HIGHLAND PARK WOMAN KILLED FRIDAY NIGHT

Auto Accident Near Tawas River Bridge On US-23 Is Fatal To Bertha Ward

Miss Bertha Ward, 31 years old, of Highland Park, Michigan, was instantly killed about ten o'clock Friday evening, August 3, in an auto accident on US-23 just south of the Tawas river bridge in Tawas City. The verdict of a coroner's jury called Monday by Coroner W. A. Evans was that the accident was caused by the victim's "driving at excessive speed, and not having her car under proper control."

Miss Ward, who was enroute to Oscoda to visit friends, was traveling northward. A car which was driven by Mrs. Meta Hayes of Tawas City, and was going in the opposite direction, started to make a left turn off the highway. With its front wheels just off the pavement, the Hayes car stalled directly in the path of Miss Ward, who in order to avoid a crash, swerved to the right. Leaving the road, her car began to roll, turning over four times and covering a distance of about 250 feet before stopping. Miss Ward, who apparently was thrown from her car before it stopped rolling, suffered a crushed skull and severe cuts about the throat. Passing motorists rushed to town to summon officers and medical aid, but nothing could be done for the victim. Mrs. Hayes and her seven year old son, Maurice, who was accompanying her, were unhurt.

Leaves Out of Aunt Lu's Diary

Alex Wellna

Death claimed another pioneer of Isosco county late Sunday afternoon, August 5, when Alex Wellna passed away at his farm home in Tawas township. He had been in poor health since April. Death was due to a complication of diseases. He was 67 years and 20 days of age.

Mr. Wellna was born in Skitz, Germany, July 15, 1867. On November 1, 1892, he was united in marriage to Mary Avenot, also of Skitz, Germany. To this union eleven children were born, two of whom died in infancy. In May, 1900, Mr. Wellna and his family migrated to this country and located on their present farm in Tawas township.

Those left to mourn his demise are his widow, Mrs. Mary Wellna of Tawas township, and nine children, Agnes (Mrs. Chas. B. Evard), Martha (Mrs. E. P. Hallock), Frances (Mrs. Leo Bay), Elizabeth (Mrs. Vernon Harwood), all of Detroit, Martin of East Dearborn, Steve, Leo and Edward of Tawas township, and John of Alabaster. He also leaves two brothers, Martin and John Wellna of Skitz, Germany, besides a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held from St. Joseph's church, East Tawas, on Wednesday, August 8, with Rev. F. E. A. Kirchoff officiating. Interment took place in St. Joseph's Catholic cemetery.

Mr. Wellna was held in the highest of esteem by all who knew him and his cheerful presence will be sadly missed by neighbors and friends as well as his family and relatives.

Whittemore

Mrs. Alfretta Brookins and mother, Mrs. Byron Lomason, spent last week in Flint with relatives.

Mrs. Elizabeth Baker returned to her home in Ohio after a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Chase.

C. H. Ridgley returned to Detroit Tuesday, where he expects to have the cast taken off his ankle.

Mrs. Joseph Harsch still continues very low.

Mrs. Archie Graham and Mrs. Thos. Shannon attended the funeral of Harrison Brookins at Cedar Valley Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jacques spent the week end in Reese.

Those from here who attended the funeral of Fred Caverly in Logan Tuesday afternoon were: Mrs. Sterling Cataline, Mrs. John O'Farrell, Mrs. Celia Mills, Mrs. Roy Charters, Mrs. John Barrington, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Barnum, Thos. Ruckle, Fred Hurford, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ruckle, Mr. and Mrs. Neuman Colvin, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Osborn, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Simpson.

Alberta Fuerst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fuerst, who had her tonsils removed last week at Mercy hospital, Bay City, was taken worse Tuesday night and rushed back to the hospital. She has suffered severe hemorrhages which have left her very weak. Last reports stated that she was a little better.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Danin and daughter returned Wednesday night from a few days' trip to Grand Rapids and Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolandis Harsch of Flint spent the week end here.

A. Harrell and Allan McLean accompanied Mr. Ridgley to Detroit Tuesday.

Mrs. Thos. Ruckle is entertaining her sister from London, Ontario, for a few weeks.

HEMLOCK WITHDRAWS FROM N. E. M. LEAGUE

AuGres Becomes National Division Winner

Hemlock, co-holder of first place in the National division, Wednesday withdrew from the league. Dissatisfaction with the arrangements made by league officials for the play-off between Hemlock and AuGres was given by Hemlock's manager, John McArdle, as the reason for his team's withdrawal.

The Hemlock team balked at going to Standish to play off with AuGres, having already made seven trips away from home out of a total of 11 contests. Hemlock had wished to play the game at Tawas City, and had arranged for the use of the Tawas City diamond for Sunday. Hemlock will play at the Tawas City diamond Sunday, however, but East Tawas will be its opponent.

AuGres will undoubtedly be declared winner in the National division as the result of Hemlock's withdrawal; that is, unless some other agreement is arrived at which will be satisfactory to all concerned. In case AuGres is made winner, the Arenac county team will battle with Gladwin, American division victor, in a three-game series for the championship of the North Eastern Michigan league.

Hemlock was defeated by Houghton Lake last Sunday, 5-4, in a play-off of a tie game postponed from the preceding week. This defeat for the Hemlock boys threw them into a tie with AuGres for the division leadership, each team having won seven games and lost three. Hemlock passed up a number of opportunities to win the Houghton Lake game and undisputed supremacy in the National division. They out-hit their opponents by a wide margin, 15 to 6, but their inability to hit at the right times and also poor base running proved costly. Fifteen Hemlock runners were stranded on the bases during the game.

"OLD TIMERS" SKIPPER IN YACHT RACES

For First Time In 25 Years Three Veteran Skippers Race Together

In the second Commodore's race of the season held last Saturday afternoon three members of the old Tawas Bay Yachting Association had the pleasure of sailing against one another for the first time in 25 years. The "old timers' fleet" consisted of the Mistral, skippered by Will Jennison of Bay City, the Gamble, skippered by James Nisbet, and the Dale, skippered by N. C. Harting of Tawas City. There were two other boats in the line-up, making a total of five entries for the race.

The first leg of the course was laid out from the State Park dock to the Tawas City buoy on a fair east wind. Just after the starting gun was fired, however, the wind died down to spring up again rather strong from the west. The Dale took the lead to the Tawas City marker, but on the run out to the can buoy Skipper Harting was forced to take a reef in the mainsail because of a cracked gaff. Some fifteen minutes were lost, and by the time she got under way again the Dale was about half a mile behind her competitors. By means of skillful sailing, however, Harting was able to bring his craft to the finish with the winners. Due to the time allowance which she had to give the other boats the Dale lost the race by about four minutes, the Mistral placing first and the Gamble second.

Sunday's regular race proved to be an upset of the former races. The wind was light, and evidently the day was made for the Gamble, which skipped into first place by a wide margin. The Dale finished second and the Sero third. The Gamble is running under a complete new suit of canvas this season, and judging by her performance so far, has a good chance to repeat her regatta victory of last year.

The Association has reports of 18 prospective entries from Bay City, and five or six from Alpena for this season's Regatta Week. The Regatta Week races will start Thursday morning, August 23, and two races will be run each day including Saturday. The trophy for the larger boats is now held by the Gamble, but must be won three times to stay with the boat. The Gull of Tawas City holds the trophy for the smaller craft.

Road Commission Is One Of County's Leading Industries

The Isosco County Road Commission had a payroll last Saturday of 103 men. While all of these were not full time checks, the average for full time was a large per cent of the total. This would indicate that the road department is a very important business in the employment of county labor. There are only three other concerns or corporations within the county that employ the number of men that compares favorably with this.

At present the commission has very little construction—only maintenance and betterment work are being carried on with the present limited finances. Before the present number employed by the commission was sometimes as high as 150. If the proposed amendment to cut the gas tax to two cents is adopted the number employed will be greatly reduced, which will add further to our business stagnation and unemployment ills.

SUCH IS LIFE—He's Trying!

