Non-Partisans Place James H. Leslie In Race For Mayor

At a non-partisan convention and caucus held Monday evening at the G. H. Q. Inn an opposition ticket was named to be placed on the ballot with James H. Leslie candidate for mayor. No nominations were made for clerk, treasurer or justice of the peace.

In the first ward Albert Mallon received the nomination for alderman. No candidate was named for supervisor.

The second ward caucus named Walter Kasichke as candidate for supervisor and Ernest Burtzloff for alderman.

No nominations were made in the third ward.

Drivers Besiege Office At 1934 Plate Deadline

A long line of auto owners yesterday besieged the Iosco county branch of the Secretary of State. Thursday was the deadline for driving a car with 1934 license plates and the cars of last minute buyers crowded the parking space at the court house.

Register of Deeds F. F. Taylor said Thursday that up to Wednesday night 538 passenger license plates, 338 half-year permits, 39 commercial plates and 40 trailer plates had been sold from his office.

In the state at large, 618,318 full-year licenses and 191,972 half-year licenses had been sold. Last year's total registration was 1,247,000 cars.

HIRAM PIERCE WILL OPERATE G. H. Q. INN

Hiram Pierce, well known restaurant operator, has taken over the G. H. Q. Inn at Tawas City owned by Jas. H. Leslie. He announced yesterday that it would be opened for business within a very few days. Mr. Pierce has been in the restaurant business for many years and has the experience and ability to make the venture a success.

Spring Deliveries

One Amendment Will Be Voted On At April Election

To clarify the constitution with reference to the determination of ties and contested elections of state officials, the following amendment will be submitted to the voters at the April election:

Sec. 4. In all cases of tie vote or contested election for any state office, except a member of the legislature, any recount or other determination thereof may be conducted by the board of state canvassers under such laws as the legislature may prescribe.

This amendment would prevent a repetition of the conditions which occurred during the Wilson-Atwood recount in the state legislature.

Baseball Meeting

A meeting of the Tawas City High-Speed baseball team will be held at the G. H. Q. next Tuesday evening, March 19, at 8:00 o'clock to discuss plans for the coming season. All persons interested are urged to be present.

School Notes

The Senior class will hold a sale of baked goods Saturday afternoon, March 16, at Moeller's store.

The English I class is arranging a St. Patrick's day program for March 15.

The members of the baseball team wish to thank the public for attending their benefit show at the Rivoli Theatre last Friday night. The boys made quite a bit of money by selling tickets and extend their appreciation for it.

The twelfth grade civics class is now studying about the abolishing of the gold standard and the management of the money situation since 1933 by President Roosevelt. The most of the members seem to feel, however, that they are not exactly in the market to explain all of the details in regard to the above mentioned propositions.

The lieutenant governor, Thomas B. Reed, says that the most important work for the present legislature is to find out the needs of the schools and then to pass the budget.

The Junior class has chosen its play, "The Clav's the Things." The cast of characters has not yet been decided. Watch for the date.

The Junior class sponsored an all high school dancing party at the Avalon ballroom. A large crowd attended, and everyone had such an enjoyable time that the class has decided to give another dance at the city hall this Thursday night and invited the East Tawas high school students.

In response to a recent communication from A. A. Bigelow, secretary of the local board of education, Senator Bernt Carpenter promises to do his utmost to secure the passage of the school bill as put forth by Representative Thatcher. The passage of this bill would cause the schools of Michigan to receive $25,000,000 state aid in addition to the Primary School Fund.

Miss Bessie Metcalf of the class of '31 has completed her nursing course at the Ravenswood Hospital, Chicago, and has been elected to a position on the staff of the institution.

Wray Cox: "Where is Chicago located?"

George Cholger: "At the bottom of Lake Michigan."

ST. JOE CAGE TEAM FETED AT BANQUET

Iosco Hotel Was Scene Of Unique Affair Held Sunday

The St. Joseph basketball teams were honored at a banquet Sunday evening at the Iosco Hotel. The dining room with its decorative array of green and white made a beautiful setting for the unique affair.

The Reverend Edwin A. Kirchhoff, as toastmaster expressed his appreciation of the excellent work achieved by the boys under the direction of Messrs. Klenow and Durant, and at the same time gave recognition of the co-operation given by the parents and friends.

Captain George Bergevin, representing the first team, expressed sentiments of appreciation to all present in behalf of the boys. Edward Martin represented the second team. Miss Jane McCray in a spirited talk lauded the boys for their fine sportsmanship. "It has not been all easy work, for our boys have had to struggle under great difficulties, but never have they been really down." "Congratulations from the school are in order," said Miss McCray. Miss Virginia St. Aubin lent color to the program by contributing an original poem giving "bits" of history of the individual players.

Other speakers on the program were George Bergevin, Sr. and Robert Elliott, while musical numbers were presented by Edward Martin, Miss Elizabeth Martin, and Miss Fidelis Bergeron. The program was brought to a close by a miniature presentation of "St. Joe's Future Team of 1945." The young hopefuls taking part were: Billy Ogden, David Bergeron, Bobby Elliott, Jimmie Lanski, George Rawley, and Robert Toska

STERLING, March 15—At the independent basketball tournament held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week at Sterling, Prescott won the tournament crown. They defeated the Sterling Merchants by a score of 25 to 8, the West Branch Tigers by a score of 17 to 16, and Standish by a score of 36 to 31.

LANSING, March 15—Application was made to the United States Bureau of Public Roads by the highway department for permission to increase Michigan's Federal Aid trunk line system by the addition of 750 miles of new road determinations, this addition to include extension of shoreline and scenic highways.

Women's Democratic Club Is Formed In Iosco County

An Iosco County Women's Democratic club was organized Monday at the home of Mrs. Henry Jackson at Whittemore. Twenty Iosco county women were present. Four women from West Branch were also in attendance.

Mrs. Clara Sargent of West Branch is in charge of the meeting and Mrs. McLeod of that city gave a very interesting talk on Democracy.

After the club was organized the following officers were elected: Mrs. Earl Hasty, president; Mrs. Otto Rahl of Hale, vice-president, and Mrs. Thomas Shannon, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Henry Jacques gave $1.00 to be used for the immediate affiliation of the newly organized club with the State Federation of Women's Democratic clubs.

Public Schools Of County Receive $28.00 State Aid

State aid for the public schools of Iosco county in the amount of $28.00 has been mailed recently to the county treasurer, according to an announcement of Paul F. Voelker, state superintendent of public instruction. The total amount of the recent release to 77 counties is $1,643,000.

The distribution represents advances on the 1934-35 Thatcher-Sias appropriation. While the total allocation is $15,000,000, it is estimated that only two-thirds of this sum will be available from retail sales and liquor tax revenues by the close of the fiscal year. A total income of $10,000,000 will make it possible to give each district two-thirds of its allocation. Districts able to finance their school programs for the current year will be given their aid later in the summer.

Ladies' Literary Club

The Ladies' Literary Club will hold its annual Mother and Daughter banquet at the club rooms Wednesday, March 20, at 6:30 p. m. HARRY TURNER, BEAL NURSERYMAN, INVENTS SEED SOWING MACHINE

Two machines for sowing pine seeds are being completed at the Beal Nursery. One of these is for use at the Licking Nursery in Missouri, chiefly for sowing short-leaf pine, one of the principal southern pines; the other will be sent to the Ware Nursery in southern Illinois where it is planned to sow Norway, white and pitch pines in addition to short-leaf.

Previous to 1925 practically all pine seed was sown by hand. In that year a machine was made at the Beal Nursery out of discarded grain-drill parts. Since then the machines have been improved so that they not only sow but also cover the seeds, thus saving a great amount of labor. The machines for all the Forest Service nurseries in the Lake states and two outside, a total of 12 seeders, have been built at the Beal Nursery.

This machine was invented by Harry C. Turner, nurseryman in charge of the Beal Nursery, and has been of great assistance in the handling of large nurseries operated by the United States Forest Service.

William Green

William Green, aged resident of East Tawas, died Saturday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Ford. Mr. Green has been failing in health for several years.

The deceased had been a resident of East Tawas and Baldwin township for 70 years. He was born February 15, 1849, at Marmor, Ontario. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. James Ford, and a grandson, Robert, to mourn his death.

The funeral services were held Monday afternoon. Burial was in Greenwood cemetery where he was laid by the side of his wife and daughter.

