EAST WINS DISTRICT TAWAS CLASS C TITLE Sterling Is Class D Winner In Basketball Tourney Held At Oscoda

East Tawas and Sterling were class C and D winners respectively in the annual basketball tournament for annual basketball tournament for this district held last week-end, Feb-ruary 28, March 1 and 2, at Oscoda, Seven teams, Whittemore, Alabaster East Tawas St. Joseph, Sterling, Frescott, Rose City and Oscoda, were entered in class D competition, while three squads, Standish, Harrisville and East Tawas fought for the class C title. Capacity crowds were pres-ent at each evening of play, a large number of fans of the various schools being on hand to spur on their favorite teams. By winning the district titles East Tawas and Sterling gained the right to compete in the regional tournament which is being held at Mt. Pleasant this week-end.

EAST TAWAS

In the opening round last Thurs-day three class D teams were eliminated. Prescott grabbed an early lead over Alabaster and downed the White City boys handily, 29 to 12. Lott, Prescott forward, was the high scorer of this game with 18 points. Sterling started its march of victory by overwhelming Whittemore, 41 to 12. or whether he will gree to a compromise. Mr. Roosevelt at the Sen. Wagner end of his second year in office faces a predicate in his relations to congress similar to that which confronted Mr.

Hoover in 1931. Unless he regains control his entire program is likely to bog down. The fight hinges on the $4,880,000,000 workrelief program, the first item in the President's budget message and the principal mainstay of his program. Secret conferences at which slices of pork were reported to have been dangled before the avid eyes of revolting senators were said to have been held. A few supporters of the McCarran prevailing wage amendment which wrecked the bill and forced its recommission to the appropriations committee were said to be wavering under the pressure. Senator Robert F. Wagner, who voted for the amendment, acted as peacemaker. He intimated the possibility of a compromise by paying more than the so-called security wage of $50 a month, but still lower than the prevailing rates. Other leaders declared they would not budge from their positions.

Secretary Ickes has been no help to the President in quelling the revolt. In his recent testimony, Ickes was reluctant to tell a senate committee about allocation of $238,000,000 for a naval shipbuilding program. The senators finally pried out information which would indicate that the navy and the speculators knew all about the appropriation, but none of the members of congress knew about it. The money was to be spent at executive discretion, and senators feel this does not auger well for the proposal to hand to Mr. Rosevelt unlimited power in spending the proposed five billion dollar appropriation.

Since next year will bring another Presidential election, a third of the senators will be up for re-election, and all of the house members. They are watching closely the present situation because, if the President is slipping, they want their own records back home in good order.

MUSSOLINI has sent 5,000 more Italian troops to east Africa,

A SWEEPING investigation of NRA and charges of graft and corruption was started by the senate, when it passed the Nye-McCarran resolution for a finance committee inquiry after a series of floor conferences between the sponsors, administration leaders, liberal Democrats, and western progressives. Sponsors of the bill originally demanded a special committee to investigate NRA, but finally agreed to the finance committee handling the inquiry. Since the finance committee is headed by Senator Pat Harrison, administration follower, this may mean little. However, it is understood that Harrison agreed that counsel and professional investigators be employed, and also yielded to demands that the committee confer with McCarran and Nye in planning the investigation. If Harrison attempts to "whitewash" the NRA, it is rumored that Nye will take DETERMINED not to accept the McCarran-Federation of Labor prevailing wage amendment, the administration forces in the senate sent the work relief bill back to the committee. What will happen now to the President's big program is problematical. Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, one of the administration men, declared the measure had met its death. Insisting he was expressing his own be-Senator Huey lief and not talking

Long for the President, Byrnes said, "There is no prospect" of reviving the works program and "The committee probably will do nothing about it." "The President stated that if the McCarran amendment were adopted he would not sign the bill," Byrnes said. "The senate adopted it, therefore, so as far as the works part is concerned, the bill is gone.

He expressed the thought the committee would report out an appropriation of $880,000,000 or $1,880,000,000 to carry out the present relief program for six months or a year.