By Charles Sughrue

Howe About:

Silerius' Third Wife Unsuited Marriages Cruelty of War

© Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

By ED HOWE

IN HIS memoirs Silerius tells most of his relations with his third wife, which he confesses were on the whole more agreeable than with the other four. (Details as to his marriages are shadowy, as though some of them were failures, but he seems to have been married five times, and it is of his third he speaks most in many references to marriage, women and the family life generally.)

Silerius had no fault to find with this third woman, although he is very severe in references to some others of her sex. She seems to have had no faults he did not regard as natural, and therefore to be forgiven because of her many virtues.

Once Silerius discovered his third wife was jealous of him, and was astonished. "She knew at our marriage," he wrote, "that I had lived the life of a goat. Why should she be jealous? It seemed to me unreasonable that she was, since I actually preferred her to all others in an enormous competition. Women live sheltered lives; possibly there is reason for jealousy among men, but if I were a woman, I do not believe I would be jealous of a reasonably well-behaved husband. This may be unfairness: I frequently find I am unfair after I have striven to live as an honest man in thought and action."

A strange woman lately wrote me a letter. At the age of twenty-four she held a position in which she gave satisfaction, and in which there was every prospect of promotion. In defiance of advice from friends, and of her own judgment, she married. The husband was a palpable third rater, and she divorced him. Again she secured a good position; again she married a man she might have known was worthless. This time her friends were disgusted, and she has joined the unemployed.

One of the strangest things I have encountered in life is the manner in which many women rush into unsuitable marriages. Everyone understands why men are so crazy about women, but I have never been able to understand why women are equally crazy about men. It seems to me that were I young, and a woman, I could consider marriage with considerable patience, intelligence and caution.

The red lantern signal is usually hung on unsuitable husbands and wives, as it is on dangerous bridges.

An old German is reported as saying: "When our sons mowed down thousands of French, and won the battle, we shouted and drank beer. When the French killed our sons, they cheered, and drank wine. When my son marched away to fight, I stood in the streets of this town and cheered. A letter my son wrote just before he was killed said he had lived in France two years, and liked the French, and they liked him." . . . In addition to the unnecessary killing and hate, the war impoverished the world. . . . Wouldn't you think anyone could understand the moral of this in considering the next war?

What is the lesson of the moment, the hour, the century, or of all time? I believe it is the dangerous and growing power of politicians, the press and radicals, all representing minorities, and the cowardice of the majority in refusing to enforce necessary decency.

The habit men have of being artificial, over-sentimental, is very old. As far back as Roman times, Silerius was weary of artificial things, and wrote that they so bored him he dreaded to go on the streets. In the Roman Forum, when a young man used fine eloquence to make false promises, Silerius walked wearily away, and retired to his study. The last year of his life he spent in writing his memoirs, and in the second volume (page 182) I find this observation:

"Writing men have so tired the people with unnatural things, I have concluded I may better please by being natural and simple in writing my recollections. I may thus at least put down what one man actually thought and experienced during a long life; men have become so untruthful in seeking truth that my method may, indeed, prove to be something new, and better recommend my work."

This seems to have been a mistaken opinion. Although Silerius wrote with great simplicity and frankness, Marcus Aurelius, a contemporary writing with so much labor and obscurity that critics now say he is not understandable, is more popular. The natural use of writing would seem to be to truthfully record credits and debits, in books of history as well as in account books, but somehow we have decided otherwise.

The people are great readers. Is the general tendency of what we read improving? That it should be is very important. Old fable writers related improbable or amusing stories, and, at the bottom of each one, something like this was added:

"Moral: Better be safe than sorry." Or other maxims advising caution, temperance, industry, honesty, etc. In everything written, between the lines or somewhere else, there should be reminders of the principles of old and demonstrated experience.

New Invention Eliminates Changing Dials on Radio to Hear Various Programs

A robot radio which tunes itself on and off different stations, according to a pre-selected schedule, starting and stopping and changing programs automatically over a twelve-hour period, has been perfected by A. Atwater Kent, radio engineer and manufacturer.

Once set, the robot or tuneomatic radio provides any combination of programs desired, and after turning itself off at night will go back on again in the morning and serve as an alarm clock. It looks like any other large all-wave radio except for an electric clock set into the front panel. While the mechanism is described as a complicated problem in radio engineering achievement, the operation is simple.

A series of small holes around the edge of the clock's face mark the quarter hour periods and serve as connecting channels between the time clock arrangement and the tuning mechanism. The latter has sixteen outlets in the form of miniature telephone switchboard cords, two to each of seven stations and providing for fourteen different program periods, with two extra cords for intermission periods. The cords are plugged into the holes at the desired program periods, and the radio then operates automatically, shifting from station to station and program to program, stopping itself and starting again exactly as scheduled. If the self-tuning mechanism is not turned on, it operates like any other radio.

Blood-Red Rain

A half-hour downpour of blood-red rain over Lake Garda has puzzled scientists. They linked it with the same phenomenon caused by showers of mud and ashes which fell over Rome and Naples, but continued to disagree as to the exact nature. When showers of mud and ashes fell, Director Alessandro Malladra, of the Vesuvius observatory, said a heavy wind had caught up ashes from the volcano and carried them over a wide area. Others said the mud may have resulted from winds which picked up sand in Africa which later became mixed with rain.

Demand for Liquor Not What Expected

Consumption Is Not a Half That of Pre-Dry Era.

Washington.—Either the American thirst for liquor is not what it used to be or the bootlegger is doing a better business than his legal competitor. Whatever the cause, it now appears that the consumption of legal liquor in the first year of repeal will be considerably less than half the amount consumed in a normal year of the pre-Volstead era.

The legal liquor industry that sprang up almost over night after 13 years of drydom, is finding its dream of quick profits only a dream, and heavy losses are threatening to close down distilleries and retail establishments throughout the country. Imported wines and liquors are lying in warehouses and there is more than ample liquor now on hand to satisfy even an unprecedented demand.

In short, figures issued by the Treasury department and by the code authority for the distilling industry indicate a surprising failure on the part of the drinking public to consume the amount of liquor it had been expected to consume on the basis of past performances.

Blame Bootleggers.

Spokesmen for both the government and the distilling industry were inclined to attribute this failure to the continued competition of illicit liquor, rather than to any loss of appetite on the part of drinking Americans. They blamed the high price of legal liquor and representatives of the industry went further to blame the high prices on high taxes.

What with federal taxes of $2 a gallon, state taxes ranging even higher in some places, and heavy licensing fees in nearly every locality, members of the industry argue, prices of legal liquor cannot be low enough to compete with the prices of illegal liquor on which no tax is paid at all.

Moreover, according to the industry's spokesmen, repeal did not completely change the drinking habits developed during the thirteen years' reign of the bootlegger. The illicit dealer is still highly patronized, they declare, and in one quarter it was estimated that for every gallon of legal, tax paid liquor consumed, two gallons of illicit, untaxed liquor has been distributed.

During prohibition, it is estimated, some 100,000,000 gallons of bootleg liquor were consumed each year, and the legal liquor industry argues that because of high prices, which they blame on high taxes, much of this huge illicit traffic still exists.

Dr. James M. Doran, chairman of the Distilled Spirits Institute, distillers' code authority, estimates that more than 36,000,000 gallons of legal liquor will be consumed this year on the basis of consumption up to June. This, he pointed out, is just about half the amount of liquor consumed in even the leanest pre-prohibition years. Annual normal consumption prior to the dry era, according to Doctor Doran, was about 84,000,000 gallons a year.

Imports Are Down.

While the domestic industry is confronting a serious problem due to the unexpectedly low demand for legal spirits, the foreign producer and importer is likewise faring badly in the American market, figures compiled by the Treasury department authorities show.

Since repeal became a reality on December 5, the treasury disclosed, imports of liquor have totaled $264,227 gallons. Prior to that date, some 40,111 gallons were on hand in bonded warehouses, bringing the total supplies of foreign liquor in this country up to June 30 to 8,304,338 gallons.

Only 3,743,818 gallons have been withdrawn, however, leaving 4,560,520 gallons of imported whiskies and spirits still unused in the warehouses. Allowing for present stocks on retail shelves, the treasury's figures would indicate that less than 3,700,000 gallons of foreign liquor have been consumed in this country in the eight months since prohibition ended.

