WORLD WAR VETERAN DIES LAST THURSDAY

Herbert H. Rutterbush Had Long Service Record In Marine Corps

Herbert H. Rutterbush, age 49 years, passed away Thursday, October 11, at his home in Tawas City after an illness of several months.

Herbert Henry Rutterbush was born in Bay City August 14, 1885. He was the son of Paul J. and Margaret H. Rutterbush. In 1928 he was married to Viola Wickliffe of Greenville, South Carolina. To this union were born two children, both of whom survive. They are a son, Paul, and a daughter, Carrie Lee. During the World War he served in the United States Marine Corps. For 12 years after the close of the war he remained in active service, and for the past three years was a member of the Marine Reserve, with the rating of sergeant. He had also served an enlistment previous to the Great War. He was an active member of the Jesse C. Hodder Post, American Legion, and made many friends throughout the county during his four year residence in Tawas City.

Besides the two small children, Mr. Rutterbush is survived by his wife, Viola; four sisters, Mrs. Alice Davis of Detroit, Mrs. Ada Homes of Artisan, South Dakota, Mrs. Ruby Halligan of Rogers City, and Mrs. Maude Krumm of Detroit; four brothers, Charles of Pontiac, William of Greenville, South Carolina, and Earl and Truman, both living at home; also other relatives.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist church, Tawas City, at 1:30 Sunday afternoon, October 14. Rev. Frank Metcalf officiated. Burial was made at the Tawas City cemetery. Military rites were conducted by the Jesse C. Hodder Post, American Legion.

School Notes

High School

The students have elected Marvin Mallon as president of their high school council for the present year. The representatives from the respective grades are as follows: Ninth grade, Frieda Witzke; tenth grade, Effie Prescott; eleventh grade, America Bell; and twelfth grade, Albert Quick.

There will be no school Friday of this week because of the district meeting of the Michigan Education Association at Saginaw.

Our high school baseball team defeated the East Tawas team by a score of 11 to 5. The game was played on our athletic field and was the second time this fall that we defeated East Tawas. There were numerous errors, which, together with some ragged pitching, made the game a long drawn out affair. Our biggest inning was the first, when our team scored eight of their 11 runs.

The Sophomores are learning their declamations. There are many new speeches in the list chosen.

The Freshmen rather enjoyed their initiation, but all agree that the best fun was the party given in their honor Friday evening.

The botany class made its annual journey to the common barberry bush in our community Monday. This is the plant which harbors the rust of small grains. Some of the harmless Japanese variety found on different lawns in the city was observed Wednesday.

Albert J. Phillips, director of research of the Michigan Education Association, points out that the estimated loss to the Michigan sales tax, in case the gasoline tax and automobile tax amendments are passed, is about $4,000,000. He also points out that inasmuch as the schools receive money from the sales tax only after other expenses have been paid, the schools will lose this sum if the amendments carry.

A panoramic picture of the whole school has been recently taken. This picture sells at fifty cents and may be purchased at the school. A sample may be seen at Keiser's drug store or at the school building.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

June Smith returned to school on Monday after a week's illness.

Mrs. Bigelow is attending the Teachers' Institute in Saginaw Friday, October 19, and we are glad to have the day's vacation.

County Relief Rolls Number 582 Families

A recent study of 582 families receiving relief in Iosco county reveals that 259 have some equity in a farm, 147 are renters and 155 live on land of an acreage less than a farm or have no claim to the land or which they live.

Families living on land too poor for farming number 159, and 195 families are on relief because employment in independent industry is no longer available.

A study of townships reveals that Reno township has the smallest percentage of its families on relief rolls, only 11% being listed. Grant township is next.

During September, 2199 persons were given assistance at an average cost of less than 20 cents per day. The income from the crops this year should reduce the cost of relief among the farmers, but because of the general rise in prices the cost of relief will rise for those families not living on farms.

Many debts have been adjusted by the clients and most are operating on a cash basis and there is an increasing sense of security.

State Conservation Head Dies October 15

George R. Hogarth, for seven years director of the State Conservation Department, Lansing, died at his home Monday night, October 15, after a long illness. Hogarth was appointed to office in 1927 by former Governor Fred W. Green.

Twentieth Century Club

The second meeting of the Twentieth Century Club will be held on Saturday, October 20, at the city hall. Current political problems will be discussed by Eugene Bing. Special music will be included in the program.

Hilarious Screen Comedy Coming to Family Theatre

"Big Hearted Herbert," a Warner Bros. comedy romance, comes to the screen of the Family Theatre, East Tawas, as the feature attraction on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, October 21-22-23. There is an all star cast headed by the inimitable comedy team, Aline MacMahon and Guy Kibbee.

The picture, based on an uproariously funny story by the famous author, Sophie Kerr, while largely comedy, is spiced with a delightful romance with the charming Patricia Ellis and Phillip Reed in the roles of the lovers.

Aline MacMahon, as the mother takes a hand in smoothing the way for the lovers by taming her nagging and ill natured husband by giving him a dose of his own medicine, which provides some highly amusing and novel situations.

Guy Kibbee, in the title role, provokes the family discord by his stubborn insistence that his children be brought up in poverty and ignorance just as he himself had been, although he has attained to affluence. A special selection of shorts makes this a delightful two-hour show.

Notice

Dr. A. S. Allard, optometrist, nerve and spinal specialist, will be in East Tawas at the Holland Hotel Wednesday, October 24. If you have eye trouble that you have failed to get relief for or if you need glasses let me examine your eyes. Remember the date—Wednesday, October 24. Dr. Allard, D. C., D. D.

Mildred Rempert

Mildred Clara Rempert, 17 years old, daughter of Fredrick A. and Selma Fiedler Rempert of Tawas City, passed away Wednesday, October 17, at the home of her parents. She was taken seriously ill Saturday, but the immediate cause of her death is not yet definitely known.

Mildred Clara Rempert was born March 13, 1917, in Detroit. In 1919 she came to Tawas City with her parents. The first eight years of her education were obtained in the Emanuel Lutheran school. She attended the Tawas City high school for three years.

Besides her parents, Mildred is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Evelyn Anschuetz, Ethel, and Rhea; two brothers, Harvey and Frederick; other relatives, and a large number of friends.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 1:30 Sunday afternoon, October 21, and at the Emanuel Lutheran church at 2:00. Rev. W. C. Voss will officiate. Burial will be in the Emanuel Lutheran cemetery Tawas City.

TAFT SCHOOL FAIR IS HUGE SUCCESS

The Taft school fair which was held last Friday proved to be a huge success. Over two hundred entries were made in the farm produce exhibit, and the attendance in the afternoon and evening totaled over five hundred. The afternoon program was carried on by Casper Blumer, county agent of Alcona and Iosco counties, and Margaret Worden, commissioner of schools of Iosco county. The first of this program was a canning demonstration by Clark Kerr, former rehabilitation director for Arenac county during the past summer. Following this was a poultry culling demonstration by Casper Blumer. The 4-H conference which followed was led by Miss Worden.

The evening program began at 7:30 with the balloon ascension. The school circus followed. Hon. Roy O. Woodruff, representative from the Tenth Congressional District, gave a very splendid address on world peace.

SUPERVISORS HOLD FIVE-DAY FALL SESSION

Board Decides On Salaries Of County Officers For Coming Year

At the regular session of the Iosco board of supervisors which met October 10 at the court house, Tawas City, the committee on salaries of county officers presented the following schedule of salaries to take effect January 1, 1935:

Prosecuting attorney, $1440.00; judge of probate, $1260.00; sheriff, $1600.00; county clerk, $1600.00; county treasurer, $1440.00; register of deeds, $150.00; school commissioner, $200.00; secretary of poor board, $200.00; chairman of poor board, $175.00; member of poor board, $125.00; county road commissioner, per day, $4.00; superintendent of county farm, $960.00; members of board of supervisors, per day, $4.00 janitor (court house), $700.00.

A resolution from the Jackson county board of supervisors to the effect that the State Liquor Control commission be requested to establish earlier closing hours for all liquor sales was read and unanimously approved. It was the opinion of the Jackson county board, as expressed in the resolution, that such a change would be an improvement over the present ruling of the Commission.

Letters were received by the board from property owners on Tawas Lake and Long Lake requesting permission to construct dams at the outlets of the respective lakes in order to raise the water levels. It was stated, in effect, that at present the water levels are so low as to lower the value of property surrounding the lakes, and endanger the health of people living nearby. The board, however, could take no action on these requests because of failure on the part of the interested parties to properly advertise their intention before presenting the petitions.

An appropriation of $200.00 was made by the board for the Michigan Children's Aid Society.

Reno News

Mrs. Frances Dundas of Springfield, Ill., and Mrs. Schroyer of Whittemore were in Reno Monday getting subscriptions for the Farmer's Wife in behalf of the Ladies Aid.

The Taft P.-T. A. will hold its October meeting Wednesday evening, October 24, beginning at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Ed. Robinson, newly elected president. The discussion topic for the evening will concern the amendment to be voted on November 6. This will be led by Miss Margaret Worden, county commissioner of schools. Lunch will be served. We are hoping to meet you there.

East Tawas School News

The East Tawas high school carnival will take place Friday night, November 9, in the high school building. Plans at the present time are progressing rapidly under the auspices of Mr. Youngs, Misses Hallanger, Vaughan and Van Horn, with Bernard Coggan as general student manager. The carnival will include participation of students from the primary grade up, including the present County Normal students. The management of this affair urges all parents and townspeople to give their cooperation. The profits are to be divided evenly between the Senior Class and the athletic association. Let's come and make this a huge success. "Twice as big as last year" is our motto. Reserve November 9 for this affair.

