EMERGENCY CROP LOANS NOW READY

Application Blanks Are On Hand At Office Of County Agricultural Agent

Emergency crop and feed loans from the $60,000,000 fund appropriated by Congress are available now, according to an announcement today by Governor William I. Myers of the Farm Credit Administration. Application blanks have been received by the Isosco County Agricultural Agent, Casper Blumer.

Governor Myers said the emergency loans will be made only to farmers who are unable to obtain elsewhere, supplies, feed, or the necessary credit to purchase such items, and not to any applicant who can obtain credit from any other source, including production credit associations.

As in the past, applications for emergency crop loans will be made to the county crop loan committees already set up in most counties.

Governor Myers said that the maximum emergency crop loan to one farmer this year is $500 and the minimum is $10 but no loan for the growing or harvesting of crops may be made in an amount greater than is actually needed in each case to purchase seed and fertilizer necessary for production. The fund is appropriated specifically for emergency purposes and must be used to assist the maximum number of such needs, he said. He also pointed out that a considerable part of the funds must be used to assist farmers whose operating resources have been depleted temporarily as a result of the drought last summer. Consequently, those farmers are now in need of emergency loans to begin the new crop year.

SIX TEAM BASEBALL LEAGUE IS FORMED

An Isosco county baseball league was formed at a meeting held on Wednesday evening of this week. Tentative entries include Miner's Grove, Hale, Townline, Hemlock, Tawas and Prescott.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: R. D. Brown, Hale, president; E. S. Cornwall, Prescott, secretary; Ernest Cecil, Tawas, treasurer; Walter Laidlaw, Tawas, first vice-president; Russell Potts, Tawas, second vice-president.

Another meeting will be held at Tawasville on Wednesday, April 17, at 8:30 p. m., for the purpose of arranging a schedule. Any other teams interested in joining the league are requested to have representatives at this meeting.

DePotty--Frank

Evelyn Arlene DePotty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar DePotty of Gladwin, and Carl Louis Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Frank of this city, were quietly married Sunday afternoon at the home of Rev. M. A. Sommerfeld. They were attended by Miss Marie DePotty, a sister of the bride, and Melvin Groff.

Both the bride and groom were graduates of the class of 1934 of the Tawas City high school. Their many friends extend congratulations and best wishes.

Receives Commemorative Stamp From Antarctica

Joseph Barkman recently received a piece of mail from Antarctica carrying the Byrd Expedition Commemorative stamp and postmarked at Little America. This is an interesting addition to his collection of commemorative stamps.

Charles Anderson, postal officer with the Byrd Expedition, stated on his arrival in the United States from Antarctica that the postoffice at Little America was a room hewn out of solid ice, 200 feet below surface. Anderson said, "I got used to that, but it was difficult working in the perpetual daylight."

Mr. Barkman has a very fine collection of American stamps. He is considered an authority on certain aspects of this hobby and edits a department in Chambers Stamp Journal, a magazine devoted to stamp collecting.

TAWASES COMBINE BASEBALL TEAMS

Walter Laidlaw Is Elected Manager Of Squad

On Friday night, April 5, a meeting was held at Scott's restaurant, East Tawas, for the purpose of organizing a baseball team. Both East Tawas and Tawas City were well represented with an attendance of 19 young baseball candidates from the two towns.

Reginald Boulder was elected chairman and the meeting got under way. It was unanimously agreed that Tawas City and East Tawas should be represented by one team. This makes it possible to have one good representative team rather than two of mediocre class.

Walter Laidlaw was then chosen manager of the team and he proceeded with the meeting.

The next problem drew no little discussion. Since there would be representatives on the team from the two cities, which diamond would the games be held on or would they alternate? It was finally decided that, since the softball diamond is located on the East Tawas baseball park and is making the outfield very hazardous and tricky for the holes which are being sculptured out around the bases, the games would be held in Tawas City. It was also pointed out that the spectators to a game in East Tawas usually watch from a distance and thereby evade the payment of the small fee which is so necessary to the successful operation of a ball club. Unless some further arrangements are made to correct these conditions it will be necessary to hold the baseball games in the Tawas City park this season.

Fred Boulder was chosen as gatekeeper and treasurer by a unanimous vote.

The management is now making an effort to enter the team in the Bay City league. This would assure the public some real snappy games. Another meeting will be held on April 19 and a report on the progress of the contact manager will then be read.

High School Baseball League Is Organized

Acting upon a suggestion offered by Ben Fairman, superintendent of the Oscoda high school, the coaches of Tawas City, East Tawas, Oscoda and Harrisville high schools met in Oscoda Saturday night to form a baseball league for the spring schedule of the several teams.

The clubs will play two games with each of the other members of the league. A trophy will be presented to the winning team at the close of the school year.

If St. Joseph enters the league, the plan will be similar to the Bi-County organization which functioned in the 1920's.

Each of the entrants will have strong teams, promising exciting competition for the cup race. High school athletics play a large part in extra-curricular activities and should have the following of all the townsfolk. The newly-formed league will need your support for its successful operation.

FIRE DESTROYS WHITTEMORE BUSINESS BLOCK

Flames, Whipped By High Winds, Threatened Whole City

Mrs. Thresea Halm

One of the most disastrous fires ever witnessed in Whittemore took place last Sunday afternoon when the drug store owned by Mrs. Robert J. Smith, the John O'Farrell residence and telephone office, Joe Danin's wool warehouse (commonly known as the Simpson building) and the J. C. Moore and John Allen homes were leveled to the ground and a large portion of the city threatened by the wind driven flames.

A fire, of undetermined origin, started at about one o'clock in the drug store building, which is also Mrs. Smith's home. The terrific wind soon fanned the blaze to the home of J. C. Moore and then to the John O'Farrell residence and telephone office. The wind shifted and the Danin warehouse was soon in flames. It was early recognized that these buildings could not be saved and efforts were directed toward preventing the fire from spreading to other structures.

Nearly the whole city for a time seemed doomed. Fires started blocks away, ignited by falling embers. Windows in the buildings on the opposite side of the street were broken and the woodwork blistered by the heat and a continuous shower of embers fell on the roofs. However, the determined and at times heroic efforts of the townspeople—men, women and children—prevailed in preventing a further spread of the conflagration. They were efficiently assisted in the work by East Tawas and Tawas fire departments, a contingent of C. C. C. men from Silver Creek and many volunteers from the surrounding country and towns.

Silver Creek Camp To Hold Open House

Silver Creek Camp No. 665 will hold open house to the citizens of Isosco county on Sunday afternoon, April 28th. This event, encouraged by the camp commander, Lieutenant Frederick K. Spiecker, and his staff, Lieutenants Charles A. Bowser and Raymond Mundi, should be of great interest to all, especially to the women folks who will have an opportunity to inspect the kitchen and dining facilities afforded the C. C. C. workers.

From a very crude beginning, camp conditions have improved and to date exceptional progress has been made. Lieutenant Spiecker informs the editor that because of the cooperation of the public it is possible to display pictures and have home decorations along with books and magazines and other reading material. A pool table has been purchased by the boys themselves. Should anyone have pictures, books or furniture in the store-room which could be repaired, the Camp would call for them and place them to good use.

"Open House" Sunday, April 28th, is sponsored by a group of civic leaders of the county under the chairmanship of T. George Sternberg. The visiting hours will be from 1:00 to 5:00 in the afternoon. Everybody will be made welcome, and it is hoped to have the assistance of at least one high school band as well as the Legion bugle corps.

BRITT AGAIN CHAIRMAN OF SUPERVISORS

Board Appropriates $200.00 To East Michigan Tourist Association

The Isosco county board of supervisors, in session this week Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, elected Elmer J. Britt, supervisor of Burleigh township, as chairman of the board. Mr. Britt has presided over the meetings of the supervisors for the past two years. Supervisor C. E. Tanner of Tawas City was elected chairman pro tem.

The following committee appointments, made by Chairman Britt, were approved by the board:

Claims and Accounts No. 1—C. E. Tanner, Ferd. Schmalz, Alva Callahan, Willis Kraus and Victor J. Anderson.

Claims and Accounts No. 2—Lyman McAuliff, Jesse Carpenter, John A. Mark, Jr., H. F. Black and Edward Burgeson.

Claims and Accounts No. 3—John H. Schriber, Walter Kasichke, Lewis Nunn, Edgar Louks and Matt. Loffman.

Ladies' Literary Club Holds Annual Election Of Officers

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Literary Club of East Tawas the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Mrs. F. E. Kunze; first vice-president—Mrs. R. G. Schreck; second vice-president—Mrs. W. A. DeGroot; secretary—Mrs. Seth Jackson; treasurer—Mrs. C. Wesendorf; delegate to state federation—Mrs. F. E. Kunze; trustee—Mrs. Rose Anker.

The closing meeting of the club year will be held on April 24 and will be a pot luck dinner honoring the husbands and friends of the members. Dinner will be served at 6:30 in the club rooms and will be followed by a program. Mrs. John McCray has charge of the dinner arrangements and Mrs. Fred Adams is chairman of the program committee.

Miss Patricia Braddock Is Oratorical Contest Winner

Miss Patricia Braddock of Tawas City gained the right to enter the regional speech contest in Cheboygan by defeating three other aspirants for district oratorical honors at the Community Building in East Tawas a week ago Thursday night. The title of Miss Braddock's oration was "Freedom of the Press."