At the same time the lack of demand has caused importers to fall far short of the amount of foreign liquor they expected to bring to American shores after prohibition ended. Imports have amounted to only two-fifths of the quotas allowed by the control board for the period between December 5 and April 30. Only about one-fifth of the December-April quota, moreover, has moved into consumptive channels.

A TRIBUTE TO MARIE CURIE

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

No discovery has contributed more to alleviate human suffering than the research work of Mme. Curie in the field of radium.

What Paderewski does for music, Mme. Curie accomplished for science. Both were born in the little country of Poland. The same spirit of perseverance permeated both of these Polish subjects, and the same altruistic passion motivated their tireless work.

Paderewski continues to interpret to the world the finest in music, while the work of Mme. Curie came to an end in her recent death at the early age of sixty-six.

"With pernicious anemia sapping her vitality, the little Polish woman did not have sufficient strength to overcome,"—so read the press dispatches; but, from the French scientists come the words, "A long accumulation of radiations during her career as a scientist was a contributing factor to her death."

Marie Curie was born at Warsaw in Russian Poland in 1867. Although the wife of a celebrated French chemist, Pierre Curie, she won distinction in her own name. Among the most notable honors conferred upon her was the Nobel prize, which was given to her on two occasions, the only person who was ever thus favored. After the death of her distinguished husband she continued her research work at the Sorbonne in France.

"Absolute Leader"

Hubert Schnuch, testifying before the congressional committee investigating un-American activities, described himself as "absolute leader" of the Friends of New Germany in the United States, a pro-Nazi organization. He was elected to the post at a national convention held in New York on July 1, he revealed.

It is very frequently argued that a career for a woman is incompatible with the responsibility of being a wife and mother. Not so with Mme. Curie. Between her husband and herself there was a bond of great love and admiration. She was her husband's helpmate in his professional work as well as the mistress of his home and mother of his child, for Mme. Curie did have a child, a daughter, who married a scientist. Rumor has it that the daughter and her husband will now continue the work of her celebrated parents.

The disease which has baffled the skill of physicians has been cancer. With the discovery of radium an important advance has been made in effecting a cure. When this dreaded disease is finally conquered, humanity will owe much to the name of Curie. Simplicity is characteristic of genius. The request of Mme. Curie was that no display take place at her funeral. Observing this request her frail body was laid to rest in a little cemetery in Paris. It is beyond reason to think that either France or Poland will ever let the world forget its great debt to the discoverer of radium.

Old Army Game

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

Interesting Examples of Plaited Plaid Trimming on Frocks, Sofa Cushions, and Draperies.

PLAITED plaids are novel. They form attractive ornamentations for useful and fancy articles and for frocks. The plaids are open showing the foundation material as a background. They are of the simplest construction. They require either a very accurate eye—or a ruler. The latter is advised, as with it the work is made very easy. Rule the lines straight with a pencil. They will be concealed entirely by the material sewed over them.

This material may be very narrow folds of a contrasting textile, of rickrack braid, of ribbon, fancy braids, etc. Rickrack is a favorite medium for making these plaited plaids. One color alone may be used or two or three, each different from the color of the foundation, as well as from each other. Narrow ribbon is another medium ready to use, and so also are trimming braids.

Textiles can be made into narrow strips for plaiting by cutting strips from 3/8 to 1 inch wide and seaming the lengthwise edges together. This can be done without basting if edges are even and are pinned together at intervals. Run a small safety pin through one end of a strip and shut it securely. Push it down through the tubing and when it comes out at the other end of the strip the tubing will be turned right side out and all raw edges be concealed.

Ruling the Lines.

Rule lines in parallel rows on the material to be ornamented. Cross these lines with equally spaced lines extending over the first ones at right angles. Allow plenty of room between lines. Just what this distance shall be is determined by the width of the braid, ribbon, or textile strands. When using rickrack it must be reckoned as wide as the distance between tips on one edge and the other. The braid is undulating, and so, while narrow in itself, this waving line spreads to two or three times the actual width of the braid.

The braid or textile strands, etc., when basted to the foundation must weave alternately over and under the crossing strands, leaving the openwork spacing. Narrow strands can be stitched by machine through the lengthwise center. Rickrack is generally so sewed on. When strands are wide enough to curl when sewed down so, have each edge stitched down.

The trimming is delightfully effective in corners of sofa cushions and table covers with two or three of the middle strands running straight and uncrossed between the corner pieces. Or the plaiting can be in triangular form across opposite ends of a square sofa cushion cover, with an untrimmed diagonal section through the center. A row of plaited plaid makes a smart finish or border around the lower part of a blouse, down shoulder seams and for cuffs.

Hay Fever Caused by Russian Thistle

Salt Lake City, Utah.—The Russian thistle is the greatest single source of hay fever in America, Dr. Ray M. Balyeat of the University of Oklahoma told physicians from western states gathered here in their annual convention. The female cottonwood tree, also a prolific source of the ailment, should be banned by law, he declared. Cedars and elms likewise spread irritating pollen, he said.

Up the Amazon

Tempting Morsel to Native Appetites.

Prepared by National Geographic Society.
 WASHINGTON, D. C.—WNU Service.
PARA, Brazil, at the mouth of the Amazon river, is the threshold of the vast Amazon valley and regions as yet unseen by explorers.

It is a colorful city. The market square where throngs of housewives and servants come to select the day's menu from gorgeous piles of fruits and vegetables, the calcimined walls, the outdoor murals, and even the roofs of the city, assail the eye of the visitor from the somber North. Colors may scream, but never clash in Para. A house of shell pink may abut a neighbor of orange or of cobalt blue, and the result, under magic skies, is harmony.

Founded in 1615, Para looks every day of her 300-odd years, and belies her looks. Aside from a few churches, it is doubtful whether there are many buildings really old. Grasses and weeds lift defiant heads from the crevices of roof tiles and the cobbles of the streets, and blotches of mold and lichens creep inexorably over the walls. But these bespeak the exuberance of the Tropics rather than senility. The mellowing effect, however, is the same.

Notwithstanding her age and her population of more than 230,000, Para is still beleaguered by the jungle. She is at once in and of the jungle. While she must fight ceaselessly to prevent recapture of her streets, even her houses, it is to the forest that her nonindustrial, nonagricultural people owe their very existence.

Wild rubber for a time made Para's name a household word in the industrial world. Rubber has since fallen upon lean days, but the people have merely turned to other gifts of the forest, though less effectively. Warehouses that once reeked of crudely smoked latex now are heavy with the sickly sweet, copralike odor of Brazil nuts, or are piled high with conical bales of piassaba.

Clean City; Poor Water Supply.
 The city is clean, neatly ordered, and up-to-date, despite an economic depression that has endured for more than 20 years, since 1910, when the rubber boom burst like an over-distended toy balloon. There are tramways, motcars, telephones, motion-picture theaters, and parks that are a delight to the soul.

Yet there must needs be a fly in the ointment. The water supply still dribbles inadequately from three old tanks set together on an iron tower half-way up from the docks. Only he who, soaped from head to heel, has had the bath shower suddenly sicken and die can justly appreciate the joyful spurt from a faucet with 75 pounds pressure behind it!

Here the traveler takes a twin-screw triple-decker, blunt-nosed and square of stern, perfectly designed in the Netherlands for the comfort of the Amazon tourist. A crowd packs her decks, a blast from the whistle starts an epidemic of back-pushing, some tears, and a general rush for the gangplank; and when the confusion subsides there are left a mere handful of passengers. Here, as at home, the bon voyage is a fetish, though with more reason in a region where all travel is by water and cities are days instead of hours apart—where the journey from Para to Manaus, for example, requires more time than the passage of the North Atlantic.

Cool Cabins on the Steamer.
 Wherever privacy is not essential, solid wood is replaced by wire screen in the construction of the cabins to permit a maximum of ventilation while assuring protection against mosquitoes. Even during the day, therefore, the staterooms are comfortable unless struck by the sun. Nevertheless, most of the native passengers use them merely as dressing rooms and spend much of the day as well as the night in their hammocks, which are slung in a place especially provided on the top deck.

