radio, which is always going. The radio is a quite wonderful invention, and very creditable to the gentlemen who worked out its details, but there is a lot of mischief in it few of our politest people realize. . . .

One who works under the constant direction of a foreman may get along in a fashion without common sense, but a man who is his own boss (as doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief) must have common sense, or he will drop many monkey wrenches in the delicate machinery he is called upon to handle. . . .

There is one blessed thing about our problems: We can put them off until tomorrow, next week, next year; and finally we will die, and leave them to others for solution.

Solves Green Feed Problem

Sprouted oats or barley will easily solve the green feed problem for the back-yard poultry keeper with a smallsized flock. The simplest and possibly one of the best ways to provide for them is to level off a small piece of ground, place the grains to be sprouted directly on the soil and cover them with a piece of burlap or gunny sack kept continually moist. When the grain has sprouted onequarter to one-half inch it is ready to feed. The length of time required to sprout will of course depend upon the weather. If small particles of dirt adhere to the sprouts when fed, no harm, but rather benefit, results. By preparing small plots each day, a constant supply can be maintained.

The Plymouth Rock

Plymouth Rock is the name applied to a type of poultry originated in the United States as a result of crossbreeding and selection for the purpose of attaining certain characteristics of formation, color or utility. This general type has been subdivided into several varieties within the breed which are known as Barred Plymouth Rocks, or Barred Rocks; Buff Rocks, Partridge Rocks, Silver Penciled Rocks, all of which have been recognized by the American Standard of Perfection.

Table Scraps as Food

Poultry keepers, who have small flocks in confinement to provide eggs for the table, can profitably use scraps from the table if these materials are handled in the right way. No salty foods should be given, nor any moldy food of any kind. Bread or crusts are often dangerous to poultry unless first baked crisp in a hot oven to break down the starch cells which set up fatty tissue. Potato peelings, also waste vegetables, may be boiled along with meat scraps.

ODD THINGS AND NEW-By Lame Bode

SYNOPSIS

At the close of the Mexican war, Robin Kershaw, with his bride, rode into northeastern California. Here he found an ideal valley for cattle raising. They christened it Eden Valley, Below Eden Valley is a less valuablo tract which Kershaw's wife names Forlor Valley. Joel Hensley settles in the lower half of the valley. There is bad blood over fences and water. Kershaw kills Hensley and the bloodfeud is on. By 1917, Rance Kershaw. his son Owen, and daughter Lorry are all that remains of one clan. Nate Tichenor is the sole survivor on the Hensley side. He goes to help Lorry in her car and finds her father has died of heart disease. Silas Babson, banker, schemes to control the irriga-tion and hydro-electric possibilities of Eden Valley. Nate tells Lorry he and Owen, Lorry's brother, met in France just before Owen was killed, and Nate promised that if he survived Owen he would look after Lorry as a brother might do. Babson makes legal appli-cation for the allocation of flood waters to the Forlorn Valley irrigation district. With money advanced by Nate, Lorry clears up her indebtedness to Babson. Nate finds he is falling in love with Lorry. Babson discovers Nate is behind a rival power project. Nate tells Lorry he loves her. She ad-mits she loves Nate and they become mits she loves Nate, and they become ongaged.

"He was ready for me, but he didn't pull. And when Rookby picked himself up Owen said. 'That's right, Henry. This is the closed season in Eden Valley'-and he gave Henry Rookby the great-grandfather of all the kicks under the coat-tail, and walked away from me."

"Poor Owen." "So I'll make a wholesale job of cleaning out that rat's nest in the Bank of Valley Center, if I can. And after I've smashed the bank I'll buy the wreck, saving the depositors, and have myself elected president."

"You've got to promise something else before I'll marry you, Nate. Help me with the branding-you're a top hand and I can use you-but as soon as the branding's finished go away and complete your business and come back to me as soon as you can."

"I promise. But let me give you a small warning. Don't crowd me with too many demands for promises."

"The only promise I'll ever exact from you again, Nate Tichenor, will be to love, honor, and cherish me until death do us part."

"And endow you with all my worldly goods-including the Eden Valley water, I suppose. Funny sweetheart! I'll race you back to the house for a dollar."

"You'd win. That horse you're riding can step."

"Make it a kiss then." "Well, you'd still win, so I might as

But if we tackle the owners now-hold them up to obloquy and ridicule and public hate, they just can't live in this country, understand, and they'll be glad to sell and get out."