Marion Haglund will represent the district in the extemporaneous speaking contest. Miss Haglund's topic was "Woodrow Wilson and the League of Nations."

Blaine Williams, also representing East Tawas high school, won the declamation honors with "Patrick Henry's Speech Before the Virginia Assembly in 1775."

Over twenty contestants, representing West Branch, Tawas City, Whittemore, East Tawas, Oscoda and Harrisville, vied for the district honors. The winners should have little trouble at the regional contest if their delivery is as fine as it was at the district contest.

Card of Thanks

Words cannot express our deep appreciation and heartfelt thanks to all our neighbors and friends who gave their assistance and risked their lives Sunday in saving our furniture in the terrible fire which destroyed our home; also to the multitude of friends from the neighboring towns who responded to the call for help and rushed to our town and gave their aid. We further wish to express our thanks for the many acts of kindness shown us since the fire.
Mr. and Mrs. John O'Farrell and family.

Kay Francis Has Stunning Gowns In Her New Film

Long recognized as one of the best-dressed women of the screen, Kay Francis fairly outdoes herself in the matter of wardrobe in her forthcoming First National production, "Living On Velvet," showing at the Family Theatre, East Tawas, on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 14-15-16. One of the most gorgeous is an ultra-modern bridal tulle gown. Orry-Kelly, famous style creator of the Warner Brothers studio, designed the frocks and dresses from suggestions brought back by Miss Francis from a trip abroad.

Kay portrays a young woman of fashion, who turns her back on wealth and security to wed a man who offered her nothing but the right to love him.

In addition to the star, the cast of "Living On Velvet" the story of a wife's problems with a careless, reckless, mad fier-husband, consists of George Brent, Warren William, Helen Lowell, and Russell Hicks.

Nye's Committee Offers Drastic War-Profit Bill—Austria Decides to Enlarge Its Army—Progress of European Peace Negotiations.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union.

SENATOR GERALD P. NYE'S munitions committee, which has spent seven months investigating the doings of the manufacturers of arms and munitions, reported to the senate its measure designed to take the profits out of war and provide for the conscription of industry in the event of another armed conflict involving the United States. The bill is decidedly drastic, giving to the President in war time powers that are practically dictatorial, permitting him not only to fix prices but also to license all industry and control raw materials. It also has taxation features that will arouse considerable opposition. It would raise individual income taxes to 6 per cent in wartime, levy surtaxes up to 94 per cent on incomes in excess of $10,000, and seize profits of corporations in excess of 6 per cent return on invested capital.

Senator Nye

The Nye bill gives the President very broad powers to fix prices of commodities, to license industry, to enforce profiteering and to prevent the hoarding of goods. It provides for the drafting of industrial leaders, who would be permitted to remain with their companies, subject to military law and given rank and compensation not exceeding that of a brigadier general.

Meanwhile the house military affairs committee reported the McSwain bill, similar to the senate measure but without the tax features. This lack made the more radical members angry but when they tried to amend the bill they were routed, 258 to 71.

The Nye senate committee, after reporting its bill, continued its inquiry. It heard a rather sensational bit of evidence to the effect that Roger S. McGrath, an insurance company agent who was described as a friend of the President's son James, had sought successfully to obtain two naval building contracts for the Bath Iron Works up in Maine.

FOLLOWING the example set by Hitler, Austria has decided to disregard the limitations on its military strength set by the treaty of St. Germain and to increase its armed forces immediately. The official communique issued by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg did not say how big the army would be or whether conscription would be restored. The annual spring parade of the army at the Ringstrasse in Vienna was revived, and the troops appeared in fine new uniforms.

It is believed Hungary and Bulgaria soon will ask permission to increase their armies and re-introduce conscription.

SOVIET Russia is ready to line up with Great Britain, France and Italy in promoting the general European security pact which is the basis of England's plan for peace. This was brought out by the visit to Moscow of Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, and his conference with Dictator Josef Stalin and Maxim Litvinov, Soviet foreign commissar. According to the joint communique given the press, these statements "were of the opinion that in the present international situation it is more than ever necessary to pursue the endeavor to promote the building up of a system of collective security in Europe as contemplated in the Anglo-French communique of the third of February, and in conformity with the principles of the League of Nations."

It was made clear that Germany and Poland would be welcome to enter the arrangement, but that it would go ahead even without them.

Captain Eden then went on to Warsaw to talk things over with the Poles; and even as he was departing from Moscow the Soviet press launched another fierce attack on Germany. Michael Tukhachevsky, vice commissar for defense, in an article in the newspaper Pravda, declared Germany would have an army of $49,000 by the summer, exceeding the French army by 40 per cent and almost equaling the Soviet army in size.

He charged Hitler with "lulling France to sleep" with anti-Soviet war talk in the hope France would not realize her own peril.

Tukhachevsky's view that Germany contemplates attacking France was supported by an authorized article in the weekly Journal de Moscou which asserted the leaders of the reich realized "the exceptional risk to which Germany would subject herself by invasion of the tremendous territories of the U. S. S. R.—a country possessing powerful armaments and unlimited opportunities for improving and increasing these armaments."

"It is almost probable," the Journal said, "that under certain circumstances Hitler will prefer other fields of aggression, and an intensified revision of the map of Europe will be started not in the east but in the west."

PREMIER MUSSOLINI is highly skeptical of the success of efforts to persuade Germany to enter into general peace plans for Europe. In his newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, appeared an editorial, probably written by Il duce himself, warning his fellow countrymen that no miraculous results may be expected from the conference of foreign ministers in Suresa. It asserted that the western European powers "must stabilize their line of common action against several eventualities which can be foreseen, and they must take definite responsibility."

It then charged that the French and British are impeding Mussolini's wish to take action against Hitler because of their preoccupation about their own internal policy.

Premier Flandin and Foreign Minister Laval of France were reported to have devised a vast, new, flexible plan to organize the peace of the continent within the framework of the League of Nations.

POLAND appears to have decided to play a lone hand in the European embroglio, though she remains friendly to Germany. It is reported that Captain Eden's visit to Warsaw was as disappointing as was that of Sir John Simon to Berlin. The Polish government is determined to sign no pact that would commit the nation to fight for Russia against Germany or for Germany against Russia and France, nor will it permit either German or Russian troops to be transported across Poland. The Polish statesmen say they will sign a series of bilateral pacts, and will go as far as any other nation in parallel disarmament. They assert that they have no alliance with Germany, though their mutual troubles have been settled for the next ten years, and that the alliance with France still holds good.

FROM Tokyo there came a statement indicating that Japan would give at least moral support to the European powers that are seeking agreements to counteract Hitler's move for the re-armament of Germany. It was given out by Eiji Amai, the frequently quoted spokesman for the foreign office. He said Japan will hold aloof from the European crisis and that there would be no far eastern Locarno pact, but that "we cannot think of any alliance with Germany." Tokyo, asserted Amai, is ready to discuss with Russia some degree of demilitarization of the eastern frontiers.

Eiji Amai

FOREIGN nations that discriminate against American imports have been warned by President Roosevelt that they must discontinue that practice under penalty of economic reprisals by the United States. In a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau the President outlined his foreign trade policy and disclosed the fact that the administration is considering denouncing existing trade pacts with Germany, Italy, Portugal and Denmark because of discrimination. He proclaimed the new Belgian-American reciprocal trade agreement, and also decreed that, pending the conclusion of negotiations for new pacts now in progress, the reduced duties and other concessions granted Belgium will be extended to Canada, Spain, The Netherlands, Switzerland and Lichtenstein for six months.

DEBATE on the Copeland-Tugwell food, drug, cosmetic and advertising bill was lively in the senate, and the opposition was led by a Democrat, Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, who urged the retention of the present food and drug law with such amendments as changed conditions require.

"I understand the Department of Agriculture was created to foster agriculture and not to govern advertising," Senator Bailey said. "It is inconceivable to me that it should take charge of medicine, cosmetics, and advertising. There might be an argument that the department has made such great triumphs in agriculture that it is seeking new worlds to conquer. But I believe that if some one should make that boast, I should agree that it had exceeded Samson in the slaughter of pigs, but had fallen far short of doing as good work in the matter of cotton as has the boll weevil."

STANLEY REED, the new solicitor general, obtained from the Supreme court permission to dismiss the government's appeal in the Belcher lumber case. Therefore there probably will be no decision as to the constitutionality of the national industrial recovery act by the chief tribunal before congress takes action on the bill to extend the recovery law.

WHEN the Illinois legislature, at the behest of Governor Horner and the federal administration, passed a state recovery act the New Dealers hailed this as an example that all states should follow. Now County Judge Homer W. Hall at Bloomington has held that the act is unconstitutional. He also declared the national automobile code inoperative as applied to Illinois.

Under the state recovery act, the judge remarked, an unlawful delegation of the authority of the state legislature has brought about a situation whereby violations of the state act can be prosecuted by the state only through the sanction and by the authority of the federal director of codes.

THROUGH the efforts of Donald Richberg, chairman of the NIRE, an agreement was reached by the bituminous coal operators and the United Mine Workers, whereby the prevailing coal code is extended to June 16 and a threatened strike of about half a million miners averted. The present wages and hours of work are continued. President Lewis of the miners insisted the union had not yielded to the operators; but the fact remained that if it had not consented to the agreement Mr. Richberg could and would have extended the code by executive order.