This custom may account in part for the fact that a passenger in pajamas is considered fully dressed. But if he appears in shirt sleeves, no matter how immaculate, he is thought ill-bred.

The first day you stream northward along the eastern shore of Jaguar Island, round its point into the vast expanse of the Bahia de Marajo, and lose yourself in monotony. Upstream and down, only the indistinct blending of sky and water mark the horizon; to right and left, a level blue line of tree tops indicate the position of the distant shores, all details are obliterated by a haze of water vapor that makes binoculars useless for studying even the nearer islands.

Little left to look at besides the brown river itself, its surface whipped by the trades into short, choppy waves, you follow the lead of the native passengers and turn in for a siesta.

Many Stops for Fuel.
 Just before sunset you enter Breves strait, one of numerous deep, narrow, winding channels through which the tide ebbs and flows between the Para estuary and the Amazon proper, and which dissect the terrain into a maze of jungle islands. Here you tie up at a small place to take wood for the boilers.

So insatiable are these iron maws that wood stations have become typical institutions of the low country and account for most of the steamer's stops during the first two days. For hour after hour, sometimes far into the night, men and boys with coppery torsos gleaming with sweat run across the plank in endless line to dump 10-stick loads with resounding thumps on the steel deck.

Mid-morning of the third day you pass the little whitewashed town of Gurupa, atop the high right bank, from which steps descend to small piers. At one side are brown walls of an ancient fortress, and a mildewed church on a green, close-cropped lawn. You are now in the Amazon proper, though this part is only a channel around the southeast side of Gurupa Island.

Above Gurupa, the Xingu discharges waters collected on the plateau of central Mato Grosso, hundreds of miles to the south. Somewhere near its sources the gallant British explorer, Col. P. H. Fawcett, disappeared in 1925.

No matter how many travel books he may read, the newcomer to the Amazon is never prepared for the reality. He is impressed according to mood. He may turn his gaze ahead to a distant horizon with no thin haze line of shore intervening between blue and brown, and let his imagination wander the width of the continent, to where the river takes its source in Andean snows within sight of the Pacific; or he may look into its depths and see only mud.

Plenty of Life in the River.
 Actually, the river teems with life, unseen though it may be. Its drainage claims 748 different kinds of fish—nearly a third more than its closest competitor, the Congo—including familiar little guppies, electric eels, four-eyed fish, murderous piranhas, and the gigantic pirarucu, whose dried flesh in bales befools the air of every ship's hold in Amazonia. This monster, with maximum length of 15 feet and weight of 410 pounds, is easily the largest strictly fresh water fish extant; yet it is only a flyweight compared with its mammalian neighbor, the manatee, which may exceed a ton. Thus, among all South American animals, the palm for sheer bulk goes to the gentle river cow.

After eight days the steamer turns from the Amazon against the coffee-colored tide of the Rio Negro. The change from brown to black is sudden and startling. No more so, however, than the arrival, eight miles farther on, at a modern city of 42,000 set in the midst of a jungle.

Manaos lies 450 miles from the nearest railroad, and that is but a moribund line around the rapids of the upper Madeira; yet one finds well-paved streets, electric lights, tramways, automobiles, and the best ice cream ever tasted. There is even a magnificent opera house, though it stands empty, a sad monument to the heyday of rubber, when for a moment manioc and pirarucu yielded to champagne and pate de foie gras. But the biggest and tallest structure of all is the brewery, a veritable skyscraper as buildings go in Amazonia.

Against the town's recorded history, the rubber boom is only an interlude. Nevertheless, the large number of boats that lie rotting at the water front seems an ironic reward for the British skill that made these modern port works to rise and fall with the 40-foot pulsations of the negro.

All is safe now Peter Rabbit. Come out and talk with me and let me tell you how grateful I am to you for saving my life."

Chewink flew down to the ground and Peter Rabbit crept out of the bramble-tangle where he had been hiding. "It wasn't anything," declared Peter. "I saw Reddy and I knew you didn't, so of course I gave the alarm. You would have done the same thing for me. Do you know, Chewink, I've wondered a great deal about you."

"What have you wondered about me?" asked Chewink. "I've wondered what family you belong to," replied Peter. Chewink chuckled. "I belong to a big family," said he. "I belong to the biggest family among the birds. It is the Finch and Sparrow family. There are a lot of us and a good many of us don't know that Rosebreast the Grosbeak and Glory the Cardinal are members of my family."

"I didn't know it," replied Peter, "but if you say it is so I suppose it must be so. It is easier to believe that than that you are related to the Sparrows."

"Nevertheless I am," retorted Chewink.

"What were you scratching for when I first saw you?" asked Peter.

"Oh, worms and bugs that hide under the leaves," replied Chewink carelessly. "You have no idea how many of them hide under dead leaves."

"Do you eat anything else?" asked Peter.

"Berries and wild fruits in season," replied Chewink. "I'm very fond of them. They make a variety in the bill of mine."

"I've noticed that I seldom see you in a tree-top," remarked Peter.

"I like the ground better," replied

Chewink. "I spend more of my time on the ground than anywhere else."

"I suppose that means that you nest on the ground," ventured Peter.

Chewink nodded. "Of course," said he. "As a matter of fact I've got a nest in this very thicket. Mrs. Towhee is on it right now, and I suspect she is worrying and anxious to know what happened over here when you warned me about Reddy Fox. I think I must go over and set her mind at rest."

QUESTION BOX By ED WYNN... The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
 Is it true that the average weight of a woman's clothing when she is dressed to go out in the evening weighs 14 ounces?

Yours truly,
 N. CREDIBLE.

Answer: Yes. But that is only temporary, as a manufacturer has just announced an invention which makes shoes much lighter.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
 I have been ill and my doctor advises "chicken livers." Do you think they are healthy?

Yours truly,
 BIFELE ALLIN.

Answer: I never heard of a chicken complaining of its liver.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
 I am very fond of flowers and have just planted an entire bed of "Saliva Bulbs" for next summer. I should like to plant another kind of flower that would make a pretty border for my "Saliva" blooms. What do you suggest?

Sincerely,
 ANN ASTOR.

Answer: Inasmuch as you have an entire bed of "Saliva" why not surround it with a border of "Spittoonias?"

Dear Mr. Wynn:
 I am a married man, have been married only three months. I am a good hardworking man, give my wife everything she asks for, lots of spending money, lots of clothes, in fact, everything. Here's what I want to know: Last night I arrived home and found my wife in another man's arms. As I give my wife everything, how do you account for me finding her kissing another man?

Yours truly,
 I. M. MADD.

Answer: Inasmuch as you do so much for your wife, the only way I can account for your discovering your wife in another man's arms is that you came home sooner than she expected.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
 I have been in ill health for some time. The doctor told me to take some IRON. Do you think he advised me correctly?

Yours truly,
 DELA WARE.

Answer—Your doctor's advice is very good, if taken properly. I knew a man once who was sick and his doctor told him to take some IRON. He took a stove and was arrested.

The Solitaire Bird
 The solitaire (Pezophaps solitaria) was a bird allied to the dodo and formerly inhabiting Rodriguez. It became extinct about 1761. The male stood about 2 feet 9 inches high and was brownish gray in color, the female being brown with a whitish breast. The male bore a knob of bone on each wing and used this as a weapon. The solitaire was flightless. Its food consisted of seeds and leaves, and a single egg was laid in a heap of palm leaves and incubated by both parents.

She would be a better player
 If she could just leave behind
 All the dear domestic problems
 That perplex her loving mind.
 If she could forget the children
 And the naughty things they did—
 But that's just what she remembers!
 She forgets the no-trump bid!

If she didn't have her mind on
 Mrs. Johnson's lovely gown;
 If she wouldn't bother listing
 All the things she'll buy in town,
 She would be a better player!
 Now she's making up her face,
 And she's sort of absent-minded
 As she trumps her partner's ace!

She would be a better player!
 She describes each dress that's worn!
 The refreshments? She could make 'em,
 And her husband laughs in scorn,
 Though there's humor in his laughter
 As he hears his bonny lass
 When he bids "Two hearts!" say:
 "Partner! You'll excuse me! . . .
 I'll just pass!"