Brainerd replied: "Mr. Babson, It's a job I don't like-for two reasons. One-business; the other-ethical." "Bear in mind, Joe, that the continued prosperity of Forlorn Valley is a matter of profound interest to you and me." "I'm on the horns of a dilemma, Mr. Babson. If I attack Tichenor in the manner you suggest he will start an opposition newspaper in this town and ruin me." "How can he? He can't get any

"I think you've got that man wrong. I sized him up as one who will go through. I understand none of his people have ever made a promise they didn't keep. Bad as they were and bad as the Kershaws were, both clans had the courage of wounded grizzly bears. I'm afraid of him."

Babson smiled patiently. "The Hensleys and the Kershaws never had their courage tested outside Eden Valley, Joe. Let Tichenor come projecting around Forlorn Valley and he'll find a man to call his bluff."

"I tell you, Mr. Babson, it's a job I do not want. Tichenor will fight back -and the only way a man can fight the only newspaper that's attacking him is to start an opposition newspa-

And we have not always won. Hence, we hope to be forgiven our trespasses as we forgive those who have trespassed against us.

"The editor, eventually, may be forced to buy himself a tin bill and compete with the birds for a livelihood, but never let it be said of him that he existed at the price of another's shame and humiliation, in order that ruthless and powerful interests might feed a personal grouch.

When Tichenor and Lorry Kershaw came in for luncheon the next noon, following a hard morning's work in the branding corral, Editor Brainerd's swan song and rousing editorial promptly came to their attention. Indeed, there was no escaping either, for the editorial in black brevier type filled the first two columns on the front page and in the center of the same page, boxed and also in brevier, the swan song appeared. Lorry read the articles first and, without comment, handed the paper to Nate. When he had finished reading it he looked up at her whimsically. "How stupid that fellow Babson is," he commented. "He's hog-wild with pow-

"It takes a man to accept ruin rather than orders that conflict with his sense of justice. I wonder what sort of dirty work Babson wanted him to do."

"I don't know. I can't even suspect, but I'm willing to agree with Brainerd. on suspicion, that the work was dirty." He commenced to chuckle with a certain joyous malevolence. "Well, sweetheart, in line with my policy of becoming the big man of this district and also in line with my promise to tease the animal, I believe it's up to me to save the sole editor and proprietor pro tem of the Valley Center Register." About two o'clock that afternoon Nate walked in on Joe Brainerd and solemnly proffered that suffering individual his hand. "Where can we talk privately?" he asked. Brainerd indicated his den. Tichenor sat in at the desk, where he filled in a check to Joseph P. Brainerd and signed it. "You fill in the figures," he said, "and my bank will pay the check." Brainerd stared at him. "What do I have to do for this?"

"Well, that will be fine. It will automatically prevent you from showing me any editorial preferment."

"You be mighty careful somebody doesn't kill you off in the shank of your callow youth, my friend. You're a temptation. With you out of the way there wouldn't be any water war, because the Kershaw girl couldn't put up a winning fight. Do you realize that?"

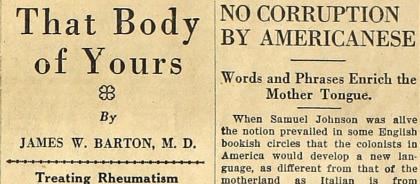

"Who'd have that much enterprise?" "Babson might instigate it." Joe Brainerd was very earnest now. "That man's private fortune and the future of his bank hinges on the future of Forlorn Valley, and I don't think he would give an icicle in Iceland for a human life if it stood between him and his desires. The battle for water in this state is as old as the state and it is unending. There is more drama and more tragedy in it than most people realize; enough men have died with their boots on beside a stream to fill my obituary column for the next ten years. "I shall attend that mass meeting, and I shall address it."

sicians are using now to correct this condition in the intestine, and cure or relieve the patient from rheumatism? One method is by use of high enemas which help to clean the surfaces of the large intestine, thus ridding the system of the wastes and of the products of infection which are still being absorbed into the system.

These high enemas, or colonic irrigations., as they are called, are being used with great success in private practice and in institutions.

The second method of treatment is by diet.

The diet treatment consists in cutting down the total amount of food; the patient getting perhaps only half of his usual amount of food. In fact, it is something like the treatment of epilepsy, where, as you know, as long as the epileptic receives no food he has no epileptic attacks.