Adoption of the McCarran amendment by the senate was brought about only after a hard fight and by means of a rather tricky shifting of pairs in which Huey Long took a leading part. It won by a margin of one vote, whereupon Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, moved that the bill be sent back to the committee. This was done, Senator Glass expressing the hope that the committee would report out a bill "that will not be quite so controversial.'

THIS AND THAT

CANDIES make a delicious garnish for simple desserts, and save the time necessary for preparing more elaborate ones. A bit of chocolate or maple fudge crumbled over ice cream, cornstarch pudding, custard, or junket, makes an otherwise plain dessert very stylish.

To make an old dust mop practically as good as new put a large tablespoonful of concentrated lye in a pail halfful of boiling water and let the mop boil in it. Rinse thoroughly several times and put in the sun to dry.

One or two tablespoonfuls of kerosene put into the boiler with the clothes will whiten them.

Begin early and start right with the child; this is especially important if he is to be a strong, well and an efficient citizen.

The normal child eats with zest the food placed before him. Dawdling over food or refusing to eat it will need hard work to overcome. It is far easier to form good habits than to break bad ones.

If the child is accustomed to a variety of foods very early, before he begins to form likes and dislikes, he will like and eat everything as he grows older.

It is the very exceptional child who is made ill by certain foods; of course, one must eliminate them if it is found to be a real case. Some children feign illness and nausea to gain attention and something refused.

One's methods in dealing with the food question must vary with the child. It will work with some to insist on the food on the plate being eaten before he has dessert. If not hungry enough to eat the food on the plate. he is not hungry enough for dessert. A word of praise, a reward, often brings the desired result. As children are people, they should be treated as such; no two individuals enjoy exactly the same things, so we must be tactful in dealing with little people.

It is wise to look over the supply shelf often and keep it well filled, for with the holiday season, many unexpected calls may be made upon it. ©, Western Newspaper Union.

Mussolini has set European governments buzzing in a speech in which he roared defiance at Italy's foes, asserting that he could put eight million armed men in the field if necessary. Newspapers during the past few weeks have openly referred to the possibility of a war between Italy and Germany over Austria, and it was thought that I Duce's speech was made to impress upon the Nazis that he was prepared to defend Brenner pass, although a part of the troops are being used in Ethiopia.

Britain is keeping a close watch on Ethiopian developments, Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, told the house of commons. Simon said that the agreement of 1908 between Italy, France and Great Britain to preserve the political and territorial status quo in Ethiopia is in force and that Britain has drawn Italy's attention to this fact. He added, that the whole trouble is over the frontier between Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland which has never been properly defined.

SUCH IS LIFE—Safety First

Snake Stories Are Mostly Unfounded

Declared Untrue.

London.-In spite of the fact that the majority of snakes are quite harmless, the popular prejudice against them is insurmountable, writes E. G. Boulenger in the London Sunday Observer. Almost any absurd story about these reptiles is accepted at its face value and without the slightest attempt to ascertain the true facts of the case.

Specially remarkable is the current belief that snakes have the power to "fascinate" or exert hypnotic influence over their victims. It is possible that the absence of eyelids and consequent inability to close the eyes may be partly responsible for this fetish; the creature's sinuous movements and habit of probing the ground with its forked tongue may perhaps further encourage the common superstition.

Psychological Influence.

That the snake has from early times exerted a very powerful psychological influence over the imaginative mind of man there can be no doubt whatever. One has but to recall the grotesque story of the hoop snake or the American Indian's belief that the rattlesnake adds a joint to its rattle every time it takes a human life. Serpents, moreover, have been deified in many lands, as is evidenced by the frequency with which many figure on innumerable tombs, temples, etc. The actual "fascinating" power of

Tale of Hypnotic Power Is the snake over intended victims has been disproved by many carefully conducted experiments. Many years ago, when it was customary to feed the zoo's snakes in public on living rats, mice, etc., it was usual to see such small animals contentedly feeding or cleaning themselves within a few inches of the reptiles.