If she'd concentrate five minutes,
 What a player she would be,
 But she must describe her diet,
 And the show she went to see.
 She would be a better player,

DESIGNED FOR VACATION DAYS

PATTERN 9059

Bother! Vacation around the corner and not enough frocks! Never mind, here is an easy way out. Select three fabrics you like in your most becoming colors. A pretty print, an ecru organdie, and a china blue crepe de chine—would that be good for you? But first, of course, order the pattern! Make the organdie with frills of ecru lace on the shoulders and use a brown ribbon for your belt. Wouldn't he like you in that of an evening? The print could be quite plain and the crepe de chine like the sketch at the left with frills of self fabric.

Pattern 9059 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER AND SIZE.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

"OH, THEY'RE NOT HOME, AND I MUST FIND A TELEPHONE!"

It's inconvenient and often embarrassing to use a neighbor's telephone frequently. But it would be serious... perhaps even tragic... should sudden sickness, fire, accident or other emergency occur while the neighbors were away, and you could not reach a telephone promptly.

Why continue the inconvenience and risk of being without a telephone of your own? Telephone service costs only a few cents a day. Call, visit or write the Telephone Business Office to place an order. Installation will be made promptly.

Registration Notice

For General Primary Election September 11th, 1934
 To the Qualified Electors of the City of Tawas City, State of Michigan,
 Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law," I, the undersigned City Clerk will, upon any day except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said City not already registered who may APPLY TO ME PERSONALLY for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the time intervening between the Second Saturday before any regular, special, or official primary election and the day of such election.
 The last day for General Registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters Law. (See Registration by Affidavit.)
 Notice is hereby given that I will be at my office
 Wednesday, August 22nd, 1934
 The Twentieth Day Preceding Said Election, as provided by Part II, Chapter III, Michigan Election Law, from 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m. on said day for the purpose of reviewing the registration and registering such of the qualified electors in said City as Shall Properly Apply therefor.
 Notice is hereby further given to the Qualified Electors of this City that I, the undersigned Clerk of said City, will register qualified electors who may apply at my office on any business day in the year up to and including Saturday, Sept. 1st, 1934—Last Day for General Registration by personal application for said election.
 The name of no person but an ACTUAL RESIDENT of the precinct at the time of registration, and entitled under the constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election shall be entered in the registration book.
Registration by Affidavit
 Sec. 10—Registering of Electors: Any absent voter, as defined in this act, whose name is not registered and who shall claim the right to vote by absent voter's ballot at any election or primary election, may at the time of making application for absent voter's ballot, present to the City Clerk an affidavit for registration which shall be in substantially the following form:
Affidavit for Registration
 STATE OF MICHIGAN,
 County of _____, being duly sworn, depose and say that I am a citizen and duly qualified elector of the City of _____ in the County of _____ and State of Michigan; that my post office address is No. _____ Street _____ or R. F. D. No. _____ P. O. _____ that I am not now registered as an elector therein and that I am voting by absent voter's ballot at the election (or primary election) to be held upon the _____ day of _____, 193____, the application for which ballot accompanies this application; that I make this affidavit for the purpose of procuring my registration as an elector in accordance with the statute; that I make the following statements in compliance with the Michigan Election Law: Ave. _____ Race _____ Birthplace _____ Date of naturalization _____ I further swear or affirm that the answers given to the above questions concerning my qualifications as an elector are true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.
 Signed _____
 Taken, subscribed and sworn to before me this _____ day of _____, 193____.
 My commission expires _____, 193____.
 Notary Public in and for said County, State of Michigan.
 Upon receipt of such affidavit in the time specified herein, the clerk shall write in the registration book the name of the applicant together with the other information required by this chapter and such applicant shall thereupon be deemed to be duly and properly registered.
 Note—If this acknowledgment is taken outside of the State, the Certificate of the Court that the person taking the acknowledgment is a notary must be attached.
Registration of Absentee By Oath
 If any person whose name is not registered shall offer and claim the right to vote at any election, or primary election, and shall UNDER OATH, state that he or she is a resident in the CITY TWENTY DAYS next preceding such election, designating particularly the place of his or her residence and that he or she possesses the other qualifications of an elector under the constitution; and that owing to the sickness or bodily infirmity of himself or her family or owing to his or her absence from the City on public business or his or her own business, and without intent to avoid or delay his or her registration, he or she was unable to make application for registration on the last day provided by law for the registering of electors preceding such election, then the name of such person shall be registered, and he or she shall then be permitted to vote at such election. If such applicant shall in said matter, wilfully make any false statement, he or she shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction be subject to the pains and penalties thereof.
 Provided, that any city may provide by its charter or by resolution approved by a majority of the members of its legislative body for the registration of such sick and absent voters on the last Saturday preceding any election or primary election at the places of voting in the several voting districts of such city, instead of on election or primary election day.
Provision in Case of Removal To Another Precinct
 Any registered and qualified voter who has REMOVED from ONE ELECTION PRECINCT of the City to another election precinct of the City shall have the right, on any day previous to election day, on application to the City Clerk, to have his or her name transferred from the registration book of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED to the registration book of the precinct in which he or she THEN RESIDES. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made ON ELECTION DAY, or Primary Election day, by obtaining from the board of inspectors of election of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED a CERTIFICATE OF TRANSFER, and presenting the said certificate to the BOARD OF ELECTION INSPECTORS OF THE PRECINCT IN WHICH HE OR SHE THEN RESIDES.
 W. C. Davidson, City Clerk.

SYNOPSIS

At the close of the Mexican war, Robin Kershaw, with his bride, rode into northeastern California. Here he found an ideal valley for cattle raising. They christened it Eden Valley. Below Eden Valley is a less valuable tract which Kershaw's wife names Forlorn Valley. Joel Hensley settles in the lower half of the valley. There is bad blood over fences and water. Kershaw kills Hensley and the blood-feud is on. By 1917, Rance Kershaw, his son Owen, and daughter Lorry are all that remains of one clan. Nate Tichenor is the sole survivor on the Hensley side. He goes to help Lorry in her car and finds her father has died of heart disease. Silas Babson, banker, schemes to control the irrigation and hydro-electric possibilities of Eden Valley. Nate and Owen, Lorry's brother, met in France just before Owen was killed, and Nate promised that if he survived Owen he would look after Lorry as a brother might do. With money advanced by Nate, Lorry clears up her indebtedness to Babson. Nate finds he is falling in love with Lorry. Babson discovers Nate is behind a rival power project. Nate tells Lorry he loves her. She admits she loves him, and they become engaged. Babson orders Joe Brainerd, editor of the local paper, to attack Nate as an enemy of the people. This Brainerd refuses to do. Nate comes to Brainerd's rescue financially. The editor celebrates by punching Babson's head. Pitt River Charley, a half-breed, makes an attempt to assassinate Nate.

"Who hired you, Charley?" Tichenor kept repeating patiently, while Tenney's arm rose and fell, with a momentary pause to give the killer time to answer.

"Babson—of the bank."
"And the price?"
"Five hundred—half down."
"You killed Jim Hensley eighteen years ago, didn't you?"

Silence.
"Guilty as h—l," Mr. Tenney murmured. "Court's adjourned. Slip the loop of the riata off'n his hands an' around his neck. I'll hist him with that hoss yonder."

"Not for a white man's sins, Rube. He's just fined two hundred and fifty dollars." He turned to Pitt River Charley. "You beat it the best way you know how down to Valley Center and have Doc Donaldson fix you up. Tell him to send the bill to Babson. And when you're well, fork your horse and get out of this country, because if I ever catch you inside the limits of this county I'm going to pull and get busy on you without further warning. Understood?"

The killer nodded humbly, they cast him loose and, sans his rifle, he stumbled off down the road.

"What's Babson got ag'in you, Nate?" Rube Tenney demanded.
"Nothing. The poor fool thinks he has."
"You'd better let me down an' tunnel him," the practical Tenney pleaded. "He sure wants killin' an' when they ask for it that-a-way, I'm in favor of accomodatatin' em."