SCORES of agents of the Department of Justice's division of investigation were carrying on a concentrated search for three men now listed as the worst "public enemies" at large, according to Chief J. Edgar Hoover. The three are: Alvin Karpis, twenty-five, a leader in the notorious Barker-Karpis kidnap and bank robbery gang; Raymond Hamilton, twenty-two, killer who broke jail while awaiting execution, and Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., twenty-eight, kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, wealthy young society matron of Louisville, Ky.

ONE of America's leading sculptors, Augustus Lukeman, died in New York at the age of sixty-four years. After Borglum was ousted by the Confederate memorial committee in 1925, Lukeman took over the work of carving the huge memorial on the face of Stone mountain in Georgia, completing it in 1928. He was chief of sculptors at the World's fair in Chicago.

OBEDIENCE alleged directions from the yacht on which President Roosevelt was fishing in Florida waters, the majority in the house refused to accept the restrictions injected in the work relief bill and sent it back to conference to have these removed. The restrictions objectionable to the administration were those requiring senate confirmation of administrative officers of the program and that in loans and grants to states at least one-third of the money should be expended for direct labor. The latter requirement, according to Secretary Ickes and others, would result in the exclusion of rural electrification, slum clearance and similar projects.

Defending the move to send the bill back to conference, Buchanan of Georgia said: "The President is assuming responsibility. All we ask is to give him a bill that he can work on in shifting from dole to employment."

In replying to Buchanan, Representative Robert Bacon (Rep., N. Y.) contended that the labor provision was needed in order to "kick out pet local projects" and afford as much direct relief of unemployment as possible.

"Congress has reached a pretty low ebb," declared Minority Leader Bertrand Snell (Rep., N. Y.), "when it can't even pass on a conference report without receiving orders from the Chief Executive."

FOR the second time the United States Supreme court reversed the convictions and death sentences of two of the Scottsboro negroes who were accused of assault on two white girls. The court held that since negroes in Alabama are not permitted to serve on juries, they are denied "equal protection of the laws" in violation of the Fourteenth amendment. It declared the state court erred in not quashing the indictments.

This was a big victory for the colored race, but in another decision by the Supreme court the negroes were the losers. The tribunal ruled that the Democratic party in Texas is a voluntary association, not subject to control by the state legislature, and as such may exclude colored persons from voting in its primaries.

DIRECT negotiations with Italy over the border dispute were broken off by the Ethiopian government, which sent a new note to the League of Nations. Special measures were taken to protect foreigners in Addis Ababa. The Italian government did not take this rupture seriously, still hoping a peaceful arrangement might be reached without the intervention of the league.

NINETEEN cardinals met with Pope Plus in a secret consistory, and to them he delivered an emphatic denunciation of war, which, he said, "would be so enormous a crime, so foolish a manifestation of fury, we believe it absolutely impossible." If, however, there is someone who wishes to commit "this nefarious crime," then, the holy father said, he could do nothing else than pray to God to "destroy those people who desire war."

The consistory approved the canonization of Blessed Thomas More, King Henry VIII's chancellor, and Bishop John Fisher of England, who lost their heads for opposing Henry's marriage to Anne Boleyn.

DANNY MEADOW MOUSE WISHES HE HAD STAYED HOME

WHEN Danny Meadow Mouse crept into the little hole in the bank of the Smiling Pool his heart was beating so fast that it didn't seem to him he would be able to move again for a long time. You see, crossing the Smiling Pool was a long swim for such a little fellow as Danny Meadow Mouse. He had not been in the water for a long time before, and so of course swimming tired him much more than it would have done had he been in the habit of swimming every day. It wouldn't have been so bad if he hadn't been obliged to swim just as fast as he possibly could. As it was, the Big Pickerel who lives in the Smiling Pool had almost caught him. So between his terrible fright and his hard work Danny was quite used up.

He laid down and for a while just panted and panted, and all the time wished that he had stayed at home where he belonged on the other side of the Smiling Pool. By and by his heart stopped beating so fast, and he didn't have to pant so to get his breath. You know the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows recover very quickly from fright and weariness. This is a wise provision of Old Mother Nature. If it were not so they would not be prepared to meet unexpected new dangers.

So it wasn't a great while before Danny once more felt quite himself. He crept to the entrance of the hole in which he had found safety and peeped out. He wanted to see if Reddy Fox was still on the other bank of the Smiling Pool, and what his chances of getting back home in safety were.

The Smiling Pool was as calm and peaceful and lovely as if no such thing as danger was ever known there. Over on the other bank Danny could see Reddy Fox. It was evident that Reddy had not given up hope of getting a meal of some kind at the Smiling Pool. Danny's big cousin, Jerry Muskrat, had just climbed out on the Big Rock with a lily root. This he began to eat. Just watching him made Danny hungry. Grandfather Frog had once more

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I heard a woman tell another that her husband reminded her of a furnace. What do you think she meant by that?

Truly yours,

ROSE Z. PESEY.

Answer: She simply means that he smokes all day and goes out at night.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I heard two men discussing animals. One said that while in India he saw a "man eating tiger." The other said

Mother's Cook Book

A SYMPHONY OF SALADS

IS THERE ever any salad more appetizing and attractive than nice fresh shrimp? Take two cupfuls of cooked shrimp—fresh, if possible, canned will do—add one cupful of finely cut tender celery, one-third cupful of sliced olives (the stuffed ones), one-third of a cupful of french dressing, let stand to season, adding salt and cayenne. Then when serving add mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Another well liked salad is Waldorf Salad.

Take one cupful of diced celery, two cupfuls of finely cubed apples, one-half cupful of broken pecan meats. Cover with a tablespoonful of lemon juice and one of olive oil, adding salt and a teaspoonful of sugar. Let stand for an hour, then serve on lettuce with a mayonnaise dressing.

Who doesn't like the tender and delicious chicken salad?

Chicken Salad.

Cut the light meat of chicken into cubes. For each quart of the finely cut chicken add a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of lemon juice, a salt-spoonful of white pepper and a few dashes of cayenne. Mix and stand aside in a cool place. Add two-thirds as much tender celery cut into bits, a half cupful of shredded almonds and let stand until serving time. Cover with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce, garnished with olives, capers and hard cooked eggs.

Almonds, Pineapple and Cabbage Salad.

Shred a tender head of cabbage, add one cupful of shredded blanched almonds and a few slices of diced pineapple. Serve with salt, paprika and sour cream. Line a bowl with lettuce leaves and heap in it the salad. Serve with cheese and crackers.

Salmon Salad.

Drain the oil from a can of salmon. Remove the skin and bones and shred. Cut four boiled potatoes into cubes, add three sweet pickles finely minced and two cupfuls of finely chopped new cabbage. Season with salt, pepper and serve with a boiled dressing.

MARRIAGE

By ANNE CAMPBELL

Above the ugly and sordid,
Like a white bird thrusting
Into the heavenly blue,
There rides the thought of you!

Above the worry and planning,
Like a shining saber
Cleaving the clouds that will form,
Is your love, true and warm!

Above the monotonous hours,
Above the wreck of our dreaming,
Above the illness and sorrow,
Like a bright star gleaming,
Shines ever constant and true,
Your love for me, my love for you!

of the suit. Can you possibly tell me how to make my coats last?

Yours truly,

A. STITCHENTYME.

Answer: Make your pants and vests first.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a girl eighteen years of age and for the first time in my life I went "slumming" last night. I felt hungry and went into a cheap restaurant and was surprised to see men eating with their knives. Can you tell me why people eat with their knives?

Sincerely,

I. PHEEL FINE.

Answer: Merely to sharpen their appetites.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I heard my folks say as how fish gives yuh brains. If what they say is true, what kind of them there fish shall I eat?

Yours truly,

ALF. ALFA.

Answer: Judging by your letter, I suggest a whale.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I read in this morning's paper that some aeronaut flew his airplane to an altitude of 10,500 feet. Would you like to be up that high with an airplane?

Truly yours,

Upson Downs.

Answer: I'd hate to be up that high without one.

Picture of San Francisco Bay in 1937

© Calif. Toll Bridge Authority.

UPON an aerial photograph of San Francisco bay, with Oakland in the background, architects for the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge have drawn in to scale a representation of the world's largest bridge, 8¾ miles long (nearly four miles over water), which will connect Alameda and San Francisco counties. The west half of the bridge is a suspension structure comprising twin suspension bridges anchored into a huge concrete monument in the center. A double-deck tunnel pierces Yerba Buena island, occupied by army, navy and lighthouse services, and the double-deck bridge continues over a 1,400-foot cantilever span, 5 through truss spans, and 14 deck truss spans before it lands on a fill extending out from the Oakland shore. At the eastern shore, trestles carry the bridge traffic on to three branches—one for Berkeley, one for Oakland, and one for the business section of Oakland and Alameda. The piers of this bridge—51 in number—set new marks on engineering frontiers, going deeper below water than any previous substructure has heretofore been built. Some of the piers go as far as 237 feet below low tide. The two suspension bridges have 2,310-foot main spans. The lower deck carries two tracks for interurban electric cars and three lanes for heavy trucks, and the upper deck carries a 58-foot highway for six lanes of automobiles. The clearance for ships at high tide is 227 feet, 37 feet higher than the masts of any ship now afloat.