Dickens' Novel Exactly As It Was Conceivd

"Take no liberties with the classics!"

This seems to be an unwritten law in the meteoric shower of literary gems shortly to descend on the world in motion picture form, and its soundness is clearly manifested in "David Copperfield," the Charles Dickens classic which is playing this Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, March 17, 18 and 19, at the Family Theatre, East Tawas.

The story is filmed "exactly as Dickens wrote it" and its value is evidenced by the fact that it is one of the sensations of the screen year, hailed everywhere as an outstanding attraction.

Sixty-five stars and featured players, headed by W. C. Fields, Lionel Barrymore, Midge Evans, Maurice O'Sullivan, Edna May Oliver, Lewis Stone, Frank Lawton, Prudie Rutherford, Elizabeth Allen and Roland Young have the principal roles.

Heavy Fighting Reported as Greek Government Seeks to Put Down Insurrection—Senator Robinson Scores Huey Long in Heated Senate Session.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

THE Greek government is making a grim effort to stamp out the fast growing revolt which started in Crete and has spread to the mainland. Greek government planes bombed the home in Crete of former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, and also struck at five naval vessels manned by rebels standing off the shore of Crete. Venizelos is openly heading the forces of sedition, and reports say, has seized $1,000,000 from the Canea treasury to finance the revolt.

Martial law prevails throughout the country; rail, telephone and telegraphic communications have been cut off and normal activities suspended. Heavy fighting with serious losses on both sides have been reported in the Struma valley, and in the Macedonian city of Kavalla. Fear has been expressed that the country will be plunged into a factional civil war of unestimated proportions. The government has offered amnesty to the rebel troops if they capitulate peacefully.

Saloniki harbor has been heavily mined in preparation for an attack by the rebel fleet, and land batteries have been reinforced by heavy caliber naval guns. Eight additional classes have been called to the colors as wounded troops pour into Saloniki from the battlefield. The government claims 100,000 loyal troops, 60 airplanes and a quantity of heavy motorized artillery are ready, although good part of this equipment is said to be old and defective.

A report from Alexandria claims that Venizelos has abandoned Crete and fled toward Egypt.

The rebellion had been plotted for a whole year, and broke when 20 naval officers, both active and retired, seized the Salamis arsenal. As the revolt spread, rebels boarded the five warships while the crews were ignorant of the plan, and put under steam. Government planes were dispatched to the scene and pursued the rebel ships down the Aegean sea. The cruiser Averoff was struck by an aerial bomb while the vessel lay in Souda bay, near Crete, and two other ships were reported to have been overtaken and bombed near the island of Cythera with undetermined damage.

MINUTIVE King Prajadhipok of Siam has renounced his throne, relinquishing his claims to be known as "brother of the moon and possessor of 24 umbrellas," assumed the simpler, if still unpronounceable name of Prince Sukhodaya, and retired to the simple life of an English country gentleman. By his action, the ex-monarch set a record, for it is probably the first time in history that a ruler has abandoned power because his government rejected his demands for greater freedom and democratic control for his people. "My intention that the people should have a real voice in the policy of the government has been ineffective," the ex-king wrote in his message of abdication. "Since I realize that now there is no longer any way of my assisting or protecting the people in the future, I hereby renounce all rights which I had as king or rights of succession, but I reserve the rights which I had formerly enjoyed before accession to the throne." Prince Ananda, nephew of Prajadhipok, has accepted the throne, reports state. The prince, now eleven years old, is attending school in Lausanne.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, jurist, scholar, soldier and gentleman, is dead. Two days before his ninety-fourth birthday, the beloved "great dissenter" succumbed to the ravages of pneumonia. The next day in the somber Supreme court chamber, the court led by Chief Justice Hughes paid tribute to the man whose career, he said, had been one of "unique distinction." Justice Hughes' voice choked as he spoke. The grind of legislation and the disputes of the day were forgotten in congress as both the house and senate paused while glowing words were said in memory of the retired justice. Funeral services were held in Washington, attended by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and members of the Supreme court. After the ceremony, Holmes was given military burial in Arlington National cemetery, as befitted one who had served his nation so gallantly. Justice Holmes was born in Boston, the son of the noted American poet of the same name. He entered Harvard and was in his senior year when the Civil war began. He enlisted as a lieutenant, was promoted to a captaincy and retired with the rank of colonel. He was wounded three times. After the war he returned to school and obtained his law degree. In 1882, Holmes was elevated to the Supreme court of Massachusetts, and in 1902, President Roosevelt appointed him to the United States Supreme court. On October 4, 1928, when he was eighty-seven years old, he became the oldest man ever to sit on the bench of the Supreme court. He retired in January, 1932.

SENATE administration leaders have decided to virtually abolish NRA when it expires in June, and set up in its place a plan of self-government in business, eliminating present coercive measures, and giving over administrative functions of the new program to the federal trade commission. This would end one of the administration's most spectacular and far-reaching experiments. In its general form, the plan calls for permission to join in voluntary codes regulating trade practices and eliminating unfair competition. Price fixing will be outlawed. Business and industry will agree to minimum wages and maximum hours, and only when these standards are violated, can the government apply compulsory codes.

At the same time United States District Judge W. G. Borah, in New Orleans, denied a government petition to compel a box manufacturer to comply with the maximum hour and minimum wage provisions of the lumber code, ruling that the national industrial recovery act is unconstitutional. The ruling is expected to bring before the United States Supreme court the constitutionality of the interstate commerce clause of the lumber code.

THAT "ancient repository of dignity," the senate, has been treated to an exhibition of personalities, vituperation, barely avoided fist encounters, and general uproar centering about Senator Long that should set a record for even that august body. Goaded into action by the almost daily tirades of Louisiana's Kingfish, majority leader, Joe Robinson of Arkansas arose white with rage and let loose a castigation designed to blast the irrepressible Long into submission. Robinson appealed to the senate to assert itself and put Long, whom he called "a madman," in his place. Vice President Garner and more than a dozen senators shook hands with Robinson when he closed, and galleries applauded until the chair threatened to clear them. It had no perceptible effect on Long other than to cause him to rush back to the senate chamber, and renew his attack on Robinson.

The next day Huey precipitated another verbal free-for-all when he resumed his one-man campaign against Postmaster General Farley and the New Deal in general. Long charged that Farley was instrumental in quashing an indictment against a bank in which Norman Davis, "ambassador at large," was interested. For his trouble Kingfish received a liberal supply of ridicule. He also sent to the senate post office committee a letter in which the accusation was made that Farley is "profiting" from 25 business concerns in New York city, involving violation of four criminal statutes. When questioned, Farley said he had no statement to make.

S. CLAY WILLIAMS, head of the NRA, tendered his resignation to the President, starting what is expected to be a wholesale housecleaning of the recovery administration's high command. Chairman Williams explained his action by saying that he had to return to his job as head of one of the country's largest tobacco companies. Three of the four remaining members of the board, Arthur D. Whiteside, Walton Hamilton, and Sidney Hillman, are known to have their resignations ready. Rumors say that the President will not fill the vacancies, but will return the NRA to a one-man command.

MONEY markets of the world reacted violently after President Roosevelt declared his administration would seek further jacking up of commodity prices. Stocks rallied in New York, government bonds sagged, and the falling British pound rose four cents. The President hurriedly issued another statement explaining that his advocacy of higher prices did not mean further devaluation of the dollar, at least not for the present. The first statement was made by the President at a press conference when he was asked if he believed prices had now risen sufficiently to warrant stabilization. He replied that they had not; that they were still too low in relation to debts.

ITALIAN government officials state that nearly 1,000 aviators and several squadrons of planes have sailed for East Africa, and that a second wave of troops has been started to join the 20,000 already massed in Somaliland. General Graziana has been named governor of Somaliland and commander of the troops.

THERE seems to be no doubt about the "pink slip" clause in the income tax law being repealed. Overwhelming sentiment for its abolishment has been expressed in both houses of congress, and the house ways and means committee has already approved the resolution offered by Chairman Doughton. Polls taken disclose a heavy majority in the senate favor repeal, and both Democratic and Republican house leaders are pledged to lend their strength to prompt passage of the measure. Congressional decision on the "pink slips" must be registered before March 15.