"Shut up, you loyal, lovable simpleton, and ride that horse of Joseph's back to the Circle K. He's cast a shoe. Set it and send him back to Joseph in the morning. Here comes my car. Good night, Rube, and thanks for your assistance. And remember! This thing never happened."

"There's fools, an' durned fools an' tarnation eddits, an' imbeciles," Mr. Tenney roared, "and you're all four rolled into one."

Hope was again springing eternal in the Babson breast. He hoped, during the day, to have good news from Eden Valley, and for a Christian man he was faintly amazed at himself as he considered the fortune with which he awaited the expected tidings.

His poise was considerably shattered, therefore, when Nate Tichenor stroled into the bank and greeted him cordially. "Nice growing weather, Mr. Babson," he opined, as he took the visitor's chair beside the banker's desk.

Babson was wondering if this cool, well-bred worldling had escaped Pitt River Charley, and, if so, had Pitt River Charley told! How much did this devil, Nate Tichenor, know?

"Pitt River Charley made my aunt a widow, and I've been trying to figure out why you sent him to make me join my ancestors," said Nate. "I think I know the reason. You're afraid of me. You think that with me out of the way you can get the Eden Valley water without fuss and feathers."

"I—I don't know—what you're talking—about, Nate."

"Well, listen to me just the same. If you want a fight, you can have it, and I'll be sporty about it, too. I'll not put Pitt River Charley in the witness chair. Word of honor, I'll not. I'll fight you on the merits of the case and may the best man win. But don't send another killer after me. Do you know what I'm talking about now?"

"I think I do, Tichenor."
"After a while you'll be sure of it. Remember, whatever you do, short of murder, is O. K. with me. I'm more than nine years old and can take care of myself. Well, good-by. I'll see you at the mass meeting this afternoon."

By the time the bank closed at twelve o'clock, Babson had recovered his composure. Strange fellow, this Nate Tichenor. So he was going to fight the fight on its merits, eh? Well, if he'd stick to that resolve Babson knew he would defeat him. . . . Said he'd be at the mass meeting, eh?

"Henry," Babson called in dulcet tones, "come here."

Mr. Rookby obediently reported at his master's desk.

"Henry, this fellow Nate Tichenor is going to fight us all over the lot this afternoon if we give him half a chance," he began. "He must not have that chance. I want you to scatter around in the crowd and plant quite a number of hecklers and interrupters. I'll open the meeting and before I get through with Tichenor they'll want to lynch him. Then when he tries to address the crowd I want him cried down, booed off the platform, rough-housed, if necessary."

"Leave it to me," Mr. Rookby assured Babson. "I owe the skunk a poke myself. I know just what to do."

Shortly after luncheon at the Circle K ranch as Lorry Kershaw was about to enter her coupe and drive to Valley Center, Rube Tenney came out of the house with two six-shooters in shoulder holsters under his arms. Lorry saw them as he struggled into his coat.

"Well, who are you out to kill today, Rube?" she queried jocularly.

"Nobody, I hope, but somebody if I have to. You heeled, Miss Lorry?"

"Certainly not. Why should I be?"

"You're goin' down to that mass meetin' in Valley Center, ain't you?"

"Yes."

"So's Nate Tichenor. I listened to some talk while I was in town the other day an' it seems folks got an idea Nate's goin' to try to keep from Forlorn Valley the water they're fixin' to grab out of Eden Valley creek. Somebody's worked up an undercurrent feelin' ag'in Nate. I'm sorter cautious; I like to have a few capable friends in a crowd that ain't friendly to me."

Lorry got out of the car, entered the house, strapped a six-shooter, with a full belt of cartridges, around her waist, slipped on a light coat to conceal her armament and got behind the wheel again. Rube Tenney slipped in beside her, and they rolled away for Valley Center.

A crowd of perhaps five hundred persons occupied the temporary board benches Babson had provided in the plaza and Babson was on a raised platform just opening the meeting when Rube and Lorry arrived.

He was a good speaker, clear and incisive, and had a trick of uttering those catch phrases which aroused the unthinking. Babson proceeded to outline the method of organizing an irrigation district, reminded his listeners that there was but one source of supply, to wit, the waters of Eden Valley creek, down which hundreds of thousands of acre-feet of water went to waste annually, as well they knew. More applause. Babson next proceeded to dilate on his plan for tapping Eden Valley creek in the Handle, leading it to the natural reservoir he had discovered and thence down into Forlorn Valley. Adroitly he painted a picture of future prosperity, of bumper crops, of increased land values, of happy homes and the smiling faces of little children. And then, suddenly clenching his fist, he yelled:

"But this silver cloud we see before us has a dark and dismal lining, my friends. We have in Eden Valley three riparian owners, Nathan Tichenor, the Mountain Valley Power company, of which this same Tichenor is also sole owner, and Miss Lorraine Kershaw, sole heir to the Circle K ranch. They have conspired to deprive us of those waste waters for their own selfish ends. Nate Tichenor informs me that his company plans to erect a power station below his proposed dam and manufacture hydro-electric power. I say, here and now, to Nate Tichenor, that I think he lies. He proposes erecting that dam for the purpose of impounding the flood waters and sell-

Famous Duel Between Henry Clay and John Randolph Made Them Good Friends

A noted duel took place just over the Chain Bridge, on the Virginia side, between Henry Clay and John Randolph of Roanoke, recalls a writer in the Washington Star.

Henry Clay, an American statesman, was born in Virginia, April 12, 1777. When he was twenty-one he was admitted to the bar, and began practice at Lexington, Va. He was very successful, and was made United States senator in 1806. In 1811 he was elected speaker of the house of representatives.

During John Adam's administration, Henry Clay was secretary of state and performed the duties of that office with great ability. He was candidate for the Presidency several times but was not successful.

John Randolph was also an American statesman and a great politician. He was born in Virginia June 2, 1773.

In 1779 he was sent to congress and became noted for his wit, his fluency, and the sharpness of his remarks. He seemed to take pleasure in annoying Clay.

The duel between them was the result of a speech John Randolph made in which the word "blackleg" was used in connection with the administration. Clay resented it and took it as a personal thrust.

John Randolph insisted upon fighting the duel in Virginia. To this Clay agreed. Randolph chose pistols. The distance was ten paces.

The law in Virginia prohibited dueling, and this was mentioned to Randolph, who replied that as Henry Clay would be the only one to shoot, the statute could have no personal application to himself.

Fortunately no one was hurt, as Randolph fired into the air, as he had said he would.

Clay put a ball through Randolph's coat. He had a very narrow escape, as it grazed his side.

ward and up the other, searching for Silas Babson.

Very shortly after the inception of a riot, a doctor and a newspaper man will be found at the fringe of the disturbance. Doctor Donaldson, hearing shouts, screams, and pistol shots, locked his office and, familiar black bag in hand, descended hurriedly into Valley boulevard. Joe Brainerd, swept along with the mob, raced for his office and returned with his camera in time to see Lorry Kershaw shoot Bill Rooney's high sombrero off his head. Not realizing that the girl was doing trick shooting, both Brainerd and Donaldson ran after her—an action which in all probability, saved Silas Babson's life, for Lorry had located him in the plaza and was hurrying to get to closer range before opening fire on him. Joe Brainerd grasped her shooting arm and Doctor Donaldson shouted her left.

"No, no," the little editor soothed. "Nothing like that, Miss Kershaw. It's too expensive—and, besides, he'll keep."

The girl burst into tears of futile fury and struggled with the two men. "They've killed Nate and Rube, and Babson organized the killing," she wailed. "Let me go, let me go. There's nothing left in life for me now except to kill that man. I'll avenge Nate! I'll avenge him, I tell you. Hear me? I'll even the score if I hang for it. Let me go! This isn't your party. The Kershaws pay their debts; Babson said Nate and I were outlaws, and I'll make good on that."

"All right—but tomorrow, after you've thought it over and made certain Nate is dead," the doctor objected.

"Come now, don't be a little wildcat. You've killed enough men for today. I've just wing-tipped them. I've run the Kershaw brand on them, so they can't get away and we'll catch them and hang them; but Babson dies today."

The doctor twisted the loaded pistol out of her grasp. "He'll keep, I tell you, Miss Kershaw," he roared, and shook her roughly. "And if Tichenor hasn't been killed, Babson belongs to him."