> Some years ago I met with a curious instance illustrating the indifference that most small mammals show toward serpents. A white rat was offered as food to a 4-foot long South African snake kept in the Natural History museum, but the reptile apparently not being hungry the rodent was left untouched for several months. With the approach of winter the snake retired into a snug hole which it had excavated. This retreat apparently appealed so strongly to the rat that it ejected #### the unresisting tenant and promptly appropriated the coveted shelter.

Snake Digs in Again. Once more the snake dug itself a burrow, and yet again was the rightful owner ejected. Peace finally reigned for a considerable period. With the approach of spring, however, the snake recovered both appetite and initiative, with the result that the rat, one-time bully of the cage, was made to provide the snake with the first meal of the season.

Certain tree snakes inhabiting eastern Asia have the head produced into a lanceolate form often grotesquely patterned. The long bi-furcated tongue is so marked that when thrust rapidly in and out it continues the markings of the head and gives the snake's face the appearance of "telescoping" in a very startling fashion.

It has been established that the small birds and arboreal lizards on which these snakes habitually feed watch this phenomenon until the snake is enabled to approach within striking distance, and so make a meal of them. Such an occurence however, can scarcely be regarded as an example of a snake exercising hypnotic influence, but rather evidence of a natural curiosity on the part of the birds and lizards.

What she may need, then, may be to have the washing and ironing done. These are time - consuming jobs. To be re-0 leased from them allows the homemaker two extra days a week, more or less, according to the amount of laundry work her family needs. Many a homemaker has to be relieved of the work of laundering flat work even when she can manage to do the rest of the washing and ironing, or at least the rest of the ironing when the clothes require only finishing, having been washed by some one else.

Sewing.

It may be that the homemaker finds sewing, nervous work, and she would rather be relieved of this, even though it is not physically difficult nor tiresome. It is as hard to be nervously tired as physically weary. When the homemaker is one who finds sewing a strain, she is wise to have help in this work. Those who find sewing a relief from more strenuous housework, can scarcely appreciate the need of help in this work. Help with the harder tasks would seem to be more suitable, but it is for the homemaker to decide what it is that she, herself, craves to be relieved of.

There are homemakers who want above everything else to be relieved of the daily routine of ordinary household tasks. Such women may find laundry work and cleaning they can get done without any difficulty. But the continual round of washing dishes, aily dusting, chamber work and thos small tasks which most housewives find not at all hard, these homemakers find irritating. Then, if possible, help should be had for these tasks. There are women who can be had to come in each day and do just such work.

PIG TO PORK BARRELS

ON A brisk October day in 1637 a pig belonging to Mrs. Sherman, a good wife of Boston, wandered into the garden of a wealthy and wrathy gentleman named Capt. Robert Keayne, who killed the wandering porker. Mrs. Sherman sued him for damages and lost-in a gentleman's court. She had done a lot of talking, so Keayne sued her for defamation of character. He won again-also in a gentleman's

The case was carried to the legislative assembly then known as "The Great and General Court." It was composed of the governor, magistrates and deputies from the several towns but the magistrates, who were gentlemen, although outnumbered, held the balance of power. ## Age-Old Memories Stir

Merry Laughing Spring

Moonlight falling in pearly, ghostly radiance over the hill in Hardscrabble forest touches candleberry and sweet-fern with opalescence and mirrors age-old stars in the fern-lipped bowl of the Laughing Spring.

The Spring, which finds something funny in its age-long life, chuckling constantly at some comic joke, remembers the coming of the Ice age, its imprisonment under the ice sheet, and the herds of mastodons migrating through the valley after it. It remembers when wild animals were dominant along the Hudson, and the timid coming of Red Men from the West, spying out the land, taking it away from bear, deer, moose and wolf.

At its lip white settlers stooped to drink, listening for war-whoops. It remembers the Dutch, the English, Continentals marching past to the battle of White Plains, and boys of the Neperhan marching away to the Civil war.