However, food must be eaten to live, but instead of cutting down on the proteids-meat and eggs-as in former years, it is the starches-potatoes, bread, pastries, sugar-that are reduced in amount.

Dr. A. A. Fletcher, Toronto, has been able to show that the large bowel actually becomes normal or nearly normal in shape, by cutting down this starchy food in the diet. Less food then, particularly starchy food, is the method of treating rheumatism after the infection itself has been removed.

CHAPTER IX

Joe Brainerd, editor of the Valley Center Register, had been summoned to the Bank of Valley Center. Babson led him into his private office. And then, for the last time, he disclosed his plan for the organization of the Forlorn Valley Irrigation district.

"Here's the copy for a full-page ad." he finished. "It's a call for a mass meeting of the citizens, to be held next Saturday afternoon in the plaza, for the purpose of discussing the water situation and the appointment of a committee to investigate the possibilities of leading surface irrigation into the valley. I'll plant the idea good and strong in their minds at that mass meeting, but in the meantime you get out a good rousing editorial that will give them something to think about. Warn 'em that this Mountain Valley Power company is about to grab the water for power purposes. Tell 'em Nate Tichenor's the Mountain Valley Power company. Give Tichenor h-1 in a quiet way, but be firm. If we tackle Tichenor now the chances are we can euchre his company out of a contract to sell water to Forlorn Valley. Get the idea? He told me his company wouldn't consider selling us water and why. If we threaten his source of water supply, chances are he'll change his mind and do business with us. And that's what we're after." Brainerd, remembering his recent experience with Tichenor, needed no urging to enlist in Babson's cause. Within two hours he was back in Babson's office with a copy of his editorial. "That's certainly a rousing editorial," Babson complimented him, "but there'd be a lot more punch to it if you tied into Nate Tichenor more vigorously."

"Why, Tichenor hasn't done anything out of the way, has he?"

"He's swiped our water, hasn't heor he's trying to swipe it?" "He's perfectly within his rights,

Mr. Babson. How did he know we wanted the water?"

"The rights of the people are paramount to those of the individual, but whether they are or not, it suits me to have you tie into this fellow. Attack him. Impute things to him. I'll fight Tichenor all over the lot for the sake of Forlorn Valley and its crying needs; but I'll fight him on the issue involved and not his family history." "I see," Babson murmured sadly, 'vou're an idealist, too." "I hope I haven't lost all my idealism." "I see. Well, Joe, I hate to remind you of it, but you owe this bank three thousand dollars and the bank holds a chattel mortgage on your plant. And you haven't got the building you're housed in paid for yet. I hold a deed of trust on that."

"Is that a threat, Mr. Babson?" "Suppose we call it a gentle hint, Joe."

"Then let's quit arguing. I'll not wage a mean, dirty, personal war against Nathan Tichenor and that Kershaw girl. That's final-and I suggest that if and when you get surface irrigation into Forlorn Valley, you go out to the main canal, jump in and drown yourself."

"Well, that fixes your clock Brainerd." Babson commenced to rearrange his pens and pencils on their rack and to shuffle the unanswered correspondence on his desk. "I'll just take over the Valley Center Register and put in a man who's loval."

Joe Brainerd stood up. He was a small man, but like most small men he lacked neither courage nor conceit. He struck, silently and savagely-furious blows, left and right, to Babson's sneering face; as the banker sprawled back of his desk the quondam proprietor of Valley Center's lone palladium of liberty walked out of the bank and back to his office, where he seized a pad of copy paper and wrote:

"With this issue the present editor of the Valley Center Register sings his swan song. Because he wouldn't take orders from Silas Babson and do the latter's dirty work, the Bank of Valley Center, which holds a chattel mortgage on the Register's plant, but not on the editor's soul, will kick ye sole editor and proprietor out into the geometrical center of Valley Center boulevard and put in an editor who

The late Professor Bateman concluded from certain experiments conducted at a research station that most fishes were deaf and took no notice of even a loud report or the shock of an explosion. G. H. Parker in America and Bigelow and Zennick in Germany, came, however, to different conclusions.

These experimenters became satisfied that certain fish showed evidence of the perception of sound. They found that some responded to the notes produced by a tuning fork.

As you know poisoning by lead can continue in the body for a long time without apparently showing any symptoms, but if the system becomes too acid some of the lead in the system becomes free and gets into the blood. Where the symptoms become acute the use of calcium gluconate gives relief to the colic and other painful symptoms.