See Unknown Mountains in Yukon From Airplane

Expedition Makes Important Discoveries in North.

Washington.—New demonstration of the amazing part that airplanes can play in exploring unknown patches of territory that are still left in the world has just reached headquarters of the National Geographic society here in a report from Bradford Washburn, young American explorer of Cambridge, Mass., only a few days after his arrival at his temporary rail base at Carcross, Yukon territory, Canada.

Mr. Washburn, on his way to explore for the society the tangle of mountains in the extreme southwest corner of Yukon territory, which holds the highest unclimbed peaks on the North American continent, made an immediate reconnaissance from the air, and in a flight lasting less than eight hours discovered an immense unknown glacier nearly 50 miles long and established the fact that famous Hubbard glacier, thought to be 30 miles long, is more than double that length. He also discovered an hitherto unknown range of mountains.

Mr. Washburn's report follows:
To Map Unknown Region.

"The monoplane of the National Geographic society piloted by Everett Wasson of Carcross has returned here after successfully establishing the base camp of the expedition near the tongue of an immense unknown glacier descending eastward for nearly 50 miles into the Asek valley from the peak of Mt. Hubbard, one of the greatest of the unclimbed peaks of the St. Elias range. From the head of this glacier we hope to map a large portion of the hitherto unknown region east of Mt. St. Elias.

"The glacier on which the camp has been located lies some 130 miles west of Carcross and was discovered on a reconnaissance by Wasson, Taylor, Dr. Frank Henderson, eminent geologist of Vancouver, and myself. We flew for a total of seven hours and gigantic cliff of ice and rock without a single climbable angle.

"Between Mt. Hubbard and Mt. Lucania stretches a range of hitherto unseen mountains in which there are at least 20 peaks over 10,000 feet in most amazing mountain masses that I have ever seen, rising to an altitude of nearly 10,000 feet from the flat snow fields of the Hubbard glacier in one

Claim First Vineyard Was Planted by Noah

He Was a Frenchman, Wine Tasters Are Told.

Paris, France.—That Noah was a Frenchman and planted the first vineyard is a foregone conclusion in the minds of a group of devout wine tasters who have just organized a society there called "The Knights of the Wine-Tasters."

Too much attention, they aver, has been given to the exploits of Monsieur Noah and his Ark enterprise, and not enough publicity to the fact that it was he who first sowed the seeds of the beverage that has made France famous and intoxicated the world.

The new-founded order of the Knights of the Wine-Tasters honors three people—Noah, the first wine grower; Bacchus, the god of wine; and St. Vincent, patron saint of wine-growers.

"Our emblem," a member said, "is a wine-taster, or tiny glass tube resembling a miniature pipe which professional wine-tasters use when determining the respective virtues of the fruit of the vine.

"Of course, water drinking is counted as a misdemeanor, and naturally all water drinkers are barred from membership in our order," he continued.

"In fact, in our ritual there are some pretty bitter things about water drinkers and particularly about American prohibitionists. Our criticisms, however, are cordial. We are very frank, but not malicious. We meet only in wine cellars and we have a grand master and a grand lodge. We hold our conclaves by candlelight."

Blood Feud Nearly Wipes Out Village

Belgrade.—The village of Tigan in Albania has been almost entirely depopulated as a result of a blood feud of long duration with a neighboring village. For every man of the neighboring village killed by the men of Tigan, several males of Tigan were killed. Many families have lost all their menfolk, and the population of the village is only 20 per cent of what it was 10 years ago, when the feud began.

one of which our base is now established. These pictures are being used now to formulate our future plans of exploration of this magnificent mountain country which is probably the last utterly unexplored region in North America.

"After the base is permanently established on the glacier at an altitude of about 3,000 feet, we will advance camp as rapidly as possible to the divide at its head, 10,000 feet high and 40 miles away, from which the major part of our mapping and photographic work will be done."

"Skull House" Raided by Bunko Squad

A house of mysterious happenings, where skulls gleamed in the darkness, thumpings jarred the walls, and weird organ music greeted the ears of victims who paid to communicate with the "spirits," was exorcised recently by the Los Angeles bunko squad. Scores of the credulous, mostly Mexicans, are alleged to have been victimized. The picture shows an attendant seated at the skull-decorated organ.

Astronomers at Harvard Study Craters of Moon

Cambridge, Mass.—Harvard astronomers have trained their telescopes on the dark side of the moon, hopeful that their studies will explain the presence on the moon of the familiar large lunar craters.

The observation and research are being directed by a woman, Miss Dorrett Hoffelt of the observatory staff.

What the astronomers are looking for are huge sparks caused by the impact of immense meteors on the moon's surface. The meteoric impact theory is believed to account for the great system of rays or white streaks which radiate from the craters on the moon, some of them 150 miles across.

Endurance Mark Is Set by Oklahoma Gas Well

Holdenville, Okla.—A gas well at Dustin, near here, has been producing in abundance for almost 24 years.

No other gas well in Oklahoma, as far as is known, has produced gas in commercial quantities for this length of time.

The well was drilled in 1911 and still has a pressure of 275 pounds. The community of Dustin, near the well, enjoys an abundant gas supply from this well, and also basks in the comfort of gas at 3 1/2 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Every well drilled in the area has produced gas in commercial quantities.

Texas Trees to Spread Fame of Sam Houston

Dallas, Texas.—The fame of Texas will be spread throughout the United States through the planting of trees from the home of Gen. Sam Houston at Huntsville.

Six hundred pecan trees already have been planted on school grounds throughout Texas and now trees are to be planted in the largest American cities.

Pecan trees are to be planted on the state capitol grounds at Baton Rouge, La., in New Orleans park; in Forest Park, St. Louis; Anacostia park, Washington, D. C.; Central park, New York; Franklin park, Boston; in Philadelphia and other places.

The tree planted in Philadelphia will be a cedar elm, and all others will be red elms in sections too far north for pecan trees to be planted.

Each tree will be marked with a plaque with the words, "General Houston Texas Centennial Tree."

Pastor's Will Requests Burial in Wooden Box

Los Angeles, Calif.—Because of the "sinfully large sums that are spent in disposing of dead bodies," the late Rev. Edward Bell Haskell asked that he be buried in an ordinary wooden box.

His will, making the unusual burial request, was on file recently in Probate court.

Haskell, a former Congregational missionary who died January 9, left an estate valued at $12,500. Mrs. Elizabeth E. Haskell of Clairmont, his widow, was the principal beneficiary.

Smart for School or Work in Office

PATTERN 2085

When a girl leaves the house before nine every morning, whether she's off to school or to work, she needs at least one well-tailored frock in her wardrobe, one that will take her smartly through long busy hours and bring her home at night looking as freshly dressed as when she started. Designed along tailored lines, this frock adds a becoming "little boy" collar to its youthful yoke and tops its smart front bodice pleats with buttoned-down tabs that look for all the world like two perky little pockets. The skirt boasts a panel in front which ends in two inverted pleats, and there is another inverted pleat at the back. The full back gathered to the yoke is the last word in chic.

Pattern 2085 is available only in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 takes 2 3/4 yards 64 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventh Street, New York City.

"How do you stand on the hog-slaughtering program?"

"It has been of no use to me," answered Senator Sorghum. "I haven't sufficient sophistry at command to make it look to my constituents like an excuse for not bringing home the bacon."

Love Amended

Julia—Carl, before we got married you said your love for me was undying. Would you really be willing to die for me?

Carl—I never said I would die for you. On the contrary I said my love was "undying"—which meant that I would not die for you.

Puzzling

Father—My son, I hear you have been most recalcitrant.

Son—Be yourself, Pop, you've been doing cross-word puzzles again.

ALABASTER SCHOOL NEWS

At the Wednesday evening meeting of the board of education Mr. Brookins of Mt. Pleasant was chosen as superintendent to succeed E. R. Erickson, who resigned in February. Mr. Brookins is at present teaching in the Freshman College at Whittemore. Mr. Erickson, who has been superintendent at Alabaster for the past ten years, is planning on returning to some university to work on his Master's degree.

Dorothy Benson was chosen as valedictorian and Dorothy Martin as salutatorian of the senior class of 1935. The other graduates are James Brown, Lillian Oates and Martha Bowen.

The seniors are planning a trip to Niagara Falls in June.

Eighty pupils and Supt. Erickson took the tuberculosis test last week. Of this number there were ten positives. Positives are advised to see their family physicians for X-rays there will be none by the state department until next fall. As regards teachers, there is rumor of a law compelling all teachers to take such tests regarded as public health measures.

How's this? Prescott with three teachers and 75 pupils is on the accredited list, while Alabaster high with three degree teachers and less than 25 pupils cannot get on the list.

Honor pupils last month were: Primary room—Bobby Benson, John Erickson, Viola Gustafson; intermediate room—Ila Hughes, Leo Smith, Betty Erickson, Inez Furst, Bobby Erickson, Robert Proulx; grammar room—Dorothy Bolen, Veronica Baker, Wesley Gentry, Arlene Proulx, Vera Sarki, Clara Bolen, Richard Trainor, Arlene Brown, Peter Rescoe.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Harrell were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Norris Gunnell and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Clark and two children of Flint were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Perkins.