Hunters, hobos, pursued men and women, hikers, lovers, have all visited the ancient fountain, but still the Spring is the youngest and merriest thing in all the Hardscrabble forest, for it still remembers how to laugh. -New York World Telegram.

the World court, but rather to emphasize the basic fact that international "peace" in the final analysis is a matter of international "good will." We advocate the theory that no amount of legislation can ever make a man good. His goodness arises from the "will to be" good. As an illustration: the depression which is still upon us will not be removed until confidence has been restored. As long as confidence, which is practically the spirit of good will, is an absent factor in our international relations, peace is an utter impossibility.

The problem is fundamentally a moral one and must be thought out and settled upon a moral basis. The only authorized system of moral principles which have been tested by history, is the Christian code. Washington .- The savage practice of offering human sacrifices to the gods of war was widely in effect in North America at the time of the coming of the white man. So said Dr. Truman Michelson of the Smithsonian institution. The practice is supposed to have been confined to the Aztec and Pawnee Indians, but actually was widely diffused throughout the continent, he said. In the Aztec rites, the heart of the victim was cut out with a stone knife. In the famous "Morning Star" rites of the Pawnees, a maiden was sacrificed. The Hurons burned maidens at the stake, Doctor Michelson asserts.

Help Most Needed.

It is what the homemaker wants most that should determine the kind of help she should get. But first she should know whether better planning would not save her the expense of a hired helper. Then she should realize her own strength and appreciate that if this is not great, to save herself she requires aid in physically wearying labor. It is when work is too much for one person that choice is widest in the type to get. Such a homemaker may be in perfect health, but pressed for time. Whatever help re- vard's new football mentor.

James Whitcomb Riley was a close friend of Piatt's and a frequent visitor to the castle. One autumn morning the Hoosier poet stood in this little room and looked out the window. Before him unrolled the panorama of the fertile fields and gently-sloping hills of Logan county. Now it was covered with a blanket of frost shining in the morning sun. From the barnyard down below there came up to his ears a medley of sounds-the gobbling of a turkey, the crowing of a rooster, the clucking of a hen.

For a moment Riley stood absorbed in the scene, then turned, seized a pencil and began to write. What he wrote is today one of the best-loved poems in American literature. It begins: "When the frost is on the pumpkin and

CHAPTER V -8-

Still, something did turn up.

Just at breakfast time, while Ben was prowling the mill, admitting to himself that perhaps it was time to look at his Lole card-the letter that the old cruiser had sent to him with its intriguing inscription-a stranger behind a light driving team swung into the mill-yard, stopped and tied his horses.

"Well, you had a fire!" he said as Ben approached. "See you've still got a mill standing, though."

"Standing, yes. But that's all you can say for it."

"That's tough !" The man eyed him in genuine concern. "Are you by any chance Ben Elliott?" "I am."

"Elliott, my name's Blackmore. Glad to see you! I was in here and talked with Harrington week before last and he was saving out some veneer logs for me. I'm with the Veneer Exporting corporation and we're in the market for quite a few cars of stuff. Wonder if I could interest you in a deal. Market's right good and we're in need of some more stuff to fill out a shipment. Maybe with your mill shut down you might be interested."

"That's a close guess. Shoot!" "I'll pay you a hundred and twenty dollars a thousand for bird's eye maple and ninety dollars for veneer birch; standard specifications and delivery inside of two weeks on, say, thirty thousand. I know you're busy, so I name the top and pass any dickering."

A hundred and twenty. . . . And ninety for birch! Ben's heart leaped but he gave no outward indication of the great relief that surged through him.

"Two weeks?" he asked.

"Yes, and less. Let's see. . . . I'll have to have thirty thousand delivered in just eleven days to be safe in getting 'em to Montreal on time. I'll take fifty thousand at the price but the thirty will have to be loaded and on track first." "That'll be fast production."