The East Tawas high school will be closed Friday, October 19, due to Teachers' Institute in Saginaw. Absent Monday and Tuesday, October 22 and 23, while the teachers attend the World Fair in Chicago.

The Seniors are completing their plans for the Senior Ball at the Community Hall Friday, October 26. The decorations are appropriate for the Hallowe'en season. Jack Mason's orchestra, who pleased the dancers at the Guild party, will also provide the music and entertainment for the Senior Ball. Parents of the students are cordially invited, but requested to sit in the balcony, as decorations will not obstruct the view.

Assassination of King Alexander and Louis Barthou Alarms All Europe—Spanish Revolt Suppressed—CCC Will Be Continued.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© by Western Newspaper Union.

TWO men of great importance in the maintenance of peace in Europe were removed from the scene by the bullets of the assassin, Petrus Kalem, who slew King Alexander of Yugoslavia and Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, in Marseilles. "Another Sarejevo?" was the question in every mind, and, indeed, there was some slight danger that the crime would start another great war. Alexander was just beginning a "good will" visit in France, which was closely tied up with Barthou's plan for an accord between France and Italy, and Barthou was soon to go to Rome to further the scheme. Yugoslavia is allied to France but is not at all friendly to Italy, and Alexander hated Mussolini personally, believing that the duce gave moral support to the rebellious Croats. But the king did not want war and was willing to help along the proposed accord if it was not inimical to his country.

If trouble does follow after the assassinations it probably will start with revolution in Yugoslavia. Only by assuming and exercising dictatorial powers was Alexander able to keep peace in the hodgepodge that comprises the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, otherwise Yugoslavia, and it is not certain that there is anyone else there who can do it. Civil war might tempt some other nation to intervene and grab part of the realm, and in that case a general conflict might be precipitated.

Alexander's eldest son Peter, who was in school in England, was promptly proclaimed king and, being only eleven years old, will rule under a regency of three men who were named in the political will of the murdered monarch. Whether these three can hold the kingdom intact is a question. Only the Serbs are really loyal to the royal house, though all the people had admired the strength and bravery of Alexander, whose life had been attempted four times before.

The death of Alexander was held especially important to Germany by the statesmen of that country, for they had looked to him to curb to a considerable extent the alleged ambitions of Mussolini. He was considered a close friend of the reich and a potential ally.

France was not only worried by the possibility of trouble in the Balkans, but also deeply mourned the death of Barthou, one of her ablest statesmen and, indeed, one of the ablest in Europe. He had been working assiduously on his pet scheme of a security pact for eastern Europe; and, although Germany had scored him for trying to build a diplomatic and economic ring about the reich, last June he personally negotiated an accord between France and Germany that was believed to give assurance of peace.

Petrus Kalem, the assassin, who was quickly killed by the French police, was found to have been traveling on a forged Czech passport. Two men who accompanied him on his mission of death were captured near the Swiss border and another was being hunted down in Fontainebleau forest. Where they came from and what organization was back of the assassinations had not been learned at this writing. The police thought they belonged to a secret Macedonian revolutionary society.

CIVIL war in Spain was precipitated by the radical elements, starting with a 24-hour general strike which was declared by the Socialists and Communists in answer to the formation of a conservative government by Premier Alejandro Lerroux under the domination of reactionary Catholics. Within a few hours bloody conflicts broke out in many regions, and Catalonia, the northeast corner of the country, decided this was the time to establish itself as an independent republic. Luis Companys, president of the state, announced: "Catalonia is breaking off relations with the rest of Spain. I demand complete discipline from everyone." He called on Gen. Domingo Batet, commander of the garrison at Barcelona, to swear allegiance to the new regime, but that wily soldier sparred for time, and before an hour had passed he received orders from Madrid to declare a state of siege. His troops battled with the Catalans, and soon had Companys and his fellow leaders cooped up in the presidential palace. Reinforcements for the government forces arrived swiftly by land, sea and air.

Then the artillery opened up, and after the palace had been thoroughly shelled, Companys and his colleagues surrendered and were marched to a prison ship in Barcelona harbor. The revolution was over and the new Catalan republic went out of existence. It was rumored the collapse was partly due to a dispute between Companys and former Premier Manuel Azana, a co-leader in the revolt. Azana was found in hiding and arrested. Surrender of Companys did not end the fighting in northern Spain, for the revolutionists in various regions continued their desperate efforts, but the government considered the revolt really had been suppressed. There was no telling how many had been killed or wounded, but certainly the casualty lists were terribly long.

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR, chief of staff and now in command of the G. H. Q. combat air force and also of the ground forces, is planning to develop a fighting fleet of super battle planes. The first step will be the organization of the G. H. Q. air force of at least 1,000 planes grouped in five "wings" based on both coasts and in the Middle West. This would bring the army corps up to about 2,300 planes, making an aerial fighting fleet approximately the equal of any in the world.

GOV. GIFFORD PINCHOT of Pennsylvania has in the past been in sympathy with much of President Roosevelt's program, but he has now definitely broken away by coming out in favor of the re-election of Senator David A. Reed, anti-New Deal Republican whose defeat would be most welcome to the administration. Immediately after Pinchot announced his stand in a speech at Wilkes-Barre, Postmaster General Farley conferred with Mr. Roosevelt and then, as chairman of the Democratic National committee, gave out a stinging attack on Pinchot. In it he referred to Senator Reed as "perhaps the most outstanding foe of the President's policies," who, if elected, would "do everything in his power to hamper the President's program and to make a misdeal out of the New Deal."

It is said that the Pennsylvania Democrats are importuning the President to take a hand personally, and perhaps make a speech in the state, in an effort to win over rock-ribbed Pennsylvania and retire Senator Reed in a defeat which could also be construed as a slap at Pinchot and Andrew W. Mellon.

GOVERNMENT crop benefit checks for more than $352,000,000 have been paid to farmers participating in the production adjustment program, according to figures compiled by the AAA. Some $575,000,000 additional is scheduled for payment under programs now in effect, nearly 60 per cent of it before the end of this year. Thus, the farmers' stake in the AAA approximates $1,000,000,000. Payments already made or to be made before January are included in the estimate of the bureau of agricultural economics which places 1934 cash farm income at about $6,000,000,000 compared to $5,000,000,000 last year and $4,333,000,000 in 1932.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has made it plain that the Civilian Conservation corps, one of the least criticized features of his recovery program, is to be continued indefinitely. He wrote to Robert Fechner, director of the corps, saying: "I have been greatly interested and encouraged by the fine report from your visits to CCC camps in many parts of the country. 'This kind of work must go on. I believe that the nation feels that the work of these young men is so thoroughly justified and, in addition, the benefits to the men themselves are so clear that the actual annual cost will be met without much opposition or much complaint.' Mr. Fechner had reported to the President that the cost of the CCC during its eighteen months of operation had amounted to $443,000,000.

THERE is an interesting report circulating in Wisconsin, especially in Madison. It is to the effect that President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin is looking toward the Republican Presidential nomination in 1936 and that this idea explains his refusal to permit Lloyd K. Garrison to remain in Washington as head of the national labor relations board.

The Madison Capital Times said it understood Doctor Frank feels the Republican party is in need of a "liberal" candidate, yet not a "dangerous" liberal, and believes he is in a position to qualify. To interviewers Doctor Frank declined to comment on the newspaper story. He said his insistence that Garrison return to his duties as dean of the law school was solely in the interests of the university.

RHODE Island Republicans are quite satisfied with Felix Hebert as senator and have renominated him. For governor the state convention named Gen. Luke H. Gallan, a veteran of the Spanish-American and World wars.

USE of the taxpayers' money for the government operation of factories in competition with private enterprise was condemned by the board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers, which acted on petitions received from seventeen large trade associations. The manufacturers assert that such government experimentation merely results in depriving employees in private industry of their jobs, creating employment at one point and unemployment at another.

"Entrance of the government into the manufacturing business in competition with its own citizens," says the manufacturers' statement, "even to supply relief for the unemployed, constitutes an extravagant use of the taxpayers' money in further experimentations. 'Where those in distress cannot be provided with either public or private work for which they could be paid, then public funds may legitimately be used to provide relief of actual need on a subsistence basis. But to furnish necessities required through government operated factories is the wrong way to do the right thing.'"

CONFERRING with the full membership of the new national industrial recovery board headed by S. Clay Williams, President Roosevelt let it be known that he was far from satisfied with NRA enforcement in the past and asked the board to devise more vigorous and effective methods.

Price-fixing and production control were discussed but not at length and with the general understanding that, although price-fixing policies of the Johnson regime would be reversed on paper, no sweeping action would be taken to upset existing codes and any action at all would come slowly.

ATTORNEY GENERAL CUMMINGS has called a national conference to discuss crime which is to open in Washington December 3 and continue three days. President Roosevelt is to address the first session in Constitution hall. The conference will be invited to give broad and practical consideration to the problem of crime in these principal aspects:

1. Causes and prevention of crime.
2. Investigation, detection, and apprehension of crime and criminals.
3. Criminal courts and prosecution.
4. Detection, parole, probation, and pardon.

"THE voice of Hauptmann is the voice I heard in the cemetery that night when the $50,000 ransom was paid," said Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to the grand jury in Trenton, N. J., after he had listened to the suspect in the kidnaping and murder case. The grand jury accepted this as clinching testimony and returned an indictment against Bruno Hauptmann, charging murder.