BY A vote of 23 to 1 the house ways and means committee approved the Vinson bonus bill, and gave the rival Patman bill a possible edge. The committee instructed Chairman Doughton to ask a wide open rule permitting inflationists to move the Patman measure as a substitute on the floor. Patman supporters claim the house will pass the first bonus bill brought up, but conservatives are working to jockey the "printing press money" measure out of preferred position. The Vinson bill is favored by the American Legion.

DONALD RICHBURG, executive director of the National Emergency council, and one of the closest advisers of the President, "guaranteed" that there would be no monetary inflation as long as Franklin D. Roosevelt is President. His statement came in answer to a questioner at a lecture in Boston.

"If we are to assume that President Roosevelt will be President for the next six years, I can tell you this: I can guarantee there will be no inflation while Franklin D. Roosevelt is President," Richburg said.

He dodged further discussion of the subject, and refused to comment as to what was being done by the government internationally and nationally on monetary policies. However, Richburg did touch on the Townsend plan for payment of $200 monthly to all persons over sixty. He said:

"If everybody over sixty is to get $200 a month, you can be certain it is going to come out of the pockets of everybody between eighteen and sixty. When those under sixty have arrived at the unselfish attitude where they are ready to dig to pay everybody over sixty the $200 a month, there will have been a tremendous spread of real Christianity. But the government can't get the money out of thin air."

Richburg flatly denied that the government was issuing baby bonds because bankers had refused to lend the government money, and asserted that several billion dollars more could be borrowed without endangering national credit.

THE American Federation of Labor proposes to find out immediately what are its chances of fully organizing the workers employed in the automobile industry—and if Doctor Wolman's figures are correct it is likely the federation is doomed to be greatly disappointed. The method adopted is the calling of a secret strike vote among members of the 176 federation locals in the industry. Organizer Francis J. Dillon explained this did not necessarily mean there would be a strike, only the federation's national officers having authority to order such action.

"Now is the time to find out, once and for all," he said, "whether the workers in the automobile industry want the American Federation of Labor. If they want the union, we will find it out through these strike votes. If they don't, well . . ."

THE automobile industry is in the midst of the busiest season it has had since 1930. The great majority of its workers are not in the federation ranks and probably would not strike; but its plants could be seriously crippled by strikes in allied industries. Perhaps the American Federation of Labor leaders have some way of explaining how all this would help on the cause of national industrial recovery.

SECRETARY OF STATE CORDELL HULL encountered his third success in carrying out his policy of restoring foreign trade by concluding a series of reciprocal agreements with other nations, when a trade treaty with Belgium was signed. Although not entirely satisfactory to Secretary Hull, it was nevertheless a step along the way. The Belgians gave us a tariff or quota concessions on a number of our exports, including automobiles and parts, calculating machines, radios, grapefruit, pears, oatmeal and corn starch. We cut tariffs on plate glass, glass sand, iron and steel mill products, linen fabrics, lace and cement. Reciprocal agreements have been previously concluded with Cuba and Brazil.

Develops New Vaccine for Bacterial Diseases

ONE of the most promising developments in recent years in the field of vaccine therapy was recently announced by the University of California on the basis of research results obtained by Dr. A. P. Krueger, associate professor of bacteriology. Professor Krueger has developed a mechanical method of preparing vaccines or antigens for the treatment and prevention of bacterial diseases. Ordinarily vaccines contain the cell contents of disease bacteria which have been killed by heat or chemicals. It is Doctor Krueger's conclusion that the consistent failure of many of these preparations is due to alterations in the protein of the bacteria induced by the heat or chemicals used to kill them. To eliminate this undesirable reaction he has perfected a mill, consisting of a cylinder containing several thousand stainless-steel ball-bearings which kills bacteria without denaturation of the protein within them. The effectiveness of this method of preparing vaccines has been clearly demonstrated in the treatment of whooping cough and of sinus infections. During a recent epidemic of whooping cough 232 children were treated with the Krueger vaccine and 165 with another type of vaccine. Only 47 per cent of the children receiving the old type of vaccine showed fair or good results, while the Krueger pertussis antigen, as it is called, brought about good or fair results in 90 per cent of the cases. Tests of the similarly prepared antigen for sinus infections have brought about cures or satisfactory improvement in 90 per cent or more of three series of 45, 62 and 50 cases. Next Doctor Krueger will test the new type antigen on common colds.

DANNY MEADOW MOUSE IS IN A TIGHT PLACE

DANNY MEADOW MOUSE was having a good time on the bank of the Smiling Pool. He laughed at Grandfather Frog's fear that he was taking a foolish risk. It was true that he was a long way from home with its many secret hiding places which made it comparatively safe in times of danger. But Danny wasn't worrying. As he had told Grandfather Frog, he doesn't believe in worrying until there is something to worry about.

So, this being the first time he had visited the Smiling Pool for a long time, he made the most of it. One of the first things he did was to get a good long drink. You see, there had been no rain for a long time, and Danny had had hard work to keep from being thirsty most of the time. Then he asked Grandfather Frog for all the news of the Smiling Pool—how his big

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

FOR THE BUSY HOUSEKEEPER

IN MANY homes fresh cookies are so much more enjoyed than a large amount baked at one time. Here is the ice-box cookie which may be kept many days and when a tin of fresh cookies is wanted, slice off a few, put them in the oven and bake them as brown as you like.

Ice-Box Cookies.

Take one cupful each of butter, brown and granulated sugar, two eggs, one teaspoonful each of salt and soda, one cupful of nutmeats, one teaspoonful each of almond and vanilla extract and four and one-fourth cupfuls of flour. Cream the butter, add the sugar, eggs and other ingredients. Roll into two rolls and let stand on a cloth in a pan placed in the ice box. The cloth keeps the dough from flattening and sticking to the pan and thus losing its round shape. Slice very thin, decorate with half a nut meat, a raisin or cherry as one's taste suggests.

Another food so much liked in all our homes, is fresh rolls. It takes time to prepare a light and crisp roll. Here is a recipe which will keep for a week or longer in the ice chest and a pan of biscuits may be baked any time one cares to serve them:

Ice Box Rolls.

Dissolve two compressed yeast cakes in one-fourth of a cupful of warm water, adding two teaspoonfuls of sugar. Add two tablespoonfuls of shortening, one tablespoonful of salt, one-half cupful of sugar to a pint of boiling water. Beat two eggs and mix all together

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: I have a boy friend who always says: "Life would be great if it were not for two things." He never tells me what the two things are. Do you know?

Truly yours,
P. ROXIDE.

Answer: The two things he refers to are "Blonds and Brunettes."

Dear Mr. Wynn: If a gentleman had trouble with his voice and can't talk goat, what is wrong mit him? Has he a horse in de troat or has he a colt in de head?

Yours,
A. WEENER SCHNITZEL.

Answer: Maybe both.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am engaged to be married and my intended husband gave me an engagement ring with a diamond in it. My father says it is an imitation diamond and I say it is genuine. Will you please tell me how to find out if it is imitation or genuine?

Truly yours,
PEARL NECLASS.

Answer: Try to soak it.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a boy ten years old and go to public school. My English teacher gave me this question: "The liquor, what the man bought, was soon drunk." She told me the sentence is wrong and wants me to correct it. Will you correct it for me?

Yours truly,
G. WHIZITS HARDE.

Answer: Instead of "The liquor, what the man bought, was soon drunk," it should be "The man, what bought the liquor, was soon drunk."

Monte Cristo's Famous Prison for Sale

THE famous Chateau D'If, off the coast of Marseilles, France, is now for sale. The prison on the island is the one in which the storied Count of Monte Cristo was incarcerated for so many years before he finally made his escape as the dead abbe. After being cast into the sea the count (Edmond Dantes) was saved from death when picked up by river pirates. The owner of the chateau is desirous of selling it and anyone seeking one perfectly good prison can have it at a bargain.

TRUE GHOST STORIES

By WINNIE LIGHTNER
Actress

"SUDDEN gusts of wind are dreadful to me," confessed Winnie Lightner. "They bring to me the ghost of a man who was always fleeing from the wind, a man who one night, in the middle of a vaudeville skit, confessed to me that he was a murderer."

"From the day this man, who was called 'Sloe,' joined our company gusts of wind seemed to sweep across the theater whenever our company played."

"This man had a habit of entering doors suddenly, as though he had come on a run—propelled by a power greater than himself—and of slamming doors behind him so that windows rattled."

"We always knew when he arrived through the stage entrance because of the slamming of doors and a rush of air which seemed to sweep across the stage and to rush down the halls and through the dressing rooms."