Research men are of the opinion that calcium or lime may soon be proven to be of service in the treatment of poisoning by mercury.

Dr. J. H. Stokes, in the Journal of American Medical association, says that lime is of great help in preventing poisoning and irritation by arsenic when this treatment must be given for certain diseases.

But you do not need lime for any poisoning or other ailment in the body; of what use then is the above knowledge to you?

If you will take plenty of lime daily in your food you will not only maintain the structure of the tissues, ward off various ailments, and any sore or irritation will heal more rapidly. The foods rich in lime are milk, green vegetables, eggs and cheese. (Copyright.)-WNU Service.

SPEND AN ECONOMICAL VACATION IN MICHIGAN

There is no disposition in Michigan to "soak the tourist". Here you will find vacation costs moderate and accommodations to fit every pocketbook. Inexpensive tourist homes . . . moderately priced hotels . . . free camps . . . many points of historic interest and a variety of sports that cost but little to enjoy ... all contribute to the pleasure and economy of a vacation in Michigan.

Michigan's tourist and resort business brings large sums of money to the state each year. It provides employment for thousands, and greater prosperity for all of us. We can increase that business further by telling out-of-state friends about Michigan's vacation advantages and by spending our own vacations here.

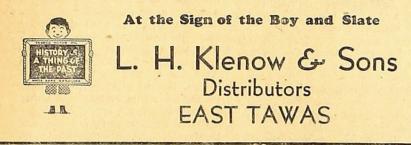

And, no matter which part of Michigan you visit this summer, banish worry by telephoning home and office frequently. Call ahead for reservations, or to tell friends you are coming. Long Distance calls will add but little to the cost and much to the enjoyment of your vacation.

Native African Dancing Girl.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.-WNU Service. FTER rolling over the thousands of smooth roads of the United States, it is a thrilling adventure to mount a side-carequipped motorcycle and "three wheel" across Nigeria from Lagos, the chief port on the shore of the Atlantic, to Kano, near the northern Nigeria border.

Off down the main street of Lagos you roar, followed by half the black population of the city, all craning their necks to see what is going on. Soon you are popping along through the coastal jungle.

Towering walls of tropic greenery push in on the narrow road from either side, clasp limbs and tendrils overhead, and drop long, sinuous tentacles through the gloom. Southern Nigeria is thickly populated, and as you jolt along over the trail you know from the sounds that float out from the jungle that back behind those seemingly impenetrable walls are hundreds of little farmsteads and plantations.

Every now and then you catch a glimpse of one through the matted tangle of ferns and creepers-just a squat, overgrown grass beehive of a hut, surrounded by a patch of cocoa trees, Guinea corn (durra), or pea-nuts, with a woolly-headed Yoruba husbandman grubbing in the mold and half a dozen little black mancubs romping in the sun; or occasionally a village of a dozen huts or so whiling the day through in pagan content.

They are not bad folk, these Yoruba, considering their opportunities-ambitious enough for the climate, lawabiding, and quicker at thinking than the average West African. They number more than 3,000,000 and most of there's the sun-and the goats! You conclude, before you have been in Ibadan half an hour, that here is not savagery, but civilization-a simple, sturdy civilization well fitted to survive under conditions in which a more luxurious culture probably would have perish.

Manufactures in Ibadan.

You stop to inquire the way, in a street which seems to be the manufacturing center of the town.

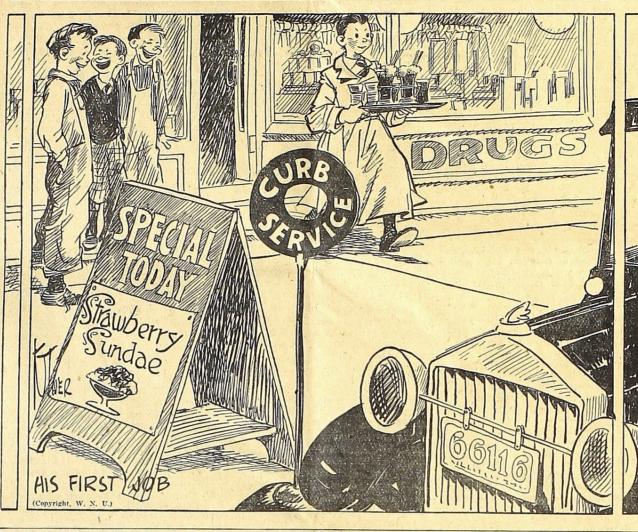

On the left is a whole row of coalblack silversmiths squatting crosslegged in their 2-by-4 mud workshops and tinkling at their little anvils. And next to them three cheery chaps in Gstrings, who hammer out aluminum earrings and anklets, and there are half a dozen ebony craftsmen who make long, barbed spears so esthetically chased that it must be a real pleasure to get stuck with one of them.