The words "Hey doctor. Over here, doctor" were spoken by the man who got the ransom money from Lindbergh's intermediary, Dr. John F. Condon. They were spoken in the cemetery where the payment was made. Lindbergh heard them and remembered the voice.

Although the case is invariably referred to as the "Lindbergh kidnaping," the grand jury returned no kidnaping indictment. Kidnapers may only be sentenced to life terms. Murderers face the electric chair.

DELEGATES to the American Federation of Labor convention in San Francisco adopted unanimously a resolution proposing adoption of a six-hour day and five-day week for all workers, private and government. A committee appointed to investigate possibilities and merit of shorter work periods reported favorably.

William Green, president of A. F. of L., made an impassioned speech in favor of shorter work periods during which he said the federation can be expected to mobilize its economic strength to make a concerted drive on industry and owners of industry for adoption of a six-hour day and five-day week and that legislation by congress would be sought at the forthcoming session so that there will be enforcement of this economic reform, not to make less work for those already employed but to create work opportunities for more people.

Resolutions as adopted provide for no reduction in wages to result from shorter work periods. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, won a victory when the convention voted unanimously for the organization of workers into single unions embracing whole industries, as distinguished from craft unions limited to particular trades. The executive council was instructed to issue charters or the creation of national and international unions in the automotive, cement, aluminum and other mass production industries.

The council also was ordered to inaugurate organization campaigns in the iron and steel industries. The federation also went on record in favor of pensions for the aged, for mothers of dependent children and for sickness and unemployment benefits.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY by Vance Wynn © Public Ledger

The Man Who Hit the Bull's Eye

MOONSHINING flourished long before the prohibition amendment was made to the Constitution of the United States.

Twenty years ago it was carried on in the mountains of West Virginia on a scale that made the government authorities gasp for breath.

The general impression of the moonshiner is that of a poor white man who is willing to take big chances in order to make a little illegal money.

This is true of some sections, but at the time mentioned there were bold and unscrupulous distillers who carried it on as a business in a big way and who made fortunes by the operation.

Wayne Gooch was one of these men. He was called "the King of the Moonshiners," and there is no reason to doubt that he was entitled to the distinction.

The scandals grew to such proportions that the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington determined it would have to be stopped at all hazards.

The man he assigned to the job was a fearless agent named Tom Kennedy. He had several advantages. One was that he knew the mountains of West Virginia.

Another was that he was a crack shot. These things were important, because the moonshiners placed small value on human life.

Most of them boasted that they would not be taken alive, and by the same token they would kill anyone who attempted to interfere with their business.

Kennedy determined to confront the lion in his den. He made up his mind to go to the Gooch stamping grounds in the guise of a government forester.

Merely to be known as a person who was connected with the government in any capacity was taking a big chance, but Kennedy was a man who had been taking chances all his life, and one additional chance meant little to him.

He had two capable assistants with him, and he went direct to the cabin where the king of the moonshiners made his headquarters.

He introduced himself by his real name, and he wanted to know what the authorities could do to help the cultivation of trees in that part of the country. Gooch, who was a big, bluff fellow, received him cordially enough, even though he kept his weather eye on this curious stranger.

He said the soil in that part of West Virginia was not particularly adapted to forestry, but he cheerfully offered to escort Kennedy about the country.

It was just what the revenue agent wanted. He kept his eyes and his ears open, and at the end of 24 hours was forced to confess that there was not even the sign of a still in operation.

During that time the king entertained the agent in a royal fashion. One day they had a shooting match, with a big target set up near the cabin. Kennedy participated, and to the great delight and admiration of the king the visitor hit the bull's eye nine times out of ten.

Gooch said that was the best record ever made in that locality.

He parted with his guest with apparent reluctance. Kennedy had played his cards so well that he was not even suspected by the king of the moonshiners.

They parted one night with expressions of mutual esteem. Kennedy had no misconception of his man.

He knew that if his true character had become known he would have been shot down like a dog.

This thought keyed him up to the game he was about to play. He left the cabin and the vicinity, but he had proof that distilling was going on on a great scale.

He discovered that the stuff was sent to the depot in a truck at about midnight each night.

So he lay in wait with his two men and when the team arrived at a certain part of the road he appeared in the highway with a loaded and primed revolver.

The driver and his assistant, taken unawares, surrendered. In the meantime, Kennedy sent for reinforcements and before another day had gone by the king of the moonshiners and his men had been taken into custody.

Counterfeit Wampum
Counterfeit wampum came into being with the white man's arrival in America when a family of European immigrants of Paskack, N. J., with the aid of steel drills and lathes, became proficient in making wampum from the cheap, plentiful shells of the common Busycon conch of the Gulf coast. This counterfeit Indian money circulated as far west as the Mississippi valley.

Hawaii's Temperature
Hawaii, lying in mid-ocean just within the tropics, has a warm climate throughout the year, though high temperatures are prohibited by the northeast trade winds, which blow for about nine months of the year. The mean annual temperature is 71.5 degrees. The extremes are 54 degrees and 89 degrees.

POULTRY

VITAMIN D IN EGG VARIES WITH DIET

Cod-Liver Oil Found to Give Good Results.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture—WNU Service.

There are relatively few potent natural sources of vitamin D known. Egg yolk is one of the most valuable of these, but all egg yolks are not equally rich. The diet of the hen and the amount of sunlight she has received during the egg-laying period make considerable difference in the vitamin D content of the egg yolk. Vitamin D, often referred to as the antirachitic vitamin, promotes the assimilation of calcium and phosphorus, and thus aids the development of bones and teeth.

Practical poultrymen and nutritionists have been interested in attempts to enrich the egg yolk in vitamin D either by feeding the hen substances rich in this vitamin or by increasing the amount of ultraviolet light she receives. In a series of experiments covering nine months the bureau of home economics and the bureau of animal industry studied the relative efficiency in vitamin D storage of different quantities of cod-liver oil and viosterol in the diet of the hen.

These studies indicate that in the amounts usually fed, the vitamin D of cod-liver oil is more efficiently stored in the egg yolk than is the vitamin D of an equivalent amount of viosterol. When 2 per cent of cod-liver oil was included in the diet the vitamin D content of the yolk was significantly greater than when 1 per cent was fed.

Fifteen minutes' irradiation of the hen with a carbon arc lamp apparently had the same effect on vitamin D storage as 1 per cent of cod-liver oil in the diet.

Turn to Lotteries to Expand Incomes

Many European Nations Find Profit in Them.

London.—A number of hard-pressed European governments are helping to balance their top-heavy budgets through the medium of legalized lotteries.

The vision of sudden fortune, by the simple expedient of buying an inexpensive ticket, lures millions of dollars each year from the pockets of rich and poor alike. And in every instance the national exchequers are benefited.

The principal countries where lotteries are permitted in Europe include France, Italy, Spain, and the Irish Free State, the last of which, in its racing sweepstakes, has the largest and most widely known of all.

For Different Purposes.

The rules of conducting lotteries vary in each country as do the stated purposes for which they are run. The Irish Free State hospitals benefit under the sweepstakes which are run in connection with three outstanding British horse races each year.

The Red Cross and the University City in Spain are allowed certain extra drawings for their own profit, while France and Italy allocate their shares to governmental departments as they think fit.

The biggest lottery of all is the Irish Sweepstake. Run three times a year, on the occasions of the English Grand National, Epsom Derby and Cesarewitch Handicap, it receives subscriptions from more than 100 countries. Since 1930, when it was started under the registration of the Irish Hospital Trust, Ltd., lucky ticket holders have been paid more than $30,000,000.

By far the greatest number of tickets in this sweepstake are purchased in Britain, where it is illegal for any person to sell them. However, the tickets are smuggled in and sold. The money goes back to Ireland.

Out of these receipts and those from other countries, the Irish hospitals have benefited by more than $30,000,000 during the past four years. The government itself received 25 per cent of the hospitals' share, and in addition, since 1932, has also realized $2,500,000 in taxes on the "sweep."

Has Longest Record.

The Spanish National Lottery has the longest record of consistent performance. It dates back to 1763, when Charles III, looking for new means of supplementing his privy purse, hit upon this method.

In Spain, three draws are held regularly each month, in addition to five extraordinary draws, two of which are for the special benefit of the Red Cross and the University City. The lottery has grown to such an extent that last year the gross receipts amounted to $57,750,000.

Of this amount prize-winners received $40,356,100, wages and administration expenses took $1,513,480 and the remaining $15,888,240 went to the government.

The popularity of the lottery in France is shown by the fact that it is practically impossible to buy a ticket for as many as five days before a drawing. It is only recently that the lottery was legalized, and its object was to pay war veterans' pensions with the government's share of the proceeds.

Prize money takes 60 per cent of the total receipts; expenses are estimated at 5 per cent and the remaining 35 per cent goes into the national treasury to be applied to war pensions. The participant in the lottery has a one to nine chance of winning a prize, the highest of which is $320,000.

In Italy the government reaps about $6,380,000 a year from the lotteries which are conducted weekly by the state. The drawings are made in the eight principal cities, and large returns are possible from very small outlays.

Norman Town Turns Its Back on Coeducation

Coutances, Normandy.—By unanimous vote, this town has taken a united stand against co-education.

The reason given for this action is that "male school teachers cannot teach girls their future roles of wife and mother," and that "children of France are disconcertingly precocious."

Despite this anti-co-educational feeling in Normandy, there are 3,520 "mixed" schools in France. Wherever possible it is the principle of the French school system to keep boys and girls separated.