"He never left a door open behind him. It seemed that, almost without his help, doors slammed behind him. People in the company who crossed his path declared that he seemed always to walk in a wind; and that when he would rush away from them, they all agreed that the wind would seem to die away as if it followed him, and that, moreover, the sweet odor which seemed to fill the wind which followed him would die out, too."

"Every one around him grew to dread and fear his presence."

"One night, when he was to give one of the poor little lines against which I was to crack my silly little jokes and smart comment, I was suddenly terrified at his intensity."

"He was to say, 'You wouldn't go back on a chap like me, would you?'"

"Instead, a sudden swish of air filled with a strange unpleasantly sweet odor blew across the stage, he shuddered and, brandishing his arms before me, cried in terror-stricken tones: 'You wouldn't go back on a murderer like me, would you?'"

"Then he flew off the stage with a great slamming of doors and the rattling of stage fixtures."

"I don't know what comments I made on the stage. I was completely baffled until a few hours later, when the police telephoned me to say that a man who worked in my company had killed himself, and that I should come to identify the body."

"Sloe had made a full confession. It seems he had killed his young wife in a sudden burst of fury over some trifle and had buried her in the garden of their small home on the outskirts of an Illinois town. He then fled. No one had missed them, because they were a strange couple, who made no friends."

"After his confession they found her grave. Across their little garden, police reported, was a wide row where the trees and the lilac bushes and the grass were pressed flat toward the east, as though a great and continuous wind had been blowing across that place for many days and nights."

"The thing that impressed me about his confession was the final sentence. It read: 'The wind blew all night.'"

"That's why I don't like to hear the wind at night. Can you blame me?"

By LAWSON ROBERTSON
Olympic Coach

LAWSON ROBERTSON remembers a weird and ghostly happening at a motor cycle race in 1912.

"The night before the race," he narrated, "the racers met at Brighton Beach, N. Y. They had come from all parts of the country. There was a circuit of motor cycle racetracks—one in Buffalo, one in Brooklyn, St. Louis and Newark. The men met at Brighton Beach for a jolly get-together dinner before their race in Newark."

"Before the dinner Arthur Chappell lit a match, gave it to John Albright to light his cigarette, then to Eddie Hasha to light his and then raised the same match to his own cigarette."

"He jumped from his chair so abruptly that he startled every one around him."

"I lit three cigarettes on one match," he exclaimed. 'I'd give anything not to have done that.'"

During the race something went wrong with Albright's motor cycle and Albright, Hasha and six spectators were killed."

Menus Are Endless

The menus in French are endless; the variety is overwhelming. The basic foodstuffs are abundant in this land. It is simply a matter of knowing how. And savoir faire applies to your French chef. He takes such a lowly worm as a snail, or such a croaking amphibian as a frog, or such a slimy snake as an eel, and delivers a plate of resistance that makes your mouth water.

Plan Carefully

When having electricity put into the home, have fixtures placed with a view to a combination of service and attractive arrangement. So often the general effect of a room is lovely, but when one desires to read or sew it is next to impossible to obtain a good light for these purposes.

Foreign Lotteries Are Put Under Ban

Postal Department Renews Drive on Swindles.

Washington.—The federal government is strengthening its barriers against sweepstakes and other foreign lotteries. Customs inspection is being strengthened at borders and other ports of entry, and a series of nets has been woven to enmesh ticket counterfoils shipped back to foreign agents. Seizures have increased rapidly in recent months.

Forty thousand sweepstakes tickets were confiscated recently by federal agents in post offices in Boston and Philadelphia. Three trunkfuls were seized in an express office in Buffalo. Quantities ranging from single tickets brought in by individual foreign travelers to hundreds of books of the flimsies smuggled across the Canadian border are being taken almost daily by customs officers. Mail sacks full of tickets and counterfoils seized in post offices all over the country are being shoveled more frequently now than formerly into the big furnace in the basement of the dead letter office at Washington.

Growth of Traffic.

Traffic in foreign lotteries has grown enormously in the United States in the last four years. The annual loss to the American people is estimated at more than $10,000,000. No estimate is available of the additional millions lost through the purchase of counterfeit tickets, but single seizures by the government have involved more than $500,000 worth of such "phonies." Investigation of a Cuban lottery whose agents were reported to have sold 3,000,000 tickets in the United States revealed only 100,000 tickets entered in the drawing.

Operators of the Irish sweepstakes have boasted that they take $1,000,000 net profit out of the United States on a single lottery. This figure was greatly exceeded last year, when more than 2,000,000 tickets at $2.50 each were sold in this country on the Cambridge-shire lottery operated by the Irish Free State. Of the 2,000,000 buyers there were less than 1,000 winners. For every winner there were more than 2,000 losers, and all who held counterfoils lost.

There are three Irish sweeps a year, based upon the running of the English derby at Epsom Downs, the Cambridge-shire at Newmarket and the Grand National at Aintree. Other big lotteries for which tickets are sold in the United States are the French National, Cuban National, Mexican National and the Canadian Army and Navy lottery. The government recently confiscated tickets on a lottery in Morocco.

Warnings to Post Offices.

Lists of names of foreign sweepstakes and other lottery ticket sellers against whom fraud orders have been issued by the government are sent each month to 15,000 post offices. Special complications of names and addresses go to twenty-four postal exchange stations through which all mail for Canada, Cuba, Irish Free State, France and Luxembourg must clear. No money orders can be drawn to these persons, and all mail addressed to them must be returned to senders. More than 750 orders have been issued since last August.

Since many persons are not willing to claim the returned letters and thereby admit complicity in a lottery, in violation of the United States penal code, the cash contents often go into the United States treasury and the lottery counterfoils are destroyed. Coming in by mail, the tickets run a gauntlet of watchful postal agents, adept at detecting fraudulent material, no matter how skillfully it may be concealed in rolled newspapers, books, clothing and first-class mail matter.

Conservation Areas

Sanctuaries, reservations, preserves and reserves are the names used by states and local divisions as well as in original executive orders and acts of congress to designate such areas in setting them apart. Preserve originally indicated an area for protection of wild life and reserve designated an area for breeding game for hunting. Game refuge is the name preferred by the biological survey in referring to such government areas.—Pathfinder Magazine.

BOY SCOUT ANNIVERSARY

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Boy Scout movement in America was recently celebrated in every city of our country. It was a notable event when on the evening of February 8th, the President of our country, flanked by a guard of honor composed of boys from the Scout movement, delivered a brief address to the Scouts of America.

Prominent among the traits of character which the Boy Scout movement tries to inculcate into the developing life of the boys of our country is persistence to overcome obstacles, which again is reflected in the oath which every boy takes when he joins the organization: "To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight." We can well imagine that Lincoln was in spirit at least a real Scout. The principles of the Scout oath dominated his life. By obedience to them he rose from the ranks of poverty to the highest position in our country. Since Lincoln's day, other men of our age have followed the same Scout principle. Woodrow Wilson rose from the humble home of a country parson to become President of a great university, governor of the state of New Jersey, and then President of the United States. Charles Augustus Lindbergh, whose mother taught in the public schools of Detroit,

Kid McCoy Shines Again

Norman Selby, better known as Kid McCoy, one-time ring star and idol of old-time fight fans, is now being considered as the outstanding civilian hero of the past year in Michigan by the Rainbow Veterans Association for its annual award. McCoy was largely instrumental in the saving of 11 people, including four children, when a row-boat overturned in Bass lake, near Detroit, last summer. Two lives were lost in the tragedy, but McCoy's timely warning and assistance was largely instrumental in saving the others. The ring veteran, now sixty-three, has been employed at the Ford Motor company since his parole from San Quentin prison, where he was serving a life term for manslaughter.

overcome by the Scout spirit the limitations of financial income, and made for himself an heroic place in the history of our country. Obstacles created by hardships such as limited incomes, physical handicaps, can be overcome. Instead of being a curse, they may become a blessing. We appreciate something when we have to sacrifice for it much more than when it is handed to us on a silver platter.

Long live the Scout movement! Its rugged life and high ideals have in them the making of true Americans. It is a magnificent sight to visualize a million boys daily doing a good turn, and being trained under expert leadership for the future citizenship of our country.

GREAT CITY'S TRAGEDIES

There are 500 stone slabs in the morgue of Bellevue hospital, New York city, and most of these are occupied continuously with human bodies brought in from all parts of the city. They are for the most part victims of murders, accidents, suicides, even starvation. Sometimes additional resting places for corpses must be improvised.