Farther down are the potteries. You stop to watch three well-muscled young wenches rhythmically battering away at a gigantic wooden mortar of clay with mighty 6-foot pestles. Their sturdy shoulder-blades ripple pliantly beneath black satin skin, and they smile coyly and display their clean, white teeth when you tell them in sign language what good figures they have.

The market place of Ibadan is a bizarre and fascinating jumble of sights, sounds, and smells, of which the smells-especially those emanating from the "juju" section-are perhaps the most bizarre and the least fascinating. Half the population ' of the city, it seems to you, is selling something, squatting cross-legged on the ground with the something-peppers, kola nuts, ornaments, salt, or what

Warm-Weather Frock Cleverly Designed

PATTERN 9921

A belt that ends on each side of the front just where the slenderizing point begins is a clever device for making a woman who has to consider lines, look her best. With warm weather, a few light-colored frocks must be put in work-and light colors make a woman look larger unless her pattern is designed-like this one-to offset that effect. This frock is a safe and satisfactory choice for a print with a light ground, or a plain fabric in a lovely summer coloring.

Pattern 9921 may be ordered only in sizes, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 35% yards, 39-inch fabric and 1/4 yard 9-inch lace.

Complete diagrammed sew chart included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER AND SIZE.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York, N. Y.

them occupy the country south and west of the Niger to Dahomey.

Most Yoruba men wear loose-flowing robes. A woman wraps a piece of home spun about herself and the "picken" that clings to her back. Little girls wear a fringe or a string of coral beads around the waist; little boys seldom fret about clothes.

The various tribes or "families" are distinguished by facial marks inflicted during infancy and rubbed with ashes and irritating herbs to produce a permanent scar-a custom frequently met with in negro-land. In many localities the people file deep notches in their incisors, but otherwise they take good care of their teeth, brushing them constantly with the frayed end of a small stick. In one or two localities, to propose marriage a man sends his toothbrush to the lady by one of his friends. Modesty demands that she refuse it twice, but if she really wants him she takes no further chances. 510

Taking Tea With the Alake.

On the evening of the first day out from Lagos you put up with some American missionary friends in Abeokuta, 64 miles inland, and the next day go to pay your respects to the Alake, black potentate of this branch of the Yoruba nation and ruler over some 200,000 souls. He serves tea from exquisite china, with all the aplomb of an ambassador from the Court of St. James, and speaks Oxford English.

But his face, anthracite-black and shiny beneath the ponderous silver coronet given his predecessor by Queen Victoria, is slashed with the Egba tribal marks, and his thick lips open and close over a row of filed teeth. And across the courtyard you see one of the Alake's wives and her several inky offspring sitting on the floor eating couscous with their fingers out of a big carven calabash.

Some 58 miles inland you come to Ibadan, a pagan metropolis sprawled over a score of hills. Largest city in tropical Africa is Ibadan-250,000 people sweating, working, loving, dying, year after year back there in the jungle. One wonders what life holds for them. And yet, in strolling through the market place, you note that at least every third citizen is smiling. Poor, benighted heathen-they do not know any better than to enjoy life as they find it!

There are 250,000 people, and not a sewer pipe within the city limits. But | Sudan.

not-arranged in neat little piles be-

The jabbering is heterogeneous and terrific. Here are merchant and matron in heated climax, the half-hour haggle which prefaces every sale in this land, where small turn-over and big talk-over are the rule of trade; and over there a knot of chattering young things with their heads together, busily slandering in her absence the girl who has just won the most eligible young man in town-exactly like civilized people!

To Jebba and Beyond.