THE STORY OF DEMETRIUS

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

There is an ancient story regarding a silversmith named Demetrius. He was at the head of a group of craftsmen who made silver shrines for heathen temples.

Most of these shrines were dedicated to the goddess Diana. It was a very lucrative business, perhaps the most prosperous of that day. The business continued to advance and every person connected with the enterprise was happy for the reason that his living was secured and there was plenty of money available for the luxuries of a pagan world.

All went well until something happened! The business of the company gradually began to fall off. When activity was almost "nil" Demetrius decided to call a meeting of the directors of the corporation for the purpose of discussing the serious condition which confronted them.

Demetrius addressed his directors something like this: "Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth. Not only is our business in danger of being destroyed, but also the great temple of Diana despoised." His address indicates a very hostile and vindictive attitude of mind. He cannot understand why any other force has the right to interfere with the financial progress of his company. Having ascertained the cause of the financial calamity, Demetrius relates that a certain man lecturing to the people down in Ephesus, the center of the heathen world, told them that, "There were no gods made with hands." The influence of this man became so great that many persons were turning away from the heathen temples and abandoning their loyalty to the heathen goddess, "and the image which fell down from Jupiter."

When all this news spread about the ancient city of Ephesus excitement rose to a very high pitch. A riot was finally prevented by the wisdom of the town clerk who persuaded the strikers and their sympathizers to appeal to the courts where justice would prevail.

While the conditions related in this story occurred nearly two thousand years ago it reads like a bit of news gleaned from our morning newspaper. When any force injects itself into the economic world which dries up profits or thwarts justice to labor, something happens—Discontent, riots, strikes, bloodshed! "There is nothing new under the sun."

Turk, 154, With Son, 11, Claims He Is Oldest Man

Adana, Turkey.—Claiming an age of one hundred and fifty-four years, and that he is the father of a boy of eleven, Hadji Boz Agir, a resident of the village of Mardin, said he considered himself the world's oldest and best preserved man.

He claims to be the successor of the late Zaro Agha, who died recently at a proclaimed age of one hundred and sixty-four.

Hadji Boz Agir went to Mardin about 30 years ago, where he acquired a small farm. He then was already considered a centenarian.

He maintains that when Turkey still exercised control over Egypt he served the sultan there as a gendarme, and that he took part in the suppression of a Wahabite uprising in 1821.

The Household

PARENTS and school teachers or any person whose duty it is to govern others, whether children or adults, gain their respect and love or esteem, as the case may be, if they are good disciplinarians. They may even be strict, good disciplinarians are apt to be, but they are also prone to be just. There is a vast difference between being severe and being strict. In the first instance there may be no measure of justice, or actual related to the goddess Diana. It was a very lucrative business, perhaps the most prosperous of that day. The business continued to advance and every person connected with the enterprise was happy for the reason that his living was secured and there was plenty of money available for the luxuries of a pagan world. All went well until something happened! Moon Over Cow Shed Caused Fire Alarm

West Chester, Pa.—A big and bright September moon caused a false fire alarm here.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seeds, farmers, looked out their bedroom window and saw a glare in their barn. Thinking the building was ablaze, they called the fire department.

When the firemen arrived, they discovered it was only the moon "coming up over the cow shed."

These Boots Will Tramp in Congress

Judge P. L. Gassaway captured the congressional Democratic nomination from the veteran Tom McKeown in the recent Oklahoma primaries, and as this is equivalent there to election, the boots the judge is shown wearing will soon be clomping in the chamber of the lower house in Washington. Gassaway is a cow hand and never wears any other style of footwear.

ness, and with no wrong intent, and they get a punishment so severe that it is far from just or right.

There is nothing harsh or unkind in the idea of good discipline. There is nothing pleasure or trifling either. Good disciplinarians appreciate the fine qualities of those whom they are guiding. Commendation should go hand in hand with correction. Both are needed to bring out the best in children. It is when they receive the right measure of each that young folk understand that justice is the foundation of their management and that affection is the ruling power.

Children's Allowances.
Children's allowances may prove helpful to the youngsters in teaching them how to handle money, or they may prove opportunities for extravagance. Whether they are an aid or a hindrance depends as much on parents as children. It should be determined before apportioning allowances whether they are to be for little luxuries apart from any demands for necessities or accessories, or whether they are to include definite needed or wanted things with some luxuries.

Sports Ensemble

Parents do well to recall families in which respect and genuine affection exist between children and their fathers and mothers. They will find in most instances that the discipline is good. It is just, and it is respected.

It is very hard on children to be subject to the whims and the tempers of parents. One time the youngsters can do almost anything they like and it is unnoticed, or brings very slight punishment. Again they do the smallest prank, it may be in pure mischief.

Mixing Retards Laying
Mixing old hens in the same section of a laying house with pullets seems to retard egg production by the pullets. The hens are apt to be more pugnacious and keep the pullets from the feed hoppers and the water fountains. Not all of the pullets are so easily influenced but if 10 or 20 per cent of the pullets are backward, it cuts down the profits to a large extent.

Poultry Matters
Capon are also most profitable where they have the run of a grain field.

Limberneck is caused by the birds eating decomposing flesh or other protein substance.

The raising of poultry ranks fourth financially among the agricultural industries of Florida.

Common rats kill six times more poultry and game than all the snakes, owls, weasels and hawks combined.

A fresh laid egg is in best condition, and it should be kept as near that condition as possible. Eggs should not be kept long in a temperature above 68 degrees.

The practical purpose of alfalfa meal in a poultry mash is to furnish vitamin A. The meal is not essential when tender, succulent green feed is available.

During outbreaks of coccidiosis the poultry house should be cleaned once a day and clean dry litter used.

Place mash hoppers and drinking vessels in the shade, where conditions are most attractive, so there will be a greater mash and water consumption.

Sanitation from the point of poultry house management, ventilation, overcrowding, are all important in keeping off the fall and winter colds, chicken-pox and roup.

The Isle of Pines is about 30 miles south of Cuba, of which it forms a dependency. The north of the island is mountainous. There are mineral deposits and marble is quarried. The south is flat and marshy, forming everglades. Cattle raising is the chief occupation, but there is also trade in tobacco, mahogany, pine and cedar woods. The island has an area of 1,200 square miles. The capital is Nueva Gerona. Santa Fe is the largest town. The island was discovered by Columbus in 1494.

Registration Notice
For General November Election November 6th, 1934

To the Qualified Electors of the City of Tawas City, State of Michigan:

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law," I, the undersigned City Clerk will, upon any day except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said City not already registered who may APPLY TO ME PERSONALLY for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the time intervening between the Second Saturday before any regular, special, or official primary election and the day of such election.

The last day for General Registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters' Law. (See Registration by Affidavit.)

Notice is hereby given that I will be at my office

Wednesday, October 17th, 1934
The Twentieth Day Preceding Said Election

As provided by Part II, Chapter III, Michigan Election Law from 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m. on said day for the purpose of reviewing the Registration and Registering such of the qualified electors in said City as Shall Properly Apply therefor.

Notice is hereby further given to the Qualified Electors of this City that I, the undersigned Clerk of said City, will register qualified electors who may apply at my office on any business day in the year up to and including Saturday, Oct. 27th, 1934—Last Day for General Registration by personal application for said election.

The name of no person but an ACTUAL RESIDENT of the precinct at the time of registration, and entitled under the constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election shall be entered in the registration book.

Registration by Affidavit
Sec. 10—Registering of Electors:—Any absent voter, as defined in this act, whose name is not registered and who shall claim the right to vote by absent voter's ballot at any election or primary election, may at the time of making application to the City Clerk an affidavit for registration which shall be in substantially the following form:

Affidavit For Registration
STATE OF MICHIGAN,

Registration of Absentee By Oath
If any person whose name is not registered shall offer and claim the right to vote at any election, or primary election, and shall UNDER OATH, state that he or she is a resident of such precinct and has resided in the CITY TWENTY DAYS next preceding such election, designating particularly the place of his or her residence and that he or she possesses the other qualifications of an elector under the constitution; and that, owing to the sickness or bodily infirmity of himself or herself, or some member of his or her family or owing to his or her absence from the City on public business or his or her own business, and without intent to avoid or delay his or her registration, he or she was unable to make application for registration on the last day provided by law for the registering of electors preceding such election, then the name of such person shall be registered, and he or she shall then be permitted to vote at such election. If such applicant shall in said matter, wilfully make any false statement, he or she shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction, be subject to the pains and penalties thereof.

Provided, That any city may provide by its charter or by resolution approved by a majority of the members of its legislative body for the registration of such sick and absent voters on the last Saturday preceding any election or primary election at the places of voting in the several voting districts of such city, instead of on election or primary election day.

Provision in Case of Removal To Another Precinct
Any registered and qualified voter who has REMOVED from ONE ELECTION PRECINCT of the City to another election precinct of the City shall have the right, on any day previous to election day, on application to the City Clerk, to have his or her name transferred from the registration book of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED to the registration book of the precinct in which he or she THEN RESIDES. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made ON ELECTION DAY, or Primary Election day, by obtaining from the board of inspectors of election of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED a CER-

Where Sun Never Sets
Great Britain, France, and Holland are the only nations on whose dominions the sun never sets, writes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times. The British possessions are by far the greatest in total area and are so scattered in the two hemispheres that while the sun is setting in one it is rising in another. France, which ranks second, likewise possesses dominions so scattered that the sun is always above the horizon of some of them. Holland, third colonial empire of importance in the world, similarly keeps always enfolded in the sunlight the flag of the Netherlands.