"All of that! But if I can't get the stuff from you I can from Brandon by going up a few dollars a thousand. My cards are on the table, Elliott. Can we deal? Ben considered, rubbing his chin with a knuckle. He looked up the road which led toward camp to see a man approaching with that quick, space-devouring stride of the woodsman. "Had breakfast?" he asked.

"No."

"Blanket your team and go eat. I'll have an answer for you by the time you're through."

As the veneer buyer entered the boarding house Bird-Eye Blaine-the traveler from camp-had reached the mill-yard. "For the love av-" he began, turning his amazed stare from the mill to

"While I was unconscious, my plane dropped. I regained consciousness just as it was nosing for the ground. I was too near to glide to a landing. I had the immediate choice of hitting a brick wall or falling into the reservoir, and probably drowning, or of heading for a space between two tall trees.

"Now, I remembered that the night before I had dreamed of a crash. I knew what that meant for me; I knew I must take no chances; I must do anything to avert such a catastrophe. "To fly between the trees was my only chance of escape. I had enough experience to know that if the plane flew between them the impact would slice off the wings, turn the plane over and wreck it.

"So I turned the plane over deliberately, from within, and saved damage to it, instead of allowing it to resist the turn and doubtless be shattered.

"If it had not been for that dream I might have taken more chances with those trees.'

Since the days of Mendel it has become apparent that the mechanism of heredity is both delicate and complex. It is generally agreed that life first developed in the sea. How, then, did the first amphibian evolve? What was the bold animal that first ventured on land and adapted itself wholly or partially to life under enterly new circumstances? When we ask such questions it is apparent that natural selection and the survival of the fittest do not meet the case. Doctor Brown holds that physical structure, courage, pugnacity, efficlency were not solely responsible for the transition. There was something unstable about the first adventurer that came out of the sea. He was like an unstable chemical compound that changes into something else-something out of which a rep-tlle could evolve, something that was the result of a crisis. Examine all the other animals, and the transition from an old to a newer form seems always to be the result of critical instability. Despite the convincing array of fossils that shows plainly enough how the onetoed horse of today evolved from an ancient, five-toed equine animal not much bigger than a St. Bernard dog, the jumps are marked. Why do the bowels usually move regularly and thoroughly, long after a physician has given you treatment for constipation?

Because the doctor gives a liquid laxative that can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind f help, and the right amount of help. #### THE STORY FROM THE BEGINNING Ben Elliott-from "Yonder"-arrives at the lumbering town of Tincup, with Don Stuart, old, very sick man, whom he has befriended. He defeats Bull Duval "king of the river," and town bully, in a log-birling contest. Nicholas Brandon, the town's leading citizen, resents Stuart's presence, trying to force him to leave town and Elliott, resenting the act, knocks him down. Elliott is arrested and finds a friend in Judge Able Armitage. The judge hires him to run the one lum-ber camp, the Hoot Owl, that Brandon has not been able to grab. This belongs to Dawn McManus, daughter of Brandon's old partner, who has disappeared with a murder charge hanging over his head. Brandon sends Duval to beat up Ben, and Ben worsts him in a fist fight and throws him out of camp. Don Stuart dies, leaving a letter for Elliott "to be used when the going becomes too tough." Ben refuses to open the letter, believing he can win the fight by his own efforts. Fire breaks out in the mill. Ben, leading the victorious fight against the flames that threatened to win the fight for Brandon, discovers the fire  $\Psi \approx$  started with gasoline.

He did not register consciously the knitted toque of soft maroon wool, nor the well-tailored jumper and knickers. Impressions leaped at him in ensemble, rather than detail: a trim, trig, competent little figure.

"Oh!" he said, when she did not speak. "Oh . . . Why, hello!"

He grinned, then, but no responsive smile changed the girl's face or ever lighted her eyes. "Good afternoon," she said brusquely

"The night table between our beds, heavily laden, arose from its position and crashed to the floor, breaking the lamp and boxes. It was as if some one had lifted it and smashed it upon the floor. The crash was terrific.