Beyond Ibadan the highway soon loses all desire it had ever had to amount to something in this world, and before you get to Ilorin, 92 miles farther, it peters out into nothing but a thin trail through the tall grass. Jebba marks the approximate northern limit of the Yoruba tribes. Eighty miles upstream on the Niger is Busa, where the famous Scots explorer, Mungo Park, was drowned while trying to escape a native attack. Bida, capital of the Nupe people, is about 80 miles east of Jebba, as the crow flies, on the route to Kano. Beyond Jebba are beautiful roads for half a mile; then you cross the lordly Niger on the railroad bridge. A mile the other side of the river you plunge back into the bush, and never see those two little ribbons of steel again till you get to Bida, three days later.

Life in Bida seems most bizarre and exotic at first. Pocket-size, pot-bellied nanny goats trot up and down the streets on business, with their teats dragging on the ground. Dignifiedrobed patriarchs on bicycles bump into them and swear in Nupe. Six black, thick-lipped heralds blow shrill blasts on 4-foot brass trumpets before the gates of an enormous mud-walled palace.

The emir passes on a stunted pony, both wrapped in pomp and circumstance. Turbans, embroldered robes, a sunshade, and a horse-tail for the emir; tassels, gold trappings, and a high-backed red saddle for the tired little pony; and the drummers, knaves, and swaddled courtiers string out behind on foot.

Kano, with a population of about 90,000, is a crossroad of West Africa, the foremost commercial and manufacturing center in the west-central

Alice gazed at her dumbly. "If you want me to."

"I certainly do. Now," rising, "I'll bring in the things and you shall see how nicely I can brew tea!" Out in the hall, however, she sped upstairs to her aunt's room, carefully closed the. door, and called Gregg Barring's number on the extension phone.

"Thanks for the flowers, Gregg, and the lovely invitation. No, I'm sorry, but I can't accept. A previous invitation. No-listen. Alice is here and knows about-about your flowers, and she saw the card. She's all broken up. Now, this is my plan: I'll keep her here until six o'clock, and then you fix it up with someone to come in your place. Think of some explanation-Alice must never know that it was really you. No, I won't have time to see you again. I'm going home tomorrow. Why so soon? Oh," in a most matter-of-fact tone, "I'm really getting tired of small-town life !" It was not a very happy tea party, but Alice was still there when a car door slammed out in front. White and tense, she sprang to the window, partially hiding behind a drape. "Whyit's Tom, Gregg's brother !" a wild halffearful hope in her eyes.

Therese raised her slim brows dellcately. "Now, what on earth-" "Hello, Therese! Ready?" A young man stepped into the hall and flashed her an understanding grin. "But, Tom, it was Gregg's invitation

I accepted. He wrote it on his own card.' "What?" He plunged his hand into a pocket, eyed the cards he drew forth and uttered a disgusted, "Well, of all dumbest! Gregg's cards. I must have picked up his case by mistake. Anyway, Gregg's got a girl-thinks the world of Alice!"

There was a swift flurry of feet behind them and an ecstatic, "Hello, Tom! . . . Therese, you see it was all a mistake!" She danced down the cement walk on winged feet.

To the sophisticated city girl, the whole performance had smacked of crude theatrics, but now her eyes followed Alice a little wistfully, in her heart a little pang of regret, of-less. But, too, an odd little feeling of peace.

Ancient Town on Sea of Galilee Victim of Flood

Denuded Hills Blamed for Great Disaster.

Washington .- The recent flood which drowned twenty persons and caused heavy property loss in Tiberias, ancient_Biblical town on the Sea of Galilee, might be traced in final analyis to black goats, careless woodsmen, and the World war, according to a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Crouched beside the placid lake at the foot of flower-carpeted hills. Tiberias seems pleasantly and safely situated," says the bulletin. "But the flowers spring from small crevices that hold the only soil on many of the rocky, treeless slopes, and for that reason have a sinister significance.

"The hills of Palestine were once covered with luxuriant forests, but have been largely denuded by reckless cutting, and by herds of free-ranging black goats nibbling the young shoots of bushes and shrubs. The Turks and their allies during the World war completed the destruction by felling large olive groves, leaving the uplands stony and barren. They now afford scant pasturage for sheep and no break for the torrential rains that rush in veritable walls of water down the worn slopes to the sea. Officials of modern Palestine, seeking to restore the uplands, have carried truck load after truck load of soil to the hilltops, and in the newly made ground have planted young trees.

Town Has Double Beauty.