Lobo Wolf
The name: lobo wolf is applied to the gray wolf or timber wolf. It is really a formidable animal, but in its dealings with men it has learned to fear the deadly rifle, the poison pot and the trap. Storms, cold and fatigue affect it but little and its powerful teeth, strong jaws and wide gape enable it to bite with great cutting power. In fighting with dogs, every well aimed snap means either a deep wound or a piece of flesh bitten out.

Record Age for Turtle
When the British captured the island Mauritius in 1710, they acquired a turtle, which was known to be forty years old. The turtle lived on in the barracks at Fort Louis until 1720, when it died. By living thirty years under the supervision of the agents of the island, the turtle proved the distinction of attaining a greater age than any other land animal, says the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago. The turtle was known to be 172 years old when it died. But since it was not young when captured, it is possible that it lived to be 200.

Ships' Shrouds

Shrouds are the ropes fitted in pairs, constituting a part of the standing rigging of a ship. Shrouds are often made of wire and are stretched from the masthead of a vessel to the sides or to the runs of a top, serving as a means of ascent and as lateral strengthening stays to the masts. The guys for bracing a steamer's smokestacks are sometimes called shrouds.

Open Letter to the People of Iosco County

We who are privileged to live and enjoy the wonderful things Iosco county has for us seldom, if ever, stop and think whether our neighbor is a Democrat, Republican or Prohibitionist, and it is a good thing that we do not. It makes no difference. In fact, it does not matter whether our local township, city or county government be one party or another as we are all striving for our common good. May it always remain so. Party politics should never enter into local governments such as cities, towns or schools—yes, even county offices. Who is it that would say that because a man was a Democrat he would not make a good county officer or because he was a Republican he would not make just as good an officer? May it always be that way. In these small northern counties we all know one another and should decide the qualifications of the candidates without party labels.

It so happens that I am a candidate for County Clerk and that my name will appear under the head of the Democratic ticket, but I give you my word of honor that should I be elected to that office partyism will have nothing to do with the service I shall give you.

My time and my pocketbook will not warrant a big campaign, or a lot of "ballyhoo," so I am using this method of appealing to your fair judgment. Let us have a clean, honest and fair administration of the office without politics.

I was born in Tawas City, have lived in the county all of my life, and have been a property owner for 25 years.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

A GREAT COMMOTION

A GREAT commotion had broken out in the Old Orchard. Instantly Skimmer the Swallow flew over to see what it was all about and Peter Rabbit followed, lipperty lipperty-lip, as fast as his legs could take him. He was just in time to see Chatterer the Red Squirrel dodging around the trunk of a tree, first on one side, then on the other, to avoid the sharp bills of the angry feathered folk who had discovered him trying to rob a nest of its young.

It Was Their Nest.

ered him trying to rob a nest of its young.

Peter chuckled. "Chatterer is getting just what is due him," he muttered. "It reminds me of a time I got into a Yellow Jacket's nest. My, but those birds are mad!"

Chatterer continued to dodge from side to side of the tree while the birds darted down at him, all screaming at the top of their voices. Finally Chatterer saw his chance to run for the old stone wall. Only one bird was quick enough to catch up with him, and that one was such a tiny fellow that he seemed hardly bigger than a hummingbird.

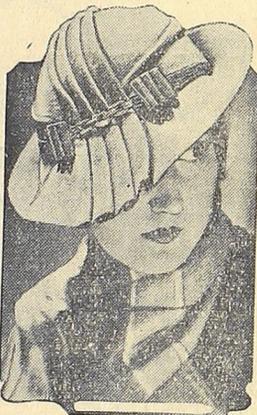

Hummer followed Chatterer clear to the old stone wall. A moment later Peter heard a humming noise just over his head and looked up to see Hummer alight on a twig, where he squeaked excitedly for a few minutes, for his voice is nothing but a little squeak. Often Peter had seen Hummer darting from flower to flower and holding himself still in mid air as he thrust his long bill into the heart of a flower to get the tiny insects there and the sweet juices he is so fond of. But this was the first time Peter had ever seen him sitting still. He was such a mite of a thing that it was hard to realize he was a bird. His back was a bright shining green. His wings and tail were brownish with a purplish tinge. Underneath he was whitish. But it was his throat on which Peter fixed his eyes. It was a wonderful ruby red which glistened and shone in the sun like a jewel. Hummer lifted one wing and with his long needle-like bill smoothed the feathers under it. Then he darted out into the air, his wings moving so fast that Peter couldn't see them at all. But if he couldn't see them he could hear them. You see, they moved so fast that they made a sound very like the humming of Bumble the Bee. It is because of this that he is called the Hummingbird.

In a few minutes he was back again and almost at once was joined by Mrs. Hummer. She was dressed very much like him but did not have the beautiful ruby throat. She stopped only a minute or two and then darted over to what looked for all the world like a tiny cup of moss. It was their nest.

QUESTION BOX
By ED WYNN...
The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I just received a letter from my nephew, who lives in England. He writes me that his wife is suffering with "water on the brain." Can you tell me what that means?

Sincerely,
U. TELMEE.

Answer: When a woman has "water on the brain" it simply means she has a notion (an ocean) in her head.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I live in a boarding house. I pay $20 a week but the food they serve is not fit for a pig to eat. What shall I do?

Truly yours,
I. BETTY KNOWS.

Answer: If the food is really not fit for a pig, just sleep there and get your meals some other place.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My birthday was January 4. My girl sent me a pair of gloves for a present but they are too large for me. What shall I do?

Truly yours,
A. B. SEEDREE.

Answer: Just pour about a half ounce of Scotch whisky on them. If it's the kind of Scotch they're selling now, a half ounce will make them tight.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My wife returns home next Saturday from the hospital bringing with her our triplets just five weeks old. I am surprising my wife, as I have just had a nursery fitted out for our new babies. It is a beautiful room and I would like to have a suitable name painted on the door instead of "Nursery." What do you suggest?

Yours truly,
POP. PAH.

Answer: Three babies, five weeks old, in one room? If I were you I would call it the "Bawl-room."

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I got a job last Monday in a department store in the shoe department. At the end of the first week I was discharged. Can you tell me why? I swear to you I didn't do anything.

Sincerely,
I. STAUL.

Answer: That's why you were discharged.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I just moved into a new neighborhood. This morning I passed one of my new neighbors and bowed to her, but she did not return the bow. What would you do in a case like that?

Yours truly,
SHEEZA KATT.

Answer: That should be a warning to you. She may be the kind of a neighbor who never returns anything.

SEASONABLE DISHES

THE bride of today with all her equipment in culinary knowledge has no fear of failures in cookery. Up-to-date cook books with clear directions for preparing even the simple foods gives assurance to the most inexperienced.

Here is one which any bride will like to try:

Fancy Biscuit.

Take two cups of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt, one tablespoon of sugar, two tablespoons of shortening, one egg and two-thirds of a cup of milk, one-third cup of sliced dates, four tablespoons of peanut butter and one egg yolk. Sift the dry ingredients, work in the shortening with a fork until well blended, add milk and well beaten egg to form a soft dough. Roll out on a floured board and cut small rounds. Spread one with peanut butter, place one or two slices of dates and cover with another round. Press the edges together to enclose the butter and dates. Brush with egg diluted with a little milk or water and bake in a hot oven. If preferred cut the round larger and put the butter and date on one-half and fold over, pinching the edges together.

Mocha Frosting.

Take one-fourth cup of butter, one tablespoon of cocoa, two cups of confectioner's sugar and three to four tablespoons of strong coffee infusion. Cream the butter, add the

FOR A GOLD STAR MOTHER

By ANNE CAMPBELL

THE first point of the star is Memory. The recollection of his baby ways. Upon the road to yesterday we see the shining candor of his infant gaze; The touch of velvet cheek, the clinging hands, The cunning accent making sweet demands.

Service to him, the next point of the star. The days and nights were busy in his care.

There is no rest where little babies are. For mothers who are happiest to share the beating of their hearts with their small sons. They concentrate their lives on these dear ones.

Love is the third point of the star of gold. In blest affection, all the stars converge. Only a mother knows how hearts can hold.

So much of love; it is her life's chief urge. Her love will follow him across the world, And past the gates where his lone flag is furled.

The fourth point of the star is sorrow. . . . See! The star is falling. . . . Shadowed is its light.

Only a mother's faith holds valiantly Against the coming of the final night. Now hurtling into space the gold star goes, Its cargo all the heartbreak mother knows.

Only the fifth point keeps the star from wheeling. Forever lost in midnight's empty space; But still upon the sky a faint light stealing.

Shows it upheld within its lawful place. Serene upon the heavens see it ride, A gold star swinging by its fifth point—PRIDE!

cocoa. Stir in the sugar and coffee gradually. Beat until smooth and spread on the cake.

Coffee Ice Cream.

Scald one and one-half cups of milk with one-third of a cupful of finely ground coffee, strain through a double cheese cloth, add one cup of sugar, the beaten yolks of four eggs, one-fourth teaspoon of salt; cook over water until thick, adding one-fourth cupful of sugar and one cupful of cream; cool, add three more cups of cream and freeze. HOW TO SHOOT

By Bob Nichols

Shooting Editor, Field and Stream

GOOD eyesight is a great aid in becoming a good wingshot. But on the other hand, poor eyesight need not necessarily hinder you to any marked extent in becoming a good shot. Some excellent shots I have known are men who wear spectacles. Since all of the information I give you has been gleaned from personal experience, not from hearsay, I take the liberty of becoming personal and telling you that from early boyhood I have worn spectacles. Although I cannot see well enough without my glasses to read ordinary newspaper type, yet on the skeet field I break just as good scores without my glasses as when wearing them. In fact, without the "specs" I do even a little better, striking an average.