Mrs. Clara Williams was brought home from Prescott Tuesday of last week. She is still confined to her bed the greater part of the time. Her daughters take turns in helping care for her. Mrs. Harry Graham of Bay City cared for her last week. Mrs. Kline of Saginaw is spending this week with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Hutchinson spent Sunday at the Williams home. The people of Reno sympathize with their Whittemore friends who lost their homes and places of business due to the fire Sunday. We hope in the near future to see them in bigger and better places.

Mr. and Mrs. John Koehler and son, Ed, Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Murray and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Vary spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frockins.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brown were Sunday afternoon visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Will White.

We forgot to mention last week that Miss Ruth Latta secured a school at Glennie where she will teach the remainder of the term.

The last report from Mrs. R. A. Bentley at Ann Arbor stated that Ida, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bentley, was doing nicely and was able to be taken from the hospital. Mrs. Bentley was remaining a while to keep her under observation.

Mrs. Charles Thompson spent last week at the home of her son, John, at Midland.

Mrs. Emily Couchy and son, George of Mio were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Latter.

Rosamond Sanderson of East Tawas was a week end guest of Helen and Alice Latter.

Mrs. Will Latter and daughters, Mrs. Will Waters, Miss Iva and Miss Florence, visited Mrs. Ostrander in Burleigh last Wednesday afternoon.

A. T. Vary spent the week end at his parental home in Marshall, returning Monday.

Farmers are busy plowing.

Charles Weishuhn, Jr., is the new employee on the Lester Robinson farm.

Mrs. Clara Sherman spent Monday evening with Mrs. Parker.

J. P. Harsch was a caller at the Frockins home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frockins spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Koehler and family.

Floyd Vaughn of Sterling spent Sunday at the Hensley home. Millard Hensley, who has had employment at the Vaughn home, returned to his home and his brother, Leonard accompanied Mr. Vaughn to Sterling to take his place.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Shortt, who have been in the employ of William Latter the past year or more, have moved to Tawas and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Vorhees of Omer have taken their place. They moved in last week.

Mrs. Jordan was enumerating in our vicinity last week.

Triple-Sealed Hydraulics—

the finest brakes money can buy

Because Pontiac knows that stopping is just as important as starting, the new Pontiacs have a special kind of brakes—big 12-inch hydraulics, smooth and even—powerful enough to bring any sized car to a quick stop. And Pontiac safeguards this fine action by triple-sealing the rear brakes, and double-sealing those in front, to bar out every grain of dust and every drop of water. You can trust Pontiac brakes in any weather. They are the finest that money can buy.

ORDINANCE NO. 91

An Ordinance governing the construction of sanitary sewers and all connections thereto, the assessment of the cost of the same, and also to regulate and compel the use of said sewers whether public or private, main sewer or connection, also to repeal any and all ordinances conflicting therewith, and to provide a penalty for any violations of the terms of this ordinance:

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY OF TAWAS CITY—

Section 1. The permanent sewerage plan and the sewage treatment plan heretofore adopted by the Council and which was approved by the Director of the Bureau of Engineering of the State of Michigan, shall remain, and whatever portions of the same are constructed from time to time shall be so constructed as to become a part of the permanent plan of sewerage of the City of Tawas City, and for the treating of the said sewage.

Section 2. The Council shall have the power to cause main sanitary sewers to be built in any street or alley of the City or any part of said streets or alleys upon a unanimous vote of the Council unless a majority of the property owners having property fronting on the place to be so improved, shall have petitioned the Council to make such improvement in which case a majority of the Council shall be sufficient to order the same. The Council may determine that the whole or any part of the expense, including cost of estimates, plans, surveys, assessments and any other expenses incidental thereto shall be defrayed in whole or part by either the City Sewer Fund or by special assessment against the abutting property or by both, except that no special assessment for the same against the abutting property shall exceed five (5%) percent of the assessed valuation of any property.

Section 3. When, or after any main sewer is constructed in any street or alley or any part thereof, and it is the opinion of the City Council registered by a majority vote that any structure of whatsoever nature is located on or adjacent to or in close proximity to the abutting property of the improvement, whether occupied or not, is not properly sewerage, said City Council shall cause a notice to be served, which shall be written or printed, or partially written and partially printed, upon the owner, to construct a sewer connection or private sewer from the main sewer, designated in the notice, to the structure designated, and make connection thereto with all sanitary conveniences serving said structure. Service of said notice shall be made by the Council or by duly appointed employee of the Council as follows: If upon a resident owner of said City by delivering same personally to such resident owner, or by leaving the same at his residence, office or place of business in said City with some person of suitable age and discretion; or if the owner be a non-resident, of said City, and there be no occupant of said premises, by delivering same to the resident agent if known, of such owner, or by leaving same at his residence, office or place of business in said City with some person of suitable age and discretion; or if said owner be a non-resident and there be no occupant or known agent of said owner within said City, said notice may be served by mailing same by registered letter to such owner at his last known address, or if such owner be unknown, said notice may be served by posting same on front entrance of the City hall for ten consecutive days. The party charged with the duty of serving said notice shall make proof by affidavit of the time and the manner of service thereof and file such proof with the City Clerk, or if said notice be served by registered mail to such owner at his last known address, the receipt of said letter shall be kept on file by the City Clerk. The owner shall have ten (10) days after service of said notice to comply therewith. If at the expiration of the time limited in said notice for making such sewer connection, the owner of said premises has not complied with the requirements thereof, the Council shall proceed without unnecessary delay to make the proper connections with said sewer but shall not extend the same further than twenty feet from the center line of the street or eight feet from the center line of an alley, as the case may be, and shall keep an accurate account of the cost of the labor and materials required in making such connection. Upon completion of said work, the Council shall make or cause to be made, a statement of the total cost thereof, and upon its approval by the Council, the same shall be certified to the Supervisor of the ward in which said property is located and said Supervisor shall assess the whole cost thereof against the property for which the connection is intended.

Section 4. Where there is a dwelling, building, or structure occupied or situated for occupancy, that has an outside water closet, privy, cess-pool, or septic tank and is upon property which abuts a main public sewer, the owner or occupant of said premises shall connect said dwelling, building or structure with the said public sewer within ninety days from the date of notice to make said connection served by order of the City Council upon said owner.

Section 5. No house or building connection shall be less than six inches in internal diameter and shall consist of vitrified salt glazed beel and spigot sewer pipe, cast iron pipe, or soil pipe. All joints shall be made water tight and the whole connection from the structure to the main sewer, constructed according to the state plumbing code and in accordance with any rules that may be adopted by the Council.

Section 6. If any owner or occupant shall neglect or refuse to connect any dwelling, building or structure to the main sewer within ninety days from the time the Council notifies him to do so, it shall be the duty of the City Council to cause said private connection to be constructed even to the extent of installing the proper plumbing and the entire expense thereof shall become a lien upon the premises benefited thereby and with legal interest shall be added as a tax against said property and collected with the general taxes for the current year. The method of serving all notices shall be in accordance with section three of this ordinance.

Section 7. It shall be deemed unlawful for any person to connect any house connection, building connection, sewer, drain, culvert, or conduit of any kind whatsoever to any main sanitary sewer, without first obtaining a permit from the City Council or its duly authorized agent. The cost of said permit shall be equivalent to the cost of constructing 20 feet of connection desired, measured from the center line of the street, or eight feet from the center line of the alley, as the case may be, and said permit shall require that the Council shall construct this amount of the connection in the street or alley, as the case may be, and before undertaking the same the party or parties requesting such permit shall deposit with the City Treasurer, a sum specified by the Council or its duly authorized agent, but which sum shall in all cases be ample to cover that portion of the work to be undertaken by the City.

Section 8. The Council may when making a connection to any church, school, public building, meeting house or industrial institution, make a charge in excess of the amount charged for making a house connection as provided in section seven.

Section 9. It shall be deemed unlawful for any person to place or cause to be placed in any sanitary sewer of the City, any substance, whether solid, liquid or gaseous, which is of an explosive nature, and it is further declared unlawful to place or cause to be placed in any sewer, any oils or greases or products similar in substance, and especially shall it be unlawful to allow any such waste from any garage, machine shop, storehouse, salesroom, store, warehouse, industrial or the like, to be placed in the main sewer or connection leading thereto. The depositing of any substance which might be classified as rubbish, in any sewer or sewer connection, is further prohibited. And it is furthermore declared to be unlawful to allow any surface water from streets, sidewalks, door yards, vacant lots, or from any premises whatsoever to be connected to any main sewer or to any connection which leads directly or indirectly thereto, or any roof water either direct or indirect, or from cistern overflows, or well overflows, or any water whatsoever which might be classed as storm sewage or sewage other than sanitary sewage. And it is further declared to be unlawful for the person, persons or the officers of any corporation, company or partnership having control of any premises in this City to permit to escape from such premises into any sanitary sewer or connection thereof in this City, any of the said described substances.

Section 10. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred ($100.00) dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not more than ninety days, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the Court.

This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after twenty days after its passage.

Moved and seconded that meeting adjourn. Carried.
W. C. Davidson, Clerk.

Moved by Burtzloff and seconded by Frank that Ordinance No. 91 be passed to its second reading. Roll call—Yeas: Burtzloff, Frank, Moore, Pfeiffer and Rouiller. Nays: None. Carried.

Right to Second Marriage Chance

Arguments For and Against the Severance of the Marital Bond.