Doctors Know!

... and they use liquid laxatives

You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel. A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help—and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without aid.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit. It relieves a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. To relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. The druggist has it.

Electric Power—In the Making

Looking upstream at the Norris dam, being built by the Tennessee Valley authority on the Clinch river, near Knoxville, Tenn. The dam, as this picture shows, is more than one-third complete. The various sections of the dam now rise more than 100 feet above their solid rock bases. When completed the dam will be 200 feet high and will cost more than $34,000,000. Note the ends of the two huge penstocks, each more than 20 feet in diameter, between the third and fourth buttress-like sections of the dam. These tubes will pour the dammed-up waters of the Clinch river into turbines for generating electricity. A big powerhouse is to be built at the end of the tubes shown in this picture, and just back of the high retaining wall, projecting from the third section of the dam.

The Six Toughest

The six toughest plants in the United States are the cottonwood, rabbit bush, aromatic sumach, a shrubby penny-royal, a yucca and the peculiar gymnosperm, Ephedra. They are so hardy that they are able to maintain themselves in the White Sands of New Mexico, a deposit that is 98 per cent pure gypsum, located in an area entirely without rainfall.

Mount Shasta

Mount Shasta is a peak of the Sierra
Nevada range, in Siskiyou county,
California. Its height is given as 14,
161 feet. It is conical in form, of volcanic origin and has three glaciers on its summit.

Lime Trees

Lime trees are cultivated extensiv-ly throughout the West Indies, especially in Dominica, Montserrat and Jamaica, and to some extent on the Florida Keys and mainland, but only in the extreme south.

Registration Notice

For All Elections Held April 1, 1935 To the Qualified Electors of the City of Tawas City, State of Michigan:

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law," I, the undersigned City Clerk will, upon any day except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said City not already registered who may APPLY TO ME PERSONALLY for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the time intervening between the Second Saturday before any regular, special, or official primary election and the day of such election.

The last day for General Registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters' Law. (See Registration by Affidavit.)
Notice is hereby given that I will be at my office
Tuesday, March 12th, 1935
The Twentieth Day Preceding Said Election
As provided by Sec. 3, Chapter 3, Part II, Michigan Election Law—Revision of 1934.
from 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m. on said day for the purpose of Reviewing the Registration and Registering such of the qualified electors in said City as Shall Properly Apply therefor.

Notice is hereby further given to the Qualified Electors of this City that I, the undersigned Clerk of said City, will register qualified electors who may apply at my office on any business day in the year up to and including Saturday, March 23, 1935—Last Day for General Registration by personal application for said election.
The name of no person but an ACTUAL RESIDENT of the precinct at the time of registration, and entitled under the constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election shall be entered in the registration book.
Registration by Affidavit
Sec. 10—Registering of Electors:—Any absent voter, as defined in this act, whose name is not registered and who shall claim the right to vote by absent voter's ballot at any election or primary election, may at the time of making application for absent voter's ballot, present to the City Clerk an affidavit for registration which shall be in substantially the following form:

Affidavit for Registration
State of Michigan, County of.....
I,..... being duly sworn, depose and say that I am a citizen and duly qualified elector of the..... Ward of the City of..... in the County of..... and State of Michigan; that my postoffice address is No..... Street..... or R. F. D. No..... P. O..... that I am not now registered as an elector therein and that I am voting by absent voter's ballot at the election (or primary election) to be held upon the..... day of..... 1935, the application for which ballot accompanies this application; that I make this affidavit for the purpose of procuring my registration as an elector in accordance with the statute; that I make the following statements in compliance with the Michigan Election Law: Age.....; Race.....; Birthplace.....; Date of naturalization..... I further swear and affirm that the answers given to the above questions concerning my qualifications as an elector are true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Signed.....
*Taken, subscribed and sworn to before me this..... day of..... 1935.
My Commission expires.....
Notary Public in and for said County, State of Michigan.
Upon receipt of such affidavit in the time specified herein, the clerk shall write in the registration book the name of the applicant together with the other information required by this chapter and such applicant shall thereupon be deemed to be duly and properly registered.
*Note—If this acknowledgment is taken outside of the State, the Certificate of the Court that the person taking the acknowledgment is a notary must be attached.
Registration of Absentee By Oath
If any person whose name is not registered shall offer and claim the right to vote at any election, or primary election, and shall UNDEFO OATH, state that he or she is a resident of such precinct and has resided in the CITY TWENTY DAYS next preceding such election, designating particularly the place of his or her residence and that he or she possesses the other qualifications of an elector under the constitution; and that, owing to the sickness or bodily infirmity of himself or herself, or some member of his or her family or owing to his or her absence from the City on public business, or his or her own business, and without intent to avoid or delay his or her registration, he or she was unable to make application for registration on the last day provided by law for the registering of electors preceding such election, then the name of such person shall be registered, and he or she shall then be permitted to vote at such election. If such applicant shall in said matter, wilfully make any false statement, he or she shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction, be subject to the pains and penalties thereof.
Provided, that any city may provide by its charter or by resolution approved by a majority of the members of its legislative body for the registration of such sick and absent voters on the last Saturday preceding any election or primary election at the places of voting in the several voting districts of such city, instead of on election or primary election day.
Provision in Case of Removal to Another Precinct
Any registered and qualified voter who has REMOVED from ONE ELECTION PRECINCT of the City to another election precinct of the City shall have the right, on any day previous to election day, on application to the City Clerk, to have his or her name transferred from the registration book of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED to the registration book of the precinct in which he or she THEN RESIDES. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made ON ELECTION DAY, or Primary Election day, by obtaining from the board of inspectors of election of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED a CERTIFICATE OF TRANSFER, and presenting the said certificate to the BOARD OF ELECTION INSPECTORS OF THE PRECINCT IN WHICH HE OR SHE THEN RESIDES.

Dated March 5th, A. D., 1935.
WILL C. DAVIDSON, City Clerk

MEN who study haulage costs know that Chevrolet trucks are as outstanding in economy and durability as they are in price. Chevrolet trucks handle tough hauling jobs day after day at small operating cost, because they are built to Chevrolet's own high standards of quality in every part. The powerful six-cylinder valve-in-head engines are truck motors, especially designed to give sustained pulling power. Features that assure stamina and long life are evident in every detail of the precision-engineered chassis. Chevrolet trucks offer maximum capacity, economy and quality—because Chevrolet is the world's largest builder of trucks.

PATTERN 2163

If you are a little tired of the general run of house frocks you'll enjoy the trimly tailored lines of this design, with its unusual buttoned-down collar and buttoned-under sleeves. For it's one of those casual shirtwaist styles—so very popular nowadays—and it has a slenderizing panel up the front, to make it very becoming to the larger figure. The way the bodice is gathered to the youthful yoke and slotted at the back is not only very smart but it gives the comfortable fullness that women demand of house frocks. Made of cotton broadcloth, or printed pique this dress would be charming and every bit as chic as a sports frock!

Pattern 2163 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 24, 28, 32, 36, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 3 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

DICK TAPPITT put down his glass of applejack and looked across at Garrison with eyes that shone. "Maybe you've heard of grander, crazier guys than Sam," he said; "I never have."

"And you mean to tell me," the publicity man asked, "that he deliberately broke his leg so you and Mollie would take this job? Man, what a story!"

He pulled a scratch pad toward him and began scribbling notes on it. The two were alone in his office, near the west end of Zenith studio's administration building. Dick Tappitt lounged back on the big leather davenport and approved.

"Good! This is something I'd really like to see played up. It might help Sam get a better break, and that's what I want more than anything else. He's the best honest-to-Pete pal a man ever had, and I—well, I feel as if I'd given him kind of a raw deal."

"You see, Sam, and I've been hoofing together for about three years—five-a-day routine on the small time back East. Six months ago we met Mollie; she was on the same bill with us in St. Joe. Well, right away Sam wanted her to join, so after the show he looked her up, they had a talk, and next day we were rehearsing a new trio song-and-dance act."

"Mollie did worlds for us," he went on; "she added the sex appeal and the touch of class our stuff had been needing. What's more, we all got along well together. In a way, though, that was the rub: before long both Sam and I were nuts about Mollie."