Slightly incredible as this may seem, there is a trick in it, and I'll tell you what it is. Shooting skeet one knows exactly where his target is coming from. One also knows within three seconds just when it will flash into view. And you know exactly its line of flight. The fact is, one does not need particularly keen eyesight to shoot well. But to see all the game that gets in front of you in the field—this does require all the eyesight you can muster. Thus, with two gunners of equal shooting skill, the one with the keenest eyesight will in all probability get the most shots in the field and will, on that account, kill the most game.

Naturally, what I say here does not apply to skill in rifle shooting, because with the single-bullet gun and iron sights the man with the keener eyes is always the better shot.

Knowing that I shoot the shotgun a little better without spectacles, I frequently hunt in the field without wearing them. But on such occasions I like to hunt alone. I use my ears and do not want a distracting sound of a companion rustling through the brush. Many a rabbit and grouse I have killed where, but for my ears, I would never have seen them to get a shot. Alone, I always hunt very slowly, so that I can catch quickly any sound other than my own. But even so, I imagine many a rabbit gets up within easy shooting distance of me that I never see. The secondary reason why I do not like to wear spectacles afield is that they are a nuisance in rain or fog. But going without them is somewhat dangerous in this respect: you may be hit in the eye by switching brush with painful and even serious consequences. Without your "specs" on your eyes are slow in their protective reflexes.

The primary reason why I prefer to shoot without glasses is, as I have said, that I shoot better without them. For it is true in shotgun shooting, that if you see well enough to distinguish your target, you can see well enough to hit it with a load of shot. All shotgun shooting should be done with the eyes at what I used to refer to as "wide vision." Since then, one of my oculist friends has given me the correct term for this. He calls it keeping the eyesight at "universal focus." In other words, keep your eyes focused on no particular object. This is particularly applicable in skeet shooting. But it applies in the field, too. Keep your eyes wide open. See everything clearly in your field of vision. When the target or bird flashes out do not strain your eyesight in intense concentration of focus on it. Maintain your sight at universal focus. In this way you will be alertly aware of the target, aware of the line and speed of its flight, and also aware of your gun without concentrating too much of your attention on it.

Failure to keep the eyes at universal focus is largely responsible, in my opinion, for most shooters declaring that they cannot shoot with both eyes open. Certainly you can't shoot with both eyes open if you are trying to look intently at your gun barrel from breech to muzzle, and at the same time are trying to see the flying target! It just can't be done. Even the crack aerial rifle and pistol shots could not make their astounding records with this kind of alternating eye attention. I am convinced that all good shots on moving or flying targets, regardless of whether they shoot with shotgun, rifle, or pistol, use this universal eye focus in their shooting. If you can acquire this trick—and you certainly can—you just can't help becoming a much better shot.

Victoria Falls Statue in Honor of Livingstone

Near the mighty falls which he discovered in 1855, says the Detroit News, David Livingstone will finally be honored by a statue which is erected where the spray of Victoria Falls will fall upon it forever. He is pictured with a walking stick and Bible just as he disappeared into the African wilds and was found again by Stanley, whom he greeted calmly, as if they were meeting in a drawing room, with the historic "I am David Livingstone."

Mystery and superstition have hung over these African falls from time immemorial. Livingstone had much trouble persuading his African followers to accompany him.

Now the Cape to Cairo railroad crosses the river less than half a mile below the falls, and is rapidly dispelling the old fears, though some of them still linger among the natives.

DETERMINED SOLICITUDE

"I'm goin' to keep on sendin' my boy Josh to college," said Farmer Cortassie.

"You think he has exceptional intelligence?"

"No. Confidentially, I don't think he has a great deal of sense. I'm goin' to put him in the way of learnin' a lot of long words so's maybe he can fool people."—Washington Star.

Hard to Fill

Aunt 'Liza's mistress was talking to her one morning when suddenly she discovered a little pickaninny standing shyly behind his mother's skirts. "Is this your little boy, Aunt 'Liza?" she asked.

"Yes, miss, dat's Prescription." "Goodness, what a funny name auntie, for a child! How in the world did you happen to call him that?"

"Ah simply calls him dat becuz ah has sech hahd wuk getting him filled."

Around the Corner

"There have been some high words exchanged around the Capitol." "Much to my disappointment," said Senator Sorghum. "As we keep zig-zagging along, we continually find that asperity is just around the corner."

In Trouble

Life Saver—Are you in difficulties?

Fair Bather—Yes. Needle and thread and a button as soon as you can get them.—Weekly Telegraph (Sheffield).

Long-Range Enjoyment

"Does your boy Josh enjoy work?" "Yes," answered Farmer Cortossel. "He can sit on the fence an' see people work for hours. I dunno as I ever see anybody that seemed to get more enjoyment out o' work than he does."

SEASIDE ATTRACTION

He—You must be very fond of the water. I see you here every day.
She—I am! I love to sit on the beach.

Extensive Repairs

Mrs. Lafferty—Ten stitches did the doctor have to put in me old man after the fight last night.

Mrs. O'Hara—Ten? Was that all? Shure, when the doctor seen me poor husband carried in this morning he says: "Has any wan got a sewing machine?"—Boston Transcript.

News for Pa

"Father, why doesn't mother travel with the circus?"

"Why what could she do in a circus?"

"She might be the strong woman. I heard her telling grandma this morning that she could wind you around her little finger."

It Made Her Anxious

Richleigh—I'm getting a new siren for my car.

Tall Beauty—Oh, Albie! Does that mean all is over between us?—By-stander.

Weather or Not

Jones—Why do you let your wife rule the house?

Smith—Because if I didn't let her reign, she'd storm.—Transcript (Boston).

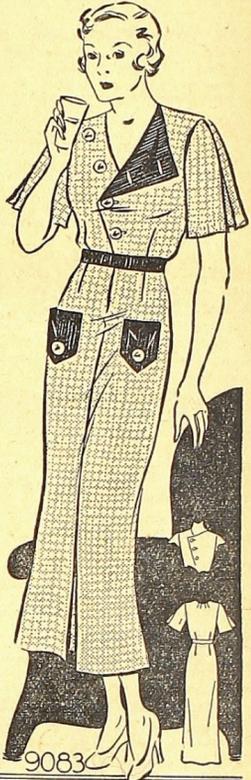

Or an Agor

"What is an organizer?" "Aw, he's the guy that makes music in church."

Practical House Frock

PATTERN 9083

The nice thing about this frock—one of the nice things—is that you can wear it buttoned up some days and opened on others. If you face the rever with a contrasting color, as in the illustration, it makes a great deal of difference whether you see the inside of it or not—it really makes a different frock of it. It is one of those house dresses which may be worn out of doors in the country or for shopping in the mornings. The inverted pleat makes the sleeves most flattering. Very attractive in a plain fabric as well as a printed one.

Pattern 9083 may be ordered only in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 yards 36-inch fabric and ¾ yard contrasting. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West 18th Street, New York, N. Y.

DEMAND FOR NOVELTY

"What we need," said the emphatic citizen, "is some new laws."

"Maybe you're right," answered Senator Sorghum. "Even a law can grow old and convey the impression that it has outlasted its usefulness."—Washington Star.

Acquiring Knowledge

"We have a great deal to learn from Russia!"

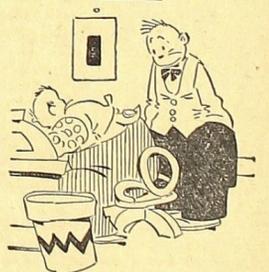

"I know that," answered Senator Sorghum. "We can always learn much from foreign friends. But we have to be careful not to allow the tuition to become unreasonably expensive."

A Hint

Manager—Pat, you wear a very old-fashioned coat in the office.

Clerk—Yes, sir. It is a bit out of date. I bought it the last time you gave me a rise.—From Ireland's Own.

WISE YOUTH

"Had your vacation yet, old man?" "Not yet. I'm going to take mine the same time the boss takes his. Then he can't see how easily the office can get along without me."

"The variability of public opinion makes politics a difficult game." "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "The human race is just as hard to guess as a horse."

Do YOU Know—

That the first regular baseball game was played at Hoboken, N. J., June 19, 1846, between the Knickerbocker club of New York and the New York club (a picked team). Only four innings were played, as under the rules then existing, a game was won when either team made 21 aces (runs) or over on even innings.

"I can't wait to see you on the storeroom shelf," she said aloud. "Come on, I'll put you there." She lifted the tray. "Ooch, but you weigh a ton! Am I one good little back-to-the-lander?" as she started toward the door. "A squirrel storing nuts for the winter has nothing on—"

A thunderous knock resounded through the house. Prudence took a quick step forward. A frightened cat reached the same spot in one leap. The girl tripped, the tray tipped, the jars of beets struck the floor with a crash calculated to make the pilot of the last word in bombing planes pale with envy.

Ruby liquid flew in all directions. It dripped from walls and ceiling; it splashed the white frock; it trickled in crimson rivulets down Prue's cheeks; it did a modernistic design on her shoes and lavishly polka-dotted her bare arms. For an instant she stood in dazed consternation, then as she saw her face reflected in a small mirror, she laughed.

"Oh, you demon can-can!" The words choked into a spasm of mirth. She sank to a chair, dropped her head to her arms flung out on the table, and tried to control the peals of laughter which shook her. A hand caught her shoulder.