The widowers of Brazil have their fingers crossed. From a question raised recently in their gay capital city, Rio, it would appear to be illegal for widowers to remarry. Everything was all right until a case before the marriage registrar brought up the point that under the law marriage cannot be dissolved except by annulment. Therefore, said the registrar, if the constitution does not provide for dissolution of marriage ties by death, how can widowers remarry?

The Superior court of Brazil has been appealed to for a decision. The widowers of Brazil will doubtless have a competent advocate to plead their cause, and everything will be all right again. But the situation is interesting for the serious comment it has aroused. It would be a good thing for this country, several people said at once, if we were to emulate Brazil, and make marriage harder to get out of.

"If remembrance were less easy for everybody," they contend, "there would be less separating and divorcing and more successful marriage."

Maybe. One must admit it might help with young couples who are facing their first disillusionment, if that reproach of "What I might have had" could not be followed by "What I can still have!" Doubtless the knowledge of absolute finality in marriage would be conducive to the single-minded effort to make that marriage a success.

But, a woman writer continues, in her comment, what about the cases where a second chance has resulted in bringing happiness, in making up all the effort in the world could not conceal? Though as a rule it is true enough that the most important element for success in marriage is what we ourselves bring to it, there have been cases where a person who could not get along with a first husband or wife did succeed with a second.

For my part, I am glad it is not "up to me" to make the laws affecting in this way the happiness of so many humans who think and feel from different viewpoints. It is not

Mysterious People Found in Ireland

Scientists Discover New and Surprising Facts.

Dublin.—Ireland, land of fairy legends and romantic twilight, is being put under the scientific microscope by American experts from Harvard university, who are engaged in a five years' archeological, anthropometric, social and economic survey of the country.

As a result, all kinds of surprising, fascinating facts are being discovered, including a mysterious type of dark-haired, blue-eyed and fair-skinned people.

Dr. C. W. Du Pertuis, head of the racial section of Harvard's survey, who has established temporary headquarters at Ennis, County Clare, described how he and his little band of experts are taking the measure of Paddy and Molly. With him is his wife, an enthusiastic worker, who acts as recording secretary.

Will Measure 10,000.

Ten thousand people will be measured and classified in 18 months, Doctor Du Pertuis hopes. In five minutes 125 facts are collected about each individual. At the end of the survey the Harvard workers will be in possession of one and a quarter million facts, which will be taken to Harvard and tabulated, a two-year task.

One thousand people will be measured in the Clare district during the next month, Doctor Du Pertuis said.

When all the facts have been digested at Harvard, Doctor Du Pertuis hopes they will answer such questions as: Who were the Celts? Where are their descendants? And so on.

From his preliminary work Doctor Du

Pertuis has roughly classified the different predominant types as Nordic, John Bull, Sligo, Galway, Leitrim, Midland, Red Head, Aran, Mayo, Kerry and South East.

Irish literature about "types" of people is not a true guide, he has found.

"For instance," Doctor Du Pertuis said, "in County Galway, where from the literature one would expect to find a dark swarthy type of Spanish extraction I found very little of such.

Of Spanish Descent.

"Similarly in County Clare I am led to believe that the dark type will be found on the coastline owing to a portion of the Spanish Armada being wrecked there.

"It may be a pure racial type. I did, however, discover one type of more than usual interest, possessing blue eyes, dark hair, and fair skins. At present I have no idea how this type originated. It is what we call a 'dis-harmonic combination.' We have in this type a most unusual and peculiar combination of colors, from what we know of the other peoples of the world.

"It may be a pure racial type or the results of a mixture. If a pure type it may represent the remnants of the Celtic people; if a mixture, the remnants of the Milesian and the Firebolg peoples."

Doctor Du Pertuis said it was possible to identify present-day types with earlier types by comparing measurements of the present-day head and other parts of the body with those of skeletons and skulls found in various parts of the country by the archeological section of the survey.

One of his objects is to prepare a true living type map of Ireland for comparison with the archeological early type picture, the data for which is based on the finds of skeletons and skulls.

Oliver Wendell Holmes

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

Another great statesman-soldier-jurist friend of Justice Wendell Holmes, son of the distinguished poet whose name he bore, was born in Boston in 1841. He won his A. B. degree from Harvard university and from the same institution received the LL. D. degree. Yale, William, the Universities of Berlin and Oxford, conferred upon him the same degree. In 1872 he married the daughter of a very influential family in Cambridge, Mass. Miss Fanny Dixwell. She died in 1929. They had no children.

Justice Holmes was a patriot. He was wounded in the breast at Ball's Bluff in 1861, and was later wounded in both his neck and foot. He was mustered out of the army in 1864 with the rank of captain.

Justice Holmes began his career in law in 1867, was made professor of law in Harvard, later became justice

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

SOAP dishes may save or waste the soap. So it is for the homemaker to select those which lessen her budget rather than increase it. The kind of soap dishes to avoid are those which tend to keep the soap wet. The kinds to choose are those which permit the soap to drain off extra moisture and allow air currents to circulate about it and thus aid in the drying out of the cake. It would be supposed that all soap dishes would have these features, but such is not the case.

The bottom of a soap dish should be perforated, or else have a perforated soap rest in it raised sufficiently above the bottom of the dish to allow some water to collect in it without touching the soap. These features permit soap to drain after using and to dry quickly from air circulating about the cake.

Woven wire or metal slat soap containers are well liked for bathtubs and sinks. The soap drains into tub or sink and dries well, since plenty of air can get to the cake. Slat containers are not so suitable as perforated or woven wire ones. When a cake of soap gets thin it will slip between the slats, which is annoying, and wasteful also, if it falls into water.

An Excellent Kind.

The best kind of a soap dish is one with a well-raised removable tray. The tray can be taken out and washed in hot water to open clogged holes, and then dried. The dish can be overturned, emptied, washed and dried, and when parts are combined again the dish is like new. Or if the dish is fastened to the wall it can be wiped out, until clean, and then dried before the cleaned tray is restored to its proper place. With such a soap dish and given such care, soap will be kept in good condition without waste.

There is another style of soap dish popular some years ago in which the perforated tray is made high above the bottom of the dish and yet part of the dish itself. In one side, situated well above the bottom of the soap dish there is a good-size opening. The water which collects under the perforated portion never can come high enough to touch the cake of soap. The dish is emptied by pouring the water out through the opening. It is cleaned by running hot water through the perforations to free them from collected softened soap and to flush the under portion of the dish.

Seeing Strange Things.

A saucer substituted for a soap dish is poor economy. It is impossible to keep the bottom of the saucer free from water and this softens the soap and wastes it. A soap dish with slightly raised bars across the bottom is little better as the soap is not sufficiently elevated to be kept dry.

It is amazing the way temporary of the Massachusetts Supreme court and in 1902 was made associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. In 1932 he resigned. In point of years he was the oldest man who ever sat on the bench of the Supreme court.

Justice Holmes had an unusually large capacity for friendship. He was frequently in company with his close friend, Justice Brandeis, with whom he was often seen walking arm in arm. It was said that the two friends were inseparable. Much has been written concerning Justice Holmes' philosophy of life. Among the most salient points are, "a man must face the loneliness of original work." How true this is only those know who are sacrificially engaged in research and in specialized lines of altruistic work. Another maxim was that, "no man's work is done so long as there remains power to do the work." He had no desire for early retirement, preferring the life of active service to one of ease. Another guiding principle was that, "no task was great in itself. It became great when conducted with a great spirit." In a letter to a friend he wrote, "Life is a romantic business. It is painting a picture; not doing a sum, but you have to make the romance." That sentence seems to express the spirit of the great jurist.

Earth Slide Revealed Large White Sapphires

Hoquiam, Wash.—Dozens of large white sapphires and great deposits of manganese ore was uncovered by an earth slide that tore away the side of a mountain near here.

Some of the sapphires were two inches in diameter and so hard they would cut glass. The slide was 2,000 feet long, 400 feet wide and 40 deep. Investigation was begun to determine commercial possibilities of the find.

Nature's Greatest Experiment

This picture, made ten years ago by R. H. Beck, and given out by courtesy of the American Museum of Natural History, shows one of the homes on Pitcairn Island, 3,000 miles west of the coast of Chile, and the master and mistress of it. Over 200 persons reside on the island, speaking a mixture of English and Tahitian. They are descendants of the nine British seamen and the twelve Tahitian women who landed on the island from H. M. S. Bounty 146 years ago. Each of the 200 persons is a descendant of the original 21. Although each person is related to each other, as a result of this close inbreeding, no ill effects can be detected, every man, woman and child being perfectly healthy. Outside help has never been asked by the islanders, they being content to live off the land. A new museum expedition is now returning to the island, after making new finds.

He signed his name and sat back, brows drawn and after a time nodded vindictively.

Out at the Hoot Owl Ben Elliott went through a week of unbroken dismay. It was a situation such as he had never dreamed of facing.

Dawn had heard and seen and . . . believed! She had fled the hall, convincing him of her belief in Lydia's accusation. Days had passed and he had heard nothing from her. He was impelled to go to her but, under such circumstances, a young man does not do that. There are some affairs so embarrassing that words fall flat.

His men knew the story, of course; all the country knew it. But none mentioned it to him, none willingly betrayed to him their knowledge of his humiliation. He waited and suffered and tried to rally his self-possession.