"She wasn't the sort of a girl to bust things up by being partial, so she handled us with kid gloves. Still, Sam could guess what I knew: that Mollie really cared for me. Understand, I'm not taking anything for granted; Sam talked to me and offered best wishes the day before we left to come out here. That's the kind of 24-karat boy he is, and ever since then he's tried to help us along and ease himself out of the picture. But I wouldn't have that."

He lit a cigarette, rose, and commenced to walk about the room. It was evident the situation affected him deeply. Garrison wore a look of encouraging interest and kept pencil poised above paper. This, he knew, was first-rate material on a subject worthy of attention. Mollie Hoppe and Dick Tappitt were certain to become as famous as any dancing team in pictures. The screen test of them he'd seen today established that.

"We were getting up in the game," Dick resumed; "making a hit on the bigger circuits. But we all knew there wasn't much further to go; vaudeville's a very sick business these days. So we pooled our dough, bought a diver, and steamed West. We had some fancy ideas about what we'd do when we hit Hollywood; but a month of pounding the pavements and chasing agents after we got here cured those."

"That was when Sam began to do his stuff. First he took an usher's job to keep us going, then he landed Mollie and me a tryout in a cabaret down at the beach. And now—now he's pulled this. What a d—n fool—and what a prince!"

"Just how did this leg-breaking business happen?" asked Garrison. The dancer grinned to hide his emotion. "Well, when we clicked in the beach job, we wanted to have Sam back with us, but he stalled and said he guessed he'd stick with what he had. Of course I knew the answer: by that time Mollie and I weren't hiding our feelings much, and Sam thought he'd be in the way."

"Poor guy—he sure had the wrong slant! Mollie felt bad about it, and naturally I did too. I mean, after loving her to me and then with all he'd done for us, it seemed just plain lousy, to have him cut out of the act. That's why when this offer came along, we said nothing doing unless Sam's included. It was Mollie's idea, and I backed her up strong."

"Well, sir, Sam goes out to the ABC plant, tells 'em he's an experienced stunt man, and gets on as a parachute jumper. They sent him up to bail out at a thousand feet, and he on purpose doesn't pull the cord until he's two hundred feet from ground. See the scheme? He knew if he had an accident that laid him up, we'd sign on here."

"Mollie went over to the hospital to visit him; that's why she's late for this conference. I wanted to go along, but—Gee, what can you say to a bird like that? First I let him support me, then I glam on all the good breaks, and finally I grab off the girl he loves—and this is how he hits back! Lord, it sure gets me!"

As he dropped down on the divan again, a bell rang. Garrison picked up the phone at his elbow, said: "Yes?" "McSweeney of the Journal," a crisp voice announced; "what's the lowdown on this thing the dancer you were raving over just pulled?"

"I haven't," said Louis after an instant, "the cockeyed notion who or what you're talking about."

"Come on—cut it, will ya? You know d—n well what I mean. That Mollie Hopp you claim is due to be a wop phoned the license bureau from Good Samaritan hospital ten minutes ago; she wants to file notice of intention with some bird named Sam Trotter. One of my boys called her and asked for details, but all she said was she'd just found out how close sympathy is to love. Now what's the an gle?"

The Man From Yonder

By HAROLD TITUS

Copyright 1928-1934, Harold Titus.

THE STORY FROM THE BEGINNING

Ben Elliott—from "Yonder"—arrives at the lumbering town of Tincup, with Don Stuart, old, very sick man, whom he has befriended. He defeats Bull Duval, "king of the river," and town bully, in a log-birling contest. Nicholas Brandon, the town's leading citizen, resents Stuart's presence, trying to force him to leave town and Elliott, resenting the act, knocks him down. Elliott is arrested and finds a friend in Judge Able Armitage. The Judge hires him to run the one lumber camp, the Hoot Owl, that Brandon has not been able to grab. This belongs to Dawn McManus, daughter of Brandon's old partner, who has disappeared with a murder charge hanging over his head. Brandon sends Duval to beat up Ben, and Ben worsts him in a fist fight and throws him out of camp. Don Stuart dies, leaving a letter for Elliott "to be used when the going becomes too tough." Ben refuses to open the letter, believing he can win the fight by his own efforts. Fire breaks out in the mill. Ben, leading the victorious fight against the flames that threatened to win the fight for Brandon, discovers the fire was started with gasoline. Elliott gets an offer of spot cash for logs, that will provide money to tide him over. But a definite time limit is set.

"I saw your trail. That is, I . . ." How different, this beginning, from the manner of address he had planned! He felt called upon, now, to explain his presence on her trail rather than to demand a reason for her being there. "I saw your trail," he began again, "and I thought . . . It seemed to me you might be a little lost."

"As a matter of fact, I am completely turned around," she said. "It was silly of me to come into the woods, especially on a day like this, without a compass. But I did . . . and here I am!" She was eyeing him closely, now, as though searching for some special detail of face or figure.

Lost! He thought: a lost Diana! "I kept losing my bearings and had trouble getting oriented and am getting a little tired. It was so silly! Down-right stupid! If you know this country you can set me right. I should be back in Tincup before long or they'll worry."

Ben wondered quickly and irrelevantly, who they might be. Yes, he could get her out. In a half hour he could have her in his camp and send her on her way to town. . . . But in a half hour . . . And with her manner so clearly hostile for no reason at all? . . . She impressed him as a young woman most desirable to know well and also as one whose confidence would be slow in acquiring.

"Lost, eh?" he asked and laughed oddly. "Matter of fact, I came out without a compass myself." That was truth. He needed no compass for a short swing such as he had made today; his sound woodsman's instinct would hold him safe.

"Well, that complicates matters," the girl said drily. "I've got to get out of this timber and I'm not good for much more travel in this sort of going. I haven't been on webs in several years and I've gone further than I should have."

"By George, that's too bad!" he said and hoped that none of his men, who would be trekking into camp by now, would shout or sing so their voices would break down the illusion of empty distances surrounding them which evidently possessed the girl. "Too bad! It's getting dark sure enough but it isn't very late. If you could sit down and get your wind, now—"

"But what good will that do? If we stay here until it's really dark there may be no getting out until morning. All I have with me is a cake of chocolate and the prospect of a hungry, cold night in the woods with you isn't alluring."

Ben rubbed his chin. "I'm sorry. If the impression I make is as bad as—"

"I meant nothing personal. But I don't know you. I don't fancy being lost with anyone, let alone a stranger."

He thought she almost smiled, as if relenting a bit from her brusqueness. "Look!" he said, pointing aloft to where a break in the clouds near the zenith let about the last of the daylight through. "It's going to clear. We'll have stars directly. Let me build a little shelter and a fire here. A few minutes of rest will do a lot of good and with stars we can get anywhere."

She hesitated, seeming to consider. "All right, I must admit the last half hour's going has been hard."

Out came his belt ax, off went the lower limbs of young hemlocks. In less than it would take an ordinary man to lop the branches he had a bench of trampled snow on a knoll covered with aromatic boughs and a thick windbreak of them behind it. Then, attacking a huge birch stub he peeled off a quantity of louse bark. This he lighted from a match carried in a tightly corked bottle and as the quickly burning stuff shed a comfortable glow on the bower he had built, he knocked dead branches from a hemlock, fed them to the flame and then turned to a nearby dry top of a fallen maple, knocking off substantial faggots.

By the time he finished this the girl had shaken off her snowshoes, stuck them on end in the snow and was sitting on the couch he had built for her. She eyed the fire as he stood erect, drawing off his gloves and spreading his big hands to the warmth.

"Strange," she said, "that you should be lost. From the way you make yourself comfortable in the woods I'd say you'd been born in timber."

"From the way you know woodcraft when you see it, I'd say it's as strange that you should be lost!"

"What I know of the woods was learned years ago. One gets rusty, I've discovered. Who are you and what are you doing here?"

Her directness quite took his breath.

"Well, my name's Ben Elliott, if that means anything to you. And I was looking for somebody who has no business to be here. Who are you and what brings you into this timber?"

He was bound, now, to break through her aloofness.

"That," she replied, however, "is largely my own affair. But, Mr. Elliott, if you should guess that I was simply trying to lose a certain unpleasant mood in the woods where I once was quite happy, you wouldn't be far from right."

She spoke inclusively and unhesitatingly but it seemed to him that behind this brusqueness was something quite different; something he could not fathom. He was about to remind her that she had not yet revealed her identity when she went on:

"Looking for someone who has no business here, you said. Just who are they, what are they doing?"