"Hey! What's happened? Quit laughing like that! You'll go goofy in a minute."

Lips twitching, nostrils quivering, eyes gleaming through tears, Prudence looked up at Rodney Gerard.

"Canning trouble!" She choked on the words.

Gerard administered an authoritative shake.

"Stop laughing. It's painfully evident that you are toppling on the brink of hysterics. I know of only one sure remedy for that. I should hate to do it—but I may feel obliged to kiss you."

Prudence was on her feet. "Just naturally helpful, aren't you? You wouldn't dare—!" She met his eyes and changed her tone. "I'll stop, Signor Mussolini. Only you could stand there like a graven image in the midst of this—this slaughter. You see, I've gone thrifty. I've been preparing for the long hard winter by canning young, tender beets—no t-taste to them when they grow up. I was carrying the jars on a tray when a thum-thunderous knock sent Cleopatra scurrying to cover—Cleopatra's the cat, in case you don't know—with the result of a f-foot-on collision. I—"

"Stop and get your breath. Hysterics will get you if you don't watch out." The hint of amused warning in Gerard's voice set Prue's pulses throbbing.

"They won't, I shan't need your prescription, thank you. Why are you here? It would be you, wouldn't it? What did you come for? My word! I believe it was your knock that brought on the catastrophe. Are you responsible for this mess?" She indicated the smeared room with an accusing wave of her hand.

"I'm sorry. Can't I help clean up?" "You can not. Macky will be down in a few minutes, then we'll do it together. You'd better go while the going is good. Why did you come? I haven't time to talk even lumber business in the morning. I'm a working girl. I wish you'd go."

Even as Prudence frowned at him, she was thinking how Fate conspired to block her. After Jean's intimation that she was setting her cap for him, she had sworn to herself that she would chill Rodney Gerard to the bone the next time he spoke to her; instead, here she was hysterical with laughter, friendly laughter. One couldn't be impressively dignified when one resembled nothing so much as an example of spatter-work done in beet juice.

Hands in his coat pockets, Gerard strode to the door, turned at the threshold.

"Stop scowling. I'm going. Hospitable, aren't you? I came to ask if you would have time to make a silver collar for that kitten of Jean's she's so crazy about."

"A silver collar! I'd love it! I've had an idea for one in my mind for months! I'll make time! Come on to the shop—I've turned Uncle Austin's office into a workroom—and I'll show you a sketch I made before I became a farmer."

She had not realized how she loved and had missed her craft, Prudence told herself, as she led the way to a room which opened from the front hall.

"It won't take me a jiffy to find that sketch." She flung the assurance over her shoulder at Gerard. She pulled open one of the doors of the bookcase. A pile of papers showered to the floor.

"Darn! Wouldn't you know it when I'm in a hurry!"

"Hold on! I'll get them!" Gerard dropped to one knee beside her. "I don't wonder you can't find anything in that mess."

"It is a sight. I tucked everything I don't know what to do with in there. Here's the sketch! Now I'll find the stones."

lected on top of a pile while Prudence manipulated the knob of a small safe. He stood beside her as the heavy door swung open.

"What are those white things?" He indicated the row of packets in one of the compartments.

"Stones. Some precious, some semi-precious."

"You must have a fortune there."

"Not a fortune, but more money than I can afford to have tied up in them. I'm a jelly-fish, I have no sales resistance. When I see a lovely gem, I have an attack of what the economists call 'Buyer's delirium.' These are the most valuable, though I have a pigeon-blood ruby and a cabochon sapphire which couldn't be called grubby."

"That's a corking emerald."

"It is choice, it's flawless. It was my grandmother's."

"What's that stuff in the bottles which looks like hunks of colored glass?"

"Enamels. Transparent and opaque. They are ground in a little water to salt-like consistency in that mortar, washed thoroughly before they are applied to metal, and heated until they melt. When I want them especially jewel-like I use them over gold leaf. I can't enamel here, worse luck. Can't get enough heat. Have to use a bellows and a big blow pipe."

"You sure know this job, don't you? What are you looking for in those papers?"

"Here they are! Here's the design for the collar. See those medallions between the links?" She looked up. "You're not listening! You're not looking!"

"I'm looking all right. Never realized before how much red there is in your hair. The sunlight brings it out. It's gorgeous, girl."

"My hair! I thought you came here for a silver collar."

"I did. Cross-my-throat-an'-hope-to-die, I did. You love this work, don't you? Your eyes are like stars."

"Of course I love it, but I get tremendously thrilled over whatever interests me."

"You'll wear yourself out."

"Better to wear out than rust out."

"Meaning me, I suppose?"

"If the shoe fits, put it on. Do you realize that you are wasting my precious time? I thought you were about to give me an honest-to-goodness order."

Gerard laid his hand on the sketch. "Don't put it away. I do want the collar. You were explaining about the medallions between the links. Will they be silver?"

"Yes. They are to be carved and tooled with Micky Mouse episodes. See these cat's-eyes glow and smolder? I'll set them in silver to alternate with the medallions. This pear-shaped piece of Korean amber—which is supposed to contain magic—will hang from the buckle in front. Like the idea?"

"You're a fraud. You ask that as anxiously as if you didn't know it was a knock-out. Of course I like it." He carefully lifted the paper on which lay the emerald and some diamonds.

"I like these, too. Any chance of your making this ring up to order?"

so I flung the rug on the ground and stretched out on it. I've been asleep." He tightened his hold. "Look here, my dear, if you have me on your mind every minute, I'll go off by myself somewhere. Give me a hand up, Gerard. I've been lying here so long that I'm stiff."

Rodney Gerard linked an arm in his as he stood up. Prudence was conscious of the tension about her mouth as she looked at them. David's face was so pale in comparison to that of the man beside him. She achieved a fair imitation of a laugh.

"Have you on mind every minute, Dave! You'd be surprised if you knew that I haven't thought of you once since I tucked you into that steamer chair. Now who's coming?"

The gate in the white picket fence which enclosed the garden creaked on its hinges. A grotesque figure turning cartwheels with incredible rapidity hurtled through the opening, came right-side up, scratched a chalky ear which protruded through his white skull cap, and made a sweeping bow.

Jean raced to her uncle.

"A clown! Uncle Rod, a clown! Where's the circus?"

Had Rodney Gerard gritted an exclamation between his teeth, or had she imagined it? Prudence looked from his narrowed eyes to the smeared blue eyebrows, the lips like a bloody gash in the whiteness of the chalk-face of the man who was looking back at him. The regulation white suit of the sawdust ring, polka-dotted with black, showed traces of travel.

Jean's eyes were like stars. "Oh, Uncle Rod! Isn't he a peach! You will take me to the circus, won't you?"

David Schuyler held out his hand and smiled.

"How are you, Chicot? Must be two years since I've seen you. Where did you drop from?"

The clown shook Schuyler's hand. He blinked and swallowed, turning his cone-shaped cap in chalky hands.

"Never expected to see you here sir. They told me at the Rescue mission that you was sick somewhere. I'm with Sassoon's Smashing show. It's stuck in a nearby town, and when the boss found I—'d once lived in this region, he thought I might have a drag with folks and sent me on a motorcycle to drum up trade."

His eyes shifted to Rodney Gerard. "The little girl would like the show, Mister. It's a swell show."

"Uncle Rod, you will take me, won't you?" Jean's lips quivered with eagerness. "I've never seen many horses! I've never been to a circus! Mother thinks they're cheap. Oh, Miss Prue, ask him to take me, please—he'll do it if you ask him."

Significance shone through the amusement in Rodney Gerard's eyes as they met Prue's. Only an instant their glances met, before he parleyed indulgently:

"Take it easy, Jean. You've got me all excited. You've started something, Chicot. You said the show was stuck in the next town. What's the trouble?"

Again Prudence had the sense of an undercurrent, a dramatic undercurrent at that. Gerard's curt question seemed to set atmospheric high-potency waves in motion. Was he angry? Annoyed was a better word. Whatever his mood, it tightened her nerves. The clown crushed his cap in one vein-knotted hand.

"It's this way, Mister. The next town we were billed in was cleaned out by fire. Our show keeps up with our paper, rain or shine, floods or knee-deep mud, but when the town itself goes blooey, what have you? That throws us out. So the boss says we'd lay out the show in the burg I've come from. It's a good honest show for the little girl to see, Mister."

He pulled at a painted forelock, looked at Prudence with haggard eyes, stretched the red gash in a grin.

"An' for big girls, too. We've had to turn away crowds all season, and the parade—whoops, you should see the parade! All the headliners out—and the callope. Sounds this-a-way—"

Chicot gave an imitation which set the echoes jangling. It brought Si Puffer from the barn on a run. His wife and Miss Mack spilled from the kitchen door.

"You said the show was in a nearby town, Chicot. How near?"

Prudence caught the swift glance between Rodney Gerard and Mrs. Puffer as he asked the question, was aware of the sound of a gas escaping from a punctured balloon, before she closed her lips and retreated, pulling Jane Mack with her into the house.

Did the clown's presence mean something to her, too?

Mister. I wish all you folks would come. The little girl would get a great kick from it."

"Oh, Uncle Rod—" Jean's voice broke from excitement.

"Take it easy, Jean, we'll go. What time does the parade start, Chicot?"

"Nine."

"We'll be there. Prue, Jean and I are counting on you to keep us company."

"I'd love it—I—!" Prue's eyes flashed to her brother.

"Of course you'll go, Prue. You haven't been away from this town since you came, have you? Jane Mack will look after me." David Schuyler answered her unspoken question.