He was walking, wondering grimly what Dawn was thinking then, what she was doing; he was hearing once again the biting voice of Lydia; hearing, in memory, the hush fall over that dance hall.

He was wholly alone. Far behind him loggers worked in the timber; down yonder the mill sent up its plume of smoke and he could hear the distant puffing of the exhaust in the stillness.

No wind blew; nothing stirred . . . that he could see. He could not observe that slight, cautious movement to his left, that figure which watched him some and edged out through young hemlocks to a point from which his view was unobscured but where he still had good cover.

The man up there stood still. Slowly he shook off his mittens and with a bare thumb released the safety on the rifle he carried, settled slowly to one knee, placing it on the tail of the other snowshoe. His breath was not just steady as he snuggled his cheek against the rifle butt. No man's would be, shooting from ambush that way. Nor were his hands just steady.

He sighted carefully, trying to still the tremor of his arms. He let his breath slip out slowly, he squeezed.

The crack of the rifle echoed and re-echoed across the chopping. Ben Elliott lay still, as he had pitched on his face. One of his hands was outstretched, the other pinned beneath him. His face, one cheek in the snow, was turned toward the man who had fired but it was far away.

For many minutes the man in the timber remained kneeling. Elliott did not stir. Then, cautiously, the killer groped for the ejected shell, slipped it into his pocket, raised to his feet and, backing cautiously, struck into the deep timber.

CHAPTER X

The rifle bullet had passed so close above Ben's head that he had felt its breath even before he was aware of its whine.

A bullet . . . here . . . for him! A hunter? But what would a hunter be shooting at here? That bullet was designed for him and had missed by inches. And he, was pitching forward, simulating a fall, letting himself go limp. It was the only protection he could conjure.

He saw nothing, no movement, even; heard nothing. He was a-tingle, scalp creeping with an odd sensation as he waited for another bullet from these heights to the eastward.

But no other come. Ben lay there until deep dusk had fallen. Then he rose to his hands and knees, watching, listening. After a moment he stood still. Then, resolutely, he left the road, walled through the deep snow, crossed the railroad track and toiled up the heights. He went on, through the snow to the first fringe of trees. Then he spoke, in a light hall: "Hi!" —and immediately dropped behind a stump.

After a moment he rose, went forward again and entered the shadows boldly. No one was there, for certain, but before he had gone more than a few spaces he came on that which he sought: a snowshoe track, visible in the gloom because of the softness of the snow. Whoever had gone that way had sunk deeply.

He followed this out of the thick timber to a little clearing. The trail was not visible in the darkness so he struck a match and holding it cupped in one hand, bent low.

The flare showed the track of a long, narrow shoe plainly and as he moved the tiny torch along toward its tip he stopped all movement. The match burned out. He moved on to the next track and lighted another. He examined several of the imprints made by the shoe. Then he went as rapidly as possible back down the slope to the road and started on to camp.

After supper Ben called Bird-Eye Blaine to one side.

"I'd like to have you harness the supply team and spend an evening in town," he said.

"The little barn boss cocked an inquisitive eye.

"Just in town, Mister Elliott? Or fer somethin' special?"

"Somethin' special. . . . But no one else is to know. What I want to find out is this: Who is wearing a pair of Canadian snowshoes with the webbing in the toe of one torn so it makes a hole about this shape?"

Quickly he sketched a rough outline on a leaf of his notebook. Bird-Eye scanned it and nodded.

"Take it easy. Maybe you won't find out tonight. But make a start, anyhow. If you should have any luck, stop in at the siding on your way back. I'll ride that far with you."

It was after midnight when Ben Elliott roused from his sleepless bed to hear Bird-Eye speaking to his team outside. He crawled out of his blankets and opened the office door to let the other in, but before he asked any questions lighted a lamp.

"Well, how about it?"—as he replaced the chimney.

Bird-eye looked at him narrowly. "I found th' shoes," he said with an emphatic nod. "Nd I found out who's they be!"

"Good!"

The barn boss blinked.

"I dunno 'bout that. It ain't so good, I'd say. They're the property," he said with profound emphasis, "qv wan Red Bart Delaney, a celebrated killer from somewhere in Canada!"

From the second small bedroom separated from the office by a board partition, a bed creaked sharply. Elliott did not hear it.

"So that's it!" he said softly.

"Yis! That's ut! Th' presence av a rattlesnake tolke Red Bart in th' community don't forecast naughting but th' hottest kind av trouble! Y'e've heard av him, ain't it?"

"Yes, I have. He was mixed up in that spruce war on the Zbing-Wauk. A hired killer."

"Killer is roight! 'Nd what may he be a-doing in these parts?"

Elliott did not reply to that question.

"What else did you find out?" he asked.

"Well, he brought his stinkin' presence into Tincup Wednesday night on its own two stinkin' feet! He's favorin' Joe Piette's hotel. Te' snowshoes was in th' office 'nd it come up so's I didn't have to seem curious to foind out whose they was. He's here lookin' fer cedar, he says. But it gives a body a lot av bother wonderin' what his rale reason moight be. Lyin' 's as natural as breathin' to th' loikes."

"I can tell you," Ben said. "He's gunning for me, Bird-Eye."

"Saints! . . . I thought ut, I did! Ah, me b'y!"

"Yes, he started today. I was shot at with a rifle two miles up the road just at sundown. The man who shot at me wore a snowshoe with the web broken. He wouldn't be lending his snowshoes."

Bird-Eye stood motionless and silent for a moment before he spoke.

"Thin th' sooner we give him both barrels av somethin', th' safer y'e'll be."

SYNOPSIS

Ben Elliott—from "Yonder"—arrives at the lumbering town of Tincup, with Don Stuart, old, very sick man, whom he has befriended. He defeats Bull Duval, "king of the river," and town bully, in a log-birling contest. Nicholas Brandon, the town's leading citizen, resents Stuart's presence, trying to force him to leave town and Elliott, resenting the act, knocks him down. Elliott is arrested and finds a friend in Judge Able Armitage. The judge hires him to run the one lumber camp, the Hoot Owl, that Brandon has not been able to grab. This belongs to Dawn McManus, whose father has disappeared with a murder charge hanging over his head. Brandon sends Duval to beat up Ben, and Ben wounds him in a fist fight and throws him out of camp. Don Stuart dies, leaving a letter for Elliott "to be used when the going becomes too tough." Ben refuses to open the letter, believing he can win the fight by his own efforts. Fire breaks out in the mill. Ben, leading the victorious fight against the flames, discovers the fire was started with gasoline. Elliott gets an offer of spot cash for logs, that will provide money to tide him over. But a definite time limit is set. Ben meets Dawn McManus and discovers she is not a child, as he had supposed, but a beautiful young woman. The railroad bridge over which the Hoot Owl lumber must pass, and at once, to meet the time limit imposed in the contract, is blown up. By superhuman efforts Ben builds a new bridge overnight and himself drives the train over the rickety structure to Tincup, making the delivery with only a few minutes to spare. Brandon compels a woman (known only as "Lydia") who is in his power, to accuse Elliott of misconduct with a girl. At a dance to which Elliott escorts Dawn McManus, Lydia makes public her charges against him. Overwhelmed, Elliott can only make a feeble denial. Dawn, apparently believing him guilty, leaves the dance without waiting for him.

Mister Elliott! He's a harrd chunk, him. It's Nick Brandon's work, who's tried everything else 'nd who'll not refuse to try 'murder to get ye down, Benny b'y!"

"Likely you're right," Ben said and rubbed his chin with a knuckle. "But we'd have to prove that, first. There's nothing to worry about, now we know the man's here to get me. Likely he thought he got me. Still there, was he? Um . . . Well, that's somethin' to think over, Bird-Eye. You better hit for camp, now, and get some sleep. I may call you in the forenoon."

Bird-Eye sniffed and twisted his head gravely and after adding imprecations on Nicholas Brandon and warning Ben to stay close to the office, departed.

He could be heard unblinking his team and climbing into the sleigh; and when the frosty runners screamed in departure sounds came from that second bedroom behind the partition, the door opened and John Martin stood looking out. His dark eyes held on Ben Elliott, anxious and troubled.

"I couldn't help hearing," he said simply. "Do you mind?"

"Of course not, John. Looks like lively times!"—with a grin.

"It's none of my affair, Elliott, but I'm an older man than you. I've seen trouble . . . a plenty." His voice dropped significantly, as though old wounds were being opened. "I've heard av Delaney. Every man in the timber has heard of the Zbing-Wauk war. I can't help but think Bird-Eye's advice is good. Swear out a warrant for him the first thing. This is a time for caution. It'll do you no good to take risks."

"I'll not walk into any traps, but if Brandon thinks he can make me hunt my hole—"

"Oh, Brandon!" The cry was bitter and Martin threw his arms wide in a gesture of helplessness. "You've got to watch him as you've never watched a man in your life. Why, son, you don't know, you don't dream, of the ends he'll go to!"

"But I thought you didn't know him," Ben said, puzzled. "I thought you said you were a stranger to this country."

"Yes. But stories travel. And isn't your experience today enough to convince anyone of the man's ruthlessness?"

man that, in reality, they spoke briefly and cautiously.

"Well?"

"In his tracks. . . . Two mile above th' mill."

"Was he alone?"