"As to the first, I can't tell you. For the second, their purpose probably would be to attempt to hold up a timber operation in which I'm rather interested not so far from here."

Her eyes were on him with a curious expression, which might possibly have been personal interest.

"To hold you up? How?"

"Are you from Tincup?"

"I am."

"You know people there? And what seems to be the town's most famous tradition?"

"I don't understand."

"Isn't it that Nicholas Brandon finishes what he starts out to do? That whatever he says goes, come what may?"

Her eyes dropped. "I've heard that said. People like to talk."

"Right! But I'm managing an outfit that's encouraging rough going from some source. All sorts of things are happening and I'm trying to head off certain of them."

"I see."

She looked away and puckered her delectable lips as though to whistle. Ben rubbed his chin again. She was not even interested in learning more about him, but where many young men would have been piqued at that he only laughed softly.

"What's the joke?" she asked, almost defiantly.

"I was just thinking that it's a funny situation when a man gets into a scrap and it looks so big to him that he thinks the whole darned country must be watching it and him; and then along comes a nice girl who's been in a position to hear all about it and who isn't interested a dime's worth."

She looked up at him slowly. "You mean that you want to talk about it?"

"Perfectly natural that I should. I'm in one whale of a fight and having the time of my life. It's the first job I've found in a coon's age that was hard enough and complicated enough to be worth working over."

"That's what I've heard about you."

"You've . . . Oh, so you have heard about me?"

"Of course, I live in Tincup. Few have any secrets in a town of Tincup's size."

Ben chuckled again. "Well, then, if you've heard that much about me and my job, maybe there isn't anything I could tell you that would be interesting."

"Maybe not," she said with an air of dismissal.

Ben watched her closely as she slowly broke a twig to bits with her slim fingers.

"Deer used to yard in the swamp back of here," she said. "When I was a little girl I used to come out and try to make friends with them. That's why I came out today . . . wondering if they'd started to yard yet."

"It's too early for them to yard."

"Yes, but the snow may get deep enough any day to bunch them."

"Snow!" he said and shrugged. "If it gets deep in a hurry the deer will yard all right and, maybe, I'll be licked and a little girl done out of all she has in the world."

"All she has in the world? Meaning just what?"

"If you live in Tincup and know the town you must know about the owner of this property. This is the Hoot Owl timber."

A queer smile twitched at the girl's lips.

"Sometimes I think I do; as often, I wonder what she's like . . . really like. I happen to be Dawn McManus."

Ben Elliott opened his mouth as if to speak. Then closed it again and made a foolishly helpless movement with one hand. He stared at her and began to stammer.

"Why I . . . Why, you . . . Why, Able said! . . ." He laughed outright, then, as his misconception became clear. "Oh, if I'd given it a second thought I'd have known! Able first told me about you as a little girl. It stuck in my head; a little girl! But that was years ago, of course. . . . Gee! . . . Why, then you're lost in your back yard, as you might say."

"I was," she corrected. "But a few minutes ago I heard some one sing out; and just now the cook called the crew to supper."

"Then why didn't you—"

"Because I was rather curious to discover what sort of man is standing between me and poverty,—perhaps ironically, this. 'And, of course, I knew you weren't lost.'"

Elliott flushed on that.

"I played at being lost myself so I'd have a chance to talk to you. I'm glad I did . . . unless it has offended you."

"No, I'm . . . I'm only ready to go in, now."

She adjusted the harness of her shoes dexterously and they set out. On the way to camp Ben tried to talk to her further but her responses were brief and non-committal. Her interest appeared to be only poorly aroused even on such a vital matter as the operation of her property, and so finally he gave up trying to make talk and broke trail thinking that now the job would have an added zest, that a girl like Dawn McManus was an ever greater incentive than the thought of a small child, alone, with her timber at the mercy of hard schemers, and depending on him to make safe her heritage.

In camp Blackmore, the veneer buyer, was waiting for Ben and after eating silently in the cook shanty with those two Dawn set out for Tincup with Blackmore, leaving Ben with considerable to think about besides revamping the mill and getting out choice logs.

CHAPTER VI

The new piston head for the locomotive arrived and Elliott was at the station when the train bearing it pulled in. More, he was close beside the express car when it halted and carried the part himself to his waiting sleigh. The veneer logs were ready to come out to the siding. Standard cars had been set off at Hoot Owl that day. To-tomorrow, bright and early, they would start loading and by night his contract with Blackmore would be filled. He would receive a large check, a substantial part of it clear profit, in return.

His men were growing restless under the driving; whippers in camp had it that the job was broke beyond repair and he knew that to pass a pay day would send his crew scattering, a handicap which he could never overcome in time. But with the men held on the job and the mill ready to saw in another week he would be ready to give the Hoot Owl a fresh start, a new hold on hope.

After reaching camp he plunged into his blankets for a night's rest.

And about the time he burrowed into the pillow Nicholas Brandon sat in his office talking to a pale, slender young man whose blue eyes smiled genially. Genially, yes, but in that quality was a flaw, one might have observed on close scrutiny. Familiarity with Limpy Holbrook might not breed contempt; but surely, in an alert man, it would stir an awareness for the need of caution soon or later.

Brandon now nodded slowly. "All right. Don't start until dark. And do just as I've told you; don't forget to give yourself plenty of time. You can't travel fast."

"I get you, Mr. Brandon."

"Have you . . . That is, has he ever seen you?"

"He came into the pool room and I sold him tobacco the other day. We visited a minute."

"Friendly?"

"Nothing but!" The open smile had the cast of a leer as Holbrook made a reply.

"The pool room's a good place for you to be, Limpy. Great center for news. Well . . . You keep on reporting everything that's said there. . . . Good night."

Holbrook limped out and Brandon, alone, puffed for a time on his cigar. Next, he opened a lower drawer and drew out a bottle of whisky. Only one drink remained in it. He frowned. A year ago he had procured that liquor; for nearly twelve months it had been scarcely touched. But since the night that old Don Stuart died its contents had been drawn upon frequently. His hands shook a bit as he lifted the bottle to his lips, now, but after drinking new strength began to surge through his body and he smiled. He looked at his watch after a time and then out into the street. After a time he rose and walked to the wall telephone.

"Give me Miss Coburn's house, will you?" he asked the operator. "Hello! Miss Co— Ah, Dawn! Its Uncle Nick talking. Want to go to the movie tonight?"

She seemed to hesitate and he tilted his head sharply, lips parted. Then her voice came.

"It's nice of you to think of me, Mr. Brandon. But I don't think I care to go with you tonight."

"Oh; sorry," he said genially enough but his brows gathered. "Another time, then."

Her receiver clicked up and he turned away from the instrument scowling thoughtfully.

"Mister Brandon, eh?" he said softly. "And . . . No excuse. . . . Well!"

The last word was spoken with a snap, as though a chapter were closed.

He paced the floor slowly. He was brooding, planning, and by the look on his face it was evident that he planned good for no man . . . except, possibly Nicholas Brandon.

Perhaps he was thinking of the matter that was to confront Ben Elliott within twenty-four hours.

That young man was in high feather as the crew came in to supper. His locomotive had shunted the standard cars up from Hoot Owl before daylight and the veneer logs scattered along the steel had commenced going up at once.

Able had come driving out from town in mid-afternoon. Dawn beside him, and with an added thrill because of her presence Ben directed the loading of the last car, conscious that the girl's eyes were often on him with an expression which belied her apparent indifference when he tried to engage her in conversation.

It was dark when the jammer man swung the last log into place and toggles were made fast. Able and Dawn rode with Ben in the locomotive as they trundled down the track to camp.

"You boys have had a long day," Ben said to the engineer and fireman. "It won't get any darker. You eat your suppers here and we'll run 'em in this evening."

He turned to Able. "Our contract calls for delivery in time to meet the local. She's been coming through a little before eight in the morning. Want to take no chance of having this stuff held up now. That would be a tough break!"

Serbia Always Markets Brides Through Broker

Many of the younger Serbians wish elders would abolish the custom of buying and selling brides, but the older generation can't see it that way. And the authorities are helpless to stop the practice, too, because negotiations between the parents involved are carried on in secret by a marriage broker, called the stornjak, and no one is wiser until it is settled.

The supporters of the old order claim they are put to great expense in rearing their daughters, and it is only right and fair that the bridegroom should pay for the added help he thus obtains for his household in taking a wife.