The clown twisted his cap. "I wish you'd come, sir. It's a good show."

"Can't make it, Chicot. Glad you have your job again. Watch your step—this time."

"Thank you, sir. I will, sir. There ain't no occasion for me not to, sir. Well, folks, I'll be seeing you."

He pulled his cap hard over his ears, and departed on his hands, his legs in the air. Jean ran beside him, pelting him with questions, going into girlish giggles of laughter. As the clown disappeared through the gateway, Rodney Gerard and Si Puffer followed without one backward glance.

Prudence dropped to the grass beside her brother.

"Strange that you should have known that clown, Dave."

"All sorts of men came to the Rescue mission, Prue. Chicot was in great trouble about a granddaughter who had been running wild. He beat up one of her followers—to hear him tell it, she had a lot of them—and lost his job for a while."

"Hey! What's Happened?"

Prudence appeared absorbed in her search for a four-leaf clover.

"Dave, did it occur to you that Mrs. Si knew that clown, that Rodney Gerard knew him?"

Schuyler swung his feet from the chair and rose. The lines between his eyes deepened as he answered gravely:

"I'm sorry to say it did, Prue. Confoundedly sorry."

Continent of Atlantis Was Surrounded by Sea

The lost continent of Atlantis was entirely surrounded by sea. It existed, supposedly, between the Straits of Gibraltar and the Mexican Gulf. It had been a great empire of tall, fair-haired, blue-eyed men and women. Alleged historical accounts agree that it was inhabited by supermen who lived peacefully and happily over a long period of years. The arts of civilization of the present race were acquired, according to historians, from this lost race before it vanished beneath the sea. A description of the lost continent has been furnished by Plato.

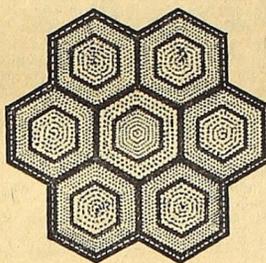

"The whole country," he relates, "was very lofty and precipitous on the side of the sea, but the country immediately about and surrounding the city was a level plain, itself surrounded by mountains; it was smooth and even, but of an oblong shape, extending in one direction 3,000 stadia, and going up the country from the sea through the center of the island 2,000 stadia: the whole region of the island lies toward the north. The surrounding mountains were celebrated for their number and size and beauty, in which they exceeded all that are to be seen anywhere."

Wooden Plows

Wooden plows are not only still common, but efficient for their task. On some clay lands they are preferred to iron because the clay does not stick to them so much, says Tit-Bits Magazine. They are most common in East Anglia, and at Maldon, Essex, there is a firm that has been making them for 120 years. To this day they exhibit and sell them at shows such as the "Royal" where they take their place among the most up-to-date electrical and petrol appliances.

Crocheted Rugs in Quilt Designs

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

During the past years patchwork quilts have been the big article of interest to the home needleworker and now we have the crocheted rug in quilt designs. The beauty of these rugs can only be appreciated after you have seen one of them. Crocheted rugs have the best wearing properties.

The rug above illustrated is the "Flower Garden" rug, which you will recognize as having received its name from the "Flower Garden" quilt. Size of rug is 30 inches and made from 2 lbs. of rug strips. Each block is made separately and when the seven are finished they are slip stitched together. The colors to be used depends upon the material you may have on hand or can dye to colors desired. Use contrasting colors for the different rows and the brighter the colors the more sunshine the rug brings to the home.

Our book No. 24 on crocheted rag rugs in quilt designs contains 20 rugs shown in colors with instructions. Write our rug Dept. and send 15c for this book. Address Home Craft Co., Dept. C, 19th & St. Louis Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Guinea Pigs Adopt Young Marmot in the London Zoo

The latest bit of news from the London zoo concerns adoption of a young marmot by a colony of guinea pigs. One of the keepers of the zoo placed the marmot in the guinea pigs' pen after, for some unknown reason, it had been thrown out of its home burrow. The hungry outcast at once approached one of the mother guinea pigs which graciously allowed it to nurse.

The most curious thing about the incident was that thereafter when the baby marmot was hungry it did not always return to the same foster mother. Instead it appealed to any mother guinea pig that happened to be handy—and all of the guinea pigs thus approached proved equally accommodating.

Camping Out Started in Eighteenth Century

Camping, as an American practice, originated in the Eighteenth century for a different purpose than did the contemporary outdoor recreation. says the Tulsa World. In the early days "camp meetings" were religious festivals which all the neighborhood families attended. Then there were few churches and communities, so a certain spot would be appointed for services at a specified time of year. All the farmers from miles around would participate in the three or four days' services, and during this time the families would lodge near by in tents or shacks. Their purpose was to establish a temporary community.

In 1855 churches were well established in all organized communities and pioneering in the United States was virtually ended. People became weary of the city, especially the youths, so a New York business man conceived the idea of establishing a camp. From the first year of operation, which included six boys, to the present date, the total number in all camps has swelled to over 2,000,000. Older people became interested in this back-to-nature movement; now 10 per cent of all the population shares in this recreation.

Why the Sudden Change to Liquid Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be thus regulated to suit individual need.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a more natural movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

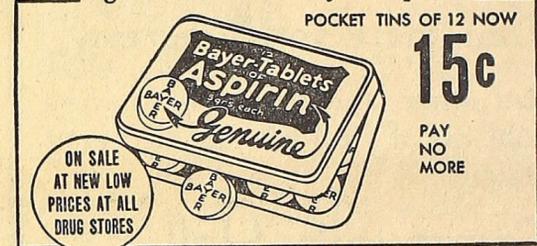

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is obtainable at all druggists.

HELLO, GRACE. SAY LET'S GO TO TOWN THIS AFTERNOON. THERE'S A NEW CLARK GABLE PICTURE.

OH, MAE, I SIMPLY CAN'T... WITH ALL THIS WASHING TO DO. AND YOU'VE GOT YOUR WASH OUT ALREADY? HOW DO YOU DO IT?

HERE'S THE ANSWER, GRACE... I BROUGHT IT ALONG AND YOU MUST TRY IT. IT'S A SPECIAL NEW SOAP—OXYDOL—THAT LOOSENS DIRT OUT BY SOAKING INSTEAD OF YOUR SCRUBBING AND BOILING.

OH, THAT'S A GRANULATED SOAP, ISN'T IT? I'M USING GRANULATED SOAP ALREADY.

YES, BUT NOT LIKE THIS NEW ONE, OXYDOL. REALLY LOOSENS DIRT OUT IN 15 MINUTES' SOAKING—AND GETS CLOTHES 4 TO 5 SHADES WHITER THAN OTHER SOAPS.

IS 15 MINUTES' SOAKING / THAT'S NONSENSE! NO SOAP CAN DO THAT—AND IF IT DID, IT WOULD BE TOO STRONG, I'M HALF AFRAID OF THE ONE I'M USING NOW.

BUT THAT'S THE REMARKABLE THING ABOUT OXYDOL. IT WORKS TWICE AS FAST—YET IT'S ABSOLUTELY SAFE, HERE—YOU JUST WAIT 15 MINUTES AND SEE.

STOP! YOU'LL RUIN MY CLOTHES!

15 MINUTES LATER—

WHY I CAN'T BELIEVE IT! JUST 15 MINUTES' SOAKING AND THOSE CLOTHES ARE SHADES WHITER THAN EVER BEFORE. BUT, MAE—ARE YOU REALLY SURE THAT SOAP IS SAFE?

SAFE? YOU KNOW THAT BLUE FROCK THE BABY WEARS? YOU THOUGHT IT WAS NEW SUNDAY AND I'VE WASHED IT 20 TIMES IN OXYDOL.

I WAS ASTONISHED—AND YOU'LL BE ASTONISHED, TOO! READ THESE FACTS

MADE by a patented process, New, Improved OXYDOL dissolves instantly and completely in hard or soft water, and does these things: Gives thick, 3-inch suds, rich as whipped dairy cream. Suds that go to work on grease, dirt, and stains—in any water—2 to 3 times faster than less modern soaps. Sets up a unique "soak and flush" washing action. 15 minutes' soaking loosens dirt out so it flushes away—without scrubbing or boiling.

You save long hours of washboard drudgery. You get clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter without washboard wear and tear. And yet, due to its special formula—OXYDOL is safe. Absolutely safe to hands, colors, fabrics!

Get new, improved OXYDOL from your grocer today. Money back if you don't have the whitest, sweetest wash ever. The Procter & Gamble Company.

YESTERDAY GRACE GOT ME TO USE OXYDOL FOR WASHING THE SEPARATORS AND IT'S GRAND.

MR. AND MRS. J. R. KITCHEN CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kitchen celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Monday evening, October 1, at their home near Whittemore.

The evening was begun with the singing of old time songs. Rev. Davis gave a very inspiring talk, followed by a prayer. Mrs. Ira Horton of Tawas City and Ross Kitchen and two daughters sang "I Love You Truly." Mr. Kitchen thanked the friends for remembering them, and told of the changes of fifty years ago and today. This was followed by a song by John O'Farrell.

A very delicious luncheon was served, which included a beautiful wedding cake presented to Mr. and Mrs. Kitchen by Mrs. Ross Kitchen. The home was beautifully decorated with baskets of flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Kitchen were the recipients of several beautiful gifts. The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. Ira Horton of Tawas City, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kitchen and two daughters of Sterling, Mrs. Jennie Gillespie of Flint, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fuerst, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bronson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Charters, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jacques, Mr. and Mrs. Wm.