"Mirrored in the blue-green Sea of Galilee, the town of Tiberias has a double beauty. The flat roofs of its square, shutter houses are pearl gray, blue-plastered, or covered with grass like miniature fields. Palm trees sway beside the slender minarets and white domes of the mosque. Partially enclosing the town and lapped by lake water, are the somber black basalt medieval fortifications erected by the Crusaders, and now in ruins,

"Tiberias was built in Graeco-Roman style by the Judean prince, Herod Antipas, who put John the Baptist to death. It was once a splendid metropolis, boasting a palace and even a race course. Among the cheering spectators at the chariot races was probably Salome, whom some historians hold to be the daughter of Herod Antipas.

"After the fall of Jerusalem, Tiberias became the chief center of culture for the Jewish nation and the home of many rabbis. Later, occupied in turn by Arabs, Crusaders who fortified it, and a series of inhabitants who neglected it, Tiberias degenerated into such squalor that it became notorious for swarms of fleas. Arabs gave it a nickname meaning 'Home of the King of the Fleas.

"Present day Tiberias is decidedly on the upgrade. Of its, slightly less than 9,000 inhabitants, a few are Mohammedans and Christians; most are Jews in all stages of culture from ragged fishermen to wealthy Zionist immigrants from Germany, Russia, and Poland. Outside the ruined walls of old Tiberias, a new Tiberias of modern villas is spreading along the road to Nazareth, and climbing from the lake up the slopes to the northwest.

City Is Modernized.

"Like most eastern cities, Tiberias has succumbed to modernization. It has an electric power house, Scottish mission hospital, bank, hotel, telephone and telegraph service. Women in red and yellow draperles still throng through oval doors in the sea wall to bathe, wash food or clothes, and draw drinking water from the lake. But they carry the water home in kerosene tins instead of earthen pitchers; and into each receptacle a health official pours a few drops of an antiseptic. "On the fine white military road leading from Tiberias to Jerusalem, loose-robed townsfolks on foot, Bedouins on tasseled horses, and laden camels and donkeys all make way for automobiles. As they speed past, one catches glimpses of bearded Jewish Peacocks Predict Changes in Weather Milwaukee .-- Peacocks at the Washington Park zoo have proven to be reliable weather prophets. patriarchs, English officers in pith helmets, and Arabs with white cloth headgear blowing in the wind. Overhead an airplane flashes silver in the sun.

"Despite the ubiquitous kerosene tins, Tiberias retains the placid charm and picturesque appearance of Biblical times.

"Scene of the 'miraculous draught of fishes,' the Sea of Galilee still teems with fish. Among its queer denizens is a so-called catfish which can live for several days out of water. "Legend thrives in Tiberias. One says that 'when the Messiah comes, he will rise from the waters of the Sea of Galilee, gather together his people at Tiberias, and proceed with them to Safed, under snow-capped Mount Hermon.'"

LADY IN UPPER SIX

This is not a scene from a motion picture but a view of the new style upper berth in the sleeping cars with which the Union Pacific streamline train is equipped. Folding stairways take you to the upper, and a little platform provides room enough to stand up while dressing. A sliding aluminum panel completely encloses the berth, making it in fact a small compartment. All berths, both upper and lower, are provided with individual washstands. The new style sleeping car is one of the innovations being shown at A Century of Progress in Chicago as part of the Union Pacific's streamline train, circuses throughout the country. Because of the extreme sensitiveness of reptile eggs to anything except tropic climate, Tresslich has arranged for their care in his sleeping quarters during the hatching period, which will take several months.

He does not drink intoxicants, so, of course, when he sees the baby snakes, it will be clear to him that they are real and not a version of an imbiber's too well known "d.t.'s." If all 55 hatch and live, Tresslich stands to make $16,500 profit. The pythons bring an average of $300 apiece in the present snake market, on which he will have a corner. All 25 reptiles, which arrived, had been sold. Bertha and Rajah and their eggs, however, temporarily have been withheld from the market as subjects for zoological study. The eggs are the first which have been laid in this country. Also their laying was the first on record as being witnessed by white man.

Natives of India, where the python is most prevalent, have seen their birth on various occasions. Principally the natives confine themselves to beating back pythons from their villages into the jungles. The python has not a poisonous bite.

It is of the constrictor type and has been known to swallow a whole cow after crushing its bones with the tremendous power of its colls. Smaller animals and fowl it swallows alive.

Plane to Spread Poison to Kill Sudan Locusts London .- After two years of laboratory investigations and field trials, H. H. King, formerly chief entomologist of the Sudan government, has sailed for Northern Rhodesia with a special airplane designed to discharge clouds of poison dust for the destruction of swarms of locusts.