"Sure. . . . They'll find him stiff. . . . When do we settle?"

"As soon as the bank opens tomorrow."

Inside, the man seethed with a savage exultation. He crossed the street, drunk with the feeling of relief, mounted to his office and drank to his own success. . . . And drank again. For hours he sat at his desk, whisky bottle at his elbow and when he went down the hallway to his bedroom at the rear he carried the bottle with him.

His first move for the day, once in his office, was to draw the cork of a fresh flask and drink deeply. A grow-

"Oh, sure," Ben agreed, but still wondering at Martin's mood. It was not just easy to believe that a steady-going, mature man should be so moved by mere tales.

"You're right. He'll stop at nothing, not even murder. And I agree with you that he's got to be watched. But if I ran into my burrow or didn't try to get at the bottom of this thing, he'd gain part of what he's after, you see. No, that can't be done."

He rose and began to pace the floor. "And it's not only the Hoot Owl, now, that's at stake. He's mixed up in more important matters than just property. He caught me foul where it hurt . . . hurt!" Martin, following him with his eyes, winced. "He's used a woman to come between me and the finest girl that ever walked the earth!" Martin looked away as Ben confronted him, almost as one will avert his face from a painful sight. "Lastly he brings a hired killer to polish me off. Darned if I know what to expect next. But one thing he can bank on: I won't run. I'll drive him into the open if I can by hook or crook, but I won't run!"

"No, I know you won't. But I wish . . . Oh, how I wish you'd counsel with some one else, with Able or anyone. You're young, you're in danger. . . . And this matter you just mentioned: Can't you think of Dawn a little? If you love her can't you see that she has a right to believe that you will protect yourself?"

The man's voice had fallen to a broken whisper. He held out both hands in appeal and tears sprang into his eyes. This man, this mature, quiet gentleman, this stranger to the country, begging him with tears in eyes and voice to consider Dawn McManus struck Ben dumbfounded.

"Oh, it's only that you've shown yourself to be so decent," Martin said after a moment, emotions under better control. "I hate to see you putting yourself in danger."

"I won't stick my head into any noose," Ben replied. "Lord, it's late.

ing warmth ran through him. That was better. It was not comfortable to wake up, thinking of a man lying lifeless on the snow . . . at your orders.

Soon, now, word would be coming into town from Hoot Owl, tragic, final word. He must be in shape to meet the news dispassionately. No one would know his part in the killing; none would guess. Still, it would not be easy to have people saying that Ben Elliott was dead. . . . Elliott is dead; Elliott is dead. . . . The words spun about in his mind, a savage chant, and Brandon wanted to be glad but could not. Elliott was gone, though. The Hoot Owl was at his mercy, and Dawn . . . Dawn!

And then he turned to the opening door.

His jaw sagged, a light retching sound came from his throat as breath drained out. . . . Ben Elliott was standing there and smiling good-naturedly at him.

But dead men do not stand up. . . . Not men left dead on the snow. . . . Men whose life you have had taken do not smile. . . . Men stiff on the snow cannot smile. . . . This combination of truths coupled in Brandon's swirling mind and struck him cold. This could be no man, then; this was an apparition, this was—

And then whatever it was spoke. "Good morning, Brandon!"

Elliott spoke naturally and easily, and closed the door behind him. Dead men do not speak; ghosts do not open and close doors—they pass through them.

And Nicholas Brandon, gathering his faculties, lurched to his feet, panting and clenching the edge of the desk. "Good morning," he said in a hoarse gasp. "Good. . . ."

Crocodiles of State

The government of Jaipur pays out good money every day to keep crocodiles alive. It has often been said that Jaipur is the most "different" city of India. Certainly it is the only one in that country to be built on a straight-line principle and the only one to have each and every one of its buildings colored mauve or pink. The crocodile tank is one of the sights of Rajputana, and though it is difficult to ascertain from what far distant religious or mythological rite these beasts obtained their privilege, it is a fact that they are provided with three square meals a day and are tended by a keeper. Whenever this wizardlike old man appears at the water-edge with their feeds the big beasts, no matter how soundly they appear to sleep in the mud, immediately swim towards him.

Guatemala's Jungles

In Guatemala's jungles are grotesquely marked monoliths, ruins of magnificent cities and colossal temple-topped pyramids which bear witness to the existence of an Indian civilization centuries before the Christian era. In little mountain villages and in the city market places are throngs of Indians to remind one of the fact that Guatemala is still 60 per cent pure Indian.

NEATLY TRAPPED

Recently a railroad, which was sued for $100,000 by a negro who falsely claimed that his legs had been paralyzed in an accident, sent two negro detectives to his town to expose him. They set up a crystal gazing parlors and, after several weeks, subtly arranged to tell the victim's fortune in his home. The crystal "forecast" that the only way he could win his suit was to carry a log over the railroad track the next morning, hopping across on one leg and back on the other several times. So he did. And a movie cameraman, hidden in a bush, "shot" the act—and killed the action.—Collier's Weekly.

Antelope Sanctuary

Since the enclosure of 40 square miles of Petrified Forest national monument to exclude cattle, antelope have begun to return to this area, reports a bulletin from the Department of the Interior. Now these animals are finding sanctuary in a region where they have ranged from time immemorial.

School Notes

High School

J. Waite, who saw service in the far East with the English army during the World War, spoke to the high school assembly Friday morning of last week.

The high school had a group picture taken Tuesday by representatives of the Lyndon Studio of Dexter, Michigan. Proofs will arrive in a few days, and all will be given an opportunity to purchase a picture.

Jean Robinson and Margaret Smith have been selected as delegates to represent the high school in the contest with the other high schools of the county which will take place about the first of May.

We note that opponents of the sum of $25,000,000 for schools claim that the election of Dr. Keyworth shows that the people do not want this amount used for this purpose. We desire to point out that in his campaign literature Dr. Keyworth claimed to be for this amount, as well as Dr. Voelker. An extract from a letter written by him to the superintendent says in part, "I am for $25,000,000 for state aid for schools in addition to the primary school interest fund."

We are very grateful to Mrs. Charles Prescott for donating some books to the library.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

The seventh and eighth grade pupils had their pictures taken Tuesday morning.

Miss Lois Morrissey of Frankfort visited Miss Morris' music class Monday afternoon.

William Murray has had a perfect spelling record for the past five weeks, Norma Jean Musolf for the past three weeks, and David Sims for the past two weeks.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

Harold Werner and Marion Musolf stood the highest in a test on multiplication and division of decimals in the sixth grade.

Junior Musolf, Richard Prescott, Nona Rapp, Marjorie Musolf, and Hugh Prescott gave some rather interesting book reports Friday afternoon.

Many Sims won a geography contest on the states of the United States and their capitals.

Bucket lines were formed from available wells to men stationed on the roofs. The building fronts were kept wet down with water. The heat here was terrific and often the clothing of the fire fighters, themselves, would have to be soaked. Until the buildings across the street were completely consumed hard fighting and continuous vigilance was necessary.

Some pieces of furniture were saved from Mrs. R. J. Smith's home but the drug store stock was burned. The furniture of the John O'Farrell home was saved, as was that of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen. Mr. and Mrs. Moore were away from the city and only a few pieces of furniture were recovered from their home.

Property owners on the west side of the street sustained a heavy loss from damaged store fronts and broken plate glass. Stock damage amounting to several thousands of dollars occurred in the Joseph Collins hardware and the Wm. Curtis furniture store. The buildings in this group are the National Hotel, Bronson's barber shop, J. C. Munroe's grocery, Jos. O. Collins' hardware, Wm. Curtis' furniture store and the postoffice, and all were damaged.

An accurate estimate of the loss could not be made Sunday, but a part of it is said will be covered by insurance. Jos. Danin was fortunate in that he had shipped during the previous week a large quantity of wool which had been stored in his warehouse.

Loans will also be made for following and for production and purchase of feed for livestock, but no for the purpose of purchasing livestock or machinery, or for the payment of taxes, debts, or interest on debts.

Security for the emergency crop loans will consist of a first lien on the crops financed or on the livestock to be fed. Tenants must obtain a waiver from the landowner subordinating his interest in the crops grown with loan proceeds; but the landowner is in no way obligated for repayment of such loan. The proceeds of loans are disbursed by the regional emergency crop and feed loan offices located at Minneapolis.

The Heart of the Community

THE yellow moon drops below the horizon. One by one the houses darken as silence settles over the countryside. It is a time of rest, of slumber.

But there is one building where rest does not enter, where the windows never darken; for the work of the telephone exchange, like the work of a sleeper's heart, must go on by night no less than by day.

Here trained operators, alert and skilful, sit at the junction of many wires. Here are linked all who would speak across the miles of darkness. . . . Somewhere an anxious mother is awakened by a childish, fretful cry. . . . Somewhere furtive footsteps betray the presence of a prowler. . . . Somewhere, in a cellar, smouldering rags send warning smoke drifting through a home. . . . At some lonely crossing two cars crash and overturn.

In these emergencies, help is as close as the nearest telephone. Over a waiting wire speeds the call for aid—for the doctor, police, fire department, an ambulance. If that wire were not waiting, there would be heavier penalties of grief and loss; help, at times, would arrive after help had ceased to be of use. Faithfully rendering a vital service both night and day, the telephone exchange plays a part which makes it, in a sense that is very real, the heart of the community.