Her fury passed as suddenly as it had mounted. "You're right, doctor, that scoundrel will keep. No good killing him unless the job's worth while." She looked up at him with brimming eyes. "But if his people have killed Nate Tichenor, they've killed my promised man and if they've killed Rube Tenney they've killed my hired man—and that's a killing matter with the Clan Kershaw. We don't forget," she panted. "We pay our debts. Oh—oh—oh, if Owen were only here—we'd—we'd—run this mob into—the hills."

"Here's a shoulder to cry on, girl," Joe Brainerd told her. "Doc, on your way. Babson's work is done and yours is just commencing."

In a minute Lorry pulled herself together. "Cry-baby! I hate cry-babies," she ground out rebelliously. "Give me my gun, Mr. Brainerd—for the doctor had handed the weapon to the editor—and I'll promise not to kill anybody except in self-defense."

He returned the gun, and the girl started resolutely up the street. "At the scene of the oil-and-feather episode, Doctor Donaldson, assisted by his lone colleague in Valley Center, was dragging Rube Tenney clear of the fallen; standing aside, swaying on his feet, naked to the waist, filthy with road oil, disheveled and bloody and swollen of face, Nate Tichenor stood looking on. Swiftly Lorry ran to him; dirty, oily, and gory as he was, she took him in her arms and kissed him—and Joe Brainerd marveled at the calmness of her tone as she asked:

"Are you badly hurt, darling?"
"I think I could do with a week in bed," he muttered thickly. "I'm punched and kicked apart. Side and back hurts—broken ribs, I think. He fingered his nose. "Seems O. K. but the teeth in my left jaw feel loose. Who—who did all the shooting?"

Beating Around Cape Horn in a 25-Foot Boat

Explorer Tells of Exciting Experiences at Sea.

Washington.—"Seals, playing on the rocks, threw back their heads and gazed sea water with a noise like calves bawling, as we beat around stormy Cape Horn. For 50 days after leaving Magallanes, on the Straits of Tierra del Fuego, we saw not a single human being except a few wild Alaculuf Indians on Burnt Island. They looked so fierce, running along their cold, lonely beach and shouting at us, that we sailed on past them."

So says Amos Burg, in a report to the National Geographic society, under whose auspices he is exploring the southernmost tip of the western hemisphere, which is nearest the South pole of all continental lands.

"Magallanes itself is a long way from Portland, Ore., where my trip began. But from Magallanes to Cape Horn seems even farther, because of the strange sense of gloom that hangs over these chilly solitudes, and the sudden fury of the persistent gales. The sea was smooth as glass the day we left Magallanes; yet, in one short hour so terrific a gale had blown up that the waters became a smoking maelstrom and hull rattled against our bounding boat like machine-gun fire.

Many Stormy Days.

"Such storms are known to rage for three weeks. One year had 300 stormy days. On Navarin island we found a man named Ken Williams, an otter hunter, and took him aboard; that made three, in our 25-foot power boat, bound for the islands of the horn. Crossing the open sea from Nassau bay to Cape Horn, on Grey Island, the full fury of the gales hit us. I feared being blown out to sea, for our propeller was fouled with kelp. So much salt water blew through the air that bareheaded Ken Williams' hair looked as if it had been lathered.

"Even when the storms were at their worst, and it seemed we must surely swamp, Ken Williams would suddenly stand up and point to some rocky nook, and shout above the wind's roar, 'I shot an otter over there once!'

"His father was a pioneer missionary among the Yaghan Indians, and Williams himself, besides being a hunter, owns sheep that range some of these islands. He is therefore the most southerly sheep-herder in the western hemisphere.

"Away down here at the bottom of the western world, even separated from the tip of South America itself by weeks of stormy seas, and dependent wholly on a tiny lifeboat that I bought at a sale from the United States coast guard and shipped here, I can't help thinking—especially when it storms—about how far it is back to Portland, Ore. In a calm spell we got ashore at Baily island, and from a peak we saw the big Cloven cliff on Horn island itself, and also the Wollaston and Hermite groups that mark the very last land before the jump-off into cold waters that stretch to the Antarctic regions.

Make Lonely Landings.

"The American ship carpenters who built our 25-foot boat, the 'Dorjun,' of course, never dreamed that she would one day make this historic voyage. But how proud they would be, could they have seen her rounding Cape Horn, through seas that filled even Drake, Cavendish and Magellan himself with dismay; seas, in fact, often so rough that in early days many Portuguese and Spanish sailors gave up the fight, and went back up the coast, and found happiness in the lotus life of pioneer Brazil.

"Hundreds of landings we made, at strange, lonely nooks on rocky shores where barking seals, otters and birds only make man's absence more impressive. In the broken surf on the outer side of the Horn itself a lot of Em-

Home Gold Valued at Over Half Billion

New York.—The value of old gold lying idle in American homes is believed to surpass the output of all the gold mines in the world for an entire year.

A drive to recover old gold, carried on in Britain some time ago, brought to light over half a billion dollars worth of the precious metal. America is believed to have an even greater store.

Peror Penguins are Colonized.

"Glad we were, and weary, back once more in the town of Magallanes, which used to be called Punta Arenas. To you, it's just a name; a name for a far-away sheep town stuck somewhere below Patagonia, on the Straits of Tierra del Fuego. To us, after cold, wet, dangerous weeks on end, it was civilization again. What if its people are mostly Slavs, Austrians and Italians, who speak tongues that are strange to us, and who paint the roofs in bright colors, and build tight board fences around their gardens so the gales will not blow all the dirt away! Or what if the gales from Patagonia do bring clouds of dust, filled with grass seeds from distant pampas, and then tear across the straits, lifting sheets of water into the air and thrashing them about till all the sea has the aspect of smoking prairie grass? It's still Magallanes, a city, a place of streets, stores, mail from home, dry clothes, and a wireless station."

HERE'S COMFORT FOR SNUFFLERS

A word of comfort for the snufflers of the nation has come out of the West. This is to the effect that doubt has been expressed before a session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that the common cold is infectious or even of bacterial origin.

For be it known that persons who suffer from common colds, the snufflers on street cars, in the offices and their own frescoes are the most miserable of persons in addition to their acute sufferings from colds. They are under constant suspicion, to be avoided and shunned, in the general belief of most grown-ups and all grown-ups who have children that the common cold spreads its ill in passing; that it is better even to look the other way when a person with a "code in his head" is near.

This, of course, is added bitterness to the sufferer, especially so when he too, believes with the majority and feels that he is an incubator of disease wherever he may go. Unfortunately a man with a cold has his living to make when he is ailing just as he has when he is well, if ever. And he goes about his business shunned and shunning, miserable in double measure.

Of course, the doubt that has been expressed before the science advancement association has not been proved, but doctors have a way of holding their beliefs to themselves unless they have reasonable support for their beliefs. In this case, Prof. William J. Kerr and Dr. John B. Lagen, members of the University of California's staff of physicians, reported experiments in which all attempts to transmit colds by infection or direct inoculation had failed. Therefore the doubt laid before the Association for the Advancement of Science that the common cold is infectious or of bacterial origin.

This thought, of course, is not assurance. Nor does it license the addict to common colds to go about among his fellows without the usual precautions. But it does give him hope that some day he will be received in society and business a lit-

Flies Carry Germs More than Two Miles

Some folks think that when the home and its surroundings are kept clean, the health-menace of disease-bearing flies is lessened. But experiments have shown that flies travel as far as two miles in sustained flight. In most cases they come direct from manure piles, sewage, garbage, sputum deposits, the carcasses of dead animals, etc., to invade your rooms. In every instance they are covered with millions of tiny disease germs which are spread wherever they go, on whatever they touch. Don't let dirty, dangerous flies contaminate your home. Exterminate them with Tanglefoot Fly Paper—it's safe, sure, and inexpensive. Available at your nearest store in the standard size, or in the Junior size in convenient holders, also in ribbon form.

MRS. WILLIAMS GAINS RELIEF FROM "RHEUMATIC" PAINS

Dr. W. E. Fitch Explains why Natural Mineral Water Often Helpful In Chronic Ailments

William Edward Fitch, M.D.