The poison to be used is finely ground sodium arsenite, King is taking three tons, which have been specially ground by a British chemical company. It has been established that after unsuccessful attempts to utilize the ordinary bombing plane, finally designed an apparatus for discharging the dust from the wings of a plane in such a way that the aviator does not have to breathe it.

Artist Given Highest

of Soviet Decorations Moscow .- A Soviet artist who once was under fire for lack of revolutionary spirit-I. I. Brodsky-has just been awarded the "Order of Lenin," highest of Soviet decorations. Brodsky follows the realistic school of painting and, by consequence, has often been accused by revolutionary artists of "passive reflection" and "photographic naturalism." But apparently these criticisms had no effect on the all-union central executive committee, who conferred the decoration.

The artists has painted a number of well-known pictures, among them: "Session of the Second Congress of Komintern," "Session of the Revolutionary Military Council," and "Shooting of Twenty-six Commissars." He also has executed portraits of Stalin, Voroshilov, and other high officials.

Philadelphia Citizens

Like Rattlesnake Meat Philadelphia.-The City of Brotherly

Love is growing fond of rattlesnake meat. A local food store reports "demand far exceeding the supply" for canned rattler steaks.

"The public reaction has been very favorable to the food," a store manager said. "We have had a high percentage of repeat orders, together with new customers for the food every day."

Reportedly a common food in some parts of the West, rattlesnake meat is new in this section. Its use as food, however, dates back to the early Chinese.

Bulldog Mourns Loss of His Friendly Paw

Tazewell, Va.-G. W. Boyd had a large bulldog of friendly disposition, which is grieving because its front leg with which he always shook hands with strangers was cut off by a car. Now when the dog meets friends, he sits down and looks solemnly at the place where there once was a friendly paw.

AS the millions of World's Fair visitors saw tires made in the Firestone Factory and Exhibition Building, we asked thousands this question: "What do you value most in a tire?" Car owners from every state in the Union were interviewed-drivers of automobiles, trucks, and busses-and out of it all came one answer: "Give us Blowout Protection, Non-Skid Safety, and Long Wear, at moderate price."

Firestone engineers used every resource in developing a tire with these qualifications and selling to the public at a price in reach of every car owner. The answer is the new Firestone Century Progress Tire.

COMPARE QUALITY - CONSTRUCTION - PRICE

• This new tire is in EVERY way the equal or superior of any other first quality tire built, regardless of brand - name - or by whom manufactured, or at what price offered for sale. Call on the Firestone Service Dealer or Service Store and examine it. We know you will be sold on the rugged quality. You will want to equip your car with these new tires.

REMEMBER - you save money buying today, as rubber is up 442% and cotton 190%. Tire prices cannot remain at these low levels.

Food prices and prices in general are higher in England than here, according to Mrs. Wrack. The price of tea is an exception, being lower in England. As for her tea preference, she remarked with a smile, of course she likes black tea. Green tea she has tried, but doesn't think there is anything to it. That the residents of Tawas City are friendly and hospitable is Mrs. Wrack's impression. "I have enjoyed meeting them," she said, "and found them very pleasant." Mrs. Wrack was amazed that Americans have so many motorcars (that word she likes better than "automobile," if only because it is shorter) and that they do so little walking. "They ride everywhere," she remarked. "As for me, I miss mu walks." Pictures Mrs Wradt had my walks," Pictures Mrs. Wrack had of Harrogate showed that her love of walking is justified. The beautiful gardens and parks of the city with their walks and lanes make ideal strolling grounds. Conceding that there are many interesting programs on American radios, Mrs. Wrack thinks the British system of radio broadcasting is the better. In England the government-controlled British Broadcasting company presents all programs and there Tuesday, Mrs. Wrack explained, the government radio sends out a short-wave empire program from Yorkminster, a program designed for listeners in the British dominions and colonies. In Harrogate Mrs. Wrack belongs to a literary society having more than a thousand members. Large membership enables the society, she indicated, to sponsor prominent lecturers. As for reading, Mrs. Wrack likes John Galsworthy, recently de-ceased English author, and is fond of Thomas Hardy's novels. While discussing books, Mrs.

Wrack mentioned efforts being made to secure a library for Tawas City She thinks that would be an excel-lent thing for the city.