"This time my husband did not refute me. He verified everything I heard and saw. He jumped to his feet and turned on the lights. Whatever had caused the crash had vanished. "I have never been able to interpret the meaning or the mystery of this occurrence.'

Pitch of the Pine Tree

Hardens; Becomes Amber

Have you ever noticed masses of pitch or resin clinging to the bark of a pine tree, and thought how much like amber it looked? And no wonder, for amber is merely pitch or resin changed somewhat and hardened by countless years beneath the earth.

The variety of pine which produced most amber once grew where the Baltic and the North seas now lie. This land was gradually submerged. Later, violent storms would cast large pieces of the amber up on the shore. The ancients valued it highly and credited it with mysterious powers, chiefly because it becomes electrified when it is rubbed. In fact, our word electricity is derived from elektron, the Greek name for amber.

Today some amber is still obtained by picking up fragments washed ashore by the waves, but most of it is mined. The chief source is East Prussia, although it is found in small quantities in many other countries .- St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Strong Appeal in Braided Rag Rug

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Braided rugs appeal to many rug makers because the work is simple and requires no tools. They, however, are not as durable as the crocheted rug, owing to the fact that the braided strands are sewed together. and for this reason we advise to sew with a strong waxed thread.

The above "Pin Wheel" rug measures 35 inches and requires about 4 pounds of cotton rag rug material. The center section has a black background and the 3 section design is white. The outer circle and inner center are of hit-and-miss mixed colors. Cut strips 11/2 inches wide. Fold edges under and then fold again to make a strip about one-half inch wide. Use three strips in braiding. Start in the center and sew 8 rows of braid around, keeping work flat. Start next row on opposite side of where the previous row ended. Work around, changing colors for 9 rows, as illustrated. To change color sew strips of new color desired to the ones in use. Start again at different place for 8 outside rows, then sew on the last row separately. This rug has 26 rows.

If you are interested in making rag rugs, send 15c to our Rug Department for book No. 25, which contains 26 rugs in braiding and crochet. Instructions are given with each rug, also directions for braiding and crocheting rugs and how to prepare your rags into strips to get the best results.

Our American oysters have the double advantage of being satisfactory both for raw service and for cooking. I cook the oysters just a moment, just long enough to curl the edges, then add the milk, which should be rich milk with at least its full quota of cream, season it with just enough salt and paprika and let it cook just long enough to heat thoroughly Creamed oysters should be prepared with much the same method. The liquor which develops as the oysters curl should be used to make up the quantity of milk needed to dilute the mixed butter and flour which is the foundation of the standard white sauce.

A little minced raw celery added with the oysters and merely reheated with them, gives an extra note of flavor which you will like, I am sure. For a change, try a brown sauce without celery.

Creamed oysters are also the basis for that popular American invention, oyster pie. You may line your tin with pastry or use only a top crust, which in any case should be baked with the oysters in a very hot oven, both for the sake of the pastry and for the sake of the oysters, which must not be overcooked. You know, undoubtedly, that overcooking toughens oysters. This is one of the reasons why very hot fat must be used for frying them after they have been crumbed or dipped in batter. To make sure that fried oysters are perfect for serving, drop them onto soft paper as you take them out of the fat, and you will have them crisp and dry, as well as tender.

Oyster Bisque. 24 oysters

4 cups milk 1 slice onion 2 stalks celery Sprigs of parsley Bit of bay leaf 1/3 cup butter 1/3 cup flour

Salt and pepper Clean and pick over oysters, reserve liquor, add oysters chopped, heat slowly to boiling point and put through a coarse strainer. Scald milk with onion, celery, mace, parsley and bay leaf; remove seasonings and add butter and flour blended together. Stir until thick and smooth over the hot water. Add the strained oysters and season with salt and pepper. If too thick add more milk. Oyster Canape.

Wrap strip of bacon around each oyster, skewer and broil very slowly until bacon is crisp and brown. Serve hot on rounds of toasted bread, garnish edge with white of hard-cooked egg, chopped fine, and mixed with ketchup and a few drops of onion juice.