Prices vary greatly in this Serbian bride market, some fetching as high as 30,000 dinars (about $600), others as low as 2,000 dinars. A bride's worth is measured by her health, strength and knowledge of farm and household affairs. Beauty is a secondary consideration, but should the prospective wife possess it her value is enhanced.

In many instances when a suitor has been too poor to pay the price asked by the girl's parents, he has abducted his bride with the aid of friends. And as only the spilling of blood can wipe out the deep humiliation and disgrace of having a daughter "snatched," feuds lasting through generations have in this way begun.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Foot-Worm Disease

The malady which has been termed a foot-worm disease, is an infection of the feet by a thread-like, white nematode worm known as the onchocera flexuosa, which sometimes reaches a length of 10 inches, says the Detroit News. These parasites are found extended in the subcutaneous tissues, and in advanced stages, coiled in cysts near the surface. Deer afflicted with this malady usually have inflamed and swollen feet, are often notably lame and in some cases the hoofs may even be loosened.

Let Our Motto Be GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. LLOYD ARNOLD
Professor of Bacteriology and Preventive Medicine, University of Illinois, College of Medicine.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

We hear so many people speak of high blood pressure as if it were a disease that perhaps it would be well to state that high blood pressure is not a disease. People do not die of high blood pressure. But high blood pressure is a symptom that something is wrong with the health of the body. The blood circulates within a closed system of vessels in the body. The heart is the central pumping mechanism. The large outboard vessels from the heart are called arteries. These gradually become smaller in diameter the farther they get away from the heart, until they finally end in small thread-like capillaries. There are many hundreds of these capillaries branching off like the limbs of a tree from the small arteries in the skin, muscles and organs.

The capillaries are the distributing agents. As the blood in the large arteries leading from the pumping station, the heart, is under considerable pressure in order to insure a proper distribution of blood, the walls of the arteries must be able to bear the load. So the larger the artery, the heavier is the load.

After the blood passes through the capillaries it returns to the heart through the veins. These veins begin as very small vessels close to the capillaries and increase gradually in size as they approach the heart. But the walls of the veins are never as thick as those of the arteries, for the blood is not under very much pressure in the venous system.

The volume or amount of blood in the body remains relatively constant. The absorption of water and other fluids and the excretion by the kidneys and the sweat glands maintain a constant blood volume or balance. In case of high blood pressure, the capacity of the vascular system is usually decreased. Hence the pressure increases because the volume of blood remains constant. The capacity of the vascular system decreases in most instances because the arteries become hardened and hence cannot dilate and increase in size with each heart beat, as they should. This inability to dilate and increase in size normally is called arterio-sclerosis or aging of the arteries.

Certain forms of heart disease also play a part in high blood pressure. High blood pressure in older adults is due many times to injuries of the heart and the kidney during childhood or adolescence, caused by some infectious disease. The primary damage is done at that time and the gradual development of scar tissue finally uses up all the reserve power of either the heart or the kidney and an elevation in blood pressure is manifested in later life.

The important factors to determine in high blood pressure then are (1) the state of the arteries, (2) the size and efficiency of the heart, (3) the state of the kidneys. The fact that one has high blood pressure is usually brought out as the result of a physical examination made by a physician, and the control of it, after it has developed, necessitates frequent medical examination and intelligent co-operation with the physician. Other factors than the state of the blood vessels, the heart and the kidneys may be involved too.

The best time to begin treatment for high blood pressure is the time when it starts to rise. Everyone of course has momentary rises in blood pressure due to anger, strenuous exercise, or worry, but if these periods last only a short time, they are unimportant from a health standpoint. But if the blood pressure is elevated above the normal for any length of time, it is important to know whether this increased pressure will remain stationary, or whether it will become progressively higher. Then health habits can be corrected. Apoplexy, bright's disease, and heart failure are usually the terminal conditions in persons with sustained high blood pressure.

The individual with high blood pressure, after determining the cause and following the physician's direction, should guard against strenuous physical exercise as much as possible.

Strong contractions of the muscles of the arms and legs always increases blood pressure by decreasing the volume of blood in the muscles while they are contracted, and hence there is rapidly increasing blood pressure for a short time. This may be disastrous to an individual with high blood pressure. Worry and overwork, sleeplessness and physical exhaustion, will also increase the blood pressure above the normal, and should be guarded against.

Low blood pressure is usually as important a danger signal for the older individual as high blood pressure. Low blood pressure in many instances is due to a decrease in the efficiency of the heart muscle. There is decreased pumping force of the heart and hence a lessened pressure within the arterial system.

The individual with high blood pressure or low blood pressure should not delay in consulting a physician.

"GOOD READING" MATTER FOR THE CHILD TO DECIDE

Supported by The Parents' Magazine, which prints the charge that may influence adult thought in regard to juvenile reading, Josette Frank accuses the nation's fathers and mothers of impoverishing their children's literary diet—letting them starve in the midst of plenty.

"Mother does not always know best, and no book is a good book for a child if it fails to interest him," emphatically declares Miss Frank, her conviction born of experience in the Child Study association.

"There is ample reason for doubting parental infallibility on this point when we realize how often parents have changed their minds as to what is and what is not good reading for children," says this authority, recalling that it is not so long ago parents regarded story-books with suspicion; then, grudgingly approved painfully pure tales and only lately countenanced literature which addresses children as reasoning people. "There are no best books for children, only best books for the particular child. What is real meat to the girl of twelve may be 'applesauce' to the boy of the same age. Nor is there a law of heredity that makes children like what their parents liked before them. Our Jane may find 'Little Women' boring or 'Gulliver's Travels' dull."

Like the horse in the old adage, evidently one may lead a child to a good book but cannot make him read it. This being the truth, however much it may hurt, Miss Frank sanely concludes that about all parents can do is to make available to their children the best there is in the world to read and let nature take its course.

Savings-Banks Gains

Mutual savings-banks deposits in 18 states increased in 1934 by $163,080,092 to $9,757,690,337, and total assets of these banks gained by $199,437,834 to $11,055,498,096, both deposits and assets being only slightly under record figures for 1932, according to Philip A. Benson, president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

There also was an addition of $25,756,405 to surplus, bringing that fund to $1,192,628,224, or 12.2 per cent of deposits. New York state's mutual savings banks led the nation in gains and assets, their increase being $109,715,244.

They also led in deposit gains, the increase being $81,245,170.—Literary Digest.

Three Simple Steps to Ease a Sore Throat in Three Minutes

1. Crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in 1/2 glass of water.

2. Gargle Thoroughly—throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat. Do this twice. Do not rinse mouth.

3. If you have a cold, take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Drink full glass of water. Repeat if necessary, following directions in package.

Modern Scientific Method
Wonderfully Easy

REMEMBER PICTURES HERE

Here's a safe, modern and effective way to relieve sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes. Many doctors advise it and millions are following this way. Try it. All you do is crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in 1/2 glass of water and gargle with it twice—as pictured here. (If you have signs of a cold, take BAYER Aspirin and drink plenty of water.)

Get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. They disintegrate quickly and completely, making a gargle without irritating particles.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

COMING—"RUGGLES OF RED GAP"
"THE WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING"

The Homes of a Michigan Citizen

LET us examine him on several points that distinguish a good citizen from a bad one:

Does he pay his taxes? . . . During the past ten years he has paid a total of $32,332,175.31 taxes into State and Federal funds. Last year he paid $2,670,873 to Michigan.

Is his home an eyesore? . . . He has 356 homes distributed over the great State of Michigan. Many of these he built himself and owns—substantial buildings in good taste, each an asset to the neighborhood and standing on grounds that he always keeps neat. Where less space is required, he rents a home. Large or small, it is always adequate to the needs of the community it serves.

What sort of customer is he? . . . Each year he buys huge quantities of Michigan products—copper and furniture, poles, automobiles, iron, stone, labor.

How does he treat his employees? . . . With fairness and consideration. There are seventy-three hundred of them, both men and women, and they all say that he is a good man to work for. He pays them $12,000,000 in wages annually; this month he is paying them one million dollars, most of which will be spent and circulated throughout Michigan.

What does this Michigan citizen supply to his community? . . . Telephone service. And in supplying that service, it is his aim that the improvements of the past shall continue; that the service shall be rendered with efficiency, economy and courtesy; that always there shall be available for his fellow-citizens of Michigan a telephone service that is as fine as any in the world.