Mrs. H. Williams, 16 Princeton Street, Clifton, New Jersey, writes: "I suffered very badly with rheumatism but after taking Crazy Water Crystals I am a different person. They are wonderful. I would not be without them, they did me so much good."

Why is it that a fine natural mineral water, made at home from Crazy Water Crystals has benefited so many thousands suffering from "rheumatic" pains and other chronic ailments?

Dr. W. E. Fitch, noted medical authority on mineral water, in a recent radio talk over the National Broadcasting System stated:

"For many years, it has been a mystery even to the medical world just how natural mineral waters produced the amazing results that have made them so popular. Scientific and medical discoveries and research in the last few years, however, are penetrating these secrets of Nature, so that now medical men have a new understanding of the reasons for the power of natural mineral water to relieve suffering. One of these reasons is what is known as secondary mineralization, by which is meant that not only the predominating chemical constituents of a mineral water are of aid but also what are known as the secondary minerals—those present in infinitesimal quantities. The very fact of their being present in this way causes them to have a much more powerful systemic effect than if they were there in larger quantities. Let me recommend wholeheartedly to sufferers from chronic diseases the use of a suitable natural mineral water as a powerful adjuvant."

A standard sized package, sufficient for three weeks mineral water treatment in your own home costs only $1.50. Get one today. Crazy Water Co., Mineral Wells, Texas.

Crazy Water Crystals

are for sale in many drug stores. In the larger cities there are exclusive Crazy Water Crystal stores. See your telephone book.

Will Restore Smyrna to Previous Beauty

Lottery Funds to Be Used for Improvements.

Ismir, Smyrna.—Smyrna, "Turkey's eye on the Mediterranean," is to be restored to its previous beauty.

The city, as port and trading place of Turkey, second only in importance to Istanbul, was almost completely wrecked by the great fire of 1922, when Mustafa Kemal's troops ejected the Greeks, and it is still partly in ruins now.

Under the leadership of Dr. Behtchet Sabit Bey, reconstruction of the city which, incidentally, has the best claim of being Homer's birthplace, will be undertaken.

The city holds vast areas of which it took control after the expulsion of Greeks and Armenians, who had formed about half of the city's total population before the Greco-Turkish war.

On these grounds building lots in residential quarters will be sold at low installment payments and, under certain conditions, even given free of charge.

In the workmen's districts about nine square feet will sell at 20 cents per foot and the city will furnish the building material gratis provided its model plan is adopted.

Two new main avenues will divide the city into four sections. One will lead straight up from the port to the famous ancient fortress on Mount Pagus and thus open up a magnificent view.

Under this plan 500 homes so far have been constructed, of which each has a bathroom and is surrounded by a small garden.

To defray first costs a lottery, expected to yield 400,000 Turkish pounds, is being organized by Ismir's magistrate.

Ancient Shark Would Measure Over 40 Feet

New York.—Remains of a 50,000,000-year-old giant shark, from North Carolina, on view at the American Museum of Natural History, present weighty and conclusive evidence that sea monsters were in existence prior to man's appearance on this earth. Before even the Neolithic man started flaking flint implements, these piscatorial giants were roving the seas.

This particular shark, which is estimated as having been 40 feet in length, has teeth averaging five inches in height and completely dwarfs any of the modern shark family. According to Francesca R. La Monte, associate curator at the museum, the 40 foot approximation is conservative. "It would be no exaggeration," she explains, "to say that this prehistoric shark was, in life, 60 feet long."

Referring to the current sea serpent monomania, Miss La Monte points out that "fish do not move in the horizontal caterpillar undulations, as inaccurately described by those people who claim to have seen recent sea serpents. Fish move laterally," illustrative of this is the sideway darting of goldfish.

Cliff Ruins 800 Years Old Found in Arizona

Kayenta, Ariz.—The discovery of cliff ruins dating back to 1150 and 1250 A. D. was reported from the Rainbow Bridge-Monument Valley expedition.

Prof. Gerald E. Marsh, of the University of California, made the find.

Located on Skeleton Mesa, in a cave 8,000 feet high, the ruins included four rooms. Pottery found in the dwelling enabled Marsh to date the probable time of its occupancy. The mummified bodies of two adults and two dogs were found in the cave.

Clever Coyotes Finally Killed by U. S. Hunters

La Jara, Colo.—The depredations among live stock of "Macbeth" and "Lady Macbeth," bloodthirsty coyotes of the San Luis valley, have been brought to an end by hunters and trappers of the predatory animal division of the United States biological survey.

Hunters said the coyotes possessed uncanny cleverness in evading capture. They gained their names, the federal hunters said, from the fact that the male coyote was not as dangerous as his mate and was goaded by her to most of his killings.

"Macbeth" was caught in a trap. "Lady Macbeth" brooded over the capture of her mate so that she was an easy target for a hunter's gun.

Carriages Bugaboo in 1808 Safety First Verse

Philadelphia.—Safety first campaigns did not start with the advent of the automobile. They are old stuff in 1808, as revealed in one of a collection of children's books recently exhibited here.

The old book published in that year contains several "cautionary stories in verse." One example was:

"Miss Helen was always too giddy to heed
What her mother had told her to shun,
For frequently over the street in full speed
She would cross where the carriages run."

The moral, of course, was reached in the final verse when the child who disobeyed her mother was struck by one of the many carriages.

Jersey Township Passes Law to Scare Nudists

Camden, N. J.—Nudists, if any, in Haddon township, near here, now have something else to worry about besides cold weather.

For the township is prepared to meet nudists more than half way—with a fine of $200 or an alternative of 90 days in jail.

"For 70 years the township has gotten along without this law, but there have been rumors of nudists starting a camp in this neighborhood, and it's always best to be prepared," said Edward Marker, chairman of the township commissioners, in explaining why such an ordinance was passed recently.

Scenic Mountain Road in Colorado Nearly Ready

Trinidad, Colo.—The Cordova Pass road, at one point nearly 12,000 feet above sea level, will be opened some time this summer, it has been announced by the state highway department. The highway traverses the beautiful Spanish peaks country, considered to be one of the most scenic sections in the Rocky mountains.

Life Dangerous in 1830

Boston.—Life was almost as dangerous in Boston in automobileless 1830 as in 1930, statistics show. The death rate in 1830 was 71.7 per 100,000 and 100 years later it was 74.4. Drownings took the heaviest toll in 1830.

Wisconsin. This young lady has given her radio audiences many a beautiful organ solo over Detroit station WJ.R. Her piano playing is also well known in traveling orchestras.

The movie actors attraction is playing Tawas City ahead of Alpena. Already this splendid stage novelty has appeared in Lansing, Flint, Bay City, Louisville, Ky., Indianapolis, Anderson, Lexington, Ky., Marion, and other Indiana and Michigan cities and many of the smaller towns. Seldom before has such a wonderfully talented and clean stage performance been brought to the Rivoli Theatre. It's a real treat and will be enjoyed by everyone, also the feature picture, "All Quiet on the Western Front," in which Kurt Kuehn appears as the sharpshooter. It's all a big grand double show priced right so all can attend. The movie actors are coming from Bay City, where this attraction played to capacity attendance.

Miss Shirley Waters returned home Sunday from Flint after spending two weeks with her aunt, Mrs. C. Smith, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Mason entertained fifteen relatives at Sunday dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Vance and daughter, Fay, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Londo in Plainfield.

Miss Leone Whitford, formerly of Whittemore, is spending her vacation at the Century of Progress exposition.

Josiah Robinson entertained a number of his neighbors at a barn raising Tuesday afternoon. Owing to a mistake in the cutting of some of the timbers, they failed to finish the work, but expected to return on Wednesday afternoon to complete the job.

Miss Iva Latter left Monday for an extended visit with relatives at Flint and Lansing.

Mrs. Jennie Ostrander of Burleigh township, Mrs. Spence and daughter, Jeanette, of Detroit visited Mrs. Wm. Latter one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Robinson have recently built a new sun porch on their house.

Misses Opal Crosley and Elna Whitford of Flint are spending a couple weeks with the latter's father, Walker Whitford.
